As to the application of the parol evidence rule to informal memoranda of agreements, see § 1101.

§ 1093 Parol evidence rule as one of substantive law

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The parol evidence rule is a rule of substantive law, rather than a mere rule of evidence. 26 The rule has nothing to do with the probative value of one fact as persuasive of the probable existence of another fact; rather, it deals with the question of where the terms of a legal act are to be found. 27 Although the parol evidence rule is not itself a rule of interpretation, it fixes the subject matter for interpretation, 28 and where applicable, it defines the limits of a contract. 29

Footnotes

Footnote 26. In re RBS Industries, Inc. (BC DC Conn) 115 BR 417, 20 BCD 1136, later proceeding (BC DC Conn) 115 BR 419; Associated Hardware Supply Co. v Big Wheel Distributing Co. (CA3 Pa) 355 F2d 114, 9 FR Serv 2d 56c.41, Case 9, 3 UCCRS 1, 17 ALR3d 998; Lower Kuskokwim School Dist. v Alaska Diversified Contractors, Inc. (Alaska) 734 P2d 62, appeal after remand (Alaska) 778 P2d 581, cert den 493 US 1022, 107 L Ed 2d 744, 110 S Ct 725; Formento v Encanto Business Park (App) 154 Ariz 495, 744 P2d 22; Cooper v Vaughan, 81 Ga App 330, 58 SE2d 453; Midkiff v Castle & Cooke, Inc., 45 Hawaii 409, 368 P2d 887; Williams v Williams, 251 Iowa 260, 100 NW2d 185; Johnson v Johnson, 297 Ky 268, 178 SW2d 983 (among conflicting authorities noted in Miles v Dawson (Ky) 830 SW2d 368); Burrowes Corp. v Read, 151 Me 92, 116 A2d 127; Salzman v Maldaver, 315 Mich 403, 24 NW2d 161, 168 ALR 381; Apple Valley Red-E-Mix, Inc. v Mills-Winfield Engineering Sales, Inc. (Minn App) 436 NW2d 121, 8 UCCRS2d 21; Central Production Credit Assn. v Reed (Mo App) 805 SW2d 300; Charles A. Burton, Inc. v Durkee, 158 Ohio St 313, 49 Ohio Ops 174, 109 NE2d 265; O'Brien v O'Brien, 362 Pa 66, 66 A2d 309, 10 ALR2d 714; McQuiddy Printing Co. v Hirsig, 23 Tenn App 434, 134 SW2d 197; Arkansas Oak Flooring Co. v

Mixon (Tex Civ App Texarkana) 369 SW2d 804; Isbrandtsen v North Branch Corp., 150 Vt 575, 556 A2d 81; Whitt v Godwin, 205 Va 797, 139 SE2d 841; Equitable Life Leasing Corp. v Cedarbrook, Inc., 52 Wash App 497, 761 P2d 77; North Am. Uranium v Johnston, 77 Wyo 332, 316 P2d 325.

Footnote 27. Milton v Burton, 79 Fla 266, 84 So 147.

Footnote 28. Warinner v Nugent, 362 Mo 233, 240 SW2d 941, 26 ALR2d 278.

Footnote 29. Florence v Tri-State Sav. & Loan Co. (App, Hamilton Co) 68 Ohio Ops 2d 146, 322 NE2d 322.

§ 1094 Rule as affecting express and implied contractual terms

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence is inadmissible to vary or contradict either the express or implied terms of a writing expressing the agreement of the parties. 30 The law conclusively presumes that parties to a contract understand its obligations, and evidence is not admissible to show their understanding to have been otherwise. 31 For example, where a reasonable time for the performance of a contract is implied in law, parol evidence of an agreement by the parties that the time for performance is other than a reasonable time is not admissible. 32 There is some authority, however, to the effect that an implication of law arises only in cases in which the parties are silent, and that a parol agreement puts an end to the inference which the law raises, and may be proved to contradict such implication or inference. 33

Footnotes

Footnote 30. The Delaware, 81 US 579, 14 Wall 579, 20 L Ed 779; Title Ins. Co. v Costain Arizona, Inc. (App) 164 Ariz 203, 791 P2d 1086, 60 Ariz Adv Rep 35; McQuiddy Printing Co. v Hirsig, 23 Tenn App 434, 134 SW2d 197; Henderson v Scott Oil & Refining Co. (Tex Civ App) 258 SW 1082, writ dismissed, error dismissed; McGregor v First Farmers'-Merchants' Bank & Trust Co., 180 Wash 440, 40 P2d 144.

Footnote 31. McQuiddy Printing Co. v Hirsig, 23 Tenn App 434, 134 SW2d 197.

Footnote 32. § 1118.

As to the admissibility of extrinsic evidence regarding the time of performance or payment under a written agreement, generally, see § 1130.

Footnote 33. Masterson v Sine, 68 Cal 2d 222, 65 Cal Rptr 545, 436 P2d 561, holding that, where an option clause in a deed did not expressly provide that it contained a complete agreement and the deed was silent on the question of assignability, it was error to exclude evidence to the effect that the parties agreed that the option was not assignable.

As to incomplete writings and the doctrine of partial integration as an exception to the parol evidence rule, see §§ 1116 et seq.

§ 1095 Effect of integration or merger clause

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The parol evidence rule is particularly applicable where the writing contains an integration or a merger clause—a recital that the writing contains the entire agreement between the parties, that all prior negotiations and agreements are merged in that agreement, and that all additions to or alterations or changes in the contract must be in writing and signed by both parties. 34 Such a stipulation announces and demonstrates the all-inclusive nature of the written instrument and furnishes an additional reason for applying the parol evidence rule. 35 While the wording of an integration clause in an agreement is some evidence of integration, it is not conclusive; 36 however, there is also some authority to the contrary. 37 In addition, the absence of a merger clause in a writing does not necessarily open the door to parol evidence. 38

Footnotes

Footnote 34. In re Gulf Oil/Cities Service Tender Offer Litigation (SD NY) 725 F Supp 712, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 94708, 1989-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 68779, amd, on reh (SD NY) CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 94732, 1989-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 68803, later proceeding (SD NY) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 5009, later proceeding (SD NY) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 6089, later proceeding (SD NY) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 8649 and later proceeding (SD NY) 1991 US Dist LEXIS 1814, later proceeding (SD NY) 776 F Supp 838, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 96476, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 653, later proceeding (SD NY) 776 F Supp 838, 1991-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 69639, costs/fees proceeding (SD NY) 142 FRD 588, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 96845 (criticized by Dubin v E.F. Hutton Group (SD NY) CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 98161); Giant Food Stores, Inc. v Marketplace Communications Corp. (MD Pa) 717 F Supp 1071; Viceroy Fluid Power International, Inc. v Banks Engineering Co. (WD Pa) 680 F Supp 725, 6 UCCRS2d 184; R. G. Varner Steel Products, Inc. v Puterbaugh, 233 Ark 953, 349 SW2d 805; Fogelson v Rackfay Const. Co., 300 NY 334, 90 NE2d 881, reh den 301 NY 552, 93 NE2d 349.

Where a contract between a gasoline dealer and supplier specified the minimum amount of gasoline that the supplier could be required to deliver in any one month, and by its express terms constituted the entire agreement of the parties, under UCC § 2-202 the dealer was precluded by the parol evidence rule from introducing evidence to show that the contract was intended to be a requirements contract imposing on the supplier an obligation to supply the dealer its entire marketing needs of gasoline. Intermar, Inc. v Atlantic Richfield Co. (ED Pa) 364 F Supp 82, 1973-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 74773 (applying Pennsylvania UCC).

Footnote 35. Fogelson v Rackfay Const. Co., 300 NY 334, 90 NE2d 881, reh den 301 NY 552, 93 NE2d 349.

As to incomplete agreements and the doctrine of partial integration, see §§ 1116 et seq.

Footnote 36. Sierra Diesel Injection Service, Inc. v Burroughs Corp. (DC Nev) 656 F Supp 426, 3 UCCRS2d 1378, affd (CA9 Nev) 874 F2d 653, 8 UCCRS2d 617, amd, reh den, en banc (CA9 Nev) 890 F2d 108, 9 UCCRS2d 1236.

Although there is an integration clause in a contract, evidence is admissible to show that the parties did not intend the writing to be a complete statement of their transaction. Luther Williams, Jr., Inc. v Johnson (Dist Col App) 229 A2d 163.

Footnote 37. Johnson v Orkin Exterminating Co. (ED La) 746 F Supp 627, holding that an integration clause in an extermination contract was conclusive in its effect.

Footnote 38. Bank Leumi Trust Co. v Wulkan (SD NY) 735 F Supp 72.

§ 1096 Persons affected by rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The parol evidence rule generally applies only to the parties to a written agreement, 39 and those who are privy to a party, 40 such as third-party beneficiaries. 41 In some jurisdictions, statutes confine the application of the parol evidence rule to the parties to the writing and their representatives or successors in interest; 42 in such jurisdictions, where there is a contest between a party to the instrument and one who is a stranger to a writing, neither the party nor the stranger is bound by the rule. 43 Furthermore, there is authority for the view that this may be the case even in the absence of a such a limiting statutory provision. 44 Accordingly, parol evidence ordinarily may be used to vary or contradict a written instrument when the litigation is between a party to the instrument and a stranger to the instrument. 45

However, there is authority for the view that the parol evidence rule operates to protect all whose rights stem from or depend upon the instrument, even though they were not parties to it. 46 Under this view, where the writing comes into question only collaterally between one of the parties to the writing and a stranger to the writing, the parol evidence rule does not preclude either party to the action from introducing parol evidence to vary, contradict, or explain the writing. 47

Footnotes

Footnote 39. Cleveland v Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. (ND Ohio) 538 F Supp 1287; Bessemer Properties, Inc. v Barber (Fla App D2) 105 So 2d 895; Kimmel v Iowa Realty Co. (Iowa) 339 NW2d 374; Denha v Jacob, 446 NW2d 303, 179 Mich App 545; Sullivan v Estate of Eason (Miss) 558 So 2d 830; Smith v Falke (Miss) 474 So 2d 1044;

American Bank v Wegener (Mo App) 776 SW2d 922; SIN, Inc. v Department of Finance (1st Dept) 126 App Div 2d 339, 513 NYS2d 430, app gr 70 NY2d 603, 518 NYS2d 1025, 512 NE2d 551 and affd 71 NY2d 616, 528 NYS2d 524, 523 NE2d 811; McComb v McComb, 226 Va 271, 307 SE2d 877; In re Prior Bros., Inc., 29 Wash App 905, 632 P2d 522, 32 UCCRS 303.

Footnote 40. Fulton v L & N Consultants, Inc. (CA10 Okla) 715 F2d 1413 (applying Okla law); Horn v Hansen, 56 Minn 43, 57 NW 315; Daggett v Corn (Tex Civ App) 54 SW2d 1098, writ dismissed; Garrett v Ellison, 93 Utah 184, 72 P2d 449, 129 ALR 666.

Footnote 41. Suci v Amfac Distributing Corp. (App) 138 Ariz 514, 675 P2d 1333; SIN, Inc. v Department of Finance (1st Dept) 126 App Div 2d 339, 513 NYS2d 430, app gr 70 NY2d 603, 518 NYS2d 1025, 512 NE2d 551 and affd 71 NY2d 616, 528 NYS2d 524, 523 NE2d 811; United States Gypsum Co. v Gleason, 135 Wis 539, 116 NW 238.

Footnote 42. Lemke v Sears, Roebuck & Co. (CA4 Va) 853 F2d 253; Jackson v Donovan (5th Dist) 215 Cal App 2d 685, 30 Cal Rptr 755; Sullivan v Estate of Eason (Miss) 558 So 2d 830; American Bank v Wegener (Mo App) 776 SW2d 922.

Footnote 43. In re Alterman (BC ED Va) 127 BR 356, 3 Fourth Cir & Dist Col Bankr Ct Rep 396; Echo, Inc. v Stafford, 730 SW2d 913, 21 Ark App 201; Penberthy v Vahl, 101 Cal App 2d 1, 224 P2d 907; Neves v Potter (Colo) 769 P2d 1047; Tropicana Products, Inc. v Shirley (Fla App D2) 530 So 2d 493, 13 FLW 2065, review dismissed (Fla) 541 So 2d 1173; Chenevert v Lemoine (La App 3d Cir) 161 So 2d 85, cert den 245 La 1076, 162 So 2d 572; North Dakota Ins. Guaranty Assn. v Agway, Inc. (ND) 462 NW2d 142.

The parol evidence rule cannot be invoked either by or against a stranger to a contract. Denha v Jacob, 179 Mich App 545, 446 NW2d 303.

Footnote 44. Worcester Felt Pad Corp. v Tucson Airport Authority (CA9 Ariz) 233 F2d 44, 59 ALR2d 1121; Shelby County v Baker, 269 Ala 111, 110 So 2d 896; Bowman v Tax Com. (Franklin Co) 61 Ohio App 163, 15 Ohio Ops 129, 28 Ohio L Abs 674, 22 NE2d 524, affd 135 Ohio St 295, 14 Ohio Ops 189, 20 NE2d 916; Carolina Casualty Ins. Co. v Oregon Auto. Ins. Co., 242 Or 407, 408 P2d 198.

If one party to an action may introduce parol evidence to vary or contradict a writing because he or she is a stranger to the writing, all other parties to the action must be granted the same privilege, even though they are parties to the writing. Kassianov v Raissis (1st Dist) 200 Cal App 2d 573, 19 Cal Rptr 614; Orangeburg v Buford, 227 SC 280, 87 SE2d 822.

Footnote 45. In re Alterman (BC ED Va) 127 BR 356, 3 Fourth Cir & Dist Col Bankr Ct Rep 396; Watson v McGee (Ala) 348 So 2d 461; Echo, Inc. v Stafford, 730 SW2d 913, 21 Ark App 201; Neves v Potter (Colo) 769 P2d 1047; Tropicana Products, Inc. v Shirley (Fla App D2) 530 So 2d 493, 13 FLW 2065, review dismissed (Fla) 541 So 2d 1173; Hobbs v Central Equipment Rentals, Inc. (La App 3d Cir) 382 So 2d 238, 66 OGR 487, cert den (La) 385 So 2d 785; Bohle v Thompson, 78 Md App 614, 554 A2d 818, 8 UCCRS2d 897, cert den 316 Md 364, 558 A2d 1206; Kussler v Burlington Northern, Inc., 186 Mont 82, 606 P2d 520; North Dakota Ins. Guaranty Assn. v Agway, Inc. (ND) 462 NW2d 142; Nelson v United Fire Ins. Co., 275 SC 92, 267 SE2d 604; Evans v Tillett Bros. Const. Co. (Tenn App) 545 SW2d 8.

In an action brought by an injured party against a manufacturer and a seller of a lawn mower, the defendants were not entitled to invoke the parol evidence rule in order to preclude the plaintiff from introducing evidence regarding her intent in executing a general release in favor of a homeowner's insurer, since the defendants were strangers to that release. Lemke v Sears, Roebuck & Co. (CA4 Va) 853 F2d 253.

Testimony by a partner as to why a seller of real estate placed the title to certain transferred property solely in the partner's brother's name and testimony concerning the agreement underlying the transfer of the deed on another property did not violate the parol evidence rule, as the partner was not a party to the deeds and could therefore testify as to facts surrounding the transfer. Bassett v Bassett, 798 P2d 160, 110 NM 559.

Footnote 46. Transport Indem. Co. v Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. (CA9 Or) 620 F2d 1368 (applying Or law); Green v Grant (Colo App) 635 P2d 236; Minneapolis, S. P. & S. S. M. R. Co. v Home Ins. Co., 55 Minn 236, 56 NW 815; SIN, Inc. v Department of Finance (1st Dept) 126 App Div 2d 339, 513 NYS2d 430, app gr 70 NY2d 603, 518 NYS2d 1025, 512 NE2d 551 and affd 71 NY2d 616, 528 NYS2d 524, 523 NE2d 811.

The parol evidence rule applies as to rights which originate in the relation established by, or which are founded on, the written contract even though the question arises as between a stranger to the contract and a party to the contract. Akamine & Sons, Ltd. v American Secur. Bank, 50 Hawaii 304, 440 P2d 262, reh den 50 Hawaii 368.

Footnote 47. Worcester Felt Pad Corp. v Tucson Airport Authority (CA9 Ariz) 233 F2d 44, 59 ALR2d 1121; Shelby County v Baker, 269 Ala 111, 110 So 2d 896; Marks & Stix v Hardy's Adm'r, 117 Ky 663, 78 SW 864, and 117 Ky 673, 78 SW 1105; Fitzgerald v Union Stockyards Co., 89 Neb 393, 131 NW 612; Edgerly v Emerson, 23 NH 555; Bowman v Tax Com. (Franklin Co) 61 Ohio App 163, 15 Ohio Ops 129, 28 Ohio L Abs 674, 22 NE2d 524, affd 135 Ohio St 295, 14 Ohio Ops 189, 20 NE2d 916; Carolina Casualty Ins. Co. v Oregon Auto. Ins. Co., 242 Or 407, 408 P2d 198; Andersen Yard Co. v Citizens' State Bank, 187 Wis 60, 203 NW 921.

If one party to an action may introduce parol evidence to vary or contradict a writing because he or she is a stranger to the writing, all other parties to the action must be granted the same privilege, even though they are parties to the writing. Kassianov v Raissis (1st Dist) 200 Cal App 2d 573, 19 Cal Rptr 614.

§ 1097 Determination of compliance with rule on judgment on pleadings

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A litigant's right to obtain judgment in reliance upon the parol evidence rule may be determined on the pleadings, and judgment may be entered for want of a sufficient answer or reply where the answer or reply sets up an oral agreement invalidated by the rule. 48 Facts which would be excluded from consideration under the parol evidence rule must be ignored for the purpose of motions and other defenses which go to the sufficiency of a pleading. 49

◆ Practice guide: Thus, where the only evidence relied upon to create a factual dispute in opposition to a motion for summary judgment is an oral agreement which is inoperative because of the parol evidence rule, no genuine factual dispute may be said to exist and summary judgment should be granted. 50

Footnotes

Footnote 48. Randel v Overland Texarkana Co., 182 Ark 877, 32 SW2d 1064, 75 ALR 1516; Salzman v Maldaver, 315 Mich 403, 24 NW2d 161, 168 ALR 381.

Where the only defense in an action against a building owner for nonpayment of the contract cost of a building was a breach by the plaintiff of an oral promise made prior to the execution of the written contract to complete the plans within a certain time, proof of the defense was barred by the parol evidence rule and the plaintiff was entitled to judgment on the pleadings. Lefkowitz v Hummel Furniture Co., 385 Pa 244, 122 A2d 802.

Annotation: Application and effect of parol evidence rule as determinable upon the pleading, 10 ALR2d 720.

Footnote 49. Midkiff v Castle & Cooke, Inc., 45 Hawaii 409, 368 P2d 887 (court syllabus).

Footnote 50. Nutrena Mills, Inc. v Yoder (ND Iowa) 187 F Supp 415, affd (CA8 Iowa) 294 F2d 505.

§ 1098 Effect of failure to object to admission of extrinsic evidence; waiver

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The admission of testimony in violation of the parol evidence rule does not make the testimony competent, whether it is admitted without, or over, objection. 51 Such evidence will be disregarded even though no objection is made to its admission. 52 Accordingly, an objection to the admission of parol testimony is not waived merely because such objection was not made at the time the evidence was offered, 53 and parol testimony will not be given effect as long as the objecting party properly requests the trial court to instruct the jury that the previous negotiations were merged in the written contract. 54 Since the parol evidence rule is one of substantive law, 55 the admission, without objection, of such testimony does not preclude the trial court from disregarding it upon a motion to direct a verdict, 56 and an appellate court cannot consider such evidence or give it any weight. 57 However, in some cases, evidence which would have been inadmissible under the parol evidence rule may be considered on appeal where no proper objection was made or exception preserved. 58

One who has submitted evidence of conversations which took place between the parties to a written agreement prior to the time the agreement was made cannot object to the other party giving his or her own version of the same conversations, at least where the conversations were pertinent to an issue to be submitted to the jury. 59 However, where there is no issue of an alleged oral agreement in the case to be submitted to the jury, the raising of the issue of the oral agreement by a party in anticipation of a defense based on such oral agreement does not waive the right to rely on the parol evidence rule. 60

§ 1098 ----Effect of failure to object to admission of extrinsic evidence; waiver [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 36 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 331, Introduction of Evidence Over Parol Evidence Rule Objection.

Footnotes

Footnote 51. United States v Croft-Mullins Electric Co. (CA5 Ga) 333 F2d 772, cert den 379 US 968, 13 L Ed 2d 561, 85 S Ct 664; Waters v Lanier, 116 Ga App 471, 157 SE2d 796; Sargent v Coolidge (Me) 399 A2d 1333, appeal after remand (Me) 433 A2d 738; Perry v Gross, 155 Neb 662, 53 NW2d 73; Winoka Village, Inc. v Tate, 16 NJ Super 330, 84 A2d 626; Gajewski v Bratcher (ND) 221 NW2d 614, 81 ALR3d 211, appeal after remand (ND) 240 NW2d 871, appeal after remand (ND) 307 NW2d 826; Mid-American Corp. v Miller (Okla) 372 P2d 14; Taylor v Wells, 188 Or 648, 217 P2d 236; Muckelvaney v Liberty Life Ins. Co., 261 SC 63, 198 SE2d 278; Farmers State Bank v Keiser, 83 SD 354, 159 NW2d 388 (stating Iowa law); Grunwald v Grunwald (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 487 SW2d 240, writ ref n r e (Mar 21, 1973) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Apr 18, 1973); Fleetham v Schneekloth, 52 Wash 2d 176, 324 P2d 429; North Am. Uranium v Johnston, 77 Wyo 332, 316 P2d 325.

Annotation: Modern status of rules governing legal effect of failure to object to admission of extrinsic evidence violative of parol evidence rule, 81 ALR3d 249 § 10.

Footnote 52. Smith v Bear (CA2 NY) 237 F2d 79, 60 ALR2d 1119; Randolph v Fireman's Fund Ins. Co., 255 Iowa 943, 124 NW2d 528, 8 ALR3d 907; Paulink v American Express Co., 265 Mass 182, 163 NE 740, 62 ALR 506; Hardin v Ray (Mo App) 404 SW2d 764; First Nat. Bank v Green Mountain Soil Conservation Dist., 130 Mont 1, 293 P2d 289; Warren v Pulley, 193 Okla 88, 141 P2d 288; Fry v Ashley, 228 Or 61, 363 P2d 555; Whitt v Godwin, 205 Va 797, 139 SE2d 841.

Footnote 53. Pitcairn v Philip Hiss Co. (CA3 Pa) 125 F 110; Brady v Nally, 151 NY 258, 45 NE 547.

Footnote 54. Loomis v New York C. & H. R. R. Co., 203 NY 359, 96 NE 748, reh den 204 NY 588, 97 NE 1108.

Footnote 55. § 1093.

Footnote 56. Mears v Smith, 199 Mass 319, 85 NE 165; Bushnell v Elkins, 34 Wyo 495, 245 P 304, 51 ALR 13.

Footnote 57. 5 Am Jur 2d, Appeal and Error § 737.

Footnote 58. 5 Am Jur 2d, Appeal and Error § 737.

Footnote 59. Bandy v Myers, 141 Ind App 220, 227 NE2d 183.

Footnote 60. F. N. Phillips Co. v Gay's Express, Inc., 112 Vt 49, 20 A2d 102.

§ 1099 Effect of rule on writings and contracts

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

All classes of contractual writings and instruments are within the scope of the parol evidence rule; the rule applies not only to contracts which are required by law to be in writing, but to every instrument containing the terms of a contract between the parties to it. 61 Thus, within the principles governing contracts generally, 62 the parol evidence rule applies not only to instruments such as contracts for the sale of goods 63 or lands, 64 contracts of guaranty, 65 and contracts or policies of insurance, 66 but also to such instruments as promissory notes and bills of exchange, 67 bills of lading, 68 deeds, 69 bonds, 70 mortgages, 71 leases, 72 options, 73 subscriptions, 74 and releases. 75

The parol evidence rule does not apply to every contract of which there is written evidence, but only where the parties to an agreement reduce it to writing and agree or intend that the writing shall be their agreement. 76 Thus, informal writings constituting mere memoranda of agreements are not subject to the restrictions of the parol evidence rule. 77

Footnotes

Footnote 61. West v Smith, 101 US 263, 11 Otto 263, 25 L Ed 809.

Annotation: Application of parol evidence rule in action on contract for architect's services, 69 ALR3d 1353.

Footnote 62. See 17A Am Jur 2d, Contracts.

Footnote 63. 67 Am Jur 2d, Sales § 330.

Footnote 64. 77 Am Jur 2d, Vendor and Purchaser § 61.

Footnote 65. 38 Am Jur 2d, Guaranty § 124.

Footnote 66. 44 Am Jur 2d, Insurance §§ 1999 et seq.

Footnote 67. 12 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes §§ 1252 et seq.

Footnote 68. 13 Am Jur 2d, Carriers §§ 293 et seq.

Footnote 69. 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds § 242.

Footnote 70. 12 Am Jur 2d, Bonds § 43.

Footnote 71. 55 Am Jur 2d, Mortgages § 587.

Footnote 72. 49 Am Jur 2d, Landlord and Tenant §§ 145 et seq.

Footnote 73. Kibler v Caplis, 140 Mich 28, 103 NW 531.

Footnote 74. 73 Am Jur 2d, Subscriptions § 30.

Footnote 75. 66 Am Jur 2d, Release §§ 52, 53.

Footnote 76. Mobile & M. R. Co. v Jurey, 111 US 584, 28 L Ed 527, 4 S Ct 566; Warinner v Nugent, 362 Mo 233, 240 SW2d 941, 26 ALR2d 278.

The trial court erred in allowing a husband's testimony as to the true intent of he and his former spouse in entering into a property settlement agreement, since such agreement had been reduced to a writing which recited that the parties had agreed to a settlement of all questions including issues as to property rights, and allowance of such testimony constituted a violation of the parol evidence rule. Pearson v Pearson (Fla App D4) 342 So 2d 1018.

Footnote 77. § 1101.

§ 1100 --Unambiguous writings, generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where the language used in a written instrument is ambiguous or uncertain, parol or extrinsic evidence is admissible to explain, rather than to vary or contradict, the meaning of the language used. 78 However, where the language used in a written instrument has ordinary meaning, or is plain and unambiguous when read in connection with the other provisions of the instrument, parol evidence is not admissible for the purpose of showing the meaning of the language. 79 The words of an instrument, unambiguous in themselves, cannot be controlled by proof that the parties used them with a definite and limited meaning, for the purpose of that particular instrument. 80 Furthermore, if the instrument, taken as a whole and construing all its provisions together, is clear, parol evidence may not be admitted to construe it. 81 Parol evidence may not be admitted to contradict clear terms of a written agreement, 82 to explain common or technical terms when their meaning is plain and well understood, 83 or, apart from a latent ambiguity, 84 to create ambiguity where none otherwise exists. 85

In addition, where the language employed in a written instrument is plain and unambiguous, evidence of the practical construction put upon the words by the acts and declarations of the parties, 86 or of a prior course of dealings between the parties, 87 is not admissible to supply an interpretation of the instrument. Nor is evidence of a custom or usage admissible where its effect would be to contradict, vary, qualify, or add to, the plain, unambiguous terms and agreements expressed in a contract, even though the provisions of the contract may be unusual. 88

Extrinsic evidence may be admissible for a purpose other than to show the meaning of the language used, even though the language of the writing is plain and unambiguous; it may be admitted to show mistake 89 or fraud, 90 or the oral part of a contract which has not been completely reduced to writing. 91

Footnotes

Footnote 78. As to ambiguous writings as an exception to the parol evidence rule, generally, see §§ 1134 et seq.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to show mistake, see § 1112.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to show a custom or usage, see 21A Am Jur 2d, Customs and Usages §§ 29, 30.

As to the operation and effect of customs and usages, see 21A Am Jur 2d, Customs and Usages §§ 22-31.

Footnote 79. Arizona v California, 292 US 341, 78 L Ed 1298, 54 S Ct 735; College of Virgin Islands v Vitex Corp. (DC VI) 283 F Supp 379, affd (CA3 VI) 393 F2d 481; Industrial Chemical & Fiberglass Corp. v North River Ins. Co. (CA11 Ala) 908 F2d 825; Pioneer Constructors v Symes, 77 Ariz 107, 267 P2d 740, 41 ALR2d 668; People ex rel. Department of Parks & Recreation v West-A-Rama, Inc. (4th Dist) 35 Cal App 3d 786, 111 Cal Rptr 197; Friedman v Virginia Metal Products Corp. (Fla) 56 So 2d 515, 33 ALR2d 956; Hall v Hall, 777 P2d 255, 116 Idaho 483; Jackson v DeFabis (Ind App) 553 NE2d 1212, reported in full (Ind App) 1990 Ind App LEXIS 501; Albers v Nelson, 809 P2d 1194, 248 Kan 575; Young v Hornbrook, Inc., 153 Me 412, 140 A2d 493; Levi v Schwartz, 201 Md 575, 95 A2d 322, 36 ALR2d 1241; Instrumentation Services, Inc. v General Resource Corp. (Minn) 283 NW2d 902; Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. v Herbert, 1 NJ 426, 64 A2d 75; Trujillo v CS Cattle Co., 790 P2d 502, 109 NM 705; Namad v Salomon, Inc., 74 NY2d 751, 545 NYS2d 79, 543 NE2d 722; Vestal v Vestal, 49 NC App 263, 271 SE2d 306; Kindley v Williams, 76 SD 225, 76 NW2d 227, 57 ALR2d 1070; Alba Tool & Supply Co. v Industrial Contractors, Inc. (Tex) 585 SW2d 662, reh'g of cause overr (Sep 19, 1979); Plateau Mining Co. v Utah Div. of State Lands & Forestry (Utah) 802 P2d 720, 148 Utah Adv Rep 16, 112 OGR 546; Great Falls Hardware Co. v South Lakes Village Center Associates Ltd. Partnership, 238 Va 123, 380 SE2d 642; United States Fire Ins. Co. v Northern P. R. Co., 30 Wash 2d 722, 193 P2d 868, 2 ALR2d 1065.

The intention of parties to a written instrument alleged to represent a contract could only be ascertained from language in the written instrument and parol evidence was inadmissible to explain or expand a term in the written instrument pertaining to an unconditional right to cancel, where the language of the instrument was clear and unequivocal. Gardiakos v Vanguard Communications, Inc. (1st Dist) 38 Ill App 3d 937, 350 NE2d 210 (criticized on other grounds by De Witt County Public Bldg. Com. v County of De Witt (4th Dist) 128 Ill App 3d 11, 83 Ill Dec 82, 469 NE2d 689).

Footnote 80. Millar-Jefferies Chevrolet Co. v Wakenight, 180 Ark 288, 21 SW2d 185; Bennett v Consolidated Realty Co., 226 Ky 747, 11 SW2d 910, 61 ALR 453; Songer v Mack Trucks, Inc. (1st Dept) 23 App Div 2d 544, 256 NYS2d 313; Hulin v Veatch, 148 Or 119, 35 P2d 253, 94 ALR 1319.

Footnote 81. Lissman v McDonald, 119 Cal App 2d 228, 258 P2d 1057.

Footnote 82. ITT Corp. v LTX Corp. (CA1 Mass) 926 F2d 1258, 14 UCCRS2d 87, on remand (DC Mass) 774 F Supp 681; J. C. Penney Co. v Koff (Fla App D4) 345 So 2d 732; Quickkick, Inc. v Quickkick International (La App 2d Cir) 341 So 2d 1313, cert den (La) 343 So 2d 1076; Anchor Casualty Co. v Bird Island Produce, Inc., 249 Minn 137, 82 NW2d 48; Hoagland v Heissler (3d Dept) 59 App Div 2d 802, 398 NYS2d 767; Conrad Milwaukee Corp. v Wasilewski, 30 Wis 2d 481, 141 NW2d 240; Kilbourne-Park Corp. v Buckingham (Wyo) 404 P2d 244.

In an action to recover benefits under a health insurance policy that clearly stated that coverage began upon the insurer's approval of the application, parol evidence regarding an oral representation of the insurer's agent that coverage began upon filing of the application was properly excluded. Continental Life & Accident Co. v Songer (App) 124 Ariz 294, 603 P2d 921, 18 ALR4th 1099 (criticized on other grounds by Services Holding Co. v Transamerica Occidental Life Ins. Co. (Ariz App) 158 Ariz Adv Rep 12).

Footnote 83. § 1145.

Footnote 84. § 1135.

Footnote 85. Van Syckel v Arsuaga, 231 US 601, 58 L Ed 393, 34 S Ct 263; ITT Corp. v LTX Corp. (CA1 Mass) 926 F2d 1258, 14 UCCRS2d 87, on remand (DC Mass) 774 F Supp 681; National Surety Corp. v Curators of University of Mo. (CA8 Mo) 268 F2d 525; J. C. Penney Co. v Koff (Fla App D4) 345 So 2d 732; Trujillo v CS Cattle Co., 790 P2d 502, 109 NM 705; Hulin v Veatch, 148 Or 119, 35 P2d 253, 94 ALR 1319.

Extrinsic evidence is not admissible to show a completely undisclosed intention of the parties. Bauer v Taylor (Tex Civ App) 118 SW2d 826, writ ref, error ref.

Footnote 86. Denny v Jacobson, 243 Iowa 1383, 55 NW2d 568; Everett v Rand, 152 Me 405, 131 A2d 205; Woods v Bromley, 69 Nev 96, 241 P2d 1103; Reese v First Nat. Bank (Tex Civ App) 196 SW2d 48, 171 ALR 516, writ ref n r e, error ref n r e.

As to the admissibility of evidence of practical construction by the parties where the language of the instrument is ambiguous or uncertain, see § 1141.

Footnote 87. In re Davidson's Trust Estate, 354 Pa 333, 47 A2d 145, 165 ALR 768.

As to the admissibility of evidence of prior dealings of the parties where the language of the instrument is ambiguous or uncertain, see § 1140.

Footnote 88. See 21A Am Jur 2d, Customs and Usages §§ 29, 30.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence of a custom or usage to explain language in the contract which would otherwise be ambiguous or uncertain, see 21A Am Jur 2d, Customs and Usages § 30.

Footnote 89. § 1112.

Footnote 90. 37 Am Jur 2d, Fraud and Deceit §§ 451-453.

Footnote 91. §§ 1116 et seq.

§ 1101 --Memoranda

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The parol evidence rule does not apply to memoranda which merely record the terms of an agreement preliminary to the drafting and execution of a more formal instrument and which do not purport to be contractual agreements 92 —such as letters, telegrams, book entries or accounts, and other miscellaneous writings of an informal nature. 93 Similarly, the parol evidence rule does not apply to written instruments signed and delivered in the execution or carrying out of a contract. 94

Before the parol evidence rule may be applied to preclude the introduction of extrinsic evidence to vary the stipulations of a writing alleged to be a contract between the parties, the writing must be shown to be the parties' contract. 95 An unaccepted written statement by one party to an oral contract, which states that party's version of the agreement, does not reduce the contract to writing in favor of the other person so as to preclude the writer from giving oral evidence of the terms of the contract. 96

Footnotes

Footnote 92. As to memoranda used to evidence in writing that a contract has been made under the statute of frauds, generally, see 72 Am Jur 2d, Statute of Frauds §§ 285 et seq.

Footnote 93. Wagner v Glendale Adventist Medical Center (2nd Dist) 216 Cal App 3d 1379, 265 Cal Rptr 412, 115 CCH LC ¶ 56252; Burton v Lumbermens Mut. Casualty Co. (La App 4th Cir) 152 So 2d 235, cert den 244 La 895, 154 So 2d 767; Saperston v Rae-Columbus, Inc., 151 Ohio St 11, 38 Ohio Ops 481, 84 NE2d 218; Harris v Snell (Okla) 422 P2d 460 (check); Mossler Acceptance Co. v Tips (Tex Civ App Galveston) 289 SW2d 295, writ ref n r e, error ref n r e; Logsdon v Trunk, 37 Wash 2d 175, 222 P2d 851.

Footnote 94. Rockett v Ford (Okla) 326 P2d 787, 9 OGR 733; Ross v Grimes, 199 Okla

403, 186 P2d 809; Mossler Acceptance Co. v Tips (Tex Civ App Galveston) 289 SW2d 295, writ ref n r e, error ref n r e.

Footnote 95. §§ 1092, 1099.

Footnote 96. Burton v Lumbermens Mut. Casualty Co. (La App 4th Cir) 152 So 2d 235, cert den 244 La 895, 154 So 2d 767.

§ 1102 --Corporate and association minutes

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The proceedings at a corporate meeting may involve the execution of a contract on the part of the corporation, and the minutes of such a meeting may contain the terms of such contract; in such a situation, attempts to vary or contradict the terms of the recorded agreement by parol evidence have been unsuccessful. 97 Similarly, where official minutes of a church committee meeting had been accepted in evidence, written memoranda taken at the meeting—if inconsistent with the contract executed during the meeting—would be properly excluded under the parol evidence rule. 98 However, the parol evidence rule does not prevent extrinsic evidence as to the execution, validity, or delivery of a corporate contract. 99 The exception to the parol evidence rule allowing admission of testimony seeking to explain ambiguous or uncertain language, 1 as well as the exception to the rule embodied in the "partial integration" doctrine, 2 also apply in the case of parol evidence regarding the proceedings at a corporate meeting.

Footnotes

Footnote 97. Brintnall v Professional Investors of Iowa, Inc. (Iowa) 218 NW2d 453.

Annotation: Admissibility of parol evidence as to proceedings at meetings of stockholders or directors of private corporations or associations, 48 ALR2d 1259 § 7.

Footnote 98. Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ v Universal Surety Co., 177 Neb 60, 128 NW2d 361.

Footnote 99. Mordka v Mordka Enterprises, Inc. (App) 143 Ariz 298, 693 P2d 953 (evidence used to establish that a corporate resolution fully integrated previous negotiations); Boone v Hall, 100 Cal App 2d 738, 224 P2d 881; Floyd v Jay County Rural Electric Membership Corp. (Ind App) 405 NE2d 630 (parol evidence rule makes exception for proof of fraud).

Corporate records are generally not operative legal transactions for the purpose of the parol evidence rule. Gannon v Baker (Tex) 818 SW2d 754, on remand (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 830 SW2d 706, 18 UCCRS2d 557, writ den (Nov 11, 1992); Combs v Lufkin (App) 123 Ariz 210, 598 P2d 1029.

In an action by an employee against her former employer for allegedly unpaid commissions, evidence showing fraud in the inducement of the employment, which was pursuant to a written employment agreement, was not precluded by the parol evidence rule. Zoeller v Howard Gardiner, Inc. (Tex Civ App Amarillo) 585 SW2d 920, writ ref n r e (Nov 28, 1979).

Annotation: 48 ALR2d 1259 § 6.

Footnote 1. Mason Hall Corp. v Dicker (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 141 A2d 190; Bennett v Madison Sales Co., 264 Ky 728, 95 SW2d 604; Holmes v Republic Steel Corp. (Cuyahoga Co) 84 Ohio App 442, 39 Ohio Ops 542, 53 Ohio L Abs 192, 84 NE2d 508; Malone v Melnick, 378 Pa 483, 106 A2d 806, 48 ALR2d 1254; Montgomery v Greene County Clay Products Co., 205 Pa Super 515, 210 A2d 911.

Parol testimony was admissible to supplement the minutes of a directors' meeting, absent a by-law or charter requirement of a written record, at which a question arose as to whether certain corporate property was owned jointly or as tenants in common with a named individual. Chevron Oil Co. v Clark (SD Miss) 291 F Supp 552, 31 OGR 540, affd in part and revd in part on other grounds (CA5 Miss) 432 F2d 280, 37 OGR 104.

As to ambiguity exception to the parol evidence rule, generally, see §§ 1134 et seq.

Annotation: 48 ALR2d 1259 § 8.

Footnote 2. Booth v Booth & Bayliss & Commercial School, Inc., 120 Conn 221, 180 A 278, 99 ALR 1517; Redstone v Redstone Lumber & Supply Co., 101 Fla 226, 133 So 882.

Minutes of a corporate meeting are only prima facie records of the proceedings, and oral testimony is admissible to show that the minutes are incomplete; the parol evidence rule does not prevent the introduction of oral testimony to supplement minutes which do not disclose the deliberations preceding a decision determining the time at which profit-sharing proceeds would be paid to a former employee. Lano v Rochester Germicide Co., 261 Minn 556, 113 NW2d 460, 44 CCH LC ¶ 17420 (ovrld on other grounds by Melin v Northwestern Bell Tel. Co. (Minn) 266 NW2d 183).

As to the doctrine of partial integration, generally, see §§ 1116 et seq.

Annotation: Admissibility of parol evidence as to proceedings at meetings of stockholders or directors of private corporations or associations, 48 ALR2d 1259 § 9.

§ 1103 --Receipts

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The rule excluding parol evidence to vary or contradict a writing does not apply to a mere receipt, which is not contractual in nature. 3

However, a writing that is both a receipt and a memorandum of agreement is, if unambiguous, conclusive as to the agreement, and cannot be varied or contradicted by parol evidence. 4 This principle has been frequently applied to bills of lading, which operate both as receipts and contracts. 5

Footnotes

Footnote 3. Davison v Davis, 125 US 90, 31 L Ed 635, 8 S Ct 825; Smart v Owen, 208 Ark 662, 187 SW2d 312; Wagner v Glendale Adventist Medical Center (2nd Dist) 216 Cal App 3d 1379, 265 Cal Rptr 412, 115 CCH LC ¶ 56252; Florida Capital Corp. v Robert J. Bissett Constr., Inc. (Fla App D2) 167 So 2d 595, cert den (Fla) 176 So 2d 511; Fletcher Trust Co. v Hines, 211 Ind 111, 4 NE2d 562, 108 ALR 930; Clark v Thompson, 309 Ky 850, 219 SW2d 22; Augustin v Ziemer, 221 Minn 565, 22 NW2d 925; Child v George Miller Inc., 74 Nev 223, 327 P2d 342; Luna v Flores, 64 NM 312, 328 P2d 82; Agar Packing & Provision Co. v Weldon, 42 Tenn App 175, 300 SW2d 51, 67 ALR2d 1023; Richards v Cornish (Tex Civ App) 190 SW2d 851.

Since receipts are merely prima facie evidence of payment and only admissions in writing, parol evidence is therefore admissible to explain, vary, or contradict the receipt, and the mere fact that the receipt contains the words "in full" in connection with payment does not render parol evidence inadmissible with respect to it. Phillips v Frost (Fla App D2) 147 So 2d 568.

Parol evidence may be introduced to show what demands the receipt was intended to apply to, what instruments were referred to in the receipt, or to show that a mistake was made in the receipt. Smart v Owen, 208 Ark 662, 187 SW2d 312.

An acknowledgment of payment contained in a bill of sale is merely a receipt, which may be contradicted by parol evidence. Smith v Stevens (Miss) 299 So 2d 690.

As to the application of this rule to the receipt clauses of a bill of lading, see 13 Am Jur 2d, Carriers §§ 293 et seq.

As to a bank passbook or deposit slip as generally not being a written contract within this rule, see 10 Am Jur 2d, Banks §§ 346, 347.

Footnote 4. Cleland v Cleland (CP) 7 Ohio Ops 2d 206, 79 Ohio L Abs 566, 152 NE2d 914.

Footnote 5. 13 Am Jur 2d, Carriers §§ 281, 294.

§ 1104 Public and judicial records and documents

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

As a general rule, what ought to be of public record must be proved by the record and cannot be contradicted or enlarged by parol evidence. 6 Parol evidence is not admissible to show a motive or intention contrary to the recorded action of the public body, 7 and the necessary presumption arising from a public record cannot be contradicted by parol evidence any more than the express words of the record itself. 8 Such a prohibition is necessary to prevent the confusion which would result if no restraint were placed on the questioning, by a private litigant, of records of public affairs, which cannot be impeached without a direct attack on such records. 9

The parol evidence rule applies not only to records of formal official action, but also to documents and other records of public officers, 10 such as school board records, 11 records in attachment proceedings, 12 records of judgments 13 and executions, 14 and proceedings of land offices. 15 The acts of a court of record are also known by its records alone and cannot be established by parol evidence. 16 Whether parol evidence is admissible to explain or interpret public writings or records depends on the character, purpose, and effect of the offered evidence; generally, ambiguities in judicial or public writings and records may be explained by parol evidence which is not inconsistent with such writings or records. 17 However, unless there is a distinct ambiguity apparent on the face of a public document or record, no extrinsic matter can be considered. 18 This assumes that the validity of the public document or record is not being directly attacked; in the case of such an attack, parol evidence is admissible to show the invalidity of a public record or document regardless of whether or not it is ambiguous.

Footnotes

Footnote 6. Potomac S.B. Co. v Upper Potomac S.B. Co., 109 US 672, 27 L Ed 1070, 3 S Ct 445; Pope v United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 200 Ga 69, 35 SE2d 899; Middlesboro v Welch (Ky) 275 SW2d 56; New England Box Co. v C & R. Const. Co., 313 Mass 696, 49 NE2d 121, 150 ALR 152; Eastman v School Dist., 120 Mont 63, 180 P2d 472 (ovrld on other grounds by State ex rel. Saxtorph v District Court, Fergus County, 128 Mont 353, 275 P2d 209); Barrett v Hand, 158 Neb 273, 63 NW2d 185.

Footnote 7. Barrett v Hand, 158 Neb 273, 63 NW2d 185.

Evidence to show that an official bond was not intended to apply to the appointment which was held when the bond took effect would contradict the bond. United States v Le Baron, 60 US 73, 19 How 73, 15 L Ed 525.

Footnote 8. Pope v United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 200 Ga 69, 35 SE2d 899.

Footnote 9. Loos v New York, 257 App Div 219, 13 NYS2d 119 (legislative record).

Footnote 10. Middlesboro v Welch (Ky) 275 SW2d 56.

The trial court properly refused to allow parol evidence to contradict or modify the terms of a deed or create a reservation of the property by parol where the evidence tended to show that the deed in question was prepared by the plaintiffs' attorney, in whom they testified they had complete trust; the plaintiffs signed the deed without reading it; it must be assumed that the plaintiffs signed the instrument they intended to sign; and there was no evidence of mental incapacity, mutual mistake of the parties, undue influence, or fraud. Rourk v Brunswick County, 46 NC App 795, 266 SE2d 401.

Footnote 11. Cross v Commonwealth (Ky App) 795 SW2d 65; Eastman v School Dist., 120 Mont 63, 180 P2d 472 (ovrld on other grounds by State ex rel. Saxtorph v District Court, Fergus County, 128 Mont 353, 275 P2d 209).

Footnote 12. 6 Am Jur 2d, Attachment and Garnishment § 254.

Footnote 13. 47 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 172.

Footnote 14. 30 Am Jur 2d, Executions §§ 395 et seq.

Footnote 15. Stanford v Taylor, 59 US 409, 18 How 409, 15 L Ed 453 (holding that where a grant of land with indefinite boundaries was confirmed and ordered to be surveyed, conformably to the possession, parol evidence that an official survey was improperly made of the wrong tract is inadmissible).

There was no basis for looking behind patents in order to allow extrinsic evidence of the intent of the original parties at the time of a conveyance of state-owned lands, for the purposes of a claim by the commissioners of the land office that a reservation in the patents reserved an interest in coal, where the notice, certificate of purchase, and patent were specific acts of the commissioners, the entire sale process was regular under the applicable statute, and the words of the patents followed the statute. State ex rel. Commissioners of Land Office v Butler (Okla) 753 P2d 1334, 98 OGR 140, cert den 488 US 993, 102 L Ed 2d 583, 109 S Ct 557.

Footnote 16. 20 Am Jur 2d, Courts § 55.

Footnote 17. Norton v Larney, 266 US 511, 69 L Ed 413, 45 S Ct 145; People v Thompson, 295 Ill 187, 129 NE 155; Beate v Roberts, 156 Iowa 575, 137 NW 1006; James v Hotel Honing Co. (Hamilton Co) 6 Ohio App 162 (docket or journal of court).

The testimony of a deputy clerk as to the meaning of abbreviations officially made by him upon documents offered in evidence is admissible, since such testimony merely translates the sense of the abbreviations into ordinary language, leaving the recognized meaning unchanged. Buie v United States (CA5 Tex) 127 F2d 367, cert den 318 US 766, 87 L Ed 1138, 63 S Ct 660, reh den 319 US 783, 87 L Ed 1727, 63 S Ct 1314 and reh den 319 US 780, 87 L Ed 1725, 63 S Ct 1025.

If the language of the bond of a public official is not sufficiently specific in the designation of his or her office to be free from ambiguity, the ambiguity may be removed by parol evidence. Kuhl v Chamberlain, 140 Iowa 546, 118 NW 776.

The letters "J. P." and "C," attached to the signatures of a justice's court judgment, if not fully explained by the instrument itself, may be shown by parol to mean justice of the peace and constable. Davis v Harnbell (Tex Civ App) 24 SW 972.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to clarify ambiguities in written instruments, generally, see §§ 1134 et seq.

Footnote 18. Presidio County v Clarke, 38 Tex Civ App 320, 85 SW 475, writ dism w o j.

The provision of the Colorado River Compact forged between several states that, in addition to the apportionment made elsewhere therein, the "lower basin" is given the right to increase its beneficial consumptive use of water by 1,000,000 acre-feet per annum, is not ambiguous so as to admit extrinsic evidence to show its meaning, although the additional waters thereby appropriated are claimed thereunder exclusively by the state seeking to introduce such evidence, on the ground of the geographical situation of the states, where other states were included in the lower basin and the Compact left to later agreement the apportionment of the water among the states in each basin. Arizona v California, 292 US 341, 78 L Ed 1298, 54 S Ct 735.

§ 1105 --Records of legislative, judicial, and administrative bodies

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence which contradicts the records of local legislative bodies is generally inadmissible when it is offered for the purpose of contradicting, altering, 19 or supplying omissions in such a record. 20 The purpose behind this general rule is both to protect such records from the attacks of outsiders and to preserve them against the uncertainty of individual memories. 21 However, where there is no express statutory provision requiring a complete record to be kept, and the record of a legislative body contains nothing to show whether or not the body took any action, parol evidence is admissible to show that action was in fact taken. 22

Omissions in the records of the proceedings of legislative and administrative bodies may be supplied by parol evidence where the applicable statutes do not make such records the only evidence of such proceedings, nor render invalid their unrecorded proceedings, as long as such testimony does not contradict the records.

Parol evidence is not admissible to show the purpose or motives of legislative bodies in performing legislative acts. 23 However, evidence as to the meaning attached to a technical term by those familiar with such parlance is relevant in determining the meaning of the term as used in legislation. 24

Footnotes

Footnote 19. Suburban Land Co. v Billerica, 314 Mass 184, 49 NE2d 1012, 147 ALR 660; State ex rel. McCrate v Rhodes, 349 Mo 1071, 163 SW2d 978.

Footnote 20. Bates v Jenkins (Ky) 322 SW2d 475.

Footnote 21. Barrett v Hand, 158 Neb 273, 63 NW2d 185.

Footnote 22. Weslaco v Porter (CA5 Tex) 56 F2d 6; Joseph v Downers Grove (CA7 Ill) 104 F2d 974, cert den 308 US 605, 84 L Ed 506, 60 S Ct 142; Clovis v North, 64 NM 229, 327 P2d 305.

Footnote 23. Pilcher v Dothan, 207 Ala 421, 93 So 16.

Parol testimony of members of a legislative body is not admissible to show what in fact was intended or meant by an ordinance. Ex parte Goodrich, 160 Cal 410, 117 P 451.

Footnote 24. Order of R. Conductors v Swan, 329 US 520, 91 L Ed 471, 67 S Ct 405, 19 BNA LRRM 2180, 12 CCH LC ¶ 51235.

b. Exceptions to Rule [1106-1145]

(1). In General [1106-1115]

§ 1106 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The parol evidence rule applies, so far as a contract is concerned, only to those elements or parts of the writing which are contractual between the parties; it does not apply to mere recitals of fact. 25 The parol evidence rule applies only to the essential and substantial, as distinguished from the merely formal, parts of a writing. 26 Furthermore, the rule does not apply in situations where extrinsic evidence is given for the purpose of connecting several written instruments and showing that they are all parts of one transaction. 27 In addition, where the writing on which evidence is sought to be introduced is collateral to the issue involved and the action is not based upon the writing, the parol evidence rule does not apply. 28 The facts of each case must control in applying the rule or its exceptions. 29

The parol evidence rule does not, in a controversy between the parties, forbid the use of parol evidence to establish any fact that does not vary, alter, or contradict the terms of the instrument or the legal effect of the terms used. 30 In other words, extrinsic evidence of a fact which is consistent with the terms of, 31 or tends to confirm, 32 the writing may be admitted. In addition, parol evidence of the intention of the parties in executing the instrument, 33 and evidence as to the interpretation put upon a written contract by one of the parties, 34 is also admissible under certain circumstances.

§ 1106 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 36 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 331, Introduction of Evidence Over Parol Evidence Rule Objection.

Footnotes

Footnote 25. Garrett v Ellison, 93 Utah 184, 72 P2d 449, 129 ALR 666.

As to consideration as a mere contractual recital, see § 1129.

Footnote 26. Knighton v Des Portes Mercantile Co., 119 SC 340, 112 SE 343; Barmore v Jay, 13 SCL 371.

Footnote 27. Bailey v Railroad Co., 84 US 96, 17 Wall 96, 21 L Ed 611; Kam Chin Chun Ming v Kam Hee Ho, 45 Hawaii 521, 371 P2d 379, reh den 46 Hawaii 13, 373 P2d 141; Johnsen v Haynie (Tex Civ App) 70 SW2d 602.

Footnote 28. § 1115.

Footnote 29. Early v Street, 192 Tenn 463, 241 SW2d 531.

Footnote 30. Rime-Shatten Dev. Co. v Birmingham Cable Communications, Inc. (Ala) 569 So 2d 332; Maytag Co. v Alward, 253 Iowa 455, 112 NW2d 654, 96 ALR2d 162.

Evidence that relates to the formation or existence of a contract between the parties or that shows the true relation of the parties to the contract does not violate the parol evidence rule. Caplan v Stant, 207 Va 933, 154 SE2d 121.

Footnote 31. Hunt Foods & Industries, Inc. v Doliner (1st Dept) 26 App Div 2d 41, 270 NYS2d 937, 3 UCCRS 597; Remington Rand, Inc. v Sugarland Industries, 137 Tex 409, 153 SW2d 477; National Educators Life Ins. Co. v Morgan (Tex Civ App Amarillo) 295 SW2d 713, writ ref n r e.

As to the doctrine of partial integration, see §§ 1116 et seq.

Footnote 32. Basshor v Forbes, 36 Md 154; Rearich v Swinehart, 11 Pa 233.

Footnote 33. Investors Ins. Co. v Dorinco Reinsurance Co. (CA2 NY) 917 F2d 100, 18 FR Serv 3d 1343; United States v Fowler (CA9 Idaho) 913 F2d 1382; International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 47 v Southern California Edison Co. (CA9 Cal) 880 F2d 104, 131 BNA LRRM 3167, 112 CCH LC ¶ 11344 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Sisters of Third Order of St. Francis v Swedishamerican Group Health Ben. Trust (CA7 Ill) 901 F2d 1369, 12 EBC 1491) and (criticized on other grounds by Pratt v Petroleum Production Management, Inc. Employee Sav. Plan & Trust (CA10 Kan) 920 F2d 651, 13 EBC 1001, 19 FR Serv 3d 49); Industrial Chemical & Fiberglass Corp. v North River Ins. Co. (CA11 Ala) 908 F2d 825; Stewart v Brennan, 7 Hawaii App 136, 748 P2d 816, appeal after remand 8 Hawaii App 431, 807 P2d 606; Hall v Hall, 777 P2d 255, 116 Idaho 483; Diefenthal v Longue Vue Management Corp. (La) 561 So 2d 44.

As to admission of parol evidence as to the parties' intention where the writing contains ambiguities, see §§ 1139 et seq.

Footnote 34. Claussen v Aetna Casualty & Surety Co., 259 Ga 333, 380 SE2d 686, 29 Env't Rep Cas 1901.

§ 1107 Writings related to oral agreement

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where a contract rests upon an oral agreement, parol evidence is admissible as to the terms of the contract, notwithstanding the existence of memoranda relating to the contract. 35 In addition, where an oral agreement has been acted upon and rights have accrued under it, the subsequent receipt of a written contract varying from the oral agreement does not prevent proof of the oral agreement. 36

Footnotes

Footnote 35. Burk v Livingston Parish School Board, 215 La 143, 39 So 2d 891; Ross v Grimes, 199 Okla 403, 186 P2d 809.

As to the application of the parol evidence rule to informal memoranda of agreements, see § 1101.

Footnote 36. Mollison v Rittgers, 140 Iowa 365, 118 NW 512, holding that the execution of a power of attorney by one who has placed securities in another's hands, several years after this was done, which does not purport to embody the original agreement as to the disposition of the securities, will not, on the theory that it tends to vary the terms of a written instrument, exclude parol evidence of what the original agreement was.

Where goods are shipped under a verbal agreement before any written contract or bill of lading has been tendered to the shipper, the subsequent acceptance of a bill of lading without assenting to its conditions will not conclude the shipper, but rather parol evidence is admissible to show the real contract. Merchants' Despatch Transp. Co. v Furthmann, 149 Ill 66, 36 NE 624.

As to the application the parol evidence to a bill of lading, generally, see 13 Am Jur 2d, Carriers § 294.

Under the Restatement 2d of Contracts, agreements and negotiations prior to or contemporaneous with the adoption of a writing are admissible in evidence to establish that the writing is or is not an integrated agreement. Restatement 2d, Contracts § 214.

A recital of a fact in an integrated agreement may be shown to be untrue. Restatement 2d, Contracts § 218(1).

§ 1108 Existence or nonexistence of contract

View Entire Section

The parol evidence rule presupposes an action involving an existing valid obligation. 37 Accordingly, parol evidence is always competent to show the nonexistence of the purported contract. 38 For example, parol evidence is admissible to show nonacceptance of an offer, 39 or the lack of an effective delivery of the instrument. 40

Parol evidence is also admissible to show the existence of a contract, 41 or to show conditions precedent to its taking effect. 42 In addition, extrinsic evidence may be admitted to show that an instrument, in a material respect, was executed in blank and was subsequently filled out without authority or improperly. 43

Footnotes

Footnote 37. Merrill Lynch Private Capital, Inc. v Abou Khadra (SD NY) 764 F Supp 921 (parol evidence rule did not apply to a purported loan agreement where the lender never signed the agreement); Dellcar & Co. v Hicks (ND Ill) 685 F Supp 679; Miller v Kendall (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 804 SW2d 933, reh overr (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 1991 Tex App LEXIS 128 and (disapproved on other grounds by Ruiz v Conoco, Inc. (Tex) 36 Tex Sup Ct Jour 412) (parol evidence rule does not apply to recitals of past consideration received).

Footnote 38. Dellcar & Co. v Hicks (ND Ill) 685 F Supp 679; Halldin v Usher, 49 Cal 2d 749, 321 P2d 746; Spindler v Krieger (2d Dist) 16 Ill App 2d 131, 147 NE2d 457; Cumnock-Reed Co. v Lewis, 278 Ky 496, 128 SW2d 926; Warinner v Nugent, 362 Mo 233, 240 SW2d 941, 26 ALR2d 278; Western Nat. Ins. Co. v Trent, 69 Nev 239, 247 P2d 208; 305 East 24th Owners Corp. v Parman Co. (1st Dept) 122 App Div 2d 684, 505 NYS2d 999, app gr, motion den (1st Dept) 124 App Div 2d 503, 507 NYS2d 1002 and revd on other grounds, ctfd ques ans 69 NY2d 991, 517 NYS2d 710, 510 NE2d 794; Chapel Hill Spa Health Club, Inc. v Goodman, 90 NC App 198, 368 SE2d 60; Bill Shannon, Inc. v San Clemente (Tex App San Antonio) 724 SW2d 941; Rasey v Perryman (Tex Civ App) 262 SW2d 761; Moody v Smith, 9 Utah 2d 139, 340 P2d 83; Bond v Wiegardt, 36 Wash 2d 41, 216 P2d 196.

Parol statements of the parties, made at the time of signing a fictitious contract, may be admitted to prove that the instrument never had legal existence or any binding force. Smilow v Dickerson, 357 Pa 455, 54 A2d 883.

Footnote 39. Bond v Wiegardt, 36 Wash 2d 41, 216 P2d 196.

Footnote 40. Burke v Dulaney, 153 US 228, 38 L Ed 698, 14 S Ct 816; Spindler v Krieger (2d Dist) 16 Ill App 2d 131, 147 NE2d 457; Emery v Graber, 176 Kan 17, 268 P2d 950; Meek v Bower (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 333 SW2d 175.

Footnote 41. Marsh v Nichols, Shepard & Co., 128 US 605, 32 L Ed 538, 9 S Ct 168.

Footnote 42. § 1113.

Footnote 43. Western Nat. Ins. Co. v Trent, 69 Nev 239, 247 P2d 208.

§ 1109 --Effect of intent; sham agreements

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The parol evidence rule does not apply to every contract of which there is written evidence, but only where the parties to an agreement reduce it to writing and agree or intend that the writing shall be their agreement. 44 Therefore, parol evidence is admissible to show that a writing which apparently constituted a contract was not intended or understood by either party to be binding as such. 45 The oral testimony in such a case does not vary the terms of the writing, but shows that it was never intended to be a contract or to be of binding force between the parties. 46 For example, as between the parties to a written agreement or their privies, parol evidence is admissible to show that the writing was a sham not intended to create legal relations. 47 The application of this principle must be predicated on proof that the entire contract was intended to be a nullity; parol evidence may not be admitted where at least a portion of the contract is meant to be enforceable. 48 However, there is authority for the view that parol evidence is not admissible to show that a writing was a sham agreement which was not intended to create legal relations, 49 at least where the agreement was made for the illegal or immoral purpose of defrauding or misleading public authorities or a third person. 50

Footnotes

Footnote 44. § 1099.

Footnote 45. Michels v Olmstead, 157 US 198, 39 L Ed 671, 15 S Ct 580; Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v Crist (WD Ark) 664 F Supp 1242, revd on other grounds (CA8 Ark) 855 F2d 1326, later proceeding (WD Ark) 123 FRD 590 and cert den 489 US 1090, 103 L Ed 2d 860, 109 S Ct 1558 (sham workers' compensation policies); FPI Development, Inc. v Nakashima (3rd Dist) 231 Cal App 3d 367, 282 Cal Rptr 508, 91 CDOS 4707, 91 Daily Journal DAR 7396; McGuire v Luckenbach, 131 Colo 333, 281 P2d 997; White v White, 183 Kan 162, 326 P2d 306; Cumnock-Reed Co. v Lewis, 278 Ky 496, 128 SW2d 926; Cooley v Major Media Management Corp. (Minn App) 402 NW2d 815; W. K. Ewing Co. v Krueger (Tex Civ App) 152 SW2d 488, writ ref w o m, error ref.

Footnote 46. Burke v Dulaney, 153 US 228, 38 L Ed 698, 14 S Ct 816.

In a suit on a promissory note, parol evidence that the note had been executed for plaintiff contractor's benefit to reflect losses for business and tax purposes was properly admitted in support of the contention of the nonexistence of a valid contract rather than to vary the terms of an existing contract. Bill Shannon, Inc. v San Clemente (Tex App San Antonio) 724 SW2d 941.

Footnote 47. Happy Dack Trading Co. v Agro-Industries, Inc. (SD NY) 602 F Supp 986, 41 UCCRS 1718; Monica v Pelicas (1st Dist) 131 Cal App 2d 700, 281 P2d 269;

McGuire v Luckenbach, 131 Colo 333, 281 P2d 997; Jost v Cornelius, 334 Ill App 279, 79 NE2d 310; Succession of Lewis (La App 4th Cir) 157 So 2d 321; Beaman-Marvell Co. v Gunn, 306 Mass 419, 28 NE2d 443; In re Estate of Fullerton (Okla) 375 P2d 933 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Lomon v Citizens Nat. Bank & Trust (Okla) 689 P2d 306).

In a retailer's action against a worker's compensation insurer, parol evidence would be admitted to show that delivered policies were a sham and that a side "deal" existed, where the purpose of the sham was to show regulatory authorities that policies had been issued that complied with the law of the states in which they had to be filed and reviewed. Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v Crist (WD Ark) 664 F Supp 1242, revd (CA8 Ark) 855 F2d 1326, later proceeding (WD Ark) 123 FRD 590 and cert den 489 US 1090, 103 L Ed 2d 860, 109 S Ct 1558 (applying Ark law).

In an action to recover $100,000 which plaintiff had allegedly loaned defendant, the parol evidence rule did not preclude consideration of defendants' claim that two letters which they had delivered to plaintiff and which referred to the money as a loan had been written at plaintiff's request in order to assist him with a Canadian gift tax problem and had not been intended to reflect a valid contractual relationship for a loan, in that the rule would be applicable only after the letters had been proven by extrinsic evidence to represent a valid and binding obligation. Monroe v Appeltan (Fla App D2) 419 So 2d 356.

Mortgagors' parol evidence that a mortgage was always a sham and was designed to forestall their creditors was admissible where the plaintiff mortgagee testified that a recital in the mortgage that money had been loaned was wrong. Laspopoulos v Earl (La App 4th Cir) 376 So 2d 965.

Annotation: Admissibility of oral evidence to show that a writing was a sham agreement not intended to create legal relations, 71 ALR2d 382 § 3[a].

Footnote 48. Bersani v General Acci. Fire & Life Assur. Corp., 36 NY2d 457, 369 NYS2d 108, 330 NE2d 68, holding that parol evidence was not admissible to show an alleged agreement by which property owners, in order to facilitate obtaining a mortgage on property, obtained a standard fire insurance policy on the condition that no claims would be submitted, where, though the insurer's obligations to the owners were not to be enforced, other provisions, such as the insurer's obligation to the mortgagee, were to be enforceable.

Footnote 49. St. Paul v Dahlby, 266 Minn 304, 123 NW2d 586.

Annotation: 71 ALR2d 382 § 4.

Footnote 50. Higby v Hooper, 124 Mont 331, 221 P2d 1043; Carolina Casualty Ins. Co. v Oregon Auto. Ins. Co., 242 Or 407, 408 P2d 198.

In an action by a decedent's grandchildren to annul, on account of simulation, two purported acts of sale in which their grandfather joined his second wife, as vendor, in conveying certain property to a daughter of the second marriage in an alleged attempt to deprive the grandchildren of their potential inheritance, the second wife would not be heard to contradict by parol evidence her authentic acts of sale, between herself as vendor and her daughter as vendee, though such testimony would be available to the grandchildren in their action seeking to have certain property, acquired during the second marriage, decreed to be community property. Succession of Elrod v Elrod (La App 4th Cir) 218 So 2d 83.

Annotation: 71 ALR2d 382 § 5.

§ 1110 Validity or invalidity of writing

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The parol evidence rule presupposes an action based on an existing valid contract, 51 and if the issue is as to the validity or legality of the contract, the rule does not apply, and extrinsic evidence is admitted to determine that issue, 52 whether such evidence tends to establish the validity or invalidity of the contract in question. 53 Such evidence does not vary or contradict the writing, but serves to establish that it has no force or efficacy. 54 For example, parol evidence is admissible to show that a contract valid on its face is a mere cover for an illegal transaction, 55 that its execution was procured by fraud, 56 that it resulted from mutual mistake, 57 or was not supported by consideration. 58

Footnotes

Footnote 51. § 1092.

Footnote 52. McMullen v Hoffman, 174 US 639, 43 L Ed 1117, 19 S Ct 839; Delcar & Co. v Hicks (ND Ill) 685 F Supp 679; Stock v Meek, 35 Cal 2d 809, 221 P2d 15; Tusch Enterprises v Coffin, 740 P2d 1022, 113 Idaho 37; Stromberg v Smith (Minn App) 423 NW2d 107; Buskirk v Nelson, 237 Mont 455, 774 P2d 398, appeal after remand 250 Mont 92, 818 P2d 375; King v Fordice (Tex App Dallas) 776 SW2d 608, 10 UCCRS2d 65, writ den (Dec 20, 1989); Auve v Fagnant, 16 Wash 2d 669, 134 P2d 454.

Footnote 53. Bond v Wiegardt, 36 Wash 2d 41, 216 P2d 196.

Footnote 54. Lynn v Herman, 72 Cal App 2d 614, 165 P2d 54.

Footnote 55. Houghton v Burden, 228 US 161, 57 L Ed 780, 33 S Ct 491; Bowen v Morgillo, 127 Conn 161, 14 A2d 724.

A contract which on its face appears to be legal may be shown to be only part of a contract the other portions of which are illegal. McMullen v Hoffman, 174 US 639, 43 L Ed 1117, 19 S Ct 839.

Footnote 56. 37 Am Jur 2d, Fraud and Deceit §§ 451-453.

Footnote 57. § 1112.

Footnote 58. § 1128.

§ 1111 Explaining absolute conveyance as one of security

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence is admissible to show that a conveyance or assignment that is absolute on its face was intended merely as security for the payment of a debt. 59 This question arises most frequently in connection with showing that a deed absolute on its face is in fact a mortgage, 60 or that a bill of sale is in fact a security. 61

Fraud in the inception of the transfer is not an element essential to the admissibility of parol evidence of the nature of the transaction as one for security only. 62

Footnotes

Footnote 59. Burgess v Seligman, 107 US 20, 17 Otto 20, 27 L Ed 359, 2 S Ct 10; Biddle v Biddle, 363 Pa 426, 70 A2d 281.

In an action contesting ownership of a tract of land and cattle, parol evidence as well as evidence of the written conveyances of the property were properly admitted where, though the written instruments simply conveyed the property to the defendant's grantor and to the defendant, the purpose of the conveyance had in fact been to secure a transaction with respect to another parcel. Kesler v Rogers (Utah) 542 P2d 354 (not followed on other grounds by Biswell v Duncan (Utah App) 742 P2d 80, 64 Utah Adv Rep 36).

Footnote 60. See 55 Am Jur 2d, Mortgages §§ 43-53.

Footnote 61. See 68A Am Jur 2d, Secured Transactions § 164.

Footnote 62. Barry v Coville, 129 NY 302, 29 NE 307.

§ 1112 Mistake

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence is generally admissible to alter the terms of a written contract when it is shown that, by reason of mutual mistake, the true intention of the parties is not expressed. 63 Parol evidence to show such mutual mistake may be interposed as a defense to an action at law on the written agreement, 64 or may be introduced in an action in equity to reform the written contract because of the mutual mistake. 65

Footnotes

Footnote 63. Applied Genetics Int'l, Inc. v First Affiliated Secur., Inc. (CA10 Wyo) 912 F2d 1238; Agristor Leasing v Bertholf (DC Kan) 753 F Supp 881; Rime-Shatten Dev. Co. v Birmingham Cable Communications, Inc. (Ala) 569 So 2d 332; Parker v Gentry, 62 Ariz 115, 154 P2d 517; Boyles Bros. Drilling Co. v Orion Industries, Ltd. (Colo App) 761 P2d 278, 6 UCCRS2d 1164; TIE Communications, Inc. v Kopp, 218 Conn 281, 589 A2d 329, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1992 Conn Super LEXIS 2421, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 599, summary judgment den (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 3166; Farm Credit Bank v Isringhausen (4th Dist) 210 Ill App 3d 724, 155 Ill Dec 235, 569 NE2d 235; Hancock v Kentucky Cent. Life Ins. Co. (Ind App) 527 NE2d 720; Alcorn v Linke, 257 Iowa 630, 133 NW2d 89; Cheek v Uptown Square Wine Merchants, W.F., Inc. (La App 4th Cir) 538 So 2d 663; Norden v Friedman (Mo) 756 SW2d 158, 102 OGR 301; Intershoe, Inc. v Bankers Trust Co. (1st Dept) 160 App Div 2d 520, 554 NYS2d 514, revd on other grounds, summary judgment gr, motion gr, ctf d ques ans 77 NY2d 517, 569 NYS2d 333, 571 NE2d 641, 14 UCCRS2d 1; Gilbertson v Gilbertson (ND) 452 NW2d 79; Fabbro v Reese, 206 Okla 655, 246 P2d 324; Williams v Glash (Tex) 789 SW2d 261, reh overr (May 30, 1990); Grahn v Gregory (Utah App) 800 P2d 320, 146 Utah Adv Rep 47, reh den (Utah App) 1990 Utah App LEXIS 207 and review pending (Utah) 156 Utah Adv Rep 26 and cert den (Utah) 843 P2d 516, 167 Utah Adv Rep 25.

Practice References Mutual Mistake—Physical Condition of Realty. 3 Am Jur POF 745 § 4.

Footnote 64. Rosenbaum v Texas Energies, Inc., 241 Kan 295, 736 P2d 888, 96 OGR 259.

In an action brought by a creditor to recover on two notes against a debtor and the guarantor of the notes under a continuing guarantee agreement, parol evidence was admissible to establish mutual mistake or error where the guarantor contended that she had guaranteed only one of the notes in question and that the creditor and the debtor had failed to make permanent financing arrangements as had been agreed. American Bank & Trust Co. v Vinson (La App 2d Cir) 528 So 2d 693.

Footnote 65. 66 Am Jur 2d, Reformation of Instruments §§ 118, 119.

§ 1113 Conditions precedent and subsequent

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

◆ Definition: For purposes of parol evidence analysis, a condition precedent is one to be performed before the agreement becomes effective, while a condition which excuses an already binding obligation is a condition subsequent. 66

Parol evidence is generally admissible to show conditions precedent which relate to the delivery or the taking effect of a written instrument. 67 Such evidence does not constitute an oral contradiction or variation of the written instrument, but goes to the very existence of the contract and tends to show that no valid and effective contract ever existed, 68 at least not until the fulfillment of the condition. 69 Parol evidence may not be used to show a condition precedent where such condition contradicts, varies, or negates the terms of written agreement, 70 unless such terms are ambiguous. 71

If it appears or is admitted that a valid contract has come into existence, parol evidence cannot be admitted to show that the contract is subject to a condition subsequent or is to become inoperative in a certain event. 72

Footnotes

Footnote 66. Rincones v Windberg (Tex App Austin) 705 SW2d 846.

Footnote 67. Ware v Allen, 128 US 590, 32 L Ed 563, 9 S Ct 174; Bair v General Motors Corp. (CA6 Mich) 895 F2d 1094; In re Excalibur Auto. Corp. (CA7 Wis) 859 F2d 454; Quaile & Co. v William Kelly Milling Co., 184 Ark 717, 43 SW2d 369, 79 ALR 183; Fontana v Upp, 128 Cal App 2d 205, 275 P2d 164; Kitchens v Kitchens (Fla App D2) 142 So 2d 343; Chappell v Hasche (Fla App D2) 98 So 2d 808; Malir v Maixner, 174 Kan 26, 254 P2d 282; Louisiana Nat. Bank v Jumonville (La App 1st Cir) 563 So 2d 965; Burrowes Corp. v Read, 151 Me 92, 116 A2d 127; Sams v Feldman, 342 Mich 10, 68 NW2d 780; Service Fire Ins. Co. v Craft, 219 Miss 18, 67 So 2d 874; Child v George Miller Inc., 74 Nev 223, 327 P2d 342; Sherry v Marsh, 256 App Div 219, 9 NYS2d 494; Bailey v Westmoreland, 251 NC 843, 112 SE2d 517; Fountain Hill Millwork Bldg. Supply Co. v Belzel, 587 A2d 757, 402 Pa Super 553; Bissonnette v Hanton City Realty Corp. (RI) 529 A2d 139; Baker v Baker, 143 Tex 191, 183 SW2d 724; Mapes v Santa Cruz Fruit Packing Corp., 26 Wash 2d 145, 173 P2d 182; Walker v Copeland, 193 Wash 1, 74 P2d 469; Scott v Wall, 55 Wash App 404, 777 P2d 581, 9 UCCRS2d 980; Miners' & Merchants' Bank v Gidley, 150 W Va 229, 144 SE2d 711; North Am. Uranium v Johnston, 77 Wyo 332, 316 P2d 325.

Parol evidence was properly admitted to show that a third party's payment of an insurance renewal premium was conditioned upon the insured's not having made the payment herself or upon her not having obtained other insurance since the evidence was not offered to contradict or alter the terms of the policy or the receipt for payment but, rather, to establish a condition precedent to the taking effect of the receipt, which unqualifiedly provided for renewal of the policy. Farmers Ins. Exchange v Farm Bureau Mut. Ins. Co. (Mo) 522 SW2d 779.

A parol condition that a note was a guaranty for an indebtedness was a condition affecting the delivery of the note for a special purpose rather than a condition affecting payment, and, hence, evidence of such parol condition was properly admitted. Nawas v Holmes (Tex Civ App Waco) 541 SW2d 283, 20 UCCRS 133.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to show that a deed was delivered on condition, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds §§ 92, 123, 124.

Footnote 68. Bassato v Denicola (Fla) 80 So 2d 353; Child v George Miller Inc., 74 Nev 223, 327 P2d 342.

Where the parties to a written agreement agree orally that performance of the agreement is subject to the occurrence of a stated condition, the agreement is not integrated with respect to the oral condition. Restatement 2d, Contracts § 217.

Parol evidence is generally permitted to be introduced to show that the parties, prior to or at the time they made a written contract of sale, entered into an agreement that such contract of sale should become operative only on the occurring of a certain condition or contingency, the theory being that such evidence only goes to prove that the instrument never matured as a valid obligation, and that, hence, there could not be any modification or variance or contradiction of a contract as such. Chappell v Hasche (Fla App D2) 98 So 2d 808.

Footnote 69. Kelley v Carson, 120 Ga App 450, 171 SE2d 150, 7 UCCRS 47; Baker v Baker, 143 Tex 191, 183 SW2d 724.

Footnote 70. Bank Leumi Trust Co. v Wulkan (SD NY) 735 F Supp 72; Buchanan v Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. (DC Tex) 126 F Supp 950, 4 OGR 300; L. B. Williams Organization, Inc. v Winter, 106 Cal App 2d 604, 235 P2d 407; Smith v Standard Oil Co., 227 Ga 268, 180 SE2d 691; Hirsch v S. Berger Import & Mfg. Corp. (1st Dept) 67 App Div 2d 30, 414 NYS2d 324, app dismd 47 NY2d 1008, 420 NYS2d 221, 394 NE2d 290; Baker v Baker, 143 Tex 191, 183 SW2d 724; North Am. Uranium v Johnston, 77 Wyo 332, 316 P2d 325.

Parol evidence of a prior oral agreement or custom of dealing between the parties, that the debtor did not have to pay a note according to its terms, but only if he had the funds to do so at the due date, was inadmissible as it was at variance with and contradictory to the written terms of the note. Bengston v Southtrust Bank of Baldwin County (Ala App) 500 So 2d 1111.

Where the contract between a law firm and its client clearly stated that the client was to pay $100 per hour for the firm's services, parol evidence to the effect that the client understood that the fee arrangement under the contract was on a contingency basis was inadmissible. Nguyen Ngoc Giao v Smith & Lamm, P.C. (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 714 SW2d 144.

Footnote 71. Blaha v Schwartz (CP) 7 Ohio Ops 3d 234, holding that parol evidence of an agreement that a contract for sale of realty was conditioned upon the buyer's obtaining financing was admissible notwithstanding the inclusion of an integration clause in the written contract; the contract was ambiguous where the price breakdown for the house included a mortgage and another clause in the contract stated that the buyer was to apply for financing within five days, but no specific mention of a condition to the validity of the agreement was included.

As to the admission of parol evidence to clarify ambiguities, generally, see §§ 1134 et seq.

Footnote 72. Nutrena Mills, Inc. v Yoder (ND Iowa) 187 F Supp 415, affd (CA8 Iowa) 294 F2d 505; Severance v Knight-Counihan Co., 29 Cal 2d 561, 177 P2d 4, 172 ALR 1107; Fontana v Upp, 128 Cal App 2d 205, 275 P2d 164; Chappell v Hasche (Fla App D2) 98 So 2d 808.

The parol evidence rule prohibited the admission of oral evidence altering the payment terms of a written contract to prepare chapters of a book where the parties' alleged oral agreement that plaintiff would be paid only if the publication were accepted and funded by California was the type of condition that excused one party's obligations under the valid and effective contract, and, as such, was inconsistent with the terms of the written contract. Rincones v Windberg (Tex App Austin) 705 SW2d 846.

§ 1114 Date of instrument

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Generally speaking, parol evidence is admissible to show the true date of the execution and delivery of a contract in order to supply a date where one is lacking, ⁷³ or to contradict the date shown in the body of the instrument, ⁷⁴ even as to instruments which are required by statute to be in writing. ⁷⁵ However, parol evidence of the date of an instrument is not admissible where the date is a vital part of the instrument and a change of date would change the rights of the parties to the instrument. ⁷⁶

Footnotes

Footnote 73. Norden v Friedman (Mo) 756 SW2d 158, 102 OGR 301; Olsen v Reese, 114 Utah 411, 200 P2d 733; Cowles Pub. Co. v McMann, 25 Wash 2d 736, 172 P2d 235, 167 ALR 1164.

Footnote 74. District of Columbia v Camden Iron Works, 181 US 453, 45 L Ed 948, 21 S Ct 680; Ohio Casualty Ins. Co. v Heaney (ND Ill) 229 F Supp 30; Artukovich v Pacific States Cast Iron Pipe Co., 78 Cal App 2d 1, 176 P2d 962; Illinois Nat. Bank & Trust Co. v Holmes, 311 Ill App 286, 35 NE2d 823; Southdale Center, Inc. v Lewis, 260 Minn 430, 110 NW2d 857, 6 ALR3d 345; Norden v Friedman (Mo) 756 SW2d 158, 102 OGR 301; 2647 Realty Co. v Abrams, 138 Misc 2d 308, 524 NYS2d 168; Olsen v Reese, 114 Utah 411, 200 P2d 733.

Footnote 75. Norden v Friedman (Mo) 756 SW2d 158, 102 OGR 301; Olsen v Reese, 114 Utah 411, 200 P2d 733.

Footnote 76. Vermont Invest. Capital, Inc. v Granite Mut. Ins. Co. (DC Vt) 705 F Supp 1019, affd without op (CA2 Vt) 888 F2d 1377 (extrinsic evidence challenging effective date as stated on insurance policy inadmissible); In re De Los Angeles (BC ED Okla) 101 BR 722 (parol evidence challenging date of execution of security agreement inadmissible); Grand Junction Gospel Tabernacle v Orvis, 113 Colo 408, 157 P2d 619.

Parol evidence as to the postmark date on taxpayers' certified mail receipt was inadmissible in an action to determine the timeliness of the taxpayers' petition challenging a deficiency determination. Redman v Commissioner (CA6) 820 F2d 209,

Parol evidence is not admissible to vary or contradict the date appearing on a written agreement where the written agreement specifies the date on which a promissory note becomes payable. Norden v Friedman (Mo) 756 SW2d 158, 102 OGR 301.

§ 1115 Writing used as collateral evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The parol evidence rule does not apply in instances where the writing referred to is not relied upon as the basis of the action or defense, but is a mere collateral instrument of evidence. 77 For example, if a writing is introduced in evidence as an admission, rather than as part of the contract between the parties, the person against whom the admission is introduced may explain the meaning that he or she intended to convey. 78

Footnotes

Footnote 77. Bank v Kennedy, 84 US 19, 17 Wall 19, 21 L Ed 554; Doelle v Ireco Chemicals (CA10 Utah) 391 F2d 6, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 92172; Bales v Massey, 241 Iowa 1084, 43 NW2d 671; Gulf Federal Sav. Bank v Zoblotsky (La App 5th Cir) 496 So 2d 1247; Peek v Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., 242 NC 1, 86 SE2d 745; Transit Enterprises, Inc. v Addicks Tire & Auto Supply, Inc. (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 725 SW2d 459; Sachse v Lumley, 524 A2d 599, 147 Vt 584 (mortgage loan commitment letter admissible in action brought on purchase and sale agreement).

In a licensee's action against a licensor for tortious interference with the licensee's business expectancy, parol evidence regarding the license agreement was admissible where proof of the content of the agreement was not key to the licensee's claim. Western Fireproofing Co. v W.R. Grace & Co. (CA8 Mo) 896 F2d 286.

Footnote 78. Cornick v Southwest Iowa Broadcasting Co., 252 Iowa 653, 107 NW2d 920, 42 CCH LC ¶ 31081.

(2). Incomplete Writings; Doctrine of Partial Integration [1116-1120]

§ 1116 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

An exception to the parol evidence rule applies in situations where there is a "partial integration". 79

◆ Definition: A "partial integration" is a written instrument which has not been adopted by the parties as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of the agreement. 80 Parol evidence of consistent additional terms may supplement an otherwise incomplete document. 81

Parol evidence is admissible to prove the part of a nonintegrated written agreement that has not been reduced to writing, but is not admissible with regard to the part that has been reduced to writing. 82 In addition, in order to be admitted, the extrinsic evidence must not contradict or be inconsistent with the clear terms of the writing. 83

◆ Observation: As to contracts required to be in writing by the statute of frauds, while parol evidence is admissible to explain ambiguities, 84 it cannot be admitted to supply elements which are missing. 85

§ 1116 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 36 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 331, Introduction of Evidence Over Parol Evidence Rule Objection.

Footnotes

Footnote 79. In re Lamica Corp. (BC SD NY) 65 BR 849; A. Kemp Fisheries, Inc. v Castle & Cooke, Inc., Bumble Bee Seafoods Div. (CA9 Wash) 852 F2d 493, 1989 AMC 236 (applying Cal law); TIE Communications, Inc. v Kopp, 218 Conn 281, 589 A2d 329, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1992 Conn Super LEXIS 2421, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 599, summary judgment den (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 3166; Florida Capital Corp. v Robert J. Bissett Constr., Inc. (Fla App D2) 167 So 2d 595, cert den (Fla) 176 So 2d 511; Pounds v Hospital Authority of Gwinnett County, 191 Ga App 689, 382 SE2d 602, appeal after remand 197 Ga App 598, 399 SE2d 92; Alumet v Bear Lake Grazing Co. (App) 112 Idaho 441, 732 P2d 679, appeal after remand (App) 119 Idaho 979, 812 P2d 286, review gr (Idaho) 1989 Ida LEXIS 181 and superseded on other grounds 119 Idaho 946, 812 P2d 253; Academy Chicago Publishers v Cheever (1st Dist) 200 Ill App 3d 677, 146 Ill Dec 386, 558 NE2d 349, app gr 133 Ill 2d 551, 149 Ill Dec 315, 561 NE2d 685 and revd on other grounds 144 Ill 2d 24, 161 Ill Dec 335, 578 NE2d 981, 18 Media L R 2327; Davis v Kurtz (3d Dist) 165 Ill App 3d 417, 116 Ill Dec 317, 518 NE2d 1297, app den 121 Ill 2d 568, 122 Ill Dec 435, 526 NE2d 828; Schaneman v Wright, 238 Neb 309, 470 NW2d 566, 115 OGR 512; Trujillo v Gonzales, 747 P2d 915, 106 NM 620; United Aircraft Products, Inc. v Warrick (Hamilton Co) 79 Ohio App 165, 34 Ohio Ops 519, 47 Ohio L Abs 504, 72 NE2d 669, 73 USPQ 128; Columbia East Assoc. v Bi-Lo, Inc. (App) 299 SC 515, 386 SE2d 259; First Victoria Nat. Bank v Briones (Tex App Corpus Christi) 788 SW2d 632, writ den (Oct 3, 1990) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Nov 14, 1990); Sherman v Lunsford, 723 P2d 1176, 44 Wash App 858; Kuehn v Safeco Ins. Co. (App) 140 Wis 2d 620, 412 NW2d 126.

Footnote 80. Restatement 2d, Contracts § 210(2).

As to the preliminary question as to whether a particular written agreement is fully integrated, see § 1117.

Footnote 81. In re Lamica Corp. (BC SD NY) 65 BR 849; A. Kemp Fisheries, Inc. v Castle & Cooke, Inc., Bumble Bee Seafoods Div. (CA9 Wash) 852 F2d 493, 1989 AMC 236 (applying Cal law); TIE Communications, Inc. v Kopp, 218 Conn 281, 589 A2d 329, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1992 Conn Super LEXIS 2421, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 599, summary judgment den (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 3166; Florida Capital Corp. v Robert J. Bissett Constr., Inc. (Fla App D2) 167 So 2d 595, cert den (Fla) 176 So 2d 511; Pounds v Hospital Authority of Gwinnett County, 191 Ga App 689, 382 SE2d 602, appeal after remand 197 Ga App 598, 399 SE2d 92; Alumet v Bear Lake Grazing Co. (App) 112 Idaho 441, 732 P2d 679, appeal after remand (App) 119 Idaho 979, 812 P2d 286, review gr (Idaho) 1989 Ida LEXIS 181 and superseded on other grounds 119 Idaho 946, 812 P2d 253; Academy Chicago Publishers v Cheever (1st Dist) 200 Ill App 3d 677, 146 Ill Dec 386, 558 NE2d 349, app gr 133 Ill 2d 551, 149 Ill Dec 315, 561 NE2d 685 and revd 144 Ill 2d 24, 161 Ill Dec 335, 578 NE2d 981, 18 Media L R 2327; Davis v Kurtz (3d Dist) 165 Ill App 3d 417, 116 Ill Dec 317, 518 NE2d 1297, app den 121 Ill 2d 568, 122 Ill Dec 435, 526 NE2d 828; Schaneman v Wright, 238 Neb 309, 470 NW2d 566, 115 OGR 512; Trujillo v Gonzales, 747 P2d 915, 106 NM 620; United Aircraft Products, Inc. v Warrick (Hamilton Co) 79 Ohio App 165, 34 Ohio Ops 519, 47 Ohio L Abs 504, 72 NE2d 669, 73 USPQ 128; Columbia East Assoc. v Bi-Lo, Inc. (App) 299 SC 515, 386 SE2d 259; First Victoria Nat. Bank v Briones (Tex App Corpus Christi) 788 SW2d 632, writ den (Oct 3, 1990) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Nov 14, 1990); Sherman v Lunsford, 723 P2d 1176, 44 Wash App 858; Kuehn v Safeco Ins. Co. (App) 140 Wis 2d 620, 412 NW2d 126.

If a contract is found to be incomplete, extrinsic evidence may be used to resolve the ambiguity. Deerfield Specialty Papers, Inc. v Black Clawson Co. (SD NY) 751 F Supp 1578.

Where, on an agreement for the purchase of a home, the blank for the year had not been filled in, parol evidence was admissible in order to establish the date until which the offer remained valid. Milliman v Peterman (La App 5th Cir) 519 So 2d 238, cert den (La) 520 So 2d 752.

Evidence of a consistent additional term is admissible to supplement an integrated agreement unless the court finds that the agreement was completely integrated. An agreement is not completely integrated if the writing omits a consistent additional agreed term which is (a) agreed to for separate consideration, or (b) such a term as in the circumstances might naturally be omitted from the writing. Restatement 2d, Contracts § 216.

Generally, as to the admissibility of parol evidence to resolve an ambiguity in a written instrument, see § 1134.

Footnote 82. Masterson v Sine, 68 Cal 2d 222, 65 Cal Rptr 545, 436 P2d 561; Roudebush Realty Co. v Toby (Montgomery Co) 99 Ohio App 524, 59 Ohio Ops 421, 135 NE2d 270; Miller v Vaughn & Taylor Constr. Co. (Tex Civ App Fort Worth) 345 SW2d 852, writ ref n r e (Jul 19, 1961) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Oct 3, 1961), error ref n r e;

High Knob, Inc. v Allen, 205 Va 503, 138 SE2d 49; Buyken v Ertner, 33 Wash 2d 334, 205 P2d 628; Scarne's Challenge, Inc. v M. D. Orum Co., 267 Wis 134, 64 NW2d 836; North Am. Uranium v Johnston, 77 Wyo 332, 316 P2d 325.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence on the preliminary question whether or not the written instrument contains the entire contract, see §§ 1117, 1118.

Footnote 83. Deerfield Specialty Papers, Inc. v Black Clawson Co. (SD NY) 751 F Supp 1578; Hulse v Jullard Fancy Foods Co., 61 Cal 2d 571, 39 Cal Rptr 529, 394 P2d 65; Academy Chicago Publishers v Cheever (1st Dist) 200 Ill App 3d 677, 146 Ill Dec 386, 558 NE2d 349, app gr 133 Ill 2d 551, 149 Ill Dec 315, 561 NE2d 685 and revd on other grounds 144 Ill 2d 24, 161 Ill Dec 335, 578 NE2d 981, 18 Media L R 2327; Brazil v Dupree, 197 Or 590, 254 P2d 1041; Valente v Shuman & Richt, P.C., 72 NY2d 805, 532 NYS2d 755, 528 NE2d 1228; Buyken v Ertner, 33 Wash 2d 334, 205 P2d 628; Sherman v Lunsford, 723 P2d 1176, 44 Wash App 858; Kuehn v Safeco Ins. Co. (App) 140 Wis 2d 620, 412 NW2d 126.

Extrinsic evidence is inadmissible if it is inconsistent with or varies the terms, tenor, or contents of the partial integration. Miller v Vaughn & Taylor Constr. Co. (Tex Civ App Fort Worth) 345 SW2d 852, writ ref n r e (Jul 19, 1961) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Oct 3, 1961), error ref n r e.

Footnote 84. 72 Am Jur 2d, Statute of Frauds § 296.

Footnote 85. Gatins v NCR Corp., 180 Ga App 595, 349 SE2d 818, 106 CCH LC ¶ 55756.

As to use of parol evidence to establish the completeness of a memorandum for purposes of satisfying the statute of frauds, see 72 Am Jur 2d, Statute of Frauds § 296.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to explain ambiguities in a written agreement, generally, see §§ 1134 et seq.

§ 1117 Determining whether writing constitutes partial integration

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the doctrine of partial integration, in order for parol evidence to be admissible to complete a writing, 86 it must first be shown that the writing in question is incomplete in that part of the agreement of the parties has not been reduced to writing; whether a writing is complete may be ascertained in the light of its subject matter, purpose, and circumstances of execution as demonstrated by parol evidence. 87 In some jurisdictions, there is a presumption that in the absence of an averment that there was an omission or mistake made in reducing the agreement to writing, a contract which has been reduced to writing embodies the final and entire agreement of the parties, and where the written contract appears, upon inspection, to be complete, the court may not resort to parol evidence to ascertain whether the written contract embodies the entire agreement.

Where the writing contains an integration or merger clause—a recital that the writing contains the entire agreement between the parties and that all prior negotiations and agreements are merged therein, and that all additions to or alterations or changes in the contract must be in writing and signed by both parties—the parol or extrinsic evidence rule is particularly applicable. 89

Footnotes

Footnote 86. § 1116.

Footnote 87. Banque Paribas v Dana (DC Conn) 755 F Supp 523, affd without op (CA2 Conn) 940 F2d 649; Brown v Financial Service Corp., International (CA5 Fla) 489 F2d 144; Clark v United States (CA9 Alaska) 341 F2d 691, 65-1 USTC ¶ 9220, 15 AFTR 2d 313; Shelton Yacht & Cabana Club, Inc. v Suto, 150 Conn 251, 188 A2d 493; Valley Bank v Christensen, 808 P2d 415, 119 Idaho 496; Spitz v Brickhouse (1st Dist) 3 Ill App 2d 536, 123 NE2d 117, 49 ALR2d 673; Young v Cedar County Work Activity Center, Inc. (Iowa) 418 NW2d 844; Guilbeau v C & D Reprographics-Lafayette, Inc. (La App 3d Cir) 568 So 2d 206, cert den (La) 571 So 2d 653; Ryder v Williams, 29 Mass App 146, 558 NE2d 1134; Schmude Oil Co. v Omar Operating Co., 184 Mich App 574, 458 NW2d 659, 111 OGR 275, app den 437 Mich 879; Hayes v Hayes, 394 SE2d 675, 100 NC App 138; Baldus v Mattern (ND) 93 NW2d 144; State Nat. Bank v Academia, Inc. (Tex App Corpus Christi) 802 SW2d 282, 14 UCCRS2d 662, reh overr (Tex App Corpus Christi) 1991 Tex App LEXIS 79 and writ den (Jun 5, 1991) and rehg of writ of error overr (Sep 5, 1991) (applying Ill law); Buyken v Ertner, 33 Wash 2d 334, 205 P2d 628.

A veterinary practice purchase option agreement as presented in evidence was a partially integrated agreement for purposes of the Virginia parol evidence rule, where the agreement defined the veterinary practice that was subject to the purchase option to include assets with the exception of items listed on a named exhibit that was not introduced into evidence; thus, the option agreement as presented as evidence was on its face an incomplete document. In re Alterman (BC ED Va) 127 BR 356, 3 Fourth Cir & Dist Col Bankr Ct Rep 396.

Contracts without cost limitations are incomplete and parol testimony is admissible to supply the omission. Williams Engineering, Inc. v Goodyear (La) 496 So 2d 1012.

The degree to which it is necessary, if at all, to go outside the writing in particular case and resort to parol evidence to ascertain the extent to which the writing is an integration of the oral stipulations of the parties rests in the sound discretion of the trial court; under no circumstances, however, is it permissible to prove the contract incomplete by going outside the writing and proving that there was an oral, noncollateral stipulation entered into which was not contained in the written agreement. Jimmerson v Troy Seed Co., 236 Minn 395, 53 NW2d 273.

Footnote 88. Jack H. Brown & Co. v Toys "R" Us, Inc. (CA5 Tex) 906 F2d 169 (applying Tex law); Piercy v Citibank N. A., 101 Misc 2d 302, 424 NYS2d 76; Faithful v Gardner (Tenn App) 799 SW2d 232; First Nat'l Bank v Clark, 181 W Va 494, 383 SE2d 298 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Coonrod v Clark, 189 W Va 669, 434 SE2d 29); Chmill v Friendly Ford-Mercury of Janesville, Inc. (App) 154 Wis 2d 407, 453 NW2d 197.

In an action by a purchaser against a seller for specific performance of five written documents providing for the sale of realty, where there was a disagreement whether a particular writing was in fact a complete and accurate integration of the contract, parol evidence was admissible to establish that the parties intended one integrated package transaction for the sale of seven contiguous parcels of real estate, and not separate agreements for the sale of the parcels. Burgan v Pines Co. of Georgia, Ltd. (Fla App D1) 382 So 2d 1295.

In an action by bank depositors who sought to make a premature withdrawal of time deposit funds, the trial court erred in estopping the bank from asserting the contract between itself and the depositors and in admitting parol evidence with respect to a policy of the bank permitting premature withdrawal provided penalties were paid where the contract was enforceable, where the fair meaning of the contract terms required the depositors to obtain a bank's permission to any premature withdrawal of funds, and where all necessary terms of performance were stated in the contract itself. Le Bovici v Jamaica Sav. Bank (2d Dept) 81 App Div 2d 150, 439 NYS2d 688, affd 56 NY2d 522, 449 NYS2d 954, 434 NE2d 1332.

Footnote 89. § 1095.

§ 1118 --Mention of item or element as test of integration

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

One test used to determine whether a written instrument has been adopted by the parties as a complete and exclusive statement of the terms of the agreement is whether the particular matter sought to be established by the alleged extrinsic negotiation is fully covered in the contract; if it is, then the contract is integrated and parol evidence with respect to a collateral matter is not admissible. 90 In addition, where the particular subject of the alleged extrinsic negotiation is mentioned or dealt with in the written contract, such contract will be presumed to contain the entire agreement with regard to that subject. 91 On the other hand, it is presumed that the parties did not intend the writing to embody an element of their negotiations which is not mentioned in the writing and on which the law makes no implication. 92 Where the matter is covered by an implication of law, such as an implication that a contract shall be performed within a reasonable time where the matter is not mentioned in the writing, parol evidence of an agreement at variance with the implication is not admissible. 93

The fact that a written contract, apparently complete, is silent on a particular point does not of itself make parol evidence on that point admissible. 94 The existence of a separate oral agreement as to any matter on which a written contract is silent, and which is not inconsistent with its terms, may be proved by parol if under the circumstances of the particular case it may properly be inferred that the parties did not intend the written paper to be a complete and final statement of the whole of the transaction between them.

Footnotes

Footnote 90. Associated Catalog Merchandisers, Inc. v Chagnon, 210 Conn 734, 557 A2d 525, later proceeding 212 Conn 322, 561 A2d 436; Bryan v St. Andrews Bay Community Hotel Corp., 99 Fla 132, 126 So 142.

Footnote 91. Giant Food Stores, Inc. v Marketplace Communications Corp. (MD Pa) 717 F Supp 1071; Associated Catalog Merchandisers, Inc. v Chagnon, 210 Conn 734, 557 A2d 525, later proceeding 212 Conn 322, 561 A2d 436; Greenwald v Food Fair Stores Corp. (Fla App D3) 100 So 2d 200; Loveland v Epstein Drug Co., 227 Mass 311, 116 NE 570.

In an action for specific performance of an option agreement to convey interests in real estate, the admission of parol testimony concerning purchase price and expiration date was not permissible under the partial integration rule, since those terms were included in the parties' written agreement. Craig v Kessing, 297 NC 32, 253 SE2d 264.

Footnote 92. Shelton Yacht & Cabana Club, Inc. v Suto, 150 Conn 251, 188 A2d 493; Jackson v Parker, 153 Fla 622, 15 So 2d 451.

Footnote 93. Marcus & Co. v K. L. G. Baking Co., 122 NJL 202, 3 A2d 627.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to vary or contradict what the law implies from a written agreement, generally, see § 1094.

Footnote 94. Seitz v Brewers' Refrigerating Machine Co., 141 US 510, 35 L Ed 837, 12 S Ct 46.

Footnote 95. §§ 1122 et seq.

§ 1119 --Questions for court and jury

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Whether a writing is a complete expression of the agreement of the parties and was intended by them as such is a question for the court to determine. 96 Where the issue is fairly raised by the evidence, the court must preliminarily and initially determine whether the writing in question was intended to, and does, constitute a complete integration of the agreement between the parties. 97 If the judge decides that the transaction was completely covered by the writing, he or she does not decide that the negotiations, of which evidence is excluded, did not take place, but merely that if they did take place they are nevertheless legally immaterial; conversely, if the judge decides that the transaction was not completely covered by the writing, he or she does not decide that the negotiations did take place, but merely that if they did they are legally effective. 98 The judge then leaves to the jury the determination of fact as to whether the negotiations actually took place. 99

Footnotes

Footnote 96. Walley v Bay Petroleum Corp. (CA5 Miss) 312 F2d 540; Clark v United States (CA9 Alaska) 341 F2d 691, 65-1 USTC ¶ 9220, 15 AFTR 2d 313; Slivinsky v Watkins-Johnson Co. (6th Dist) 221 Cal App 3d 799, 270 Cal Rptr 585, 5 BNA IER Cas 832; McNeill & Associates, Inc. v ITT Life Ins. Corp. (Minn App) 446 NW2d 181; Brazil v Dupree, 197 Or 590, 254 P2d 1041; Barber v Rochester, 52 Wash 2d 691, 328 P2d 711; Milwaukee Cold Storage Co. v York Corp., 3 Wis 2d 13, 87 NW2d 505.

Restatement 2d, Contracts § 210(3).

Footnote 97. Walley v Bay Petroleum Corp. (CA5 Miss) 312 F2d 540.

Footnote 98. Barber v Rochester, 52 Wash 2d 691, 328 P2d 711.

Footnote 99. Barber v Rochester, 52 Wash 2d 691, 328 P2d 711.

§ 1120 Supplying omissions

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence is generally admissible where it does not tend to contradict the terms of a contract or other instrument, 1 but is admitted in order to supply an omission. 2 Where the written contract is ambiguous, uncertain, obscure, or doubtful—that is, where it is obvious that the written contract does not contain the entire agreement of the parties—parol evidence as to the circumstances surrounding the parties at and prior to the execution of the contract, and the oral agreements made at the time of its execution, are admissible in order to ascertain the true intention of the parties, provided that such agreements do not contradict the terms of the written instrument. 3 However, an entire absence of description of the property in a contract to purchase real property cannot be supplied by parol evidence. 4

Omissions in the records of the proceedings of legislative and administrative bodies may be supplied by parol evidence where the applicable statutes do not make such records the only evidence of such proceedings, nor render invalid their unrecorded proceedings, as long as such testimony does not contradict the records. 5

Footnotes

Footnote 1. § 1092.

Footnote 2. TIE Communications, Inc. v Kopp, 218 Conn 281, 589 A2d 329, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1992 Conn Super LEXIS 2421, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 599, summary judgment den (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 3166; Valente v Shuman & Richt, P.C., 72 NY2d 805, 532 NYS2d 755, 528 NE2d 1228; Spitz v Brickhouse (1st Dist) 3 Ill App 2d 536, 123 NE2d 117, 49 ALR2d 673; Caldwell v United Presbyterian Church (CP) 20 Ohio Ops 2d 364, 88 Ohio L Abs 323, 180 NE2d 638; Dearing v Brush Creek Coal Co., 182 Tenn 302, 186 SW2d 329.

In an action involving a contract silent as to its duration, parol evidence as to the circumstances surrounding the execution of the contract, the situation of the parties, the objects they apparently had in view, and the nature of the subject matter of the agreement, is admissible to show whether the agreement was to endure for a reasonable time or for some particular period. Rosenfeld v Rosenfeld, 390 Pa 39, 133 A2d 829, 66 ALR2d 1013.

As to parol evidence to supply omissions in the names of the parties, see § 1124.

Footnote 3. Caldwell v United Presbyterian Church (CP) 20 Ohio Ops 2d 364, 88 Ohio L Abs 323, 180 NE2d 638; Columbia East Assoc. v Bi-Lo, Inc. (App) 299 SC 515, 386 SE2d 259.

Where a written settlement agreement was silent as to any dismissal of the underlying claims, either with or without prejudice, extrinsic evidence was admissible to construe the agreement. Thompson v United States Dept. of Labor (CA9) 885 F2d 551.

An architect's written contract being silent as to the maximum cost of the house to be designed, parol evidence is admissible to supply the omission. Spitz v Brickhouse (1st Dist) 3 Ill App 2d 536, 123 NE2d 117, 49 ALR2d 673.

As to the admission of parol evidence to clarify ambiguities, generally, see §§ 1134 et seq.

Footnote 4. 77 Am Jur 2d, Vendor and Purchaser § 8.

Footnote 5. Gans v Cookson Hills Electric Cooperative, Inc. (Okla) 288 P2d 707.

Where the minutes of a board of education failed to reflect a vote of the board regarding the superintendent's personnel recommendations, state law provided that parol evidence was admissible in order to correct such an inadvertent omission where there was no dispute as to the outcome of the vote and the fact that it had been taken. Bundren v Peters (ED Tenn) 732 F Supp 1486.

As to the use of parol evidence to supply omissions in written instruments, generally, see § 1120.

(3). Prior or Contemporaneous Collateral Agreements [1121-1123]

§ 1121 Generally

An exception to the parol evidence rule, similar in many respects to the doctrine of partial integration, 6 is known as the "doctrine of collateral contract"; 7 under this doctrine, a prior or contemporaneous oral contract which is independent of, collateral to, and not inconsistent with, the written contract, may be proved by parol evidence. 8 Before evidence of an extrinsic oral agreement is received to vary the terms of a written contract, at least three conditions must exist: (1) the agreement must be collateral in form; (2) it must not contradict the express or implied provisions of the written contract; and (3) it must be one that parties would not ordinarily be expected to embody in the writing—that is, it must not be so clearly connected with the principal transaction as to be part and parcel of it. 9 The admission of such evidence must not alter the scope and meaning of the written instrument. 10

§ 1121 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Merk v. Jewel Food Stores: The parol evidence rule applied to collective bargaining agreements – a trend toward more formality in the name of national labor policy? 10 Hofstra Lab LJ 719 (1993).

Footnotes

Footnote 6. § 1116.

Footnote 7. Markoff v Kreiner, 180 Md 150, 23 A2d 19; High Knob, Inc. v Allen, 205 Va 503, 138 SE2d 49; Buyken v Ertner, 33 Wash 2d 334, 205 P2d 628.

Footnote 8. Brennan v Carvel Corp. (CA1 Mass) 929 F2d 801; Stokes v Georgia-Pacific Corp. (CA5 La) 894 F2d 764, reh den (CA5) 1990 US App LEXIS 4453; Dayvault v Baruch Oil Corp. (CA10 Wyo) 231 F2d 413, 6 OGR 507; Bowman v Santa Clara County (1st Dist) 153 Cal App 2d 707, 315 P2d 67; TIE Communications, Inc. v Kopp, 218 Conn 281, 589 A2d 329, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1992 Conn Super LEXIS 2421, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 599, summary judgment den (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 3166; B. F. Goodrich Co. v Brooks (Fla App D2) 113 So 2d 593; Langenback v Mays, 205 Ga 706, 54 SE2d 401, 11 ALR2d 1221; In re Boller's Estate, 173 Kan 30, 244 P2d 678; Whaley v White (La App 2d Cir) 7 So 2d 751; National Old Line Ins. Co. v Brown, 107 NM 482, 760 P2d 775; Greenfield v Liberty Const. Corp. (Sup) 81 NYS2d 550; GRW Enterprises, Inc. v Davis (Tenn App) 797 SW2d 606, reh den (Tenn App) 1990 Tenn App LEXIS 345 and remanded (Tenn App) 1992 Tenn App LEXIS 658; Hubacek v Ennis State Bank, 159 Tex 166, 317 SW2d 30, reh'g of cause overr (Nov 12, 1958) and on remand (Tex Civ App Waco) 322 SW2d 409, writ dism w o j 159 Tex 576, 325 SW2d 124, reh'g of writ of error overr (Jul 8, 1959); Arkansas Oak Flooring Co. v Mixon (Tex Civ App Texarkana) 369 SW2d 804; Gasperson v Morris (Tex Civ App Fort Worth) 362 SW2d 392, writ ref n r e (Feb 20, 1963), error ref n r e; Garrett v Ellison, 93 Utah 184, 72 P2d 449, 129 ALR 666; High Knob, Inc. v Allen, 205 Va 503, 138 SE2d 49; Buyken v Ertner, 33 Wash 2d 334, 205

Agreements and negotiations prior to or contemporaneous with the adoption of a writing are admissible in evidence to establish (a) that the writing is or is not an integrated agreement; (b) that the integrated agreement, if any, is completely or partially integrated; (c) the meaning of the writing, whether or not integrated; (d) illegality, fraud, duress, mistake, lack of consideration, or other invalidating cause; (e) ground for granting or denying rescission, reformation, specific performance, or other remedy. Restatement 2d, Contracts § 214.

The presumption as to the place of payment of a debt under a contract of sale which is silent on the matter is not conclusive, but is subject to rebuttal by evidence of a contemporaneous oral agreement wholly consistent with the terms of the written agreement. American Industrial Sales Corp. v Airscope, Inc., 44 Cal 2d 393, 282 P2d 504, 49 ALR2d 1344.

Annotation: Parol evidence rule as applicable to agreement not to engage in competition with a business sold, 11 ALR2d 1227 § 6.

Footnote 9. United States v Triple A Machine Shop, Inc. (CA9 Cal) 857 F2d 579, 35 CCF ¶ 75558 (not followed on other grounds by Hedberg (ASBCA) 90-1 BCA ¶ 22577) and (not followed on other grounds by Jefferson Bank & Trust (GSBCA) 90-3 BCA ¶ 23133); Namad v Salomon, Inc. (1st Dept) 147 App Div 2d 385, 537 NYS2d 807, affd 74 NY2d 751, 545 NYS2d 79, 543 NE2d 722; O'Meara v Pritchett, 97 Or App 329, 776 P2d 866, review den 308 Or 465, 781 P2d 1214 and (criticized on other grounds by Wescold, Inc. v Logan Int'l, 120 Or App 512, 852 P2d 960); Smith v McClam, 289 SC 452, 346 SE2d 720.

Proof of an oral agreement under which defendant distiller of alcoholic beverages agreed, contemporaneously, with written contract under which it purchased corporate assets of wholesale liquor distributorship, to relocate 50 percent owners of the distributorship in a new distributorship of their own in a different city, within a reasonable time, was not barred by the parol evidence rule, where (1) it was expectable that an agreement such as one to obtain a new distributorship for certain persons, some of whom were not even parties to the written contract, would not necessarily be integrated into an instrument for the sale of corporate assets; (2) the distiller's representative, who entered into the oral agreement, was an old friend of the promisee, making it not surprising that a handshake would have been thought sufficient; (3) the distiller's representatives who negotiated the sale of corporate assets were different from the person who negotiated the relocation agreement; (4) the written agreement did not contain the customary integration clause; (5) and the oral agreement did not vary or contradict the term of the written agreement. Lee v Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc. (CA2 NY) 552 F2d 447, appeal after remand (CA2 NY) 592 F2d 39, 26 FR Serv 2d 1086.

In order for parol evidence of a collateral oral agreement to be admissible, the oral agreement must relate to a fact or matter which does not interfere with or contradict the clear terms of the written contract, or it must relate to a particular matter as to which the written instrument is silent, although it may relate to the same general subject matter. Dayvault v Baruch Oil Corp. (CA10 Wyo) 231 F2d 413, 6 OGR 507; Oklahoma Natural Gas Corp. v Douglas, 170 Okla 284, 39 P2d 578, 101 ALR 144; Schmude Oil Co. v Omar Operating Co., 184 Mich App 574, 458 NW2d 659, 111 OGR 275, app den 437

Evidence of a parol agreement, made at the time of the execution of the note, that the maker should have the right to set off an account then existing in his or her favor, is not a variance from the contract embodied in the note; an agreement to concede a credit or a counterclaim, as offsetting the obligation of the instrument, would be a separate transaction, not dealt with in the instrument, and therefore valid. B. F. Goodrich Co. v Brooks (Fla App D2) 113 So 2d 593.

Footnote 10. McAleer v United States, 150 US 424, 37 L Ed 1130, 14 S Ct 160; Walker v Horne (DC NC) 149 F Supp 457; Chase Manhattan Bank v Rood (CA11 Fla) 698 F2d 435, reh den (CA11 Fla) 703 F2d 582; Parker v Meneley, 106 Cal App 2d 391, 235 P2d 101; Cooper v Vaughan, 81 Ga App 330, 58 SE2d 453; Markoff v Kreiner, 180 Md 150, 23 A2d 19; Gibson County v Fourth & First Nat. Bank, 20 Tenn App 168, 96 SW2d 184; Sears, Roebuck & Co. v Nicholas, 2 Wash 2d 128, 97 P2d 633.

§ 1122 Determination of collateral or separate character of oral agreement

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Whether an alleged oral agreement is separate and distinct from or collateral to a written agreement, so that parol evidence of such an agreement is admissible, depends upon how closely the oral agreement is bound to the written agreement; if the oral agreement is one which, considering the circumstances of the parties, the subject matter, and the nature of the writing, would ordinarily have been embodied in the written instrument, then parol evidence of the oral agreement should be rejected. 11 On the other hand, if the judge concludes that the alleged oral agreement is such an agreement as might normally be made a separate agreement by parties situated as were the parties to the written contract, the judge will allow parol evidence of the agreement to go to the jury. 12 Conversely, where the oral agreement rests upon the same consideration as the written agreement, it is not a distinct collateral agreement, and parol evidence is not admissible to establish such oral agreement. 13

Footnotes

Footnote 11. Lee v Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc. (CA2 NY) 552 F2d 447, appeal after remand (CA2 NY) 592 F2d 39, 26 FR Serv 2d 1086; Warren v Pulley, 193 Okla 88, 141 P2d 288; Arkansas Oak Flooring Co. v Mixon (Tex Civ App Texarkana) 369 SW2d 804.

In the case of a written instrument which prima facie purports to embody the complete obligations of the parties, parol evidence to show a collateral agreement may be admitted only where the circumstances attending the execution of the instrument are such as to show that the parties did not intend it to be a complete and final statement of the whole transaction. Langley v Pacific Gas & Electric Co., 41 Cal 2d 655, 262 P2d 846.

If the prior or contemporaneous oral agreement and the written agreement relate to the same subject matter and are so interrelated that both would be executed at the same time and in the same contract, the scope of the subsidiary contract must be taken to be covered by the writing. O'Brien v O'Brien, 362 Pa 66, 66 A2d 309, 10 ALR2d 714.

Footnote 12. In re Boller's Estate, 173 Kan 30, 244 P2d 678; Arkansas Oak Flooring Co. v Mixon (Tex Civ App Texarkana) 369 SW2d 804; Sears, Roebuck & Co. v Nicholas, 2 Wash 2d 128, 97 P2d 633.

The final test is the intent of the parties, and the question as to what parties would ordinarily be expected to do under the circumstances is an important, and often a controlling, factor in determining that intent. Markoff v Kreiner, 180 Md 150, 23 A2d 19.

Footnote 13. Culver v Wilkinson, 145 US 205, 36 L Ed 676, 12 S Ct 832.

Annotation: Parol evidence rule as applicable to agreement not to engage in competition with a business sold, 11 ALR2d 1227 § 5.

§ 1123 Matters of inducement

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Some jurisdictions apply a limitation on the parol evidence rule, which provides that parol evidence of matters of inducement is admissible where it clearly shows that except for the oral stipulations, the written contract would not have been executed. 14

In other jurisdictions, parol evidence may be admitted to establish a contemporaneous oral agreement which induces the execution of a written contract, even though it may vary, change, or reform the instrument, so long as the agreement can be shown by evidence to be clear, precise, and indubitable. 15 However, there is authority for the view that parol understandings under such circumstances, although they induce the making of a written contract, are so merged in the writing that parol evidence cannot be introduced to change the contract or to show any intent different from that expressed in the instrument. 16

Footnotes

Footnote 14. Langenback v Mays, 205 Ga 706, 54 SE2d 401, 11 ALR2d 1221.

Where the purchasers of land with tourist cabins built on it, seeking an injunction and damages, alleged that as an inducement and consideration for the execution of the written contract of sale, the vendors had orally agreed that they would not thereafter compete with the purchasers in renting tourist cabins in the neighborhood immediately adjacent to the property sold and on the remaining portion of the tract of which the land conveyed was a part, such oral agreement was separate and distinct from and not inconsistent with the written contract, and parol evidence was therefore admissible to establish such agreement. Langenback v Mays, 205 Ga 706, 54 SE2d 401, 11 ALR2d 1221.

Annotation: Parol evidence rule as applicable to agreement not to engage in competition with a business sold, 11 ALR2d 1227 § 7.

Footnote 15. Chase Manhattan Bank v Rood (CA11 Fla) 698 F2d 435, reh den (CA11 Fla) 703 F2d 582, holding, in an action on a written guaranty by a bank against the guarantor, that the district court erred in admitting testimony from the guarantor regarding his conversation with a bank officer prior to the execution the written guaranty, during which the bank officer allegedly agreed to conditions which would have absolved the guarantor from liability; the testimony did not fall within the exception to the parol evidence rule which allows parol evidence to establish a contemporaneous oral agreement which induced the execution of a written contract, even though it may vary, change, or reform the instrument, since the guarantor's own self-serving testimony, unsupported by any other relevant evidence and contradicted by the testimony of the bank official, did not meet the inducement exception requirement that the agreement be shown by evidence that is clear, precise, and indubitable.

Footnote 16. National Cash Register Co. v Modern Transfer Co., 224 Pa Super 138, 302 A2d 486.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to show fraud in the inducement of a contract, see 37 Am Jur 2d, Fraud and Deceit § 452.

(4). Relationship, Identity, and Names of Parties [1124-1127]

§ 1124 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Persons with the same interest under the terms of a contract in writing which does not expressly show their relationship generally may prove by parol evidence that relationship and their responsibility as between themselves. 17 This rule is especially applicable where the issue involves the relative liability as between the parties who are the obligors on a contract; between parties jointly obligated ostensibly as principals upon a written instrument, an oral agreement in reference to who shall respond as principal and who as surety may be shown and enforced. 18 Parol evidence may also be used to show that the maker of a note is an accommodation party, if such status is not readily apparent from the text of the instrument. 19

Parol evidence may be admitted in order to identify the beneficiaries of a written agreement, but only where the description of such beneficiaries in the document is ambiguous. 20

Parol evidence is admissible even in contests between an obligor and obligee to show the true relation of the parties. 21 However, unless there is something on the face of the written instrument or in the manner of the signature to create ambiguity or uncertainty, parol evidence may not be used to rebut the presumption that the person signing the instrument is personally liable on the instrument. 22

Footnotes

Footnote 17. Davis v Davis, 128 W Va 257, 36 SE2d 417.

Extrinsic evidence may be admitted to show that joint tenants actually intended property to be held as community property. Estate of Blair (4th Dist) 199 Cal App 3d 161, 244 Cal Rptr 627, reh den (Mar 30, 1988).

For the application of this rule in the case of contests between obligors on negotiable instruments, see 12 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes § 1288.

Footnote 18. In re Jamison's Estate (Mo) 202 SW2d 879.

As to parol evidence to show the accommodation or suretyship relation of persons signing or indorsing negotiable instruments, see 12 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes §§ 1274, 1287.

Footnote 19. 12 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes § 1287.

Footnote 20. Johnson v Michigan Mut. Ins. Co., 454 NW2d 128, 183 Mich App 277; Transamerica Occidental Life Ins. Co. v Burke, 179 W Va 331, 368 SE2d 301.

Footnote 21. Holmes v Goldsmith, 147 US 150, 37 L Ed 118, 13 S Ct 288; Beardsley v Beardsley, 138 US 262, 34 L Ed 928, 11 S Ct 318; Roemhild v Jones (DC Ark) 178 F Supp 609, affd (CA8 Ark) 283 F2d 70.

Footnote 22. First Secur. Bank, N.A. v Felger (DC Utah) 658 F Supp 175; Bank of Pawnee v Joslin (4th Dist) 166 Ill App 3d 927, 118 Ill Dec 484, 521 NE2d 1177, app den 122 Ill 2d 569, 125 Ill Dec 210, 530 NE2d 238; Wang v Wang (SD) 393 NW2d 771, 2 UCCRS2d 972, appeal after remand (SD) 440 NW2d 740, 8 UCCRS2d 1262, later proceeding (SD) 447 NW2d 519, 10 UCCRS2d 890.

Once the identity of a person named in a contract as buyer is determined, that individual may not escape liability on the ground that he or she was acting as agent for another. Yellow Mfg. Acceptance Corp. v Britz, 8 Wis 2d 666, 100 NW2d 325, 80 ALR2d 1134.

§ 1125 Identification as signing in personal or representative capacity

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where it is uncertain on the face of an instrument whether a person signing the instrument intended to sign in an individual or a representative capacity, parol evidence is admissible to explain the latent ambiguity and to aid in the interpretation of the instrument. 23 An agent's personal liability on contracts executed for his or her principal depends mainly upon the manner in which the agent executed the instrument and upon the agent's intent to be bound; in cases where the instrument is ambiguous in this regard, parol evidence as to the intention of the parties may be introduced. 24 However, if the instrument is not ambiguous or if the agent is attempting, in order to relieve himself or herself of liability, to show, despite the terms of the instrument in which he or she appears as a principal, that he or she was executing the instrument for an undisclosed principal, parol evidence is not admissible. 25

Parol evidence is generally admissible for the purpose of correcting a misnomer in the written instrument, provided the identity of the person named by parol with the person intended to be named by the parties to the instrument is apparent. 26

Footnotes

Footnote 23. Jones v New York Guaranty & Indem. Co., 101 US 622, 11 Otto 622, 25 L Ed 1030; In re Kam Kuo Seafood Corp. (BC SD NY) 76 BR 297, 4 UCCRS2d 579, affd (SD NY) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 2584 (corporate officers); United Packinghouse Workers v Maurer-Neuer, Inc. (CA10 Kan) 272 F2d 647, 45 BNA LRRM 2135, 38 CCH LC P 65974, cert den 362 US 904, 4 L Ed 2d 555, 80 S Ct 611, 45 BNA LRRM 2832; Green Springs Assoc., Ltd. v Green Springs Village, Ltd. (Ala) 577 So 2d 872 (promoter of limited partnership); Wyandot, Inc. v Gracey Street Popcorn Co., 208 Conn 248, 544 A2d 180, 6 UCCRS2d 482 (president of corporation); 84 Lumber Co. v Denni Constr. Co. (5th Dist) 212 Ill App 3d 441, 156 Ill Dec 644, 571 NE2d 231 (president and secretary of corporation); American Bank & Trust Co. v Wetland Workover, Inc. (La App 4th Cir) 523 So 2d 942, cert den (La) 531 So 2d 282 and cert den (La) 531 So 2d 283; Accounts Management Corp. v Lyman Ranch, 230 Mont 35, 748 P2d 919, 5 UCCRS2d 1024; Murphy v Federal Deposit Ins. Corp., 787 P2d 370, 106 Nev 26; Fidelity Union Bank v United Plastics Corp., 218 NJ Super 381, 527 A2d 938, 4 UCCRS2d 537; Bankers Trust Co. v Stahl (1st Dept) 145 App Div 2d 311, 534 NYS2d 979, app dismd without op 73 NY2d 872, 537 NYS2d 498, 534 NE2d 336; Wise v Duker (Summit Co) 57 Ohio App 3d 62, 566 NE2d 1248; United American Bank v First Citizens Nat. Bank (Tenn App) 764 SW2d 555, 8 UCCRS2d 1102; Coveau v Durand (App) 147 Wis 2d 203, 432 NW2d 662, 8 UCCRS2d 1107.

In an action by a bank to recover on a note executed by a corporation and allegedly personally guaranteed by the president of the corporation and his wife, parol evidence was admissible to determine whether the president of the corporation had executed the guarantee on the reverse side of the note as president or individually where an ambiguity appeared in the addition of the word "president" after his signature. Bank of Miami v Armenteros (Fla App D3) 382 So 2d 1336.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to clarify ambiguities, generally, see §§ 1134 et seq.

Annotation: Admissibility of parol evidence to show whether guaranty of corporation's obligation was signed in officer's representative or individual capacity, 70 ALR3d 1276.

Footnote 24. 3 Am Jur 2d, Agency § 370.

Footnote 25. 3 Am Jur 2d, Agency § 370.

Footnote 26. Southern Cotton Oil Co. v Duskin, 92 Ga App 288, 88 SE2d 421.

§ 1126 Identity of persons intended to be designated in written instrument

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence is generally admissible to identify the person or persons intended to be designated by the names used in contracts or instruments where there is some ambiguity or uncertainty in that respect. 27 In particular, this principle has been applied where two persons with the same name are mentioned in the written instrument; 28 where an assumed, fictitious, trade, or business name, 29 or a partnership or association name, 30 is used in a contract; or where the contract is signed by initials only. 31

Footnotes

Footnote 27. Norton v Larney, 266 US 511, 69 L Ed 413, 45 S Ct 145; John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Menon (DC Ark) 97 F Supp 320; Greenwood v Mooradian (2nd Dist) 137 Cal App 2d 532, 290 P2d 955; Cotton v Iowa Mut. Liability Ins. Co. (Mo App) 260 SW2d 43; E. Errett Smith, Inc. v Gibson Art Co., 15 Misc 2d 504, 181 NYS2d 707; Treadway v Tewksbury (App, Franklin Co) 38 Ohio L Abs 220, 49 NE2d 955; Southern Surety Co. v Bus Union Station (Tex Civ App) 23 SW2d 484, writ diss; Lynch v Johnson, 196 Va 516, 84 SE2d 419.

A contract attached to a petition could show that a signature was the authorized signature though it was not prefixed by the plaintiff's name, and that the agreement undertaken was on behalf of the principal and not of the signer individually. National Recording Corp. v Bagley Electric Co., 110 Ga App 219, 138 SE2d 198.

Where a writing containing a promise to leave property by will was addressed to "Nephew Olaf" and was signed "your Uncle (father's brother) Ole," that the writing did not on its face identify the parties to the writing, and extrinsic evidence was admissible to show what the particular parties intended. In re Tveekrem's Estate, 169 Wash 468, 14 P2d 3.

As to identification by extrinsic evidence of parties named in a deed, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds §§ 40, 41.

As to parol evidence to identify beneficiaries of an insurance policy, see 44 Am Jur 2d, Insurance § 2002.

Annotation: Admissibility of extrinsic evidence to identify person or persons intended to be designated by the name in which a contract is made, 80 ALR2d 1137 §§ 3 et seq.

Footnote 28. Norton v Larney, 266 US 511, 69 L Ed 413, 45 S Ct 145; Snipes v Douglass (Dist Col App) 319 A2d 326 (by implication).

In an action to recover the balance due upon a conditional sales contract against one who signed the contract in his own name, parol testimony that the defendant's son, having an identical name, was the purchaser and conducted all the negotiations for the purchase and due to his necessary absence, gave a power of attorney to his father to sign the contract for him, was admissible in evidence to prove the identity of the person the parties intended to name as buyer. Yellow Mfg. Acceptance Corp. v Britz, 8 Wis 2d 666, 100 NW2d 325, 80 ALR2d 1134.

Annotation: 80 ALR2d 1137 §§ 3[b], 5[a], 11[a].

Footnote 29. Bibb v Allen, 149 US 481, 37 L Ed 819, 13 S Ct 950; West v Federal Deposit Ins. Corp., 149 Ga App 342, 254 SE2d 392, 26 UCCRS 1192, affd 244 Ga 396, 260 SE2d 89, 27 UCCRS 1335; Defee v I. S. Berlin Press, Inc., 115 Ga App 206, 154 SE2d 452; M & J Diesel Locomotive Filter Corp. v Nettleton (2d Dist) 56 Ill App 2d 146, 205 NE2d 659.

In an action for damages for breach of contract, parol evidence was admissible to show that the defendant transportation company was the real party in interest to a contract in which another transportation company was the designated party, where the defendant at the time of making the contract was negotiating to buy the company designated in the contract. Martin v Bos Lines, Inc., 205 Kan 532, 470 P2d 737.

In an action by a university against a labor union to recover on a pledge to the "Flint-Goodridge Hospital Expansion Fund," such hospital being operated by the plaintiff, parol evidence would be admissible to show what was meant by the named promisee or payee of the pledge. Dillard University v International Longshoremen's Asso. (La App 4th Cir) 144 So 2d 710, appeal after remand (La App 4th Cir) 169 So 2d 221 and app den 247 La 342, 170 So 2d 864.

In an action upon a contract for the sale of goods signed "Molen Bros." by Tom Sowell, the plaintiff was entitled to introduce parol evidence to establish its contention that the signature "Molen Bros." was intended to bind the defendants individually, and the defendants were entitled to introduce parol evidence to support their contention that the "Molen Bros." which appeared on the contract was an abbreviation of the name of a corporation, whose real name was Molen Brothers Dry Goods Co., and of which defendants were stockholders, officers, and directors, and that the contract was the contract of the corporation. Butterick Co. v Molen, 192 Okla 602, 138 P2d 89.

Annotation: 80 ALR2d 1137 §§ 3[c], 12, 14[b].

Footnote 30. Southern Surety Co. v Bus Union Station (Tex Civ App) 23 SW2d 484, writ diss (partnership name).

A partnership may adopt the name of only one of its partners in its firm name and it may be competent to establish by parol proof that a contract in that name is that of the partnership. Henry De Cicco & Co. v Drucker (1st Dist) 101 Ill App 2d 340, 243 NE2d 456.

Annotation: 80 ALR2d 1137 §§ 3[d], 7, 13[a], 14[c].

Footnote 31. Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v Goddard, 55 US 446, 14 How 446, 14 L Ed 493.

§ 1127 Persons not named as party in written contract

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A person who is not named in, or bound by, the terms of a written contract cannot be rendered liable on it by parol evidence of an intention that he or she should be bound. 32 Authority also exists for the view that if the body of a contract purports to set out the names of the parties to the contract, and a person not named in such contract signs the contract but there is nothing to indicate that such person signed as a party, parol evidence will not be admitted to show that such person intended to become a party by signing. 33 However, there is authority to the contrary. 34

Footnotes

Footnote 32. Oxford Commercial Corp. v Landau, 12 NY2d 362, 239 NYS2d 865, 190 NE2d 230, 13 ALR3d 309 (holding that in the case of a fully integrated agreement, where parol evidence is offered to vary its terms, the parol evidence rule operates to protect all whose rights depend upon the instrument even though they were not parties to it).

Footnote 33. Nutrena Mills, Inc. v Earle, 14 Wis 2d 462, 111 NW2d 491, 94 ALR2d 686 (ovrld on other grounds by St. Regis Apartment Corp. v Sweitzer, 32 Wis 2d 426, 145 NW2d 711).

The rule that a written instrument which purports on its face to be made by persons named therein is not an instrument of a person not named therein but whose signature appears on the instrument, and that parol testimony is not admissible to show his or her intention to be bound, applied to a franchise agreement. However, where the lessees contended that their names did not appear in the lease at the time of signature, did not object to parol testimony relating the capacity and the intent with which they placed their signature thereon, such contention became the issue and the parol evidence rule was abrogated. Mersereau v Whitesburg Center, Inc., 47 Ala App 146, 251 So 2d 765.

Annotation: Person who signs contract but is not named in body thereof as party to contract and liable thereunder, 94 ALR2d 691 § 8[b].

Footnote 34. McCollum v Steitz (5th Dist) 261 Cal App 2d 76, 67 Cal Rptr 703, 5 UCCRS 375; Lassiter v Rotogravure Committee, Inc. (Tex App Dallas) 727 SW2d 8, writ ref n r e (Jul 15, 1987) and reh of writ of error overr (Sep 16, 1987) (parol evidence was admissible to show that the defendant's signature on a contract was made in his capacity as a corporate president, where such corporation was named as a principal in the contract but did not show that the defendant signed in his representative capacity);

In an action brought by a real estate broker to collect sales commissions due under contracts, the court, rejecting the defendants' argument that although they had signed the contracts in question, they were not liable for the commissions because they were not named as parties in the contracts, held that the fact that the defendants signed the contract created an ambiguity that could be explained by other evidence. Woodcock v Udell (Super) 48 Del 69, 97 A2d 878.

Annotation: 94 ALR2d 691 § 8[a].

(5). Consideration [1128, 1129]

§ 1128 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where the recital of consideration is an essential element of the contract, parol evidence is inadmissible to vary or contradict the consideration stated. 35 However, in the absence of a recital of consideration which the parties intend to be contractual, parol or extrinsic evidence is admissible to show the true consideration for a contract and that the consideration was greater or less than, or different from, that expressed in the writing, 36 so long as such showing does not change or defeat the legal operation and effect of the writing. 37 Parol or extrinsic evidence is also generally admissible, at least as between the parties themselves, to show that there was an absence or want of consideration, 38 or to show a failure of consideration, 39 nonpayment or nondelivery of the consideration, 40 or illegality of the consideration. 41

The true consideration, or the failure or illegality of the consideration, may be shown by parol evidence in such cases without pleading or proving fraud or mistake. 42 Parol evidence is also admissible to show who paid the consideration. 43

The existence of a consideration not expressed in the agreement may be shown by parol. 44 Additional consideration may be proved by parol, 45 especially where only a nominal sum is specified in the contract, 46 or where the instrument specifies a nominal sum and other good or valuable considerations. 47 Also, oral testimony is admissible to show the fairness and adequacy of consideration. 48

It is not permissible, under the guise of proving by parol the consideration of a written contract, to add to or take from the other provisions of the instrument, to modify or impair the operative effect of such provisions, 49 or wipe out its essential terms, 50 or to change its subject matter. 51

◆ Caution: Where lack or failure of consideration is not a valid defense, such as against a holder in due course of a negotiable instrument, parol evidence is not admissible to prove it. 52

Footnotes

Footnote 35. Central Life Ins. Co. v Thompson, 182 Ark 705, 33 SW2d 388; Koeberle v Hotchkiss, 4 Cal App 2d 252, 40 P2d 911; Asphalt Paving, Inc. v Ulery (Fla App D1) 149 So 2d 370; Hardin v Ray (Mo App) 404 SW2d 764; Meyer v Weber, 233 Mo App 832, 109 SW2d 702; Warren v Pulley, 193 Okla 88, 141 P2d 288; Biersdorf v Putnam, 181 Or 522, 182 P2d 992; Beckham v Short (App) 294 SC 415, 365 SE2d 42, affd 298 SC 348, 380 SE2d 826; Schrock v Gillingham, 36 Wash 2d 419, 219 P2d 92.

Where a recited consideration is contractual in nature, the real consideration, if different then recited consideration, may be shown by parol only on allegations of fraud, accident, or mistake. Moss v Morris (Tex Civ App) 177 SW2d 1017, writ ref w o m, error ref.

Footnote 36. Lewis v Bell, 58 US 616, 17 How 616, 15 L Ed 203; Guinn v Holcombe, 780 SW2d 30, 29 Ark App 206; Guinn v Holcombe, 29 Ark App 206, 780 SW2d 30; Johnston v Courtial, 216 Cal 506, 14 P2d 771; Wade v Markwell & Co., 118 Cal App 2d 410, 258 P2d 497, 37 ALR2d 1363; Gottlieb v Heyden Chemical Corp. (Sup) 33 Del Ch 82, 90 A2d 660, adhered to (Sup) 33 Del Ch 283, 92 A2d 594; Jackson v Parker, 153 Fla 622, 15 So 2d 451; Williams v Faile (Fla App D1) 118 So 2d 599; Hall v Hall (App) 112 Idaho 641, 734 P2d 666, affd (Idaho) 1988 Ida LEXIS 141, reh gr (Idaho) 1988 Ida LEXIS 171 and op withdrawn, substituted op affirming previous opinion, on reh 116 Idaho 483, 777 P2d 255; Polo Nat. Bank v Lester (2d Dist) 183 Ill App 3d 411, 132 Ill Dec 220, 539 NE2d 783; Old First Nat. Bank & Trust Co. v Scheuman, 214 Ind 652, 13 NE2d 551, 119 ALR 1165; Day v Grubbs, 235 Ky 741, 32 SW2d 327, 72 ALR 323; Hogan v McKeithen (La App 2d Cir) 527 So 2d 982; Hullaby v Mosely (La App 2d Cir) 505 So 2d 874; Biersdorf v Putnam, 181 Or 522, 182 P2d 992; Morgan's Home Equipment Corp. v Martucci, 390 Pa 618, 136 A2d 838; Smith v McClam, 346 SE2d 720, 289 SC 452; Beckham v Short (App) 294 SC 415, 365 SE2d 42, affd 298 SC 348, 380 SE2d 826; Beckham v Short (App) 294 SC 415, 365 SE2d 42, affd 298 SC 348, 380 SE2d 826; Rubin v Adams (Tex Civ App Amarillo) 368 SW2d 42, writ ref n r e (Jul 24, 1963), error ref n r e; Moss v Morris (Tex Civ App) 177 SW2d 1017, writ ref w o m, error ref; Young v Schriner, 190 Va 374, 57 SE2d 33; Crow v Crow, 66 Wash 2d 108, 401 P2d 328.

As to the admissibility of parol or extrinsic evidence to affect the consideration to a deed, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds §§ 100-104.

As to parol evidence concerning the consideration for a negotiable instrument, see 12 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes §§ 1280-1283.

Footnote 37. Polo Nat. Bank v Lester (2d Dist) 183 Ill App 3d 411, 132 Ill Dec 220, 539 NE2d 783.

Footnote 38. Fire Ins. Asso. v Wickham, 141 US 564, 35 L Ed 860, 12 S Ct 84; Fr. Winkler KG v Stoller (CA3 NJ) 839 F2d 1002, 5 UCCRS2d 650; FPI Development, Inc. v Nakashima (3rd Dist) 231 Cal App 3d 367, 282 Cal Rptr 508, 91 CDOS 4707, 91 Daily Journal DAR 7396; TIE Communications, Inc. v Kopp, 218 Conn 281, 589 A2d 329, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1992 Conn Super LEXIS 2421, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 599, summary judgment den (Conn Super) 1993 Conn

Super LEXIS 3166; Katz v Innovator of America, Inc. (La App 1st Cir) 552 So 2d 724; Hogan v McKeithen (La App 2d Cir) 527 So 2d 982; Humble Oil & Refining Co. v Mullican (Tex Civ App) 190 SW2d 392, affd 144 Tex 609, 192 SW2d 770; De Mentas v Estate of Tallas (Utah App) 764 P2d 628, 95 Utah Adv Rep 28, review pending (Utah) 101 Utah Adv Rep 3; Miller v Archer (Utah App) 749 P2d 1274, 75 Utah Adv Rep 59, cert den (Utah) 765 P2d 1278, 98 Utah Adv Rep 3; Cowles Pub. Co. v McMann, 25 Wash 2d 736, 172 P2d 235, 167 ALR 1164.

Evidence is admissible to prove whether or not there is consideration for a promise, even though the parties have reduced their agreement to a writing which appears to be a completely integrated agreement. Restatement, Contracts 2d § 218(2).

Footnote 39. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v May, 217 Ark 215, 229 SW2d 238; Katz v Innovator of America, Inc. (La App 1st Cir) 552 So 2d 724.

Footnote 40. Southern Discount Co. v Kirkland, 181 Ga App 263, 351 SE2d 685, appeal after remand 187 Ga App 453, 370 SE2d 640; Freeman v Freeman (La App 2d Cir) 552 So 2d 636 (criticized on other grounds by Oliver v Oliver (La App 2d Cir) 561 So 2d 908); Sage Holding Corp. v Sage Folding Box Co., 571 A2d 431, 391 Pa Super 404; Thorp Finance Corp. v Le Mire, 264 Wis 220, 58 NW2d 641, 44 ALR2d 189.

Footnote 41. Hollywood State Bank v Wilde, 70 Cal App 2d 103, 160 P2d 846; Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v Gilreath, 191 SC 244, 4 SE2d 126, 129 ALR 1148.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence of the illegality of the consideration for a negotiable instrument as against a holder in due course, see 12 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes § 1283.

Footnote 42. Commonwealth, Dept. of Highways v Schmeh (Ky) 388 SW2d 131 (conceded by court); Day v Grubbs, 235 Ky 741, 32 SW2d 327, 72 ALR 323; Busby v Guaranty Title & Trust Co. (Tex Civ App) 93 SW2d 183, writ dismissed, error dismissed.

Footnote 43. Ducie v Ford, 138 US 587, 34 L Ed 1091, 11 S Ct 417.

Footnote 44. C & D Invest. Co. v Gulf Transport Co. (Miss) 526 So 2d 526.

As to the doctrine of partial integration, see §§ 1116 et seq.

Footnote 45. Weil v California Bank, 219 Cal 538, 27 P2d 904; Larnel Builders, Inc. v Nicholas (Fla App D3) 123 So 2d 284; Beckham v Short (App) 294 SC 415, 365 SE2d 42, affd 298 SC 348, 380 SE2d 826; Crow v Crow, 66 Wash 2d 108, 401 P2d 328.

Footnote 46. Apple v McCullough, 239 Ky 74, 38 SW2d 955; Miller v Archer (Utah App) 749 P2d 1274, 75 Utah Adv Rep 59, cert den (Utah) 765 P2d 1278, 98 Utah Adv Rep 3.

Footnote 47. Barton v Kuehne (Tex Civ App) 234 SW2d 84.

As to the admissibility of extrinsic evidence to prove additional consideration for deeds, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds §§ 102, 103.

Footnote 48. Potter v Bland (1st Dist) 136 Cal App 2d 125, 288 P2d 569.

Footnote 49. Paccagnini v Bort (1st Dist) 41 Ill App 2d (abstract) 216, 190 NE2d 493; Kane v Union State Bank (Tex Crim) 384 SW2d 358, writ ref n r e (Jun 2, 1965) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Jul 7, 1965), error ref n r e; Cochell v Cawthon (Tex Civ App) 110 SW2d 636, writ dismiss w o j.

Footnote 50. Tarr v Hicks, 155 Colo 159, 393 P2d 557.

Footnote 51. Johnson v Johnson, 297 Ky 268, 178 SW2d 983 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Miles v Dawson (Ky) 830 SW2d 368).

Footnote 52. See 12 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes §§ 1280-1282.

§ 1129 Effect of recital of consideration as element of contract or mere receipt

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In the absence of a recital of consideration which the parties intend to be contractual, parol or extrinsic evidence is admissible to show the true consideration for a contract and that the consideration was greater or less than, or different from, that expressed in the writing. 53 When the recital of consideration merely acknowledges the receipt of a fixed sum, such recital is generally considered to be merely a noncontractual receipt. 54

Whether the recital of consideration is contractual or a mere recital of receipt depends on the construction of the written instrument; where an executory promise or agreement is recited as consideration, it is generally regarded as contractual. 55 This determination depends on the intention of the parties as reflected by the written instrument. 56

Even if the recital of consideration is deemed to be contractual in nature, parol evidence is admissible for the purpose of clarifying the amount of consideration where the statement of consideration is ambiguous or uncertain. 57

Footnotes

Footnote 53. § 1128.

Footnote 54. Hall v Hall (App) 112 Idaho 641, 734 P2d 666, aff'd (Idaho) 1988 Ida LEXIS 141, reh'g (Idaho) 1988 Ida LEXIS 171 and op withdrawn, substituted op on other grounds, on reh'g 116 Idaho 483, 777 P2d 255 (holding that where the consideration clause in a contract merely recites "for value received," parol evidence is admissible to show the true consideration for the conveyance).

The consideration stated in a deed ordinarily indicates mere receipt of consideration. Beckham v Short (App) 294 SC 415, 365 SE2d 42, aff'd 298 SC 348, 380 SE2d 826.

Footnote 55. Johnson v Johnson (Tex Com App) 14 SW2d 805, holding that if one promises in a written contract to pay a sum of money in consideration for delivery of the property in the future, in other words, if the recital of consideration is of a contractual nature for the performance of a future act, parol evidence is inadmissible to show that the undertaking was to deliver some other kind of property.

Footnote 56. Hullaby v Mosely (La App 2d Cir) 505 So 2d 874.

Footnote 57. Stoffel v Stoffel, 241 Iowa 427, 41 NW2d 16, 14 ALR2d 891.

Generally, as to the admissibility of parol evidence in case of ambiguity or uncertainty, see §§ 1134 et seq.

(6). Time, Mode, and Place of Performance or Payment [1130-1132]

§ 1130 Time of performance or payment

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

If the due date of a written instrument, or the date for performance of the agreement embodied in the instrument, is unequivocally stated in the instrument, parol evidence is inadmissible to vary such time. 58 However, where the contract provides a space for the parties to specify the time of performance, but the space is left blank, parol evidence is admissible. 59 Where the parties have designated in the contract a definite time for its performance and have expressly stated that time is of the essence, extrinsic evidence to the contrary is inadmissible; however, where such a contract does not expressly or by necessary implication state whether time is of the essence, parol evidence is generally admissible to show that the time set forth in the instrument was intended to be of the essence. 60 If the contract neither provides the time for performance nor states expressly or by necessary implication whether time is to be regarded as of the essence, parol evidence is admissible in order to determine the intent of the parties in this regard. 61 In addition, parol proof is admissible to show that, at the time of making a contract, time was considered as of the essence, at least when such evidence does not tend to vary or impeach the written agreement. 62

Footnotes

Footnote 58. Brown v Wiley, 61 US 442, 20 How 442, 15 L Ed 965; Edwards v Smith (Mo) 322 SW2d 770.

Where a contract for the sale of land provided that if, upon examination of the abstract of title, the buyer found defects in the title, the seller must remedy them if this could be done within a reasonable time and at a reasonable expense, parol evidence was inadmissible to establish that the parties to the contract had an understanding that the sale was to be consummated within 60 days from the date of the contract. Johnson v Schuchardt, 333 Mo 781, 63 SW2d 17, 89 ALR 914.

Footnote 59. Milliman v Peterman (La App 5th Cir) 519 So 2d 238, cert den (La) 520 So 2d 752.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to show the time of performance of a written agreement when the agreement is silent as to the time of performance, generally, see § 1131.

As to the admissibility of a subsequent parol agreement modifying the time of performance of a written agreement, see § 1133.

Footnote 60. Johnson v Schuchardt, 333 Mo 781, 63 SW2d 17, 89 ALR 914.

Footnote 61. Glenmark Assocs., Inc. v Americare of W. Va., Inc., 179 W Va 632, 371 SE2d 353.

Footnote 62. Johnson v Schuchardt, 333 Mo 781, 63 SW2d 17, 89 ALR 914; Wimer v Wagner, 323 Mo 1156, 20 SW2d 650, 79 ALR 1231.

§ 1131 --Where writing is silent as to time of performance

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where a written agreement is silent as to the time of performance, the courts will imply that performance was intended to take place within a reasonable time. 63 Such an instrument represents the integrated contract of the parties, and parol evidence as to the time for performance is generally not admissible to establish a specific time for performance. 64 However, parol evidence as to the time of performance has been admitted under circumstances indicating that the contract was not completely integrated or reduced to writing. 65 In determining that a written contract is incomplete, weight may be given to the fact that reference was made in the contract to an oral agreement respecting the time of performance. 66

There is authority for the view that even though parol testimony may not be used to establish a fixed time for performance, it is admissible to throw light on the question of what is a reasonable time for performance. 67 In addition, parol evidence of an oral agreement as to the time of performance may be admitted where the written instrument is ambiguous in this regard. 68

In the case of contracts calling for payments, where no time for payment is expressed, the law, as a rule, requires the payment to be made immediately. 69

Footnotes

Footnote 63. 17A Am Jur 2d, Contracts § 479.

Footnote 64. Colorado Woman's College v Bradford-Robinson Printing Co., 114 Colo 237, 157 P2d 612; Gluckman v Holzman, 29 Del Ch 458, 51 A2d 487; Giffels & Vallet, Inc. v Edw. C. Levy Co., 337 Mich 177, 58 NW2d 899; Wick v Murphy, 237 Minn 447, 54 NW2d 805; Fallgren v Railway Exp. Agency, 98 NH 333, 100 A2d 835; Aboczky v Stier, 126 NJL 109, 18 A2d 262; Ocean Cape Hotel Corp. v Masfield Corp., 63 NJ Super 369, 164 A2d 607; Lefkowitz v Hummel Furniture Co., 385 Pa 244, 122 A2d 802.

Annotation: Admissibility of oral agreement as to specific time for performance where written contract is silent, 85 ALR2d 1269 § 4.

Footnote 65. Glascoe v Miletich (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 83 A2d 587; Jackson v Parker, 153 Fla 622, 15 So 2d 451 (recognizing admissibility, where time was not dealt with at all in writings, and other missing aspects also apparently essential to explain contract); Kansas City Bridge Co. v Kansas City Structural Steel Co. (Mo) 317 SW2d 370, 85 ALR2d 1252 (holding that testimony showing an oral agreement that a supplier would begin to deliver the steel in time for a contractor to commence building a bridge during a certain month, was admissible, in that the contract under which the supplier was to fabricate and furnish to the contractor the necessary steel showed on its face that an important element had been omitted); Sky Chefs v Pryor, 38 Tenn App 443, 276 SW2d 485.

Where an architect's contract to prepare plans on its face disclosed that it was incomplete as to the time for performance, evidence of prior oral agreement thereto was admissible to rebut the presumption that the architect had a reasonable time for performance. Beuc v Morrissey (Mo) 463 SW2d 851.

Annotation: 85 ALR2d 1269 § 4.

Footnote 66. Brady v Central Excavators, Inc., 316 Mich 594, 25 NW2d 630; Byrd v Dennis (Tex Civ App) 222 SW2d 926.

Annotation: 85 ALR2d 1269 § 3.

Footnote 67. Stark v Shaw (2nd Dist) 155 Cal App 2d 171, 317 P2d 182, cert den 356 US 937, 2 L Ed 2d 814, 78 S Ct 781; Kansas City Bridge Co. v Kansas City Structural Steel Co. (Mo) 317 SW2d 370, 85 ALR2d 1252; Newman v Jackson, 192 Okla 461, 138 P2d 76.

Annotation: 85 ALR2d 1269 § 5.

Footnote 68. 7-G Ranching Co. v Stites, 4 Ariz App 228, 419 P2d 358 (criticized on other grounds by Phil W. Morris Co. v Schwartz (App) 138 Ariz 90, 673 P2d 28); Tamburello v Hereford (Fla) 70 So 2d 545; Sky Chefs v Pryor, 38 Tenn App 443, 276 SW2d 485.

Annotation: 85 ALR2d 1269 § 3.

Footnote 69. As to bills and notes, see 11 Am Jur 2d, Bills and Notes § 286.

As to sales, see 67 Am Jur 2d, Sales §§ 309-311.

§ 1132 Mode, medium, or place of performance or payment

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where a written instrument is silent as to the mode or medium of payment required, parol or extrinsic evidence is admissible to show that a particular mode or medium of payment was agreed upon, as long as such evidence is not inconsistent with or contradictory to the terms of the instrument. 70 However, where the manner or means of payment of the money consideration stipulated in an instrument is expressed in the instrument, parol evidence is not admissible if it would vary or contradict those express terms. 71

In addition, where the written agreement does not specify the place of performance or the place at which money is to be paid under the agreement, parol evidence of an agreement relative to the place of performance or payment is admissible. 72

Footnotes

Footnote 70. Mozingo v North Carolina Nat. Bank, 31 NC App 157, 229 SE2d 57, 20 UCCRS 953, cert den 291 NC 711, 232 SE2d 204, holding that evidence of an alleged oral agreement by defendant bank to renew plaintiffs' unsecured demand notes until payment could be made from proceeds of the sale of certain apartment projects would not contradict the terms of the demand notes and would be admissible to show the agreed upon method of payment of the notes.

In an action against an auctioneer, who had contracted with plaintiff to sell certain items of personal property at a public auction, to recover that portion of the total gross sales which represented the amount of a bad check accepted by the auctioneer for payment for merchandise purchased at the auction, the trial court properly admitted parol evidence pertaining to all representations clarifying the procedures for handling checks in the auction of plaintiff's property, where the contract was silent as to check collections or guarantees of bad checks. Joe T. Presswood, Inc. v Houston Industrial Welding School, Inc. (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 585 SW2d 763, writ ref'n r'e (Oct 17, 1979).

As to the admissibility of a subsequent parol agreement modifying the mode, medium, or place of performance of a written agreement, see § 1133.

Footnote 71. Richardson v Hardwick, 106 US 252, 16 Otto 252, 27 L Ed 145, 1 S Ct 213.

Footnote 72. Cox v National Bank, 100 US 704, 10 Otto 704, 25 L Ed 739.

(7). Subsequent Parol Agreements or Modifications [1133]

§ 1133 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although the parol evidence rule prohibits the introduction of evidence of prior or contemporaneous oral statements to vary the terms of a written agreement, 73 the parol evidence rule does not apply to extrinsic evidence regarding a subsequent modification of a written agreement or to the waiver of contractual terms by language or conduct. 74 The parol evidence in such a case does not in any way deny that the original agreement of the parties was that which the writing purports to express, but merely serves to show that the parties have exercised their right to change or abrogate the original agreement or to make a new and independent contract. 75 Parol evidence of the subsequent agreement may be admitted, such as an agreement modifying the time, place, or manner of performance, 76 or an agreement to abandon a written contract. 77 It has been said that this exception to the parol evidence rule does not apply where the agreement in question is one required by law to be in writing. 78

Even though the parties stipulate that the written contract is not to be varied except by an agreement in writing, they may, in the absence of a statutory provision to the contrary, by a subsequent contract not in writing, modify it by mutual consent, 79 and parol evidence is admissible to show the modification of such a contract by a subsequent parol agreement. 80

In addition, evidence is admissible to show the existence of a subsequent parol agreement which is independent of and not inconsistent with a written contract. 81 For example, evidence of parol agreements as to matters not covered by the written contract is admissible, 82 as is evidence regarding a method of discharging a party's liability for a breach of the agreement. 83

Footnotes

Footnote 73. § 1092.

Footnote 74. Piatt's Admr. v United States, 89 US 496, 22 Wall 496, 22 L Ed 858; Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v Schuhmacher (ED NY) 660 F Supp 6; Race, Inc. v Lake & River Recreational Properties, Inc. (Fla App D1) 573 So 2d 409, 16 FLW D 297; Gard v Razanskas, 248 Iowa 1333, 85 NW2d 612, 65 ALR2d 982; Gravier Co. v Satellite Business Systems (La App 4th Cir) 519 So 2d 180, cert den (La) 521 So 2d 1150; La Panta v Heidelberger (Minn App) 392 NW2d 254; Bergmann v Bergmann (Mo App) 740 SW2d 215; Jensen v Jensen, 104 Nev 95, 753 P2d 342; Adamson v Marianne Fabrics, Inc., 391 SE2d 249, 301 SC 204; Brunson v Gladish, 174 Tenn 309, 125 SW2d 144; Robbins v Warren (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 782 SW2d 509; Buyken v Ertner, 33 Wash 2d 334, 205 P2d 628; Ohio Valley Contractors, Inc. v Board of Educ., 182 W Va 741, 391 SE2d 891.

The parol evidence rule is inapplicable to negotiations or agreements entered into after the contract has been recommended. Deerfield Specialty Papers, Inc. v Black Clawson

Co. (SD NY) 751 F Supp 1578.

In an action by the lessors of a nursery for waste to the leased property and conversion of stock plants, testimony of an alleged out-of-court oral agreement reached by the parties in settlement of their dispute which permitted removal of the plants was admissible; a written contract can be modified by a subsequent oral agreement when the oral agreement has been accepted and acted upon by the parties. Foliage Corp. of Florida, Inc. v Watson (Fla App D5) 381 So 2d 356.

Practice References Alteration of instruments. 1 Am Jur Proof of Facts 479, Proof 3.

Footnote 75. Insurance Co. v Norton, 96 US 234, 6 Otto 234, 24 L Ed 689; Brunson v Gladish, 174 Tenn 309, 125 SW2d 144.

Footnote 76. Jones v New York Guaranty & Indem. Co., 101 US 622, 11 Otto 622, 25 L Ed 1030; Edwards v Smith (Mo) 322 SW2d 770.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence regarding time, mode, and manner of performance, generally, see §§ 1130 et seq.

Footnote 77. Jones v New York Guaranty & Indem. Co., 101 US 622, 11 Otto 622, 25 L Ed 1030; George F. Robertson Plastering Co. v Magidson (Mo) 271 SW2d 538.

Footnote 78. Torrey v Simon-Torrey, Inc. (La) 307 So 2d 569.

Footnote 79. 17A Am Jur 2d, Contracts § 527.

Footnote 80. Larnel Builders, Inc. v Nicholas (Fla App D3) 123 So 2d 284.

Footnote 81. Lacy Mfg. Co. v Gold Crown Mining Co., 52 Cal App 2d 568, 126 P2d 644; Campbell v Graham, 144 Colo 532, 357 P2d 366, 94 ALR2d 1165 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Moore Electric Co. v Ambassador Builder Corp. (Colo App) 653 P2d 90); Emerson v Treadway (Mo App) 270 SW2d 614; GRW Enterprises, Inc. v Davis (Tenn App) 797 SW2d 606, reh den (Tenn App) 1990 Tenn App LEXIS 345 and remanded (Tenn App) 1992 Tenn App LEXIS 658.

Footnote 82. Emerson v Treadway (Mo App) 270 SW2d 614.

Footnote 83. Chohon v Kersey Kinsey Co. (2nd Dist) 173 Cal App 2d 548, 343 P2d 614, holding that a supplemental agreement entered into by the parties to a building contract after the contractor had breached an express warranty to provide an adequate air-conditioning plant, under which the parties agreed that the owner would do the necessary work to find and correct the trouble, and that he should be allowed a credit or offset on his note for the final payment equal to the reasonable cost of the work done by him, was not inconsistent with the original agreement, since it related to a method of discharging the contractor's obligation for breach of his original agreement.

(8). Ambiguity or Uncertainty of Written Instruments [1134-1145]

(a). In General [1134-1138]

§ 1134 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Whenever the terms of a written contract or other instrument are susceptible of more than one interpretation, or an ambiguity arises, or the intent and object of the instrument cannot be ascertained from the language used in the instrument, parol or extrinsic evidence may be introduced to determine the meaning of the instrument. 84

Where the meaning of the written terms is ambiguous, extrinsic evidence may be offered to bring out the true intention of the parties. 85 While extrinsic evidence is admissible in order to clarify ambiguity, 86 it may not be admitted to vary the clear terms of a written agreement. 87

Extrinsic evidence is admissible when it is offered for the purpose of reproducing words that are illegible or that have been canceled or erased. 88

The test for determining the admissibility of extrinsic evidence to explain the meaning of a written instrument is whether the offered evidence is relevant to prove a meaning to which the language of the instrument is reasonably susceptible. 89 The courts may employ the following two-step analysis in applying this test: (1) in order to prove the intention of the contracting parties, the court will place itself in the same situation as the parties when the agreement was made by provisionally accepting, without actually receiving, all credible evidence concerning the making of the agreement; (2) if based on this evidence the court determines that the contract is reasonably susceptible to the offered interpretation, it may admit the evidence to so interpret the contract; however, if the court decides that the contract is not reasonably susceptible to the offered interpretation, then the extrinsic evidence is irrelevant and inadmissible to interpret the contract. 90

§ 1134 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 36 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 331, Introduction of Evidence Over Parol Evidence Rule Objection.

Footnotes

Footnote 84. Gisborn v Charter Oak Life Ins. Co., 142 US 326, 35 L Ed 1029, 12 S Ct 277; Interstate Fire Ins. Co. v Harmon (CA5 Ala) 580 F2d 184; Grant v North River Ins. Co. (ND Ind) 453 F Supp 1361, (applying Ind law); John Morrell & Co. v Local Union 304A of United Food & Commercial Workers (CA8 SD) 913 F2d 544, 135 BNA LRRM 2233, 116 CCH LC P 10289, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 629, cert den 500 US 905, 114 L Ed 2d 78, 111 S Ct 1683, 137 BNA LRRM 2056, 118 CCH LC P 10679, later proceeding (CA8 SD) 992 F2d 205, 143 BNA LRRM 2211, 125 CCH LC P 10666, reh, en banc, den (CA8 SD) 1993 US App LEXIS 18027 and cert den (US) 126 L Ed 2d 455, 114 S Ct 554, 144 BNA LRRM 2872; Rime-Shatten Dev. Co. v Birmingham Cable Communications, Inc. (Ala) 569 So 2d 332; Dempsey v Merchants Nat. Bank, 292 Ark 207, 729 SW2d 150; Barham v Barham, 33 Cal 2d 416, 202 P2d 289; TIE Communications, Inc. v Kopp, 218 Conn 281, 589 A2d 329, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1992 Conn Super LEXIS 2421, later proceeding (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 599, summary judgment den (Conn Super) 1993 Conn Super LEXIS 3166; Friedman v Virginia Metal Products Corp. (Fla) 56 So 2d 515, 33 ALR2d 956; Babe, Inc. v Baby's Formula Service, Inc. (Fla App D3) 165 So 2d 795, 6 ALR3d 320; Dorsey v Clements, 202 Ga 820, 44 SE2d 783, 173 ALR 509, conformed to 76 Ga App 135, 45 SE2d 226; Molyneux v Twin Falls Canal Co., 54 Idaho 619, 35 P2d 651, 94 ALR 1264; Riemer Bros., Inc. v Marlis Constr. Co. (2d Dist) 64 Ill App 3d 80, 20 Ill Dec 951, 380 NE2d 1160; Caudill v Citizens Bank (Ky) 383 SW2d 350; Diefenthal v Longue Vue Management Corp. (La) 561 So 2d 44; Young v Hornbrook, Inc., 153 Me 412, 140 A2d 493; Brauer v Hobbs, 391 NW2d 482, 151 Mich App 769; Nord v Herreid (Minn) 305 NW2d 337; Covington Cadillac Co. v South Aire, Inc., 242 Miss 716, 136 So 2d 866; Kellermann Contracting Co. v St. Louis (Mo App) 135 SW2d 369; Fillbach v Inland Constr. Corp., 178 Mont 374, 584 P2d 1274; Washington Heights Co. v Frazier, 409 NW2d 612, 226 Neb 127; Lowden Invest. Co. v General Electric Credit Co., 103 Nev 374, 741 P2d 806, 4 UCCRS2d 982; Norman v Beling, 33 NJ 237, 163 A2d 129, 82 ALR2d 417; Concoff v Occidental Life Ins. Co., 4 NY2d 630, 176 NYS2d 660, 152 NE2d 85; International Paper Co. v Corporex Constructors, Inc., 96 NC App 312, 385 SE2d 553; Madler v McKenzie County (ND) 467 NW2d 709, appeal after remand (ND) 496 NW2d 17; Blaha v Schwartz (CP) 7 Ohio Ops 3d 234; Shuler v Barnes (Okla App) 793 P2d 301, 109 OGR 505; Adams v Knoth, 102 Or App 238, 794 P2d 796, reconsideration den (Or App) 1990 Ore App LEXIS 979 and review den 310 Or 422, 799 P2d 151; In re Estate of Hall, 535 A2d 47, 517 Pa 115; Stewart v Mullineaux, 138 Pa Super 43, 10 A2d 122; Brown v Stoker (Tex Civ App) 102 SW2d 248, writ dism w o j; Young v Schriner, 190 Va 374, 57 SE2d 33; Hoover v Sandifur, 25 Wash 2d 791, 171 P2d 1009, 168 ALR 170; Ashland Oil, Inc. v Donahue, 159 W Va 463, 223 SE2d 433, 18 UCCRS 1129; Milaeger Well Drilling Co. v Muskego Rendering Co., 1 Wis 2d 573, 85 NW2d 331, 66 ALR2d 563; Kilbourne-Park Corp. v Buckingham (Wyo) 404 P2d 244.

In an action to establish driveway easements over a portion of defendants' land, the deposition of the former owner (whose death had preceded trial) which dealt with the meaning intended by the parties to be attached to the word "driveway" and the property intended to have been covered thereby, was admissible to aid in the interpretation of the parties' statement that "driveway is combination to be used by both parties to this contract." Tamm, Inc. v Pildis (Iowa) 249 NW2d 823.

As to what constitutes ambiguity that will justify the admission of extrinsic evidence, see § 1138.

As to the clarification of ambiguities in deeds and mortgages, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds § 242 and 55 Am Jur 2d, Mortgages §§ 43-53.

Annotation: Which of conflicting descriptions in deeds or mortgages of fractional quantity of interest intended to be conveyed prevails, 12 ALR4th 795.

Admissibility of parol evidence as to proceedings at meetings of stockholders or directors of private corporations or associations, 48 ALR2d 1259 § 8.

Practice References Intent of Parties to Ambiguous Deed. 46 Am Jur POF 2d 695 §§ 2-5.

Footnote 85. Kerwin v Bank of Douglas, 93 Ariz 269, 379 P2d 978, 13 ALR3d 398; Tracy v Tracy (Mo App) 791 SW2d 924; Graessle v State Highway Com. (Mo App) 784 SW2d 213; Gentry v Stevens (2d Dept) 145 App Div 2d 532, 536 NYS2d 89; Stracka v Peterson (ND) 377 NW2d 580, 88 OGR 149; Baker v Zingelman, 259 Pa Super 441, 393 A2d 908; Houston v McCarthy (Tex Civ App Waco) 340 SW2d 559, writ ref n r e (Feb 22, 1961) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Mar 15, 1961), error ref n r e; Berg v Hudesman, 801 P2d 222, 115 Wash 2d 657; Bittorf v Bittorf, 390 SE2d 793, 182 W Va 594; Cliff & Co. v Anderson (Wyo) 777 P2d 595.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence to clarify specific words and phrases, see § 1142.

Footnote 86. Sundown, Inc. v Canal Square Associates (Dist Col App) 390 A2d 421; Jensen v Pure Plant Food Int'l (SD) 274 NW2d 261.

Footnote 87. § 1100.

Footnote 88. Robinson v Cutter, 163 Mass 377, 40 NE 112; In re Thomas' Will, 76 Minn 237, 79 NW 104; Washington Trust Co. v Keyes, 79 Wash 61, 139 P 638.

Footnote 89. Atlas Assurance Co. v McCombs Corp. (3rd Dist) 146 Cal App 3d 135, 194 Cal Rptr 66.

As to the admissibility of particular types of extrinsic evidence to clarify an ambiguous written instrument, see §§ 1139 et seq.

Footnote 90. Mellon Bank, N.A. v Aetna Business Credit, Inc. (CA3 Pa) 619 F2d 1001, later proceeding (WD Pa) 500 F Supp 1312 (applying Pa law) (holding that trade terms, legal terms of art, numbers, common words of accepted usage and terms of similar nature are to be interpreted in accord with their specialized or accepted usage unless such interpretation would produce irrational results or the contract documents are internally inconsistent); Atlas Assurance Co. v McCombs Corp. (3rd Dist) 146 Cal App 3d 135, 194 Cal Rptr 66.

§ 1135 Effect of ambiguity as patent or latent

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

◆ Definition: For purposes of the parol evidence rule, a "patent" ambiguity is an uncertainty that appears on the face of the instrument, 91 while a "latent" ambiguity is one which does not appear on the face of the instrument, but which is shown to exist for the first time by matter collateral to the writing. 92

A few jurisdictions make a distinction between the two types of ambiguities with regard to the admission of parol evidence; in these jurisdictions, a patent ambiguity may not be explained by parol evidence, 93 but may be clarified only by looking at face of the instrument; the context and every legitimate rule of exposition may be enlisted and used, but parol testimony, or extraneous proof of any kind, is inadmissible. 94

The majority of jurisdictions, however, permit the admission of parol evidence to explain an ambiguity whether latent or patent. 95

In all jurisdictions, a latent ambiguity may always be explained or clarified by parol evidence. 96 The resort to parol evidence under these circumstances does not vary or contradict the terms of the instrument, but merely aids the court in ascertaining the true intention of the parties. 97

There is authority for the view that an intermediate class of ambiguities exists, with the nature of both patent and latent ambiguities, 98 which are referred to as "mixed" ambiguities. 99 This intermediate class exists when the words are all sensible and have a settled meaning, but at the same time consistently admit of two interpretations, according to the subject matter in the contemplation of the parties. 1 In such a class of cases, parol evidence is admissible to explain the ambiguities. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 91. Stoffel v Stoffel, 241 Iowa 427, 41 NW2d 16, 14 ALR2d 891 (stating that a patent ambiguity occurs where the language itself is doubtful or susceptible of more than one meaning).

Footnote 92. Hashwani v Barbar (CA11 Fla) 822 F2d 1038; Forsyth Mfg. Co. v Castlen, 112 Ga 199, 37 SE 485; Hall v Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 295 Mich 404, 295 NW 204.

For the purposes of the admission of parol evidence, an ambiguity is latent where the written language is apparently clear and certain but becomes doubtful in the light of something extrinsic or collateral.

A description in a lease of property as being known as a certain address, which address was also the mailing address of two other buildings, was a latent ambiguity. Ft. Worth Neuropsychiatric Hosp., Inc. v Bee Jay Corp. (Tex) 600 SW2d 763, reh'g of cause overr (Jul 9, 1980).

Footnote 93. In re Leonardi's Int'l, Inc. (BC SD Fla) 119 BR 874, motion den (BC SD Fla) 123 BR 668 (applying Florida law); First Federal Sav. Bank v Key Markets, Inc. (Ind) 559 NE2d 600; Roberts v Roberts' Ex'r, 299 Ky 646, 186 SW2d 801; Reed v Reed, 98 Miss 350, 53 So 691; Brooks v Hackney, 100 NC App 562, 397 SE2d 361, rev'd on other grounds 329 NC 166, 404 SE2d 854; First Nat'l Bank v McGill, 180 W Va 472, 377 SE2d 464.

As to patent and latent ambiguities in wills, see 80 Am Jur 2d, Wills §§ 1281, 1282.

Footnote 94. Brooks v Hackney, 100 NC App 562, 397 SE2d 361, revd on other grounds 329 NC 166, 404 SE2d 854.

The omission in a promissory note of the sum to be paid is a patent ambiguity, which cannot be explained by parol, but the payee must resort to the original contract, treating the note as a nullity. Payne v Commercial Nat. Bank, 177 Cal 68, 169 P 1007.

Footnote 95. Pantone, Inc. v Esselte Letraset, Ltd. (SD NY) 691 F Supp 768, 8 USPQ2d 1040, affd (CA2 NY) 878 F2d 601, 11 USPQ2d 1454; Surovcik v D & K Optical, Inc. (MD Pa) 702 F Supp 1171, summary judgment den (MD Pa) 1988 US Dist LEXIS 14652; In re Burger (BC DC Del) 125 BR 894; Roberts Assoc., Inc. v Blazer Int'l Corp. (ED Mich) 741 F Supp 650, clarified, adhered to, on reconsideration (ED Mich) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 10570; Jackman v WMAC Invest. Corp. (CA7 Wis) 809 F2d 377, 105 CCH LC P 55668; Kronholm v Kronholm, 16 Conn App 124, 547 A2d 61, appeal after remand 23 Conn App 577, 582 A2d 1178; Forsyth Mfg. Co. v Castlen, 112 Ga 199, 37 SE 485; Moran v Commonwealth Edison Co. (3d Dist) 74 Ill App 3d 964, 30 Ill Dec 922, 393 NE2d 1269; Stoffel v Stoffel, 241 Iowa 427, 41 NW2d 16, 14 ALR2d 891; In re Huxtable Living Trust, 243 Kan 531, 757 P2d 1262; Lambdin v Dantzebecker, 169 Md 240, 181 A 353, 102 ALR 277; Myers v Sunlight Laundry Co. (Hamilton Co) 10 Ohio App 275; Haupt v Michaelis (Tex Com App) 231 SW 706.

As to deeds, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds § 314.

Footnote 96. Norton v Larney, 266 US 511, 69 L Ed 413, 45 S Ct 145; Gibson v Anderson, 265 Ala 553, 92 So 2d 692; Barham v Barham, 33 Cal 2d 416, 202 P2d 289; Ace Electric Supply Co. v Terra Nova Electric, Inc. (Fla App D1) 288 So 2d 544; Shore v Miller, 80 Ga 93, 4 SE 561; Williams v Idaho Potato Starch Co., 73 Idaho 13, 245 P2d 1045; De Kalb Bank v Purdy (2d Dist) 166 Ill App 3d 709, 117 Ill Dec 606, 520 NE2d 957, app den 122 Ill 2d 572, 125 Ill Dec 215, 530 NE2d 243; First Federal Sav. Bank v Key Markets, Inc. (Ind) 559 NE2d 600; Peoples Bank & Trust Co. v Lala (Iowa App) 392 NW2d 179; Roberts v Roberts' Ex'r, 299 Ky 646, 186 SW2d 801; Keating v Stadium Management Corp., 24 Mass App 246, 508 NE2d 121, review den 400 Mass 1103, 511 NE2d 620; Hall v Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 295 Mich 404, 295 NW 204; Wolf v Miravalle (Mo) 372 SW2d 28; Hardin v Ray (Mo App) 404 SW2d 764; Proprietors of Claremont v Carlton, 2 NH 369; Kupferschmidt v Agricultural Ins. Co., 80 NJL 441, 78 A 225; River Birch Assoc. v Raleigh, 326 NC 100, 388 SE2d 538; Thompson v Thompson (ND) 391 NW2d 608, 91 OGR 92; Watson v Lamb, 75 Ohio St 481, 79 NE 1075; First American Nat. Bank v Hunter (Tenn App) 581 SW2d 655; Ft. Worth Neuropsychiatric Hosp., Inc. v Bee Jay Corp. (Tex) 600 SW2d 763, reh'g of cause overr (Jul 9, 1980); Kennedy v Griffith, 98 Utah 183, 95 P2d 752; Transamerica Occidental Life Ins. Co. v Burke, 368 SE2d 301, 179 W Va 331; Hammond v Capital City Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 151 Wis 62, 138 NW 92.

Since a latent ambiguity is disclosed only by extrinsic evidence, it may be removed by extrinsic evidence. Kullman, Salz & Co. v Sugar Apparatus Mfg. Co., 153 Cal 725, 96 P 369.

Footnote 97. Cordas v Wright, 129 Cal App 2d Supp 867, 277 P2d 520.

Even under the latent ambiguity exception to the parol evidence rule, parol or extrinsic evidence is admissible only to explain an ambiguity, not to change or contradict the language of the written instrument. Hardin v Ray (Mo App) 404 SW2d 764.

Footnote 98. Hall v Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 295 Mich 404, 295 NW 204; Ganson v Madigan, 15 Wis 144.

As to the application of this rule to deeds, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds § 314.

Footnote 99. Blair v Wessinger, 39 Cal App 269, 178 P 545.

Footnote 1. Hall v Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 295 Mich 404, 295 NW 204; Schlottman v Hoffman, 73 Miss 188, 18 So 893.

Footnote 2. Ganson v Madigan, 15 Wis 144, holding evidence admissible to explain the meaning of the word "team" in a contract for the sale of a reaper.

§ 1136 Identification of subject matter

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Extrinsic evidence is generally admissible in order to clarify the identification or description of the subject matter in a written instrument where such identification or description is ambiguous or uncertain. 3 Extrinsic evidence may be admitted to aid in the interpretation of an instrument's incomplete description of the subject matter, in order to apply the instrument to its subject matter, provided the subject can be thereby identified and a new description is not introduced into the contract as a result. 4 Parol evidence is not admissible for the purpose of identifying the subject matter of a contract, or clarifying the description set forth in a contract, where such evidence will have the effect of varying or contradicting the express terms of the instrument. 5

Evidence regarding the amount of a commodity intended to be sold and transferred by a written contract, where such amount is not specifically set out in the contract, is admissible under the parol evidence rule; however, parol evidence that directly contradicts the amount of a commodity where such amount is specifically stated in a written contract of sale is not admissible 6 except to show fraud. 7

Footnotes

Footnote 3. Lonergan v Buford, 148 US 581, 37 L Ed 569, 13 S Ct 684; In re S.E. Nichols, Inc. (BC SD NY) 120 BR 745; Maier v Continental Oil Co. (CA7 Ind) 120 F2d 237, cert den 314 US 652, 86 L Ed 523, 62 S Ct 101; Ellis v Klaff, 96 Cal App 2d 471, 216 P2d 15; Crowley v Engelke, 394 Ill 264, 68 NE2d 241; Atwood v Boston, 310 Mass 70, 37 NE2d 131; Schleft v Board of Educ. of Los Alamos Public Schools (App) 109 NM 271, 784 P2d 1014; Burford v Pounders, 145 Tex 460, 199 SW2d 141; Countiss v Baldwin (Tex Civ App) 151 SW2d 235, writ dism, error dismd.

For a discussion of the use of extrinsic evidence to aid the description of the premises involved in an action for specific performance, see 71 Am Jur 2d, Specific Performance

§ 117.

As to the admissibility of extrinsic evidence to aid the description in: a deed, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds §§ 310-320; a mortgage, see 55 Am Jur 2d, Mortgages §§ 120-123; a lease, see 49 Am Jur 2d, Landlord and Tenant § 192; a land contract, see 77 Am Jur 2d, Vendor and Purchaser §§ 8, 85.

Footnote 4. Lance Roof Inspection Service, Inc. v Hardin (SD Tex) 653 F Supp 1097, 2 BNA IER Cas 826; Palm Springs-La Quinta Development Co. v Palm Springs Land & Irrig. Co., 36 Cal App 2d 730, 98 P2d 530.

Footnote 5. Cheney v Carver, 370 Pa 543, 88 A2d 746; Angelina County Lumber Co. v Reinhardt (Tex Civ App) 270 SW2d 259; Meadow River Lumber Co. v Smith, 126 W Va 847, 30 SE2d 392.

Footnote 6. 67 Am Jur 2d, Sales § 330.

Footnote 7. 67 Am Jur 2d, Sales § 324.

§ 1137 --Public and judicial records and documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The subject matter of a public or a judicial record or document may be properly identified or clarified by parol evidence. 8 For example, if, in the record of a judgment, the subject matter of the judgment is ambiguous, extrinsic evidence is admissible to ascertain the subject matter. 9 In addition, if the record leaves in doubt what issues were involved in the action and settled by the judgment, parol or extrinsic evidence is admissible to eliminate the uncertainty. 10

Footnotes

Footnote 8. Miles v Caldwell, 69 US 35, 2 Wall 35, 17 L Ed 755; Milbra v Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., 182 Ala 622, 62 So 176; Clay v Board of Com'rs, 30 Idaho 794, 168 P 667; Charles E. Harding Co. v Harding, 352 Ill 417, 186 NE 152, 88 ALR 563; Kuhl v Chamberlain, 140 Iowa 546, 118 NW 776; Knickerbocker v Wilcox, 83 Mich 200, 47 NW 123; Herrick v Morrill, 37 Minn 250, 33 NW 849; Turner v Fleming, 37 Okla 75, 130 P 551; Dierstein v Schubkagel, 131 Pa 46, 18 A 1059; Smith v Crosby, 86 Tex 15, 23 SW 10.

Footnote 9. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 605.

Footnote 10. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 609.

§ 1138 What constitutes ambiguity

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A writing is not ambiguous under the parol evidence rule unless the application of pertinent rules of interpretation leave a real uncertainty as to which one of two or more possible meanings represents the true intention of the parties; 11 whether such ambiguity exists is a question of law for the trial court. 12 The mere fact that there is a dispute between the parties as to the interpretation of a document does not mean that there is an ambiguity justifying the admission of parol evidence for explanatory purposes. 13 In addition, the claimed ambiguity must be such that its clarification has some legal effect. 14

In determining whether an ambiguity exists in a document, the test is not whether particular ambiguous words or phrases are present, but rather whether the character of the written agreement itself is ambiguous. 15 An ambiguity may arise from words which are plain in themselves, but uncertain when applied to the subject matter of the instrument, thereby warranting the admission of parol evidence. 16 In short, an ambiguity, so far as the parol evidence rule is concerned, may arise from the use of words if either their meaning or their application is doubtful or uncertain. 17 A word or term in a contract, to be ambiguous, must have some "stretch" in it—some capacity to connote more than one meaning—before parol evidence is admissible. 18

Footnotes

Footnote 11. Wilson Arlington Co. v Prudential Ins. Co. (CA9 Cal) 912 F2d 366; Tsakres v Owens (Alaska) 561 P2d 1218; Leo Eisenberg & Co. v Payson, 162 Ariz 529, 785 P2d 49, 50 Ariz Adv Rep 3; Flynn v Sawyer (Minn) 272 NW2d 904; Wired Music, Inc. v Great River S.B. Co. (Mo App) 554 SW2d 466; Davis v Andrews (Tex Civ App Dallas) 361 SW2d 419, 17 OGR 426, writ ref n r e (Feb 6, 1962) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Apr 17, 1963), error ref n r e.

Where letter made reference to "a loan" but a series of loans based on continuing line of credit was in fact made, extrinsic evidence was admissible to prove existence of ambiguity in letter as well as to resolve the ambiguity. Hamada v Valley Nat. Bank, 27 Ariz App 433, 555 P2d 1121.

In a marriage dissolution proceeding, evidence of an alleged separate parol agreement between the wife and her attorney concerning the attorney fees to be paid should have been received by the trial court at an evidentiary hearing to determine what the parties intended where it was not clear as to whether a provision of the property settlement agreement between the husband and wife required the husband to pay $2,000 to the attorney in addition to the $2,500 that the wife had already paid the attorney as a retainer or whether the attorney was entitled to a total fee of only $2,000. Morales v Morales (Fla App D3) 397 So 2d 934, petition den (Fla) 411 So 2d 383.

A contract for sale of realty containing an "as is" provision was sufficiently ambiguous to justify admission of parol evidence to show what was in the minds of the parties when the contract was made and to clarify the ambiguity. Partrich v Muscat, 84 Mich App 724, 270 NW2d 506.

Footnote 12. Redding Foods, Inc. v Berry (Tex Civ App Dallas) 361 SW2d 467.

Footnote 13. In re Marriage of Thomason (Colo App) 802 P2d 1189; Midkiff v Castle & Cooke, Inc., 45 Hawaii 409, 368 P2d 887.

Footnote 14. Uniroyal, Inc. v Heller (SD NY) 65 FRD 83, 19 FR Serv 2d 457 (applying New York law).

Resort to extrinsic evidence as an aid to interpretation was proper where the language in deeds conveying a right of way easement was ambiguous as to the scope of the interest conveyed. Badger v Hill (Me) 404 A2d 222.

Parol evidence was admissible where an agreement not to compete contained an ambiguity regarding assignability. Griffeth v Sawyer Clothing, Inc., 202 Neb 631, 276 NW2d 652.

Footnote 15. Midkiff v Castle & Cooke, Inc., 45 Hawaii 409, 368 P2d 887; Colonial Leasing Co. v Larsen Bros. Constr. Co. (Utah) 731 P2d 483, 49 Utah Adv Rep 4, 3 UCCRS2d 24.

A document may be ambiguous so as to warrant the admission of parol evidence notwithstanding the fact that it contains no words or phrases which are ambiguous in themselves. Commercial Secur. Co. v Rea (Tex Civ App) 78 SW2d 707, affd 130 Tex 11, 105 SW2d 872.

Footnote 16. Van Syckel v Arsuaga, 231 US 601, 58 L Ed 393, 34 S Ct 263; Midkiff v Castle & Cooke, Inc., 45 Hawaii 409, 368 P2d 887; Old First Nat. Bank & Trust Co. v Scheuman, 214 Ind 652, 13 NE2d 551, 119 ALR 1165; Robertson v Ramsey, 17 Tenn App 248, 66 SW2d 1022; King v Dallas (Tex Civ App Dallas) 374 SW2d 707, writ ref n r e (Apr 1, 1964), error ref n r e.

In an action by the contractor under a contract for the digging of a well, calling for drilling operations until "sufficient water" is obtained, ambiguity in the meaning of the term "sufficient water" renders it subject to explanation by parol testimony of the negotiations of the parties with respect thereto. Milaeger Well Drilling Co. v Muskego Rendering Co., 1 Wis 2d 573, 85 NW2d 331, 66 ALR2d 563.

Footnote 17. Harten v Loffler, 212 US 397, 53 L Ed 568, 29 S Ct 351; Midkiff v Castle & Cooke, Inc., 45 Hawaii 409, 368 P2d 887; Schwartz v Cahill, 175 App Div 68, 161 NYS 750, reh den 176 App Div 937, 162 NYS 1146 and revd on other grounds 220 NY 174, 115 NE 451; Klueter v Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co., 143 Wis 347, 128 NW 43.

Footnote 18. O'Connor Oil Corp. v Warber, 30 Wis 2d 638, 141 NW2d 881.

(b). Particular Evidence Admissible [1139-1145]

§ 1139 Generally; proof of surrounding circumstances

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In the process of interpretation or construction of an integrated agreement which is ambiguous or uncertain in its meaning, all relevant evidence to show that meaning is admissible. 19 If the terms of a written contract are so ambiguous or obscure that the full contractual intention of the parties cannot be understood from a mere inspection of the instrument, the court, in order to properly interpret or construe the instrument, may receive extrinsic evidence of the subject matter of the contract, of the relations of the parties to each other, and of the facts and circumstances surrounding the parties when they entered into the contract. 20 Under the parol evidence rule, a contract of debatable meaning may be construed by resort to the surrounding circumstances for insight regarding the meaning of the words used; 21 such evidence does not contradict or vary the terms of the instrument. 22 With regard to a written contract, evidence regarding proof of surrounding circumstances is admitted in order to place the trial judge in the position of the contracting parties, 23 and parol evidence is often the only means by which the conditions and circumstances surrounding the parties at the time of making the contract may be shown. 24

Parol or extrinsic evidence of a custom or usage may be received to explain or delineate the meaning of terms which would otherwise be ambiguous, uncertain, or equivocal as used in a contract or other written instrument, as where words employed to express a particular condition are ambiguous and cannot be satisfactorily explained by reference to other portions of the contract or instrument. 25

Footnotes

Footnote 19. Bryan v Vaughn (Mo App) 579 SW2d 177; Garden State Plaza Corp. v S. S. Kresge Co., 78 NJ Super 485, 189 A2d 448, certif den 40 NJ 226, 191 A2d 63.

Footnote 20. Lowrey v Hawaii, 206 US 206, 51 L Ed 1026, 27 S Ct 622; Arab Corp. v Bruce (DC La) 50 F Supp 350, affd (CA5 La) 142 F2d 604; Federal Surety Co. v A. Bentley & Sons Co. (CA6 Ohio) 51 F2d 24, 78 ALR 1041; Obermark v Clark, 216 Ala 564, 114 So 135, 55 ALR 1153; National Bank of Alaska v J. B. L. & K., Inc. (Alaska) 546 P2d 579; Barham v Barham, 33 Cal 2d 416, 202 P2d 289; L'Engle v Scottish Union & Nat. Fire Ins. Co., 48 Fla 82, 37 So 462; Moran v Commonwealth Edison Co. (3d Dist) 74 Ill App 3d 964, 30 Ill Dec 922, 393 NE2d 1269; Old First Nat. Bank & Trust Co. v Scheuman, 214 Ind 652, 13 NE2d 551, 119 ALR 1165; Mealey v Kanealy, 226 Iowa 1266, 286 NW 500, 131 ALR 945; Mayse v Grieves, 130 Kan 96, 285 P 630; Akins v Covington, 265 Ky 740, 97 SW2d 588; Destrehan v Louisiana Cypress Lumber Co., 45 La Ann 920, 13 So 230; Koogle v Cline, 110 Md 587, 73 A 672; Sears v Kings C. E. R. Co., 152 Mass 151, 25 NE 98; Michigan Crown Fender Co. v Welch, 211 Mich 148, 178 NW 684, 13 ALR 896; Julius Kessler & Co. v Parelius, 107 Minn 224, 119 NW 1069; Wood v Security Mut. Life Ins. Co., 112 Neb 66, 198 NW 573, 34 ALR 712; Norman v Beling, 33 NJ 237, 163 A2d 129, 82 ALR2d 417; Garden State Plaza Corp. v S. S.

Kresge Co., 78 NJ Super 485, 189 A2d 448, certif den 40 NJ 226, 191 A2d 63; American Bank of Commerce v M & G Builders, Ltd., 92 NM 250, 586 P2d 1079; Hoisting Engine Sales Co. v Hart, 237 NY 30, 142 NE 342, 31 ALR 536; Tuttle v Burgett's Adm'r, 53 Ohio St 498, 42 NE 427; Speier v Michelson, 303 Pa 66, 154 A 127; Traynham v Yeargin Enterprises, Inc. (App) 304 SC 188, 403 SE2d 329; Bjornson v Rostad, 30 SD 40, 137 NW 567; New River Lumber Co. v Blue Ridge Lumber Co., 146 Tenn 181, 240 SW 763; Cook v Smith, 107 Tex 119, 174 SW 1094, 3 ALR 940; Fox Film Corp. v Ogden Theatre Co., 82 Utah 279, 17 P2d 294, 90 ALR 1299; Fox Film Corp. v Ogden Theatre Co., 82 Utah 279, 17 P2d 294, 90 ALR 1299; Georgiades v Biggs, 197 Va 630, 90 SE2d 850; Clayton v Gilmer County Court, 58 W Va 253, 52 SE 103; Klueter v Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co., 143 Wis 347, 128 NW 43; Parkinson v Roberts, 78 Wyo 478, 329 P2d 823.

In landlord's action to recover from tenant under terms of lease agreement under seal, parol evidence was admissible to establish capacity, as individual or as corporate agent, in which tenant executed agreement. Dundon v Forehand, 152 Ga App 749, 263 SE2d 687.

Provision in divorce agreement, which was basis of ex-husband's claim in wife's estate, that wife "pay one-half of all unanticipated income taxes which may be finally assessed," as well as other provisions of divorce agreement, were ambiguous and parol evidence should have been allowed to explain ex-husband's claim. In re Estate of Murphy, 226 Kan 424, 601 P2d 1096.

As to the consideration of the subject matter, nature, and purpose of the contract, and of the surrounding circumstances in construing a contract, generally, see 17A Am Jur 2d, Contracts §§ 354-356.

Footnote 21. Hanrahan-Wilcox Corp. v Jenison Machinery Co., 23 Cal App 2d 642, 73 P2d 1241; Garden State Plaza Corp. v S. S. Kresge Co., 78 NJ Super 485, 189 A2d 448, certif den 40 NJ 226, 191 A2d 63.

In action by supplier against United States Navy contractor, parol evidence was properly admitted on issue of delivery terms of written contract, despite explicit disclaimer in contract of liability for delays, where meaning of handwritten date notations on contract was ambiguous. Casper v Metal Trades, Inc. (CA4 SC) 604 F2d 299, 27 UCCRS 14, cert den 444 US 981, 62 L Ed 2d 408, 100 S Ct 483 (applying SC law).

Footnote 22. Cavazos v Trevino, 73 US 773, 6 Wall 773, 18 L Ed 813; Hanrahan-Wilcox Corp. v Jenison Machinery Co., 23 Cal App 2d 642, 73 P2d 1241.

Footnote 23. Jersey Island Dredging Co. v Whitney, 149 Cal 269, 86 P 691.

Footnote 24. Obermark v Clark, 216 Ala 564, 114 So 135, 55 ALR 1153.

Footnote 25. 21A Am Jur 2d, Customs and Usages § 25.

§ 1140 Prior or contemporaneous negotiations, dealings, events, or declarations

The parol evidence rule generally does not permit, in order to ascertain the meaning of an ambiguous instrument, the admission of extrinsic evidence of oral declarations of a party to a written instrument made before or at the time of its execution, of an intention or purpose that is not expressed in the written instrument, or that is different from the intention to be derived from the terms of the written instrument. 26 However, where one party has been permitted to introduce extrinsic evidence of the facts and circumstances leading up to, and connected with, the execution of a written contract, the other party may introduce evidence as to the same matters, even if such evidence tends to vary or contradict the writing. 27

Evidence of previous negotiations between the parties to an ambiguous written agreement may be admitted to the extent that such evidence sheds light on how the parties understood the terms of the agreement. 28 The parol evidence rule permits resort to antecedent negotiations to explain the meaning of the words used in a contract of uncertain meaning. 29 However, previous negotiations cannot be admitted to give an integrated agreement a meaning to which the language of the instrument is not reasonably susceptible. 30

Although, as a general rule, testimony concerning events which occurred prior to the execution of a contract is inadmissible in an action for breach of contract, nevertheless such testimony is admissible to clarify an ambiguous portion of the contract. 31 Where parties contract with reference to the provisions of previous dealings, evidence of the terms of such dealings is admissible to show the intention of the parties. 32 However, where the language employed in a written instrument is plain and unambiguous, evidence of a prior course of dealings between the parties is not admissible to modify the plain language used by the parties in the instrument, 33 nor may it be used to supply an interpretation of the instrument. 34

§ 1140 ----Prior or contemporaneous negotiations, dealings, events, or declarations [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In grocery store shopper's action to recover from store for injuries shopper sustained when she slipped in store, evidence that store manager promised to pay shopper's medical bills was admissible on issue of existence of contract between parties under which store was obligated to pay such expenses. Drago v Winn Dixie La. (1994, La App 4th Cir) 643 So 2d 212.

Footnotes

Footnote 26. Tuttle v Burgett's Adm'r, 53 Ohio St 498, 42 NE 427; Carson v McCaskill, 111 SC 516, 99 SE 108.

As to the admissibility of parol evidence regarding prior or contemporaneous collateral agreements, generally, see §§ 1121 et seq.

Footnote 27. Richeson v Wood, 158 Va 269, 163 SE 339, 82 ALR 1189.

Footnote 28. Gisborn v Charter Oak Life Ins. Co., 142 US 326, 35 L Ed 1029, 12 S Ct 277; Washington Hosp. v White (CA3 Pa) 889 F2d 1294 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Halderman v Pennhurst State Sch. & Hosp. (CA3 Pa) 901 F2d 311); Walther & Cie v U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (MD Pa) 397 F Supp 937; Arrington v Walter E. Heller International Corp. (1st Dist) 30 Ill App 3d 631, 333 NE2d 50; Dental Prosthetic Services, Inc. v Hurst (Iowa) 463 NW2d 36, 5 BNA IER Cas 1647; Smith v Vose & Sons Piano Co., 194 Mass 193, 80 NE 527; Parkinson v Roberts, 78 Wyo 478, 329 P2d 823.

Where landlord sought to evict tenant operating adult bookstore and court had to interpret what parties to lease of store intended at time of entering lease which limited use of premises to "bookstore," court properly considered representations of tenant in negotiations leading up to lease that it would operate traditional paperback and magazine bookstore similar to that of earlier tenant. Central Auto Co. v Reichert (App) 87 Wis 2d 9, 273 NW2d 360.

Footnote 29. Garden State Plaza Corp. v S. S. Kresge Co., 78 NJ Super 485, 189 A2d 448, certif den 40 NJ 226, 191 A2d 63.

Parol evidence was admissible to determine what the parties intended by the words "cancelled" and "cancellation" in a purchase contract, notwithstanding a written statement that the contract embodied the complete terms of their agreement, where an obvious ambiguity existed; the court would interpret these words according to the meaning given them by one party if the other party knew or had reason to know of the first party's conception. Sunbury Textile Mills, Inc. v Commissioner (CA3) 585 F2d 1190, 78-2 USTC P 9781, 25 UCCRS 642, 42 AFTR 2d 78-6181.

Footnote 30. Garden State Plaza Corp. v S. S. Kresge Co., 78 NJ Super 485, 189 A2d 448, certif den 40 NJ 226, 191 A2d 63.

Footnote 31. Babe, Inc. v Baby's Formula Service, Inc. (Fla App D3) 165 So 2d 795, 6 ALR3d 320.

Footnote 32. Curtis v Bradley, 65 Conn 99, 31 A 591; W. T. Rawleigh Co. v Miller, 105 Mont 456, 73 P2d 552.

Where a credit has been given for premiums in previous insurance dealings, such dealings may be looked to in determining whether a cash payment or a credit was intended. Western Assur. Co. v McAlpin, 23 Ind App 220, 55 NE 119.

Footnote 33. Brawley v United States, 96 US 168, 6 Otto 168, 24 L Ed 622; Root v Allstate Ins. Co., 272 NC 580, 158 SE2d 829.

Footnote 34. § 1100.

§ 1141 Subsequent acts or declarations of parties

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Where the language used in a written instrument is equivocal or ambiguous, the parties' subsequent acts or declarations showing the practical construction the parties put upon the words may be resorted to for the purpose of ascertaining the parties' intention, and parol evidence is admissible for this purpose. 35

However, where the language employed in a written instrument is plain and unambiguous, evidence of the practical construction put upon the words by the acts and declarations of the parties is not admissible to supply an interpretation of the instrument. 36

§ 1141 ----Subsequent acts or declarations of parties [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

A defendant's confession or statement may be considered in connection with the other evidence, but the corpus delicti cannot rest upon the confession or admission alone. Schwab v State (1994, Fla) 636 So 2d 3, 19 FLW S 113.

Footnotes

Footnote 35. Lowrey v Hawaii, 206 US 206, 51 L Ed 1026, 27 S Ct 622; Floyd v Ring Const. Corp. (DC Minn) 66 F Supp 436, affd (CA8 Minn) 165 F2d 125, cert den 334 US 838, 92 L Ed 1763, 68 S Ct 1496; Port of Mobile v Louisville & N. R. Co., 84 Ala 115, 4 So 106; Barham v Barham, 33 Cal 2d 416, 202 P2d 289; Kohn v Kohn, 95 Cal App 2d 708, 214 P2d 71; Portland Body Works v McCullough Motor Supply Co., 72 Ind App 216, 119 NE 180, adhered to 72 Ind App 229, 119 NE 1005 and appeal after remand 86 Ind App 19, 155 NE 710; Woods v Bromley, 69 Nev 96, 241 P2d 1103; First American Nat. Bank v Hunter (Tenn App) 581 SW2d 655.

As to insurance contracts, see 44 Am Jur 2d, Insurance §§ 1999 et seq.

Evidence of statements and conduct of the parties to a real estate purchase agreement, both before and after execution of the agreement, was admissible to explain an ambiguous handwritten term added to the form agreement stating that "Inability to get financing on the basis of credit will void this contract," and the evidence supported the court's determination that the parties intended the handwritten term to encompass a failure to obtain an adequate amount of financing as well as a failure to obtain credit because of personal credit history. Cordaro v Singleton, 31 NC App 476, 229 SE2d 707.

Parol evidence of an agreement that a contract for sale of realty was conditioned upon the buyer's obtaining financing was admissible notwithstanding the inclusion of an integration clause in the written contract, where the contract was ambiguous where the price breakdown for the house included a mortgage, and where another clause in the contract stated that the buyer was to apply for financing within five days, but where there was no specific mention in the agreement of a condition to the validity of the agreement. Blaha v Schwartz (CP) 7 Ohio Ops 3d 234.

As to the admission of subsequent parol agreements or modifications as an exception to the parol evidence rule, see § 1133.

Footnote 36. § 1100.

§ 1142 Words and phrases

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence has been admitted to explain a wide variety of particular words and phrases which, in the instruments containing them, were of ambiguous or uncertain meaning, 37 particularly where the words and phrases have technical 38 or local 39 meanings not commonly known, and where abbreviations, symbols, or figures, etc., are used in substitution for words and phrases. 40 Where a new and unusual word or phrase is used in a written instrument, extrinsic evidence is admissible to explain or illustrate the meaning of that word or phrase. 41 However, where the particular words and phrases used in a written agreement have a well-understood general meaning, parol evidence is not admissible for the purpose of showing a meaning other than the generally accepted meaning. 42

Footnotes

Footnote 37. See Semon, Bache & Co. v Coppes, Zook & Mutschler Co., 35 Ind App 351, 74 NE 41 (holding that where a party contracts to take goods currently, parol evidence is admissible of a conversation between the parties, at or before entering into the contract, concerning the word "currently").

An employer's moving expense policy was admissible as parol evidence in order to explain the phrase "to pay moving expenses" contained in a letter offering employment, in an employment contract suit brought against the employer by a former employee. Echols v State (Iowa App) 440 NW2d 402.

Generally, as to the construction of particular words or phrases in contracts, see 17A Am Jur 2d, Contracts §§ 371-378.

Footnote 38. § 1143.

Footnote 39. § 1144.

Footnote 40. § 1145.

Footnote 41. Coughlin v Blair, 41 Cal 2d 587, 262 P2d 305; In re Curtis, 64 Conn 501, 30 A 769; Western Union Tel. Co. v Merritt, 55 Fla 462, 46 So 1024; Western Union Tel. Co. v Collins, 45 Kan 88, 25 P 187; Dages v Brake, 125 Mich 64, 83 NW 1039; State v Commercial Casualty Ins. Co., 125 Neb 43, 248 NW 807, 88 ALR 790; Newhall v Appleton, 114 NY 140, 21 NE 105; Miller v Wiggins, 227 Pa 564, 76 A 711; Fairly v Wappoo Mills, 44 SC 227, 22 SE 108.

Footnote 42. Johnston v Cox, 114 Fla 243, 154 So 206.

The meaning of the term "office space" in an agreement by which a corporation hired a real estate broker to locate office space for the corporation was not ambiguous, and the admission of parol evidence to explain the term was improper. Student Loan Guarantee Foundation, Inc. v Barnes, Quinn, Flake & Anderson, Inc., 34 Ark App 139, 807 SW2d 628.

The words "only a single dwelling," in a building restriction, are not words of art, and the testimony of architects, real-estate brokers, and lenders of money upon real estate, is not admissible to explain their meaning. Hutchinson v Ulrich, 145 Ill 336, 34 NE 556.

§ 1143 --Technical or trade terms

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Parol evidence is always admissible to define and explain the meaning of words or phrases in a written instrument which are technical and not commonly known, or which have two meanings—the one common and universal and the other technical. 43 Similarly, where a word or phrase is used in a peculiar sense as applicable to a particular trade, business, or calling or to any particular class of people, extrinsic evidence is admissible to explain or illustrate the meaning of that word or phrase. 44 Such evidence neither varies nor adds to the written memorandum, but merely translates it from the language of trade into the ordinary language of the people generally. 45 Under this rule, parol evidence is admissible to show that apparently ambiguous statements of description and price have a recognized meaning in the trade or business to which the contract relates. 46

A well-recognized technical meaning of a term does not necessarily preclude oral evidence of an intended or understood modified meaning, where the circumstances and language in connection with which it is used tend to obscure it and leave in doubt the light in which the parties to the agreement regarded it. 47

Footnotes

Footnote 43. Salmon Falls Mfg. Co. v Goddard, 55 US 446, 14 How 446, 14 L Ed 493; Buckbee v P. Hohenadel, Jr., Co. (CA7 Ill) 224 F 14; McClure & Co. v Cox, Brainard & Co., 32 Ala 617; Berry v Kowalsky, 95 Cal 134, 30 P 202; In re Curtis, 64 Conn 501, 30

A 769; Goetz v Continental Casualty Co., 245 Ill App 350; Western Union Tel. Co. v Collins, 45 Kan 88, 25 P 187; Levi v Schwartz, 201 Md 575, 95 A2d 322, 36 ALR2d 1241; Smith v Vose & Sons Piano Co., 194 Mass 193, 80 NE 527; Maurin v Lyon, 69 Minn 257, 72 NW 72; Conestoga Cigar Co. v Finke, 144 Pa 159, 22 A 868.

As to the construction of technical words, or words of art, in a contract, generally, see 17A Am Jur 2d, Contracts §§ 363, 364.

Footnote 44. Coughlin v Blair, 41 Cal 2d 587, 262 P2d 305; In re Curtis, 64 Conn 501, 30 A 769; Western Union Tel. Co. v Merritt, 55 Fla 462, 46 So 1024; Western Union Tel. Co. v Collins, 45 Kan 88, 25 P 187; Dages v Brake, 125 Mich 64, 83 NW 1039; State v Commercial Casualty Ins. Co., 125 Neb 43, 248 NW 807, 88 ALR 790; Newhall v Appleton, 114 NY 140, 21 NE 105; Miller v Wiggins, 227 Pa 564, 76 A 711; Fairly v Wappoo Mills, 44 SC 227, 22 SE 108.

Parol evidence as to the meaning of the term "discharge port" in a contract for the sale of oil was admissible, as the meaning of the term was not clear on its face. Crescent Oil & Shipping Services, Ltd. v Phibro Energy, Inc. (CA2 NY) 929 F2d 49, 1991 AMC 1224, 13 UCCRS2d 977.

Parol evidence is admissible to prove the special meaning given by an industry to language employed in a contract. Latina v Woodpath Dev. Co., 57 Ohio St 3d 212, 567 NE2d 262.

The testimony of a professor of hotel and restaurant management as to the characteristics of a nightclub was admissible to explain the meaning of the term "nightclub" as used in a lease that prohibited the operation of a restaurant as a nightclub. Hellenic Invest., Inc. v Kroger Co. (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 766 SW2d 861.

Footnote 45. Maurin v Lyon, 69 Minn 257, 72 NW 72.

Footnote 46. Maurin v Lyon, 69 Minn 257, 72 NW 72.

In an action to enforce the alleged liability of a tobacco sampler to make good the loss resulting to a buyer from the fact that the tobacco in the cases was not as represented by the tags attached to the samples, evidence is admissible to show what meaning the apparently ambiguous words and figures on the tags conveyed to the trade, and to show that by usage the sampler undertook to make good the losses resulting from untrue statements on the tags. Conestoga Cigar Co. v Finke, 144 Pa 159, 22 A 868.

Footnote 47. Brown v A. F. Bartlett & Co., 201 Mich 268, 167 NW 847.

§ 1144 --Local terms

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

If a word is employed which has no definite and specific general meaning, its local meaning may be proved. 48 However, a party to a written contract may not introduce parol evidence of the interpretation put upon the language of such contract in states other than that according to the laws of which the contract is to be interpreted, to show that he or she intended to employ the language in accordance with the interpretation given to it in such other states, and that the other party had reason to know that the party was doing so. 49

Footnotes

Footnote 48. Butcher v Smith (Tex Civ App) 195 SW 1180, error den 110 Tex 617, 223 SW 166.

Evidence as to what the agent of the seller said as to a service denominated in the written contract as "Outcault service de luxe" was admissible in that such designation had a local or trade meaning and such evidence was necessary to make the phrase intelligible. Outcault Advertising Co. v H. G. Waltner Mercantile Co., 96 Kan 689, 153 P 518.

Footnote 49. Inman Mfg. Co. v American Cereal Co., 133 Iowa 71, 110 NW 287.

§ 1145 Figures, abbreviations, and characters; signs and symbols

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where an abbreviation, symbol, or figure used in a written instrument has a plain unambiguous meaning, parol evidence is not admissible to show a meaning different from that called for by its terms. 50 Parol evidence also is not admissible to show the intention of the parties in using abbreviations, signs, symbols, or figures, 51 or to show what was said about their use. 52 However, where their meaning is ambiguous, uncertain, or obscure, parol evidence may be received to show in what sense figures or abbreviations were used in a contract, 53 to explain abbreviations, characters, or marks, as used in a particular business, which are unintelligible to persons unacquainted with such business, 54 and to show the meaning of abbreviations, signs, symbols, figures, and words, in contracts or other writings, which have no apparent meaning, 55 provided such explanation is consistent with other terms of the contract. In some such cases, parol evidence has been admissible on the theory that it merely identified the subject matter of the contract. 56 However, in other cases parol evidence has been admitted on the theory that the abbreviations have a recognized meaning in a given trade, and that the evidence merely translates the abbreviation from the language of the trade into ordinary language. 57 If the language of a writing has a secret meaning, it is proper to show the fact, as codes or ciphers play an important part in business affairs. 58

Footnotes

Footnote 50. White v Oliver, 173 Okla 559, 49 P2d 147, 100 ALR 1461.

The term "f. o. b. cars" has a meaning so plain that it is not permissible to explain it by custom or otherwise. Vogt v Schienebeck, 122 Wis 491, 100 NW 820.

Footnote 51. Jaqua v Witham & Anderson Co., 106 Ind 545, 7 NE 314; Vogt v Schienebeck, 122 Wis 491, 100 NW 820.

Footnote 52. National Spun Silk Co. v Peerless Silk Mills Corp., 97 NJL 190, 116 A 711.

Footnote 53. Brewer v Horst & Lachmund Co., 127 Cal 643, 60 P 418; People v Thompson, 295 Ill 187, 129 NE 155; Griffin v Erskine, 131 Iowa 444, 109 NW 13 (holding that parol evidence that the abbreviation "Pt." as used in a draft, following the name of the president of a bank, to whom it was made payable, was understood among bankers to refer to "president," is competent as tending to explain what was intended thereby); Small v Elliott, 12 SD 570, 82 NW 92.

Footnote 54. Berry v Kowalsky, 95 Cal 134, 30 P 202; Cole v Leach, 47 Ind App 341, 94 NE 577; Dages v Brake, 125 Mich 64, 83 NW 1039; Maurin v Lyon, 69 Minn 257, 72 NW 72.

The meaning of the letters "F C" in a memorandum of sale, when they are technical abbreviations used in the wool trade, may be shown by parol evidence. New England Dressed Meat & Wool Co. v Standard Worsted Co., 165 Mass 328, 43 NE 112.

Parol proof was admissible to show that the expressions "bbls" and "Basis 22 1/2," in a memorandum of a contract for the sale of sugar, meant barrels of 350 pounds each at 22 1/2 cents per pound, in Franklin Sugar Refining Co. v Lipowicz, 247 NY 465, 160 NE 916, 59 ALR 1414.

Practice References Proof of meaning of abbreviation in commercial writing. 1 Am Jur Proof of Facts 11, Abbreviations, Proof 1.

Meaning of Abbreviation, Word, or Phrase According to Usage of Trade. 26 Am Jur POF2d 229 §§ 4-7.

Footnote 55. Atlantic C. L. R. Co. v Dahlberg Brokerage Co., 170 Ala 617, 54 So 168; Nowlin v Noteware, 177 Ark 688, 7 SW2d 791; Gardiner v McDonogh, 147 Cal 313, 81 P 964; Gianelli v Globe Grain & Milling Co., 48 Cal App 103, 191 P 720; Morrison v Alexander, 26 Ga App 455, 106 SE 734; People v Thompson, 295 Ill 187, 129 NE 155; Kossuth County State Bank v Richardson, 141 Iowa 738, 118 NW 906; New England Dressed Meat & Wool Co. v Standard Worsted Co., 165 Mass 328, 43 NE 112; Dages v Brake, 125 Mich 64, 83 NW 1039; Lampert Lumber Co. v Minneapolis & S. L. R. Co., 127 Minn 195, 149 NW 133; Dinuba Farmers' Union Packing Co. v J. M. Anderson Grocer Co., 193 Mo App 236, 182 SW 1036; Franklin Sugar Refining Co. v Lipowicz, 247 NY 465, 160 NE 916, 59 ALR 1414; Mason Motors Spirit Distributing Co. v Cosden, 105 Okla 244, 231 P 890; Small v Elliott, 12 SD 570, 82 NW 92.

Oral evidence of the representations of an insurer's agent as to the nature of an insurance policy was admissible, notwithstanding a provision in the policy in effect excluding any oral statements by the agent, in order to clarify the abbreviation "G A D 20 Pay," appearing on an application for an insurance policy. Stengel v Colorado Nat. Life Assur. Co. (Tex Civ App) 147 SW 1193.

Footnote 56. Kirby Planing Mill Co. v Hughes, 11 Ga App 645, 75 SE 1059; New England Dressed Meat & Wool Co. v Standard Worsted Co., 165 Mass 328, 43 NE 112.

Parol evidence was admissible to show that the word "Bayo," as used in a contract for the sale of beans, means a variety of beans known as "bayous," and that "per 100" means per 100 pounds; parol evidence, though inadmissible to supply an omission, introduce new terms, or contradict or vary the writing, is admissible to identify the subject matter to which the writing refers. Gardiner v McDonogh, 147 Cal 313, 81 P 964.

Parol evidence was admissible to show that the expressions "W. than Snow" and "St. Elmo," in a contract of sale, had reference to a certain type of flour; the admission of such evidence was tantamount merely to identifying the subject matter of the contract, and that the evidence in no wise varied or added to the terms of the contract. Hartwell Grocery Co. v Mountain City Mill Co., 8 Ga App 727, 70 SE 48.

Footnote 57. Maurin v Lyon, 69 Minn 257, 72 NW 72.

Footnote 58. Carland v Western Union Tel. Co., 118 Mich 369, 76 NW 762, holding that the meaning of a cipher telegram may be shown by the sender.

6. Compelling Production of Documents During Trial [1146-1175]

a. In General [1146-1149]

§ 1146 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Courts may generally, upon proper motion or application, require parties to actions to produce during trial documents in their possession containing evidence pertinent to the issues, 59 except where the documents are privileged. 60 Nonproduction of the documents may open the door for the introduction of secondary evidence of their contents, 61 relieve the opposing party of the burden of producing evidence, 62 or permit the trier of fact to regard allegations contained in the application for production, and concerning what the documents would prove, as admitted by the nonproducing party. 63 Nonproduction of a document may also bar the party from whom production is sought from introducing evidence summarizing the contents of the document. 64

◆ Practice guide: A document may be referred to in testimony without producing it; it is when the document's terms are sought to be put in evidence that the document becomes subject to production. 65

Footnotes

Footnote 59. Sinclair Refining Co. v Jenkins Petroleum Process Co., 289 US 689, 77 L Ed 1449, 53 S Ct 736, 88 ALR 496; Ex parte Darring, 242 Ala 621, 7 So 2d 564; State ex rel. R. W. Filkey, Inc. v Scott (Mo App) 407 SW2d 79; Hooker v Eagle Bank of Rochester, 30 NY 83.

As to the production of documents before trial for the purpose of discovery, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Depositions and Discovery §§ 244 et seq.

As to the use of the subpoena duces tecum to compel the production of documents, see 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses §§ 18-33.

Footnote 60. Rice v Rice, 240 Ga 272, 240 SE2d 29; Gustafson v Gustafson, 272 NC 452, 158 SE2d 619 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Re Albemarle Mental Health Center, 42 NC App 292, 256 SE2d 818).

As to matters privileged from disclosure in litigation, generally, see 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses §§ 285 et seq.

Footnote 61. Ex parte Darring, 242 Ala 621, 7 So 2d 564; Brownlee v Hot Shoppes, Inc. (2d Dept) 23 App Div 2d 848, 259 NYS2d 271.

Footnote 62. Omaha v American Theater Corp., 189 Neb 441, 203 NW2d 155.

Footnote 63. Mayon v New Amsterdam Casualty Co. (La App 1st Cir) 187 So 2d 767.

Footnote 64. Hackett v Housing Authority of San Antonio (CA5 Tex) 750 F2d 1308, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 69, cert den 474 US 850, 88 L Ed 2d 121, 106 S Ct 146.

As to the introduction of a summary of a document, generally, see § 1060.

Footnote 65. Thomasson v Ocean Point Golf, Inc. (App) 300 SC 29, 386 SE2d 282.

§ 1147 Grounds for denial of application for production

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

An application for production of a document during trial may be quashed where it is too extensive or indefinite, 66 or where there is little or no reason to believe that the document sought contains relevant evidence. 67 A mere suspicion that a document contains relevant evidence does not warrant an order for its production, 68 and mere general allegations of the document's relevance are not sufficient. 69 Even an application for production of a document which is arguably relevant to the requesting party's theory of the case may be refused where the document would be inadmissible as hearsay, 70 or where its probative value is outweighed by its potential to confuse or distract the jury. 71

The fact that the opposing party may admit the contents of the document the production of which is sought does not necessarily defeat an application for its production; the trial court may nonetheless in its discretion order the production of the document. 72 Moreover, a party's right to the production of a document is not affected by the fact that the same document is also evidence for the other party. 73 However, an application for production of a document during trial may be denied where the party seeking production has had a full opportunity to examine the document prior to trial. 74 This rule applies where production of the document in question was properly a matter for pretrial discovery and the party seeking production at trial did not avail himself of discovery procedures to secure its production. 75

Footnotes

Footnote 66. Hill v Willis, 244 Ga 263, 161 SE2d 281, conformed to 117 Ga App 855, 162 SE2d 299 (notice to produce "all income tax records" for a three-year period was too broad, too indefinite, and too extensive).

Footnote 67. State v Clemons, 168 Conn 395, 363 A2d 33, cert den 423 US 855, 46 L Ed 2d 80, 96 S Ct 104; Cooper v United States (Dist Col App) 353 A2d 696; State ex rel. Page v Terte, 324 Mo 925, 25 SW2d 459.

Footnote 68. Ex parte Clarke, 126 Cal 235, 58 P 546; Globe Acc. Ins. Co. v Helwig, 13 Ind App 539, 41 NE 976.

Footnote 69. City Nat. Bank v Wofford, 189 Ark 914, 75 SW2d 666; State ex rel. State ex rel. Page v Terte, 324 Mo 925, 25 SW2d 459.

Footnote 70. State v Moore (La) 344 So 2d 973 (criminal defendant's request for production during trial of other complaints which might have been filed against him, for the purpose of informing the jury of past instances of his antisocial behavior to show that he was not in full possession of his faculties and did not know right from wrong at the time of his offense, was properly denied where such complaints would have been inadmissible as hearsay).

Footnote 71. Rockwell & Bond, Inc. v Flying Dutchman, Inc., 74 Mich App 1, 253 NW2d 368.

Footnote 72. Dalton v Calhoun County Dist. Court, 164 Iowa 187, 145 NW 498.

Footnote 73. Dock v Dock, 180 Pa 14, 36 A 411.

Footnote 74. State v Perique (La) 340 So 2d 1369 (upholding trial court's denial of motion for production of tape recordings of police radio communications where defense counsel was given opportunity to hear tapes at in camera inspection, and had full opportunity to hear contents of conversation of police officers and to make use of this information at trial).

Footnote 75. Aamco Transmission v Air Systems, Inc. (Ind App) 459 NE2d 1215, 44 ALR4th 1163.

§ 1148 Production of document on demand as affecting admissibility—in favor of producing party

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the "English rule," a paper or document which is produced on the demand of an opposing party and inspected by him or her is thereby made evidence in favor of the producer, even though otherwise it would be inadmissible. 76 This rule has been justified on the grounds that a party should not be allowed to pry into the affairs of his adversary without, at the same time, subjecting him to the risk of making whatever he inspects evidence for both parties. 77

Other courts take the view that the production and inspection of a document on demand does not make it evidence for the producer where it is not otherwise admissible. 78 In support of this view it has been said that the party calling for books and papers is subjected to great hazard if such a request, without more, makes them evidence in the case, and therefore the "English rule" tends to lead to the suppression rather than to the ascertainment of truth. 79

Even where the so-called "English rule" is followed, there have been some limitations placed upon it. The mere production of a document on demand, without its inspection thereafter by the demanding party, does not render it admissible in evidence on behalf of the party producing it. 80 Furthermore, documents admitted under the English rule are not conclusive evidence of the truth of what they contain. 81

Footnotes

Footnote 76. Morrison v Whiteside, 17 Md 452; Amory v Commonwealth, 321 Mass 240, 72 NE2d 549, 174 ALR 370.

Footnote 77. Clark v Fletcher, 83 Mass 53.

Footnote 78. Scully v Morrison Hotel Corp. (1st Dist) 118 Ill App 2d 254, 254 NE2d 852; Morgan v Paine (Me) 312 A2d 178; Smith v Rentz, 131 NY 169, 30 NE 54; Merlino v Mutual Service Casualty Ins. Co., 23 Wis 2d 571, 127 NW2d 741.

Footnote 79. Smith v Rentz, 131 NY 169, 30 NE 54.

The theory of the English rule was that a party was not entitled to inspect the documentary evidence of the opposing party, and that if he took the chance of asking that documents be produced without knowing what they contained, he should be penalized, if he examined the documents, by having them admitted in evidence; this is hardly in keeping with modern notions that a lawsuit is not to be conducted as a contest of skill but rather as a search for truth and justice, and that discovery of evidence in the possession of an opponent is to be encouraged. Merlino v Mutual Service Casualty Ins. Co., 23 Wis

2d 571, 127 NW2d 741.

Footnote 80. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Continental Baking Co., 172 Md 24, 190 A 768; Saunders v Duval's Adm'r, 19 Tex 467.

Footnote 81. Blizzard v Nosworthy, 50 Ga 514.

§ 1149 --In favor of party calling for production

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In some cases it has been said that the production of a document on notice to the adverse party, and its inspection by the party calling for it, make it evidence for both parties. 82 However, other authority states that a party to a suit cannot, by a notice to his adversary, have a paper or document produced and after inspecting it make the paper or document competent evidence in his favor, if its contents are otherwise inadmissible. 83 Under this view, a party securing production of a document must demonstrate its relevance to have it admitted into evidence over the opposing party's objection. 84 In any event, a mere notice to produce papers does not require the party giving it to place them in evidence if on inspection he finds nothing to his advantage. 85

Footnotes

Footnote 82. Morrison v Whiteside, 17 Md 452; Decker v George W. Smith & Co., 88 NJL 630, 96 A 915.

Footnote 83. Laufer v Bridgeport Traction Co., 68 Conn 475, 37 A 379 (ovrld on other grounds by Moffitt v Connecticut Co., 86 Conn 527, 86 A 16); Boyle v Boston E. R. Co., 208 Mass 41, 94 NE 247.

Footnote 84. Alabama Power Co. v Tatum, 293 Ala 500, 306 So 2d 251.

Footnote 85. Smith v Rentz, 131 NY 169, 30 NE 54.

b. Right of Accused in Criminal Case to Production of Statement of Prosecution Witness [1150-1175]

(1). In General [1150, 1151]

§ 1150 View that statements are generally available

Courts in a number of states have taken the view that where a prosecution witness has testified on direct examination in the trial of the case, ordinarily the defendant is entitled to the production and inspection of a prior statement of the witness for the purpose of cross-examining or impeaching him at the trial. 86 Production of such statements may be governed by statute. 87 To justify its production, the statement of the witness must be relevant 88 or must relate to the subject matter covered in the witness' testimony on direct examination. 89 Some courts have held that a statement need not be produced if it is of a "confidential" or "privileged" nature. 90 Other courts, however, have rejected claims of confidentiality as a bar to disclosure of a statement, 91 including claims that a statement was protected from disclosure because it constituted the prosecuting attorney's work product. 92

§ 1150 ----View that statements are generally available [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Typed report of police officer who interviewed defendant after arrest was properly found to be "identical" to handwritten notes which officer used to prepare report, although handwritten notes could not be located, where officer testified in hearing out of jury's presence that he had placed notes next to typewriter and had typed them "word for word" onto report completed within hour of interview; since handwritten version of identical typewritten report was precisely type of document that would qualify as duplicative equivalent of material already disclosed, there was no Rosario violation in failure to produce handwritten notes. People v Serrando (1992, 1st Dept) 184 AD2d 1094, 583 NYS2d 245, app den 80 NY2d 837, 587 NYS2d 922, 600 NE2d 649.

No sanction was warranted for loss of police officer's notes containing serial numbers of "buy money" where officer testified that he wrote serial numbers on piece of paper which contained no other notes and then personally transcribed those numbers on to his typed report, and report was appropriately authenticated. People v Greany (1992, 3d Dept) 185 AD2d 376, 585 NYS2d 805, app den 80 NY2d 1027, 592 NYS2d 676, 607 NE2d 823.

Footnotes

Footnote 86. State v Green, 103 Ariz 211, 439 P2d 483; In re Waltreus, 62 Cal 2d 218, 42 Cal Rptr 9, 397 P2d 1001, cert den 382 US 853, 15 L Ed 2d 92, 86 S Ct 103; People v Hartgraves, 31 Ill 2d 375, 202 NE2d 33, cert den 380 US 961, 14 L Ed 2d 152, 85 S Ct 1104; Burns v State (Ind) 511 NE2d 1052; People v Poole, 48 NY2d 144, 422 NYS2d 5, 397 NE2d 697; Commonwealth v Gartner, 475 Pa 512, 381 A2d 114 (not followed on other grounds by Commonwealth v Haynes, 395 Pa Super 322, 577 A2d 564); Hoffman v State (Tex Crim) 514 SW2d 248.

Annotation: Right of defendant in criminal case to inspection of statement of prosecution's witness for purposes of cross-examination or impeachment, 7 ALR3d

Footnote 87. State v Lenarchick, 74 Wis 2d 425, 247 NW2d 80, 99 ALR3d 906 (statute requiring one party to produce for the other written or recorded statements of witness was applicable to both defense and prosecution and was not restricted to party who called witness).

Footnote 88. People v Hartgraves, 31 Ill 2d 375, 202 NE2d 33, cert den 380 US 961, 14 L Ed 2d 152, 85 S Ct 1104; State v Hale (Mo) 371 SW2d 249.

If prosecution objects to production of statement on the ground that it is irrelevant, the court shall by in camera inspection decide whether it is relevant; if it finds that some part is relevant and some part not relevant, the court shall excise such part as is not relevant. State v Thompson, 273 Minn 1, 139 NW2d 490, cert den 385 US 817, 17 L Ed 2d 56, 87 S Ct 39, habeas corpus proceeding (DC Minn) 286 F Supp 663, post-conviction proceeding 289 Minn 270, 183 NW2d 771, habeas corpus proceeding (DC Minn) 377 F Supp 589, affd (CA8 Minn) 512 F2d 769, cert den 421 US 1014, 44 L Ed 2d 683, 95 S Ct 2421, post-conviction proceeding (Minn) 384 NW2d 461.

Footnote 89. Miller v State (Alaska) 462 P2d 421; State v Ashton, 95 Ariz 37, 386 P2d 83; State v Pacheco, 38 NJ 120, 183 A2d 54; People v Malinsky, 15 NY2d 86, 262 NYS2d 65, 209 NE2d 694, on remand 52 Misc 2d 717, 278 NYS2d 15.

Annotation: 7 ALR3d 181 § 9[a].

Footnote 90. People v Humphries, 127 Cal App 2d 131, 273 P2d 562; People v Hartgraves, 31 Ill 2d 375, 202 NE2d 33, cert den 380 US 961, 14 L Ed 2d 152, 85 S Ct 1104; People v Malinsky, 15 NY2d 86, 262 NYS2d 65, 209 NE2d 694, on remand 52 Misc 2d 717, 278 NYS2d 15.

Footnote 91. State v Grunau, 273 Minn 315, 141 NW2d 815 (statute, barring disclosure by public officer of communications made to him in official confidence when public interest would suffer by disclosure, does not bar production of statements of prosecution witnesses for purpose of cross-examination or impeachment after such witnesses have testified on direct examination).

Footnote 92. People v Horton (1st Dept) 19 App Div 2d 80, 241 NYS2d 224, remanded on other grounds 15 NY2d 722, 256 NYS2d 933, 205 NE2d 199, on remand (1st Dept) 25 App Div 2d 720, 269 NYS2d 675, affd 18 NY2d 355, 275 NYS2d 377, 221 NE2d 909, remittitur and on other grounds 19 NY2d 600, 278 NYS2d 388, 224 NE2d 884 and cert den 387 US 934, 18 L Ed 2d 997, 87 S Ct 2059.

For contra state cases, see § 1151.

As to the production in a federal prosecution of statements which constitute a prosecutor's work product, see § 1157.

§ 1151 View that statements are generally not available absent foundation for production

The view prevailing in some jurisdictions is that ordinarily a defendant is not entitled to inspection of a statement of a prosecution witness for the purpose of cross-examining or impeaching him, even after the witness has testified on direct examination. 93 Production of statements has in some cases been denied on the grounds that they were the prosecuting attorney's work product. 94 In other cases courts have required, before ordering production of a prosecution witness' statement, that the defense lay a foundation for production by showing in what manner the statement may impeach the witness or otherwise aid the defense in the cross-examination of the witness, 95 that the witness has denied making the statement, 96 or that there is an inconsistency between the contents of the statement and the testimony of the witness at the trial. 97 However, even in jurisdictions where a prosecution witness' statement is not producible as of right, it has been held that ordering the production of such a statement lies within the discretion of the trial court. 98

◆ Observation: The decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Jencks case 99 (holding that where the statement of a prosecution witness is relevant, competent, and outside of any exclusionary rule, the accused is entitled to its production without laying any foundation of inconsistency between the statement and the trial testimony of the witness), did not involve a constitutional issue, but simply established a rule applicable to federal courts and not binding upon state courts. 1 Under other cases decided by the United States Supreme Court, however, production of a prosecution witness' statement can be obtained in some circumstances as a matter of due process. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 93. State v Smith (Mo) 431 SW2d 74; Ellison v State (Tenn Crim) 549 SW2d 691; Bellfield v Commonwealth, 215 Va 303, 208 SE2d 771, cert den 420 US 965, 43 L Ed 2d 444, 95 S Ct 1359; State v Pristell, 3 Wash App 962, 478 P2d 743, review den 78 Wash 2d 997.

Annotation: Right of defendant in criminal case to inspection of statement of prosecution's witness for purposes of cross-examination or impeachment, 7 ALR3d 181 § 4.

Footnote 94. Fisher v State, 241 Ark 545, 408 SW2d 894, cert den 389 US 821, 19 L Ed 2d 73, 88 S Ct 43.

A criminal defendant is not entitled to inspect statements of a prosecution witness taken by the prosecuting attorney in preparation for trial. Adjmi v State (Fla App D3) 208 So 2d 859, cert den (Fla) 218 So 2d 163 and cert den 395 US 958, 23 L Ed 2d 745, 89 S Ct 2098.

Footnote 95. State v Salvatore, 23 Conn Supp 459, 1 Conn Cir 313, 184 A2d 551 (where defense counsel gave no reason why he wanted the statement, except to state that if there was a statement, he should be allowed to cross-examine); McKenzie v State, 236 Md 597, 204 A2d 678.

Footnote 96. State v Nails, 255 La 1070, 234 So 2d 184.

Footnote 97. Anderson v State, 239 Ind 372, 156 NE2d 384; State v Nails, 255 La 1070, 234 So 2d 184; Leonard v State, 46 Md App 631, 421 A2d 85, affd 290 Md 295, 429 A2d 538; Mattox v State, 243 Miss 417, 139 So 2d 653; State v Aubuchon (Mo) 381 SW2d 807; State v Gilman, 63 Wash 2d 7, 385 P2d 369.

Footnote 98. McKenzie v State, 236 Md 597, 204 A2d 678; Mattox v State, 243 Miss 417, 139 So 2d 653; State v Aubuchon (Mo) 381 SW2d 807; Erving v State, 174 Neb 90, 116 NW2d 7, cert den 375 US 876, 11 L Ed 2d 121, 84 S Ct 151; Commonwealth v Carey, 201 Pa Super 292, 191 A2d 730; State v Gilman, 63 Wash 2d 7, 385 P2d 369.

Footnote 99. Jencks v United States, 353 US 657, 1 L Ed 2d 1103, 77 S Ct 1007, 75 Ohio L Abs 465, 40 BNA LRRM 2147, 32 CCH LC ¶ 70731.

Footnote 1. Mahone v State, 120 Ga App 234, 170 SE2d 48; Noel v State, 247 Ind 426, 215 NE2d 539, cert den 385 US 934, 17 L Ed 2d 214, 87 S Ct 294; Kanaras v State, 54 Md App 568, 460 A2d 61.

As to the supersession of the Jencks decision by act of Congress, see § 1152.

Footnote 2. United States v Bagley, 473 US 667, 87 L Ed 2d 481, 105 S Ct 3375 (disclosure by the prosecution of impeachment evidence and exculpatory evidence is required as a matter of due process where such evidence is material either to guilt or to punishment).

(2). Federal Prosecutions; the Jencks Act [1152-1175]

(a). In General [1152-1156]

§ 1152 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The Jencks Act 3 governs production of statements and reports of prosecution witnesses during federal criminal trials. The Act provides that in any criminal prosecution brought by the United States, no statement or report in the possession of the United States which was made by a Government witness or prospective Government witness (other than the defendant) shall be the subject of subpoena, discovery, or inspection until said witness has testified on direct examination in the trial of the case. 4 After a witness called by the United States has testified on direct examination, the court shall, on motion of the defendant, order the United States to produce any statement (as defined below) of the witness in the possession of the United States which relates to the subject matter as to which the witness has testified, and if the entire contents of any such statement relate to the subject matter of the testimony of the witness, the court shall order it to be delivered directly to the defendant for his examination and use. 5

If the United States claims that any statement ordered to be produced contains matter which does not relate to the subject matter of the testimony of the witness, the court shall order delivery of the statement for inspection in camera, and upon such delivery the court shall excise the portions of the statement which do not relate to the subject matter of the testimony of the witness. 6 With such material excised, the court shall direct delivery of the statement to the defendant. If the court has withheld any part of the statement from the defendant and the defendant objects to such withholding, and the trial is continued to an adjudication of the guilt of the defendant, the entire text of such statement shall be preserved by the United States and, in the event the defendant appeals, shall be made available to the appellate court for the purpose of determining the correctness of the ruling of the trial judge. 7 When a statement is delivered to a defendant, the court in its discretion, upon application of the defendant, may recess proceedings for such time as it may determine to be reasonably required for the examination of such statement by the defendant and his preparation for its use in the trial. 8

◆ Definition: Under the Jencks Act, a "statement" of a prosecution witness is (1) a written statement made by the witness and signed or otherwise adopted or approved by him; (2) a stenographic, mechanical, electrical, or other recording, or a transcription of it, which is a substantially verbatim recital of an oral statement made by the witness to an agent of the Government and recorded contemporaneously with the making of such oral statement; or (3) a statement, however taken or recorded, or a transcription of it, in any, made by the witness to a grand jury. 9

If the United States elects not to comply with an order of the court to deliver to the defendant a statement or portion of it as the court may direct, the court shall strike from the record the testimony of the witness, and the trial shall proceed unless the court in its discretion shall determine that the interests of justice require that a mistrial be declared. 10

§ 1152 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: What is "statement" under provisions of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500) and Rule 26.2 of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure providing for production of statement of witness following witness' direct examination. 125 ALR Fed 1.

Requirement of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500(b)) and Rule 26.2(a) of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that statement whose production is sought relate to subject of witness' direct testimony. 125 ALR Fed 157.

Footnotes

Footnote 3. 18 USCS § 3500.

Footnote 4. 18 USCS § 3500(a).

Annotation: Statements and reports of government witnesses producible in federal criminal case under Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500), 5 ALR3d 763.

Validity and construction of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500) as to defendant's right to production of statements and reports of government witnesses, 5 L Ed 2d 1014.

Footnote 5. 18 USCS § 3500(b).

Practice References Motion under Jencks Act—For production of statements of witness—After testimony for government. 7 Federal Procedure, L Ed, Criminal Procedure § 20:405.

Footnote 6. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

Footnote 7. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

Footnote 8. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

Footnote 9. 18 USCS § 3500(e).

Footnote 10. 18 USCS § 3500(d).

§ 1153 Historical background; constitutionality

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Jencks Act was enacted in response to the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Jencks v United States, 11 in which the Court established various rules for the availability and production of statements of prosecution witnesses in federal criminal trials. By the Act, Congress exercised its power to define the rules that should govern this particular area in the trial of criminal cases instead of leaving the matter to the lawmaking of the courts. 12 The Act, and not the decision of the Supreme Court in the Jencks case, governs the production of statements of government witnesses in a federal criminal trial. 13

The Jencks Act is constitutional as an exercise of Congressional power to prescribe rules of procedure for the federal courts. 14 In some instances, however, the statute may be overridden by an accused's constitutional right to disclosure of exculpatory evidence. 15

Footnotes

Footnote 11. Jencks v United States, 353 US 657, 1 L Ed 2d 1103, 77 S Ct 1007, 75 Ohio L Abs 465, 40 BNA LRRM 2147, 32 CCH LC ¶ 70731.

Footnote 12. Palermo v United States, 360 US 343, 3 L Ed 2d 1287, 79 S Ct 1217, 59-2 USTC ¶ 9532, 3 AFTR 2d 1680, reh den 361 US 855, 4 L Ed 2d 94, 80 S Ct 41.

Footnote 13. Rosenberg v United States, 360 US 367, 3 L Ed 2d 1304, 79 S Ct 1231.

Footnote 14. Palermo v United States, 360 US 343, 3 L Ed 2d 1287, 79 S Ct 1217, 59-2 USTC ¶ 9532, 3 AFTR 2d 1680, reh den 361 US 855, 4 L Ed 2d 94, 80 S Ct 41.

Footnote 15. United States v Gleason (SD NY) 265 F Supp 880, 67-1 USTC ¶ 9297, 19 AFTR 2d 1615; United States v Quinn (ND Ga) 364 F Supp 432.

§ 1154 Relationship of Act to Confrontation Clause and Brady rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although the Jencks Act has been characterized as intended to assure defendants of their right to confront their accusers under the Sixth Amendment, 16 its provisions are not a constitutional mandate, 17 and its requirements do not rise to constitutional stature. 18 Accordingly, while a violation of the Act may in some circumstances infringe upon an accused's Sixth Amendment rights under the Confrontation Clause by adversely affecting his ability to cross-examine government witnesses, 19 the Confrontation Clause is generally not violated by the government's failure to produce Jencks Act material, where the accused confronts at trial the witness whose statement was sought, has an opportunity to cross-examine him, and does so. 20

Under Brady v Maryland, 21 the suppression of evidence favorable to an accused violates due process, irrespective of the good or bad faith of the prosecutor, where such evidence is material to the guilt or punishment of the accused. 22 The government's failure to disclose a particular document which is not subject to production under the Jencks Act (because it is not a "statement" within the meaning of the Act) may nonetheless violate the rule of Brady and its progeny. 23 Some documents producible under the Jencks Act are also subject to disclosure under the rule of Brady and its progeny, and where this is so the Brady doctrine may require production of such documents at a time prior to the time which would be required under the Jencks Act. 24

Footnotes

Footnote 16. United States v Carter (CA10 Okla) 613 F2d 256, cert den 449 US 822, 66 L Ed 2d 24, 101 S Ct 81.

Footnote 17. United States v Beasley (CA5 Ala) 576 F2d 626, 78-2 USTC ¶ 9586, 42 AFTR 2d 78-6360, reh den (CA5 Ala) 585 F2d 796, 79-1 USTC ¶ 9107, 42 AFTR 2d 78-6369 and cert den 440 US 947, 59 L Ed 2d 636, 99 S Ct 1426, subsequent civil proceeding, summary judgment gr (SD Ala) 1993 US Dist LEXIS 16342, clarified, adopted, dismd (SD Ala) 1994 US Dist LEXIS 959.

Footnote 18. United States v Haldeman, 181 US App DC 254, 559 F2d 31, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1203, cert den 431 US 933, 53 L Ed 2d 250, 97 S Ct 2641, reh den 433 US 916, 53 L Ed 2d 1103, 97 S Ct 2992.

Footnote 19. Krilich v United States (CA7 Ill) 502 F2d 680, 34 AFTR 2d 74-5725, cert den 420 US 992, 43 L Ed 2d 673, 95 S Ct 1429 and (criticized on other grounds by Johnson v United States (CA7 Ill) 805 F2d 1284).

Footnote 20. United States v Hart (CA5 Ala) 526 F2d 344, cert den 426 US 937, 49 L Ed 2d 389, 96 S Ct 2653.

Footnote 21. Brady v Maryland, 373 US 83, 10 L Ed 2d 215, 83 S Ct 1194.

Footnote 22. 23 Am Jur 2d, Depositions and Discovery § 450.

Footnote 23. Chavis v North Carolina (CA4 NC) 637 F2d 213, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1243.

Footnote 24. United States v Campagnuolo (CA5 Fla) 592 F2d 852 (criticized on other grounds by Government of Virgin Islands v Martinez (CA3 VI) 780 F2d 302) (although Jencks Act requires prosecutor to allow defendants' counsel to examine witness' grand jury testimony only after he has given his direct testimony at trial, Brady might require prosecutor to disclose grand jury testimony at some time prior to trial).

But see United States v Anderson (CA5 Ga) 574 F2d 1347 (when Brady material is contained within Jencks material, disclosure is generally timely if the government complies with the Jencks Act).

§ 1155 Requirement that requested statement be in possession of government

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The Jencks Act applies to statements "in the possession of the United States," 25 which means in the possession of the federal prosecutor. 26 Anything in the control of the trial court, such as court reporter's notes, is not in the possession of the prosecutor and therefore does not fall within the requirements of the Jencks Act. 27 The Act generally does not apply to material in the possession of state authorities, 28 or to statements made to state officials, 29 although such statements may be subject to production under the Act where there has been close cooperation between state and federal officers, 30 or a joint federal-state investigation. 31

◆ Caution: A defendant who makes a specific request for Jencks Act material prior to trial, accepts the assertion by the prosecution that it does not have possession of such material, and lets the matter drop without seeking a ruling from the trial court on the issue has effectively abandoned his or her claim for such material. 32

§ 1155 ----Requirement that requested statement be in possession of government [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Requirement of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500(b)) and Rule 26.2(a) of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that statement whose production is sought relate to subject of witness' direct testimony. 125 ALR Fed 157.

Footnotes

Footnote 25. 18 USCS § 3500(a).

Footnote 26. United States v Hutcher (CA2 NY) 622 F2d 1083, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1146, cert den 449 US 875, 66 L Ed 2d 96, 101 S Ct 218; United States v Trevino (CA5 Tex) 556 F2d 1265, reh den (CA5 Tex) 562 F2d 1258; United States v Polizzi (CA9 Cal) 801 F2d 1543, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1257; United States v Cagnina (CA11 Fla) 697 F2d 915, cert den 464 US 856, 78 L Ed 2d 157, 104 S Ct 175.

Footnote 27. United States v Cagnina (CA11 Fla) 697 F2d 915, cert den 464 US 856, 78 L Ed 2d 157, 104 S Ct 175.

Footnote 28. United States v Bermudez (CA2 NY) 526 F2d 89, cert den 425 US 970, 48 L Ed 2d 793, 96 S Ct 2166; United States v Conway (CA3 NJ) 415 F2d 158, cert den 397 US 994, 25 L Ed 2d 401, 90 S Ct 1131; United States v Molt (CA7 Ind) 772 F2d 366, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 277, cert den 475 US 1081, 89 L Ed 2d 715, 106 S Ct 1458; Beavers v United States (CA9 Wash) 351 F2d 507; United States v Cagnina (CA11 Fla) 697 F2d 915, cert den 464 US 856, 78 L Ed 2d 157, 104 S Ct 175.

Footnote 29. United States v Moeckly (CA8 Minn) 769 F2d 453, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1264, cert den 475 US 1015, 89 L Ed 2d 311, 106 S Ct 1196 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Voss (CA8 Mo) 787 F2d 393) and cert den 476 US 1104, 90 L Ed 2d 357, 106 S Ct 1947, post-conviction proceeding (CA8 Ark) 1992 US App LEXIS 19602.

Footnote 30. United States v Heath (CA10 Okla) 580 F2d 1011, cert den 439 US 1075, 59 L Ed 2d 42, 99 S Ct 850.

Footnote 31. United States v Myerson (SD NY) 684 F Supp 41.

Footnote 32. United States v McKenzie (CA5 Tex) 768 F2d 602, cert den 474 US 1086, 88 L Ed 2d 900, 106 S Ct 861.

§ 1156 Requirement of testimony at trial by witness

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Jencks Act provides that in any criminal prosecution brought by the United States, no statement or report in the possession of the United States which was made by a Government witness or prospective Government witness (other than the defendant) shall be the subject of subpoena, discovery, or inspection until said witness has testified on direct examination in the trial of the case. 33 In this context, the word "trial" means a proceeding conducted for the purpose of determining guilt or innocence, 34 and accordingly the defense is not entitled to production of a witness' statement under the Act after the witness has testified at a preliminary hearing. 35

The bar against compulsory disclosure prior to the testimony of the witness whose statement is sought cannot be circumvented by resort to the Freedom of Information Act 36 or Rule 16 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. 37

◆ Practice guide: The Jencks Act does not forbid voluntary pretrial disclosure by the prosecution of the statements of government witnesses. 38 Also, a trial court may in its discretion require disclosure by a specified date prior to trial in order to expedite a trial involving many witnesses. 39 Moreover, pretrial disclosure of Jencks material may be required where such material is subject to pretrial disclosure under the Brady doctrine. 40

§ 1156 ----Requirement of testimony at trial by witness [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Requirement of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500(b)) and Rule 26.2(a) of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that statement whose production is sought relate to subject of witness' direct testimony. 125 ALR Fed 157.

Stipulation and order setting case for pretrial conference (including handling of documents under Jencks Act). 64 Fed Proc, L Ed § 20:690

Memorandum setting forth pretrial stipulation and order (including handling of documents under Jencks Act). 64 Fed Proc, L Ed § 20:690

Rules:

(FRCrP, Rule 16), amended in 1994, clarifies the rule's applicability to organizational as well as individual defendants.

Footnotes

Footnote 33. 18 USCS § 3500(a).

Footnote 34. United States v Murphy (CA3 Pa) 569 F2d 771, cert den 435 US 955, 55 L Ed 2d 807, 98 S Ct 1588 and (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in United States v Rosa (CA3 Pa) 891 F2d 1074).

Footnote 35. Robbins v United States (CA10 NM) 476 F2d 26; Gibson v Halleck (DC Dist Col) 254 F Supp 159.

As to the applicability of the Act to criminal proceedings other than trial, generally, see § 1174.

Law Reviews: Expanding Defendant's Discovery: The Jencks Act at Pretrial Hearings. 24 Buff LR 419 (1975).

Footnote 36. Barceloneta Shoe Corp. v Compton (DC Puerto Rico) 271 F Supp 591, 65 BNA LRRM 3063, 56 CCH LC ¶ 12127.

Footnote 37. FR Crim P, Rule 16(a)(2).

Footnote 38. United States v Murphy (CA3 Pa) 569 F2d 771, cert den 435 US 955, 55 L Ed 2d 807, 98 S Ct 1588 and (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in United States v Rosa (CA3 Pa) 891 F2d 1074); United States v Campagnuolo (CA5 Fla) 592 F2d 852 (criticized on other grounds by Government of Virgin Islands v Martinez (CA3 VI) 780 F2d 302); United States v King (CA6 Mich) 521 F2d 356.

Practice References Stipulation and order—Setting case for pretrial conference and providing for disclosure of Jencks Act statements of prosecution witnesses prior to their testimony. 7 Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed, Criminal Procedure § 20:689.

Memorandum—Setting forth pretrial stipulation and order and providing for disclosure of Jencks Act statements at or prior to trial. 7 Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed, Criminal Procedure § 20:690.

Footnote 39. United States v Garrison (ED La) 348 F Supp 1112; United States v Narciso (ED Mich) 446 F Supp 252 (disapproved on other grounds by Sprynczynatyk v General Motors Corp. (CA8 ND) 771 F2d 1112, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 952) and (disapproved on other grounds by McQueen v Garrison (CA4 NC) 814 F2d 951, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1048) and (disapproved on other grounds by Little v Armontrout (CA8 Mo) 819 F2d 1425, 23 Fed Rules Evid Serv 61) and (disapproved on other grounds by United States v Griffith (CA6 Tenn) 864 F2d 421).

Footnote 40. § 1154.

(b). Materials Subject to Production Under Act [1157-1161]

§ 1157 Generally

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table Go to Supplement
--

While a statement of a witness must "relate" to the witness' trial testimony to be producible under the Jencks Act, 41 the word "relate" as used in the Act does not mean that the statement must consist of a factual narrative covering the same matters as the trial testimony. A statement "relates" to trial testimony if it is a statement which would tend to impeach the witness' testimony for reasons of bias and interest, 42 or for reasons of faulty memory. 43 Statements are not producible, however, where they do not relate to the matter for which the accused is being prosecuted. 44 Material otherwise within the scope of the Act is not exempt from production on the ground that it constitutes the "work product" of government lawyers. 45

Where the final draft of a report is producible under the Act, its production and submission to the defense does not exempt the prosecution from producing a preliminary draft of the report where such draft has been "adopted or approved" by its author and otherwise meets the Act's requirements for production. 46

A tape recording of an interview between a government agent and a government witness is producible under the Jencks Act after the witness has testified if the recording relates to the witness' testimony. 47 A composite drawing made from photographs and descriptions cannot be considered a recordation or reproduction of words within the meaning of the Jencks Act and is not producible under the Act. 48 However, photographs must be produced on the defense's request if they constitute a part of a written statement made by a government witness. 49

§ 1157 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: What is "statement" under provisions of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500) and Rule 26.2 of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure providing for production of statement of witness following witness' direct examination. 125 ALR Fed 1.

Requirement of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500(b))and Rule 26.2(a)of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that statement whose production is sought relate to subject of witness' direct testimony. 125 ALR Fed 157.

Footnotes

Footnote 41. 18 USCS § 3500(b).

Footnote 42. United States v Borelli (CA2 NY) 336 F2d 376, cert den 379 US 960, 13 L Ed 2d 555, 85 S Ct 647 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Guerro (CA2 NY) 694 F2d 898) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v MMR Corp. (LA) (CA5 La) 907 F2d 489, 1990-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 69136).

Government should have made available to defense letter written by principal government witness to assistant United States Attorney where letter revealed important favors which witness had received from government in past and that he hoped for more in future and where letter, compared with witness's testimony, revealed that he tailored his testimony to what he thought government wanted to hear. United States v Sperling (CA2 NY) 506 F2d 1323, cert den 420 US 962, 43 L Ed 2d 439, 95 S Ct 1351 and cert den 421 US 949, 44 L Ed 2d 103, 95 S Ct 1682.

Annotation: Statements and reports of government witnesses producible in federal criminal case under Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500), 5 ALR3d 763 § 7.

Footnote 43. Rosenberg v United States, 360 US 367, 3 L Ed 2d 1304, 79 S Ct 1231.

Footnote 44. United States v Wigoda (CA7 Ill) 521 F2d 1221, 75-2 USTC ¶ 9664, 36 AFTR 2d 75-5633, cert den 424 US 949, 47 L Ed 2d 355, 96 S Ct 1421.

Footnote 45. Goldberg v United States, 425 US 94, 47 L Ed 2d 603, 96 S Ct 1338.

Footnote 46. United States v Walden (CA3 Pa) 578 F2d 966, on remand (ED Pa) 465 F Supp 255, affd (CA3 Pa) 590 F2d 85, cert den 444 US 849, 62 L Ed 2d 64, 100 S Ct 99 (while rough draft, as matter of judge's discretion, need not be disclosed if it is substantially identical to final report, trial court may make such determination only after taking evidence on contents of document).

Footnote 47. United States v Esposito (CA7 Ill) 523 F2d 242, cert den 425 US 916, 47 L Ed 2d 768, 96 S Ct 1517 and (criticized on other grounds by Bailey v Systems Innovation, Inc. (CA3 Pa) 852 F2d 93, 15 Media L R 1756).

Footnote 48. United States v Zurita (CA7 Ind) 369 F2d 474, cert den 386 US 1023, 18 L Ed 2d 462, 87 S Ct 1379.

Footnote 49. Simmons v United States, 390 US 377, 19 L Ed 2d 1247, 88 S Ct 967, on remand (CA7 Ill) 395 F2d 769, appeal after remand (CA7 Ill) 424 F2d 1235 and (criticized on other grounds by McGautha v California, 402 US 183, 28 L Ed 2d 711, 91 S Ct 1454) as stated in In re Federal Grand Jury Proceedings re Klausner (CA11 Fla) 975 F2d 1488, 6 FLW Fed C 1282 (photographs shown to eyewitnesses prior to trial to identify defendants did not relate to subject matter as to which witness testified at trial, where photographs were not part of statement approved by witnesses).

§ 1158 Notes of prosecutor or law enforcement officer

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Notes taken by a prosecutor or law enforcement officer pertaining to an interview with a potential government witness may be subject to production under the Jencks Act if the witness testifies at trial. 50 Such notes must relate to the subject matter of the witness's testimony to be within the purview of the Act. 51 They must also have been "adopted or approved" by the witness to constitute producible statements. 52 Where the witness, on cross-examination, testifies that during the interviews, the interviewer read back his notes to the witness for verification of their accuracy, the trial court should conduct an inquiry to determine whether the notes were adopted or approved by the witness. 53 The trial court's ruling on this issue is one of fact and will not be disturbed on appeal unless it is clearly erroneous. 54 A verbal acknowledgment that the notes are accurate is sufficient for the purposes of the Act. 55 However, discussions between the interviewer and the witness as to the general substance of what the witness has said, in order for the interviewer to be certain that he has correctly understood the witness, do not constitute adoption or approval of the notes within the Act, whose requirements are not met when the interviewer does not read back, or the witness does not read, what the interviewer has written. 56

◆ Observation: An oral statement which has never been transcribed in any fashion is not a "statement" within the meaning of the Jencks Act. 57 Moreover, the Act does not require law enforcement officers to make any record of an interview, nor to submit interview notes to the witness for approval so as to generate a statement which is producible under the Act. 58

Notes which are not signed, adopted, or approved by the witness must be a "substantially verbatim" recital of his statements to be producible under the Act, 59 and accordingly notes which consist only of one-word references and short phrases are not producible under the Act. 60

§ 1158 ----Notes of prosecutor or law enforcement officer [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: What is "statement" under provisions of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500) and Rule 26.2 of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure providing for production of statement of witness following witness' direct examination. 125 ALR Fed 1.

Requirement of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500(b))and Rule 26.2(a)of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that statement whose production is sought relate to subject of witness' direct testimony. 125 ALR Fed 157.

Case authorities:

In defendant's prosecution for attempted murder of his wife, trial court did not err in refusing to order disclosure, for impeachment purposes, of notes made by investigating officer as to conversation with wife; notes had not been signed or otherwise authenticated by wife, and trial judge had determined that notes were not discoverable either before trial or after wife testified. Summerford v State (1993, Ala App) 621 So 2d 1346, cert den (Ala) 621 So 2d 1352.

Footnotes

Footnote 50. United States v Harris (CA9 Wash) 543 F2d 1247 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Martin (CA5 Ga) 565 F2d 362) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Cole (CA5 Ala) 634 F2d 866); Rease v United States (Dist Col App) 403 A2d 322.

Annotation: Statements and reports of government witnesses producible in federal criminal case under Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500), 5 ALR3d 763 § 13.

Footnote 51. United States v Wood (CA9 Wash) 550 F2d 435, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 492.

Footnote 52. Goldberg v United States, 425 US 94, 47 L Ed 2d 603, 96 S Ct 1338.

Footnote 53. Goldberg v United States, 425 US 94, 47 L Ed 2d 603, 96 S Ct 1338.

Footnote 54. United States v Strahl (CA1 Mass) 590 F2d 10, cert den 440 US 918, 59 L Ed 2d 468, 99 S Ct 1237.

Footnote 55. United States v Loyd (CA11 Fla) 743 F2d 1555, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 182.

Footnote 56. Goldberg v United States, 425 US 94, 47 L Ed 2d 603, 96 S Ct 1338.

Footnote 57. United States v Taylor (CA8 Mo) 599 F2d 832.

Footnote 58. United States v Martino (CA5 Fla) 648 F2d 367, vacated, in part, remanded on other grounds (CA5 Fla) 650 F2d 651 and cert den 456 US 943, 72 L Ed 2d 465, 102 S Ct 2006, 102 S Ct 2007 and cert den 456 US 949, 72 L Ed 2d 474, 102 S Ct 2020 and on reh (CA5 Fla) 681 F2d 952, affd 464 US 16, 78 L Ed 2d 17, 104 S Ct 296 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Tille (CA9 Wash) 729 F2d 615, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 597).

Footnote 59. § 1152.

Footnote 60. United States v Consolidated Packaging Corp. (CA7 Ill) 575 F2d 117, 1978-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 61968.

Investigators' notes of interviews with witnesses which were made by them from memory several days after interviews were not "substantially verbatim" under the Jencks Act, even if they contained occasional verbatim recitations of phrases used by persons interviewed. United States v Hodges (CA5 Fla) 556 F2d 366, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 378, cert den 434 US 1016, 54 L Ed 2d 762, 98 S Ct 735.

One police officer's notes on statements of another were not "statements" within Jencks Act where there was no evidence that such notes were ever approved by officer or that his words were recorded verbatim. United States v Calhoun (CA9 Cal) 542 F2d 1094, cert den 429 US 1064, 50 L Ed 2d 781, 97 S Ct 792.

§ 1159 Records of surveillance activities

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Records of surveillance activities are not Jencks Act statements even though they have been transmitted by one government agent to another. 61 Accordingly, even though the law of a particular circuit may require that an government investigator's interview notes be preserved for production under the Act, 62 notes taken in the course of surveillance need not be preserved or produced. 63

Footnotes

Footnote 61. United States v Bobadilla-Lopez (CA9 Cal) 954 F2d 519, 92 CDOS 313, 92 Daily Journal DAR 419, cert den (US) 122 L Ed 2d 139, 113 S Ct 987.

Footnote 62. § 1158.

Footnote 63. United States v Andersson (CA9 Cal) 813 F2d 1450, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1391 (disapproved on other grounds by Bourjaily v United States, 483 US 171, 97 L Ed 2d 144, 107 S Ct 2775, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1105) as stated in United States v Dozier (CA9 Cal) 826 F2d 866, op withdrawn, substituted op (CA9 Cal) 844 F2d 701, cert den 488 US 927, 102 L Ed 2d 331, 109 S Ct 312.

§ 1160 Grand jury testimony

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

A statement by a government witness before a grand jury is producible under the Jencks Act to the extent that it relates to the subject matter of his or her trial testimony. 64 Such a statement is producible even though it has not been transcribed. 65 It is not necessary to produce grand jury minutes where the information producible under the Jencks Act is contained in other materials given to the defense. 66

◆ Observation: Although the government is obliged to make a record of all testimony before the grand jury, 67 it is under no obligation to create producible material under the Jencks Act by calling key witnesses before the grand jury. 68

§ 1160 ----Grand jury testimony [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: What is "statement" under provisions of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500) and Rule 26.2 of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure providing for production of statement of witness following witness' direct examination. 125 ALR Fed 1.

Requirement of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500(b))and Rule 26.2(a)of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that statement whose production is sought relate to subject of witness' direct testimony. 125 ALR Fed 157.

Case authorities:

District court's exclusion of witnesses' grand jury testimony was correct where it was clear that prosecution had dissimilar motives to develop their testimony to grand jury compared to motive at subsequent criminal trial at which they were unavailable to testify; prosecutor had no interest at grand jury in proving falsity of witnesses' assertion that bid-rigging "club" did not exist since defendants had already been indicted and there was no putative defendant as to whom probable cause was in issue and grand jury indicated to prosecutor that they did not believe witnesses' denial. United States v DiNapoli (1993, CA2 NY) 8 F3d 909, 38 Fed Rules Evid Serv 277.

Footnotes

Footnote 64. United States v Fanning (CA5 Fla) 477 F2d 45, reh den (CA5 Fla) 477 F2d 596 and cert den 414 US 1006, 38 L Ed 2d 243, 94 S Ct 365, reh den 414 US 1172, 39 L Ed 2d 121, 94 S Ct 935; United States v Sturman (CA6 Ohio) 951 F2d 1466, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 704, reh, en banc, den (CA6) 1992 US App LEXIS 531 and cert den (US) 119 L Ed 2d 586, 112 S Ct 2964; United States v Minkin (CA8 Mo) 504 F2d 350, cert den 420 US 926, 43 L Ed 2d 396, 95 S Ct 1122; United States v Watts (CA9 Cal) 502 F2d 726.

The trial court did not abuse its discretion in refusing to order production under the Jencks Act of a witness' statement concerning certain cocaine transactions which were unrelated to the transactions charged in the indictment. United States v Lochmondy (CA6 Mich) 890 F2d 817, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 486, post-conviction proceeding (WD Mich) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 8391.

Footnote 65. United States v Merlino (CA5 Fla) 595 F2d 1016, reh den (CA5 Fla) 603 F2d 860 and cert den 444 US 1071, 62 L Ed 2d 752, 100 S Ct 1014.

Footnote 66. United States v Jett (CA1 Mass) 491 F2d 1078; Paz v United States (CA5 Fla) 462 F2d 740, appeal after remand (CA5 Fla) 473 F2d 662, reh den (CA5 Fla) 475 F2d 1404 and cert den 414 US 820, 38 L Ed 2d 52, 94 S Ct 113, 94 S Ct 115, 94 S Ct 47.

Footnote 67. FR Crim P, Rule 6(e)(1).

Footnote 68. United States v Pastor (SD NY) 419 F Supp 1318; United States v Cruz (CA5 Fla) 478 F2d 408, reh den (CA5 Fla) 478 F2d 1403 and cert den 414 US 910, 38 L Ed 2d 148, 94 S Ct 231, 94 S Ct 258, 94 S Ct 259; United States v Short (CA9 Cal) 493 F2d 1170, motion gr on other grounds (CA9 Cal) 500 F2d 676, cert den 419 US 1000, 42 L Ed 2d 275, 95 S Ct 317.

§ 1161 --Relationship of Act to rules governing disclosure of grand jury testimony

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

The provisions of the Jencks Act relating to disclosure of a witness' grand jury testimony address only disclosure at trial; pretrial disclosure of such testimony is governed by Rule 6(e) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, 69 and the Act does not bar the pretrial disclosure of grand jury testimony where the requirements of Rule 6(e) for such disclosure have been met. 70

Although it is common practice for the court to conduct an in camera inspection of grand jury testimony to determine whether its disclosure is warranted under Rule 6(e), 71 grand jury testimony which is producible under the Jencks Act need not be inspected by the court before its delivery to the defense under the Act. 72

The disclosure under Rule 6(e) of evidence presented to a grand jury generally requires a showing of particularized need or compelling necessity. 73 It has been said that the Jencks Act does not require that the defense make any showing of particularized need for grand jury statements producible under the Act, 74 although some courts have applied the "particularized need" requirement in this context also. 75

Footnotes

Footnote 69. United States v Anderson (DC Md) 368 F Supp 1253.

Footnote 70. United States v Dixon (DC Del) 63 FRD 8; United States v Anderson (DC Md) 368 F Supp 1253; United States v Duffy (DC Ill) 54 FRD 549.

As to the secrecy of grand jury proceedings, generally, and exceptions to the rule, see 38 Am Jur 2d, Grand Jury §§ 39 et seq.

Footnote 71. Menendez v United States (CA5 Fla) 393 F2d 312, cert den 393 US 1029, 21 L Ed 2d 572, 89 S Ct 639.

Footnote 72. United States v Ramirez (CA2 NY) 482 F2d 807, cert den 414 US 1070, 38 L Ed 2d 475, 94 S Ct 581.

Footnote 73. Smith v United States, 423 US 1303, 46 L Ed 2d 9, 96 S Ct 2.

Footnote 74. United States v Hall (WD Okla) 424 F Supp 508, affd (CA10 Okla) 536 F2d 313, cert den 429 US 919, 50 L Ed 2d 285, 97 S Ct 313.

Footnote 75. United States v Llaca Orbiz (CA1 Puerto Rico) 513 F2d 816, cert den 423 US 861, 46 L Ed 2d 88, 96 S Ct 117, reh den 423 US 1039, 46 L Ed 2d 415, 96 S Ct 578; United States v Anderson (CA4 W Va) 481 F2d 685, affd 417 US 211, 41 L Ed 2d 20, 94 S Ct 2253.

(c). Procedure for Obtaining and Using Statement [1162-1170]

§ 1162 Necessity of motion for production

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

Generally, in the absence of a motion by the defense for production of the prior statement of a government witness, no production is required of the prosecution under the Jencks

Act. 76 However, the prosecution's agreement to early disclosure of materials producible under the Jencks Act obviates the need for the defense to move for such disclosure at the end of each government witness's testimony without lessening the prosecution's obligations under the Act. 77 An agreement by the prosecution to turn over to the defense all material producible under the Jencks Act covers statements made by government rebuttal witnesses as well as witnesses called during the presentation of the government's case-in-chief. 78

A request by the defense for production under the Act must be made with sufficient specificity and particularity to give the prosecution adequate notice as to which document should be produced, and to enable the trial court to determine whether the requested document is producible under the Act. 79 A general pretrial request is not sufficient. 80

Footnotes

Footnote 76. United States v Tellier (CA2 NY) 255 F2d 441, cert den 358 US 821, 3 L Ed 2d 62, 79 S Ct 33; United States v Atkinson (CA4 NC) 512 F2d 1235 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Hernandez (CA5 Tex) 580 F2d 188); Wagner v United States (CA9 Cal) 264 F2d 524, cert den 360 US 936, 3 L Ed 2d 1548, 79 S Ct 1459, reh den 361 US 857, 4 L Ed 2d 97, 80 S Ct 48.

Annotation: Proper procedure for determining whether alleged statement or report of government witness should be produced on accused's demand, under Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500), 1 ALR Fed 252.

Footnote 77. United States v McKenzie (CA5 Tex) 768 F2d 602, cert den 474 US 1086, 88 L Ed 2d 900, 106 S Ct 861.

Footnote 78. United States v Newman (CA5 La) 849 F2d 156, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 102.

Footnote 79. United States v Allen (CA7 Ill) 798 F2d 985, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 596.

Footnote 80. United States v Peterson (CA4 Va) 524 F2d 167, cert den 423 US 1088, 47 L Ed 2d 99, 96 S Ct 881 and cert den 424 US 925, 47 L Ed 2d 334, 96 S Ct 1136 and (disapproved on other grounds by Crosby v United States (US) 122 L Ed 2d 25, 113 S Ct 748, 93 CDOS 277, 93 Daily Journal DAR 572, 6 FLW Fed S 819) as stated in United States v Bundick (CA4 Va) 1993 US App LEXIS 13432; United States v Burke (CA9 Cal) 506 F2d 1165, cert den 421 US 915, 43 L Ed 2d 781, 95 S Ct 1576.

§ 1163 Time for motion

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

A motion for production should be made at the conclusion of the direct examination of the witness whose statements are sought, 81 and not at the close of the government's case, 82 nor after the trial has concluded. 83

◆ Practice guide: The identification and production of Jencks Act material may also be addressed at a pretrial conference. In any event, it is preferable for the defense to request and receive Jencks Act statements outside the presence of the jury, to avoid the jury's drawing the inference that if the statements are not ultimately used to impeach the witness, they must have been consistent with the witness's testimony. 84

Requiring defense counsel to request and receive Jencks material in the presence of the jury has been held to be reversible error per se, 85 although other authority has rejected this rule and held that the procedure to be followed is within the discretion of the trial court. 86

Footnotes

Footnote 81. United States v Simmons (CA2 NY) 281 F2d 354; United States v Peterson (CA4 Va) 524 F2d 167, cert den 423 US 1088, 47 L Ed 2d 99, 96 S Ct 881 and cert den 424 US 925, 47 L Ed 2d 334, 96 S Ct 1136 and (disapproved on other grounds by Crosby v United States (US) 122 L Ed 2d 25, 113 S Ct 748, 93 CDOS 277, 93 Daily Journal DAR 572, 6 FLW Fed S 819) as stated in United States v Bundick (CA4 Va) 1993 US App LEXIS 13432; Johnston v United States (CA10 Kan) 260 F2d 345, cert den 360 US 935, 3 L Ed 2d 1547, 79 S Ct 1454; United States v Benz (CA11 Fla) 740 F2d 903, reh den, en banc (CA11 Fla) 756 F2d 885, and cert den 474 US 817, 88 L Ed 2d 51, 106 S Ct 62.

Footnote 82. United States v Burke (CA9 Cal) 506 F2d 1165, cert den 421 US 915, 43 L Ed 2d 781, 95 S Ct 1576.

Footnote 83. United States v Clay (CA7 Ill) 495 F2d 700, cert den 419 US 937, 42 L Ed 2d 164, 95 S Ct 207.

Failure of the accused to seek production of a statement under the Jencks Act until after the trial has concluded constitutes a waiver of his or her right to relief for nonproduction. United States v Petito (CA2 NY) 671 F2d 68, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1594, 76 ALR Fed 785, cert den 459 US 824, 74 L Ed 2d 60, 103 S Ct 56.

Footnote 84. Beaudine v United States (CA5 Fla) 414 F2d 397, reh den (CA5 Fla) 418 F2d 500 and cert den 397 US 987, 25 L Ed 2d 395, 90 S Ct 1116; Gregory v United States, 125 US App DC 140, 369 F2d 185.

Forms: Stipulation and order—Setting case for pretrial conference and stating that attempt will be made to supply accused with Jencks Act material. 7 Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed, Criminal Procedure § 20:689; 11 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Federal Criminal Procedure, Form 11.

Memorandum—Setting forth pretrial stipulation and order and containing parties' agreement as to production of Jencks Act material. 7 Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed, Criminal Procedure § 20:690; 11 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Federal Criminal Procedure, Form 12.

Footnote 85. Gregory v United States, 125 US App DC 140, 369 F2d 185.

Footnote 86. United States v Nielsen (CA7 Ill) 392 F2d 849) and appeal after remand 133 US App DC 317, 410 F2d 1016, cert den 396 US 865, 24 L Ed 2d 119, 90 S Ct 143.

§ 1164 Necessity of showing that requested document exists

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

For the trial court to act on a motion for production of a witness's prior statement under the Jencks Act, there must be some reason to believe that such a statement exists. A prima facie case for the existence of such a statement may be made by the testimony of the witness on direct examination, 87 or by the witness's testimony on cross-examination as to whether a government agent took his or her statement before trial. 88 In the absence of any showing by the defense of a reason to believe that a requested statement exists, a statement by the prosecution that it does not exist may be accepted by the court. 89

Footnotes

Footnote 87. Ogden v United States (CA9 Cal) 303 F2d 724, appeal after remand (CA9 Cal) 323 F2d 818, cert den 376 US 973, 12 L Ed 2d 86, 84 S Ct 1137.

Footnote 88. Campbell v United States, 365 US 85, 5 L Ed 2d 428, 81 S Ct 421.

Footnote 89. United States v Resnick (CA5 Fla) 483 F2d 354, cert den 414 US 1008, 38 L Ed 2d 246, 94 S Ct 370 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v McKnight (CA8 Mo) 771 F2d 388); United States v Colacurcio (CA9 Wash) 499 F2d 1401.

§ 1165 Determination whether document should be produced

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The determination whether a particular document is producible under the Jencks Act is for the trial court and not the prosecution. 90 Once issues concerning the producibility of a requested statement have been raised, it is the duty of the court to conduct some sort of inquiry, 91 and this duty cannot be delegated to the jury. 92 The trial court's determination of what material must be produced under the Act is subject to review under the "clearly erroneous" standard. 93

◆ Caution: The duty of the court to determine whether a requested document must be produced extends only as far as necessary to resolve issues raised by the parties. Thus, where the defense asks the court to determine only whether notes of an interview of a government witness were adopted by the witness, and the defense does not in any way place the court on notice that it is relying on, as an alternative ground for production, the contention that the notes should be produced because they are verbatim statements, the judge is not required to determine whether the notes are verbatim statements. 94

Footnotes

Footnote 90. United States v Conroy (CA5 Fla) 589 F2d 1258, reh den (CA5 Fla) 594 F2d 241 and reh den (CA5 Fla) 594 F2d 241 and cert den 444 US 831, 62 L Ed 2d 40, 100 S Ct 60.

The administration of the Jencks Act is entrusted to the good sense and experience of the trial judges, subject to appropriately limited review of appellate courts. United States v Augenblick, 393 US 348, 21 L Ed 2d 537, 89 S Ct 528, on remand 206 Ct Cl 74, 509 F2d 1157, cert den 422 US 1007, 45 L Ed 2d 669, 95 S Ct 2628.

Annotation: Proper procedure for determining whether alleged statement or report of government witness should be produced on accused's demand, under Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500), 1 ALR Fed 252 § 6.

Footnote 91. Saunders v United States, 114 US App DC 345, 316 F2d 346, appeal after remand 116 US App DC 326, 323 F2d 628, cert den 377 US 935, 12 L Ed 2d 299, 84 S Ct 1339.

Footnote 92. Ogden v United States (CA9 Cal) 323 F2d 818, cert den 376 US 973, 12 L Ed 2d 86, 84 S Ct 1137.

Footnote 93. United States v Cathey (CA5 Fla) 591 F2d 268, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 8.

Footnote 94. United States v Newton (CA1 RI) 891 F2d 944, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 526.

Where defense requested production of reports prepared by FBI agents of their interviews with witnesses, no hearing as to whether such reports were "statements" under 18 USCS § 3500(e)(1) was required, inasmuch as there was nothing to suggest that the witnesses had ever adopted or approved the reports; however, remand was required to allow District Court to hear evidence as to whether the reports constituted statements by virtue of being "substantially verbatim recitals" of the witness' statements within the meaning of 18 USCS § 3500(e)(2). United States v Judon (CA5 Ala) 567 F2d 1289, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1003, appeal after remand (CA5 Ala) 581 F2d 553.

§ 1166 --Manner of determination; burden of proof

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

It is within the discretion of the court to determine in the most appropriate manner whether a requested document is a producible statement. 95 To determine whether a document is a statement under the Act, the court may—

—conduct a voir dire examination of the declarant on the witness stand. 96 —conduct a hearing outside the presence of the jury to examine evidence extrinsic to the statement. 97

—examine the requested document in camera. 98

◆ Observation: The Act specifically requires in camera inspection to resolve any question as to whether or to what extent the document relates to the subject matter of the witness's testimony. 99

The determination whether a document is producible under the Jencks Act is not an adversary proceeding involving allocations of burdens of proof, but simply a proceeding necessary to aid the court in discharging its responsibility to enforce the Act. 1 Thus, the burden is not upon the defense to prove that a requested document is a producible statement. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 95. Palermo v United States, 360 US 343, 3 L Ed 2d 1287, 79 S Ct 1217, 59-2 USTC ¶ 9532, 3 AFTR 2d 1680, reh den 361 US 855, 4 L Ed 2d 94, 80 S Ct 41.

Footnote 96. United States v Gallagher (CA3 NJ) 576 F2d 1028, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 218 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Clark (CA2 NY) 765 F2d 297); United States v Graves (CA5 Fla) 428 F2d 196, cert den 400 US 960, 27 L Ed 2d 269, 91 S Ct 360.

Footnote 97. Campbell v United States, 365 US 85, 5 L Ed 2d 428, 81 S Ct 421.

Footnote 98. Palermo v United States, 360 US 343, 3 L Ed 2d 1287, 79 S Ct 1217, 59-2 USTC ¶ 9532, 3 AFTR 2d 1680, reh den 361 US 855, 4 L Ed 2d 94, 80 S Ct 41; United States v Allen (CA7 Ill) 798 F2d 985, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 596.

Footnote 99. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

Footnote 1. Campbell v United States, 365 US 85, 5 L Ed 2d 428, 81 S Ct 421.

Footnote 2. United States v Smaldone (CA10 Colo) 484 F2d 311, cert den 415 US 915, 39 L Ed 2d 469, 94 S Ct 1411; Williams v United States, 117 US App DC 206, 328 F2d 178, appeal after remand 119 US App DC 177, 338 F2d 286, 5 ALR3d 746.

§ 1167 --Determination whether document relates to subject matter of witness's testimony

The government should identify particular documents, or portions of them, which it believes do not relate to the subject matter of the witness's testimony, rather than requiring the court to search at large through the requested documents to determine what is relevant and what is not. 3 In the absence of particularized objections by the prosecution, the court may routinely permit the defense to inspect whatever the prosecution produces in response to a proper request. 4 Where the issue is joined, however, it is the duty of the court to resolve it and not leave the question to the prosecution. 5

Resolution of the issue involves in camera inspection of the documents in question, 6 although in a case tried without a jury the court's examination of documents containing irrelevant and prejudicial material is not regarded as injurious to the accused. 7 A conviction may be vacated if an appellate court on review cannot be sure that an in camera inspection was conducted. 8 The defense is not permitted to inspect a contested statement in order to argue whether it is entitled to production of the entire statement. 9

Footnotes

Footnote 3. Rosenberg v United States, 360 US 367, 3 L Ed 2d 1304, 79 S Ct 1231.

Footnote 4. Rosenberg v United States, 360 US 367, 3 L Ed 2d 1304, 79 S Ct 1231.

Footnote 5. Scales v United States, 367 US 203, 6 L Ed 2d 782, 81 S Ct 1469, reh den 366 US 978, 6 L Ed 2d 1267, 81 S Ct 1912.

Footnote 6. § 1152.

Footnote 7. United States v Cimino (CA2 NY) 321 F2d 509, cert den 375 US 967, 11 L Ed 2d 416, 84 S Ct 486 and cert den 375 US 974, 11 L Ed 2d 418, 84 S Ct 491 and reh den 395 US 941, 23 L Ed 2d 458, 89 S Ct 1992; United States v Schall (WD Pa) 371 F2d 912, affd without op (CA3 Pa) 503 F2d 1399 and affd without op (CA3 Pa) 503 F2d 1400, cert den 420 US 993, 43 L Ed 2d 676, 95 S Ct 1432, reh den 421 US 972, 44 L Ed 2d 463, 95 S Ct 1970 and affd without op (CA3 Pa) 503 F2d 1400 and affd without op (CA3 Pa) 503 F2d 1400, cert den 420 US 932, 43 L Ed 2d 406, 95 S Ct 1137.

Footnote 8. United States v Cleveland (CA7 Ill) 477 F2d 310, 73-1 USTC ¶ 9357, 31 AFTR 2d 73-1173, appeal after remand (CA7 Ill) 507 F2d 731, 74-2 USTC ¶ 9771, 34 AFTR 2d 74-6095.

Footnote 9. Palermo v United States, 360 US 343, 3 L Ed 2d 1287, 79 S Ct 1217, 59-2 USTC ¶ 9532, 3 AFTR 2d 1680, reh den 361 US 855, 4 L Ed 2d 94, 80 S Ct 41.

§ 1168 Excision of unrelated matter

If after in camera inspection of a requested document, the court determines that only part of it relates to the subject matter of the witness's testimony, the court must excise those parts which do not relate to the witness's testimony. 10 The extent of excision is within the discretion of the court. 11

Since the sole basis for excision under the statute is that the excised portions do not relate to the subject matter of the witness's testimony, otherwise producible matter cannot be excised on grounds of internal security 12 or confidentiality of the information. 13 However, insofar as the witness has adopted a writing containing the trial strategy or other work product of the prosecuting attorney, such material may be excised as not relating to the witness's testimony. 14

After excision of material not relating to the witness's statement, the trial court must direct delivery of the material to the defense, 15 with the continuity of the statement unimpaired. 16 If the defendant objects to the excision of any material, the full text of the document in question must be preserved on the record for purposes of appeal. 17

Footnotes

Footnote 10. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

Footnote 11. United States v Warme (CA2 NY) 572 F2d 57, cert den 435 US 1011, 56 L Ed 2d 393, 98 S Ct 1885 and cert den 439 US 986, 58 L Ed 2d 658, 99 S Ct 580; United States v Stephens (CA6 Mich) 492 F2d 1367, cert den 419 US 852, 42 L Ed 2d 83, 95 S Ct 93 and cert den 419 US 874, 42 L Ed 2d 114, 95 S Ct 136.

Footnote 12. West v United States (CA6 Ohio) 274 F2d 885, 45 BNA LRRM 2895, 39 CCH LC ¶ 66218, cert den 365 US 811, 5 L Ed 2d 691, 81 S Ct 688, 47 BNA LRRM 2604, reh den 365 US 875, 5 L Ed 2d 864, 81 S Ct 899 and cert den 365 US 819, 5 L Ed 2d 697, 81 S Ct 701, reh den 365 US 875, 5 L Ed 2d 864, 81 S Ct 906.

Footnote 13. Ogden v United States (CA9 Cal) 303 F2d 724, appeal after remand (CA9 Cal) 323 F2d 818, cert den 376 US 973, 12 L Ed 2d 86, 84 S Ct 1137.

Footnote 14. Goldberg v United States, 425 US 94, 47 L Ed 2d 603, 96 S Ct 1338.

Footnote 15. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

Footnote 16. Holmes v United States (CA4 SC) 284 F2d 716, 97 ALR2d 782.

Footnote 17. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

§ 1169 Compliance with disclosure order; recess or continuance following disclosure

The prosecution may comply with a disclosure order under the Jencks Act by submitting to the defense the original 18 or a carbon copy 19 of the statement in question, or by making the statement available for inspection and copying at the prosecutor's office. 20

When a statement is delivered to a defendant under the Jencks Act, the court, upon application of the defendant, may recess proceedings for such time as is reasonably required for the defense to examine the statement and prepare for its use. 21 The grant of such a recess or continuance is within the discretion of the court; 22 refusal by the court to allow the defense sufficient time to review documents is an abuse of discretion. 23 The defendant cannot complain of lack of time to prepare where no formal request for a recess or continuation was made, 24 or where the prosecution produced the statement in question before the witness testified. 25

Footnotes

Footnote 18. Rosenberg v United States, 360 US 367, 3 L Ed 2d 1304, 79 S Ct 1231.

Footnote 19. United States v Tyson, 152 US App DC 233, 470 F2d 381, cert den 410 US 985, 36 L Ed 2d 182, 93 S Ct 1512.

Footnote 20. United States v Bloom (ED Pa) 78 FRD 591.

Footnote 21. 18 USCS § 3500(c).

Footnote 22. United States v Nabrit (CA5 Ga) 554 F2d 247; United States v Williams (CA7 Ind) 536 F2d 1202; Sendejas v United States (CA9 Cal) 428 F2d 1040, cert den 400 US 879, 27 L Ed 2d 116, 91 S Ct 122 and cert den 400 US 879, 27 L Ed 2d 116, 91 S Ct 127.

Footnote 23. United States v Hinton, 203 US App DC 187, 631 F2d 769, appeal after remand 285 US App DC 315, 909 F2d 554, reported in full (App DC) 1990 US App LEXIS 13531.

Footnote 24. Pallotta v United States (CA1 NH) 404 F2d 1035; Robertson v United States (CA5 La) 263 F2d 872.

Footnote 25. United States v Boyd (CA6 Ohio) 620 F2d 129, cert den 449 US 855, 66 L Ed 2d 69, 101 S Ct 151; United States v Rippy, 196 US App DC 243, 606 F2d 1150, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 969.

§ 1170 Return of materials to prosecution

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where the prosecution has delivered to the defense the prior statement of a witness producible under the Jencks Act, it is generally not entitled to the return of such material after the defense has finished its cross-examination of the witness. 26 However, where Jencks Act material delivered to the defense constitutes evidence against many other persons, and its disclosure could cause serious security problems, the court may order return of such material at the conclusion of the cross-examination and provide that defense attorneys still be allowed access to the material for use during trial. 27

Footnotes

Footnote 26. United States v Badalamenti (SD NY) 626 F Supp 655, later proceeding (SD NY) 626 F Supp 658.

Footnote 27. United States v Badalamenti (SD NY) 626 F Supp 655, later proceeding (SD NY) 626 F Supp 658.

(d). Noncompliance with Act [1171-1173]

§ 1171 Destruction of interview notes as violative of Act

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Notes prepared by law enforcement agents of an interview with a potential government witness may be subject to production under the Jencks Act if the witness testifies at trial. 28 Notwithstanding the possibility that such material may at some time be producible under the Act, some authorities have held that the government does not violate the Act by destroying such notes once they have served their purpose of assisting in the preparation of interview reports, 29 at least where such destruction is not in bad faith and is in keeping with standard agency procedure. 30 Where bad faith is required to make out a violation of the Jencks Act from destruction of a government agent's interview notes, an evidentiary hearing to determine the notes were destroyed in bad faith is not required where the accused's allegations of bad faith are merely conjectural. 31

Other authority states that under the Jencks Act the government must preserve such notes, even where they are subsequently incorporated into a formal interview report. 32 Where the Act is violated by the destruction of such notes, however, any conviction is subject to harmless error review. 33

◆ Comment: One circuit has distinguished between a government agent's notes of an interview which he or she subsequently uses to prepare a formal report, and notes or reports of an informant which are used by a government agent to prepare a report, stating that only the latter type of notes need be preserved under the Jencks Act. 34

Footnotes

Footnote 28. § 1158.

Footnote 29. United States v Sanchez (CA2 NY) 635 F2d 47, on remand (ED NY) 499 F Supp 622, affd without op (CA2 NY) 647 F2d 163; United States v Cole (CA5 Ala) 634 F2d 866, cert den 452 US 918, 69 L Ed 2d 422, 101 S Ct 3055.

Notes are not considered a Jencks Act statement until shown to and affirmed by the witness; once such final statement has been made, it is permissible for the government to destroy interview notes used in preparing it, and it is not violation of Jencks Act to fail to turn such notes over to the defense. United States v Gates (CA5 Tex) 557 F2d 1086, cert den 434 US 1017, 54 L Ed 2d 763, 98 S Ct 737.

Footnote 30. United States v Gantt, 199 US App DC 249, 617 F2d 831, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 553.

Government agents would be well advised to retain handwritten notes until prosecution is terminated, but good faith destruction of rough notes does not violate the Jencks Act. United States v Mase (CA2 Conn) 556 F2d 671, cert den 435 US 916, 55 L Ed 2d 508, 98 S Ct 1472.

But see United States v Truong Dinh Hung (CA4 Va) 629 F2d 908, appeal after remand (CA4 Va) 667 F2d 1105, cert den 454 US 1144, 71 L Ed 2d 296, 102 S Ct 1004 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v De Bright (CA9 Ariz) 730 F2d 1255) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Sarkissian (CA9 Cal) 841 F2d 959) and (criticized on other grounds by ACLU Foundation of Southern California v Barr, 293 US App DC 101, 952 F2d 457, 21 FR Serv 3d 1063) (destruction of Jencks Act material, even pursuant to routine procedure and without bad faith, may violate at least the spirit of the Act, but not where such destruction occurs outside the context of a criminal investigation).

Footnote 31. United States v Kuykendall (CA8 Mo) 633 F2d 118.

Footnote 32. United States v Parker (CA9 Cal) 549 F2d 1217, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 584, cert den 430 US 971, 52 L Ed 2d 365, 97 S Ct 1659.

But see United States v Angelini (CA9 Cal) 607 F2d 1305 (where most of government agent's rough notes of investigation had been lost during office move, and there was no evidence that such notes were destroyed pursuant to official agency policy, trial court did not err in failing to strike testimony of agent).

Footnote 33. § 1173.

Footnote 34. United States v Sanchez (CA2 NY) 635 F2d 47, on remand (ED NY) 499 F Supp 622, affd without op (CA2 NY) 647 F2d 163 (fact that at time it received informant's report government did not intend to use informant as witness is not adequate excuse for destroying report).

§ 1172 Sanctions

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Jencks Act provides that if the prosecution elects not to comply with an order to produce a witness' statement, the court shall strike the testimony of the witness and continue with the trial, unless the court determines that the interests of justice require it to declare a mistrial. 35 In this context the term "elects" refers to a conscious choice by the prosecution not to disclose a statement in its possession. 36 Where the prosecution's noncompliance with the Act is due to negligence, oversight, or other conduct not amounting to a conscious choice, the trial court is not limited to the response set out in the statute, but rather may apply such remedy as justice requires under the circumstances of the case, 37 particularly where the prosecution belatedly produces the statement without intent to suppress it. 38 If the violation of the Act consists only of tardy disclosure, it may be remedied by recalling the witness for further cross-examination rather than applying the sanctions mentioned in the Act. 39

The testimony of a witness whose statement is not produced (as distinguished from untimely produced) must be stricken, 40 unless the prosecution can show that the statement has in good faith been lost. 41 Furthermore, declaration of a mistrial is mandatory where the prosecution has, on the eve of trial, deliberately destroyed a producible document. 42

◆ Practice Guide: A defendant who believes that the government has failed to produce material covered by the Jencks Act must at the very least alert the trial court to this possibility, and cannot rely upon a multi-pronged pretrial discovery motion to preserve such a claim on appeal. 43

Where a mistrial is ordered for failure to comply with an order to produce, the retrial of an accused is not barred on double jeopardy grounds unless the motive of the prosecutor in not complying with the court's order was to provoke the declaration of a mistrial. 44

Footnotes

Footnote 35. 18 USCS § 3500(d).

Footnote 36. United States v Pope (CA6 Ohio) 574 F2d 320, cert den 436 US 929, 56 L Ed 2d 774, 98 S Ct 2828 and cert den 436 US 949, 56 L Ed 2d 792, 98 S Ct 2856 and cert den 439 US 868, 58 L Ed 2d 179, 99 S Ct 195.

Footnote 37. United States v Pope (CA6 Ohio) 574 F2d 320, cert den 436 US 929, 56 L Ed 2d 774, 98 S Ct 2828 and cert den 436 US 949, 56 L Ed 2d 792, 98 S Ct 2856 and cert den 439 US 868, 58 L Ed 2d 179, 99 S Ct 195; United States v Heath (CA10 Okla)

580 F2d 1011, cert den 439 US 1075, 59 L Ed 2d 42, 99 S Ct 850.

Footnote 38. United States v Wables (CA7 Ill) 731 F2d 440, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 394.

Untimely disclosure does not require striking of testimony or declaration of mistrial where the defendant is not prejudiced and the untimely disclosure was not a willful avoidance or egregious dereliction of the prosecutor's duty under the Act. United States v Dupuy (CA9 Ariz) 760 F2d 1492, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1530.

Footnote 39. United States v Pope (CA6 Ohio) 574 F2d 320, cert den 436 US 929, 56 L Ed 2d 774, 98 S Ct 2828 and cert den 436 US 949, 56 L Ed 2d 792, 98 S Ct 2856 and cert den 439 US 868, 58 L Ed 2d 179, 99 S Ct 195; United States v Keine (CA10 Colo) 436 F2d 850, cert den 402 US 930, 28 L Ed 2d 864, 91 S Ct 1531; United States v Valera (CA11 Fla) 845 F2d 923, 25 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1294, cert den 490 US 1046, 104 L Ed 2d 422, 109 S Ct 1953.

Footnote 40. United States v Well (CA9 Cal) 572 F2d 1383; Lee v United States, 125 US App DC 126, 368 F2d 834.

Footnote 41. United States v Love (CA5 Fla) 482 F2d 213, cert den 414 US 1026, 38 L Ed 2d 318, 94 S Ct 453; United States v Williams (CA8 Mo) 604 F2d 1102; United States v Perry, 153 US App DC 89, 471 F2d 1057; United States v Kilmon (NCMR) 10 MJ 543.

Footnote 42. United States v Lonardo (CA6 Ohio) 350 F2d 523.

Footnote 43. United States v McKenzie (CA5 Tex) 768 F2d 602, cert den 474 US 1086, 88 L Ed 2d 900, 106 S Ct 861.

Footnote 44. United States v Leonard (CA10 Okla) 593 F2d 951.

§ 1173 Nondisclosure as harmless error

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where a conviction is obtained in a case where the defense did not receive documents to which it was entitled under the Jencks Act, reversal is required unless the nondisclosure was harmless error. 45 The harmless-error standard applies whether nondisclosure is due to prosecutorial negligence, 46 good faith ignorance of the existence of a producible statement, 47 the trial court's erroneous refusal to order production, 48 or the destruction of a government agent's interview notes to which the accused was entitled under the Act. 49

Nondisclosure is harmless error where the use of the undisclosed statement for impeachment purposes would have been merely cumulative and the reviewing court cannot conclude that the statement would have created a reasonable doubt which otherwise did not exist. 50 There is authority to the effect that nondisclosure is harmless error where there is no substantial deviation between the undisclosed statement and the testimony of the witness at trial, 51 although other authority rejects this rule. 52

◆ Observation: Although rough notes of an interview with a witness are producible under the Jencks Act where such notes are a substantially verbatim recital of the witness's oral statements, 53 failure to produce such notes is probably harmless where the notes are substantially the same as a report based on the notes and released to the defense. 54

Footnotes

Footnote 45. United States v McKenzie (CA5 Tex) 768 F2d 602, cert den 474 US 1086, 88 L Ed 2d 900, 106 S Ct 861 (noting that courts should not speculate as to the potential usefulness to the defense of an undisclosed statement).

Footnote 46. United States v Izzi (CA1 Puerto Rico) 613 F2d 1205, cert den 446 US 940, 64 L Ed 2d 793, 100 S Ct 2162.

Footnote 47. United States v Beasley (CA5 Ala) 576 F2d 626, 78-2 USTC ¶ 9586, 42 AFTR 2d 78-6360, reh den (CA5 Ala) 585 F2d 796, 79-1 USTC ¶ 9107, 42 AFTR 2d 78-6369 and cert den 440 US 947, 59 L Ed 2d 636, 99 S Ct 1426, subsequent civil proceeding, summary judgment gr (SD Ala) 1993 US Dist LEXIS 16342, clarified, adopted, dismd (SD Ala) 1994 US Dist LEXIS 959.

Footnote 48. Goldberg v United States, 425 US 94, 47 L Ed 2d 603, 96 S Ct 1338.

Footnote 49. United States v Indian Boy X (CA9 Wash) 565 F2d 585, cert den 439 US 841, 58 L Ed 2d 139, 99 S Ct 131.

Although rough interview notes of FBI agents should be kept and produced so that the trial court can determine whether the notes should be made available to the defendant under the Jencks Act, their destruction, in the light of the other evidence in the record, as well as the fact that they were apparently destroyed in good faith, was harmless error under the circumstances. United States v Vella (CA3 Pa) 562 F2d 275, cert den 434 US 1074, 55 L Ed 2d 779, 98 S Ct 1262.

Violation of Jencks Act, by the destruction of interview notes producible under the Act, should be excused only where it is perfectly clear that defense was not prejudiced. United States v Crowell (CA4 Md) 586 F2d 1020, cert den 440 US 959, 59 L Ed 2d 772, 99 S Ct 1500.

Footnote 50. United States v Kimberlin (CA7 Ind) 805 F2d 210, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1121, cert den 483 US 1023, 97 L Ed 2d 768, 107 S Ct 3270, later proceeding 488 US 807, 102 L Ed 2d 19, 109 S Ct 39, on remand (CA7 Ind) 898 F2d 1262, 16 FR Serv 3d 147, reh den (CA7) 1990 US App LEXIS 7075 and cert den 498 US 969, 112 L Ed 2d 417, 111 S Ct 434, habeas corpus dismissed (WD Tenn) 798 F Supp 472, affd (CA6 Ohio) 7 F3d 527.

Footnote 51. United States v Welch (CA5 Miss) 817 F2d 273, cert den 484 US 955, 98

L Ed 2d 376, 108 S Ct 350.

Footnote 52. United States v Susskind (CA6 Mich) 965 F2d 80.

Footnote 53. § 1152.

Footnote 54. United States v Morrison (CA7 Wis) 946 F2d 484, reh, en banc, den (CA7) 1991 US App LEXIS 27979 and reh, en banc, den (CA7) 1991 US App LEXIS 28184 and on remand (ED Wis) 782 F Supp 80 and cert den (US) 121 L Ed 2d 696, 113 S Ct 826, appeal after remand (CA7 Wis) 983 F2d 1073, reported in full (CA7) 1992 US App LEXIS 33466.

(e). Incorporation and Extension of Act by Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure [1174, 1175]

§ 1174 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The provisions of the Jencks Act have been substantially incorporated into Rule 26.2 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, due to the notion that provisions which are purely procedural in nature should appear in the Rules, rather than in Title 18 of the United States Code. 55 Rule 26.2 extends the provisions of the Jencks Act by providing that the statements subject to production at trial are not only those of prosecution witnesses, but those of any witness other than the defendant. 56 The Rule does not, however, alter the Jencks Act's schedule for production of statements, 57 nor does it relieve a defendant seeking production of Jencks material from the necessity of making a request for production at the trial stage of the proceedings. 58

The provisions of Rule 26.2 have been incorporated by reference and made generally applicable to—

—hearings on motions to suppress evidence held under Rule 12(b)(3). 59

—sentencing hearings. 60

—proceedings for the revocation or modification of probation or supervised release. 61

—hearings on the detention of a material witness under 18 USCS § 3144. 62

—evidentiary hearings held under Rule 8 of the Rules governing proceedings under 28 USCS § 2255. 63

§ 1174 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: What is "statement" under provisions of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500) and Rule 26.2 of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure providing for production of statement of witness following witness' direct examination. 125 ALR Fed 1.

Requirement of Jencks Act (18 USCS § 3500(b)) and Rule 26.2(a) of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that statement whose production is sought relate to subject of witness' direct testimony. 125 ALR Fed 157.

Rules:

Sentencing hearings are now governed by (FRCrP, Rule 32(c)), as amended in 1994, and (FRCrP, Rule 32(c)(2)) provides for the production of statements at sentencing hearings under Rule 26.2.

Footnotes

Footnote 55. Notes of Advisory Committee on 1979 Amendments to the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure.

Footnote 56. FR Crim P, Rule 26.2(a).

As to the disclosure by the defense of statements of defense witnesses, see § 1175.

Footnote 57. United States v Litman (WD Pa) 547 F Supp 645.

Footnote 58. United States v Phillips (CA7 Wis) 854 F2d 273.

Footnote 59. FR Crim P, Rule 12(i).

Footnote 60. FR Crim P, Rule 32(e), per 1993 amendment.

Observation Cases decided prior to the incorporation by reference of Rule 26.2 into Rule 32(e) have held that the Jencks Act does not entitle an accused to the production of a statement contained in a presentence report, inasmuch as such a statement is not "in the possession of the United States" within the meaning of the Act. See United States v Dansker (CA3 NJ) 537 F2d 40, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 577, cert den 429 US 1038, 50 L Ed 2d 748, 97 S Ct 732 and appeal after remand (CA3 NJ) 561 F2d 485 and appeal after remand (CA3 NJ) 565 F2d 1262, cert dismd 434 US 1052, 54 L Ed 2d 805, 98 S Ct 905 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Peacock (CA5 Ga) 654 F2d 339, 8 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1603) and (disapproved on other grounds by Griffin v United States (US) 116 L Ed 2d 371, 112 S Ct 466, 91 Daily Journal DAR 14751) as stated in United States v Vastola (CA3 NJ) 989 F2d 1318, digest op at (CA3 NJ) RICO Bus Disp Guide (CCH) ¶ 8225 and reh den (CA3) 1993 US App LEXIS 11223 and on remand (DC NJ) 830 F Supp 250; United States v Bourne (CA4 Va) 743 F2d 1026, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 64; United States v Trevino (CA5 Tex) 556 F2d 1265, reh den (CA5 Tex) 562 F2d 1258.

Footnote 61. FR Crim P, Rule 32.1(c).

Footnote 62. FR Crim P, Rule 46(i).

Footnote 63. Rules Governing Section 2255 Proceedings, Rule 8(d).

§ 1175 Disclosure by defense of statements of defense witnesses

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 26.2 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, after a defense witness other than the defendant has testified under direct examination, the court, upon motion of the government, must order the defendant and his or her counsel to produce for examination and use by the government any statement of the witness that is in the possession of the defense and relates to the subject matter concerning which the witness has testified. 64 The government is not entitled to any prior statements of a defense witness before such witness has testified at trial. 65

◆ Definition: Under Rule 26.2, a "statement" of a witness is (1) a written statement made by the witness that is signed or otherwise adopted or approved by the witness; (2) a substantially verbatim recital of an oral statement made by the witness that is recorded contemporaneously with the making of the oral statement and that is contained in a stenographic, mechanical, electrical, or other recording or a transcription thereof; or (3) a statement, however taken or recorded, or a transcription thereof, made by the witness to a grand jury. 66

If the entire contents of the statement relate to the subject matter concerning which the witness has testified, the court must order that the statement be delivered to the government. 67 If the defense claims that the statement contains matter that does not relate to the subject matter concerning which the witness has testified, the court shall order that it be delivered to the court in camera, and upon inspection, the court shall excise the portions of the statement which do not relate to the subject matter concerning which the witness has testified, and shall order that the statement, with such material excised, shall be delivered to the government. 68 Upon delivery of the statement, the court, upon application by the government, may recess proceedings in the trial to permit examination of the statement and preparation for its use in the trial. 69 If the defense elects not to comply with an order to deliver a statement to the government, the court must order that the testimony of the witness be stricken from the record and that the trial proceed. 70

◆ Comment: The extension of Jencks Act responsibilities to the defense by Rule 26.2 has been criticized as creating the potential for disclosure of statements otherwise privileged under the work product doctrine and perhaps under the Sixth Amendment, under circumstances in which no waiver has occurred by testimonial use of the statements during direct examination by the defense, and thereby interfering with the constitutional right to compulsory process by precluding the testimony of a defense witness whose statements are not disclosed. 71

Footnotes

Footnote 64. FR Crim P, Rule 26.2(a).

Footnote 65. United States v Felt (DC Dist Col) 502 F Supp 71.

Footnote 66. FR Crim P, Rule 26.2(f).

Footnote 67. FR Crim P, Rule 26.2(b).

Footnote 68. FR Crim P, Rule 26.2(c).

Footnote 69. FR Crim P, Rule 26.2(d).

Footnote 70. FR Crim P, Rule 26.2(e).

Footnote 71.

Law Reviews: Pulaski, Extending the Disclosure Requirements of the Jencks Act to Defendants: Constitutional and Nonconstitutional Considerations. 64 Iowa L Rev 1 (1979).

7. Admissibility, Authentication, or Use of Particular Documents [1176-1429]

a. In General [1176-1179]

§ 1176 Documents not written or executed by party against whom they are offered

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the doctrine of "res inter alios acta," a litigant's rights generally cannot be affected by the words or acts of others with whom he is in no way connected, and for whose words or acts he is not responsible. ⁷² Thus, private writings which come from a source other than the party against whom they are offered must be shown to have been authorized by, or otherwise to be binding upon, him in order to be received in evidence. ⁷³ If no such showing can be made, such writings are excludable under the rule. ⁷⁴

Footnotes

Footnote 72. Erben v Erben (Ala App) 462 So 2d 377.

Footnote 73. Beebe v Kirkpatrick, 321 Ill 612, 152 NE 539, 47 ALR 891; Waltham Watch & Clock Co. v Waltham, 272 Mass 396, 172 NE 579, 71 ALR 960; Virtue v

Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 123 Minn 17, 142 NW 930, reh den 123 Minn 45, 142 NW 1136; Stone v Proctor, 259 NC 633, 131 SE2d 297, 99 ALR2d 593.

Footnote 74. State v Rozeboom, 145 Iowa 620, 124 NW 783; Helton v Asher, 103 Ky 730, 46 SW 22; Hayes v Wabash R. Co., 163 Mich 174, 128 NW 217; Wilbur v Stoepel, 82 Mich 344, 46 NW 724; Virtue v Creamery Package Mfg. Co., 123 Minn 17, 142 NW 930, reh den 123 Minn 45, 142 NW 1136; State Bank of Pike v Brown, 165 NY 216, 59 NE 1; Seaboard A. L. Ry. v Earle, 86 SC 91, 67 SE 1069.

As to the inadmissibility of recitals in an instrument as against a stranger to the instrument, see § 1027.

§ 1177 Documents pertaining to dealings of party with nonparty

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In addition to providing for the exclusion of evidence of the acts or declarations of a nonparty, 75 the doctrine of res inter alios acta generally encompasses the exclusion of evidence as to the dealings of parties to the action with nonparties. 76 However, the doctrine is generally limited to the exclusion of such evidence when it is offered for the purpose of proving that past acts shown by such evidence have reoccurred. 77 Documents pertaining to dealings between a party and a nonparty, offered as proof of matters other than similar acts, are admissible. 78

Footnotes

Footnote 75. § 1176.

Footnote 76. Dorcal, Inc. v Xerox Corp. (Ala) 398 So 2d 665.

Footnote 77. Frank B. Hall & Co. v Buck (Tex App Houston (14th Dist)) 678 SW2d 612, writ ref n r e (Dec 12, 1984) and reh of writ of error overr (Jan 23, 1985) and cert den 472 US 1009, 86 L Ed 2d 720, 105 S Ct 2704.

Footnote 78. Davis v Nelson-Deppe, Inc., 91 Idaho 463, 424 P2d 733 (in action by owner of truck for damages to equipment sustained when it went off a portion of highway being repaired by the defendant, contract between state and defendant to repair the highway was admissible for the limited purpose of showing circumstances relevant to determination of the standard of care owed by the defendant to the plaintiff).

§ 1178 Writings incompetent in part

View Entire Section

Writings which contain material and competent evidence, or evidence which is material and competent to some issue in the case, are not to be excluded merely because they also contain incompetent evidence, or evidence not competent upon other issues, 79 especially where the inadmissible parts can be so covered up or deleted as to prevent the jury from seeing them. 80 Thus, a document otherwise relevant is admissible in evidence in a negligence action even though it contains a reference to liability insurance, where such reference is deleted or blocked out. 81 However, where a party attempts to introduce a partly admissible document without making any effort to delete or efface those matters in the document which are not admissible, the document may be excluded in its entirety. 82

It has been held that a writing which contains an offer of compromise is not inadmissible for that reason as long as it is competent evidence for other purposes. 83 However, other authority states that in some situations relevant evidence in a writing can be so integral to settlement negotiations contained in the same writing as to be unseverable for the purpose of admissibility, and that in such cases the relevant evidence must be excluded. 84 Written statements, or reports regarding accidents, containing admissions or statements against interests, are admissible notwithstanding they relate to or include matters of opinion or conclusions. 85

Footnotes

Footnote 79. Southern P. Co. v Schoer (CA8 Utah) 114 F 466; In re Coddington's Will, 307 NY 181, 120 NE2d 777.

Footnote 80. Yuin v Hilton, 165 Ohio St 164, 59 Ohio Ops 219, 134 NE2d 719, 57 ALR2d 681.

Footnote 81. Jamison v A. M. Byers Co. (CA3 Pa) 330 F2d 657, cert den 379 US 839, 13 L Ed 2d 45, 85 S Ct 74; Guarnaccia v Wiecenski, 130 Conn 20, 31 A2d 464.

Footnote 82. High Voltage Engineering Corp. v Pierce (CA10 NM) 359 F2d 33, 21 ALR3d 1345 (trial court in personal injury suit properly excluded from evidence a report of the Atomic Energy Commission, which was made after an investigation of the accident at issue, where the defendant, although conceding that a portion of the report dealing with specific safety recommendations was inadmissible, offered the entire report as an exhibit and made no attempt to separate that part of the report which it contended was relevant and admissible from that which was inadmissible).

Footnote 83. Kennell v Boyer, 144 Iowa 303, 122 NW 941.

Footnote 84. Atwater v Gulf Maintenance & Supply, Inc. (Fla App D1) 424 So 2d 135.

Footnote 85. Swain v Oregon Motor Stages, 160 Or 1, 82 P2d 1084, 118 ALR 1225.

§ 1179 Writings not fully executed

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The fact that a private writing is not fully executed by one of the parties to it, or is invalid and ineffectual as a contract or conveyance, does not render it inadmissible where it is not offered to prove its terms, but merely to establish its existence, or is offered as collateral evidence of another fact, such as the state of mind of the party offering it. 86 The fact that a party may show by parol that he executed an instrument in blank, and that it was filled in without authority or improperly, 87 does not render it inadmissible in evidence, where it is otherwise relevant, material, and competent. 88

Footnotes

Footnote 86. Harper v Durden, 177 Ga 216, 170 SE 45, 89 ALR 625; Pulsifer v Walker, 85 NH 434, 159 A 426, 81 ALR 1052.

Footnote 87. § 1108.

Footnote 88. West Coast Credit Corp. v Pedersen, 64 Wash 2d 33, 390 P2d 551 (whether the writing in question expressed the contract between the parties was to be determined by the trier of fact, and it was error to exclude it on the bare assertion of its invalidity by the person who admittedly executed it).

b. Self-authenticating Documents under Uniform Rules of Evidence and Federal Rules of Evidence [1180-1200]

§ 1180 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 902 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and of the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to certain documents. The Rule collects and incorporates, and in some instances expands, situations developed over the years by case law and statutes providing that authenticity is taken as sufficiently established for purposes of admissibility without extrinsic evidence to that effect, sometimes for reasons of policy, but more often because of practical considerations minimizing the possibility of inauthenticity. 89 The idea behind Rule 902 is that the possibility of fraud, forgery, or misattribution of certain documents is so slight as to justify dispensing with extrinsic evidence of their authenticity. 90 Self-authentication does not eliminate the requirement of relevancy, 91 nor does it foreclose an opposing party from disputing the authenticity of the document. 92 However, one writer has said that facts which make a document self-authenticating under Rule 902 also constitute cogent and compelling evidence as to its authenticity, and that, accordingly, the trier of fact should be regarded as bound to find such a document authentic unless sufficient counterproof on this issue is adduced. 93

Footnotes

Footnote 89. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 90. United States v Howard-Arias (CA4 Va) 679 F2d 363, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1218, cert den 459 US 874, 74 L Ed 2d 136, 103 S Ct 165.

Footnote 91. United States v Southard (CA1 RI) 700 F2d 1, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 545, cert den 464 US 823, 78 L Ed 2d 97, 104 S Ct 89.

Footnote 92. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

State v Moore (ND) 286 NW2d 274, cert den 446 US 943, 64 L Ed 2d 799, 100 S Ct 2170.

Footnote 93. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 528.

§ 1181 Domestic public documents under seal—generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to domestic public documents bearing a seal purporting to be that of the United States, or of any state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession thereof, or the Panama Canal Zone, or the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, or of a political subdivision, department, officer, or agency thereof, and also bearing a signature purporting to be an attestation or execution. 94 Whether based in whole or in part upon judicial notice, the practical considerations underlying this provision are that forgery is a crime and that its detection is fairly easy and certain. 95

◆ Comment: One writer has noted that Rule 902(1) changes the common law since the Rule is applicable to sealed documents from all levels of government, rather than exclusively to documents bearing a state's great seal. 96 Other commentators have pointed out that Rule 902(1) includes public documents bearing the seal of the appropriate office attesting to the absence of specified documents within the records of that office. 97

To be regarded as self-authenticating under Rule 902(1), a proffered document must bear an impression or other mark recognizable by the trial court as a seal of some government entity or officer; where the court cannot tell whether an impression is a seal or, if it is, whether it is the seal of a government entity or of a notary public, the document is not within the Rule. 98

◆ Observation: Rule 902(1) deals only with original public documents. Self-authenticating certified copies of public documents are treated by a separate subsection of Rule 902. 99

Footnotes

Footnote 94. FRE, Rule 902(1); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(1).

Forms: Authenticating certificate—With seal of court—To prove judicial record of another state. 22 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Seals, Form 7.

Authenticating certificate—By public officer having seal of office—To prove nonjudicial record of another state. 22 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Seals, Form 8.

Footnote 95. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 96. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185, 190 (1975).

Footnote 97. Pyle and Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151, 185 (1978).

As to the evidentiary effect of the absence of a public record or entry, see §§ 1375-1380.

Forms: Certificate—Proof of lack of record. 1 Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed § 1:1552.

Footnote 98. State v Mueller, 96 Or App 185, 772 P2d 433.

Footnote 99. § 1186.

As to authentication of copies of public documents which are not deemed self-authenticating, see §§ 1381 et seq.

§ 1182 --Particular documents as self-authenticating

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Documents which are self-authenticating under Rule 902(1) include:

- a document under the formal seal of the United States Postal Service (an agency of the United States for the purposes of Rule 902(1)), and with a signature purporting to be an execution 1

- certificates bearing the purported seal of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, an agency of the United States Government 2
- documents of a sister state evidencing a criminal defendant's prior convictions and bearing the seal and signature of court officials of that state 3
- an order of a state board of medical examiners cancelling the appellant's license to practice medicine 4
- state vehicle registration certificates which had stamped signatures, bore ink initials, and were under seal 5
- an exhibit which included a photocopy of a certificate of vehicle registration, attested to and certified by the state commissioner of the bureau of motor vehicles, the custodian of such records, together with the certificate of the state government that the attached attestation and certificate was executed by the duly appointed, qualified, and acting commissioner of the bureau of motor vehicles of the state and custodian of the records therein, where the documents executed by the governor and the commissioner contained the seals of their respective offices 6

On the other hand, an affidavit originating in an office of the United Nations or its industrial development organization, UNIDO, is not a domestic public document which is self-authenticating under Rule 902(1). 7

Footnotes

Footnote 1. United States v Moore (CA8 Mo) 555 F2d 658, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 32.

Footnote 2. United States v Wingard (CA4 NC) 522 F2d 796, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 107, cert den 423 US 1058, 46 L Ed 2d 648, 96 S Ct 792.

Footnote 3. Amin v State (Wyo) 695 P2d 1021, postconviction proceeding (Wyo) 774 P2d 597, related proceeding (Wyo) 811 P2d 255.

Footnote 4. United States v MacKenzie (CA5 Tex) 601 F2d 221, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1447, cert den 444 US 1018, 62 L Ed 2d 649, 100 S Ct 673.

Footnote 5. United States v Wexler (ED Pa) 657 F Supp 966 (noting that initials showed intent of appropriate custodian to attest to accuracy and authenticity of documents and thus met requirements of Rule 902(1)).

Footnote 6. United States v Trotter (CA8 Mo) 538 F2d 217, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 248, cert den 429 US 943, 50 L Ed 2d 313, 97 S Ct 362.

Footnote 7. United States v M'Biye, 211 US App DC 10, 655 F2d 1240, 8 Fed Rules Evid Serv 273.

§ 1183 Domestic public documents not under seal

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 902(2) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to a document purporting to bear the signature in the official capacity of an officer or employee of the United States, or of any state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession thereof, or the Panama Canal Zone, or the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, or of a political subdivision, department, officer, or agency thereof, which officer or employee has no seal, if a public officer having a seal and having official duties in the district or political subdivision of the officer or employee certifies under seal that the signer has the official capacity and that the signature is genuine. 8

Since it is easier to forge a document not under seal than a document under seal, Rule 902(2) provides that domestic public documents not under seal are not self-authenticating unless certified by a public officer who has a seal. 9 The view has been expressed that if the document in question is capable of being sealed (because the entity issuing it possesses a seal ordinarily affixed to its documents), the court should reject any attempt to authenticate it under Rule 902(2) and should require authentication under Rule 902(1). 10 Rule 902(2) requires no certification of the delegation of custodial authority; a signed certification by the public officer having actual legal custody of the record is sufficient to satisfy the Rule. 11

Rule 902(2) has been found to apply to a certified report signed by a specialist on the National Firearms Act branch of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms stating that the specialist had made a diligent search of the records and had found no evidence that the firearm described in an indictment had been registered to, or lawfully acquired by, the defendant and had found no application by the defendant to make and register a firearm, the government having attached to the report a document under seal executed by the Chief of the National Firearms Act branch of the Bureau stating that the specialist had proper custody and control of the records, that he was familiar with the specialist's signature, and that the signature on the report appeared to be true. 12 Rule 902(2) has also been applied to affidavits of CIA officials to which the certificate of the General Counsel of the CIA has been attached certifying that each affiant occupied the positions stated in his affidavit, the certificates bearing the CIA official seal. 13

◆ Practice guide: Counsel who cannot authenticate a document without a seal in accordance with Rule 902(2) may try to authenticate it by means of the general authentication provisions of Rule 901(a). 14

Footnotes

Footnote 8. FRE, Rule 902(2); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(2).

Footnote 9. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 10. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 530.

Footnote 11. United States v Combs (CA9 Cal) 762 F2d 1343, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1101 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Disla (CA9 Cal) 805 F2d 1340).

Footnote 12. United States v Combs (CA9 Cal) 762 F2d 1343, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1101 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Disla (CA9 Cal) 805 F2d 1340).

Footnote 13. Hunt v Liberty Lobby (CA11 Fla) 720 F2d 631, 10 Media L R 1097, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 988, appeal after remand (CA11 Fla) 824 F2d 916.

Footnote 14. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185, 190 (1975).

For a discussion of Rule 901(a), see §§ 1040 et seq.

§ 1184 Foreign public documents—generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 902(3) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to a document purporting to be executed or attested in an official capacity by a person authorized by the laws of a foreign country to make the execution or attestation, if accompanied by a final certification as to the genuineness of the signature and official position (a) of the executing or attesting person, or (b) of any foreign official whose certificate of genuineness of signature and official position relates to the execution or attestation or is in a chain of certificates of genuineness of signature and official position relating to the execution or attestation. Rule 902(3) further provides that a final certification may be made by a secretary of an embassy or a legation, consul general, consul, vice consul, or consular agent of the United States, or a diplomat or consular official of the foreign country assigned or accredited to the United States. However, if reasonable opportunity has been given to all parties to investigate the authenticity and accuracy of official documents, the court may, for good cause shown, order that they be treated as presumptively authentic without final certification or permit them to be evidenced by an attested summary with or without certification. 15 It is not necessary to introduce a statement by the affiant that he or she is the official designated to make the necessary certifications under the foreign law as required by Rule 902(3). 16 However, a foreign document cannot be authenticated under the Rule if it appears to have been tampered with. 17

◆ Observation: Rule 902(3) is derived from Rule 44(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 18 and accordingly the notes accompanying Rule 44(a)(2) may be used to interpret and apply Rule 902(3). 19 Rule 902(3), however, is broader than Rule 44(a)(2) in that it applies to public documents and is not limited to public records. 20 The distinction between "public documents" and "public records," however, is not discussed in the Advisory Committee Notes to either Rule 902 or Rule 44. A "public document" has been defined as an official paper, a document on file in a public office, and a publication printed by order of Congress or either house thereof. 21 A "public record" has been defined as a record required by law to be kept, or necessary to be kept in the discharge of a duty imposed by law, or directed by law to serve as a memorial and evidence of something written, said, or done. 22

Rule 902(3) pertains only to dispensing with extrinsic evidence of a document's authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility; a motion made under this Rule to dispense with proof of the authenticity of a document which contains hearsay is not sufficient to put the opponent on notice that the proponent intends to offer the document in evidence under the exception to the hearsay rule contained in Rule 803(24). 23

Footnotes

Footnote 15. FRE, Rule 902(3); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(3).

Footnote 16. United States v Howard-Arias (CA4 Va) 679 F2d 363, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1218, cert den 459 US 874, 74 L Ed 2d 136, 103 S Ct 165.

Footnote 17. United States v Castaneda-Reyes (CA11 Fla) 703 F2d 522, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1536, cert den 464 US 856, 78 L Ed 2d 157, 104 S Ct 174.

Footnote 18. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

As to Rule 44(a)(2), see § 1393.

Footnote 19. United States v De Jongh (CA1 Puerto Rico) 937 F2d 1, 33 Fed Rules Evid Serv 132.

Footnote 20. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 21. Ballentine's Law Dictionary.

Footnote 22. Ballentine's Law Dictionary.

Footnote 23. United States v One 1968 Piper Navajo Twin Engine Aircraft (CA5 Tex) 594 F2d 1040, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906.

As to Rule 803(24), see §§ 683-689.

§ 1185 --Authentication of particular documents

View Entire Section

Rule 902(3) has been used to authorize the admission of:

- a certified document signed by the general commander of the Naval Force of Honduras and attested to by the Minister of National Defense and Safety of Honduras stating that a search of vessel registration records at the Honduras Naval Command Headquarters revealed no registration for a vessel allegedly operated by marijuana smugglers 24
- a purported record of felonies committed by an accused in Germany 25
- a diplomatic note demonstrating Panama's grant of permission to the Coast Guard to board Panamanian vessels 26
- Mexican official records of birth properly authenticated by certification of American consular officials 27
- three certified Hungarian public documents, each document being accompanied by an English translation and the signatures of the public officials who executed the documents, such signatures being certified as genuine by the Vice Consul of the United States Embassy in Budapest, Hungary 28
- a record of a Japanese proceeding exemplified by a secretary of the Yokohama District Prosecutor's Office, and transmitted under the seal of the Consul of the United States 29

On the other hand, an affidavit originating in the United Nations or its industrial development organization, UNIDO, is not a foreign public document which is self-authenticating under the Rule. 30 A good conduct certificate ostensibly issued by a foreign government is not self-authenticating under Rule 902(3) where the purported signature of the official on the certificate is illegible, the document is devoid of any final certification, the consular official called as a witness cannot verify it, the existence of the document is not revealed to the opposing party until the day it is offered into evidence, and there are no circumstances constituting good cause for its admission notwithstanding its proponent's failure to comply with the Rule. 31

A magistrate is justified in regarding a foreign customs certificate as presumptively authentic when there has been a lengthy period of time since the commencement of the litigation, the opponent has failed to produce any evidence casting doubt upon the validity of the customs certificate, and there is independent deposition testimony supporting the certificate's authenticity. 32 When the requirements of Rule 902(3) are satisfied, and in the absence of conflicting evidence, a court will not assume that documents executed by public officials of communist countries are fabricated and presumptively unreliable. 33

Footnotes

Footnote 24. United States v Herrera-Britto (CA11 Fla) 739 F2d 551, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 264.

Footnote 25. Jordan-Maier v State (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 792 SW2d 188.

Footnote 26. United States v Pena-Jessie (CA4 Va) 763 F2d 618, 1987 AMC 912.

Footnote 27. United States v Montemayor (CA5 Tex) 712 F2d 104, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1575.

Footnote 28. United States v Regner (CA9 Cal) 677 F2d 754, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 856, cert den 459 US 911, 74 L Ed 2d 175, 103 S Ct 220.

Footnote 29. Lloyd v American Export Lines, Inc. (CA3 Pa) 580 F2d 1179, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 193, 47 ALR Fed 874, cert den 439 US 969, 58 L Ed 2d 428, 99 S Ct 461.

Footnote 30. United States v M'Biye, 211 US App DC 10, 655 F2d 1240, 8 Fed Rules Evid Serv 273.

Footnote 31. United States v De Jongh (CA1 Puerto Rico) 937 F2d 1, 33 Fed Rules Evid Serv 132.

Footnote 32. Black Sea & Baltic General Ins. Co. v S.S. Hellenic Destiny (SD NY) 575 F Supp 685, 1984 AMC 1055.

Footnote 33. United States v Regner (CA9 Cal) 677 F2d 754, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 856, cert den 459 US 911, 74 L Ed 2d 175, 103 S Ct 220.

§ 1186 Certified copies of public records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 902(4) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to a copy of an official record or report, or entry therein, or of a document authorized by law to be recorded or filed and actually recorded or filed in a public place, including data compilations in any form, certified as correct by the custodian or other person authorized to make the certification, by certificate complying with Rule 902(1), Rule 902(2), or Rule 902(3), or complying with any act of Congress or rule prescribed by the Supreme Court pursuant to statutory authority. 34 Rule 902(4) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence reads similarly, but provides that the certification of correctness may be made in accordance with any law of the United States or of the enacting state. 35

Under Rule 902(4), the certificate of the custodian or other person authorized to make the certification qualifies as a public document, receivable as authentic when in conformity with Rule 902(1), Rule 902(2), or Rule 902(3). 36 Thus, copies of official records may be authenticated by certification of the custodian or other person authorized to make them where the certification itself complies with the requirements of Rule 902(1) that the document bears a seal purporting to be that of a department or agency of the United States and a signature purporting to be an attestation or execution. 37 Rule 902(4) requires only that the custodian certify the accuracy of a copy, and eliminates as unnecessary the requirement of certification of the custodian's authority. 38

◆ Observation: The purpose of Rule 902(4) is to make it unnecessary to remove original records from official custody when they are needed as evidence. Modern copying techniques and the assumed integrity of public officials in making and certifying copies offer some assurance against mistake or fraud.

Certification by the officer having legal custody of the record satisfies the requirements of Rule 902(4). Extrinsic evidence of custody and of delegation is not necessary where there is a signed certification by the public officer having actual legal custody of the documents. There is no requirement in the Rule that the actual custodian of the records also secure further certification of the delegation of custodial authority down from the head of the department or agency entrusted by law with custody of the document. 39

◆ Practice guide: The authentication of a copy under Rule 902(4) may remove objections to the admission of the copy in addition to those based on its authenticity. Thus, under Rule 1005, a copy certified as correct under Rule 902 is not subject to an objection based on the "best evidence" rule. 40 And many public records which can be authenticated under Rule 902(4) fall within the Rules' exceptions to the rule against hearsay, such as the exceptions pertaining to public records generally, 41 property records, 42 judgments of a previous conviction, 43 and judgments as to personal, family, or general history, or property boundaries. 44

Since the method of authentication provided in Rule 902 is not exclusive, a proponent's failure to procure certified copies of the public documents in question does not bar their authentication under Rule 901. 45

◆ Comment: According to the Advisory Committee's Note to Rule 902(4) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, the certification procedure provided under the Rule extends only to public records, reports, and recorded documents, and does not apply to public documents generally; thus, not all documents provable when presented in their original form under FRE, Rule 902(1), Rule 902(2), or Rule 902(3) may be provable by certified copy under FRE, Rule 902(4). However, some commentators have said that this statement should be disregarded, inasmuch as it was not the intent of Congress or the drafters of the Federal Rules of Evidence to exclude self-authentication of certified copies of public documents. These commentators have reasoned that any original public document may be self-authenticated under FRE, Rule 902(1)-(3), and since the Rule surely intends self-authentication of certified copies of such documents and since there is no provision in any of the first three paragraphs of the Rule for certification of copies, self-identification of all public documents should be allowed under Rule 902(4). 46

Footnotes

Footnote 34. FRE, Rule 902(4).

Footnote 35. Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(4).

Footnote 36. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Forms: Attestation—Of copy of official domestic record by officer having legal custody thereof. 1 Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed § 1:1544.

Attestation—Of copy of official domestic record by deputy. 1 Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed, § 1:1545.

Certificate—Authentication of copies of recorded documents. 4A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d (Rev), Clerks of Court § 58:14.

Certificate—Authentication of copy of pleading. 4A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d (Rev), Clerks of Court § 58:15.

Footnote 37. United States v Pent-R-Books, Inc. (CA2 NY) 538 F2d 519, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 259, cert den 430 US 906, 51 L Ed 2d 582, 97 S Ct 1175.

Footnote 38. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185, 191 (1975).

Footnote 39. United States v Beason (CA5 Tex) 690 F2d 439, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1421, cert den 459 US 1177, 74 L Ed 2d 1023, 103 S Ct 828.

Footnote 40. § 1090.

Footnote 41. FRE, Rule 803(8).

Footnote 42. FRE, Rule 803(14).

Footnote 43. FRE, Rule 803(22).

Footnote 44. FRE, Rule 802(23)).

The hearsay rule and its exceptions are generally discussed in §§ 658 et seq.

Footnote 45. Zenith Radio Corp. v Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. (ED Pa) 505 F Supp 1190, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1329, 30 FR Serv 2d 797.

Footnote 46. Pyle and Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151, 187 (1978).

§ 1187 --Authentication of particular records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The mere fact that a document is kept in a working file of a governmental agency does not automatically qualify it as a public record under Rule 902(4) for purposes of authentication. For example, although the recorded version of a deed is a public record, a copy of a deed deposited in a working file of an agency is not by that fact alone a public record. 47 Examples of documents which are self-authenticating under Rule 902(4) include properly certified copies of:

- computer data compilations of federal income tax records 48
- a divorce decree issued by a court of another state 49
- a selective service file 50
- a "progress sheet" from the United States Treasury Department showing that a particular salary check made out to a government employee had been placed in the mail 51
- minutes of arraignment and sentencing hearings 52
- a document from the Department of Treasury, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms (BATF) stating that a defendant has not registered weapons which were manufactured in violation of federal law 53
- BATF documents declaring that the National Firearms Registration and Transfer Record has been searched and no evidence found that any firearms or silencers were registered or had been acquired by lawful manufacture by the defendants 54
- a state court judgment bearing an attestation stamped on the last page of the judgment, which attestation bears the purported signature of a deputy clerk of court, states "the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the official record, now in my lawful custody and possession," and gives the volume and page number of the court's minutes where the judgment can be found 55

In addition, under Rule 902(4) a trial transcript may be admitted into evidence at a contempt hearing; it is as such prima facie a correct statement of the testimony under 28 USCS § 753(b). 56

Footnotes

Footnote 47. Amoco Production Co. v United States (CA10 Utah) 619 F2d 1383, 67 OGR 136, later proceeding (DC Utah) 663 F Supp 998, 95 OGR 406, affd (CA10 Utah) 852 F2d 1581, 101 OGR 173, later proceeding (CA10 Utah) 852 F2d 1574, 101 OGR 160.

Footnote 48. United States v Farris (CA7 Ill) 517 F2d 226, 75-1 USTC ¶ 9497, 20 FR Serv 2d 1117, 36 AFTR 2d 75-5064, cert den 423 US 892, 46 L Ed 2d 123, 96 S Ct 189.

Footnote 49. Price v Price (Cuyahoga Co) 4 Ohio App 3d 217, 4 Ohio BR 323, 447 NE2d 769.

Footnote 50. United States v Simmons (CA9 Cal) 476 F2d 33.

Footnote 51. United States v Stone (CA5 Fla) 604 F2d 922, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1495.

Footnote 52. State v Buffalo, 4 Hawaii App 646, 674 P2d 1014, cert den (Hawaii) 744 P2d 781.

Footnote 53. United States v Beason (CA5 Tex) 690 F2d 439, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1421, cert den 459 US 1177, 74 L Ed 2d 1023, 103 S Ct 828.

Footnote 54. United States v Stout (CA11 Fla) 667 F2d 1347, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1466.

Footnote 55. AMFAC Distribution Corp. v Harrelson (CA11 Ala) 842 F2d 304, 25 Fed Rules Evid Serv 370, 10 FR Serv 3d 1148.

Footnote 56. United States v Lumumba (CA2 NY) 794 F2d 806, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1367, cert den 479 US 855, 93 L Ed 2d 125, 107 S Ct 192.

§ 1188 --Statutes under which Federal Rule may be invoked

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 902(4) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, any form of certification may be used for copies of public records which complies with an act of Congress or a rule prescribed by the Supreme Court pursuant to statutory authority. 57 Acts of Congress providing for certification of copies of public records include:

- 18 USCS § 3190, relating to certification by the principal diplomatic or consular officer residing in a foreign country seeking extradition of copies of papers offered in evidence in an extradition case
- 22 USCS § 4222, relating to certification of copies of Vatican City documents
- 25 USCS § 6, relating to certification by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs of copies of public documents, records, books, maps, or papers belonging to or in the files of said office
- 25 USCS § 199a, relating to certification by the secretary or chief clerk of the Oklahoma historical society of copies of any records, documents, books, or papers held by said society
- 28 USCS § 1736, relating to certification by the secretary of the Senate or the clerk of the House of Representatives of extracts from Journals of the Senate and of the House of Representatives
- 28 USCS § 1738, relating to attestation of clerk of copies of records and judicial proceedings of courts of a state, territory, or possession 58

- 28 USCS § 1739, relating to attestation of custodian of nonjudicial records or books kept in any public office of any state, territory, or possession 59
- 28 USCS § 1740, relating to authentication by consul or vice consul of copies of all official documents and papers in the office of any consul or vice consul of the United States, and of all official entries in the books or records of any such office
- 28 USCS § 1744, relating to certification by Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks of copies of letters patent or of any records, books, papers, or drawings belonging to the Patent Office and relating to patents
- 28 USCS § 1745, relating to certification by Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks of copies of specifications and drawings of foreign letters patent, or applications for foreign letters patent, and of copies of excerpts of the official journals and other official publications of foreign patent offices belonging to the United States Patent Office
- 31 USCS § 704(b), relating to certification by Comptroller General or Assistant Comptroller General of copies of any books, records, papers, or documents, and transcripts from the books and proceedings of the General Accounting Office
- 38 USCS § 202, relating to certification of copies of public documents, records, or papers belonging to or in the files of the Veterans' Administration by certification by the Administrator or his delegate
- 43 USCS § 83, relating to certification by registers and receivers of United States land offices of transcripts of records in their offices
- 44 USCS § 399, relating to certification by Administrator of General Services of copies or reproductions of records in the National Archives
- 44 USCS § 2116(b), relating to certification by the Archivist of the United States and the authentication by the official seal of records in the National Archives
- 46 USCS § 10312(f), relating to certification by the shipping commissioner of a copy of a release executed before such official in connection with a wage dispute involving a merchant seaman

Footnotes

Footnote 57. § 1186.

Footnote 58. As to 28 USCS § 1738, generally, see § 1399.

Footnote 59. As to 28 USCS § 1739, generally, see § 1386.

§ 1189 --Rules under which Federal Rule may be invoked

View Entire Section

Rules prescribed by the Supreme Court pursuant to statutory authority which provide for certification of copies of public records include Rule 44 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, relating to certification of domestic and foreign official records, 60 and Rule 27 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, relating to certification of domestic and foreign official records. 61

◆ Comment: Although FR Civ P 44(a) provides certification procedures of the type referred to in FRE, Rule 902(4), 62 FRE, Rule 902(4) is somewhat more expansive than FR Civ P 44(a) as to the methods of authentication and the documents which may be authenticated. FRE, Rule 902(4) reaches not only official records but also documents recorded or filed in a public office as authorized by law; FR Civ P 44(a) does not by its terms include the latter category of documents. Furthermore, under FRE, Rule 902(4), copies of official records may be authenticated by certification of the custodian or other person authorized to make the certification, whereas under FR Civ P 44(a)(1), official domestic records are required to be certified by the custodian of the records. 63 Finally, FRE, Rule 902(4) requires no second certificate attesting to the authority of the first certifier (provided that the first certificate is signed and sealed), while FR Civ P 44(a)(1) requires a second certificate attesting that the first certifier is indeed the custodian of the record in question. 64 Where a proffered document which is within the scope of FCRP 44(a)(1) meets the requirements of FRE, Rule 902(4), it will be viewed as self-authenticating even though it has not been authenticated according to FCRP 44(a)(1). 65

Footnotes

Footnote 60. For further discussion of FR Civ P 44, see §§ 1388, 1393.

Footnote 61. For further discussion of FR Crim P 27, see §§ 1388, 1393.

For a discussion of various Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, including FR Civ P, Rule 10(c), FR Civ P, Rule 16, FR Civ P, Rule 30, FR Civ P, Rule 31, FR Civ P, Rule 33, and FR Civ P, Rule 36, which may be used to obviate the need for certification or authentication, see § 1041.

Footnote 62. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 63. United States v Pent-R-Books, Inc. (CA2 NY) 538 F2d 519, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 259, cert den 430 US 906, 51 L Ed 2d 582, 97 S Ct 1175.

Footnote 64. § 1388.

Footnote 65. United States v Pent-R-Books, Inc. (CA2 NY) 538 F2d 519, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 259, cert den 430 US 906, 51 L Ed 2d 582, 97 S Ct 1175 (administrative record was admissible in evidence even though it did not meet the requirement of FR Civ P 44 that it be certified by an officer having legal custody of such record or by his deputy, where such record met the requirements for self-authentication under FRE, Rule 902).

§ 1190 Official publications

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 902(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to official publications; that is, books, pamphlets, or other publications purporting to be issued by public authority. 66 Such official publications are most commonly encountered in connection with statutes, court reports, rules, and regulations. 67

◆ Observation: Although officially published statutes and court reports are within the scope of Rule 902(5), the Rules do not govern the process by which a court informs itself of what the law is, 68 and therefore there appears to be no need to apply Rule 902(5) to such publications for that purpose.

The authenticity of an official document is sufficiently established when a copy of it is offered which purports to have been printed by authority of the government. 69 There is no requirement under the Rule that the public authority issuing the document be of the same jurisdiction as the court in which the document is offered in evidence. 70

Rule 902(5) does not confer admissibility upon all official publications, but merely provides a means whereby their authenticity may be taken as established for purposes of admissibility. 71 Thus, even though the authenticity of documents may be established under Rule 902(5), the documents may be held inadmissible as not sufficiently probative of the precise issues in the particular case. 72 Furthermore, a document which is self-authenticating by virtue of its status as an official publication may, nonetheless, be excludable as hearsay. 73

◆ Comment: Although Rule 902(5) is silent concerning the level of government that must authorize the publication in question, commentators have expressed the view that officially published local ordinances should be included within the Rule. 74 Another commentator has suggested that the level should extend at least as far down as the political scale referred to in Rule 902(1) (United States, any state, district, commonwealth, territory, or insular possession thereof, the Panama Canal Zone, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, and a political subdivision, department, officer, or agency thereof). 75

◆ Reminder: FR Civ P 44(a) also provides for authentication of a domestic or foreign official record by an official publication of it. 76

Footnotes

Footnote 66. FRE, Rule 902(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(5).

Footnote 67. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 68. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 201.

Footnote 69. California Asso. of Bioanalysts v Rank (CD Cal) 577 F Supp 1342.

Footnote 70. Liles v Employers Mut. Ins. (App) 126 Wis 2d 492, 377 NW2d 214 (report published by the Arizona Department of Health was self-authenticating and therefore admissible in Wisconsin state court).

Footnote 71. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 72. Uniroyal, Inc. v Jetco Auto Service, Inc. (SD NY) 461 F Supp 350, 1978-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 62194 (court, accepting authenticity under Rule 902(5) of certain statistical documents of New York State governmental departments, nevertheless ruled such documents inadmissible in suit involving alleged antitrust violations, since documents were not sufficiently probative of issues involved, including economic health of tire industry in particular county and, more specifically, causes of defendant tire franchise dealer's arrested growth rate during relevant period involved).

Footnote 73. Sikes v Seaboard C. L. R. Co. (Fla App D1) 429 So 2d 1216, petition den (Fla) 440 So 2d 353.

Footnote 74. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 533.

Law Reviews: Pyle and Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151, 189 (1978).

Footnote 75. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185, 192 (1975).

Footnote 76. §§ 1388, 1393.

§ 1191 --Particular documents as self-authenticating official publications

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A report by the United States Department of Health and Human Services regarding medicaid reimbursement rates for clinical laboratories is self-authenticating under Rule 902(5) where the report bears on its cover a facsimile of the official seal of the Department, suggesting that it was printed by authority of the Department. 77 Other documents whose authenticity has been established under Rule 902(5) include:

- the "Wisconsin Motorists Handbook," offered for the purpose of showing the effect of alcohol ingestion on driving ability 78

- a report published by the Arizona Department of Health Services which suggested that there was a shortage of nurses 79
- a publication of the Federal Aviation Administration warning owners and operators of Cessna aircraft of design characteristics which permitted the accumulation of water in the aircraft's fuel line 80

Footnotes

Footnote 77. California Asso. of Bioanalysts v Rank (CD Cal) 577 F Supp 1342.

Footnote 78. Lievrouw v Roth (App) 157 Wis 2d 332, 459 NW2d 850.

Footnote 79. Liles v Employers Mut. Ins. (App) 126 Wis 2d 492, 377 NW2d 214.

Footnote 80. Schneider v Cessna Aircraft Co. (App) 150 Ariz 153, 722 P2d 321, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10743.

§ 1192 Newspapers and periodicals

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 902(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to printed materials purporting to be newspapers or periodicals. 81 The authenticity of newspapers or periodicals is deemed sufficiently established for purposes of admissibility since the likelihood of forgery is slight and thus no danger is apparent in receiving them. 82 Rule 902(6), together with provisions on judicial notice contained in Rule 201, 83 permits a court to take notice of statements in newspaper articles without the necessity of authentication. 84

◆ Caution: Although the authenticity of a publication may be established under Rule 902(6), the questions of authority to publish a particular item and responsibility for such an item may still be left open. 85 Thus, the Rule does not by its terms establish that the indicated author of a newspaper story was in fact its author, or that a person who purportedly placed an advertisement in the newspaper did in fact place it. However, several commentators have suggested that inasmuch as serious errors as to the authorship or origin of feature articles or advertising material are unlikely as a practical matter, the authority of the publisher to print such matter should be assumed and its attribution in print should be regarded as at least prima facie correct. 86 Responsibility for the publication of an item may in some circumstances be governed by statute. 87

The fact that an article in a newspaper or periodical is self-authenticating under Rule 902(6) does not remove an objection to its admission based on its status as hearsay. 88

Thus, Rule 902(6) does not permit the admission into evidence of a newspaper story for the purpose of showing the truth of admissions supposedly made by certain persons and printed in the story, where the reporter of the story is not available for cross-examination.
89

Footnotes

Footnote 81. FRE, Rule 902(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(6).

Footnote 82. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 83. As to judicial notice under Rule 201, see §§ 27 et seq.

Footnote 84. Shell Oil Co. v Kleppe (DC Colo) 426 F Supp 894.

Magazine article lauding balsa-core material was self-authenticating under Rule 902(6) and therefore admissible in action against boat manufacturer. Snyder v Whittaker Corp. (CA5 Tex) 839 F2d 1085, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11708, 1988 AMC 2534, 24 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1217.

Footnote 85. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 86. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 534 (distinguishing letters to the editor and classified advertisements on the basis of the publisher's lower financial stake in the correctness of such material).

Pyle and Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151, 191 (1978).

Footnote 87. See, for example, 39 USCS § 3005(b), providing that a public advertisement, by a person engaged in activity amounting to mail fraud, to the effect that remittances may be made by mail to a person named in the advertisement, is prima facie evidence that the named person is the agent or representative of the advertiser for the receipt of remittances.

Footnote 88. Duhon v Petroleum Helicopters, Inc. (La App 3d Cir) 554 So 2d 1270, cert den (La) 559 So 2d 1360 and (disapproved on other grounds by Green v Industrial Helicopters, Inc. (La) 593 So 2d 634, 1992 AMC 1426).

As to the exclusion of newspaper articles from evidence due to their nature as hearsay, see § 1253.

Footnote 89. New England Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Anderson (CA10 Kan) 888 F2d 646, 28 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1516.

§ 1193 Trade inscriptions and the like

View Entire Section

Under Rule 902(7) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to inscriptions, signs, tags, or labels purporting to have been affixed in the course of business and indicating ownership, control, or origin. 90 There are several factors that justify dispensing with preliminary proof of genuineness of commercial and mercantile labels and the like, including the minimal risk of forgery, the serious penalties for trademark infringement, and the great efforts devoted to inducing the public to buy in reliance on brand names and the substantial protection given brand names. 91

◆ Comment: One writer has said that the requirement under Rule 902(7) that a label be affixed "in the course of business" does not restrict self-authentication to commercial ventures, but extends to any ongoing enterprise or institution and includes, for example, private universities and social organizations that use symbols or products they distribute. 92 Another commentator has expressed the view that the "affixed in the course of business" requirement suggests an appearance that is at least somewhat formal and elaborate; under this view, a stenciled and painted sign on a wooden packing crate purporting to identify the manufacturer should be deemed within the scope of FRE, Rule 902(7), while an apparently handscrawled paper tag on an article of clothing purporting to identify its manufacturer should not. 93

Footnotes

Footnote 90. FRE, Rule 902(7); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(7).

Footnote 91. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

See also 19 USCS § 1615(2), providing that marks, labels, brands, or stamps indicating foreign origin are prima facie evidence of the foreign origin of merchandise.

Footnote 92. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185, 193 (1975); Pyle and Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151, 190 (1978).

Footnote 93. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 535.

§ 1194 Acknowledged documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 902(8) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to documents accompanied by a certificate of acknowledgment executed in the manner provided by law by a notary public or other officer authorized by law to take

acknowledgments. 94 The theory behind Rule 902(8) is that notaries, due to penalties for violation of their duties, will not certify a document unless the purported writer, presumably known to the notary, swears in the notary's presence that he executed the questioned writing, so that the notary's certificate attached to the document appears to be at least presumptive proof that the document is what its proponent claims. 95

The federal version of Rule 902(8), as originally submitted by the Supreme Court, referred to certificates of acknowledgment "under the hand and seal of" a notary public or other officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments, but Congress replaced the quoted words with "executed in the manner provided by law by," such modification being made to eliminate the requirement, believed to be inconsistent with the law in some states, that a notary public must affix a seal to a document acknowledged before the notary. 96 As so modified, the Federal Rule, like its counterpart in the Uniform Rules, merely requires that the document be executed in the manner prescribed by state law, 97 the usual rule being that a certificate of acknowledgment executed and attested by the officer who took the acknowledgment furnishes formal proof of authenticity of the instrument acknowledged. 98

◆ Observation: Even prior to the promulgation of the Rule 902(8), virtually every state regarded acknowledged documents of title to real estate as self-authenticating. 99 Some state statutes not based on Rule 902(8) extend this rule to other acknowledged documents as well. 1

◆ Practice guide: An acknowledged document concerning title to real estate, aside from being self-authenticating under Rule 902(8), will also generally come within the exception to the hearsay rule concerning property records contained in Rule 803(14), 2 or the exception concerning documents affecting interests in property contained in Rule 803(15). 3

Footnotes

Footnote 94. FRE, Rule 902(8); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(8).

Footnote 95. La Rocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185, 193 (1975).

Footnote 96. House Judiciary Committee Report No. 93-650 (1973), p 17.

Annotation: Sufficiency of certificate of acknowledgment, 25 ALR2d 1124.

Practice References 12 Am Jur Proof of Facts 281, Acknowledgments.

Forms: Acknowledgments for use in particular jurisdictions. 1 Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Acknowledgments §§ 7:11-7:464.

Footnote 97. House Judiciary Committee Report No. 93-650 (1973), p 17.

Footnote 98. 1 Am Jur 2d, Acknowledgments § 78.

Footnote 99. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

As to an instrument which is duly acknowledged being generally admissible in evidence without further proof of its execution, see 1 Am Jur 2d, Acknowledgments § 71.

Footnote 1. Jousan v Presidio Corp. (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 590 SW2d 524 (document containing an acknowledgment taken before a notary is self-proving under state statute).

For a sampling of typical state enactments in this regard, see Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 536.

Footnote 2. As to the provisions of Rule 803(14), see § 1350.

Footnote 3. As to the provisions of Rule 803(15), see § 1244.

§ 1195 --Authentication of particular documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

An affidavit originating in the United Nations or its industrial development organization, UNIDO, which is notarized in a state of the United States by a duly authorized notary public is a self-authenticating acknowledged document under Rule 902(8).⁴ An acknowledged promissory note is also within the Rule.⁵ A document cannot, however, be regarded as self-authenticating under Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(8) where its acknowledgment took place prior to the effective date of the Rule.⁶

Footnotes

Footnote 4. United States v M'Biye, 211 US App DC 10, 655 F2d 1240, 8 Fed Rules Evid Serv 273.

Footnote 5. Union State Bank v Miller (ND) 335 NW2d 807, cert den 464 US 1019, 78 L Ed 2d 727, 104 S Ct 554, later proceeding (ND) 358 NW2d 222 (ovrld on other grounds by Olson v Job Service North Dakota (ND) 379 NW2d 285).

Footnote 6. Haury & Smith Realty Co. v Piccadilly Partners I (Tenn App) 802 SW2d 612.

§ 1196 Commercial paper and related documents

View Entire Section

Under Rule 902(9), extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to commercial paper, signatures thereon, and documents relating thereto to the extent provided by general commercial law. 7 This Rule rests largely on the notion that persons in the commercial world take at face value many documents which are usually what they seem to be, and that the courts may safely follow along in this respect.

◆ Comment: Issues relating to the authenticity of commercial paper in federal courts will usually arise in diversity cases, will involve an element of a cause of action or a defense, and, with respect to presumptions and burden of proof, will be controlled by the rule established in Erie R. Co. v Tompkins. 8 However, there may be questions of authenticity involving lesser segments of a case, or the case may be one governed by federal common law, and, in these situations, resort to the authentication provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code is provided for under Rule 902(9). 9 Although the wording of Rule 902(9) is in terms of "general commercial law" in order to avoid the potential complications inherent in borrowing local statutes, it would be difficult to determine the general commercial law without referring to the Uniform Commercial Code. 10

With respect to the meaning of the phrase "general commercial law," it was the intent of the House Committee on the Judiciary that the Uniform Commercial Code, which has been adopted virtually in every state, would be followed generally, but that federal commercial law would apply where federal commercial paper is involved. 11 Further, it was the intent of the House Committee that in those instances in which the issues are governed by the Erie doctrine, state law would apply irrespective of whether it is the Uniform Commercial Code. 12

◆ Caution: Dispensing with a requirement of extrinsic evidence of the authenticity of promissory notes under Rule 902(9) and admitting the notes into evidence does not establish their genuineness or the existence of an indebtedness conclusively, since the opposite party is not foreclosed from disputing authenticity. 13

Footnotes

Footnote 7. FRE, Rule 902(9); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(9).

Footnote 8. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

The Erie doctrine is discussed in 32 Am Jur 2d, Federal Practice and Procedure §§ 267 et seq.

Footnote 9. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 10. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 11. House Judiciary Committee Report No. 93-650 (1973), p 17.

Footnote 12. House Judiciary Committee Report No. 93-650 (1973), p 17.

Footnote 13. United States v Carriger (CA6 Mich) 592 F2d 312, 79-1 USTC ¶ 9195, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 124, 43 AFTR 2d 79-538.

§ 1197 --Pertinent Uniform Commercial Code provisions

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Pertinent provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code, for the purposes of Rule 902(9), include—

—UCC § 1-202, which provides that a document purporting to be a bill of lading (or one of several specified other types of documents) is "prima facie evidence" of its own authenticity.

—UCC § 3-114(3), which provides that where a negotiable instrument or any signature thereon is dated, the date is presumed to be correct.

—UCC § 3-307, which provides that a signature on a negotiable instrument is presumed to be genuine or authorized except in certain circumstances.

—UCC § 3-510, which provides for the admissibility of certain documents which create a presumption of dishonor and of any notice of dishonor shown therein.

—UCC § 8-105, stating that a signature on a security is presumed to be genuine or authorized. 14

◆ Comment: The Uniform Commercial Code's provisions concerning self-authentication are not intended only to resolve the issue of authenticity for the purpose of determining admissibility, but also affect the trier of fact's ultimate assessment of the authenticity of the evidence in question. The terms "presumption" or "presumed," as used in the Code, mean that the trier of fact must find the existence of the fact presumed unless and until evidence is introduced which would support a finding of its nonexistence. 15 The Code does not define the term "prima facie evidence," which is the term used in the self-authenticating provision of UCC § 1-202, but one authority has suggested that this term, like the term "presumption," means that the trier of fact must find the proffered item authentic, at least in the absence of counterproof. 16 Under Rule 302 of the Federal Rules of Evidence, it appears that federal courts applying the Uniform Commercial Code to determine the rights of litigants must apply the Code's provisions regarding the effect of a presumption on the findings of the trier of fact. 17

Footnotes

Footnote 14. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, FRE, Rule 902.

Annotation: Construction and effect of sec. 1-202 of the Uniform Commercial Code dealing with documents which are prima facie evidence of their own authenticity and genuineness, 72 ALR3d 1243.

Footnote 15. UCC § 1-201(31).

As to the general definition of presumptions under the Uniform Commercial Code, see 15A Am Jur 2d, Commercial Code § 4. As to presumptions, generally, see §§ 181et seq.

Footnote 16. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 537.

See also Bigham, Presumptions, Burden of Proof and the Uniform Commercial Code. 21 Vanderbilt L Rev 177 (1968) (§ 1-202 is intended to establish a preliminary assumption sufficient to support a finding of authenticity in the absence of contrary evidence).

Footnote 17. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 77.

§ 1198 --Particular documents as self-authenticating

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Authentication of notes and security agreements is sufficient under Rule 902(9) where the Uniform Commercial Code, 18 as adopted in the forum state, provides that each signature on an instrument is admitted unless specifically denied in the pleadings. 19 Notes are sufficiently identified as promissory notes by their production and no further authentication is required by reason of Rule 902(9), since under § 3-307 of the Uniform Commercial Code, mere production of a note is prima facie evidence of its validity and of the holder's right to recover on it. 20 Without reference to any provision of the Uniform Commercial Code, one court has held that checks of a corporation were admissible in evidence under Rule 902(9) as commercial paper. 21 Another court has permitted the admission of checks written by a corporation under Rule 902(9) as self-authenticating commercial paper by virtue of the section of the Uniform Commercial Code 22 regarding what creates a presumption of dishonor. 23

Footnotes

Footnote 18. UCC § 3-307.

Footnote 19. Interfirst Bank of Abilene, N.A. v Lull Mfg. (CA5 Tex) 778 F2d 228, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1141, 42 UCCRS 671.

Footnote 20. United States v Carriger (CA6 Mich) 592 F2d 312, 79-1 USTC ¶ 9195, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 124, 43 AFTR 2d 79-538.

Footnote 21. United States v Little (CA8 Ark) 567 F2d 346, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 830, cert den 435 US 969, 56 L Ed 2d 60, 98 S Ct 1608, reh den 438 US 909, 57 L Ed 2d 1153, 98 S Ct 3131.

Footnote 22. UCC § 3-510.

Footnote 23. United States v Hawkins (CA11 Fla) 905 F2d 1489, 30 Fed Rules Evid Serv 762, cert den 498 US 1038, 112 L Ed 2d 696, 111 S Ct 707.

§ 1199 Presumptions under state or federal acts

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under Rule 902(10) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to any signature, document, or other matter declared by an act of Congress (or, in the case of the Uniform Rule, an act of the enacting state) to be presumptively or prima facie genuine or authentic. 24 This Rule dispenses with the necessity of preliminary proof of authenticity as governed by statute. 25

◆ Observation: Rule 902(10) is one of three provisions in Article IX of the Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence which prevent the Rules from displacing other statutory provisions relating to authentication, the other two being Rule 901(b)(10), which preserves any method of authentication or identification provided by statute, 26 and Rule 902(4), which preserves the operative effect of statutes and rules on certified copies of public records. 27

Acts of Congress which declare matters to be presumptively or prima facie genuine or authentic include—

–1 USCS § 112, relating to statutes at large as legal evidence of laws.

–1 USCS § 113, relating to Little and Brown's Edition of Laws and Treaties as competent evidence without further proof or authentication thereof.

–1 USCS § 204, relating to the United States Code and District of Columbia Code as prima facie evidence of the law.

–10 USCS § 936(d), relating to a signature without seal of certain military personnel acting as notary, together with title of the office, as prima facie evidence of authority.

–14 USCS § 636(b), relating to a signature and indication of grade of any commissioned or warrant officer of the Coast Guard performing any notarial act as prima facie evidence of authority.

- 15 USCS § 77f(a), relating to a signature on a SEC registration, which is presumed genuine.
- 15 USCS § 1057(b), relating to a certificate of registration of a trademark as prima facie evidence of validity of the registration.
- 17 USCS § 204(b), relating to a certificate of acknowledgment as prima facie evidence of the execution of transfer of copyright ownership.
- 17 USCS § 410(c), relating to a certificate of registration made before or within 5 years after first publication of work as constituting prima facie evidence of validity of copyright and of facts stated in certificate.
- 19 USCS § 1615(2), relating to marks, labels, brands, or stamps indicating foreign origin as prima facie evidence of foreign origin of merchandise.
- 22 USCS § 4221, relating to a document bearing the seal and signature of a consular officer as admissible in evidence without further proof of the seal or signature being genuine.
- 26 USCS § 6062, relating to an individual's name on a corporate return as prima facie evidence of his authority to sign the return on behalf of the corporation.
- 26 USCS § 6063, relating to a partner's signature on a tax return as prima facie evidence that the partner is authorized to sign the return on behalf of the partnership.
- 26 USCS § 6064, relating to an individual's signature on a tax return as prima facie evidence of his signature.
- 26 USCS § 6340(b), relating to a copy of record of sale of property certified by the Secretary of the Treasury as evidence of truth of facts stated therein.
- 26 USCS § 7462, relating to Tax Court reports published by the government as competent evidence without further proof or authentication.
- 28 USCS § 1745, relating to certified copies of foreign patent documents as prima facie evidence of their contents and of the dates indicated on their face.
- 40 USCS § 270c, relating to a certified copy of a contractor's bond as prima facie evidence of the contents, execution, and delivery of original.
- 42 USCS § 269(b), relating to bills of health certified by proper consular or other officer as evidence of the statement therein.
- 44 USCS § 1507, relating to publication of a document in the Federal Register as creating a rebuttable presumption that it was duly issued, prescribed, or promulgated, and that the contents thereof may be judicially noted.
- 44 USCS § 1510(e), relating to documents codified in the Code of Federal Regulations as prima facie evidence of the text of the documents and of the fact that they are in effect on and after date of publication.

—46 USCS Appx § 823, relating to authorized publication of Federal Maritime Commission reports as competent evidence without further proof or authentication.

—47 USCS § 154(m), relating to reports and decisions of the Federal Communications Commission in publications authorized by the Commission as competent evidence without further proof or authentication thereof.

—47 USCS § 412, relating to copies of documents filed with the Federal Communications Commission as prima facie evidence of what they purport to be.

—49 USCS § 10303(b), relating to a public record, or copy of extract of record, certified by the secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission under seal of the Commission as competent evidence.

—49 USCS § 10310(a), relating to published reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission as competent evidence of their contents.

—49 USCS Appx § 1503, relating to copies of records and reports filed with Department of Transportation as prima facie evidence of what they purport to be.

—50 USCS Appx § 581(1), relating to a signed certificate of military service as prima facie evidence as to certain facts stated in the certificate.

—50 USCS Appx § 581(2), relating to a signed certificate of military service as prima facie evidence of its contents and of the authority of the signer to issue the same.

§ 1199 ----Presumptions under state or federal acts [SUPPLEMENT]

Note: All sections then remaining in 49 USCS Appendix were repealed in 1994.

Statutes:

46 USCS Appx § 823 was repealed in 1995.

The ICC Termination Act of 1995 (PL 104-88) abolished the Interstate Commerce Commission and created the Surface Transportation Board (49 USCS §§ 701 et seq.), which has authority over rail, motor, water, and pipeline carriers. 49 USCS §§ 10303, 10310 were omitted in the Act.

Footnotes

Footnote 24. FRE, Rule 902(10); Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(10).

Footnote 25. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

Footnote 26. § 1048.

Footnote 27. § 1186.

§ 1200 Certified records of regularly conducted activity

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 902(11) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence (which has no counterpart in the Federal Rules of Evidence but is based on a similar federal statute applicable to criminal proceedings) provides that extrinsic evidence of authenticity as a condition precedent to admissibility is not required with respect to the original or a duplicate of a record of regularly conducted activity, within the scope of Rule 803(6), which the custodian thereof or another qualified individual certifies (1) was made, at or near the time of the occurrence of the matters set forth, by (or from information transmitted by) a person with knowledge of those matters; (2) is kept in the course of the regularly conducted activity; and (3) was made by the regularly conducted activity as a regular practice, unless the sources of information or the method or circumstances of preparation indicate lack of trustworthiness. A record so certified, however, is not self-authenticating under this Rule unless its proponent makes an intention to offer it known to the adverse party, and makes it available for inspection sufficiently in advance of its offer in evidence to provide the adverse party with a fair opportunity to challenge it. 28

◆ Comment: This Rule is based on 18 USCS § 3505, which provides for the exception from the hearsay rule, in federal criminal proceedings, of foreign records of regularly conducted activity, and for their authentication by certification. 29

As used in Rule 902(11) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence, "certifies" means, with respect to a domestic record, a written declaration under oath subject to the penalty of perjury and, with respect to a foreign record, a written declaration signed in a foreign country which, if falsely made, would subject the maker to criminal penalty under the laws of that country. The certificate relating to a foreign record must be accompanied by a final certification as to the genuineness of the signature and official position of the individual executing the certificate, or of any foreign official who certifies the genuineness of signature and official position of the executing individual or is the last in a chain of certificates that collectively certify the genuineness of signature and official position of the executing individual. A final certification must be made by a secretary of embassy or legation, consul general, consul, vice consul, or consular agent of the United States, or a diplomatic or consular official of the foreign country who is assigned or accredited to the United States. 30

Footnotes

Footnote 28. Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902(11).

Footnote 29. 13A ULA, Uniform Rules of Evidence, Rule 902, Comment to the 1986 Amendment.

As to the provisions of 18 USCS § 3505, generally, see § 1320.

c. Ancient Documents [1201-1211]

(1). Authentication [1201-1209]

§ 1201 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, a document purporting to be 30 or more years old is generally admissible in evidence without the ordinary requirements as to proof of execution and authenticity, 31 as long as it is produced from proper custody and is on its face free from suspicion, 32 and circumstances exist which corroborate its authenticity. 33 Under such circumstances any subscribing witnesses are presumed to be dead. 34 Even where such witnesses are shown to be living, 35 or are in court, 36 their testimony is not required to authenticate an ancient document.

◆ Observation: The presumption of the authenticity of an ancient document is rebuttable. 37

Footnotes

Footnote 31. McGuire v Blount, 199 US 142, 50 L Ed 125, 26 S Ct 1; Applegate v Lexington & Carter County Mining Co., 117 US 255, 29 L Ed 892, 6 S Ct 742; Ninety Six v Southern R. Co. (CA4 SC) 267 F2d 579; Ford v Ford, 27 App DC 401; Woods v Montevallo Coal & Transp. Co., 84 Ala 560, 3 So 475; Garbarino v Noce, 181 Cal 125, 183 P 532, 6 ALR 1433; New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. v Cella, 88 Conn 515, 91 A 972; Clark v Cochran, 79 Fla 788, 85 So 250; Bunger v Grimm, 142 Ga 448, 83 SE 200; Sinkora v Wlach, 239 Iowa 1392, 35 NW2d 40; Crane v Marshall, 16 Me 27; Jasper Tp. v Martin, 161 Mich 336, 126 NW 437; Nixon v Porter, 34 Miss 697; Anderson v Anderson, 150 Neb 879, 36 NW2d 287; Gibson v Poor, 21 NH 440; Fairchild v Union Ferry Co., 121 Misc 513, 201 NYS 295, affd 212 App Div 823, 207 NYS 835, affd 240 NY 666, 148 NE 750; Spears v Randolph, 241 NC 659, 86 SE2d 263; Blake v Marshall (Tex Civ App) 279 SW 612; Executors of Booge v Parsons, 2 Vt 456.

For discussion of ancient deeds as self-authenticating, see § 1251.

Practice References 50 Am Jur POF2d 321, Ancient Documents.

Footnote 32. § 1204.

Footnote 33. § 227, 299.

Footnote 34. Smythe v New Providence Tp. (CA3 NJ) 263 F 481; Ninety Six v Southern R. Co. (CA4 SC) 267 F2d 579; Nixon v Porter, 34 Miss 697.

Footnote 35. Jackson v Christman (NY) 4 Wend 277; Magee v Paul, 110 Tex 470, 221 SW 254.

Footnote 36. Nixon v Porter, 34 Miss 697.

Footnote 37. Nicholson v Eureka Lumber Co., 156 NC 59, 72 SE 86 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in State v Le Duc, 306 NC 62, 291 SE2d 607).

§ 1202 Scope and limitations of rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The general rule dispensing with proof of authenticity of ancient documents is a rule of authentication and not a rule of admissibility. 38 The fact that an instrument is an ancient document does not affect its admissibility in evidence other than to dispense with the need for proof of its genuineness. 39 The issue of a document's relevancy is not affected by the fact that it is an ancient document. 40 An ancient document has no effect as evidence unless it serves to import verity to the facts represented or written therein, 41 and such a document is admitted in evidence as proof of the facts recited in it provided that the writer of the document would have been competent to testify as to such facts. 42

An instrument which is not valid upon its face because of a want of due execution cannot be admitted in evidence as an ancient document without proof of execution. 43 However, mere omissions or irregularities which do not render an instrument invalid do not affect its admissibility as an ancient document. 44

Footnotes

Footnote 38. Ninety Six v Southern R. Co. (CA4 SC) 267 F2d 579.

Footnote 39. Ninety Six v Southern R. Co. (CA4 SC) 267 F2d 579.

Footnote 40. Robinson v Peterson, 200 Va 186, 104 SE2d 788.

Footnote 41. Kirkpatrick v Tapo Oil Co. (2nd Dist) 144 Cal App 2d 404, 301 P2d 274.

Footnote 42. Kirkpatrick v Tapo Oil Co. (2nd Dist) 144 Cal App 2d 404, 301 P2d 274; State Dept. of Roads v Parks, 185 Neb 794, 178 NW2d 788.

Footnote 43. Meegan v Boyle, 60 US 130, 19 How 130, 15 L Ed 577; O'Neal v Tennessee C., I. & R. Co., 140 Ala 378, 37 So 275; Fell v Young, 63 Ill 106.

Footnote 44. Ward v Cameron (Tex Civ App) 76 SW 240, affd 97 Tex 466, 80 SW 69.

§ 1203 Copies of ancient documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where the original of an ancient document is no longer in existence, or has become so defaced as to be unintelligible, a copy or tracing of it, properly authenticated, may be admissible in evidence. 45 However, there must be some proof of the execution of the original. 46

Footnotes

Footnote 45. Ayers v Watson, 137 US 584, 34 L Ed 803, 11 S Ct 201; Spokane v Catholic Bishop of Spokane, 33 Wash 2d 496, 206 P2d 277.

Footnote 46. Schunior v Russell, 83 Tex 83, 18 SW 484.

§ 1204 Proper custody; absence of suspicious circumstances

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

To be admissible without proof of authenticity, an ancient document must on its face be free from suspicion and must come from proper custody. 47 Where proof of proper custody is not shown, the document is not admissible without proof of its execution and authenticity. 48 Where the document shows an alteration on its face, the party offering it as evidence must explain the alteration. 49

Ancient documents are from proper custody if they come from a place from which they might reasonably be expected to be found. 50 Custody is proper if it is proved to have had a legitimate origin or if the circumstances of the particular case are such as to render such an origin probable. 51 If a document is found where it would not properly and naturally be, its absence from the proper place must be satisfactorily accounted for. 52

◆ Observation: It has been held that proof of custody may be dispensed with if the document in question bears internal evidence that manifests its age and authenticity. 53

Footnotes

Footnote 47. McGuire v Blount, 199 US 142, 50 L Ed 125, 26 S Ct 1; State Dept. of Roads v Parks, 185 Neb 794, 178 NW2d 788; In re Estate of Kirkby, 57 Misc 2d 982, 293 NYS2d 1008, reh den 59 Misc 2d 584, 299 NYS2d 873; Solomon v Beck (Tex Civ App Beaumont) 387 SW2d 911.

Rule 601 of the Model Code of Evidence of the American Law Institute provides that a writing, offered in evidence as authentic, is admissible, if the judge finds that the writing is at least 30 years old at the time it is so offered, and is in such condition as to create no suspicion concerning its authenticity, and at the time of its discovery was in a place in which such a document, if authentic, would be likely to be found.

Footnote 48. Gates v McCormick, 176 NC 640, 97 SE 626; Sage v Dayton Coal & Iron Co., 148 Tenn 1, 251 SW 780.

Footnote 49. Muehrcke v Behrens, 43 Wis 2d 1, 169 NW2d 86.

Footnote 50. McGuire v Blount, 199 US 142, 50 L Ed 125, 26 S Ct 1.

Footnote 51. Nicholson v Eureka Lumber Co., 156 NC 59, 72 SE 86 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in State v Le Duc, 306 NC 62, 291 SE2d 607).

Practice References Proof of proper location, origin, or custody of ancient document. 50 Am Jur POF2d 321, Ancient Documents, § 6.

Footnote 52. Gibson v Poor, 21 NH 440.

Footnote 53. Commonwealth ex rel. Ferguson v Ball, 277 Pa 301, 121 A 191, 29 ALR 626 (book that is 115 years old, bearing on its face evidence of age, is admissible without proof that it comes from proper custody).

§ 1205 Corroborating circumstances

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Unless an applicable statute provides otherwise, the acceptance of an ancient document into evidence without the usually followed modes of authentication requires some corroborating evidence of authenticity beyond its production from a proper custody. 54 In the case of an ancient deed, possession of the realty to which the deed pertains, in reliance on the deed, is the most usually offered and strongest form of corroboration, but is not indispensable; other corroborative circumstances, though circumstantial, may suffice to establish the antiquity and integrity of the document. 55

Footnotes

Footnote 54. McGuire v Blount, 199 US 142, 50 L Ed 125, 26 S Ct 1; Smythe v New Providence Tp. (CA3 NJ) 263 F 481; Ninety Six v Southern R. Co. (CA4 SC) 267 F2d 579; Woods v Montevallo Coal & Transp. Co., 84 Ala 560, 3 So 475; Garbarino v Noce, 181 Cal 125, 183 P 532, 6 ALR 1433; Clark v Cochran, 79 Fla 788, 85 So 250; Pridgen v Green, 80 Ga 737, 7 SE 97; James v Davis, 172 Ky 381, 189 SW 440; Homer v Cilley, 14 NH 85; Clark v Owens, 18 NY 434; Wilson v Simpson, 80 Tex 279, 16 SW 40; Bank of Middlebury v Rutland, 33 Vt 414.

Footnote 55. § 1251.

§ 1206 Document executed by fiduciary or officer

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where an ancient instrument purports to have been executed under a power of attorney issuing from an individual, and the elements of proper custody and freedom from suspicion are shown, the instrument is admissible in evidence without further proof either of the genuineness of the execution or the existence of the power. 56 However, where an instrument purports to have been executed by an executor, administrator, guardian, receiver, sheriff, constable, or other officer, under authority which in the ordinary course would appear from judicial or other public records, the instrument even though ancient is not admissible in evidence, nor is it to be regarded as having been effectual, as in the passing of title, unless record proof of the authority is produced if available. 57 If records which supposedly once disclosed the authority of the fiduciary or officer are shown to have been lost or destroyed, the court, under the law of secondary evidence, may give such effect to recitals in the ancient instrument, or make such presumptions from a partial record or other circumstances, as to admit the instrument in evidence, give it prima facie effect, or give it full effect according to its terms. 58 In particular, when the records of a very old proceeding purport, in portions still preserved, to have given the authority claimed, the courts may make reasonable presumptions as to the sufficiency of intermediate steps, or those inferentially indicated. 59

Footnotes

Footnote 56. Baumgarten v Frost, 143 Tex 533, 186 SW2d 982, 159 ALR 428.

Footnote 57. Koch v Streuter, 232 Ill 594, 83 NE 1072; Baumgarten v Frost, 143 Tex 533, 186 SW2d 982, 159 ALR 428.

Footnote 58. Wilson v Snow, 228 US 217, 57 L Ed 807, 33 S Ct 487; Baumgarten v Frost, 143 Tex 533, 186 SW2d 982, 159 ALR 428.

Footnote 59. Beers v Hotchkiss, 256 NY 41, 175 NE 506.

§ 1207 Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence, generally

The "ancient document" rule of the common law with respect to authentication has been codified, with some changes, in Rule 901(b)(8) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence. Rule 901(b)(8) includes data stored electronically or by other similar means. 60 Under the Rule, documents or data compilations may be authenticated or identified as a condition precedent to admissibility by evidence that the document or data compilation, in any form:

- (1) is in such condition as to create no suspicion concerning its authenticity;
- (2) was in a place where it, if authentic, would likely be; and
- (3) has been in existence 20 years or more at the time it is offered. 61

Rule 901(b)(8) is not limited to title documents, nor is it subject to any requirement that possession, in the case of a title document, has been consistent with the document. 62

◆ Observation: The common-law period of 30 years is reduced under Rule 901(b)(8) to 20 years, with some shift of emphasis from the probable unavailability of witnesses to the unlikelihood of a still viable fraud after the lapse of time. 63 Since the importance of appearance diminishes in the case of data stored electronically or by other similar means, the importance of custody or place where such data is found increases correspondingly under the Rule. 64

A document need not bear a date to be admissible under the Rule if the circumstances of its source or custody indicate that it is old enough to qualify for authentication under the Rule. 65 Furthermore, it is not necessary to show a chain of custody for ancient documents; the Rule merely requires that the document be found in the place where, if authentic, it would likely be. 66 Although reasonable custody of the document must be established, the document need not have remained in the same place for the entire custodial period. 67

Footnotes

Footnote 60. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Law Reviews: Pyle and Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151, 176 (1978).

Practice References 14 Am Jur POF2d 173, Admissibility of Computerized Business Records.

Footnote 61. FRE, Rule 901(b)(8); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(8).

Footnote 62. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Footnote 63. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Footnote 64. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Footnote 65. Kath v Burlington N. R. Co. (Minn App) 441 NW2d 569 (document which was found in file containing other documents bearing dates from the 1930's, and which appeared to be of similar age as those documents, was properly authenticated as an ancient document though it bore no date).

Footnote 66. United States v Kairys (CA7 Ill) 782 F2d 1374, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1184, cert den 476 US 1153, 90 L Ed 2d 703, 106 S Ct 2258, later proceeding (CA7) 981 F2d 937, reh, en banc, den (CA7) 1993 US App LEXIS 2374 and cert den (US) 123 L Ed 2d 460, 113 S Ct 1832 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Petkiewytsch v INS (CA6) 945 F2d 871).

Footnote 67. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185, 203 (1978).

§ 1208 --Requirement that document be in such condition as to create no suspicion of inauthenticity

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The question whether a proffered document is suspicious within the meaning of Rule 901(b)(8) 68 and therefore inadmissible is a matter for the trial court's discretion. Although the Rule requires that the document be free of suspicion, that suspicion goes not to the contents of the document, but rather to whether the document is what it purports to be. 69

◆ Comment: The language of Rule 901(b)(8) appears to indicate that even a slight suspicion that a document is not genuine is sufficient to remove it from the scope of the Rule. However, at least one court has held that allegedly forged documents were self-authenticating under the Rule even though the trial court failed to determine whether the documents were forgeries; the possibility of forgery, said the court, goes to the weight and not the admissibility of the evidence. 70

Footnotes

Footnote 68. FRE, Rule 901(b)(8); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(8).

Footnote 69. Threadgill v Armstrong World Industries, Inc. (CA3 Del) 928 F2d 1366, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 12828, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 699; United States v Kairys (CA7 Ill) 782 F2d 1374, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1184, cert den 476 US 1153, 90 L Ed 2d 703, 106 S Ct 2258, later proceeding (CA7) 981 F2d 937, reh, en banc, den (CA7) 1993 US App LEXIS 2374 and cert den (US) 123 L Ed 2d 460, 113 S Ct 1832 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Petkiewytsch v INS (CA6) 945 F2d 871).

Footnote 70. United States v Koziy (CA11 Fla) 728 F2d 1314, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 250, 77 ALR Fed 363, cert den 469 US 835, 83 L Ed 2d 70, 105 S Ct 130 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Maikovskis v Immigration & Naturalization Service (CA2) 773 F2d 435) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Kungys (CA3 NJ) 793 F2d 516).

§ 1209 --Authentication of particular documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 901(b)(8) 71 has been held applicable to authenticate:

- (1) personal records of an officer of a corporation which manufactured products containing asbestos, which records indicated that the industry was aware of the dangers of asbestos as early as the 1930's; 72
- (2) baptismal certificates and a marriage certificate obtained from a church in Poland; 73
- (3) a card identifying a defendant in denaturalization proceedings as having been a member of the German Waffen Schutzstaffel (SS) during World War II; 74
- (4) minutes of the Asbestos Textile Institute indicating that asbestos hazards were discussed at meetings of the Asbestos Textile Institute as early as the 1940's, where the minutes were produced by an executive secretary of the Asbestos Textile Institute from that organization's files, where the opponents did not seriously suggest that the files had been tampered with, and where the plaintiffs were prepared to introduce the depositions of individuals who could identify specific minutes from personal knowledge; 75
- (5) documents concerning the defendant in a naturalization revocation action during a time when the defendant was mayor of Kaunas, Lithuania, during the Nazi occupation, including a copy of a German-language newspaper which referred to the defendant as mayor, a copy of the Kaunas daily newspaper also referring to the defendant as mayor, translations of orders from the defendant signed in his capacity as mayor, and memos from other government officials to the defendant as mayor. 76

However, corporate memoranda of the requisite age may be held inadmissible under Rule 901(b)(8) if they are not found in the corporate records. 77

Footnotes

Footnote 71. FRE, Rule 901(b)(8); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(8).

Footnote 72. In re Rhode Island Asbestos Cases (DC RI) 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 444; Threadgill v Armstrong World Industries, Inc. (CA3 Del) 928 F2d 1366, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 12828, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 699.

Footnote 73. Matuszewski v Pancoast (Cuyahoga Co) 38 Ohio App 3d 74, 526 NE2d 80, later proceeding (Cuyahoga Co) 65 Ohio App 3d 650, 584 NE2d 1312 and motion overr.

Footnote 74. United States v Kairys (CA7 Ill) 782 F2d 1374, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1184, cert den 476 US 1153, 90 L Ed 2d 703, 106 S Ct 2258, later proceeding (CA7) 981 F2d 937, reh, en banc, den (CA7) 1993 US App LEXIS 2374 and cert den (US) 123 L Ed 2d 460, 113 S Ct 1832 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Petkiewytsch v INS (CA6) 945 F2d 871).

Footnote 75. In re Related Asbestos Cases (ND Cal) 543 F Supp 1152, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 899, 13 ELR 20294.

Footnote 76. United States v Palciauskas (MD Fla) 559 F Supp 1294, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1674, affd (CA11) 734 F2d 625, later proceeding (CA11) 939 F2d 963.

Footnote 77. Dartez v Fibreboard Corp. (CA5 Tex) 765 F2d 456, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10873, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 137, appeal after remand (CA5 Tex) 910 F2d 1291, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1, cert den (US) 119 L Ed 2d 224, 112 S Ct 2301.

(2). As Excepted From Rule Against Hearsay [1210, 1211]

§ 1210 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

At common law, some courts held that the rule concerning admissibility of ancient documents related only to the admissibility of such documents and did not overcome any objection based on their character as hearsay, unless the document was a deed. 78 Other courts permitted the admission of ancient documents as proof of facts recited therein, notwithstanding that such recitations were hearsay, if the writer would have been competent to testify to such facts. 79

§ 1210 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Accounting acquisition cards prepared between 1925 and 1935 which were admittedly authentic or stipulated to were admissible under ancient documents exception to hearsay rule for proof of what was contained in them, i.e., corporate histories of acquired companies, mergers, liquidations, and transfers of assets. Kraft, Inc. v United States (1994) 30 Fed Cl 739, 1994 US Claims LEXIS 16, 94-1 USTC ¶ 50080.

Footnotes

Footnote 78. Ninety Six v Southern R. Co. (CA4 SC) 267 F2d 579; King v Watkins (CC Va) 98 F 913, revd on other grounds (CA4 Va) 118 F 524.

Footnote 79. Kirkpatrick v Tapo Oil Co. (2nd Dist) 144 Cal App 2d 404, 301 P2d 274; State Dept. of Roads v Parks, 185 Neb 794, 178 NW2d 788.

§ 1211 Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(16) provides that statements in a document in existence 20 years or more, the authenticity of which is established, are excepted from the rule against hearsay. 80 This exception applies to all sorts of documents, in addition to letters, records, contracts, maps, and certificates, 81 including:

- memoranda exchanged between the president of a products liability defendant and the defendant's attorney, concerning the health risks associated with the product in question 82
 - minutes of committee meetings 83
 - foreign employment documents 84
 - letters and articles in periodicals to reconstruct facts bearing on alleged copyright infringement 85
 - newspaper articles 86
 - an inscription on the back of a family photograph 87
 - an unpublished report containing a study of asbestos manufacturing plants 88
- ◆ Observation: Inasmuch as a self-authenticating document under Rule 901(b)(8) must be at least 20 years old, a document authenticated under Rule 901(b)(8) is within the exception to the hearsay rule contained in Rule 803(16). 89
- ◆ Practice guide: Documents may be admitted under FRE, Rule 803(16) even though they are less than 20 years old where they are used to show how the events of the day were being recorded. 90

Footnotes

Footnote 80. FRE, Rule 803(16); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(16).

Footnote 81. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803.

Annotation: Admissibility in evidence of ancient maps and the like, 46 ALR2d 1318.

Practice References 50 Am Jur POF2d 321, Ancient Documents.

Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook 2d § 69:27.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 464.

Footnote 82. Dartez v Fibreboard Corp. (CA5 Tex) 765 F2d 456, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10873, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 137, appeal after remand (CA5 Tex) 910 F2d 1291, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1, cert den (US) 119 L Ed 2d 224, 112 S Ct 2301 (excluded because not properly authenticated).

Footnote 83. Dartez v Fibreboard Corp. (CA5 Tex) 765 F2d 456, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10873, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 137, appeal after remand (CA5 Tex) 910 F2d 1291, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1, cert den (US) 119 L Ed 2d 224, 112 S Ct 2301 (excluded because not properly authenticated).

Footnote 84. United States v Koziy (CA11 Fla) 728 F2d 1314, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 250, 77 ALR Fed 363, cert den 469 US 835, 83 L Ed 2d 70, 105 S Ct 130 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Maikovskis v Immigration & Naturalization Service (CA2) 773 F2d 435) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Kungys (CA3 NJ) 793 F2d 516).

Footnote 85. Bell v Combined Registry Co. (CA7 Ill) 536 F2d 164, 191 USPQ 493, cert den 429 US 1001, 50 L Ed 2d 612, 97 S Ct 530, 192 USPQ 121.

Footnote 86. Bell v Combined Registry Co. (ND Ill) 397 F Supp 1241, 188 USPQ 707, affd (CA7 Ill) 536 F2d 164, 191 USPQ 493, cert den 429 US 1001, 50 L Ed 2d 612, 97 S Ct 530, 192 USPQ 121 and (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Canfield v Ponchatoula Times (CA5 La) 759 F2d 493, 11 Media L R 2040, 226 USPQ 112, 91 ALR Fed 319); Ammons v Dade City (MD Fla) 594 F Supp 1274, affd (CA11 Fla) 783 F2d 982, reh den, en banc (CA11 Fla) 788 F2d 1570.

Annotation: Admissibility of newspaper article as evidence of the truth of the facts stated therein, 55 ALR3d 663.

Footnote 87. In re Estate of Egbert, 105 Mich App 395, 306 NW2d 525.

Footnote 88. George v Celotex Corp. (CA2 NY) 914 F2d 26, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 12644, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 30.

Footnote 89. Threadgill v Armstrong World Industries, Inc. (CA3 Del) 928 F2d 1366, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 12828, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 699; Romohr v Frank, 20 Ohio Misc 2d 4, 20 Ohio BR 207, 485 NE2d 841.

d. Authentication of Handwriting [1212-1219]

§ 1212 Nonexpert opinion

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under Rule 901(b)(2), a nonexpert opinion as to the genuineness of handwriting, based upon familiarity not acquired for the purposes of the litigation, constitutes sufficient authentication or identification as a condition precedent to the admissibility of the handwriting. 91 This provision states the conventional doctrine as to lay identification of handwriting, which recognizes that a sufficient familiarity with the handwriting of another person may be acquired by seeing him or her write, by exchanging correspondence, or by other means, to afford a basis for identifying it on subsequent occasions. 92

It is not permissible under Rule 901(b)(2) to allow nonexpert testimony concerning the genuineness of handwriting where the nonexpert's familiarity with the handwriting was obtained by comparing the purported signature to another sample of that person's signature for the purposes of litigation. 93 Testimony based on familiarity with handwriting acquired for purposes of the litigation is reserved for expert witnesses under Rule 901(b)(3). 94

§ 1212 ----Nonexpert opinion [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

27 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 489, Forensic Identification of Handwriting

Footnotes

Footnote 91. FRE, Rule 901(b)(2); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(2).

Footnote 92. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Annotation: Construction and application of Rule 701 of Federal Rules of Evidence, providing for opinion testimony by lay witnesses under certain circumstances, 44 ALR Fed 919.

Practice References 15 Am Jur POF3d 595, Questioned Document

Examination—Identification of Handwriting on Document.

Footnote 93. United States v Pitts (CA5 Ga) 569 F2d 343, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 222, cert den 436 US 959, 57 L Ed 2d 1125, 98 S Ct 3076.

Footnote 94. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

As to the provisions of Rule 901(b)(3), see § 1215.

§ 1213 --What constitutes adequate familiarity with another's handwriting

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

While Rule 901(b)(2) 95 does not require any minimum number of observations of another person's handwriting to permit a nonexpert witness to offer authentication testimony, and the extent of the witness' familiarity with the handwriting in question generally goes to the weight to be accorded his or her testimony, rather than its admissibility, there must be a minimal factual basis from which knowledge of the handwriting might reasonably have been acquired, in the absence of which the witness' testimony may be excluded. 96 A witness may have adequate familiarity with the handwriting of a particular person if the witness has seen writings purporting to be those of the person in question under circumstances indicating the genuineness of the writings. 97

◆ Comment: One writer has suggested that proffered testimony by a nonexpert witness to authenticate handwriting may be excluded under Rule 602 (which provides that a witness may not testify to a matter unless evidence is introduced which is sufficient to support a finding that such witness has personal knowledge of the matter) if the court is not satisfied that the witness has sufficient familiarity with the handwriting in question to make a reasonably reliable identification. 98

◆ Practice guide: In view of the possibility that aggressive cross-examination of a nonexpert witness' identification of handwriting could destroy the probative value of the identification, counsel attempting to authenticate handwriting in this manner should do so only if there is no practical alternative and then only after exhaustive preparation of the witness. When cross-examining a nonexpert witness who has made an identification of handwriting, counsel should inquire as to (1) the extent of the witness' familiarity with the handwriting; (2) the witness' training and experience in identifying handwriting; and (3) whether the witness would rely on the handwriting he or she has identified in an ordinary business transaction. In addition, counsel should ask the witness to select genuine specimens from a group which includes artfully drawn forgeries. 99

§ 1213 --What constitutes adequate familiarity with another's handwriting

[SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

Footnotes

Footnote 95. FRE, Rule 901(b)(2); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(2).

Footnote 96. United States v Binzel (CA7 Ill) 907 F2d 746, 30 Fed Rules Evid Serv 695.

Footnote 97. United States v Standing Soldier (CA8 SD) 538 F2d 196, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 255, cert den 429 US 1025, 50 L Ed 2d 627, 97 S Ct 646 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Ylida (CA5 Tex) 643 F2d 348) (witness, who prior to trial compared signature on a note with that of the defendant on a signed statement which was clearly made in circumstances indicating its genuineness, possessed adequate familiarity with defendant's signature to authenticate the note).

Footnote 98. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule. 36 La L Rev 185 (1975).

Footnote 99. Pyle and Mockbee, Authentication and Identification. 49 Miss L J 151 (1978).

§ 1214 --Sufficiency in particular circumstances

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Authentication of a document by means of a nonexpert's opinion as to the genuineness of handwriting under Rule 901(b)(2) 1 can be established by the testimony of:

- a witness who is familiar with the handwriting and signature of signers of promissory notes 2
- a bank employee who testifies that signatures on checks match signatures of the signer's bank signature card 3
- a witness who testifies respecting the signatures and initialings of a particular person, where the witness testifying has known the person for a number of years, was his supervisor at a bank, and has taught him his job 4
- two persons who signed a lease in different capacities identifying their signatures and the signature of one of the principals, the lease having been introduced to show that the defendants, including the identified principal, were not eligible to receive milk subsidies and had submitted a false claim for them because they had leased their dairy 5

- the wife in a divorce case identifying an envelope as bearing the handwriting of her husband's mother 6
- a witness that she has frequently observed a judge signing his name and that the signature on a search warrant is his 7

§ 1214 --Sufficiency in particular circumstances [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

Footnotes

Footnote 1. FRE, Rule 901(b)(2); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(2).

Footnote 2. United States v Carriger (CA6 Mich) 592 F2d 312, 79-1 USTC ¶ 9195, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 124, 43 AFTR 2d 79-538.

Footnote 3. United States v Johnson (CA7 Ill) 805 F2d 753, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 44.

Footnote 4. United States v Gallagher (CA3 NJ) 576 F2d 1028, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 218, appeal after remand (CA3 NJ) 602 F2d 1139, cert dismd 444 US 1040, 62 L Ed 2d 675, 100 S Ct 713 and cert den 444 US 1043, 62 L Ed 2d 728, 100 S Ct 729 and appeal after remand (CA3 NJ) 602 F2d 1143 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Clark (CA2 NY) 765 F2d 297).

Footnote 5. United States v Whittington (CA5 La) 783 F2d 1210, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 171, adhered to, reh den (CA5 La) 786 F2d 644, cert den 479 US 882, 93 L Ed 2d 246, 107 S Ct 269.

Footnote 6. Veilleux v Veilleux (Me) 565 A2d 95.

Footnote 7. Acosta v State (Tex App Corpus Christi) 752 SW2d 706, petition for discretionary review ref (Nov 30, 1988).

§ 1215 Comparison by trier of fact or expert witness

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under Rule 901(b)(3), authentication or identification of a document may be by way of comparison of the document by the trier of fact or by an expert witness with specimens which have been authenticated. 8 Under the Rule, an expert's testimony concerning comparisons for the purpose of authentication may be based upon familiarity acquired solely for the purposes of the litigation, 9 and a party may move to compel a person to provide handwriting exemplars in order to provide a basis for comparison under the Rule. 10

◆ Comment: Compelling an accused to provide a handwriting exemplar for the purposes of comparison with a disputed writing does not abrogate his or her privilege against self-incrimination under the Federal Constitution, 11 as long as the nature of the material to be written is not essentially testimonial (such as particulars of the alleged crime). 12 A state constitutional privilege against self-incrimination may be more protective of an accused in this respect than the Federal Constitution. 13

A jury may generally make handwriting comparisons between an exemplar and a disputed document in the absence of expert testimony, except in extreme or unusual circumstances. 14

◆ Practice guide: Inasmuch as a jury may usually make its own handwriting comparison independently of expert testimony, counsel eliciting direct testimony of an expert in this respect should completely develop foundation testimony as to the expert's background, training, skill, the manner in which the comparison has been made, and the expert's reasons for reaching his or her conclusion; such foundation testimony will determine the weight given by the jury to the expert's testimony. The use of enlarged photographs of the exemplar and the disputed document may be helpful.

§ 1215 ----Comparison by trier of fact or expert witness [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 23 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 621, Examination and Identification of Photocopies and Photocopiers.

24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

25 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 637, Illegible Signatures and Handwriting in Litigation.

27 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 489, Forensic Identification of Handwriting

Footnotes

Footnote 8. FRE, Rule 901(b)(3); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(3).

Footnote 9. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, FRE, Rule 901.

Footnote 10. United States v Clifford (CA3 Pa) 704 F2d 86, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 870.

Footnote 11. United States v Jackson (CA7 Ind) 886 F2d 838, 28 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1141 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Colon (CA2 NY) 905 F2d 580).

Annotation: Propriety of requiring accused to give handwriting exemplar, 43 ALR3d 653.

Footnote 12. United States v Green (SD Ind) 282 F Supp 373.

Footnote 13. State v Armstead, 152 Ga App 56, 262 SE2d 233 (compelling accused to produce handwriting exemplar violated his rights under the state constitution).

Footnote 14. United States v Jenkins (CA9 Nev) 785 F2d 1387, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 192, cert den 479 US 855, 93 L Ed 2d 125, 107 S Ct 192 and cert den 479 US 889, 93 L Ed 2d 262, 107 S Ct 288 (extreme or unusual circumstances involve situations where the authenticity of the handwriting is the primary issue in the case, as where forgery is alleged; fact that exemplar in the instant case was an incomplete signature was not an extreme or unusual circumstance).

Annotation: Propriety of jury, or court sitting as trier of facts, making a comparison of a disputed writing with a standard produced in court, without the aid of an expert witness, 80 ALR2d 272.

§ 1216 Proof required to establish genuineness of exemplar offered for comparison

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The testimony of an eyewitness that he or she saw the execution of a handwriting exemplar offered for comparison with a disputed handwritten document to test its authenticity is sufficient to establish its genuineness, 15 and some authority holds that nothing short of such evidence will suffice, absent an admission of genuineness. 16 Several courts have taken the view that genuineness of an exemplar may be shown by the testimony of persons who are familiar with the handwriting of the person who allegedly gave the exemplar, 17 although contrary authority also exists. 18 It is also permissible to establish genuineness by circumstantial evidence, 19 or by the fact that the exemplar was notarized. 20 Where a party relies upon an instrument containing handwriting sought to be used as an exemplar for comparison with a disputed writing in the same case, he or she will be estopped from denying its genuineness. 21 An extrajudicial acknowledgment or admission of its genuineness can have the same effect. 22

◆ Practice guide: Whether the proof of genuineness of an exemplar is sufficient to permit its introduction into evidence is a question for the trial court, although the ultimate determination as to its genuineness is for the jury. 23

While pre-Rules statutes and the common law have sometimes set a higher standard of proof for the authenticity of a handwriting exemplar offered for comparison with a disputed handwritten document to test its authenticity, under Rule 901(b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Evidence the standard of proof is no higher than for any other document proffered as evidence. 24 Where the source of the exemplar is not stipulated, it may be authenticated by nonexpert testimony under Rule 901(b)(2). 25

§ 1216 ----Proof required to establish genuineness of exemplar offered for comparison [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

27 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 489, Forensic Identification of Handwriting

Footnotes

Footnote 15. Appeal of Darcy, 114 NJ Super 454, 277 A2d 226.

Annotation: Mode and degree of proof required to establish genuineness of handwriting offered as standard or exemplar for comparison with a disputed writing or signature, 41 ALR2d 575.

Footnote 16. Rauenzahn v Sigman, 383 Pa 439, 119 A2d 312.

Footnote 17. Goodman v State, 167 Ga App 378, 306 SE2d 417; State v Fernandez, 28 Wash App 944, 628 P2d 818, remanded without op 94 Wash 2d 1026 and on reconsideration, adhered to 29 Wash App 278, 628 P2d 827, review den 96 Wash 2d 1003 and mod on other grounds (Wash App) 640 P2d 731.

Footnote 18. Hagan v Higgins (Ky) 453 SW2d 579; McCormick v State (Miss) 456 So 2d 764.

Footnote 19. State v Clark (Mo) 592 SW2d 709, cert den 449 US 847, 66 L Ed 2d 57, 101 S Ct 132, later proceeding (Mo App) 689 SW2d 644.

Note left in jail by accused, giving reasons for his departure, was properly admitted in evidence as exemplar of his handwriting where prosecution demonstrated chain of custody of note from jail to its presentation at trial. Wilson v State, 277 Ark 43, 639 SW2d 45, habeas corpus proceeding (CA8 Ark) 892 F2d 754.

Footnote 20. State v Fernandez, 28 Wash App 944, 628 P2d 818, remanded without op 94 Wash 2d 1026 and on reconsideration, adhered to 29 Wash App 278, 628 P2d 827, review den 96 Wash 2d 1003 and mod (Wash App) 640 P2d 731.

Footnote 21. Castor v Bernstein, 2 Cal App 703, 84 P 244.

Footnote 22. Snider v Preachers Aid Soc., 111 Ind App 410, 41 NE2d 665.

Footnote 23. State v Boyington (Mo App) 544 SW2d 300; State v Woodmansee, 128 Vt 467, 266 A2d 448.

Footnote 24. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901 (noting that this approach is consistent with 28 USCS § 1731, which provides that the admitted or proved handwriting of any person shall be admissible, for purposes of comparison, to determine genuineness of other handwriting attributed to such person).

Footnote 25. United States v Mauchlin (CA7 Ill) 670 F2d 746, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 256 (exemplar, which consisted of papers appearing in defendant's prison file and purportedly written by him, was authenticated by prison official who for 16 months had daily contact with defendant and had seen him write on approximately six occasions).

§ 1217 Propriety of using exemplar made after controversy arose

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Whether a handwriting exemplar which was made after the controversy leading to suit arose may be used to establish the authenticity of a disputed writing generally depends upon the circumstances under which the exemplar was made. 26 In some jurisdictions the use of such exemplars may be precluded by statute. 27

§ 1217 ----Propriety of using exemplar made after controversy arose [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

Footnotes

Footnote 26. De Vas v Noble, 13 Utah 2d 133, 369 P2d 290, cert den 371 US 821, 9 L Ed 2d 61, 83 S Ct 37 (trial court did not abuse discretion in permitting expert testimony based on exemplars given after controversy had arisen, where expert requested and received thirty-five exemplars to minimize the danger of deception).

Annotation: Competency, as a standard of comparison to establish genuineness of handwriting, of writings made after controversy arose, 72 ALR2d 1274.

Footnote 27. Belcher v Somerville (Ky) 413 SW2d 620 (holding, however, that statute requiring exemplar to have been made before controversy arose did not require that it be made before the disputed writing was made).

§ 1218 Sufficiency of comparison in particular circumstances

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

A specimen written in cursive handwriting may be used to authenticate handwriting in block letters. 28 Authentication by means of comparison of writings by an expert or by the trier of fact has also been held adequate under Rule 901(b)(3) where:

(1) a handwriting expert testified that the printing on a job application form and on a handwriting exemplar supplied by the defendant were produced by the same person, this being sufficient to establish that the defendant produced the printing on the form; 29

(2) identification of the defendant as the writer of letters sought to be admitted in evidence was made by comparing the letters with letters from the defendant's prison file, there being only one person with that name in the prison system in which the defendant had been incarcerated; 30

(3) a handwriting expert testified that the block lettering on the exemplars had been written by the same person who had written the block lettering on the documents in question, the exemplars consisted of two of the defendant's income tax forms and forms found in his personnel file which were of a type he as an employee would normally have filled out, and the defense advanced no explanation as to who else could have written the exemplars. 31

§ 1218 ----Sufficiency of comparison in particular circumstances [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

Footnotes

Footnote 28. United States v Clifford (CA3 Pa) 704 F2d 86, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 870.

Footnote 29. United States v Stembridge (CA5 Tex) 477 F2d 874.

Footnote 30. United States v Hamann (CA7 Wis) 688 F2d 507, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 839, cert den 460 US 1013, 75 L Ed 2d 483, 103 S Ct 1255.

Footnote 31. United States v Mangan (CA2 NY) 575 F2d 32, 78-1 USTC ¶ 9349, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 315, 41 AFTR 2d 78-1174, cert den 439 US 931, 58 L Ed 2d 324, 99 S Ct 320.

§ 1219 Distinctive characteristics of spelling, usage, and the like

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Distinctive characteristics of punctuation or spelling contained in a writing of known authorship may be compared against a disputed writing for the purpose of showing that the disputed writing was or was not written by the person supplying the exemplar. 32 It is also permissible to show similarities or differences in the grammar, syntax, or style of two such writings 33 or the use of distinctive words or terms. 34 However, the testimony of an acknowledged expert in the field of psycholinguistics, offered for the purpose of proving that an accused could not have been the author of certain antisocial communications offered into evidence by the prosecution, has been excluded on the grounds that the science of psycholinguistics has not achieved such general recognition among psychological and scientific authorities as to justify courts of law in admitting expert testimony on the subject. 35

§ 1219 ----Distinctive characteristics of spelling, usage, and the like
[SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 24 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 667, Identification of Handprinting and Numerals.

Footnotes

Footnote 32. United States v Clifford (CA3 Pa) 704 F2d 86, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 870; United States v Larson (CA8 Minn) 596 F2d 759.

Annotation: Admissibility of evidence as to linguistics or typing style (forensic linguistics) as basis of identification of typist or author, 36 ALR4th 598.

Practice References 44 Am Jur Trials 317, Forensic Document Examination in Medical Malpractice Trials.

Footnote 33. In re Estate of Ciaffoni, 498 Pa 267, 446 A2d 225, 36 ALR4th 595, cert den 459 US 1036, 74 L Ed 2d 602, 103 S Ct 447.

Footnote 34. Succession of Killingsworth (La) 292 So 2d 536.

Footnote 35. United States v Hearst (ND Cal) 412 F Supp 893.

Annotation: Reliability of scientific technique and its acceptance within scientific community as affecting admissibility, at federal trial, of expert testimony as to result of test or study based on such technique—modern cases, 105 ALR Fed 299.

e. Authentication of Typewriting [1220]

§ 1220 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

For the purposes of authenticating typewritten documents, the courts have recognized for some time that the individuality of a typewriter and its operator are as distinctive as handwriting. 36 The machine itself may identify a particular document through some characteristic peculiar to a particular typewriter such as a damaged or misaligned letter. 37 Similarities or differences in a particular typist's typing style can also be used to prove the authenticity of a typewritten document. 38

Footnotes

Footnote 36. In re Cravens' Estate, 206 Okla 174, 242 P2d 135, 34 ALR2d 615; In re Estate of Ciaffoni, 498 Pa 267, 446 A2d 225, 36 ALR4th 595, cert den 459 US 1036, 74 L Ed 2d 602, 103 S Ct 447.

Wharton's Criminal Evidence (14th ed) § 486.

Footnote 37. Huber Mfg. Co. v Claudel, 71 Kan 441, 80 P 960; Succession of Bel (La App 4th Cir) 377 So 2d 1380.

Practice References 20 Am Jur Proof of Facts 265, Questioned Typewriting.

Footnote 38. Succession of Bel (La App 4th Cir) 377 So 2d 1380.

Annotation: Admissibility of evidence as to linguistics or typing style (forensic linguistics) as basis of identification of typist or author, 36 ALR4th 598 § 4.

f. Authentication and Use of Voice Recordings or Transcripts of Them [1221-1243]

(1). Identification of Speaker [1221-1232]

(a). In General [1221-1226]

§ 1221 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under Rule 901(b)(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, the requirement of identification of a person's voice, whether heard firsthand or through mechanical or electronic transmission or recording, as a condition precedent to admissibility is satisfied by opinion based on hearing the voice at any time under circumstances connecting it with the alleged speaker. 39 Aural voice identification under this Rule is not a subject for expert testimony, and accordingly the requisite familiarity may be acquired before or after the particular speech which is to be identified. 40 The familiarity required for identification of a voice under the Rule is minimal; 41 a witness may identify a voice he or she has heard on only one previous occasion. 42

Issues concerning the length of time over which the witness' familiarity with the voice was acquired, or the length of time between the last hearing of the voice by the witness and the witness' identification of the voice in court, go to the weight of the evidence and not its admissibility. 43 Once the minimal showing of familiarity required by the Rule has been made, the trier of fact determines the weight to be afforded the identification testimony, 44 and uncertainty as to the identity of a speaker goes to the weight of the identification, not its admissibility. 45

A witness identifying the voices of persons engaged in a conversation need not have been a participant in the conversation, 46 nor is it necessary that the witness specifically identify the voices of all the speakers on a recording. 47

§ 1221 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Audio Recordings: Evidence, Experts and Technology. 48 Am Jur Trials 1.

Authentication: Audio- and videotapes revisited, 57 Tex BJ 9:981 (1994).

23 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 315, Foundation for Audio Recordings as Evidence.

Case authorities:

In wrongful-death action, trial court properly admitted audiotape of decedent singing; tape contained hymn sung by decedent, evidencing his singing ability, which was aspect of decedent's life that jury could properly consider in deciding value of that intangible aspect of his life. Jones v Livingston (1992) 203 Ga App 99, 416 SE2d 142, 103-51 Fulton County D R 25.

Footnotes

Footnote 39. FRE, Rule 901(b)(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(5).

Footnote 40. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Fact that witness did not speak with the defendant until after the defendant's voice had been recorded did not bar witness' identification at trial of defendant's voice on tape. United States v Watson (CA10 Okla) 594 F2d 1330, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1440, cert den 444 US 840, 62 L Ed 2d 51, 100 S Ct 78.

As to identification of a voice by use of voiceprints, see § 1018.

Footnote 41. United States v Cerone (CA8 Mo) 830 F2d 938, 23 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1291, cert den 486 US 1006, 100 L Ed 2d 194, 108 S Ct 1730, appeal after remand (CA8 Mo) 859 F2d 1328, cert den 488 US 1031, 102 L Ed 2d 972, 109 S Ct 840.

Footnote 42. Wolf v State (Tex App Corpus Christi) 674 SW2d 831, petition for discretionary review ref (Apr 3, 1985) and (disapproved on other grounds by Reed v State (Tex Crim) 744 SW2d 112).

Voice identification was adequate under FRE, Rule 901(b)(5) where the proponent of taped conversations presented evidence that the identifying witness had conversed with the alleged speaker over the telephone on three separate occasions. United States v Thomas (CA9 Wash) 586 F2d 123, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 370.

Footnote 43. United States v Vega (CA7 Ind) 860 F2d 779, 27 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Durrive (CA7 Wis) 902 F2d 1221).

Footnote 44. United States v Cuesta (CA5 Fla) 597 F2d 903, cert den 444 US 964, 62 L Ed 2d 377, 100 S Ct 451, 100 S Ct 452; Vouras v State (Del Sup) 452 A2d 1165.

Footnote 45. People v Gable (Colo App) 647 P2d 246, later proceeding (Colo) 682 P2d 20, cert den 469 US 855, 83 L Ed 2d 115, 105 S Ct 181.

Footnote 46. United States v Verlin (ND Tex) 466 F Supp 155, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 638.

Footnote 47. Vasquez Garza v State (Tex App Corpus Christi) 794 SW2d 530, reh overr (Aug 31, 1990) and petition for discretionary review ref (Jan 30, 1991) (identification of voices was sufficient, even though witness could not identify some background voices other than to say that they were those of law enforcement officers, where testimony established that the only other persons present when the recording was made were law enforcement officers).

§ 1222 Special considerations in criminal cases

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

In a criminal prosecution, the fact that opinion evidence, identifying a voice in a taped telephone call as the defendant's voice, concerns an ultimate issue of fact to be resolved by the jury does not make such evidence objectionable. 48

In a prosecution involving voice identification, Rule 901(b)(5) 49 requires no "due process" procedure comparable to a lineup identification of alleged participants in crimes. 50 However, pretrial voice identification procedures should not be so suggestive as to create a substantial likelihood of irreparable misidentification. 51 It is for the trial court to determine whether there are sufficient aspects of reliability surrounding a voice identification to permit its use as evidence. 52 A defendant challenging voice identification on the grounds that the procedure employed was unduly suggestive must allege facts in support of that contention. 53 If the identification procedure is not unduly suggestive, the reliability of a voice identification goes merely to the weight to be given such testimony and not to its admissibility. 54

◆ Practice guide: Where a lay witness's voice identification testimony is offered against the accused in a criminal prosecution, it is not error for the court to refuse to give to the jury a cautionary instruction as to the unreliability of such testimony, at least where the testimony is not critical to the state's case and the facts of the case raise no serious question as to the reliability of the testimony. 55 It is not error for the court to decline to give an instruction stating that voice identification is inherently weaker evidence than corporeal identification. 56

§ 1222 ----Special considerations in criminal cases [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In prosecution for theft and malicious mischief, trial court properly held that telephone conversation between defendant and detective had been properly authenticated, where detective had known defendant for several years, was familiar with defendant's voice, and had had at least two recent contacts with defendant at same telephone number. State v Mahoney (1995) 80 Wash App 495, 909 P2d 949.

Footnotes

Footnote 48. United States v Bice-Bey (CA4 NC) 701 F2d 1086, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1280, cert den 464 US 837, 78 L Ed 2d 123, 104 S Ct 126 (issue of whether defendant had made telephone calls placing fraudulent credit card orders).

Footnote 49. FRE, Rule 901(b)(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(5).

Footnote 50. United States v Albergo (CA2 NY) 539 F2d 860, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 572, cert den 429 US 1000, 50 L Ed 2d 611, 97 S Ct 529.

Annotation: Requiring suspect or defendant in criminal case to demonstrate voice for purposes of identification, 24 ALR3d 1261.

Footnote 51. United States v Vega (CA7 Ind) 860 F2d 779, 27 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561 (criticized by United States v Durrive (CA7 Wis) 902 F2d 1221) (request that police officer ascertain if a particular person's voice is on a certain recording or recordings, some of which apparently contain that person's voice and others which do not, is not impermissibly suggestive).

Footnote 52. Wilson v State, 282 Ark 551, 669 SW2d 889.

Footnote 53. United States v Gambale (DC Mass) 610 F Supp 1515, later proceeding (DC Mass) 678 F Supp 346, affd (CA1 Mass) 847 F2d 956, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 515, cert den 488 US 852, 102 L Ed 2d 110, 109 S Ct 138 and cert den 488 US 928, 102 L Ed 2d 332, 109 S Ct 314, later proceeding (CA1 Mass) 897 F2d 1169, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1011, cert den 498 US 845, 112 L Ed 2d 98, 111 S Ct 130.

Footnote 54. United States v Gambale (DC Mass) 610 F Supp 1515, later proceeding (DC Mass) 678 F Supp 346, affd (CA1 Mass) 847 F2d 956, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 515, cert den 488 US 852, 102 L Ed 2d 110, 109 S Ct 138 and cert den 488 US 928, 102 L Ed 2d 332, 109 S Ct 314, later proceeding (CA1 Mass) 897 F2d 1169, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1011, cert den 498 US 845, 112 L Ed 2d 98, 111 S Ct 130.

Footnote 55. State v Burnison, 247 Kan 19, 795 P2d 32, 17 ALR5th 1084 (lay witness identified voice of one of the defendants which she heard in the background of a telephone conversation she was having with her husband before he was killed).

Requested instruction, to the effect that jury was required to acquit defendant if prosecution had not established accuracy of voice identification testimony beyond a reasonable doubt, was not a correct statement of the law where prosecution had other significant sources of identification of defendant. State v Cook, 65 Ohio St 3d 516, 605 NE2d 70, later proceeding 65 Ohio St 3d 1483, 604 NE2d 759 and cert den (US) 126 L Ed 2d 649, 114 S Ct 681.

Annotation: Cautionary instructions to jury as to reliability of, or factors to be considered in evaluating, voice identification testimony, 17 ALR5th 851.

Footnote 56. People v Zocchi (2d Dept) 133 App Div 2d 478, 519 NYS2d 690.

§ 1223 Identification by trier of fact

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although the identification of a voice on a recording under Rule 901(b)(5) 57 is ordinarily made by a witness, such identification may be made by the trier of fact if the person whose voice is allegedly on the recording has testified. 58 Where the trier of fact is a jury, the trial court may under Rule 104(b) make a preliminary determination of authenticity sufficient to allow the recording to be considered by the jury. 59 To avoid any possible confusion as to the effect of the court's preliminary determination of authenticity, the jury should be instructed that the authenticity of the recording is an issue to be resolved by them. 60

Footnotes

Footnote 57. FRE, Rule 901(b)(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(5).

Footnote 58. United States v Sliker (CA2 NY) 751 F2d 477, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1089, cert den 470 US 1058, 84 L Ed 2d 832, 105 S Ct 1772 and cert den 471 US 1137, 86 L Ed 2d 697, 105 S Ct 2679.

Footnote 59. United States v Sliker (CA2 NY) 751 F2d 477, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1089, cert den 470 US 1058, 84 L Ed 2d 832, 105 S Ct 1772 and cert den 471 US 1137, 86 L Ed 2d 697, 105 S Ct 2679 (stating that such determination should preferably be made in camera).

Practice References 45 Am Jur Trials 1, Determining Preliminary Facts Under Federal Rule 104.

Footnote 60. United States v Sliker (CA2 NY) 751 F2d 477, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1089, cert den 470 US 1058, 84 L Ed 2d 832, 105 S Ct 1772 and cert den 471 US 1137, 86 L Ed 2d 697, 105 S Ct 2679 (holding, however, that where counsel failed to request such an instruction, the court's failure to give it was not error).

§ 1224 Identification by means of spectrograph and voiceprints

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The sound spectrograph produces by means of an electrical process a pictorial representation of sound called a sound spectrogram or (when the sound represented is that of a person speaking) a "voiceprint." 61 Proponents of the sound spectrograph as a forensic tool for identification of voices maintain that sound patterns produced in speech are unique or virtually so for each individual and that voiceprints accurately depict this uniqueness. Although this contention has been challenged in the scientific community, some courts have permitted the introduction into evidence of expert opinion evidence as to the identity of a voice based on voiceprint analysis. 62

§ 1224 ----Identification by means of spectrograph and voiceprints [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Voicegram Identification Evidence 54 Am Jur Trials 1.

Footnotes

Footnote 61. For more detailed discussion of the theory and mechanism of the sound spectrograph, see 19 Am Jur Proof of Facts 423, Spectrogram Voice Identification.

Footnote 62. United States v Williams (CA2 NY) 583 F2d 1194, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1063, cert den 439 US 1117, 59 L Ed 2d 77, 99 S Ct 1025 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Buck (SD NY) 1987 US Dist LEXIS 9913); State v Williams (Me) 388 A2d 500.

Annotation: Admissibility and weight of voiceprint evidence, 97 ALR3d 294.

§ 1225 --Reliability or general acceptance within scientific community as affecting admissibility; weight of evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In some cases rulings admitting expert opinion testimony as to voiceprints have been based on a determination that the voiceprint process is generally accepted by the scientific community, 63 while other courts have deemed such evidence admissible in view of evidence as to the reliability of the voiceprint process. 64 However, some courts have held that expert opinion evidence based on voiceprint analysis is not admissible for the reason that voice spectrography has not gained general acceptance in the scientific community. 65

◆ Observation: Under the "general acceptance within the scientific community" standard, the admissibility of expert opinions as to voiceprints may depend on whether the scientific community in which voiceprints must be generally accepted consists of only those scientists who have worked or experimented with the voiceprint process, or whether it consists of the larger body of scientists who by their general training and experience are qualified to express opinions as to its reliability. Cases admitting voiceprint evidence under the "general acceptance within the scientific community" standard have tended to define the relevant scientific community narrowly in terms of scientists familiar with the voiceprint process, 66 while courts reaching a different result under the same standard have sometimes defined the relevant scientific community as that concerned generally with acoustical science. 67

◆ Caution: The "general acceptance within the scientific community" standard for admissibility of expert opinion testimony based on a scientific technique is based on the holding of Frye v United States, 54 App DC 46, 293 F 1013, 34 ALR 145. However, the United States Supreme Court has held that the rule of Frye has been superseded in the federal courts by the adoption of the Federal Rules of Evidence, 68 and its continued viability may therefore also be in doubt in states whose rules of evidence are substantially similar to the Federal Rules.

Opinion testimony based on voiceprint analysis, where admissible, is not conclusive; the trier of fact must make its own determination as to what weight is to be given such evidence. 69

§ 1225 --Reliability or general acceptance within scientific community as affecting admissibility; weight of evidence [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Voicegram Identification Evidence 54 Am Jur Trials 1.

Footnotes

Footnote 63. United States v Brown (Dist Col Super) 13 Crim Law 2203; Commonwealth v Lykus, 367 Mass 191, 327 NE2d 671, later proceeding 406 Mass 135, 546 NE2d 159.

Annotation: Admissibility and weight of voiceprint evidence, 97 ALR3d 294.

Reliability of scientific technique and its acceptance within scientific community as affecting admissibility, at federal trial, of expert testimony as to result of test or study based on such technique—modern cases, 105 ALR Fed 299.

Footnote 64. United States v Baller (CA4 W Va) 519 F2d 463, cert den 423 US 1019, 46 L Ed 2d 391, 96 S Ct 456; United States v Jenkins (CA6 Tenn) 525 F2d 819; United States v Smith (CA7 Ill) 869 F2d 348, 27 Fed Rules Evid Serv 938.

Footnote 65. United States v McDaniel (CA DC) 176 US App DC 60, 538 F2d 408; People v Drake (Colo) 748 P2d 1237 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in People v Davis (Colo) 794 P2d 159); Cornett v State (Ind) 450 NE2d 498.

Footnote 66. See, for example, Commonwealth v Lykus, 367 Mass 191, 327 NE2d 671, later proceeding 406 Mass 135, 546 NE2d 159.

Footnote 67. Commonwealth v Topa, 471 Pa 223, 369 A2d 1277.

Footnote 68. § 1001.

Footnote 69. United States v Love (CA4 SC) 767 F2d 1052, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1335, cert den 474 US 1081, 88 L Ed 2d 890, 106 S Ct 848, 106 S Ct 849, postconviction proceeding (CA4 SC) 867 F2d 206, postconviction proceeding (CA4 SC) 943 F2d 366, postconviction proceeding (CA4 SC) 1993 US App LEXIS 8417 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Murphy (CA4 Va) 1993 US App LEXIS 9990); Alea v State (Fla App D3) 265 So 2d 96; People v Rogers, 86 Misc 2d 868, 385 NYS2d 228 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in People v Jeter, 80 NY2d 818, 587 NYS2d 583, 600 NE2d 214).

§ 1226 --Checklist of matters needed to identify voice by spectrograph analysis

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The following facts and circumstances tend to establish the identity of a person by comparative analysis of voice spectrograms ("voiceprints"):

- Recording of voice to be identified
- Recording of voice exemplar of accused 70 or party to civil action;
- Submission of recordings to qualified expert
- Excerpting of "cue" words or phrases (words or phrases to be tested against same words or phrases spoken in voice exemplar) from recording of voice to be identified
- Excerpting identical cue words or phrases from voice exemplar
- Electronic conversion of sounds of cue words or phrases from both recordings into voiceprints

- Showing of circumstances surrounding the making of each recording
- Establishing chain of custody of recordings from the time they were made, including their possession by the expert and their return to the proponent of the voiceprint evidence 71
- Qualifications of expert, including—
 - basic educational background in science or acoustical engineering
 - advanced degrees in science or engineering
 - special training or experimentation in related fields
 - teaching experience, including length of time, academic rank, and subjects taught
 - professional experience, including length of time, positions of responsibility held, and specific experience related to voiceprints
 - authorship of lectures, papers, articles, or books on voiceprints
 - honors or recognition received for professional achievements; membership in professional associations, societies, or academies, including offices held
- Showing degree of accuracy of past experiments with voiceprint analysis;
- Comparison of voiceprint formed by recording of voice to be identified with voiceprint formed by recording of voice exemplar
- Showing correspondence of configurations of voiceprints
- Opinion of expert as to correspondence of voiceprints and identity of speaker

§ 1226 --Checklist of matters needed to identify voice by spectrograph analysis
[SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Voicegram Identification Evidence 54 Am Jur Trials 1.

Footnotes

Footnote 70. Voice exemplars given for the purpose of conducting voiceprint analysis do not involve evidence of a testimonial or communicative nature, and so an accused may be compelled to give a voice exemplar without violation of his or her right against self-incrimination under the Federal Constitution's Fifth Amendment. United States v Franks (CA6 Tenn) 511 F2d 25, cert den 422 US 1042, 45 L Ed 2d 693, 95 S Ct 2656, 95 S Ct 2654 and cert den 422 US 1048, 45 L Ed 2d 701, 95 S Ct 2667 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v McDaniel, 176 US App DC 60, 538 F2d 408) and (ovrld on other grounds by United States v Kozminski (CA6 Mich) 821 F2d 1186, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1444) as stated in United States v Yee (ND Ohio) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 15908, adopted (ND Ohio) 134 FRD 161, affd sub nom United States v Bonds (CA6 Ohio) 12 F3d 540, 38 Fed Rules Evid Serv 688, 1994 FED App. 85P, reh, en banc, den (CA6) 1994 US App LEXIS 3679, later proceeding (CA6 Ohio) 18 F3d 1327; United States v Askins (DC Md) 351 F Supp 408.

Footnote 71. Establishment of a chain of custody may be unnecessary where there is prima facie evidence of authenticity. See § 1037.

(b). Telephone Conversations [1227-1232]

§ 1227 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under Rule 901(b)(5), ⁷² familiarity with a person's voice acquired through face-to-face conversations may be the basis of an identification of his or her voice in a telephone conversation, even though the identifying witness had never before spoken with that person on the telephone. ⁷³ Alternatively, a telephone conversation may be identified by evidence that a call was made to the number assigned at the time by the telephone company to a particular person or business, if circumstances, including self-identification, show the person answering to be the one called. ⁷⁴ The fact that a witness cannot positively identify a person with whom he spoke on the telephone is not dispositive; the identity of a party to a telephone conversation may be established by circumstantial evidence, ⁷⁵ regardless of which party initiated or answered the call. ⁷⁶ Counterproof or doubt as to a speaker's identity may be overcome by evidence that the speaker subsequently confirmed the substance of the telephone conversation in a face-to-face meeting with the caller, ⁷⁷ or subsequently acted in accordance with a plan devised in the course of the conversation. ⁷⁸

§ 1227 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

District court properly admitted transcripts of intercepted telephone conversations in case involving large scale cocaine trafficking since government established identity of persons speaking through various means, including self- identification of each appellant on at least one occasion, identification through nicknames, surveillance, telephone subscriber information, and monitoring agents' use of working copies of known voice samples. United States v Green (1994, CA11 Fla) 40 F3d 1167, 8 FLW Fed C 897.

In drug prosecution, content of two telephone conversations made to post office and inquiring about status of express mail package found to contain cocaine were admissible against defendant, where speaker identified himself with defendant's name and knew postal service's unique item number for package, and where defendant stated that he had been waiting for package when postal service delivered it to him. Jernigan v State (1993, Ind App) 612 NE2d 609, later proceeding (Ind App) 1993 Ind App LEXIS 593, transfer den (Jun 16, 1993).

In action by bicyclist who was knocked down by city streetsweeper, transcript of 911 call to report accident was not admissible where plaintiff merely presented transcript without any additional evidence since statements made by caller could not be deemed present sense impression without some corroborative evidence of statement's reliability. Berger v City of New York (1993, Sup) 157 Misc 2d 521, 597 NYS2d 555.

In robbery prosecution, trial court properly admitted audio recording of telephone conversation between defendant and complainant's father, where father testified that caller identified himself by his initials, asked whether complainant was going to testify against him, apologized for his crime, told father that he knew complainant was one who had to drop charges because he saw her name on some paper work in court that day, and asked whether complainant would consider dropping charges against him or not testifying against him. Wilson v State (1994, Tex App San Antonio) 884 SW2d 904.

In divorce case, trial court properly admitted tape recordings of wife's telephone conversations, where taped conversations contained prior inconsistent statements which were specifically used to impeach wife's credibility. Briscoe v Briscoe (1994, La App 2d Cir) 641 So 2d 999.

Footnotes

Footnote 72. FRE, Rule 901(b)(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(5).

Footnote 73. State v Sarinske, 91 Wis 2d 14, 280 NW2d 725.

Footnote 74. FRE, Rule 901(b)(6)(A); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(6)(A).

Annotation: Evidence: admissibility of memorandum of telephone conversation, 94 ALR3d 975.

Practice References 36 Am Jur POF2d 605, Foundation for Telephone Conversation.

Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) 25.12.

Footnote 75. United States v Espinoza (CA4 W Va) 641 F2d 153, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1438, cert den 454 US 841, 70 L Ed 2d 125, 102 S Ct 153; Zeigler v State (Fla) 402 So 2d 365, cert den 455 US 1035, 72 L Ed 2d 153, 102 S Ct 1739; State v Danielson, 37 Wash App 469, 681 P2d 260.

Footnote 76. United States v Espinoza (CA4 W Va) 641 F2d 153, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1438, cert den 454 US 841, 70 L Ed 2d 125, 102 S Ct 153; United States v Guaderas (CA9 Cal) 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1408 (government agent testified that he dialed number given to him by one defendant, which number admittedly was the second defendant's phone number, that he asked for the second defendant by name, and that he spoke to a man who identified himself as the second defendant).

Footnote 77. Johnson v Chilcott (DC Colo) 658 F Supp 1213.

Footnote 78. Jackson v State, 12 Ark App 378, 677 SW2d 866.

§ 1228 Call to place of business

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 901(b)(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, a telephone call to a business may be authenticated or identified if the call is made to a place of business at a number assigned at the time by the telephone company and the conversation relates to business reasonably transacted over the telephone, ⁷⁹ the theory being that maintenance of the telephone connection is an invitation to do business without further identification. ⁸⁰ A witness' testimony that he called a particular businessman's office and spoke to a woman who identified herself as the businessman's secretary constitutes authenticating testimony under Rule 901(b)(6). ⁸¹

◆ Comment: One writer has said that inasmuch as the provisions of Rule 901(b)(6) concerning calls placed to a business rest on the assumption that listing a business number in a public directory is an invitation to the public to carry on business over the phone, the proprietor of a business cannot bar the admission of the substance of a telephone call by denying the authority of the person answering the call to act on behalf of the business. ⁸²

Footnotes

Footnote 79. FRE, Rule 901(b)(6)(B); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(6)(B).

Footnote 80. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Footnote 81. United States v Portsmouth Paving Corp. (CA4 Va) 694 F2d 312, 1982-83 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65034, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1733.

Footnote 82. LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule. 36 La L Rev 185 (1975).

§ 1229 Identification by pen register of number dialed

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Evidence that a particular telephone number was dialed from a particular phone may be offered by means of a "pen register," a device which can be attached to a telephone line from a central telephone office to record all numbers dialed from a particular telephone (or extension) at particular times. The installation and use of a pen register does not constitute a search within the meaning of the Federal Constitution's Fourth Amendment. 83 The use of a pen register has in several cases, however, been held to constitute a search under relevant provisions of a state constitution. 84

Although the use of pen registers is regulated by federal statute, 85 the failure of a court order authorizing installment of a pen register to comply with the requirements of the statute does not render evidence obtained through the pen register constitutionally inadmissible, inasmuch as the mere violation of the statute does not result in an unconstitutional search, and Congress did not provide either specifically or by inference for exclusion of evidence as a consequence of violation of the statute. 86 It has been held that because a pen register records only the number called and the time of the call, and not the content of the call, its use does not implicate Title III of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act, 87 the principal federal statute governing wiretapping. 88

Footnotes

Footnote 83. Smith v Maryland, 442 US 736, 61 L Ed 2d 220, 99 S Ct 2577.

Practice References 2 Am Jur POF2d 545, Reliability of Scientific Devices—Telephone Calling Line Identification.

Annotation: Search and seizure of telephone company records pertaining to subscriber as violation of subscriber's constitutional rights, 76 ALR4th 536.

Footnote 84. People v Chapman, 36 Cal 3d 98, 201 Cal Rptr 628, 679 P2d 62; People v Sporleder (Colo) 666 P2d 135; State v Thompson, 114 Idaho 746, 760 P2d 1162; Commonwealth v Melilli, 521 Pa 405, 555 A2d 1254; State v Gunwall, 106 Wash 2d 54, 720 P2d 808, 76 ALR4th 517.

But see Richardson v State (Tex App Amarillo) 831 SW2d 78, petition for discretionary review gr (Sep 30, 1992) and motion for rehearing on PDR denied (Dec 8, 1993) (use of a pen register is not a search within the scope of Article I, Section 9 of the Texas constitution).

Footnote 85. 18 USCS §§ 3121-3127.

Footnote 86. United States v Thompson (CA11 Ga) 936 F2d 1249, cert den (1992, US) 117 L Ed 2d 139, 112 S Ct 975.

Footnote 87. 18 USCS §§ 2510 et seq.

Footnote 88. People v Turner (1st Dist) 35 Ill App 3d 550, 342 NE2d 158.

But see Southern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co. v Hamm, 306 SC 70, 409 SE2d 775, 9 ALR5th 1131 (purpose of 18 USCS § 2510 is to restrict use of pen registers and similar surveillance devices whose use is not restricted as a matter of federal constitutional law).

§ 1230 Correctness of number called

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where the authenticity of a telephone conversation is in question, evidence must be offered as to the correct telephone number. 89 For this purpose it is proper under the Uniform or Federal Rules of Evidence to testify that the number called was obtained from a telephone directory or from the information operator; any objection that such testimony involves hearsay evidence may be overcome by reference to the exception to the hearsay rule covering commercial publications (FRE, Rule 803(17)), or the residual exceptions (FRE, Rule 803(24), FRE, 804(b)(5)). 90 The correctness of a telephone number may also be established on the basis of prior experience. 91

Footnotes

Footnote 89. United States v Sawyer (CA7 Ill) 607 F2d 1190, 79-2 USTC ¶ 9537, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1142, 44 AFTR 2d 79-5471, cert den 445 US 943, 63 L Ed 2d 776, 100 S Ct 1338 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Nixon (CA2 NY) 779 F2d 126, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 194) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161); United States v Watson (CA10 Okla) 594 F2d 1330, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1440, cert den 444 US 840, 62 L Ed 2d 51, 100 S Ct 78.

Footnote 90. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 517.

As to the hearsay exceptions created by Rules 803(17), 803(24), and 804(b)(5), see §§ 1429, 683-689, and , see §§ 701-703, respectively.

Footnote 91. United States v Vitale (CA8 Mo) 549 F2d 71, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 641, cert den 431 US 907, 52 L Ed 2d 393, 97 S Ct 1704.

§ 1231 Self-identification of person called

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The identity of a person called on the telephone may be established under Rule 901(b)(6) by evidence that the call was made to a number assigned by the telephone company to that person, and that the person called identified himself to the caller, 92 the assumption being that the usual conduct respecting telephone calls furnishes adequate assurance of regularity. 93 Self-identification of a person called at a place where he or she could reasonably be expected to be reached by telephone is sufficient to identify him or her, although the number called is not assigned to him or her. 94 Identification has been held sufficient where the answering party identified himself by name, the telephone he answered was registered in the name of his parents, and the answering party was subsequently found at the parents' house by an investigator. 95 Additional corroboration of a speaker's identity can be derived from circumstantial evidence, 96 such as the content of the conversation. 97

Footnotes

Footnote 92. FRE, Rule 901(b)(6)(A); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(6)(A).

Footnote 93. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Footnote 94. O'Neal v Morgan (CA2 NY) 637 F2d 846, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1069, cert den 451 US 972, 68 L Ed 2d 351, 101 S Ct 2050 (in a civil rights suit seeking damages for false arrest and police brutality, detective witness' testimony showed that he called arresting officers at police department's street crime unit, where all defendants could be expected to be, that call was referred to one of the arresting officer's partners, and that the person to whom the call was referred identified himself as the arresting officer's partner).

Footnote 95. United States v Hines (CA4 NC) 717 F2d 1481, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 26, cert den 467 US 1214, 81 L Ed 2d 363, 104 S Ct 2656 and cert den 467 US 1219, 81 L Ed 2d 373, 104 S Ct 2668.

Footnote 96. United States v Pruitt (CA8 Mo) 702 F2d 152, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1249 (two witnesses recalled dialing number on documents provided and signed by the appellant and that number was answered by a man who identified himself as the appellant).

Footnote 97. United States v Guaderas (CA9 Cal) 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1408 (subsequent events occurred substantially as planned during recorded phone conversation).

Evidence of a call from one who identified himself as a particular person, and related information which only that person or his family would have known, was sufficient to authenticate the call. State v Nickles (Utah) 728 P2d 123, 43 Utah Adv Rep 20.

§ 1232 --Necessity of additional evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 901(b)(6), 98 the mere assertion of identity by a person talking on the telephone is not sufficient evidence of the authenticity of the conversation; additional evidence of the speaker's identity is required. 99 Thus, a telephone call "out of the blue" from one who identifies himself with a certain name may not in itself be sufficient authentication of the call as coming from the person named. 1 The possibility of another person using the name in question is too great to admit an identification on this basis. 2 The additional evidence required for authentication under such circumstances need not fall in any set pattern, and could consist of the content of the party's statements, a reply technique, or identification of his or her voice. 3 A "trace" by the telephone company of the phone from which a call was placed could also suffice. 4

Footnotes

Footnote 98. FRE, Rule 901(b)(6)(A); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(6)(A).

Footnote 99. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Footnote 1. United States v Pool (CA5 Fla) 660 F2d 547, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 490 (authentication not sufficient where testifying agent had never met person from whom call supposedly came, and had made no voice comparisons).

Testimony concerning telephone call to witness from a person who asked him to modify his testimony on behalf of the defendant was not admissible where the only evidence connecting the defendant to the call was that the defendant's name was Clarence and the caller had identified himself by that name. Manuel v State (Fla App D1) 524 So 2d 734, 13 FLW 1140.

Footnote 2. United States v Pool (CA5 Fla) 660 F2d 547, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 490

Footnote 3. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Identity of telephone caller may be established by such matters as context and timing of call, contents of statements, internal pattern and other distinctive characteristics, and disclosure of facts known peculiarly to caller. United States v Orozco-Santillan (CA9 Cal) 903 F2d 1262.

Law Reviews: LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule. 36 La L Rev 185 (1975).

Footnote 4. Louisell and Miller, Federal Evidence § 519.

(2). Proof that Recording is Accurate [1233-1238]

§ 1233 Generally

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table Go to Supplement
--

Under the Federal Rules of Evidence and the Uniform Rules of Evidence, tape recordings are generally admissible into evidence at the discretion of the court, 5 provided a proper foundation is laid. It has been said that authenticity is important with regard to tape recordings because they are peculiarly susceptible to undetectable adulteration and sometimes accidental alteration. 6 The party introducing a tape recording into evidence has the burden of going forth with sufficient evidence to show that the recording is an accurate reproduction of the conversation recorded. 7 Once the proponent presents sufficient foundation testimony, the party challenging the tape recordings bears the burden of showing that the recordings are inaccurate; this could be done, for example, by engaging an expert to examine the tapes. Tapes are not inadmissible merely because one can conjure up hypothetical possibilities that tampering has occurred. 8

Composite tape recordings containing recordings of selected intercepted telephone conversations are admissible as evidence if properly authenticated. 9 Such composite tapes can be admitted as summary evidence under Rule 1006. 10

§ 1233 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Audio Recordings: Evidence, Experts and Technology. 48 Am Jur Trials 1.

23 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 315, Foundation for Audio Recordings as Evidence.

Footnotes

Footnote 5. United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380); People v Jeffers (Colo) 690 P2d 194.

Practice References Introducing and Marking Exhibits (sound recordings and transcriptions thereof). 5 Am Jur Trials 553, § 24.

Footnote 6. United States v Sandoval, 228 US App DC 327, 709 F2d 1553, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 381.

Practice References 48 Am Jur Trials 1, Audio Recordings: Evidence, Experts and Technology.

Footnote 7. United States v Sarro (CA11 Fla) 742 F2d 1286, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 971, reh den, en banc (CA11 Fla) 751 F2d 394.

Footnote 8. United States v Rengifo (CA1 Mass) 789 F2d 975, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1259.

Footnote 9. United States v Rengifo (CA1 Mass) 789 F2d 975, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1259; United States v Denton (CA6 Mich) 556 F2d 811, cert den 434 US 892, 54 L Ed 2d 178, 98 S Ct 269.

Footnote 10. United States v Denton (CA6 Mich) 556 F2d 811, cert den 434 US 892, 54 L Ed 2d 178, 98 S Ct 269.

For a discussion of FRE, Rule 1006, see §§ 1060, 1061 et seq.

§ 1234 Circumstances and preservation of recording

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The accuracy of a tape recording may be authenticated by proof of the circumstances under which a tape was made and its chain of custody. 11 One formulation of the requirements for authentication under this view requires proof as to (1) the competency of the operator of the recording device; (2) the ability of the device to record properly; (3) the absence of material deletions, additions, or alterations in the relevant portions of the recording; (4) the identity of the speakers; (5) the authenticity and correctness of the recording; (6) the preservation of the recording; and (7) the voluntary nature of the conversation and the absence of any inducement or duress. 12

Other courts, while recognizing that specific factors such as those discussed above may assist a trial judge in ruling upon foundation questions, have specifically rejected the adoption of inflexible criteria to all cases, and will not upset a trial court's admission of a recording unless the foundation was clearly insufficient to insure the accuracy of the recording. 13

Footnotes

Footnote 11. United States v Sandoval, 228 US App DC 327, 709 F2d 1553, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 381.

Footnote 12. United States v Lipowski (DC NJ) 423 F Supp 864, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1242; United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380); People v Slaton, 135 Mich App 328, 354 NW2d 326; Furlev Sales & Associates, Inc. v North American Automotive Warehouse, Inc. (Minn) 325 NW2d 20; State v Robinson, 38 Wash App 871, 691 P2d 213, review den 103 Wash 2d 1015.

Footnote 13. United States v Jones (CA10 Kan) 730 F2d 593, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 726 (foundation sufficient where government informant testified that he consented to tape telephone call, that he called defendant, that he personally recorded conversation, that tape played in court was tape he recorded, and that voices on tape were his own and that of the defendant, and where the accuracy of the recording was further insured by the informant's familiarity with the defendant and the defendant's voice).

§ 1235 --Particular evidence as necessary or sufficient

There is no requirement that a tape recording be reviewed for accuracy contemporaneous with its completion. 14 Intercepted tape-recorded telephone conversations can be authenticated by detailed testimony of a supervising federal agent of the procedures followed to obtain the recordings, including the agent's presence at the initial testing of the equipment, his personal preparation of transcripts of the tapes, and his custody of the original logs and tape recordings. Conversations need not be authenticated by someone who either participated in or personally overheard the subject matter of the recording in evidence. 15 If a law enforcement officer authenticates a tape recording obtained by a wiretap by testifying as to his personal knowledge of the methods used to carry out the wiretap and of the degree to which the persons conducting the surveillance complied with the methods prescribed, the fact that conversations on the tape are spoken in a foreign language which the testifying agent does not know does not render the agent unqualified to authenticate the recordings. 16

A recording made on a telephone answering machine is properly authenticated notwithstanding the absence of expert testimony as to the operation of the machine or its reliability, where the owner of the machine testifies to buying the machine and installing it according to instructions, identifies the voice recorded by the machine, and states that he removed the tape containing the recording and stored it until turning it over to the police. 17

Although in a prosecution for pirating tapes the better practice is for the government to compare pirated tapes with the duplicate registered with the United States Copyright Office, it is sufficient authentication if an expert witness compares the copyright owners' duplicate tapes with the legitimate copyrighted tapes and the pirated tapes and determines that the music on all three tapes has been produced from the same original source. 18

Footnotes

Footnote 14. United States v Johnson (CA8 Mo) 767 F2d 1259, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 625.

Footnote 15. United States v Rengifo (CA1 Mass) 789 F2d 975, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1259.

Footnote 16. United States v Rengifo (CA1 Mass) 789 F2d 975, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1259.

Footnote 17. State v Robinson, 38 Wash App 871, 691 P2d 213, review den 103 Wash 2d 1015.

Footnote 18. United States v Shabazz (CA11 Fla) 724 F2d 1536, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 140.

§ 1236 --Electronically enhanced recording

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A tape recording, or a copy of it, which has been electronically enhanced or filtered to lower or delete background noise can be authenticated by presenting testimony as to the care and control of the original tapes, the techniques used in the electronic enhancement, 19 and the technicians' comparison of the enhanced copy with the originals for accuracy. 20 It is sufficient authentication if the engineer who processed the tape testifies that no part of the tape has been deleted and that only sound interference has been removed from the tape. 21

Footnotes

Footnote 19. United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380); United States v Slade, 200 US App DC 240, 627 F2d 293, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1053, cert den 449 US 1034, 66 L Ed 2d 495, 101 S Ct 608 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Gibbs (CA3 Pa) 739 F2d 838, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 929).

Footnote 20. United States v Slade, 200 US App DC 240, 627 F2d 293, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1053, cert den 449 US 1034, 66 L Ed 2d 495, 101 S Ct 608 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Gibbs (CA3 Pa) 739 F2d 838, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 929).

Footnote 21. Williams v Butler (CA8 Ark) 746 F2d 431, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 767, on reh, en banc (CA8 Ark) 762 F2d 73, vacated on other grounds, remanded 475 US 1105, 89 L Ed 2d 909, 106 S Ct 1508, on remand, en banc (CA8 Ark) 802 F2d 296 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in St. Louis v Praprotnik, 485 US 112, 99 L Ed 2d 107, 108 S Ct 915, 3 BNA IER Cas 273, 14 FR Serv 3d 412) and vacated, remanded 485 US 931, 99 L Ed 2d 264, 108 S Ct 1102 and on reconsideration, en banc (CA8 Ark) 863 F2d 1398, cert den 492 US 906, 106 L Ed 2d 565, 109 S Ct 3215.

§ 1237 Testimony of witness with knowledge of matter recorded

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A sufficient foundation is laid for the admission of a tape recording where a witness testifies, on the basis of having heard in person the conversation recorded, that the recording fairly and accurately reproduces the conversation and identifies the participants in the conversation. 22 Thus, a witness who participated in a tape-recorded conversation, 23 or overheard it, 24 can testify as to the accuracy of the recording and thereby authenticate it. The witness' recollection of the taped conversation can be challenged through cross-examination. 25

◆ Observation: Authentication of a recording by a witness with knowledge of the matter recorded can effectively substitute for proof of the circumstances and care of the recording. 26

Footnotes

Footnote 22. State v Thomas (Me) 432 A2d 757.

Footnote 23. United States v Albert (CA5 Tex) 595 F2d 283, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 750, reh den (CA5 Tex) 599 F2d 449 and cert den 444 US 963, 62 L Ed 2d 375, 100 S Ct 448; United States v Traficant (ND Ohio) 558 F Supp 996, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 580 (disapproved on other grounds by United States v Vest (CA1 Mass) 813 F2d 477); United States v Panas (CA8 Mo) 738 F2d 278, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 146 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Scafe (CA10 Kan) 822 F2d 928); United States v Sandoval, 228 US App DC 327, 709 F2d 1553, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 381.

Footnote 24. United States v Panas (CA8 Mo) 738 F2d 278, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 146 (criticized by United States v Scafe (CA10 Kan) 822 F2d 928); United States v Davis (CA10 Okla) 780 F2d 838, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1224; United States v Jones (CA10 Kan) 730 F2d 593, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 726; United States v Sarro (CA11 Fla) 742 F2d 1286, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 971, reh den, en banc (CA11 Fla) 751 F2d 394; United States v Sandoval, 228 US App DC 327, 709 F2d 1553, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 381.

Footnote 25. United States v Sandoval, 228 US App DC 327, 709 F2d 1553, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 381.

Footnote 26. United States v Sarro (CA11 Fla) 742 F2d 1286, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 971, reh den, en banc (CA11 Fla) 751 F2d 394 (if a witness with knowledge of the matter recorded testifies to the accuracy of a tape recording, a reviewing court will be extremely reluctant to disturb the trial court's decision to admit the tape recording even though at the time the decision was made the government had not carried its particularized burden of going forward with evidence as to the method of obtaining the recording).

§ 1238 Audibility of recording as affecting admissibility

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

To be admitted in evidence, a tape recording of a conversation must be audible and sufficiently comprehensible for a jury to consider its content. 27 Where a tape contains inaudible portions, a transcript should be modified by deletion of the unreliable portions. 28 However, the fact that some portions of a tape recording are inaudible or unintelligible does not invariably render the entire tape inadmissible. 29 Such a tape is admissible where the unintelligible portions are not so substantial as to render the recording as a whole untrustworthy. 30 A ruling on this issue is committed to the discretion of the trial court. 31

◆ Practice guide: Where one party seeks admission of numerous tape recordings, an opposing party will not be able to bring about wholesale exclusion of the tapes by generally alleging that they are inaudible; an objection based on inaudibility should be specific and refer to particular passages. 32

§ 1238 ----Audibility of recording as affecting admissibility [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In prosecution for distributing cocaine, possession with intent to distribute, and conspiracy to possess and distribute cocaine, trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting tape recordings of conversations between defendant and police informant or in allowing jury to use transcripts while listening to recordings, even though defendant claimed recordings were unintelligible, where (1) defendant disputed prosecution's interpretation of recordings by calling experienced translator, (2) defendant declined opportunity to offer his own transcripts, (3) police informant and transcriber testified about recorded conversations and was cross-examined, and (4) jury was instructed that only tapes and not transcripts were to be considered when weighing evidence. United States v Martinez (1991, CA8 Minn) 951 F2d 887, cert den (US) 118 L Ed 2d 407, 112 S Ct 1695.

Footnotes

Footnote 27. United States v Terry (CA6 Tenn) 729 F2d 1063, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 466.

Annotation: Omission or inaudibility of portions of sound recording as affecting its admissibility in evidence, 57 ALR3d 746.

Footnote 28. § 1239.

Footnote 29. United States v Ruppel (CA5 Tex) 666 F2d 261, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1170, reh den (CA5 Tex) 671 F2d 1378 and cert den 458 US 1107, 73 L Ed 2d 1369, 102 S Ct 3487, reh den 458 US 1132, 73 L Ed 2d 1402, 103 S Ct 17, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 724 F2d 507, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 725 F2d 1007 and reh den (CA5 Tex) 729 F2d 779 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Dilg (CA11 Ala) 700 F2d 620) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Burke (CA7 Ill) 781 F2d 1234, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 920); United States v Terry (CA6 Tenn) 729 F2d 1063, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 466; United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380); United States v Davis (CA10 Okla) 780 F2d 838, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1224.

Footnote 30. United States v Stone (CA5 Tex) 960 F2d 426, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 670; United State v Huff (CA8 Minn) 959 F2d 731, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 414, cert den (US) 121 L Ed 2d 110, 113 S Ct 162 and cert den (US) 113 S Ct 162; People v Hall (1st Dist) 112 Cal App 3d 123, 169 Cal Rptr 149; Food Fair, Inc. v Anderson (Fla App D5) 382 So 2d 150; People v Rogers (2d Dist) 187 Ill App 3d 126, 135 Ill Dec 65, 543 NE2d 300, app den (Ill) 139 Ill Dec 520, 548 NE2d 1076; People v Morgan (2d Dept) 175 App Div 2d 930, 573 NYS2d 765, app den 79 NY2d 861, 580 NYS2d 733, 588 NE2d 768.

Footnote 31. People v Quintana, 189 Colo 330, 540 P2d 1097; Bowens v State, 171 Ga App 364, 320 SE2d 189; State v Taylor (Mo App) 831 SW2d 266.

Footnote 32. United States v Finley (ND Ill) 708 F Supp 906, later proceeding (ND Ill) 1989 US Dist LEXIS 5219, motion gr (ND Ill) 1989 US Dist LEXIS 6125, later proceeding (ND Ill) 1989 US Dist LEXIS 6175, motion den (ND Ill) 1989 US Dist LEXIS 7607, motion gr (ND Ill) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 5845, later proceeding (CA7 Ill) 934 F2d 837, 33 Fed Rules Evid Serv 148, companion case (CA7 Ill) 934 F2d 822, 33 Fed Rules Evid Serv 818, subsequent civil proceeding (ND Ill) 1992 US Dist LEXIS 18080, affd (CA7 Ill) 13 F3d 220 and appeal after remand (CA7 Ill) 2 F3d 205 and postconviction proceeding (ND Ill) 783 F Supp 1123.

(3). Transcripts [1239-1243]

§ 1239 Generally

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

A court may under some circumstances employ transcripts to assist the jury in following a tape-recorded conversation. 33 Transcripts must be properly authenticated before they can be admitted. 34 To authenticate transcripts they must be shown to be an accurate reproduction of the matter recorded. 35 The parties may stipulate to the accuracy of a transcript. 36 In the absence of such a stipulation, it is not necessary that the person authenticating a transcript by testifying that it accurately reproduces a recording also be in a position to testify that the recording accurately reproduces the matter recorded. 37 Transcripts may be authenticated through the testimony of the transcriber or of a witness to the actual conversation. 38 The court can also make an independent determination of accuracy by reading the transcript against the tape. 39

Where a tape contains inaudible portions, the court should direct the deletion of the unreliable portion of the transcript, assuming that the unintelligible portions of the tape do not render the entire recording untrustworthy. 40

Footnotes

Footnote 33. United States v Ruppel (CA5 Tex) 666 F2d 261, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv

1170, reh den (CA5 Tex) 671 F2d 1378 and cert den 458 US 1107, 73 L Ed 2d 1369, 102 S Ct 3487, reh den 458 US 1132, 73 L Ed 2d 1402, 103 S Ct 17, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 724 F2d 507, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 725 F2d 1007 and reh den (CA5 Tex) 729 F2d 779 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Dilg (CA11 Ala) 700 F2d 620) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Burke (CA7 Ill) 781 F2d 1234, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 920); United States v Lambinus (CA10 NM) 747 F2d 592, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 161, cert den 471 US 1067, 85 L Ed 2d 500, 105 S Ct 2143; Harvey v State, 292 Ark 267, 729 SW2d 406, later proceeding (Ark) 1991 Ark LEXIS 165.

Footnote 34. United States v Sutherland (CA5 Tex) 656 F2d 1181, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 278, reh den (CA5 Tex) 663 F2d 101 and cert den 455 US 949, 71 L Ed 2d 663, 102 S Ct 1451 and cert den 455 US 991, 71 L Ed 2d 852, 102 S Ct 1617; United States v Devous (CA10 Wyo) 764 F2d 1349.

Footnote 35. United States v Sutherland (CA5 Tex) 656 F2d 1181, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 278, reh den (CA5 Tex) 663 F2d 101 and cert den 455 US 949, 71 L Ed 2d 663, 102 S Ct 1451 and cert den 455 US 991, 71 L Ed 2d 852, 102 S Ct 1617.

Footnote 36. United States v Llinas (CA5 Fla) 603 F2d 506, cert den 444 US 1079, 62 L Ed 2d 762, 100 S Ct 1030; United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380); United States v Devous (CA10 Wyo) 764 F2d 1349; United States v Slade, 200 US App DC 240, 627 F2d 293, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1053, cert den 449 US 1034, 66 L Ed 2d 495, 101 S Ct 608 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Gibbs (CA3 Pa) 739 F2d 838, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 929).

Footnote 37. Golden v State (Fla App D1) 429 So 2d 45, petition den (Fla) 431 So 2d 988 and cause dismd (Fla) 438 So 2d 833.

Footnote 38. United States v Rochan (CA5 Tex) 563 F2d 1246; United States v Devous (CA10 Wyo) 764 F2d 1349.

Transcript of accused's tape-recorded confession was properly authenticated by police officers who were present at and participated in the confession. Allen v State (Fla App D1) 492 So 2d 802, 11 FLW 1753.

Footnote 39. United States v Robinson (CA6 Ky) 707 F2d 872, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 111, appeal after remand (CA6 Ky) 763 F2d 778, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1434 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Mazza (CA1 Mass) 792 F2d 1210, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1225); United States v Devous (CA10 Wyo) 764 F2d 1349 (although not prerequisite to use of transcript, court determination is recommended practice in absence of stipulation by counsel on this point); United States v Slade, 200 US App DC 240, 627 F2d 293, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1053, cert den 449 US 1034, 66 L Ed 2d 495, 101 S Ct 608 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Gibbs (CA3 Pa) 739 F2d 838, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 929).

Footnote 40. United States v Terry (CA6 Tenn) 729 F2d 1063, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 466.

§ 1240 Use of more than one version of transcript

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In the event of a dispute between the parties as to what is said on portions of a recording, it is permissible to present the jury with two transcripts containing both sides' versions and let the jury determine which is more accurate. 41 In addition, each side may present evidence supporting the accuracy of its version or challenging the accuracy of the other side's version. 42 If two transcripts are given to the jury, they can be given the reasons for the dispute over the portions in question and instructed that they are to determine for themselves which, if either, transcript accurately reflects particular portions of the recording. The court can explain to the jury that there is a disagreement about the accuracy of the transcripts and allow the tape, or disputed portions of the tape, to be played twice, once with each transcript. 43

◆ Observation: Submission of only the government's version of a transcript has been held not error even in the absence of a stipulation where the defendants were free to make specific objections to inaccuracies in the transcripts during the testimony in which the tape recordings and transcripts were utilized, and were free to challenge the general techniques used in preparing the transcript and federal agents' personal knowledge in the context of cross-examination. 44

Where a tape recording is significantly inaudible, submission of two different versions of the transcript is prejudicial, for it inspires wholesale speculation by the parties and engenders jury confusion. 45

Footnotes

Footnote 41. United States v Ruppel (CA5 Tex) 666 F2d 261, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1170, reh den (CA5 Tex) 671 F2d 1378 and cert den 458 US 1107, 73 L Ed 2d 1369, 102 S Ct 3487, reh den 458 US 1132, 73 L Ed 2d 1402, 103 S Ct 17, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 724 F2d 507, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 725 F2d 1007 and reh den (CA5 Tex) 729 F2d 779 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Dilg (CA11 Ala) 700 F2d 620) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Burke (CA7 Ill) 781 F2d 1234, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 920); United States v Llinas (CA5 Fla) 603 F2d 506, cert den 444 US 1079, 62 L Ed 2d 762, 100 S Ct 1030; United States v Slade, 200 US App DC 240, 627 F2d 293, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1053, cert den 449 US 1034, 66 L Ed 2d 495, 101 S Ct 608 and (criticized by United States v Gibbs (CA3 Pa) 739 F2d 838, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 929).

Footnote 42. United States v Llinas (CA5 Fla) 603 F2d 506, cert den 444 US 1079, 62 L Ed 2d 762, 100 S Ct 1030; United States v Onori (CA5 Fla) 535 F2d 938.

Footnote 43. United States v Onori (CA5 Fla) 535 F2d 938.

Footnote 44. United States v Collazo (CA4 Md) 732 F2d 1200, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv

827, cert den 469 US 1105, 83 L Ed 2d 773, 105 S Ct 777 (noting that federal agents testified that one or the other of them was present during all of the recorded conversations, that they prepared the transcripts, and that the transcripts were accurate, and that the District Court repeatedly told the jury that the transcripts were not evidence but merely aids to follow voices on the tape recording and that the jury was bound by its own interpretation of the recording and not the transcript).

Footnote 45. United States v Robinson (CA6 Ky) 707 F2d 872, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 111, appeal after remand (CA6 Ky) 763 F2d 778, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1434 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Mazza (CA1 Mass) 792 F2d 1210, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1225).

§ 1241 Transcript of foreign language recording

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where the transcript contains a translation into English of conversations spoken in a foreign language, the proponent must introduce the testimony of a qualified witness to authenticate and verify the translation. 46 The procedure for providing the jury with an English transcript of a conversation produced in a foreign language should be the same as that adopted by some courts for providing a transcript of a tape in English: an effort to produce an official or stipulated transcript which satisfies all sides and, if such a transcript cannot be produced, the production by each side of its own version of the transcript or of the disputed portions, and the submission of evidence supporting the accuracy of these versions or challenging the accuracy of the other side's version. 47

Footnotes

Footnote 46. United States v Sutherland (CA5 Tex) 656 F2d 1181, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 278, reh den (CA5 Tex) 663 F2d 101 and cert den 455 US 949, 71 L Ed 2d 663, 102 S Ct 1451 and cert den 455 US 991, 71 L Ed 2d 852, 102 S Ct 1617.

Footnote 47. United States v Cruz (CA11 Fla) 765 F2d 1020, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 610.

§ 1242 Transcripts as evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although there is authority that transcripts should not ordinarily be admitted into evidence unless both sides stipulate to their accuracy and agree to their use as evidence,

48 other authority states that when proper precautions are taken, it is not error to admit tapes and transcripts into evidence or to allow the jury to retain them during the trial and their deliberations. 49 The use of a transcript as a guide is analogous to the use of expert testimony as a device for aiding a jury in understanding other types of real evidence; 50 thus, a transcript is evidence of what is recorded on an audiotape, just as the tape is evidence of what was said in the original conversation. The fact that transcripts are not submitted to the jury for their consideration during deliberations does not mean that the transcripts were not evidence. 51

Footnotes

Footnote 48. United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380).

Footnote 49. United States v Cruz (CA11 Fla) 765 F2d 1020, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 610.

Footnote 50. United States v Onori (CA5 Fla) 535 F2d 938.

Footnote 51. United States v Sutherland (CA5 Tex) 656 F2d 1181, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 278, reh den (CA5 Tex) 663 F2d 101 and cert den 455 US 949, 71 L Ed 2d 663, 102 S Ct 1451 and cert den 455 US 991, 71 L Ed 2d 852, 102 S Ct 1617.

§ 1243 Use of transcripts by jury; instructions

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Transcripts should not ordinarily be read to the jury or given independent weight. 52 The jury should be instructed that it is the recording itself which is the primary evidence of its contents, 53 that the transcript is to assist the jury in evaluating the primary evidence, and that if the jury determines that the transcript is in any respect incorrect, it should disregard it to that extent and rely on its own interpretation of the recording. 54 The jury should be instructed that it need not accept any proffered transcript as accurate. 55 The court may also instruct the jury that differences in meaning may be caused by such factors as the inflection in a speaker's voice or inaccuracies in the transcript, and that they should therefore rely on what they hear rather than on what they read when there is a difference. 56

§ 1243 ----Use of transcripts by jury; instructions [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In prosecution for distributing cocaine, possession with intent to distribute, and conspiracy to possess and distribute cocaine, trial court did not abuse its discretion in admitting tape recordings of conversations between defendant and police informant or in allowing jury to use transcripts while listening to recordings, even though defendant claimed recordings were unintelligible, where (1) defendant disputed prosecution's interpretation of recordings by calling experienced translator, (2) defendant declined opportunity to offer his own transcripts, (3) police informant and transcriber testified about recorded conversations and was cross-examined, and (4) jury was instructed that only tapes and not transcripts were to be considered when weighing evidence. United States v Martinez (1991, CA8 Minn) 951 F2d 887, cert den (US) 118 L Ed 2d 407, 112 S Ct 1695.

Footnotes

Footnote 52. United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380).

Footnote 53. United States v Ruppel (CA5 Tex) 666 F2d 261, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1170, reh den (CA5 Tex) 671 F2d 1378 and cert den 458 US 1107, 73 L Ed 2d 1369, 102 S Ct 3487, reh den 458 US 1132, 73 L Ed 2d 1402, 103 S Ct 17, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 724 F2d 507, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 725 F2d 1007 and reh den (CA5 Tex) 729 F2d 779 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Dilg (CA11 Ala) 700 F2d 620) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Burke (CA7 Ill) 781 F2d 1234, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 920).

Footnote 54. United States v Ruppel (CA5 Tex) 666 F2d 261, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1170, reh den (CA5 Tex) 671 F2d 1378 and cert den 458 US 1107, 73 L Ed 2d 1369, 102 S Ct 3487, reh den 458 US 1132, 73 L Ed 2d 1402, 103 S Ct 17, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 724 F2d 507, later proceeding (CA5 Tex) 725 F2d 1007 and reh den (CA5 Tex) 729 F2d 779 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Dilg (CA11 Ala) 700 F2d 620) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Burke (CA7 Ill) 781 F2d 1234, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 920); United States v Devous (CA10 Wyo) 764 F2d 1349.

Footnote 55. United States v Onori (CA5 Fla) 535 F2d 938.

Footnote 56. United States v Gordon (CA8 Mo) 688 F2d 42, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1026 (criticized on other grounds by United States v A & S Council Oil Co. (CA4 NC) 947 F2d 1128, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 380); United States v Slade, 200 US App DC 240, 627 F2d 293, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1053, cert den 449 US 1034, 66 L Ed 2d 495, 101 S Ct 608 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Gibbs (CA3 Pa) 739 F2d 838, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 929).

g. Documents or Records of Documents Purporting to Establish or Affect Interest in Property [1244-1253]

(1). Generally [1244]

§ 1244 Hearsay exception under Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(15) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that a statement contained in a document purporting to establish or affect an interest in property is not subject to exclusion under the rule against hearsay if the matter stated was relevant to the purpose of the document, unless dealings with the property since the document was made have been inconsistent with the truth of the statement or the purport of the document. 57 The rationale for this exception to the hearsay rule is that documents of the type described are reliable because the matters asserted are important to serious and carefully planned transactions. 58 The requirement that the matter stated be relevant to the purpose of the document, and the "escape clause" rendering the exception inapplicable where subsequent dealings with the property have been inconsistent with the truth of the statement or the import of the document, are believed to be adequate guarantees of trustworthiness. 59

◆ Practice guide: The requirement of no inconsistency between the matter asserted in the statement and subsequent dealings with the property, and no inconsistency between such dealings and the purport of the document amount to a condition on the admissibility of the evidence, not a factor affecting its weight, and any issue as to satisfaction of this requirement should be determined by the court under Rule 104(a). The opponent of the evidence should probably be deemed to have the burden of establishing any inconsistency. 60

◆ Observation: The common law generally recognized a somewhat similar exception to the hearsay rule with respect to deeds. 61 The exception codified in Rule 803(15) is broader, inasmuch as (1) the Rule is not limited to deeds, but apparently extends to instruments dealing with personal property as well, and (2) under the Rule the age of the document is immaterial, whereas the common-law exception apparently applied only to ancient deeds.

The application of Rule 803(15) is not limited to formally executed documents such as mortgages. 62 However, the Rule is not applicable to an affidavit of heirship. 63

Rule 803(14) also allows the admission of certain records of documents affecting an interest in property recorded in a public office. 64

Footnotes

Footnote 57. FRE 803(15); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(15).

Footnote 58. Compton v Davis Oil Co. (DC Wyo) 607 F Supp 1221, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 587.

Footnote 59. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803(15).

Footnote 60. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 463.

Practice References 45 Am Jur Trials 1, Determining Preliminary Facts Under Federal Rule 104.

Footnote 61. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 463.

Footnote 62. Madden v State (Tex Crim) 799 SW2d 683, reh den (Nov 28, 1990) and later proceeding 498 US 1301, 112 L Ed 2d 1026, 111 S Ct 902 and cert den 498 US 1129, 112 L Ed 2d 1200, 111 S Ct 1096 and cert den 499 US 954, 113 L Ed 2d 483, 111 S Ct 1432, habeas corpus den (CA5 Tex) 18 F3d 304, reh den (CA5 Tex) 1994 US App LEXIS 10178 and (ovrld on other grounds by Geesa v State (Tex Crim) 820 SW2d 154) as stated in Turro v State (Tex App Fort Worth) 837 SW2d 232, petition for discretionary review gr (Dec 23, 1992) and revd, cause remanded (Tex Crim) 867 SW2d 43 (handwritten list of weapons possessed by murder victim and corresponding serial numbers found, after victim's death, among his personal papers was admissible under Rule 803(15)).

Footnote 63. Compton v WWV Enterprises (Tex App Eastland) 679 SW2d 668.

Footnote 64. FRE 803(14); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(14), discussed in § 1350.

(2). Deeds [1245-1253]

(a). In General [1245-1250]

§ 1245 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A deed to realty which is in all respects regular and in compliance with the provisions of the law regarding such instruments is generally admissible in evidence in an action between the parties to it, or their privies, 65 or in favor of a party claiming under the deed, 66 subject to the general evidentiary requirements of relevance and competency. 67 To the extent that a deed contains admissions of facts amounting to declarations against the interest of the maker, it is admissible in evidence by a stranger, whether the plaintiff or the defendant, against all the other parties to the suit who have a joint interest with the party making the admissions. 68

Footnotes

Footnote 65. Vance v Gilbert, 178 Cal 574, 174 P 42; Matthews v Hill, 165 App Div 672, 151 NYS 101; Keyes v Gore, 42 Ohio St 211.

As to the legality of a deed in matters of form and content, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds §§ 17-25.

Footnote 66. People's Bank v Calhoun, 102 US 256, 12 Otto 256, 26 L Ed 101; Tarver v Deppen, 132 Ga 798, 65 SE 177; Wicker v Jones, 159 NC 102, 74 SE 801.

In an action of ejectment, deeds and other muniments of title which convey or purport to convey the land in controversy are admissible as tending to show title or right to possession. 25 Am Jur 2d, Ejectment § 108.

Footnote 67. Hollingsworth v Flint, 101 US 591, 11 Otto 591, 25 L Ed 1028.

Footnote 68. Peters v Nolan Coal Co., 61 W Va 392, 56 SE 735.

§ 1246 Authentication

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, it is essential to give preliminary proof of the authenticity and execution of a deed offered in evidence, 69 unless the deed is deemed self-proving by virtue of its status as an ancient document. 70 Under modern practice, however, the common-law rule is rarely invoked in view of statutes which provide that deeds (and frequently other sorts of documents) which are acknowledged by a notary public or other designated official are admissible without further evidence of authenticity. Typical in this respect is Rule 902(8) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which provides that extrinsic evidence of authenticity is not required for a document accompanied by a certificate of acknowledgment executed in the manner provided by law by a notary public or other officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments. 71 This Rule was promulgated in recognition of the fact that in most states, acknowledged deeds are regarded as self-authenticating, and was intended to extend this practice to all acknowledged documents. 72

Footnotes

Footnote 69. Beverly v Burke, 9 Ga 440; Garrison v Haydon, 24 Ky 222; Shanks v Lancaster, 46 Va 110.

Footnote 70. § 1251.

Footnote 71. FRE 902(8); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 902(8).

Footnote 72. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 902.

§ 1247 Defective or void deed

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A void deed is generally not admissible to prove title to realty. ⁷³ However, a deed cannot be excluded from evidence as void upon the ground that it does not sufficiently describe any land, if the land conveyed can be identified by extrinsic evidence. ⁷⁴ Neither is a deed rendered inadmissible merely because of a clerical or scrivener's error. ⁷⁵ Moreover, even an invalid deed may be admitted into evidence for the purpose of showing such matters as the intention of the parties, ⁷⁶ the extent of a claim of the party in possession under it, ⁷⁷ or the precise location of the property in question. ⁷⁸

Footnotes

Footnote 73. Cox v Hart, 145 US 376, 36 L Ed 741, 12 S Ct 962.

Footnote 74. Cox v Hart, 145 US 376, 36 L Ed 741, 12 S Ct 962.

Generally, as to the admissibility of parol evidence to explain ambiguities in deeds, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Deeds §§ 310 et seq.

Footnote 75. Pardee v Lindley, 31 Ill 174; Matthews v Hill, 165 App Div 672, 151 NYS 101.

Footnote 76. Bank of Metropolis v Guttschlick, 39 US 19, 14 Pet 19, 10 L Ed 335.

Footnote 77. McLawrin v Salmons, 50 Ky 96.

Footnote 78. Ryan v United States, 136 US 68, 34 L Ed 447, 10 S Ct 913.

§ 1248 Deeds referred to in another deed; deeds to adjacent or comparably situated land

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Deeds which are referred to in another deed as parts of the description of the land conveyed may be used in evidence in aid of that description. ⁷⁹ Where a deed containing no description of the land conveyed, except by reference to another deed, is properly admitted in evidence, the one referred to should also be received for the purpose of showing a description of the land conveyed, whether the conveyance is genuine or not. ⁸⁰

A deed of land adjacent to property to which title is disputed, in which the land therein conveyed is described as being bounded by lands of a certain person, is admissible as tending to establish the existence of a conveyance to that person by former owners. 81 The value of a particular tract of land may be shown by deeds to comparably situated tracts, but only where such deeds are supported by expert testimony. 82

Footnotes

Footnote 79. Peyton v Heinekin, 131 US Appx 101, 20 L Ed 679.

Footnote 80. Hicks v Coleman, 25 Cal 122.

Footnote 81. Masterson v Harris County Houston Ship Channel Nav. Dist. (Tex Com App) 15 SW2d 1011, 67 ALR 1324, reh den (Tex Com App) 18 SW2d 588, 67 ALR 1332.

Footnote 82. Buxton v Evans (La App 3d Cir) 478 So 2d 736, cert den (La) 479 So 2d 921.

§ 1249 Recitals as evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

A deed offered as evidence of the truth of the matters recited, acknowledged, or declared in it is admissible only against parties and privies, 83 under general principles governing admissions of parties and their privies. 84 At common law, recitals in a deed other than an ancient deed 85 are generally not admissible against a stranger to the instrument to prove the facts therein recited, nor are they binding upon him. 86 Thus, a recital in a recent, as distinguished from an ancient, deed that the consideration has been paid, or stating the amount of the consideration paid, is not proof of such fact as against a stranger. 87 Nor is a recital admissible as against a stranger to prove heirship. 88

◆ Comment: Some of the decisions stating that recitals in a deed (other than an ancient deed) are not binding as against strangers have justified this rule on the grounds that such recitals are hearsay. 89 Such holdings have presumably been superseded in some jurisdictions by the adoption of the Uniform Rules of Evidence or the Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803(15) of which provides that statements in a document purporting to establish or affect an interest in property are not excludable on the basis of their status as hearsay if the matter stated was relevant to the purpose of the document, unless dealings with the property since the document was made have been inconsistent with the truth of the statement or the purport of the document. 90 On the other hand, decisions justifying the common-law rule on the grounds that such recitals are, as to strangers to the deed, res inter alios acta 91 would probably not be affected by the adoption of Rule 803(15).

§ 1249 ----Recitals as evidence [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Deed of realty creating trust. 17A Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Trusts § 251:83.

Footnotes

Footnote 83. Franklin v Dorland, 28 Cal 175; Snyder v Cearfoss, 190 Md 151, 57 A2d 786; Waters v Pittman, 254 NC 191, 118 SE2d 395; Peters v Nolan Coal Co., 61 W Va 392, 56 SE 735.

Footnote 84. §§ 760 et seq.

Footnote 85. As to recitals in ancient deeds, see § 1253.

Footnote 86. Simmons Creek Coal Co. v Doran, 142 US 417, 35 L Ed 1063, 12 S Ct 239; Stewart v Peabody, 280 Ala 5, 189 So 2d 554; Carter v Thompson, 167 Ark 272, 267 SW 790, 38 ALR 1053; Soukup v Union Inv. Co., 84 Iowa 448, 51 NW 167; Dyer v Marriott, 89 Kan 515, 131 P 1185; Reams v Sinclair, 88 Neb 738, 130 NW 562; Waters v Pittman, 254 NC 191, 118 SE2d 395; Skipper v Yow, 240 NC 102, 81 SE2d 200; Potter v Washburn, 13 Vt 558; Hagan v Holderby, 62 W Va 106, 57 SE 289.

Footnote 87. Simmons Creek Coal Co. v Doran, 142 US 417, 35 L Ed 1063, 12 S Ct 239; Kruse v Conklin, 82 Kan 358, 108 P 856; Enkema v McIntyre, 136 Minn 293, 161 NW 587, 2 ALR 411; Peck v Mallams, 10 NY 509; Waters v Pittman, 254 NC 191, 118 SE2d 395; Lloyd v Lynch, 28 Pa 419.

Footnote 88. Carter v Thompson, 167 Ark 272, 267 SW 790, 38 ALR 1053; Soukup v Union Inv. Co., 84 Iowa 448, 51 NW 167; Dyer v Marriott, 89 Kan 515, 131 P 1185; Potter v Washburn, 13 Vt 558.

Footnote 89. Wanex v Hurst, 188 Md 520, 53 A2d 38; Lloyd v Lynch, 28 Pa 419.

Footnote 90. As to Rule 803(15), generally, see § 1244.

Footnote 91. Waters v Pittman, 254 NC 191, 118 SE2d 395.

As to the doctrine of res inter alios acta, generally, see § 1176.

§ 1250 --Exceptions to general rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Exceptions to the general rule that the recitals of a deed are not evidence against a stranger have been created where strict adherence to the general rule would work an injustice. 92 The most important exception is found in the case of ancient deeds. 93 Also, recitals in deeds are admissible as evidence of reputation concerning matters of general and public interest as stated in the recitals. 94

Footnotes

Footnote 92. Deery v Cray, 72 US 795, 5 Wall 795, 18 L Ed 653; Crane v Lessee of Morris, 31 US 598, 6 Pet 598, 8 L Ed 514; Carver v Jackson, 29 US 1, 4 Pet 1, 7 L Ed 761.

Footnote 93. § 1253.

Footnote 94. Bow v Allenstown, 34 NH 351.

(b). Ancient Deeds [1251-1253]

§ 1251 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the general rule admitting ancient documents in evidence without direct proof of their execution, 95 a deed which appears to have been in existence for more than 30 years, which is valid upon its face and free from suspicion, and which comes from proper custody, is admissible at common law without the usual and regular proof of its execution. 96 A deed of such age, coming from proper custody, is admissible where possession under it, or some other corroborative evidence freeing it from all just grounds of suspicion, is shown. 97 While possession of the land to which the deed pertains, in reliance on the deed, is the most commonly offered form of corroboration, 98 such possession is not indispensable; other corroborative circumstances, though circumstantial, may suffice to establish the antiquity and integrity of the document. 99

Where an ancient deed, otherwise admissible, is offered in evidence, it is immaterial that its proof or acknowledgment was insufficient to admit it to record. 1

An ancient deed purporting to have been signed by an agent is admissible without the production of the power of attorney, where the other necessary facts are present and the possession of the land has been consistent with its terms. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 95. § 1201.

Footnote 96. Wilson v Snow, 228 US 217, 57 L Ed 807, 33 S Ct 487; Ford v Ford, 27 App DC 401; O'Neal v Tennessee C., I. & R. Co., 140 Ala 378, 37 So 275; Garbarino v Noce, 181 Cal 125, 183 P 532, 6 ALR 1433; Reinhart v Miller, 22 Ga 402; Homewood Realty Corp. v Safe Deposit & Trust Co., 160 Md 457, 154 A 58, 78 ALR 8; Anderson v Anderson, 150 Neb 879, 36 NW2d 287; Trustees of German Tp. v Farmers & Citizens Sav. Bank Co. (CP) 51 Ohio Ops 346, 66 Ohio L Abs 332, 113 NE2d 409, affd (Ohio App, Montgomery Co) 115 NE2d 690; Emory v Bailey, 111 Tex 337, 234 SW 660, 18 ALR 901; Wilson v Braden, 56 W Va 372, 49 SE 409.

Practice References 50 Am Jur POF2d 321, Ancient Documents, §§ 15-24.

Footnote 97. Applegate v Lexington & Carter County Mining Co., 117 US 255, 29 L Ed 892, 6 S Ct 742.

Footnote 98. Crane v Marshall, 16 Me 27; Nixon v Porter, 34 Miss 697; Wilson v Braden, 56 W Va 372, 49 SE 409.

Footnote 99. Applegate v Lexington & Carter County Mining Co., 117 US 255, 29 L Ed 892, 6 S Ct 742; Reuter v Stuckart, 181 Ill 529, 54 NE 1014; Harlan v Howard, 79 Ky 373; Cunningham v Davis, 175 Mass 213, 56 NE 2; Long v McDow, 87 Mo 197; Sanger v Merritt, 120 NY 109, 24 NE 386; Nicholson v Eureka Lumber Co., 156 NC 59, 72 SE 86 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in State v Le Duc, 306 NC 62, 291 SE2d 607); Emory v Bailey, 111 Tex 337, 234 SW 660, 18 ALR 901.

Footnote 1. Frost v Wolf, 77 Tex 455, 14 SW 440.

Footnote 2. Wilson v Snow, 228 US 217, 57 L Ed 807, 33 S Ct 487.

§ 1252 Copies; effect of affidavit of forgery

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

It has been held that the presumption of due execution of a deed more than 30 years old applies only to originals, and not to mere copies. 3 It has been held otherwise, however, with regard to a certified copy of a recorded ancient deed where the copy had been on record for more than 30 years, 4 and it has also been held that a certified copy from a record of a deed made more than 30 years before the copy is offered in evidence shows conclusively that the instrument was in existence for the period necessary to make it an ancient instrument. 5

◆ Practice guide: Notwithstanding the self-authenticating nature of a copy of an ancient deed, the proponent of such a copy may, before securing its admission into evidence, be required to overcome an objection to its admission under the best evidence doctrine. 6

According to some authority, an ancient deed is admissible in evidence without proof of execution, notwithstanding that an affidavit has been filed attacking it as a forgery; under this view no distinction seems to be made whether the instrument offered is an original deed or a copy. 7 Under other authority, an original ancient deed is admissible in evidence without proof of its execution, regardless of an affidavit of forgery filed against it, but where the instrument offered is a copy or record of it, it is not admissible without proof of execution if it has been attacked by an affidavit of forgery. 8 Under a statute permitting the use in evidence of a certified copy of the record of a lost deed where the original would be admissible, such copy may be admitted after the deed has been on record for more than 30 years, if it is free from anything suspicious on its face, notwithstanding the filing of an affidavit charging the original to be forged. 9

Footnotes

Footnote 3. McCleery v Lewis, 104 Me 33, 70 A 540; Anderson v Anderson, 150 Neb 879, 36 NW2d 287.

Footnote 4. Fielder v Pemberton, 136 Tenn 440, 189 SW 873.

Footnote 5. Emory v Bailey, 111 Tex 337, 234 SW 660, 18 ALR 901.

Footnote 6. As to the best evidence doctrine, generally, see §§ 1049 et seq.

Footnote 7. Emory v Bailey, 111 Tex 337, 234 SW 660, 18 ALR 901; Crockett v Arkansas-Louisiana Gas Co. (Tex Civ App) 125 SW2d 1101.

Footnote 8. Bentley v McCall, 119 Ga 530, 46 SE 645.

Footnote 9. Emory v Bailey, 111 Tex 337, 234 SW 660, 18 ALR 901.

§ 1253 Recitals as evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although recitals contained in a deed are generally not, as against strangers, evidence of the facts recited, 10 when the deed offered in evidence is an ancient deed, its recitals are at common law competent evidence of the facts recited, even as against strangers to the title, when accompanied by possession under the deed or other corroborating circumstances. 11 Under the exception, recitals of pedigree in ancient deeds are admissible on the theory that, if untrue, they would long since have been disproved, and that time and possession have raised the presumption of this truth, 12 provided there is some proof, even though slight, of the relationship of the declarant with the family. 13

◆ Comment: The rule permitting admission into evidence of recitals in ancient deeds has been regarded as an application to deeds of the general common-law exception to the hearsay rule pertaining to ancient documents. 14 Rule 803(16) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence somewhat alters the common-law

exception pertaining to ancient documents. 15 Moreover, Rule 803(14) creates an exception to the hearsay rule for records of documents purporting to establish or affect an interest in property, as proof of the content of the original recorded documents; this exception does not require that a document be of any particular age. 16

An ancient deed may be introduced in evidence as proof of facts recited in it which tend to prove that a valuable consideration was or was not given, 17 or to establish the person or persons from whom title was derived where there is other proof of a long-continued and undisputed possession, in accordance with the right or title claimed. 18 When a party attempts to establish his chain of title through conveyances from a remote grantor, a deed in the chain of title which has been either lost or destroyed may be established by a subsequent deed containing a recital of the missing deed. 19 Recitals in ancient deeds are also admissible to establish the extent of the property conveyed or the location of disputed boundary lines. 20

Footnotes

Footnote 10. § 1249.

Footnote 11. Wilson v Snow, 228 US 217, 57 L Ed 807, 33 S Ct 487; Garbarino v Noce, 181 Cal 125, 183 P 532, 6 ALR 1433; Brown v Weare, 348 Mo 135, 152 SW2d 649, 136 ALR 286; Young v Shulenberg, 165 NY 385, 59 NE 135; Skipper v Yow, 240 NC 102, 81 SE2d 200; Sitler v Gehr, 105 Pa 577; Wilson v Braden, 56 W Va 372, 49 SE 409.

Footnote 12. Wilson v Braden, 56 W Va 372, 49 SE 409.

Footnote 13. Fulkerson v Holmes, 117 US 389, 29 L Ed 915, 6 S Ct 780; Young v Shulenberg, 165 NY 385, 59 NE 135; Sitler v Gehr, 105 Pa 577.

Footnote 14. Skipper v Yow, 240 NC 102, 81 SE2d 200.

Footnote 15. FRE 803(16), Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(16).

As to ancient documents, generally, see §§ 1201 et seq.

Footnote 16. As to Rule 803(14), generally, see § 1350.

Footnote 17. Strong v Whybark, 204 Mo 341, 102 SW 968; Chamblee v Tarbox, 27 Tex 139.

Footnote 18. McMahon v Stratford, 83 Conn 386, 76 A 983; Norris v Hall, 124 Mich 170, 82 NW 832.

Footnote 19. Dorff v Schmunk, 197 Pa 298, 47 A 113.

Footnote 20. Garbarino v Noce, 181 Cal 125, 183 P 532, 6 ALR 1433; Edmunds v Plianos, 74 SD 260, 51 NW2d 701.

h. Private Memoranda [1254-1275]

(1). In General [1254]

§ 1254 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The rule against hearsay applies to written statements as well as to oral testimony, and accordingly a private memorandum which falls within the terms of the rule is at common law excludable from evidence on hearsay grounds, 21 especially where it is of a self-serving nature, 22 unless it can be brought within one of the exceptions to the hearsay rule, such as the res gestae exception 23 or the exception pertaining to admissions of a party. 24

A memorandum concerning a transaction between one of the parties to the suit and a nonparty may also be excluded under the doctrine of res inter alios acta. 25 In addition, the presence of a memorandum written on evidence tendered for some purpose other than proving the truth of the matters alleged in the memorandum may render the evidence inadmissible due to the prejudicial effect of the memorandum. 26

§ 1254 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

A memorandum of a meeting in which members of the architectural review committee of plaintiff homeowners association explained their reasons for disapproving defendant homeowners' application for permission to replace wood siding on their home with vinyl siding was relevant to the issue of whether the committee acted reasonably and in good faith, but the trial court's exclusion of this evidence was not prejudicial error where several of the reasons set forth in the memorandum were testified to at trial and plaintiff could have established the other reasons through the testimony of committee members. Raintree Homeowners Ass'n v Bleimann (1994) 116 NC App 561, 449 SE2d 13, review gr 338 NC 669, 453 SE2d 180.

Footnotes

Footnote 21. Heil v Zahn, 187 Md 603, 51 A2d 174.

Annotation: Written recitals or statements as within rule excluding hearsay, 10 ALR2d 1035.

Footnote 22. In re Levi's Will, 3 Misc 2d 746, 157 NYS2d 320.

Footnote 23. Shepard v Minneapolis Threshing Mach. Co., 50 Wash 242, 97 P 57.

As to the res gestae exception to the hearsay rule, generally, see § 861.

Footnote 24. As to the exception for admissions of a party, generally, see § 668.

As to other exceptions to the hearsay rule, see §§ 679 et seq.

Footnote 25. Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

As to the doctrine of res inter alios acta, generally, see § 1176.

Footnote 26. Carrier v State (Tex Crim) 565 SW2d 57 (in prosecution for delivery of heroin, it was error to admit an envelope into evidence, where notations on the envelope amounted to a neat condensation of the government's whole case against the defendant, notwithstanding that the accused had the opportunity to cross-examine the government agent who had made the notations).

(2). Entries in Family Records and Bibles [1255-1257]

§ 1255 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Entries in a family Bible regarding such matters as births, deaths, and marriages of family members are competent evidence on these issues at common law, where a proper showing is made as to the authorship or authenticity of the entries as a part of the family record and where better evidence is not available. 27 The admissibility of such proof is not confined to actions involving pedigree, but extends to other actions where such proof is relevant. 28 An entry in a family Bible made by a person since deceased, showing his own birth date, is admissible. 29 It is not necessary that the record be made by a member of the family for it to be admitted. 30 An entry in a family Bible must have been made at the time when the event happened, or within some period of time thereafter so remote from the purposes of the suit in which they are offered as evidence as to prove that it was not made for the purposes of litigation. 31 Such entries, moreover, are generally regarded as hearsay evidence which should not be admitted where the person who made them is alive and capable of testifying. 32

Footnotes

Footnote 27. Lewis v Marshall, 30 US 470, 5 Pet 470, 8 L Ed 195; Brown v State, 247 Ala 288, 24 So 2d 223; Estate of Monticelli, 107 Cal App 2d 90, 236 P2d 661; Rhoades v Bussinger, 188 Md 638, 53 A2d 419.

As to authentication of entries in a family Bible or other family record, see § 1257.

Practice References 45 Am Jur POF2d 631, Age of Person.

Footnote 28. State v Bowman, 278 Mo 492, 213 SW 64.

Footnote 29. Ewell v Ewell, 163 NC 233, 79 SE 509.

As to admissibility of a memorandum written by a person since deceased, generally, see § 1274.

Footnote 30. Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v Pollard, 94 Va 146, 26 SE 421.

Footnote 31. Brown v State, 247 Ala 288, 24 So 2d 223; Chapman v Chapman, 2 Conn 347; Bower v Lunney, 27 Tenn App 87, 178 SW2d 91.

Footnote 32. People v Mayne, 118 Cal 516, 50 P 654; State v Adkins, 106 W Va 658, 146 SE 732.

§ 1256 Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(13) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that statements of fact concerning personal or family history contained in family Bibles, genealogies, charts, engravings on rings, inscriptions on family portraits, engravings on urns, crypts, or tombstones, or the like, are not excluded by the rule against hearsay. ³³ The phrase "statements of facts concerning personal or family history" is meant to include the specific types of statements enumerated in Rule 803(11): statements of births, marriages, divorces, deaths, legitimacy, ancestry, relationship by blood or marriage, or other similar facts. ³⁴

Rule 804(b)(4)—which provides generally that a statement of personal or family history is not excludable as hearsay if the declarant is unavailable as a witness, and the statement relates to the declarant's own family relationships, or to the family relationships of another person to whom the declarant is related or intimately associated with—has also been used to admit into evidence writings concerning family relationships. ³⁵

Footnotes

Footnote 33. FRE 803(13); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(13).

Footnote 34. House Judiciary Committee Report No. 93-650 (1973), p. 15.

Footnote 35. In re Estate of Egbert, 105 Mich App 395, 306 NW2d 525 (inscription on back of photograph).

As to the provisions of Rule 804(b)(4), generally, see § 691.

§ 1257 Authentication

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

As a preliminary to the introduction of a family record in evidence, there must be some proof of its authenticity and due execution. 36 Although, in the case of Bible entries, the common law does not require proof of handwriting to warrant the admission in evidence of an entry adopted or accepted by the family as a true record, there must be some showing of authenticity, by way of proof either that the entry was made originally by one having knowledge or that the record was accepted by the family as true. 37 The production of a Bible from proper custody, together with its recognition by the members of the family as a true family record, is generally sufficient to render admissible in evidence entries of family pedigree in it, without any evidence of the authorship or handwriting of the entries. 38 But a family Bible in which the names and birth dates of several members of the same family are recorded, without proof of when or by whom written, or of the knowledge the writer had of the facts recorded, is not competent proof of the age of any person whose name may be recorded in it. 39

◆ Comment: A sufficiently old record or Bible entry may be authenticated under the rules of the common law or the Uniform or Federal Rules of Evidence pertaining to authentication of ancient documents. 40

Footnotes

Footnote 36. Supreme Council of Golden Star Fraternity v Conklin, 60 NJL 565, 38 A 659.

Footnote 37. Supreme Council of Golden Star Fraternity v Conklin, 60 NJL 565, 38 A 659.

Footnote 38. Prudential Ins. Co. v Pierce's Adm'x, 270 Ky 216, 109 SW2d 616; Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v Pollard, 94 Va 146, 26 SE 421.

Footnote 39. Prudential Ins. Co. v Pierce's Adm'x, 270 Ky 216, 109 SW2d 616; Supreme Council of Golden Star Fraternity v Conklin, 60 NJL 565, 38 A 659.

Footnote 40. As to the rules pertaining to authentication of ancient documents, see §§ 1201 et seq.

(3). Writings Used to Refresh Recollection [1258-1263]

§ 1258 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

In some situations, a writing or memorandum made either at the time of the occurrence or transaction recorded, or while the facts were fresh in the writer's mind, which is not otherwise admissible evidence, may be used by a witness while testifying for the purpose of refreshing his or her memory. Such a memorandum may be used where the witness' recollection of the event in question is more or less obscured, but is revived after consulting the memorandum such that the witness is able to testify to the facts to which it relates from independent recollection. 41 When a memorandum is used in this manner, it does not become evidence in the case, 42 unless introduced by opposing counsel. 43 The party whose witness has consulted the memorandum has no right to introduce it in evidence, as the writing is hearsay. 44 However, a writing may be employed for refreshment of memory even though the source from which it is derived would not be admissible in evidence. 45

◆ Observation: The common-law practice of using writings to refresh the memory of a witness during or before his or her testimony is recognized by Rule 612 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which Rule assumes the validity of this practice and governs the use and introduction into evidence of such writings by an adverse party. 46

§ 1258 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

State prisoners who alleged that their placement in prison's maximum control unit (MCU) was due to their affiliation with alleged terrorist organization were not permitted to examine prison's files related to plaintiffs' placement in MCU under Rule 612, since that rule pertains to documents used to refresh witness's recollection, and witness in hearing at issue was not relying on any of documents to refresh his recollection, but only referring to documents to describe their nature and why they would be considered privileged. Pack v Beyer (1994, DC NJ) 157 FRD 226.

Footnotes

Footnote 41. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses § 777.

Practice References 10 Am Jur Proof of Facts 251, Refreshing Recollection.

Footnote 42. Stewart v State (Ala App) 381 So 2d 214, cert den (Ala) 381 So 2d 220; State v Masse, 24 Conn Supp 45, 1 Conn Cir 381, 186 A2d 553; People v Chrisoulas, 367

Ill 85, 10 NE2d 382, 112 ALR 990; Commonwealth v Clark, 23 Mass App 375, 502 NE2d 564; Gardner v Metropolitan S. R. Co., 223 Mo 389, 122 SW 1068; Springer v Labow, 108 NJL 68, 155 A 476; Mathews v Chili Ave. Garage, Inc., 37 Misc 2d 609, 236 NYS2d 981, affd (4th Dept) 18 App Div 2d 882, 236 NYS2d 1022.

Contra McCarthy v Boston & M. R. R., 92 NH 149, 27 A2d 97.

Annotation: Refreshment of recollection by use of memoranda or other writings, 82 ALR2d 473 §§ 23, 24.

Footnote 43. § 1259.

Footnote 44. In re Adoption of Baby Boy B. (3d Dept) 163 App Div 2d 673, 558 NYS2d 281, app den 76 NY2d 710, 563 NYS2d 62, 564 NE2d 672, later proceeding (3d Dept) 174 App Div 2d 808, 571 NYS2d 125.

Footnote 45. People v Rowan, 76 Mich App 124, 255 NW2d 791 (although tape recordings made without warrant were inadmissible in evidence, police witness could testify after having referred to his notes which he had made after occasionally listening to tapes and then using his independent knowledge and refreshed memory).

The fact that a tape recording of a conversation was made by an attorney in violation of applicable canons of legal ethics is no bar to the use of the recording to refresh a witness' recollection. 20th Century Wear, Inc. v Sanmark-Stardust, Inc. (CA2 NY) 747 F2d 81, 224 USPQ 98, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 470, cert den 470 US 1052, 84 L Ed 2d 818, 105 S Ct 1755.

Footnote 46. § 1261.

§ 1259 Prerequisites for use of writing to refresh recollection

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Although some authorities hold that a memorandum, in order to be used by a witness to refresh his recollection, must be stated by the witness to be a correct statement of the matter involved, other authorities, recognizing that even a false statement may revive an accurate memory, have declined to impose such a requirement. 47 Under Rule 612 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which govern the use of writings to refresh memory, it must be shown that the writing is needed to refresh the witness' memory as to the matter in question. 48

◆ Caution: Failure to establish that the writing is needed to refresh the witness' memory is not fatal where no objection is made. 49

After consulting the writing, the witness will not be allowed to testify over objection by an adverse party unless he or she first attests that his or her memory has indeed been refreshed by the writing, so that his or her testimony now represents an independent recollection and not a mere reiteration of the writing just consulted. 50

◆ Practice guide: As a practical matter, it may be difficult to distinguish true refreshment of recollection from mere repetition of the contents of the writing, especially since a witness who claims refreshment of memory by a writing may nonetheless be allowed to consult the writing while testifying, especially if it is lengthy and detailed. 51 Where the writing consulted is one which would not be admissible as evidence, the court should take care to insure that the witness actually has a present recollection and that refreshment of recollection is not being used as a ruse to put inadmissible evidence before the jury. 52 However, prejudice which may arise from the possibility that a witness who consults a writing while testifying is merely reciting its contents rather than refreshing his recollection may be vitiated by a showing that the witness is able to embellish upon the writing and testify to matters not contained in it, and by affording the opposing party full opportunity to cross-examine the witness, introduce the writing into evidence under Rule 612, and attack the witness' credibility. 53

§ 1259 ----Prerequisites for use of writing to refresh recollection [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Detective was properly permitted to read from and testify regarding parts of statements he took from armed robbery victims on night of robbery, after prosecutor was unsuccessful in refreshing victims' recollections with their written statements, where detective testified how statements given to him were translated verbatim and how he attested them, and where victims testified that they remembered giving statements and that information given in statements was correct. State v Padilla (1994, App) 118 NM 189, 879 P2d 1208.

In prosecution for driving while intoxicated, trial court did not err in permitting two police officers to read material before jury from written reports, where officers merely read written reports to refresh their memories and then testified from their refreshed memories. McCoy v State (1994, Tex App Eastland) 877 SW2d 844.

Footnotes

Footnote 47. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses § 778.

Footnote 48. United States v Jimenez (CA5 Tex) 613 F2d 1373, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1002 (criticized on other grounds by United States v De Castris (CA7 Ill) 798 F2d 261, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 504) as stated in United States v Beasley (CA7 Ind) 809 F2d 1273, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 507; People v Larry, 162 Mich App 142, 412 NW2d 674, app den (Mich) LEXIS slip op.

Annotation: Use of writing to refresh witness' memory, as governed by Rule 612 of Federal Rules of Evidence, 73 ALR Fed 423 § 3.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) §§ 31.2, 31.3.

Footnote 49. United States v Pate (CA5 Ala) 543 F2d 1148, reh den (CA5 Ala) 545 F2d 1298.

Footnote 50. United States v Cheyenne (CA8 SD) 558 F2d 902, cert den 434 US 957, 54 L Ed 2d 316, 98 S Ct 486.

Footnote 51. State v Winemiller (Iowa App) 411 NW2d 719.

Footnote 52. 20th Century Wear, Inc. v Sanmark-Stardust, Inc. (CA2 NY) 747 F2d 81, 224 USPQ 98, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 470, cert den 470 US 1052, 84 L Ed 2d 818, 105 S Ct 1755.

Footnote 53. United States v Rinke (CA10 Kan) 778 F2d 581, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1353 (noting that in the case at bar jury confusion was not an issue inasmuch as trial was to the court).

§ 1260 Distinction between use of writing to refresh recollection and other techniques involving use of writing at trial

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The use of a writing to refresh a witness' recollection is distinct from the admission of a writing into evidence as a past recollection recorded. 54

◆ Practice guide: Opposing counsel who suspects that a witness has no independent memory after consulting a writing, but is merely repeating the contents of the writing, should (unless the writing is defined as not hearsay by Rule 801(d) of the Uniform or Federal Rules of Evidence or a substantially similar rule) treat the situation as one in which the proponent of the witness' testimony is in fact attempting to introduce the writing into evidence as a past recollection recorded, in which case a proper foundation must be laid to secure admission of the writing notwithstanding its nature as hearsay. If the writing is admitted as a past recollection recorded, it may be considered as substantive evidence and not merely for its impeaching effect.

The use of a writing to refresh recollection of a witness is also distinguishable from its use as a prior inconsistent statement to impeach the testimony of the witness. 55

Footnotes

Footnote 54. United States v Horton (CA5 La) 526 F2d 884, 76-1 USTC ¶ 9219, 37 AFTR 2d 76-753, reh den (CA5 La) 529 F2d 523 and cert den 429 US 820, 50 L Ed 2d 81, 97 S Ct 67.

As to a past recollection recorded, see §§ 1264 et seq.

Footnote 55. As to the use of prior inconsistent statements to impeach the testimony of a witness, see 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses §§ 929-951, 986-991.

§ 1261 Inspection of writing and introduction into evidence by adverse party

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where a witness has consulted a writing to refresh his or her memory while testifying, an adverse party is generally entitled to inspect such writing and cross-examine the witness as to its contents. 56 This rule is codified by Rule 612 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which provide that where a witness has while testifying used a writing to refresh his or her memory, an adverse party is entitled to have the writing produced, to inspect it, to cross-examine the witness with regard to it, and to introduce in evidence those portions of the writing which relate to the testimony of the witness. 57 Rule 612 provides that any claim that the writing contains matters not related to the witness' testimony is to be resolved by judicial inspection of the writing in camera and excision of any unrelated matter. 58

◆ Observation: Rule 612 also permits inspection and use by an adverse party of a writing used to refresh recollection where the writing is consulted by the witness before testifying, if the court in its discretion determines that the interests of justice so require. 59

Footnotes

Footnote 56. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses § 793.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 31.4.

Footnote 57. FRE 612; Uniform Rules of Evidence 612(c).

Footnote 58. FRE 612; Uniform Rules of Evidence 612(c).

Footnote 59. FRE 612(2); Uniform Rules of Evidence 612(b).

§ 1262 --In federal criminal cases

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 612 of the Federal Rules of Evidence, which governs the use of writings to refresh recollection, is expressly subject to the Jencks Act, which governs a criminal defendant's right to discovery of prior statements of prospective government witnesses. 60 Items within the purview of the Jencks Act are producible only according to the terms of the Act, 61 and where a particular statement prepared by a prospective government witness is not subject to production under the Act for the reason that it is unrelated to the witness' testimony, the trial court does not abuse its discretion under Rule 612 by declining to permit inspection of the statement by the defense. 62

A substantial overlap exists between the coverage of Rule 612 and that of the Jencks Act, but the identity of the procedures provided for disclosure and use of statements under the Act and under the Rule makes the overlap of no essential importance. 63

◆ Observation: One authority has noted that Rule 612 is rarely invoked in civil cases because of the broad availability of discovery in civil litigation. 64

Footnotes

Footnote 60. FRE 612.

As to discovery of statements under the Jencks Act, 18 USCS § 3500, see §§ 1152 et seq.

Footnote 61. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 612.

Footnote 62. United States v Williams (CA11 Ala) 875 F2d 846, 89-2 USTC ¶ 9390, 28 Fed Rules Evid Serv 55, 64 AFTR 2d 89-5061, reh den, en banc (CA11 Ala) 886 F2d 1322.

Footnote 63. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 612.

Footnote 64. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 350.

§ 1263 --Where writing is asserted to be privileged

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Notes of the Advisory Committee pertaining to Rule 612 of the Federal Rules of Evidence state that the Rule is not intended to be construed as barring the assertion of a privilege with respect to writings used by a witness to refresh his or her memory. However, several federal courts have expressed the view that neither a claim of attorney-client privilege 65 nor invocation of the "work product" doctrine 66 will protect from disclosure writings used by a witness while testifying to refresh his or her recollection.

◆ Comment: Some courts have reached a different result where the document sought is one which the witness consulted prior to giving testimony. 67 Some commentators have defended the distinction between documents used prior to testifying and those used while testifying, on the grounds that this distinction existed in pre-Rules practice and there is no indication that the enactment of the Rules was intended to change the prior law of privilege. 68 Other courts have rejected the contention that this distinction is material under the Rules. 69 With respect to the pre-Rules distinction between writings consulted before testifying and writings consulted after testifying, the Notes of the Advisory Committee regarding Rule 612 appear to approve the view that this distinction should be repudiated.

Footnotes

Footnote 65. S & A Painting Co. v O.W.B. Corp. (WD Pa) 103 FRD 407, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 645, 1 FR Serv 3d 428; Marshall v United States Postal Service (DC Dist Col) 88 FRD 348, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1239, 30 FR Serv 2d 1263.

See also Farm Credit Bank v Huether (ND) 454 NW2d 710 (decided under state rule substantially similar to Rule 612 and reaching the same conclusion).

Annotation: Use of writing to refresh witness' memory, as governed by Rule 612 of Federal Rules of Evidence, 73 ALR Fed 423.

Footnote 66. Cambridge Industrial Products Corp. v Metal Works, Ltd. (DC Mass) 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 835; S & A Painting Co. v O.W.B. Corp. (WD Pa) 103 FRD 407, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 645, 1 FR Serv 3d 428.

Footnote 67. Sporck v Peil (CA3) 759 F2d 312, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1232, 1 FR Serv 3d 1431, 84 ALR Fed 763, cert den 474 US 903, 88 L Ed 2d 230, 106 S Ct 232 and (criticized on other grounds by In re San Juan Dupont Plaza Hotel Fire Litig. (CA1 Puerto Rico) 859 F2d 1007).

See also Merlin v Boca Raton Community Hospital, Inc. (Fla App D4) 479 So 2d 236, 10 FLW 2683 (decided under state rule providing for disclosure only of writings consulted while testifying and apparently supporting distinction between writing consulted during testimony and writing consulted prior to giving testimony).

Footnote 68. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 351.

Footnote 69. Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. v Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. (ND Ill) 81 FRD 8, 1978-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 62134, 26 FR Serv 2d 787 (stating that the use of documents to refresh recollection prior to giving testimony waives the attorney-client privilege and that the fact that the document was consulted prior to rather than during testimony is of little significance).

(4). Past Recollection Recorded [1264-1270]

(a). In General [1264]

§ 1264 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Another use of a memorandum commonly referred to as refreshment of recollection, but sometimes also called "past recollection recorded," occurs where a memorandum records a past recollection of the witness who, even after consulting the memorandum, cannot presently testify from independent memory as to the event in question, but is able to state that he once knew the facts and correctly recorded them in the memorandum. Under such circumstances, the memorandum is admissible in evidence once it has been verified by the witness, 70 notwithstanding its nature as hearsay and notwithstanding that the witness cannot effectively be cross-examined as to the matters stated in the memorandum. 71 The matters in the memorandum must, however, be matters of which the witness had personal knowledge, as distinguished from matters related to him or her by another. 72

◆ Caution: A past recollection recorded while the declarant was under hypnosis for the purpose of enhancing his or her memory is likely to be inadmissible not on the basis of its nature as hearsay, but, rather, on the grounds that it constitutes improper scientific evidence. 73

§ 1264 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In prosecution for sale of controlled substance, trial court properly allowed confidential informant and narcotics agents to refer to their notes during testimony; under state evidence rule, witnesses were not required to satisfy foundation requirements of past-recollection-recorded exception to hearsay rule. King v State (1993, Miss) 615 So 2d 1202.

Footnotes

Footnote 70. Strother v South Expressway Radio, 132 Ga App 771, 209 SE2d 93; Commonwealth v Canales, 454 Pa 422, 311 A2d 572.

An automobile accident report written by the investigating police officer was admissible as a record of past recollection where the officer testified that although he had not been present when the collision occurred, and that he did not recall anything of the initial interview with defendant-driver, he did recognize his signature and handwriting on the report and that he wrote the report at the time of the investigation. Dennis v Scarborough (Ala) 360 So 2d 278.

Annotation: Refreshment of recollection by use of memoranda or other writings, 82 ALR2d 473.

Footnote 71. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses § 782.

Footnote 72. Partridge v Miller (Ala) 553 So 2d 585; Roeske v Pryor (1st Dist) 152 Ill App 3d 771, 105 Ill Dec 642, 504 NE2d 927.

Footnote 73. Emmett v State, 232 Ga 110, 205 SE2d 231 (reliability of hypnosis has not been established); Commonwealth v Reed, 400 Pa Super 207, 583 A2d 459, app den 528 Pa 629, 598 A2d 282 (use of hypnosis to enhance memory is not generally accepted in the scientific community).

Annotation: Admissibility of hypnotic evidence at criminal trial, 92 ALR3d 442 § 6.

(b). Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence [1265-1270]

§ 1265 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that a memorandum or record concerning a matter about which a witness once had knowledge but now has insufficient recollection to enable him or her to testify fully and accurately, which memorandum or record is shown to have been made or adopted by the witness when the matter was fresh in his or her memory and to reflect that knowledge correctly, is not excluded by the hearsay rule. The Rule further provides that if admitted, the memorandum or record may be read into evidence but may not itself be received as an exhibit unless offered by an adverse party. 74

◆ Observation: The Rule's restriction on receipt of the memorandum or record as an exhibit has been criticized as unjustified and inconsistent with the general treatment by the Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence of other writings excepted from the hearsay rule. 75 The drafters of Rule 803(5) did not offer any rationale for this restriction, but it has been said that its purpose is to keep the jury from according undue emphasis to the written word. 76 Receiving such a memorandum as evidence, as distinguished from merely reading it into evidence, is harmless error where the case is tried to the court without a jury. 77

◆ Practice guide: The fact that a memorandum cannot be received as an exhibit under Rule 803(5) does not bar its receipt as an exhibit under some other Rule whose language permits such receipt. 78

Rule 803(5) has been invoked to introduce into evidence, as a past recollection recorded, such material as:

- Statements made to police or other law enforcement officers 79
- A form which an officer of the Immigration and Naturalization Service had filled out during an interview with an alien 80
- A police chemist's report 81
- The transcribed testimony of witnesses at a prior proceeding 82
- A police officer's notes regarding serial numbers of money found at a criminal defendant's residence 83

Footnotes

Footnote 74. FRE 803(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(5).

Footnote 75. Blakely, Past Recollection Recorded: Restrictions on Use as Exhibit and Proposals for Change. 17 Hou LR 411 (March 1980).

Footnote 76. United States v Judon (CA5 Ala) 567 F2d 1289, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1003, appeal after remand (CA5 Ala) 581 F2d 553.

Footnote 77. De Forest v De Forest (App) 143 Ariz 627, 694 P2d 1241.

Footnote 78. Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054 (police accident report not admissible as an exhibit under Rule 803(5) was admissible under Rule 803(8)).

Footnote 79. United States v Edwards (CA9 Ariz) 539 F2d 689, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 307, 35 ALR Fed 599, cert den 429 US 984, 50 L Ed 2d 594, 97 S Ct 501 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Alvarez-Sanchez (CA9 Cal) 975 F2d 1396, 92 CDOS 7844, 92 Daily Journal DAR 12730).

Annotation: Admissibility of statement under Rule 803(5) of Federal Rules of Evidence, providing for recorded-recollection exception to hearsay rule, 35 ALR Fed 605.

Footnote 80. Trias-Hernandez v Immigration & Naturalization Service (CA9) 528 F2d 366, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 92.

Footnote 81. United States v Marshall (CA9 Cal) 532 F2d 1279.

Footnote 82. Arrow-Hart, Inc. v Covert Hills, Inc. (ED Ky) 71 FRD 346, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 554, 22 FR Serv 2d 1485, affd (CA6 Ky) 552 F2d 711, 23 FR Serv 2d 636.

As to evidence from prior proceedings, generally, see §§ 890 et seq.

Footnote 83. United States v Marcantoni (CA5 Fla) 590 F2d 1324, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 477, cert den 441 US 937, 60 L Ed 2d 666, 99 S Ct 2063.

§ 1266 Requirement that witness lack adequate present recollection

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although Rule 803(5) 84 may be invoked to permit admission of a memorandum even where the witness retains some present memory of the events in question, 85 it is necessary as a predicate for introduction of a memorandum under the Rule that the witness be shown to lack sufficient recollection to be able to testify fully and accurately. 86 Admission of a past recollection recorded under Rule 803(5) is proper even though the witness may be exercising "selective memory" on the witness stand. 87

◆ Practice guide: In order to satisfy the requirement of a lack of present memory, counsel seeking admission of a recorded recollection under Rule 803(5) might first use the document in an effort to refresh the recollection of the witness (at least where counsel has no reason to believe the witness will repudiate the document; otherwise, it may be tactically advisable not to give the witness advance notice of a potential source of impeachment).

Footnotes

Footnote 84. FRE 803(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(5).

Footnote 85. State v Thompson (Iowa) 397 NW2d 679; State v Mastracchio (RI) 546 A2d 165, supp op (RI) 605 A2d 489.

Footnote 86. United States v Micke (CA7 Wis) 859 F2d 473, 88-2 USTC ¶ 9553, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1480, 62 AFTR 2d 88-5864; United States v Felix-Jerez (CA9 Ariz) 667 F2d 1297, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1452 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Nazemian (CA9 Cal) 948 F2d 522, 91 CDOS 8383, 91 Daily Journal DAR 12903, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 188) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Hitt (CA9 Or) 981 F2d 422, 92 CDOS 9651, 92 Daily Journal DAR 16110, 36 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1269).

Footnote 87. United States v Williams (CA6 Mich) 571 F2d 344, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1014, cert den 439 US 841, 58 L Ed 2d 139, 99 S Ct 131.

§ 1267 Requirement that memorandum correctly reflect prior knowledge of witness

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(5) requires for the admission into evidence of a past recollection recorded that the writing correctly reflect the prior knowledge of the witness. 88 Where the witness has a present recollection of making a memorandum, and can testify from present memory that he or she took care to insure that the memorandum correctly reflected what he or she then knew, this requirement of the Rule is satisfied. 89 A statement which the witness fails to endorse as accurate cannot be admitted under the Rule. 90

♦ Comment: It has been suggested that where the witness does not recall making the record in question, it may nonetheless be admitted under Rule 803(5) if the witness testifies that he or she routinely makes similar records in the course of his or her business or profession, and the steps or method used in the preparation of such records indicate to the court that the record in question is indeed an accurate reflection of the prior knowledge of the witness. 91 Where the record in question cannot be characterized as routinely prepared and the witness has no memory of making it, a bare statement by the witness to the effect that he would not have made the record if it were not true may be insufficient to admit the writing under the Rule. 92

Footnotes

Footnote 88. FRE 803(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(5).

Footnote 89. United States v Cambindo Valencia (CA2 NY) 609 F2d 603, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1197, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 570, cert den 446 US 940, 64 L Ed 2d 795, 100 S Ct 2163 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Layton (CA9 Cal) 855 F2d 1388, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 988); Greger v International Jensen, Inc. (CA8 Mo) 820 F2d 937, 26 Env't Rep Cas 1188, 23 Fed Rules Evid Serv 184 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Graves (CA5 La) 5 F3d 1546); United States v Edwards (CA9 Ariz) 539 F2d 689, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 307, 35 ALR Fed 599, cert den 429 US 984, 50 L Ed 2d 594, 97 S Ct 501 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Alvarez-Sanchez (CA9 Cal) 975 F2d 1396, 92 CDOS 7844, 92 Daily Journal DAR 12730).

Footnote 90. O'Malley v United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (CA5 Miss) 776 F2d 494.

Footnote 91. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 445.

As apparently adopting this approach, see In re Messenger (DC Pa) 32 F Supp 490.

Footnote 92. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 445 (noting that such testimony is merely a general assertion of honesty which almost any witness would be likely to make under pressure by counsel, and arguing that under such circumstances the court should have discretion to exclude the writing).

But see United States v Ray (CA8 Mo) 768 F2d 991, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1016, supp op (CA8 Mo) 777 F2d 423 and (disapproved on other grounds by Henderson v United States, 476 US 321, 90 L Ed 2d 299, 106 S Ct 1871) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Peeples (CA5 Tex) 811 F2d 849) (in prosecution for failure to appear, transcript of testimony given by accused's attorney at arraignment to the effect that he had notified accused of the arraignment date was admissible under Rule 803(5); accuracy of transcript was confirmed when attorney said "if the transcript says I said that, I'm sure I did").

§ 1268 Requirement that memorandum must have been prepared when matter was fresh in witness' memory

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Rule 803(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence requires that a writing admitted as a past recollection recorded must have been made or adopted by the witness when the matter in question was fresh in his or her memory. 93 Whether this requirement has been satisfied in a particular instance requires consideration of the circumstances of the case. 94 The fact that several months, 95 or more than a year, 96 has elapsed between the occurrence of a particular event and the witness' making or adoption of a writing concerning it does not preclude admission of the writing under Rule 803(5) as a past recollection recorded.

◆ Comment: The "freshness" requirement of Rule 803(5) is probably less restrictive than the often-stated requirement under pre-Rules practice that the writing must have been made at or near the time of the matter in question. It is probably also less demanding than the "immediacy" required of statements offered under Rule 803(1) as present sense impressions, and less restrictive than the time limit inherent in the Rule 803(2) exception for excited utterances. Thus, a writing offered under Rule 803(5) should not be excluded merely because it was not made immediately after the event in question, or because the declarant was no longer excited by the event.

§ 1268 ----Requirement that memorandum must have been prepared when matter was fresh in witness' memory [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Assistant U.S. Attorney's memorandum of conversation with law enforcement officer concerning her observation of other law enforcement officers' mistreatment of defendant when they arrested him was not admissible as recorded recollection of AUSA since it was not dictated when matter was fresh in his memory, nor was it recorded recollection of law enforcement officer since she denied both accuracy and making of statement. United States v Severson (1995, CA7 Wis) 49 F3d 268, reh den (1995, CA7 Wis) 1995 US App LEXIS 5394 and reh, en banc, den (1995, CA7 Wis) 1995 US App LEXIS 10077.

Footnotes

Footnote 93. FRE 803(5); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(5).

Footnote 94. United States v Lewis (CA7 Wis) 954 F2d 1386, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1372.

Footnote 95. United States v Patterson (CA9 Nev) 678 F2d 774, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1095, cert den 459 US 911, 74 L Ed 2d 174, 103 S Ct 219 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Valles-Valencia (CA9 Ariz) 823 F2d 381, 23 Fed Rules Evid Serv 364) as stated in United States v Hughes Aircraft Co. (CD Cal) 1992 US Dist LEXIS 16012 (upholding admission of transcript of witness' testimony before grand jury concerning conversation with accused which had taken place "at least" ten months previously, although stating that issue was close in view of lapse of time, witness' admission that he was angry with the accused at the time of his grand jury testimony, and witness' ambiguous answers to questions asked to lay foundation for admission of transcript).

Footnote 96. United States v Lewis (CA7 Wis) 954 F2d 1386, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1372 (delay of 15 or 16 months between FBI agent's interview of prisoner and prisoner's adoption of agent's memorandum of interview did not render memorandum inadmissible under Rule 803(5), although better practice would have been to have prisoner review memorandum shortly after interview).

But see United States v Campbell, 221 US App DC 367, 684 F2d 141, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 939 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Bernard (CA4 W Va) 757 F2d 1439) (suggesting that Rule 803(5) could not justify admission of notes made in 1980 concerning events which had occurred between 1973 and 1977).

§ 1269 Requirement that witness have personal knowledge of matter recorded

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although Rule 803(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence does not require a memorandum to have been prepared by the witness for it to be admissible as a recorded recollection, 97 the events recounted in the memorandum must be matters of which the witness had firsthand knowledge. 98 A memorandum not based on the personal knowledge of the witness, but, rather, on hearsay information, is not admissible under Rule 803(5) unless the hearsay information on which the memorandum is based can be brought within an exception to the hearsay rule. 99

Footnotes

Footnote 97. United States v Williams (CA6 Mich) 571 F2d 344, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1014, cert den 439 US 841, 58 L Ed 2d 139, 99 S Ct 131; Black v State (App) 116 Ariz 234, 568 P2d 1132; Hewitt v Grand Trunk W. R. Co., 123 Mich App 309, 333 NW2d 264.

Footnote 98. Rock v Huffco Gas & Oil Co. (CA5 La) 922 F2d 272, 32 Fed Rules Evid

Serv 1041; Black v State (App) 116 Ariz 234, 568 P2d 1132; State v Veluzat (RI) 578 A2d 93.

Footnote 99. Ricciardi v Children's Hospital Medical Center (CA1 Mass) 811 F2d 18, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 752; Rock v Huffco Gas & Oil Co. (CA5 La) 922 F2d 272, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041.

§ 1270 Use of recorded recollection against accused in criminal case

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Statements which qualify as past recollections recorded under Rule 803(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence may generally be introduced against the accused in a criminal trial. 1 However, authority exists to the effect that where the central allegations of a criminal charge are established solely through a past recollection recorded which barely meets minimal standards of admissibility, such evidence will not support a conclusion of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. 2

◆ Observation: One commentator has noted that the use under Rule 803(5) of a past recollection recorded against the accused in a criminal trial would appear to raise substantial issues under the Federal Constitution's Confrontation Clause, inasmuch as (1) the Rule is invoked only when the witness cannot adequately recall the matters stated in the writing and therefore cannot be effectively cross-examined concerning them, and (2) the United States Supreme Court 3 expressly left open the issue whether a witness's actual or asserted lack of memory as to matters asserted in a prior inconsistent statement might so stifle defense cross-examination as to violate the rights of the accused under the Confrontation Clause. 4 The same commentator, however, notes that the courts have consistently rejected Confrontation Clause challenges in this context, 5 and regards this line of authority as correct in view of the "long and venerable lineage" of the doctrine embodied in Rule 803(5).

§ 1270 ----Use of recorded recollection against accused in criminal case [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Trial court erred in admitting FBI agent's report of interview with witness as past recollection recorded where it was undisputed that witness would not put his name to report when it was first shown to him and he subsequently disavowed its accuracy on witness stand. United States v Schoenborn (1993, CA7 Wis) 4 F3d 1424, 38 Fed Rules Evid Serv 68.

Footnotes

Footnote 1. United States v Marcantoni (CA5 Fla) 590 F2d 1324, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 477, cert den 441 US 937, 60 L Ed 2d 666, 99 S Ct 2063; United States v Williams (CA6 Mich) 571 F2d 344, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1014, cert den 439 US 841, 58 L Ed 2d 139, 99 S Ct 131; United States v Arias (CA9 Ariz) 575 F2d 253, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 184, cert den 439 US 868, 58 L Ed 2d 179, 99 S Ct 196.

Footnote 2. United States v Orrico (CA6 Ohio) 599 F2d 113, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 881 (noting that a past recollection recorded might be sufficient to prove a purely technical element of a crime, such as the value of stolen property, if it featured strong indicia of reliability).

Footnote 3. In California v Green, 399 US 149, 26 L Ed 2d 489, 90 S Ct 1930.

Footnote 4. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 445.

Footnote 5. United States v Riley (CA8 Iowa) 657 F2d 1377, 8 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1665, appeal after remand (CA8 Iowa) 684 F2d 542, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1368, cert den 459 US 1111, 74 L Ed 2d 962, 103 S Ct 742 and (not followed on other grounds by United States v Sutton (AFCMR) 1993 CMR LEXIS 618); United States v Marshall (CA9 Cal) 532 F2d 1279.

(5). Other Memoranda [1271-1275]

§ 1271 Check stubs

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, check stubs containing notations as to the purpose of the check, or other circumstances, have been deemed excludable as hearsay where they did not come within an exception to the hearsay rule such as the exception for records made in the regular course of business, 6 or the res gestae rule. 7 A check stub may be admissible, however, as an admission against interest. 8 Under the common-law "shopbook" rule, which provided for admissibility of a party's books of account if such books were books of original entry or the first permanent records of the transactions in question, 9 check stubs have in some cases been held admissible in evidence, 10 but in other cases excluded. 11 They may, however, be used for the purpose of refreshing the memory of a witness. 12

◆ Observation: Common-law rules pertaining to hearsay and to the admission of business records, which have been invoked to keep checks stubs out of evidence, have been to a great extent superseded by statutory codes of evidence. Thus, Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence (embodying the previously promulgated but withdrawn Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act) provides for broad admissibility of records of regularly conducted business activity notwithstanding the status of such records as hearsay under the common law, 13 and might in a proper case permit admission of check stubs. Under proper circumstances, a check stub might also be excepted from the hearsay rule as a recorded recollection under Rule 803(5) of the Uniform Rules. 14

A checkbook stub not admissible as a business record or under some other exception to the hearsay rule cannot be admitted as demonstrative evidence that the party proffering the stub wrote or delivered a check, inasmuch as the only thing the stub demonstrates is that the stub was completed. 15

Footnotes

Footnote 6. Nall v Brennan, 324 Mo 565, 23 SW2d 1053, 68 ALR 684; Leask v Hoagland, 205 NY 171, 98 NE 395, reh den 205 NY 594, 98 NE 1106; Better Homes Equipment Co. v Nixon (App, Franklin Co) 72 Ohio L Abs 329, 134 NE2d 850.

As to the "business records" exception to the hearsay rule, generally, see §§ 1290 et seq.

Footnote 7. In re Laning's Estate, 241 Pa 98, 88 A 289.

Footnote 8. A. Sam & Sons Produce Co. v Campese (4th Dept) 14 App Div 2d 487, 217 NYS2d 275.

Footnote 9. § 1290.

Footnote 10. Fulkerson v Long, 63 Mo App 268.

Footnote 11. Better Homes Equipment Co. v Nixon (App, Franklin Co) 72 Ohio L Abs 329, 134 NE2d 850.

Annotation: What constitutes books of original entry within rule as to admissibility of books of account, 17 ALR2d 235, § 23.

Footnote 12. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses § 789.

Footnote 13. § 1300.

Footnote 14. As to Rule 803(5), generally, see §§ 1265-1270.

Footnote 15. Franklin Invest. Co. v Smith (Dist Col App) 383 A2d 355.

§ 1272 Diaries

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the common law, personal diaries are generally, by virtue of the rule against hearsay, inadmissible as evidence as proof of facts stated in them. 16 Such diaries, however, may be used to refresh the memory of a witness, 17 and may, where the witness has entirely forgotten the facts but is able to swear that the diary entry was correct at the time it was made, be used as independent evidence as a past recollection recorded. 18 Diaries have also been permitted into evidence, notwithstanding their status as hearsay, where the declarant was unavailable as a witness and there was a reasonable probability of the truth of the statements contained in them. 19

◆ Observation: Some courts have held that the diary of one accused of a crime is privileged under the Federal Constitution's Fifth Amendment from admission into evidence against him or her, 20 while others have declined to recognize such a privilege. 21 One commentator has argued that not only the Fifth Amendment, but also the common-law and constitutional rights of privacy should be regarded as protecting the contents of a personal diary from unwanted disclosure. 22

Diaries and small memorandum books do not generally belong to the class of books of account which were admissible as books of original entry under the common-law "shopbook" rule, 23 although they have under certain circumstances been admitted under this rule. 24

The rules pertaining to hearsay contained in the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence permit admission of a private diary, notwithstanding that it is hearsay, where the entry in question constitutes a statement of the declarant's then existing state of mind under Rule 803(3). 25

◆ Comment: A diary might also be excepted from the hearsay rule under the Uniform or Federal Rules of Evidence as a recorded recollection under Rule 803(5), or as an ancient document under Rule 803(16). 26 An individual's personal diary will not qualify for the exception to the hearsay rule contained in Rule 803(6) for records of regularly conducted business activity, unless the diary entries can be shown to have the requisite business connection. 27

Footnotes

Footnote 16. Arnold v Hussey, 111 Me 224, 88 A 724; Doe v Lucy, 83 NH 160, 139 A 750; Leask v Hoagland, 205 NY 171, 98 NE 395, reh den 205 NY 594, 98 NE 1106.

Footnote 17. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses § 789.

Footnote 18. As to past recollections recorded, see §§ 1264 et seq.

Footnote 19. State v Davis, 305 NC 400, 290 SE2d 574, habeas corpus proceeding (CA4 NC) 778 F2d 168, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1278 (entry in diary of murder victim, in which she stated "I got up at 8:15," was properly admitted to show that she was alive at 8:15 a.m. on the day her body was found, in view of the victim's unavailability as a witness and the absence of any reason to believe she would lie in her diary about the time at which she got out of bed).

Footnote 20. In re Grand Jury Proceedings (CA3 Pa) 632 F2d 1033.

Footnote 21. United States v Levasseur (ED NY) 619 F Supp 775.

Footnote 22. LaVacca, Protecting the Contents of a Personal Diary from Unwanted Eyes. 19 Rut LJ 389 (Winter 1988).

Footnote 23. Richardson v Emery, 23 NH 220; O'Rourke v Cleary, 105 Vt 85, 163 A 583.

Annotation: What constitutes books of original entry within rule as to admissibility of books of account, 17 ALR2d 235 § 27.

Footnote 24. J. H. Leavenworth & Son, Inc. v Hunter, 150 Miss 245, 116 So 593; Remick v Rumery, 69 NH 601, 45 A 574.

Footnote 25. State v Williams, 133 Ariz 220, 650 P2d 1202.

As to Rule 803(3), generally, see § 667.

Footnote 26. As to Rule 803(5), see §§ 1265-1270. As to Rule , see §§ 803(16), see § 1211.

Footnote 27. McCormick v Mirrored Image, Inc. (Hamilton Co) 7 Ohio App 3d 232, 7 Ohio BR 294, 454 NE2d 1363 (data must have been recorded pursuant to a duty in a sole proprietorship, or in the routine operations of the business).

As to Rule 803(6), generally, see § 1300.

§ 1273 Memoranda of physician

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, the records or memoranda of a physician who attended at the birth of a person, containing entries made in the regular course of business, were, upon a proper foundation, admissible upon the question of date of birth or the age of such person. 28 Such entries could also be used to show the state of a person's health at a given time. 29

The common-law rules pertaining to admission of the memoranda of physicians have to a great extent been superseded by the adoption of the Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence, which contain various exceptions to the hearsay rule applicable under at least some circumstances to such memoranda. Thus, Rule 803(4) excepts from the rule against hearsay statements made for purposes of medical diagnosis or treatment. 30 Hospital or medical records have in many cases been held admissible, notwithstanding their nature as hearsay, under the "business records" exception to the hearsay rule contained in Rule 803(6). 31

Footnotes

Footnote 28. Arms v Middleton (NY) 23 Barb 571; Smith v State (Tex Crim) 73 SW 401 (ovrld on other grounds by Battles v State, 63 Tex Crim 147, 140 SW 783).

Practice References 45 Am Jur POF2d 631, Age of Person §§ 8, 22.

15 Am Jur Trials 373, Discovery and Evaluation of Medical Records.

Footnote 29. Freedman v Mutual Life Ins. Co., 342 Pa 404, 21 A2d 81, 135 ALR 1249.

Footnote 30. As to Rule 803(4), generally, see § 866.

Footnote 31. §§ 1298, 1315.

§ 1274 Memoranda of person since deceased—at common law

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, the hearsay nature of a private memorandum is not changed by the mere fact that the person who wrote it is deceased. 32 Such memoranda are therefore generally not admissible in evidence. 33 Exceptions have been recognized where the memorandum amounts to a declaration against proprietary interest, 34 or where it tends to show the decedent's mental condition or intent at the time of the memorandum. 35 Even where such a memorandum is admissible as having been prepared in the regular course of business, it will be excluded as self-serving where the decedent was an agent of the party proffering it. 36

Footnotes

Footnote 32. Heil v Zahn, 187 Md 603, 51 A2d 174.

Footnote 33. Cummins v Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 153 Iowa 579, 134 NW 79; Vinal v Gilman, 21 W Va 301; Hay v Peterson, 6 Wyo 419, 45 P 1073 (criticized on other grounds by Gardner v State, 27 Wyo 316, 196 P 750, 15 ALR 1040).

Footnote 34. Lassone v Boston & L. R. Co., 66 NH 345, 24 A 902.

Footnote 35. Gillespie v Gray (App, Cuyahoga Co) 38 Ohio L Abs 145, 49 NE2d 108; Borak v Bridge (Tex Civ App Corpus Christi) 524 SW2d 773, writ ref n r e (Oct 1, 1975).

Footnote 36. Waterous v Columbian Nat. Life Ins. Co., 353 Mo 1093, 186 SW2d 456.

§ 1275 --Under statutes

The common-law rule concerning the admissibility of memoranda written by persons since deceased has been widely superseded by the adoption of statutes which make statements, declarations, and memoranda of persons since deceased competent evidence of matters relevant to a controversy. 37 Under some such statutes, a memorandum of a person since deceased is admissible notwithstanding that it contains facts to which he could not, if living, testify, and without regard to the time when made, provided that it is relevant to the controversy. 38 Other statutes restrict admissibility to such matters as the deceased would have been competent to testify to if he were alive. 39 Such statutes may be restricted in their application to actions by or against representatives of the person making the memorandum. 40 Others are limited in their application to entries made by a person, since deceased, in a professional capacity or in the ordinary course of professional conduct. 41 Such statutes refer to persons engaged in an employment or vocation requiring special learning or attainment. 42

Rule 804 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that certain statements are not excluded by the hearsay rule if the declarant is unavailable as a witness within the meaning of the Rule. 43 A deceased declarant is unavailable within the meaning of the Rule. 44 The Rule does not distinguish between oral and written statements, and, accordingly, it appears that any memorandum within the scope of the Rule as adopted in a particular jurisdiction is admissible.

Footnotes

Footnote 37. Plisko v Morgan, 148 Conn 510, 172 A2d 621; Cummins v Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 153 Iowa 579, 134 NW 79.

Footnote 38. Walter v Sperry, 86 Conn 474, 85 A 739.

Footnote 39. Keough v Boston E. R. Co., 229 Mass 275, 118 NE 524.

Footnote 40. Morris v United Virginia Bank, 237 Va 331, 377 SE2d 611.

Footnote 41. Williams v Laurence-David, Inc., 271 Or 712, 534 P2d 173.

Footnote 42. Cummins v Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co., 153 Iowa 579, 134 NW 79 (an insurance agent's entries in the policy register are not within the operation of a statute making admissible in evidence entries by a person since deceased when made in a professional capacity or in the ordinary course of professional conduct).

Footnote 43. § 690.

Footnote 44. § 696.

i. Letters and Telegrams [1276-1281]

§ 1276 Letters

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Both at common law ⁴⁵ and under the Uniform or Federal Rules of Evidence, ⁴⁶ a letter offered as evidence should be accompanied by proof showing its authenticity or genuineness, unless by reason of its age and the source from which it comes, it is deemed a self-authenticating ancient document, ⁴⁷ or unless the adverse party, expressly or by implication, admits its authenticity. ⁴⁸ While a letter can be authenticated by establishing that it is in the handwriting of the person whom its proponent alleges was its author, ⁴⁹ or by proving the genuineness of his or her signature, ⁵⁰ it is not essential that the signature or handwriting be proved where its genuineness can be otherwise established. ⁵¹ At common law, a letter may be authenticated by any evidence from which a jury could find that it was either written or authorized by the person who the writing indicates was responsible for its contents. ⁵²

◆ Observation: Although neither the Uniform Rules of Evidence nor the Federal Rules of Evidence contain any provision specifically dealing with the authentication of letters, the general statement of Rule 901(a), that authentication is sufficient where evidence has been presented which is sufficient to support a finding that the matter in question is what its proponent claims, applies to letters. ⁵³

§ 1276 ----Letters [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Although letter by primary insurer's defense attorney to primary insurer's claims attorney concerning injured plaintiff's settlement demand was business record, letter was not admissible as evidence of truth of what anyone told defense attorney in settlement conference, including unnamed lawyers for plaintiff who made demand characterized by letter-writer as unreasonable. Twin City Fire Ins. Co. v Country Mut. Ins. Co. (1994, CA7 Ill) 23 F3d 1175, 39 Fed Rules Evid Serv 384.

The trial court properly excluded letters to defendant homeowners indicating plaintiff homeowners association's legal position in an action to enjoin defendants from replacing wood clapboard siding on their home with vinyl siding since the letters had no tendency to prove any issue in the case. Raintree Homeowners Ass'n v Bleimann (1994) 116 NC App 561, 449 SE2d 13, review gr 338 NC 669, 453 SE2d 180.

Footnotes

Footnote 45. McClendon v State, 243 Ala 218, 8 So 2d 883; Shulman v Shulman, 150

Conn 651, 193 A2d 525; Di Giorgio Importing & S.S. Co. v Pennsylvania R. Co., 104 Md 693, 65 A 425.

Footnote 46. People v Taylor, 159 Mich App 468, 406 NW2d 859, app den 428 Mich 913; Wilkes Computer Services, Inc. v Aetna Casualty & Surety Co., 59 NC App 26, 295 SE2d 776.

Footnote 47. McCreary v Coggeshall, 74 SC 42, 53 SE 978.

As to authentication of ancient documents, generally, see §§ 1201 et seq.

Footnote 48. Liberty Chair Co. v Crawford, 193 NC 531, 137 SE 577, 51 ALR 1496.

Footnote 49. People v Esch (Colo App) 786 P2d 462, cert den (Colo) 1990 Colo LEXIS 55.

As to proof of a person's handwriting, generally, see §§ 1212 et seq.

Footnote 50. Shulman v Shulman, 150 Conn 651, 193 A2d 525; Lancaster v Ames, 103 Me 87, 68 A 533; Gambrill v Schooley, 95 Md 260, 52 A 500; Maynard v Bailey, 85 W Va 679, 102 SE 480, 9 ALR 981.

Footnote 51. In re Barber's Estate, 63 Conn 393, 27 A 973 (ovrld on other grounds by Vincent v Mutual Reserve Fund Life Ass'n, 77 Conn 281, 58 A 963); Maynard v Bailey, 85 W Va 679, 102 SE 480, 9 ALR 981.

Footnote 52. Milner Hotels, Inc. v Mecklenburg Hotel, Inc., 42 NC App 179, 256 SE2d 310.

Footnote 53. People v Taylor, 159 Mich App 468, 406 NW2d 859, app den 428 Mich 913.

§ 1277 --As self-authenticating

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Letters are generally not deemed self-authenticating under the common law. ⁵⁴ Thus, the mere fact that a letter (other than a reply letter) purports to have been written and signed by the person in question is insufficient to establish its authenticity and genuineness. ⁵⁵ The mere fact that a letter is received through the mail does not in itself establish it as the letter of the person purported to have written it. ⁵⁶

◆ Observation: Rule 902 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence sets forth various documents which are deemed self-authenticating under the Rule, ⁵⁷ but does not specifically list any type of letter in this enumeration.

§ 1277 --As self-authenticating [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

The trial court properly excluded letters to defendant homeowners indicating plaintiff homeowners association's legal position in an action to enjoin defendants from replacing wood clapboard siding on their home with vinyl siding since the letters had no tendency to prove any issue in the case. Raintree Homeowners Ass'n v Bleimann (1994) 116 NC App 561, 449 SE2d 13, review gr 338 NC 669, 453 SE2d 180.

Footnotes

Footnote 54. Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580.

Footnote 55. Rogers v State, 101 Ark 45, 141 SW 491; Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580; Gartrell v Stafford, 12 Neb 545, 11 NW 732; Voegle v Tschirley, 76 SD 509, 81 NW2d 604; In re Maxcy's Estate, 262 Wis 89, 54 NW2d 194.

As to reply letters, see § 1278.

Footnote 56. Richmond Dredging Co. v Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 31 Cal App 399, 160 P 862.

Footnote 57. §§ 1180 et seq.

§ 1278 --Reply letters

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table Go to Supplement
--

Under Rule 901(b)(4) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, letters are prima facie authentic if their contents are responsive to prior communications shown to be authentic. 58 This rule comports with the common-law rule under which a letter is deemed authentic if it purports to be from the addressee of a prior genuine letter and to be in reply thereto, and was received through the mail in due course. 59 The rule is applicable to typewritten letters, even where the signature is typewritten. 60 Under the common-law rule, however, it has been held that to be admissible as a reply letter, a letter must be propounded by its recipient, not its sender. 61

§ 1278 --Reply letters [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

The trial court properly excluded letters to defendant homeowners indicating plaintiff homeowners association's legal position in an action to enjoin defendants from replacing wood clapboard siding on their home with vinyl siding since the letters had no tendency to prove any issue in the case. Raintree Homeowners Ass'n v Bleimann (1994) 116 NC App 561, 449 SE2d 13, review gr 338 NC 669, 453 SE2d 180.

Footnotes

Footnote 58. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

United States v Weinstein (CA11 Fla) 762 F2d 1522, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 757, mod on other grounds, reh den, in part (CA11 Fla) 778 F2d 673, cert den 475 US 1110, 89 L Ed 2d 917, 106 S Ct 1519 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United Energy Owners Committee, Inc. v United States Energy Management Systems, Inc. (CA9 Cal) 837 F2d 356, 10 FR Serv 3d 253) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Feldman (CA9 Cal) 853 F2d 648) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Fleischhauer v Feltner (CA6 Ohio) 879 F2d 1290) and (criticized on other grounds by McNeil v Salan (CA6) 1992 US App LEXIS 11476); People v Thompson, 111 Mich App 324, 314 NW2d 606.

Footnote 59. Barham v Bank of Delight, 94 Ark 158, 126 SW 394; Bradley Freight Lines, Inc. v Pope, Flynn & Co., 42 NC App 285, 256 SE2d 522, cert den 298 NC 295, 259 SE2d 299; Conner v Zanuzoski, 36 Wash 2d 458, 218 P2d 879.

Footnote 60. Barham v Bank of Delight, 94 Ark 158, 126 SW 394; Lancaster v Ames, 103 Me 87, 68 A 533.

Footnote 61. Presnick v De Rosa, 12 Conn App 554, 532 A2d 1309.

§ 1279 Telegrams

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A telegram is admissible in evidence only where authenticated. 62 There must be some competent proof that it was written and sent by the person whose name it bears. 63 It is not enough that the writing on its face purports to be from the sender; there must be competent proof that the alleged sender sent or authorized the sending of the telegram in question. 64 It is, however, practically impossible to state any definite or precise standard for determining the genuineness of telegrams. 65 Authenticity may be shown by indirect and circumstantial evidence. 66

Footnotes

Footnote 62. Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580; Harlow v Commonwealth, 204 Va 385, 131 SE2d 293, 5 ALR3d 1012.

Footnote 63. Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580; State v Boswell, 192 NC 150, 134 SE 413; Edwards Bros. v Erwin, 148 NC 429, 62 SE 545; Western Twine Co. v Wright, 11 SD 521, 78 NW 942; Harlow v Commonwealth, 204 Va 385, 131 SE2d 293, 5 ALR3d 1012; Cobb v Glenn Boom & Lumber Co., 57 W Va 49, 49 SE 1005.

Annotation: Proof of authorship or identity of sender of telegram as prerequisite of its admission in evidence, 5 ALR3d 1018.

Practice References 21 Am Jur Proof of Facts 783, Sending and Receipt of Telegrams.

Footnote 64. Christian v State, 174 Ark 357, 295 SW 368; Harlow v Commonwealth, 204 Va 385, 131 SE2d 293, 5 ALR3d 1012.

Footnote 65. Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580; Harlow v Commonwealth, 204 Va 385, 131 SE2d 293, 5 ALR3d 1012.

Footnote 66. Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580; Harlow v Commonwealth, 204 Va 385, 131 SE2d 293, 5 ALR3d 1012.

§ 1280 --Sufficiency of particular evidence to authenticate telegram

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A telegram is sufficiently authenticated when, from its contents and other circumstances in evidence, the court can reasonably infer that the person sought to be charged is the author of the message or that it was written and sent by another acting for him. 67 Authenticity of telegrams may be established by the fact that the alleged sender admits or does not deny that he sent them, 68 or where it can be reasonably inferred from the evidence that the purported sender had knowledge of the contents of the telegram, or that he had acted consistently with its contents. 69 A properly addressed telegram may be admitted in evidence against the purported sender upon proof of delivery of the message by him to a telegraph office for transmission. 70

Footnotes

Footnote 67. Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580.

Footnote 68. Dunbar v United States, 156 US 185, 39 L Ed 390, 15 S Ct 325; Collins v Western Union Tel. Co., 145 Ala 412, 41 So 160; People v Larrabee, 113 Cal App 745, 299 P 85; McDonald v State, 12 Okla Crim 144, 152 P 610.

Annotation: Proof of authorship or identity of sender of telegram as prerequisite of its admission in evidence, 5 ALR3d 1018 § 4.

Footnote 69. Johnson v United States (CA7 Ill) 215 F 679; Halstead v Minnesota Tribune Co., 147 Minn 294, 180 NW 556; Ridings v State, 108 Neb 804, 189 NW 372.

In Dierks Lumber & Coal Co. v Kull, 176 Ark 966, 4 SW2d 926, the court held that where the alleged senders of certain telegrams did not deny the authenticity of the telegrams and it was clearly inferable from the contents of the telegrams that the alleged senders knew all about the account sued on, although the office from which the telegrams were sent was not within the jurisdiction of the court, the telegrams presented were admissible in evidence regardless of whether the telegrams were signed by typewriter or by stamp.

In People v Rabin, 317 Mich 654, 27 NW2d 126, cert den 322 US 759, 92 L Ed 345, 68 S Ct 60, the court held that a telegram was admissible in evidence without proof of signature of the purported sender, because there was evidence showing that the telegram was sent and received in compliance with a previous conversation between the purported sender and a witness contemplating the transmission of money by telegram.

Footnote 70. Alderman v United States (CA5 Fla) 279 F 259, cert den 259 US 584, 66 L Ed 1075, 42 S Ct 586; Peterman v Vermont Sav. Bank, 181 La 403, 159 So 598.

The court in U. B. Blalock & Co. v W. D. Clark & Bros., 137 NC 140, 49 SE 88, in sustaining the admission of a telegram, held that although the authenticating witness, an operator at the sending office, was not the one who actually sent it, the fact that he brought it from the file in his office was a sufficient authentication.

§ 1281 --Reply telegrams

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Uniform Rules of Evidence, the Federal Rules of Evidence, and the common law all generally treat the authentication of reply telegrams in a manner similar to that of reply letters. 71 Common-law authority generally holds that telegrams purporting to be in reply to telegrams previously sent by the recipient are admissible without further proof of the identity of the sender, 72 especially when the reply telegrams are deposited with the telegraph operator with charges prepaid and are properly addressed. 73 Contrary authority, however, does exist, under which the rule permitting self-authentication of reply letters is not applicable to reply telegrams. 74 And where it appears that the purported sender is physically and mentally incapable of composing or causing a telegram to be sent, some corroboration other than that it was received in reply to a prior message is needed to authenticate a telegram. 75

Footnotes

Footnote 71. As to the authentication of reply letters, see § 1278.

Footnote 72. House Grain Co. v Finerman & Sons, 116 Cal App 2d 485, 253 P2d 1034 (a reply telegram authenticates itself); Lundgren v Union Indem. Co., 171 Minn 122, 213 NW 553, 52 ALR 580; State v Rothrock, 45 Nev 214, 200 P 525; Edwards Bros. v Erwin, 148 NC 429, 62 SE 545.

Annotation: Proof of authorship or identity of sender of telegram as prerequisite of its admission in evidence, 5 ALR3d 1018 § 7.

Footnote 73. Whilden & Sons v Merchants' & Planters' Nat. Bank, 64 Ala 1; Western Twine Co. v Wright, 11 SD 521, 78 NW 942.

Footnote 74. Smith v Easton, 54 Md 138.

Footnote 75. Ikenberry v New York Life Ins. Co., 134 Minn 432, 159 NW 955.

j. Church Records [1282, 1283]

§ 1282 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Notwithstanding their nature as hearsay, church records are generally admissible at common law as evidence of matters recorded before the commencement of the action in which their admission is sought, and in the course of performance of the duties of the office or position of the person making such a record. ⁷⁶ Their admission is subject to proper authentication, ⁷⁷ and according to some authority, the person making the record must authenticate it if he or she is available as a witness. ⁷⁸

The common-law rule regarding admissibility of church records has in many jurisdictions been superseded by the adoption of Rule 803(11) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, or similar statutory rules. Rule 803(11) provides that the rule against hearsay does not apply to statements of births, marriages, divorces, death, legitimacy, ancestry, relationship by blood or marriage, or other similar facts of personal or family history, contained in a regularly kept record of a religious organization. ⁷⁹

◆ Comment: Rule 803(11) has been characterized as broader than the common-law rule, inasmuch as the common-law rule was essentially a particular application of the "business record" exception to the hearsay rule, which exception requires that the person furnishing the information be one engaged in the business or activity in question. ⁸⁰ Rule 803(11) contains no such requirement.

Rule 803(11) does not apply to a statement from a religious organization that a contribution of a stated amount has been made by a particular person, inasmuch as such information does not constitute a fact of personal or family history within the meaning of the Rule. ⁸¹

Footnotes

Footnote 76. Dailey v Grand Lodge, B. R. T., 311 Ill 184, 142 NE 478; Sinkora v Wlach, 239 Iowa 1392, 35 NW2d 40; Sitler v Gehr, 105 Pa 577.

Footnote 77. Sinkora v Wlach, 239 Iowa 1392, 35 NW2d 40; In re Garrett's Estate, 371 Pa 284, 89 A2d 531, cert den 344 US 860, 97 L Ed 667, 73 S Ct 101 and appeal after remand 372 Pa 438, 94 A2d 357, cert den 345 US 996, 97 L Ed 1403, 73 S Ct 1138 and reh den 346 US 842, 98 L Ed 362, 74 S Ct 16.

Footnote 78. Durfee v Abbott, 61 Mich 471, 28 NW 521.

Footnote 79. FRE 803(11), Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(11).

Footnote 80. Notes of Advisory Committee to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803 (citing a pre-Rules case in which a church record was held admissible to prove the fact, date, and place of a baptism, but not the age of the child baptized).

Footnote 81. Ruberto v Commissioner (CA2) 774 F2d 61, 85-2 USTC ¶ 9720, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1332, 56 AFTR 2d 85-6107, on remand TC Memo 1987-623, PH TCM P 87623, 54 CCH TCM 1388; Hall v Commissioner (CA9) 729 F2d 632, 84-1 USTC ¶ 9341, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 509, 53 AFTR 2d 84-1174, 78 ALR Fed 355.

Annotation: Exception to hearsay rule, under Rule 803(11) or Rule 803(12) of Federal Rules of Evidence, with respect to information contained in records of religious organization, 78 ALR Fed 361.

§ 1283 Marriage, baptismal, and similar certificates

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 803(12) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, statements of fact contained in a certificate that the maker performed a marriage or other ceremony or administered a sacrament, made by a clergyman, public official or other person authorized by the rules or practices of a religious organization or by law to perform the act certified, and purporting to have been issued at the time of the act or within a reasonable time thereafter, are excepted from the rule against hearsay. 82

◆ Observation: As regards certificates issued by a public official, Rule 803(12) is duplicative of Rule 803(8), the "public record" exception to the hearsay rule. 83 The coverage of Rule 803(12) also overlaps that of Rule 803(9) (the "vital statistics" exception to the hearsay rule) in that some events, such as births and marriages, may lead to the creation of records admissible under both Rules. However, Rule 803(9) reaches the report or certificate prepared for the public record and the resultant public record itself, while Rule 803(12) reaches certificates prepared for and given to private individuals for their own records or for commemorative purposes. 84

A certificate offered under Rule 803(12) and made by a public official will in many instances be self-authenticating under the provisions of Rule 902(1) or 902(2). Otherwise, proof will be required that the person was authorized to perform the act certified and did make the certificate. 85

◆ Practice guide: The language of Rule 803(12) apparently creates a presumption that a certificate offered under the Rule was executed on the date it bears. 86 One commentator has said that this presumption cannot have been intended to be conclusive, and that a certificate offered under the Rule should be excluded if an opponent can prove that it was made long after the event it certifies. 87

Footnotes

Footnote 82. FRE 803(12), Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(12).

Footnote 83. Notes of Advisory Committee to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803.

Footnote 84. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 460.

Footnote 85. Notes of Advisory Committee to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803.

Footnote 86. Notes of Advisory Committee to Rule 803(12), Federal Rules of Evidence.

Footnote 87. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 460.

k. Corporate Books and Records [1284-1289]

(1). In General [1284-1287]

§ 1284 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Corporate records are generally admissible in evidence where they are relevant and not excludable under a generally applicable rule of the law of evidence. Thus, the minutes of meetings of such bodies as a board of directors are admissible to show what occurred at such meetings. 88 Financial records showing net worth are admissible for the purpose of determining a proper amount of punitive damages to be assessed against the corporation, 89 or where it is necessary to show the value of the corporation to effect a division of property in a divorce proceeding. 90 Objections that such records constitute hearsay are properly overcome by bringing them within the terms of applicable exceptions to the hearsay rule, as, for example, the rule pertaining to records of regularly conducted business activity, 91 or the rule regarding admissions. 92

Corporate bylaws are also admissible, if properly proved, in all cases where these provisions have relevancy to the cause of the action. 93

The records of private corporations are not public records and their admission into evidence is not governed by rules pertaining to public records as evidence. 94

Footnotes

Footnote 88. Mailhoit v Liberty Bank & Trust Co., 24 Mass App 525, 510 NE2d 773; Stivers Lincoln-Mercury, Inc. v Abbott (Mo App) 796 SW2d 923.

Footnote 89. Hall v Montgomery Ward & Co. (Iowa) 252 NW2d 421; Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Estate of Wesson (Miss) 517 So 2d 521, cert den 486 US 1043, 100 L Ed 2d 620, 108 S Ct 2035.

Footnote 90. Huskinson v Huskinson, 92 Idaho 920, 453 P2d 569.

Footnote 91. Meriwether v Crown Invest. Corp., 289 Ala 504, 268 So 2d 780; Sparta Sportsfabrikk v NorTur, Inc. (Minn App) 407 NW2d 128.

As to the exception to the hearsay rule pertaining to business entries and records, see §§ 1290 et seq.

Footnote 92. Ten Eyck v Pontiac, O. & P. A. R. Co., 74 Mich 226, 41 NW 905; Wentz v Guaranteed Sand & Gravel Co., 205 Minn 611, 287 NW 113; Curtis v Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 363 Mo 779, 253 SW2d 789; Rueb v Rehder, 24 NM 534, 174 P 992, 1 ALR 423; Rudd v Robinson, 126 NY 113, 26 NE 1046; Miller v Dilkes, 251 Pa 44, 95 A 935; Missouri P. R. Co. v Sherwood, 84 Tex 125, 19 SW 455.

As to the rule regarding admissions, see §§ 760 et seq.

Footnote 93. Knights & Ladies of America v Weber, 101 Ill App 488.

The rules and regulations of a board of trade are competent evidence in a case involving liability on a contract which was made subject to such rules. Hansen v Boyd, 161 US 397, 40 L Ed 746, 16 S Ct 571.

Footnote 94. Continental Ins. Co. v Chicago & N. W. R. Co., 97 Minn 467, 107 NW 548.

§ 1285 Actions between corporation and its stockholders or members

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

As between a corporation and its stockholders or members, the books and records of the corporation are admissible in evidence to prove the corporate acts and proceedings and the financial status of the corporation. 95 According to some authorities, the records of a corporation are admissible against one to show that he was a stockholder, although other authority holds that in the absence of any statutory provision to the contrary, the books of a corporation are not admissible in evidence to prove the membership of a person unless accompanied by proof of authorization, assent, knowledge, or other confirmatory conduct making the person privy to the entries. 96

Where a controversy between a corporation and a stockholder or a member relates to private dealings or to contracts with the member in his individual capacity, the corporate books and records are generally held to be inadmissible. 97 A stockholder or member of a corporation is not merely by reason of his relation to the corporation chargeable with knowledge of corporate transactions, and entries in the corporate books are no more evidence against him than they are as against a stranger, in the absence of proof that he knew of the entries and assented to them. 98

Footnotes

Footnote 95. Fish v Smith, 73 Conn 377, 47 A 711; Tome v Parkersburg B. R. Co., 39 Md 36; Simon v Weymouth Agricultural & Industrial Soc., 389 Mass 146, 449 NE2d 371; North River Meadow Co. v Christ Church at Shrewsbury, 22 NJL 424.

Forms: Stockholders' right of inspection of corporate records. 7A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Corporations, Forms 231-251.

Footnote 96. 18A Am Jur 2d, Corporations § 739.

Footnote 97. Trainor v German-American Sav., Loan & Bldg. Ass'n, 204 Ill 616, 68 NE 650, appeal after remand 185 Ill App (abstract) 345; North River Meadow Co. v Christ Church at Shrewsbury, 22 NJL 424; Rudd v Robinson, 126 NY 113, 26 NE 1046; Pearsall v Western Union Tel. Co., 124 NY 256, 26 NE 534.

Footnote 98. Rudd v Robinson, 126 NY 113, 26 NE 1046; Hughes v Wachter, 61 ND 513, 238 NW 776, 100 ALR 255.

§ 1286 Actions between stockholders or members

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

As between the stockholders or members of a corporation in an action between them, the books and records of the corporation are considered as partaking of the nature of public records and so are generally admissible in evidence in such an action. 99 Thus, in litigation between stockholders over the proper division of the assets of a corporation upon dissolution, an entry in its record book purporting to set out the proceedings at a stockholders' meeting is competent evidence of such proceedings. 1 But the books and papers of a corporation are not admissible with regard to dealings of the corporation with one of the particular stockholders involved in the litigation, since in such respect the stockholder stands as a stranger to the corporation. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 99. Spena v Goffe, 112 Kan 693, 212 P 1093; Hubbell v Meigs, 50 NY 480; Rogers v Rosenfeld, 158 Wis 285, 149 NW 33.

Footnote 1. Spena v Goffe, 112 Kan 693, 212 P 1093.

Footnote 2. Hayden v Williams (CA2 NY) 96 F 279.

§ 1287 Criminal proceedings against officers or stockholders

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The fact that the defendant in a criminal proceeding is a corporate officer is not sufficient to make the corporate books admissible evidence against him in the prosecution. 3 Books of a corporation are admissible against its officers in a criminal prosecution only if there is evidence tending to show that there exists some kind of actual connection between the officers and the contents of the books, predicated upon some facts other than their mere status as corporate officers. 4 Where the corporation is completely dominated by one person, or a small group of persons, who are both officers and main stockholders of the corporation, and the separate legal entity of the corporation amounts to a mere fiction, the books of the corporation are competent evidence in a criminal prosecution against such persons. 5 Corporate books have also been held to constitute competent evidence against a corporate officer who, although not exercising complete and absolute control over the corporation, occupies a position of authority and of general supervision over the business of the corporation from which it can be inferred that he authorized the entries in the corporate books or was actually acquainted with them. 6 While in some cases the admission of the books has been based on proof of actual knowledge of the entries by the corporate officer against whom they are offered in evidence, 7 other cases seem to be based on knowledge of the contents of the books inferred from the position of the officer in the corporation. 8

Footnotes

Footnote 3. State v Carmean, 126 Iowa 291, 102 NW 97; State v Johnston, 149 SC 195, 146 SE 657; State v Bolyn, 143 SC 63, 141 SE 165.

Footnote 4. People v Jones, 61 Cal App 2d 608, 143 P2d 726, cert den and app dismd 323 US 665, 89 L Ed 541, 65 S Ct 39; Cliff v People, 84 Colo 254, 269 P 907; State v Franks, 262 NC 94, 136 SE2d 623; Appelget v State, 33 Okla Crim 136, 243 P 255; State v German, 163 Or 342, 96 P2d 1085.

Footnote 5. Cornes v United States (CA9 Ariz) 119 F2d 127; Shreve v United States (CA9 Ariz) 103 F2d 796, cert den 308 US 570, 84 L Ed 479, 60 S Ct 84; Le Master v People, 54 Colo 416, 131 P 269.

Footnote 6. People v Jones, 61 Cal App 2d 608, 143 P2d 726, cert den and app dismd 323 US 665, 89 L Ed 541, 65 S Ct 39; Cliff v People, 84 Colo 254, 269 P 907; Appelget v State, 33 Okla Crim 136, 243 P 255; State v German, 163 Or 342, 96 P2d 1085; State v Johnston, 149 SC 195, 146 SE 657.

Footnote 7. People v People v Rowland, 12 Cal App 6, 106 P 428.

Footnote 8. State v Cutts, 24 Idaho 329, 133 P 115; State v Cooke, 130 Or 552, 278 P 936.

(2). Authentication [1288, 1289]

§ 1288 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Proof of the authenticity of corporate books and records must be given if they are to be introduced in evidence. 9 It must be shown that they are the books of the corporation, that they have been kept as its records, and that the entries made therein were made by the acting or proper officer for that purpose, or by some other duly accredited person in his absence. 10 Generally, the secretary or acting secretary is the proper corporate officer to keep the minutes and records of the corporation and the person by whom their authenticity and correctness should be proved. 11

Admissions contained in corporate books and made by officers or agents of the corporation are generally admissible evidence against the corporation, 12 and no foundation that the books are authentic is necessary. 13

Footnotes

Footnote 9. Terry v Birmingham Nat. Bank, 93 Ala 599, 9 So 299; Mandel v Swan Land & Cattle Co., 154 Ill 177, 40 NE 462; McConnell v Combination Min. & Mill. Co., 30 Mont 239, 76 P 194, mod on other grounds 31 Mont 563, 79 P 248.

Footnote 10. Bruce v McClure (CA5 Fla) 220 F2d 330; Illinois Conference of Evangelical Ass'n v Plagge, 177 Ill 431, 53 NE 76; McConnell v Combination Min. & Mill. Co., 30 Mont 239, 76 P 194, mod on other grounds 31 Mont 563, 79 P 248; North American Bldg. Asso. v Sutton, 35 Pa 463.

Footnote 11. Bruce v McClure (CA5 Fla) 220 F2d 330; Fraternal Relief Ass'n v Edwards, 9 Ga App 43, 70 SE 265.

Footnote 12. § 822.

Footnote 13. Bruce v McClure (CA5 Fla) 220 F2d 330; Wentz v Guaranteed Sand & Gravel Co., 205 Minn 611, 287 NW 113.

§ 1289 Instruments executed on behalf of corporation

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Instruments purporting to be executed in behalf of corporations must be authenticated to be admissible. 14 Even though a paper purporting to be the act of a private corporation bears a seal purporting to be the seal of such corporation, it is not admissible without suitable evidence to establish the authenticity of such seal as the corporate seal of that corporation. 15 If, however, the authenticity of the seal is shown by competent proof, proof of the further fact that such seal is affixed to a paper purporting to be the act of the corporation in question is at least prima facie evidence that it has been duly affixed, and in the absence of evidence to the contrary, dispenses with the necessity of positive proof. 16

A contract signed by a general manager on behalf of the corporation may be authenticated by him or her. 17

Footnotes

Footnote 14. Robertson v Burstein, 105 NJL 375, 146 A 355, 65 ALR 324.

Footnote 15. Robertson v Burstein, 105 NJL 375, 146 A 355, 65 ALR 324.

Footnote 16. Susquehanna Bridge & Bank Co. v General Ins. Co., 3 Md 305; Berks & Dauphin Turnpike Road Co. v Myers (Pa) 6 Serg & R 12; Emory v Bailey, 111 Tex 337, 234 SW 660, 18 ALR 901.

Footnote 17. Raftis v McCloud River Lumber Co., 35 Cal App 397, 170 P 176.

I. Business Entries and Records [1290-1320]

(1). Common-law Rules [1290-1293]

(a). In General [1290, 1291]

§ 1290 Entries made by party offering record (the "shopbook" rule)

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the English common law, the books of account of a party to a lawsuit were not admissible in evidence unless they were kept by a clerk or other disinterested person who was available to testify as to their accuracy. 18 The unavailability of the bookkeeper as a witness, by reason of death or otherwise, gave rise at an early date to an exception to this rule under which the books became admissible provided the entries were made in the regular course of the business. 19 However, where the entries were made by the party to the lawsuit himself, the books were inadmissible under the early common law, since parties to lawsuits were disqualified as witnesses and could not therefore testify as to the accuracy of their books. 20 Although this rule was deemed to apply in some American jurisdictions, 21 the difficulties engendered by the common-law rule where a shopkeeper had no clerk led in most states to the adoption of a rule, often called the "shopbook rule," under which a party to a lawsuit could give in evidence, in support of his claim against his adversary, his books of account notwithstanding that the entries in it had been made by himself. 22

◆ Comment: Although the rule against the use as evidence of a party's books on his own behalf seems to have originated under the principle that a party could not testify or otherwise make evidence on his own behalf, the abandonment of that principle had little effect on the application of the shopbook rule in the United States. 23 Rather, American courts have tended to view the rule as based on a consideration underlying the rule against hearsay (that is, the untrustworthiness of evidence originating outside a judicial proceeding), and to regard the shopbook rule as a common-law exception to the rule against hearsay. 24

The shopbook rule originally applied only where the shopkeeper had no clerk keeping his books, and although the rule was extended over the years by courts attempting to adopt it to the realities of modern business practice, 25 it nonetheless came to be an object of ridicule by businessmen and a source of dissatisfaction to the judiciary. Accordingly, the rule has generally been superseded by the adoption of statutes and codes of evidence liberalizing the admission into evidence of books of account and other business records. 26

Footnotes

Footnote 18. George v Miami Shores Village (Fla App D3) 154 So 2d 729; Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

Footnote 19. § 1291.

Footnote 20. Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

Footnote 21. De Land Min. & Mill. Co. v Hanna, 112 Md 528, 76 A 850.

Footnote 22. Alabama Lumber Co. v Cross, 152 Ala 562, 44 So 563; Kipp v Miller, 47 Colo 598, 108 P 164; T. Barbour Brown & Co. v Canty, 115 Conn 226, 161 A 91, 83 ALR 801; Turner v Turner, 123 Ga 5, 50 SE 969; House v Beak, 141 Ill 290, 30 NE 1065; Culver v Marks, 122 Ind 554, 23 NE 1086; Kuhl v Chamberlain, 140 Iowa 546, 118 NW 776; Gus Dattilo Fruit Co. v Louisville & N. R. Co., 238 Ky 322, 37 SW2d 856; Mathes v Robinson, 49 Mass 269, 8 Met 269; Cluett v Rosenthal, 100 Mich 193, 58 NW 1009; Borgess Inv. Co. v Vette, 142 Mo 560, 44 SW 754; Wightman v Campbell, 217 NY 479, 112 NE 184; Smith v Rentz, 131 NY 169, 30 NE 54; Moore v Copeley, 165 Pa 294, 30 A 829; Jeffords v Muldrow, 104 SC 388, 89 SE 357, 6 ALR 755; Ft. Worth & R. G. R. Co. v Jones (Tex Civ App) 212 SW 552; Osborne v Grand T. R. Co., 87 Vt 104, 88 A 512; Ratliff v Jewell, 153 Va 315, 149 SE 409, 67 ALR 1541; State ex rel. Spokane & Eastern Trust Co. v Superior Court of Washington, 109 Wash 634, 187 P 358, 9 ALR 157; Parkersburg & Marietta Sand Co. v Smith, 76 W Va 246, 85 SE 516; Blumer Brewing Corp. v Mayer, 223 Wis 540, 269 NW 693, 111 ALR 1087.

Footnote 23. Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

Footnote 24. Murray v Donlan (2d Dept) 77 App Div 2d 337, 433 NYS2d 184.

Footnote 25. Shmargon v Rosenstein, 192 App Div 143, 182 NYS 343.

Footnote 26. §§ 1294 et seq.

§ 1291 Entries made by another

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under the common law, entries in books of accounts made in the regular course of business by a person other than the party offering them in evidence were admissible provided they were authenticated by the person who made them. 27 If the entries were not verified by the person who made them, and it was not shown that such person was unavailable as a witness, the books were not admissible. 28 However, where such third person was dead or otherwise unavailable as a witness, entries or memoranda made by him in the regular course of business, and under circumstances calculated to insure accuracy and precluding any motive of misrepresentation, were admissible as evidence of the facts stated, 29 upon proof of his handwriting. 30 This was an exception to the hearsay rule, which generally renders inadmissible private memoranda of a deceased person, 31 inasmuch as entries made in the regular and usual course of business were deemed to be more trustworthy than most other writings. 32

The rule providing for the admissibility of entries or memoranda made in the regular course of business was not limited to entries or memoranda of shops or mercantile establishments, but included entries or memoranda of persons who had since died which were made in the usual course of their professional duties, 33 such as the entries or memoranda of attorneys 34 and notaries, 35 bank records, 36 a register of bills receivable and payable, 37 and church registers. 38 However, books or records which were not made in the regular course of business 39 at, or near, or within a reasonable time after, the time of the transaction to which they related 40 were not admissible in evidence.

◆ Observation: The common-law rule relating to entries made in the regular course of business has largely been superseded by statutes and rules of evidence which preserve the essence of the rule but no longer require authentication of the entries by the persons making them or a showing of their unavailability as witnesses.

§ 1291 ----Entries made by another [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In criminal prosecution arising from Medicaid fraud, computer print-outs were properly admitted in evidence under business record exception to hearsay rule, even though they had been specifically created for trial and were not generated in ordinary course of business, since print-outs were generated from computer tapes which had been made in regular course of business from data entered into computer at time of each fraudulent transaction; fact that print-outs were produced after commencement of criminal proceeding did not affect their admissibility. People v Weinberg (1992, 2d Dept) 183 AD2d 932, 586 NYS2d 132, app den 80 NY2d 977, 591 NYS2d 147, 605 NE2d 883.

Footnotes

Footnote 27. § 1293.

Footnote 28. § 1293.

Footnote 29. Chaffee & Co. v United States, 85 US 516, 18 Wall 516, 21 L Ed 908; Hancock v Kelly, 81 Ala 368, 2 So 281; Hansen v Kaperonis, 243 Iowa 1257, 55 NW2d 284; Cascio v Standard Oil Co. (La App 1st Cir) 32 So 2d 66; Arnold v Hussey, 111 Me 224, 88 A 724; Dow v Sawyer, 29 Me 117; North Bank v Abbot, 30 Mass 465; Tiedt v Larson, 174 Minn 558, 219 NW 905; Lassone v Boston & L. R. Co., 66 NH 345, 24 A 902; Jameson v First Sav. Bank & Trust Co., 40 NM 133, 55 P2d 743, 103 ALR 1492; Wightman v Campbell, 217 NY 479, 112 NE 184; Dairy & Ice Cream Supply Co. v Gastonia Ice Cream Co., 232 NC 684, 61 SE2d 895; Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423; State v Davie, 121 Utah 189, 240 P2d 265; State v Phair, 48 Vt 366; State ex rel. Alderson v Holbert, 137 W Va 883, 74 SE2d 772.

Footnote 30. § 1293.

Footnote 31. § 1274.

Footnote 32. Smith v Bear (CA2 NY) 237 F2d 79, 60 ALR2d 1119.

Footnote 33. Ward v Music (Ky) 257 SW2d 516; Richmond v Weiss & Goldring, Inc. (La App 3d Cir) 124 So 2d 601; Jameson v First Sav. Bank & Trust Co., 40 NM 133, 55 P2d 743, 103 ALR 1492; State ex rel. Alderson v Holbert, 137 W Va 883, 74 SE2d 772.

Footnote 34. Jameson v First Sav. Bank & Trust Co., 40 NM 133, 55 P2d 743, 103 ALR 1492.

Footnote 35. Nicholls v Webb, 21 US 326, 8 Wheat 326, 5 L Ed 628.

Footnote 36. American Surety Co. v Pauly (CA2 NY) 72 F 470, affd 170 US 133, 42 L Ed 977, 18 S Ct 552.

Footnote 37. Tiedt v Larson, 174 Minn 558, 219 NW 905.

Footnote 38. Kennedy v Doyle, 92 Mass 161, 10 Allen 161.

Footnote 39. In re Estate of Martine, 233 Ill App 94; Cullinan v Moncrief, 90 App Div 538, 85 NYS 745.

Footnote 40. Burley v German-American Bank, 111 US 216, 28 L Ed 406, 4 S Ct 341; Nall v Brennan, 324 Mo 565, 23 SW2d 1053, 68 ALR 684.

(b). Authentication [1292, 1293]

§ 1292 Of entries made by party offering record

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where a party offers his own books to prove his claim against another under the shopbook rule, the books must be authenticated. 41 It is necessary to show that the transactions were correctly recorded, or, as it is sometimes expressed, the books must appear to have been fairly and honestly kept. 42 One making entries in shopbooks should generally have knowledge of their verity; if they are made on reports of others, the entrant should testify that he made them correctly as reported, and his testimony should be supplemented by the one who made the reports. 43 It is not, however, essential that the entrant testifying to the correctness of book accounts have an independent or exact recollection of the transaction entered, if he is able to say that at the time when he made the entries he had personal knowledge of the transaction, and that the entries were made correctly in conformity with such knowledge. 44 The lack of such independent evidence merely affects the weight of the books as evidence. 45

Footnotes

Footnote 41. Wentz v Guaranteed Sand & Gravel Co., 205 Minn 611, 287 NW 113.

Practice References 34 Am Jur POF2d 509, Foundation for Offering Business Records in Evidence.

Footnote 42. Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

Footnote 43. Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

Footnote 44. Merrill v Ithaca & O. R. Co. (NY) 16 Wend 586; Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423; Curran v Witter, 68 Wis 16, 31 NW 705.

Footnote 45. Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

§ 1293 Of entries made by another

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The rule at common law as to entries in books of account which have been made by a person other than the party who offers the books is that entries so made in the ordinary course of business, by a person whose duty it was to make them, contemporaneously with the occurrence of the transactions recorded, are competent evidence where they are proved by the person who made them, if he is alive and can be produced. 46 If the entries are not verified by the person who made them, and it is not shown that he or she is unavailable as a witness, the books are inadmissible. 47 The necessity of verifying the correctness of entries by the bookkeeper, clerk, or other person who made the entries in a book of accounts is relaxed when such person has died, is beyond the jurisdiction of the court, or is otherwise unavailable as a witness. 48 In such cases, books of account, if otherwise unobjectionable, become admissible upon proof of the fact of the unavailability or absence of the bookkeeper 49 and upon proof of his or her handwriting. 50

Footnotes

Footnote 46. St. Louis S. R. Co. v White Sewing Mach. Co., 78 Ark 1, 93 SW 58; Barnes v Simmons, 27 Ill 512; Hansen v Kaperonis, 243 Iowa 1257, 55 NW2d 284; Mansfield v Gushee, 120 Me 333, 114 A 296; Lassone v Boston & L. R. Co., 66 NH 345, 24 A 902; Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423; Commonwealth v Grotzner, 125 Pa Super 305, 189 A 495; Vinal v Gilman, 21 W Va 301.

Practice References 34 Am Jur POF2d 509, Foundation for Offering Business Records in Evidence.

Footnote 47. Terry v Birmingham Nat. Bank, 93 Ala 599, 9 So 299; Mansfield v Gushee, 120 Me 333, 114 A 296; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v Davis, 24 Okla 677, 104 P 34; Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423; Commonwealth v Grotzner, 125 Pa Super 305, 189 A 495.

Footnote 48. Beaver v Taylor, 68 US 637, 1 Wall 637, 17 L Ed 601; Heiskell v Rollins, 82 Md 14, 33 A 263; President, etc., of Union Bank v Knapp, 20 Mass 96; Lassone v Boston & L. R. Co., 66 NH 345, 24 A 902; Dairy & Ice Cream Supply Co. v Gastonia Ice Cream Co., 232 NC 684, 61 SE2d 895; Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27

ALR 1423; United Grocery Co. v J. M. Dannelly & Son, 93 SC 580, 77 SE 706; State v Davie, 121 Utah 184, 240 P2d 263; Vinal v Gilman, 21 W Va 301.

Footnote 49. § 1291.

Footnote 50. Heiskell v Rollins, 82 Md 14, 33 A 263; President, etc., of Union Bank v Knapp, 20 Mass 96; Radtke v Taylor, 105 Or 559, 210 P 863, 27 ALR 1423.

As to authentication of handwriting, generally, see §§ 1212 et seq.

(2). Statutory Provisions [1294-1320]

(a). Model Act for Proof of Business Transactions [1294, 1295]

§ 1294 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Model Act for Proof of Business Transactions, which originated in New York in 1927, provides that any writing or record, whether in the form of an entry in a book or otherwise, made as a memorandum or record of any act, transaction, occurrence, or event, shall be admissible as evidence of said act, transaction, occurrence, or event, if it shall appear that it was made in the regular course of any business, and that it was the regular course of such business to make such memorandum or record at the time of such act, transaction, occurrence, or event or within a reasonable time thereafter. The Act further provides that all other circumstances of the making of such writing or record, including lack of personal knowledge by the entrant or maker, may be shown to affect its weight, but such circumstances shall not affect its admissibility, and that the term "business" shall include every kind of business, profession, occupation, and calling.

The Act represents a broad exception to the hearsay rule. 51 It was formulated in recognition of the fact that modern business practice typically involves a large number of persons in recordkeeping, and it is intended to permit writings made in the regular course of business to be received in evidence without the necessity of calling as witnesses all the persons who had any part in making it, 52 provided the record was made as a part of the duty of the person making it, or on information imparted by persons who were under a duty to impart such information. 53 The self-serving nature of a record under the Act goes to its weight but not its admissibility. 54

◆ Practice guide: The Act's statutory prerequisites for admission of a business record must be satisfied by foundation testimony. 55 The fact that the witness by whom the foundation is laid was not, at the time of the making of the record, an employee of the business does not affect the record's admissibility. 56

◆ Observation: The Act was at one time codified as federal law and referred to as the Federal Business Records Act. 57 However, with the adoption of the Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803(6) of which addresses the exemption of business records from the hearsay rule, the codification of the Act was amended to delete matters covered by the new Rules. 58

Footnotes

Footnote 51. Frush v Brooks, 204 Md 315, 104 A2d 624.

Footnote 52. In re Fifth Ave. Coach Lines, Inc., 42 Misc 2d 319, 247 NYS2d 933.

Footnote 53. Chase Manhattan Bank (Nat. Asso.), Bank Americard Div. v Hobbs, 94 Misc 2d 780, 405 NYS2d 967.

Records are not inadmissible under the Act merely because the recordkeeper lacks personal knowledge of the matter recorded, so long as the record is made on information imparted by one under a duty to impart it. Cox v State, 3 NY2d 693, 171 NYS2d 818, 148 NE2d 879.

Footnote 54. Whitehead v Joiner, 234 Ga 457, 216 SE2d 317.

Footnote 55. State v Anonymous, 33 Conn Supp 668, 366 A2d 557.

Annotation: Verification and authentication of slips, tickets, bills, invoices, etc., made in regular course of business, under the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act, or under similar "Model Acts," 21 ALR2d 773.

Practice References 34 Am Jur POF2d 509, Foundation for Offering Business Records in Evidence.

Footnote 56. Baumert-Moran Sales Co. v Red Bird Truck Rental Corp., 149 Conn 42, 175 A2d 189.

Footnote 57. Smith v Universal Services, Inc. (CA5 La) 454 F2d 154, 4 BNA FEP Cas 187, 4 BNA FEP Cas 541, 4 CCH EPD ¶ 7617, 4 CCH EPD ¶ 7704, on remand (DC La) 360 F Supp 446, 5 BNA FEP Cas 1375, 6 CCH EPD ¶ 8920.

Annotation: Admissibility of credit reports under Federal Business Records Act (28 USC § 1732(a)), 19 ALR Fed 988.

Accident reports by employees of litigant as admissible under Federal Business Records Act (28 USC § 1732), 10 ALR Fed 858.

Admissibility of hospital records under Federal Business Records Act (28 USC § 1732(a)), 9 ALR Fed 457.

Personal checkbook or account as business record under Federal Business Records Act (28 USC § 1732), 8 ALR Fed 919.

§ 1295 Records admissible under Model Act

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

For a record to be admissible under the Model Act, it must meet three qualifications: (1) it must have been made in the regular course of business; (2) it must be the regular course of business to make such record; and (3) it must have been made at or near the time of the act, transaction, or event. 59 The fact that a record is generally admissible under the Act, however, does not mean that anything and everything contained in the record is necessarily admissible in any given case. 60 A portion of a proffered exhibit which is not shown to have been made in the regular course of business may be deleted before the exhibit is admitted into evidence. 61

While the Model Act was essentially designed to meet problems encountered by commercial enterprises engaged in litigation, the writings and records made admissible under it are not limited to commercial entries, as was the case under the shopbook rule. 62 Records admissible under the Act include—

—recorded statements of firefighters as to what happened at the scene of a fire. 63

—a memorandum prepared by a police officer, but not signed by the accused, containing the accused's oral confession to a murder. 64

—physicians' records. 65

—diaries of a person engaged in illegal loansharking transactions. 66

However, as the Act was not intended to permit the receipt in evidence of entries based upon voluntary hearsay statements made by third parties not engaged in the business or under any duty in relation thereto, 67 the Act does not make admissible an accident report filed by a police officer insofar as such report is based upon the hearsay statements of persons who happened to be present at the scene of the accident when the officer arrived. 68 Conclusions of a police officer in such a report are also subject to deletion before the report is received in evidence. 69 A recording of a telephone call to a 911 emergency number is not admissible under the Act where the person making the call was under no business duty to report the occurrence or incident giving rise to the call. 70

Footnotes

Footnote 59. American Oil Co. v Valenti, 179 Conn 349, 426 A2d 305, 28 UCCRS 118.

Footnote 60. Maggi v Mendillo, 147 Conn 663, 165 A2d 603.

Footnote 61. Szela v Johnson Motor Lines, Inc., 145 Conn 714, 146 A2d 910.

Footnote 62. Needle v New York R. Corp., 227 App Div 276, 237 NYS 547.

Annotation: Admissibility of school records under hearsay exceptions, 57 ALR4th 1111 §§ 3-15.

Admissibility of computerized private business records, 7 ALR4th 8.

Admissibility under Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act or similar statute of medical report made by consulting physician to treating physician, 69 ALR3d 104.

Admissibility under business entry statutes of hospital records in criminal case, 69 ALR3d 22.

Letters to or from customers or suppliers as business records under statutes authorizing reception of business records in evidence, 68 ALR3d 1069.

Footnote 63. Holloway v Eich, 255 Md 591, 258 A2d 585.

Footnote 64. Holcomb v State, 307 Md 457, 515 A2d 213.

Footnote 65. Jezowski v Beach, 59 Misc 2d 224, 298 NYS2d 360.

Footnote 66. People v Kennedy, 68 NY2d 569, 510 NYS2d 853.

Footnote 67. Johnson v Lutz, 253 NY 124, 170 NE 517.

Footnote 68. State v Masse, 24 Conn Supp 45, 1 Conn Cir 381, 186 A2d 553; Kuhl v Aetna Casualty & Surety Co., 51 Md App 476, 443 A2d 996, affd 296 Md 446, 463 A2d 822; Johnson v Lutz, 253 NY 124, 170 NE 517.

Annotation: Admissibility in state court proceedings of police reports as business records, 77 ALR3d 115.

Footnote 69. Honick v Walden, 10 Md App 714, 272 A2d 406.

Footnote 70. People v Luke, 136 Misc 2d 733, 519 NYS2d 316.

Annotation: Admissibility of tape recording or transcript of "911" emergency telephone call, 3 ALR5th 784 § 11.

(b). Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act [1296-1299]

§ 1296 Generally

View Entire Section

The Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act provides that a record of an act, condition, or event shall, insofar as relevant, be competent evidence if the custodian or other qualified witness testifies to its identity and the mode of its preparation, and if it was made in the regular course of business, at or near the time of the act, condition, or event, and if, in the opinion of the court, the sources of information, method, and time of preparation were such as to justify its admission. 71 The term "business," as used in the Act, is defined to include every kind of business, profession, occupation, calling, or operation of institutions, whether carried on for profit or not.

◆ Observation: While similar in many respects to the Model Act for Proof of Business Transactions, the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act departs from the Model Act by requiring, in addition to proof as to the making of the record in the regular course of business at or near the time of the matter recorded, that the court be satisfied that the sources of information, method, and time of preparation of the record are such as to justify its admission. 72 By contrast, the Model Act states that circumstances other than those specified as a foundation for admission of the record bear on the weight, but not the admissibility, of the record.

The Uniform Act abrogates many of the antiquated and technical common-law rules regarding the admission of business records in evidence, and expands the operation of the common-law rule for the admission of such records as an exception to the hearsay rule. 73 The Act eliminates the necessity of calling, qualifying, and interrogating each person who made the individual entries. 74 The admissibility of records under the Act does not turn on whether, in the context of the case, they are self-serving or admissions against interest; such matters affect probative value or credibility and are for the factfinder. 75

◆ Observation: The Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act was enacted by more than half the states, but was withdrawn by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws upon the promulgation of the Uniform Rules of Evidence, inasmuch as Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules embodies the substance of the Act. 76 States adopting the Uniform Rules have generally repealed any prior enactment of the Act.

Footnotes

Footnote 71. Richmond v Frederick, 116 Cal App 2d 541, 253 P2d 977.

Annotation: Verification and authentication of slips, tickets, bills, invoices, etc., made in regular course of business, under the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act, or under similar "Model Acts," 21 ALR2d 773.

Footnote 72. Thomas v Fred Weber Contractor, Inc. (Mo App) 498 SW2d 811 (noting that trial court has considerable discretion in determining whether sources of information, method, and time of preparation render document inadmissible in a particular case).

Footnote 73. Bohn v James (Mo App) 573 SW2d 448 (criticized on other grounds by Parry v Staddon (Mo App) 769 SW2d 811); Fauceglia v Harry, 409 Pa 155, 185 A2d

Footnote 74. Webber v McCormick, 63 NJ Super 409, 164 A2d 813.

Practice References 34 Am Jur POF2d 509, Foundation for Offering Business Records in Evidence.

Footnote 75. Mahoney v Minsky, 39 NJ 208, 188 A2d 161.

An ambulance company's trip ticket and the corresponding page of its logbook were admissible under the statute to show that the ambulance driver, who collided with a car, believed that he was on an emergency trip, notwithstanding that the notation of the letter "E" in both records, used by the ambulance company to designate emergency calls, was self-serving. Gallup v Sparks-Mundo Engineering Co., 43 Cal 2d 1, 271 P2d 34.

Footnote 76. Historical Note to Rule 803, Uniform Rules of Evidence.

§ 1297 Records admissible under Uniform Act

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act does not make relevant that which is not in fact relevant, nor does it make all business records competent evidence regardless of the manner in which, and the purpose for which, they were made. 77 The statute does not make a record admissible when oral testimony to the same effect would not be admissible. 78 The Act requires that the record offered in evidence be that of an "act, condition, or event," and accordingly a record, to be admitted under the Act, must contain statements of fact rather than conclusions. 79 A record to be admissible under the Act must be based upon the entrant's own observation, or upon information transmitted to him by an observer under a business duty to so transmit it. 80

◆ Practice guide: A record which is objectionable in part will be redacted upon the making of a properly specific objection, 81 but where at least some of the record in question is admissible, a blanket objection to its admission is not well taken, and the entire record will be admitted. 82

Footnotes

Footnote 77. Tile-Craft Products Co. v Colonial Properties, Inc. (Mo) 498 SW2d 547; Haas v Kasnot, 371 Pa 580, 92 A2d 171, appeal after remand 377 Pa 440, 105 A2d 74.

Annotation: Admissibility of computerized private business records, 7 ALR4th 8.

Letters to or from customers or suppliers as business records under statutes authorizing reception of business records in evidence, 68 ALR3d 1069.

Footnote 78. McGowan v Los Angeles, 100 Cal App 2d 386, 223 P2d 862, 21 ALR2d 1206; Hancock v Crouch (Mo App) 267 SW2d 36.

The Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act does not make competent matters contained in records covered by the act which are otherwise violative of evidentiary rules. Commonwealth v Green, 251 Pa Super 318, 380 A2d 798.

Footnote 79. Williams v Caples, 342 Pa 230, 20 A2d 302.

Footnote 80. State v Boyington (Mo App) 544 SW2d 300.

It is not required that the entrant have personal knowledge of the event recorded. People v Fowzer, 127 Cal App 2d 742, 274 P2d 471; Fauceglia v Harry, 409 Pa 155, 185 A2d 598.

Footnote 81. Allen v St. Louis Public Service Co., 365 Mo 677, 285 SW2d 663, 55 ALR2d 1022.

Footnote 82. Finkel v Hoel-Steffen Constr. Co. (Mo App) 631 SW2d 645.

But see Glenn v Brown, 28 Wash App 86, 622 P2d 1279, review den 95 Wash 2d 1018 (trial court did not abuse its discretion in excluding from evidence letters of consulting physician to primary treating physician where, in addition to facts observed by the consulting physician, one of the letters also contained a statement which was arguably an opinion as to the cause of the plaintiff's injury, and no attempt was made to segregate the potentially inadmissible portions of the letters from those which were admissible).

§ 1298 --Hospital records; accident records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Opinions, diagnoses, or conclusions contained in hospital records are not admissible under the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act, as they represent an expression of expert opinion not subject to cross-examination, 83 although the results of a relatively simple medical test such as that for blood alcohol are not objectionable. 84

A record to be admissible under the Act must be based upon the entrant's own observation, or upon information transmitted to him by an observer under a business duty to so transmit it. 85 Thus, although an accident report filed by a policeman is generally not admissible in evidence under the Act where the report is based upon the hearsay statements of third persons who were at the scene of the accident when the policeman arrived, 86 such a report is admissible where it is based upon the policeman's personal observations, 87 or the observations of one who had a business duty to transmit his observations to the officer. 88

Accident reports made by employees to their employers have been deemed not admissible in evidence under the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act where the regular business of the employer was not the investigation of accidents. 89 However, such reports have been held admissible, notwithstanding that the employer's regular business was not the investigation of accidents, where it was the frequent and regular practice of employees to make such reports. 90

Footnotes

Footnote 83. Morris v Moss, 290 Pa Super 587, 435 A2d 184; Glenn v Brown, 28 Wash App 86, 622 P2d 1279, review den 95 Wash 2d 1018.

Footnote 84. State v Martorelli, 136 NJ Super 449, 346 A2d 618, certif den 69 NJ 445, 354 A2d 642; Commonwealth v Seville, 266 Pa Super 587, 405 A2d 1262.

Medical records librarian properly testified to finding of spermatozoa in prosecutrix' vagina after incident resulting in trial of defendant for rape; where tests to determine presence of sperm were basic and routine and left little room for error, finding of spermatozoa was thus fact, and medical records could be admitted under business records exception to hearsay rule. Commonwealth v Campbell, 244 Pa Super 505, 368 A2d 1299.

Annotation: Admissibility under Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act or similar statute of medical report made by consulting physician to treating physician, 69 ALR3d 104.

Admissibility under business entry statutes of hospital records in criminal case, 69 ALR3d 22.

Admissibility, as against hearsay objection, of report of tests or experiments carried out by independent third party, 19 ALR3d 1008.

Footnote 85. § 1297.

Footnote 86. MacLean v San Francisco (1st Dist) 151 Cal App 2d 133, 311 P2d 158; Haas v Kasnot, 371 Pa 580, 92 A2d 171, appeal after remand 377 Pa 440, 105 A2d 74.

Annotation: Admissibility in state court proceedings of police reports as business records, 77 ALR3d 115.

Footnote 87. MacLean v San Francisco (1st Dist) 151 Cal App 2d 133, 311 P2d 158.

Footnote 88. State v Jordan (Mo App) 664 SW2d 668.

Footnote 89. Githens, Rexsamer & Co. v Wildstein, 428 Pa 201, 236 A2d 792; Owens v Seattle, 49 Wash 2d 187, 299 P2d 560, 61 ALR2d 417.

Footnote 90. Fagan v Newark, 78 NJ Super 294, 188 A2d 427.

§ 1299 --Memorandum of telephone conversation

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A memorandum of a telephone conversation made by one in the regular course of business is admissible in evidence under the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act. 91 However, where the memorandum is introduced in evidence for the purpose of establishing the fact of the telephone conversation, the admissibility of the memorandum depends upon the legitimacy of an inference that the telephone conversation was had with the person in question. 92

Footnotes

Footnote 91. State v Bassano, 67 NJ Super 526, 171 A2d 108.

Annotation: Admissibility of tape recording or transcript of "911" emergency telephone call, 3 ALR5th 784 § 11.

Evidence: admissibility of memorandum of telephone conversation, 94 ALR3d 975.

Footnote 92. State v Bassano, 67 NJ Super 526, 171 A2d 108.

Generally, as to the admissibility of evidence as to the fact of a telephone call and the identity of the caller, see §§ 582, 578.

(c). Rule 803(6) of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence [1300-1314]

§ 1300 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence provides that proffered evidence is not excluded by the hearsay rule if:

- The evidence is a memorandum, report, record, or data compilation, in any form, of acts, events, conditions, opinions, or diagnoses
- It was kept in the course of a regularly conducted business activity, and it was the regular practice of that business activity to make such a record
- The source of the information was a person with knowledge

- The memorandum, report, or data compilation was made at or near the time of the event or occurrence in question
- All as shown by testimony of the custodian of the record or by some other qualified witness
- The source of information or the method or circumstances of preparation does not indicate lack of trustworthiness 93

The term "business" is defined by the Rule as including business, institution, association, profession, occupation, and calling of every kind, whether or not conducted for profit. 94

The rationale of the Rule is that the reliability of a business record is demonstrated by evidence that it was made pursuant to established and routine procedures for systematic conduct of a business. 95

- ◆ Observation: The testimony required of the custodian of the record or other qualified witness will serve to authenticate the record as well as remove a hearsay objection to its admission. 96

§ 1300 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Evidence: Photocopies of business records, 141 Chi Daily L Bull 86:1 (1995).

Hearsay, the New York and Federal Rules of Evidence: What's the difference? 11 Touro LR 1:57 (1994).

Case authorities:

Time sheets identifying work age discrimination plaintiff could have performed were properly admitted under business records exception where employer's defense was that employee was terminated because there was no work he could do. Starceski v Westinghouse Elec. Corp. (1995, CA3 Pa) 54 F3d 1089, 67 BNA FEP Cas 1184.

Footnotes

Footnote 93. FRE 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 94. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 95. Teac Corp. of America v Bauer (Colo App) 678 P2d 3.

Law Reviews: Egan & Cunningham, Admission of Business Records into Evidence: Using the Business Records Exception and Other Techniques. 30 Duquesne L Rev 205 (Winter 1992).

Practice References 34 Am Jur POF2d 509, Foundation for Offering Business Records in Evidence.

§ 1301 Distinctions between Rule and other statutory provisions for receipt of business records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(6) 97 differs from both the Model Act for Proof of Business Transactions and the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act, in that records admissible under Rule 803(6) include records of "opinions or diagnoses," as well as records of "acts," "events," and "conditions"; the Model and Uniform Acts were confined to reports of acts, events, and conditions, and records of "conclusions" were generally held outside the scope of those Acts. 98 While records containing opinions and conclusions are admissible under Rule 803(6), 99 such records are subject to other provisions of the Rules concerning expert opinion testimony. 1

The Rule also departs from the Model Act in that the exemption created by Rule 803(6) does not apply where the source of information, the method, or the circumstances of the preparation of the record in question indicates untrustworthiness. Under the Model Act, there is no general provision requiring a record to be trustworthy; circumstances other than those required for the foundation for admission of the record go to the weight of the record but not its admissibility. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 97. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 98. §§ 1295, 1297.

Footnote 99. State ex rel. Miller v Tucson Assoc. Ltd. Partnership (App) 165 Ariz 519, 799 P2d 860, 57 Ariz Adv Rep 84.

Footnote 1. McCabe v R.A. Manning Constr. Co. (Wyo) 674 P2d 699.

Footnote 2. § 1294.

§ 1302 What constitutes a record

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 803(6) the evidence must consist of a memorandum, report, record, or data compilation, in any form, of acts, events, conditions, opinions, or diagnoses. 3 Although the scope of this provision is broad, it is not unlimited; for example, the exception does not embrace operating or procedural manuals, which are not records of any act, transaction, occurrence, or event as required by the Rule. 4 Even records of a particular occurrence, such as theft of property from the business, are not within the Rule where it is not the regular practice of the business to make such records. 5 It is not the name of a record that renders it within or without the business records exception, and the fact that a witness refers to records as "corporate records" does not demonstrate that they fall within Rule 803(6). 6

Personal business records are within the scope of Rule 803(6) if they are systematically checked and regularly and continually maintained. 7 For example, while desk calendars in which entries may or may not appear at the whim of the writer do not ordinarily have the sort of regularity that supports a reliable inference, they may be business records if they are maintained regularly without regard to the events subject to the trial and if there is a demonstrable pattern of inclusion or exclusion. 8

Even records of illegal enterprises have been held admissible, 9 the theory being that the records, although not used or relied on by other employees or required to be kept, were kept as part of a business activity and were unlikely to be falsified. 10

§ 1302 ----What constitutes a record [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Right sides of Western Union "to- send-money" forms were admissible business records to support government's charge that defendant laundered money and engaged in continuing criminal enterprise; testimony established customary procedure Western Union agents followed in entering information onto that side of form and how unique ten-digit money transfer control number is assigned to each transfer. United States v Cestnik (1994, CA10 Wyo) 36 F3d 904.

In action by employee against employer for injuries resulting from explosion, advertising brochure describing asphalt dip vat as using vapor phase heating process, and three pieces of correspondence indicating company was ordering correct amount of heat transfer liquid were properly admitted as business records, even though documents were not discovered until three weeks into trial, where letters and brochure shed light on significant matters in controversy, and were surprises to all parties; four days adjournment for preparation following discovery of documents was adequate. Hurlbut v Conoco, Inc. (1993) 253 Kan 515, 856 P2d 1313, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 13652.

Footnotes

Footnote 3. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 4. Seattle-First Nat. Bank v Randall (CA9 Or) 532 F2d 1291, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1124, 19 UCCRS 228 (bank's loan manual setting out lending guidelines).

Footnote 5. People v Bettistea, 173 Mich App 106, 434 NW2d 138.

Footnote 6. United States v Johnson (CA9 Ariz) 594 F2d 1253, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 663, 50 ALR Fed 310, cert den 444 US 964, 62 L Ed 2d 376, 100 S Ct 451.

Footnote 7. Keogh v Commissioner (CA9) 713 F2d 496, 83-2 USTC ¶ 9539, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1594, 52 AFTR 2d 83-5881 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Anastasato v Commissioner (CA3) 794 F2d 884, 86-2 USTC ¶ 9529, 58 AFTR 2d 86-5349).

Footnote 8. United States v Ramsey (CA7 Ill) 785 F2d 184, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 58, cert den 476 US 1186, 91 L Ed 2d 552, 106 S Ct 2924.

Footnote 9. United States v Foster (CA9 Cal) 711 F2d 871, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1883, cert den 465 US 1103, 80 L Ed 2d 132, 104 S Ct 1602.

Footnote 10. United States v Hedman (CA7 Ill) 630 F2d 1184, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1105, cert den 450 US 965, 67 L Ed 2d 614, 101 S Ct 1481.

§ 1303 --Computerized records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

If the requirements of Rule 803(6) are met, computerized records are admissible under the Rule. 11 However, it has been said that the foundation for admissibility of computer business records includes proof that they are kept pursuant to a routine procedure designed to assure their accuracy, they are created for motives that tend to assure accuracy, and are not prepared for litigation, and they are not themselves mere accumulations of hearsay. 12 The original source of the computer program may also have to be delineated. 13 It may be necessary also to show that the computer equipment used was of a standard type. 14 It is not, however, necessary to show that the security system by which access to the computer is controlled is absolutely airtight. 15

◆ Observation: The requirement that computer records not be prepared for litigation in order to be admissible under Rule 803(6) should probably be understood as meaning that the records should not have been created for the purpose of litigation. Where records are created and stored in a computer in the ordinary course of business and not in anticipation of litigation, the fact that a printout of the records is created for the purpose of litigation does not render the records inadmissible. 16

While the foundation witness need not be the person who prepared or supervised the preparation of the record, 17 the witness should be able to describe the method and circumstances by which the computer record was prepared, to establish that the record is

◆ Practice guide: Appropriate discovery should be undertaken well in advance of trial concerning the reliability of computerized evidence that may be used later, and such discovery will usually include inquiry into the accuracy of the underlying source materials, the procedures for storage and processing, and some testing of the reliability of the results obtained. 19

§ 1303 --Computerized records [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Admissibility of computer-generated evidence, 14 Constr Lawyer 3:1 (1994).

Admissibility of computer-produced statements, 67 Law Inst J 611 (1993).

Case authorities:

Printout of computerized driving records are admissible if properly certified. Hodges v City of Hoover (1994, Ala App) 647 So 2d 39.

Computer printout of defendant's rap sheet was admissible in criminal prosecution as official record over hearsay objection where printout was clearly identified as "CLETS [California Law Enforcement Telecommunications System] Data Base Response" and bore certification from county district attorney's office that it was received from CLETS. People v Dunlap (1993, 5th Dist) 18 Cal App 4th 1468, 23 Cal Rptr 2d 204, 93 CDOS 7174, 93 Daily Journal DAR 12165, review den People v Dunlap (1993, Cal) 1994 Cal LEXIS 6445.

In action by franchisor of retail pharmacies against franchisees, computer-generated monthly document, prepared by franchisor, summarizing license fees based upon sales reports submitted by licensee was properly admitted as business exception to hearsay where executive vice president testified that, although he did not have personal knowledge of exhibit, that document was prepared in ordinary course of business by person with knowledge of information recorded, and that it was stored in computer system near or at time individual license fees were due. Medicine Shoppe Int'l v Mehra (1994, Mo App) 882 SW2d 709.

In action by pedestrians injured when they were struck by automobile, computer printouts of insurance records were not admissible where insurer failed to lay proper foundation regarding methods used to record information, sources of information, time of preparation, and procedures for entering and retrieving information. Tomassini v Saunders (1994, Law Div) 274 NJ Super 203, 643 A2d 665.

In robbery prosecution, computer print-out from state motor vehicle department, showing registration of specified vehicle, was admissible under business record exception to hearsay rule, where print-out was properly authenticated by custodian. State v Fontenot (1993, La App 1st Cir) 618 So 2d 915, cert den (La) 623 So 2d 1332.

Footnotes

Footnote 11. United States v Sanders (CA5 Tex) 749 F2d 195, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1274; United States v Croft (CA7 Wis) 750 F2d 1354, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1141; Phoenix v Com/Systems, Inc. (CA9 Ariz) 706 F2d 1033, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 557; Minor v State (Miss) 379 So 2d 495; Richards on behalf of Westside Supply Co. v Arthalloney, 216 Neb 11, 342 NW2d 642, 38 UCCRS 234; State v Ben-Neth, 34 Wash App 600, 663 P2d 156.

Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, FRE, Rule 803.

Law Reviews: Peritz, Computer Data and Reliability: A Call for Authentication of Business Records Under the Federal Rules of Evidence. 80 Northw U LR 956, (Winter 1986).

Annotation: Admissibility of computerized private business records, 7 ALR4th 8.

Practice References Admissibility of Computerized Business Records. 14 Am Jur POF2d 173.

Computer Printouts as Evidence. 16 Am Jur POF 273.

Texts Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 449.

Footnote 12. Capital Marine Supply, Inc. v M/V Roland Thomas, II (CA5 La) 719 F2d 104, 1984 AMC 905, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 731; United States v Glasser (CA11 Fla) 773 F2d 1553, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1336 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Penta (CA1 Mass) 898 F2d 815, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1325).

Footnote 13. United States v Scholle (CA8 Minn) 553 F2d 1109, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1374, cert den 434 US 940, 54 L Ed 2d 300, 98 S Ct 432 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Bowman (CA8 Minn) 798 F2d 333, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 476) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Smith (App DC) 296 US App DC 100, 964 F2d 1221, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 920) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Blackburn (CA7 Ind) 992 F2d 666, 36 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1328).

But see United States v Dababneh (NMCMR) 28 MJ 929 (stating that it is unnecessary to burden computer-generated business records with foundational requirements other than those which exist for other classes of business records).

Manual for Complex Litigation 2d § 3.50 (1977).

Footnote 14. Eastman v Department of Public Aid (2d Dist) 178 Ill App 3d 993, 128 Ill Dec 276, 534 NE2d 458; Allen v State (Ind) 439 NE2d 615, appeal after remand (Ind) 453 NE2d 1011; State v Jones (La App 3d Cir) 544 So 2d 1209.

Footnote 15. United States v Glasser (CA11 Fla) 773 F2d 1553, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1336 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Penta (CA1 Mass) 898 F2d 815, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1325).

Footnote 16. United States v Sanders (CA5 Tex) 749 F2d 195, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv

1274; United States v Briscoe (CA7 Ill) 896 F2d 1476, 30 Fed Rules Evid Serv 831, cert den 498 US 863, 112 L Ed 2d 137, 111 S Ct 173.

Footnote 17. United States v Fendley (CA5 Tex) 522 F2d 181, 76-1 USTC ¶ 9110, 75-2 USTC ¶ 9754, 36 AFTR 2d 75-6238; United States v Miller (CA9 Idaho) 771 F2d 1219, 1985-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 66775, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 647.

Footnote 18. United States v Croft (CA7 Wis) 750 F2d 1354, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1141.

Footnote 19. Manual for Complex Litigation 2d § 21.446.

§ 1304 Requirement that record be made in course of regularly conducted business activity

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

A "regularly conducted business activity" under Rule 803(6) includes the activities of businesses, institutions, associations, professions, occupations, and callings of every kind, whether or not conducted for profit. 20 A state prison is a "business" within the meaning of Rule 803(6), 21 as are condominium associations 22 government agencies, 23 and institutions and associations such as schools, churches, and hospitals. 24 The form or type of business organization does not matter; the Rule encompasses sole proprietorships 25 as well as corporations. 26

§ 1304 ----Requirement that record be made in course of regularly conducted business activity [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Computer printouts of collection memos pertaining to defendant's accounts were properly admitted as business records in prosecution for credit card fraud since they were reports or records made either during telephone conversations between collections department and defendant or immediately following them, they were made and kept in course of regularly conducted business activity, i.e., telephonic inquiry of delinquent credit card accounts, and it was credit card company's regular practice to record such calls. United States v Goodchild (1994, CA1 NH) 25 F3d 55.

Accountant's notes of meeting at which redemption of his clients' shares were discussed were admissible under business records exception to hearsay rule where accountant testified that notes were prepared by him in course of his accounting and consulting business, that it was his practice to take notes at meetings, and that he initialed and dated meeting notes in upper-right-corner, that he prepared notes in his capacity as client's accountant and consultant in transaction, and that notes were located in appropriate file in his office. Hoselton v Metz Baking Co. (1995, CA8 Iowa) 48 F3d 1056, reh den (1995, CA8 Iowa) 1995 US App LEXIS 6326.

Automobile dealers' documents, including certificates of title, purchase orders, and odometer statements, were properly admitted as business records in defendant's trial on charge of possessing stolen automobiles since they were kept in regular course of dealers' business; even though dealers did not create documents, dealers relied on documents' identification of individual cars in keeping track of their cars, and although witnesses who testified concerning them were not employees of dealers at time of testifying, they were employees when cars were stolen. United States v Childs (1993, CA9 Ariz) 5 F3d 1328, 93 CDOS 7242, 93 Daily Journal DAR 12315, 37 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1344.

Police property receipt for weapon was properly admitted into evidence under business records exception where government established that its regular and customary practice was to fill out property receipt for any type of evidence. United States v Brown (1993, CA11 Fla) 9 F3d 907, 7 FLW Fed C 1081.

Admission of routinely and mechanically kept INS records, such as I-194 form and warrants of deportations, does not violate rule; such records, prepared long before alleged offense and relied on in daily INS operations, do not raise hearsay concerns. United States v Agustino- Hernandez (1994, CA11 Fla) 14 F3d 42, 38 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1365, 7 FLW Fed C 1207.

In action by manufacturer against steel supplier alleging breach of contract and negligence, trial court did not commit reversible error in admitting test report of chemical analysis of steel prepared by independent lab for customer under business record exception to hearsay rule, where report was record acquired and maintained by customer in regular course of business. Precision Steel Warehouse, Inc. v Anderson-Martin Mach. Co. (1993) 313 Ark 258, 854 SW2d 321, reh den 313 Ark 272A, 856 SW2d 306.

Letter containing proposal to company for installation of clinical system software program was properly admitted as means of assisting assessment of damages where proposal had been received in ordinary course of business, and was type of proposal defendant often received in business dealings. Hauser v Rose Health Care Sys. (1993, Colo App) 857 P2d 524, cert den (Colo) 1993 Colo LEXIS 729.

Footnotes

Footnote 20. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 21. Stone v Morris (CA7 Ill) 546 F2d 730, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 246.

Footnote 22. Chateau Chaumont Condominium Asso. v Aspen Title Co. (Colo App) 676 P2d 1246.

Footnote 23. Thirsk v Ethicon, Inc. (Colo App) 687 P2d 1315, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10225 (Food and Drug Administration); State v Nowakowski, 67 Wis 2d 545, 227 NW2d 697 (ovrld on other grounds by State v Petrone, 161 Wis 2d 530, 468 NW2d 676) (county highway committee).

But see United States v American Cyanamid Co. (SD NY) 427 F Supp 859, 1977-1 CCH

Trade Cases ¶ 61408, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 672 (Rule 803(8), rather than Rule 803(6), determines whether government records are inadmissible as hearsay).

Footnote 24. Conference Committee Report No. 93-1597 (1974) p 11.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 446.

Footnote 25. United States v McPartlin (CA7 Ill) 595 F2d 1321, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 416, cert den 444 US 833, 62 L Ed 2d 43, 100 S Ct 65; United States v Goins (CA8 Mo) 593 F2d 88, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1164, cert den 444 US 827, 62 L Ed 2d 35, 100 S Ct 52.

Footnote 26. Sparta Sportsfabrikk v NorTur, Inc. (Minn App) 407 NW2d 128.

§ 1305 Requirement that keeping of record be regular practice of business

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Rule 803(6) requires for the admissibility of a business record that it be the regular practice of the business to keep the record in question. 27 The Rule is not satisfied if any of the participants in the making of the record is outside the pattern of regularity of activity. 28 If the supplier of the information does not act in the regular course, an essential link is broken, 29 and the gap can be bridged only if his or her statement is admissible under some other hearsay exception. 30

The Rule includes records pertaining to matters in which the business is a direct participant, 31 but not records outside the usual practice of the business, 32 or records made solely for purposes of the pending litigation. 33

◆ Comment: Records prepared for the purpose of litigation are also subject to exclusion on the grounds that this circumstance renders them untrustworthy. 34 However, a compilation of data previously recorded in the ordinary course of business and not in anticipation of litigation, and not otherwise excludable, will be admitted even though the compilation has been prepared for the purposes of litigation. 35

§ 1305 ----Requirement that keeping of record be regular practice of business [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Pretrial services agency's reports containing two telephone numbers given to agency by narcotics conspirators as their own at time of their arrest were properly admitted as business records since government showed that it was standard practice for agency to record phone numbers given by defendants, and government did not seek to prove that phone numbers were actually those of defendant's accomplices, only that they matched those on back of business card in defendant's possession at time of his arrest. United States v Cicero (1994, App DC) 22 F3d 1156, cert den (1994, US) 1994 US LEXIS 6810.

Footnotes

Footnote 27. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 28. United States v Snyder (CA10 Kan) 787 F2d 1429, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 687, cert den 479 US 836, 93 L Ed 2d 78, 107 S Ct 134; Farmers Union Oil Co. v Wood (ND) 301 NW2d 129.

Footnote 29. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803(6).

Footnote 30. White Industries, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (WD Mo) 611 F Supp 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 321, later proceeding (WD Mo) 657 F Supp 687, affd (CA8 Mo) 845 F2d 1497, 1988-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67992, cert den 488 US 856, 102 L Ed 2d 118, 109 S Ct 146.

As to the admissibility of a business record where the source of information in the report is under no duty to report such information, see § 1306.

Footnote 31. United States v Holladay (CA5 Miss) 566 F2d 1018, 78-1 USTC ¶ 9218, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 948, reh den (CA5 Miss) 573 F2d 1309 and cert den 439 US 831, 58 L Ed 2d 125, 99 S Ct 108 (notebooks of gasoline sales kept at gas station); United States v Smith (CA9 Ariz) 609 F2d 1294, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 477, 61 ALR Fed 346 (hotel registration and billing records); Gibbs v State Farm Mut. Ins. Co. (CA9 Cal) 544 F2d 423, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 566 (memoranda prepared by insurer relating to insurance claim).

Footnote 32. United States v Simmons (CA4 Md) 773 F2d 1455, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 526 (government forms filled out by gunmaker disclosing place of manufacture of weapons were not admissible because forms were not made for regular business purpose nor completed at time weapons were manufactured).

Corporate memoranda setting forth history of certain transactions were inadmissible because it was not regular business practice to make memoranda dealing with history of contracts. United States v Lemire, 232 US App DC 100, 720 F2d 1327, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 833, cert den 467 US 1226, 81 L Ed 2d 874, 104 S Ct 2678.

Footnote 33. Johnson & Johnson v W. L. Gore & Associates, Inc. (DC Del) 436 F Supp 704, 195 USPQ 487; United States v Kim, 193 US App DC 370, 595 F2d 755 (disapproved on other grounds by Ohio v Roberts, 448 US 56, 65 L Ed 2d 597, 100 S Ct 2531, 17 Ohio Ops 3d 240, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1) as stated in United States v Hines (AFCMR) 18 MJ 729; Atty. Gen. v John A. Biewer Co., 140 Mich App 1, 363 NW2d 712; Hunter v Bozeman, 216 Mont 251, 700 P2d 184, 27 BNA WH Cas 819, 102 CCH LC ¶ 55508.

Where, in an action on an account, exhibit consisting of an invoice was prepared shortly before trial and was not prepared in the ordinary course of business, exhibit was not within the business records exception to the hearsay rule and was inadmissible.

American Secur. Service, Inc. v Baumann (Franklin Co) 32 Ohio App 2d 237, 61 Ohio Ops 2d 256, 289 NE2d 373.

Footnote 34. § 1313.

Footnote 35. United States v Sanders (CA5 Tex) 749 F2d 195, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1274.

§ 1306 --Business duty of persons providing or transmitting information

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

For a business record to be admissible under Rule 803(6), 36 all persons transmitting the information contained in the record, including the person furnishing the information to be recorded, must have been acting under a business duty to the business activity in question. If any such person is not acting under a business duty, his or her contribution to the record must be brought within some other exception to the rule against hearsay if the record is to be admitted. 37

◆ Observation: An employee or agent of the business activity will ordinarily be considered as acting under a business duty to transmit information, while a mere volunteer or bystander lacking any ongoing business relationship with the business activity will not be. The required business duty may also arise between two independent business entities, at least where there is a binding, continuing contractual agreement for the transmittal of information between the entities and the more general circumstances surrounding the entities' relationship do not suggest a lack of trustworthiness. 38

◆ Comment: While a record based on information supplied by one who is under no business duty can be excluded from evidence as not complying with the requirement of Rule 803(6) that the record be kept in the course of a regularly conducted business activity, such a record may also be challenged on the grounds that this circumstance renders it untrustworthy. 39

Footnotes

Footnote 36. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 37. White Industries, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (WD Mo) 611 F Supp 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 321, later proceeding (WD Mo) 657 F Supp 687, affd (CA8 Mo) 845 F2d 1497, 1988-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67992, cert den 488 US 856, 102 L Ed 2d 118, 109 S Ct 146.

As to the admissibility of a record based on information supplied by one with no business duty to supply it, see § 1308.

Footnote 38. White Industries, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (WD Mo) 611 F Supp 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 321, later proceeding (WD Mo) 657 F Supp 687, affd (CA8 Mo) 845 F2d 1497, 1988-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67992, cert den 488 US 856, 102 L Ed 2d 118, 109 S Ct 146.

Footnote 39. § 1313.

§ 1307 Personal knowledge requirement

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under Rule 803(6) the source of the information recorded in the record in question must be a person with personal knowledge. 40 The "with knowledge" language of Rule 803(6) must be read as incorporating the first-hand knowledge requirement of Rule 602, that is, the information recorded must have originated with someone who had first-hand knowledge of it. 41 The others involved in the chain of transmission of the information to the ultimate record, including the person who physically causes the record to be made, need not have such knowledge. 42

It is not required for admission of a business record under Rule 803(6) that the party seeking to introduce the record produce or identify the person upon whose firsthand knowledge the record was based. 43 It is not invariably necessary that the identity of the original informant be established, 44 as long as the court can determine from some appropriate source—from the document itself or from external evidence, either direct or circumstantial or both, or from some combination of these things—that this foundation element has been met. 45

§ 1307 ----Personal knowledge requirement [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

County Attorney could authenticate arrest records admitted under Rule 803(6) even though he was not county attorney at time where records were made; he was qualified witness since he could explain system of recordkeeping and vouch that requirements of Rule 803(6) were met, and he was not required to have personal knowledge of recordkeeping practice or circumstances under which records objected to were kept. United States v Box (1995, CA5 Tex) 50 F3d 345.

Footnotes

Footnote 40. United States v Vacca (ED Pa) 431 F Supp 807, 77-2 USTC ¶ 9675, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1006, 40 AFTR 2d 77-5047, affd without op (CA3 Pa) 571 F2d 573; United States v Reese (CA6 Mich) 568 F2d 1246, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 871; Schmutz v

Bolles (Colo) 800 P2d 1307, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 12650; Hardesty v Corrova (Franklin Co) 27 Ohio App 3d 332, 27 Ohio BR 389, 501 NE2d 81, motion overr.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 446.

Footnote 41. White Industries, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (WD Mo) 611 F Supp 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 321, later proceeding (WD Mo) 657 F Supp 687, affd (CA8 Mo) 845 F2d 1497, 1988-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67992, cert den 488 US 856, 102 L Ed 2d 118, 109 S Ct 146 (Dun and Bradstreet Reports not admissible as business records because information contained therein not shown to have originated with source which had both first hand knowledge and business duty to report information to Dun and Bradstreet).

Footnote 42. Lewis v Baker (CA2 NY) 526 F2d 470; United States v Lemmons (CA6 Mich) 527 F2d 662, cert den 429 US 817, 50 L Ed 2d 77, 97 S Ct 60; United States v Ahrens (CA8 Ark) 530 F2d 781, 76-1 USTC ¶ 9241, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 535, 37 AFTR 2d 76-854; Stern v Gad (Fla App D3) 575 So 2d 258.

Footnote 43. Capital Marine Supply, Inc. v M/V Roland Thomas, II (CA5 La) 719 F2d 104, 1984 AMC 905, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 731; United States v Keplinger (CA7 Ill) 776 F2d 678, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 796, cert den 476 US 1183, 91 L Ed 2d 548, 106 S Ct 2919; United States v Flenoid (CA8 Mo) 718 F2d 867, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 614 (criticized by United States v Blue (CA4 NC) 957 F2d 106).

Footnote 44. Teac Corp. of America v Bauer (Colo App) 678 P2d 3.

Footnote 45. White Industries, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (WD Mo) 611 F Supp 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 321, later proceeding (WD Mo) 657 F Supp 687, affd (CA8 Mo) 845 F2d 1497, 1988-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67992, cert den 488 US 856, 102 L Ed 2d 118, 109 S Ct 146.

§ 1308 Admission of record containing hearsay outside the scope of Rule 803(6)

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Whenever a business record is prepared by one person in reliance on information supplied by another, double hearsay is involved, and if more than one person transmits the information before it is ultimately recorded, it is more accurate to speak of multiple hearsay. As long as every person in the chain of transmission is acting under a business duty in the regular course of a regularly conducted business, such multiple hearsay is excused by Rule 803(6) without resort to any other exception to the rule against hearsay. 46 But where the information in the record is originally supplied by an outsider to the business under no duty to supply such information, the record is not admissible under Rule 803(6) to prove the truth of the matters stated in it unless the outsider's statement fits within some other hearsay exception under the Rules. 47 Statements by an outsider upon which a business record is based may overcome a hearsay objection on a number of grounds, such as the admissions doctrine and the exceptions for present sense impressions, dying declarations, and declarations against interest, 48 state-of-mind statements, 49 the exception for statements aimed at medical diagnosis or treatment, 50 or the residual hearsay exception contained in Rule 803(24). 51 If the record prepared by one business contains records prepared by another business, the outsider's statement may itself be within the business records exception; 52 in such a situation, it must be shown that the records of both businesses satisfy the requirements of the exception. 53

◆ Reminder: As is generally true of statements or documents containing hearsay, the fact that a business record contains hearsay will not render it inadmissible if it is introduced not for the truth of the hearsay it contains but for some other purpose. 54

Footnotes

Footnote 46. Wilson v Zapata Off-Shore Co. (CA5 Tex) 939 F2d 260, 56 BNA FEP Cas 1051, 57 CCH EPD ¶ 40942, 33 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1034; United States v Baker, 224 US App DC 68, 693 F2d 183, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1550.

Footnote 47. United States v Beasley (CA5 Ala) 513 F2d 309, reh den (CA5 Ala) 521 F2d 815 and appeal after remand (CA5 Ala) 545 F2d 403, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 263, on reh (CA5 Ala) 563 F2d 1225; United States v Yates (CA6 Ohio) 553 F2d 518, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 948; United States v Pazsint (CA9 Alaska) 703 F2d 420, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1576; United States v Plum (CA10 Utah) 558 F2d 568, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 129; State v McGann, 132 Ariz 296, 645 P2d 811.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 448.

Footnote 48. United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437.

Footnote 49. United States v Keane (CA7 Ill) 522 F2d 534, cert den 424 US 976, 47 L Ed 2d 746, 96 S Ct 1481, (disapproved on other grounds by McNally v United States, 483 US 350, 97 L Ed 2d 292, 107 S Ct 2875) as stated in United States v Runnels (CA6 Mich) 833 F2d 1183, 126 BNA LRRM 2789.

Footnote 50. United States v Sackett (CA2 NY) 598 F2d 739, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 872.

Footnote 51. United States v Pfeiffer (CA8 Mo) 539 F2d 668, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561.

Law Reviews: Egan & Cunningham, Admission of Business Records into Evidence: Using the Business Records Exception and Other Techniques. 30 Duquesne L Rev 205 (Winter 1992).

Annotation: Uniform Evidence Rule 803(24): the residual hearsay exception, 51 ALR4th 999.

Admissibility of statement under Rule 803(24) of Federal Rules of Evidence, providing for admissibility of hearsay statement not covered by any specific exception but having equivalent circumstantial guaranties of trustworthiness, 36 ALR Fed 742 § 6.

Footnote 52. United States v Flom (CA5 Fla) 558 F2d 1179, 1977-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 61618, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 451; Grogg v Missouri P. R. Co. (CA8 Ark) 841 F2d 210, 24 Fed Rules Evid Serv 928; United States v Carranco (CA10 Colo) 551 F2d 1197, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1341.

Footnote 53. United States v Davis (CA5 Ga) 571 F2d 1354, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 761; United States v Carranco (CA10 Colo) 551 F2d 1197, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1341.

Footnote 54. In re Japanese Elec. Prods. Antitrust Litig. (CA3 Pa) 723 F2d 238, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65757, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 401, rev'd on other grounds, remanded 475 US 574, 89 L Ed 2d 538, 106 S Ct 1348, 1986-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67004, 4 FR Serv 3d 368 and (criticized on other grounds by Pfeiffer v Marion Ctr. Area Sch. Dist. (CA3 Pa) 917 F2d 779, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 675); State v McGann, 132 Ariz 296, 645 P2d 811.

§ 1309 Contemporaneity requirement

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

To be admissible under Rule 803(6), a business record must be made at or near the time of the event or occurrence recorded. 55 An audit report, to satisfy this requirement, must be made at or near the time of the examination of the records upon which it is based, but not at or near the time when the transactions shown in such records occurred. 56 The fact that a computer printout of a record is made much later than the transaction recorded does not disqualify the record from admission, as such a printout is not the record itself, but rather the means by which the record is made available for perusal. 57 The presence of nonsequential entries in a business record does not prevent the proponent of the record from showing that it was made at or near the time of the transactions recorded. 58

◆ Practice guide: If the record itself shows that it was made at or near the time of the event recorded, the authenticating witness need not testify from personal knowledge to that fact. 59

Footnotes

Footnote 55. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 56. Wildwood Contractors v Thompson-Holloway Real Estate Agency, 17 Ark App 169, 705 SW2d 897.

Footnote 57. Brown v J.C. Penney Co., 297 Or 695, 688 P2d 811.

Footnote 58. United States v McPartlin (CA7 Ill) 595 F2d 1321, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 416, cert den 444 US 833, 62 L Ed 2d 43, 100 S Ct 65.

§ 1310 Necessity of foundation; who may testify as to foundation

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The mere presence of a document in the files of a business entity does not qualify that document as a record of regularly conducted activity; there must be proof which satisfies the foundational elements of Rule 803(6). 60 The foundation may be established by the testimony of the regular custodian of the business record, 61 the person who supervised its preparation, 62 or anyone who is familiar with the manner in which the record was prepared. 63 While the foundation may be laid by one who has firsthand knowledge of the matter recorded, 64 it is not necessary that the witness have such firsthand knowledge, 65 or that the witness either prepared 66 or even observed the preparation 67 of the record. A witness can lay a proper foundation for receipt of a business record even if it was made before his or her employment began. 68 A proper foundation can be laid by a person outside the organization as long as the witness is familiar with the recordkeeping system. 69 The essential point is that the witness explain the recordkeeping system of his or her organization, thereby establishing the regular practices and procedures surrounding the creation of records. 70

A "wholesale" approach may be taken to authenticating large amounts of business records. The witness or witnesses can provide foundation testimony about all documents at the same time or about large groups of documents by type, as long as the opposing party is allowed to explore particular, relevant documents where he or she finds it necessary to do so. 71

Footnotes

Footnote 60. White Industries, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (WD Mo) 611 F Supp 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 321, later proceeding (WD Mo) 657 F Supp 687, affd (CA8 Mo) 845 F2d 1497, 1988-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67992, cert den 488 US 856, 102 L Ed 2d 118, 109 S Ct 146; Marshall Trucking Co. v State, 23 Ark App 110, 743 SW2d 16; Crosby v Paxson Electric Co. (Fla App D1) 534 So 2d 787, 13 FLW 2532.

Law Reviews: Arnold, Presenting Business Records as Evidence in Federal Court. 32 Prac Law 19, (June 1986).

Footnote 61. United States v Colyer (CA5 Tex) 571 F2d 941, reh den (CA5 Tex) 576 F2d 1249, cert den 439 US 933, 58 L Ed 2d 328, 99 S Ct 325; Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v Staudinger (CA10 Okla) 797 F2d 908, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 384.

Footnote 62. Wallace Motor Sales, Inc. v American Motor Sales Corp. (CA1 Mass) 780 F2d 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1210; United States v Henneberry (CA8 Mo) 719 F2d 941, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 820, cert den 465 US 1107, 80 L Ed 2d 141, 104 S Ct 1612; State v Ben-Neth, 34 Wash App 600, 663 P2d 156.

Footnote 63. United States v Hathaway (CA6 Mich) 798 F2d 902, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 436; United States v Peters (CA7 Wis) 791 F2d 1270, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1112, cert den 479 US 847, 93 L Ed 2d 106, 107 S Ct 168; United States v Kail (CA8 Minn) 804 F2d 441, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1219.

Footnote 64. Breezy Bay, Inc. v Industria Maquiladora Mexicana, S. A. (Fla App D3) 361 So 2d 440.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 446.

Footnote 65. Wallace Motor Sales, Inc. v American Motor Sales Corp. (CA1 Mass) 780 F2d 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1210; United States v Lawson (CA6 Ohio) 780 F2d 535; United States v Keplinger (CA7 Ill) 776 F2d 678, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 796, cert den 476 US 1183, 91 L Ed 2d 548, 106 S Ct 2919; United States v Miller (CA9 Idaho) 771 F2d 1219, 1985-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 66775, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 647; AMF, Inc. v Mravec (Cuyahoga Co) 2 Ohio App 3d 29, 2 Ohio BR 32, 440 NE2d 600.

Footnote 66. Peter Eckrich & Sons, Inc. v Selected Meat Co. (CA7 Ill) 512 F2d 1158; Cole Oil & Tire Co. v Davis (La App 2d Cir) 567 So 2d 122; State v Ben-Neth, 34 Wash App 600, 663 P2d 156.

Footnote 67. United States v Flom (CA5 Fla) 558 F2d 1179, 1977-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 61618, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 451; United States v Page (CA8 Iowa) 544 F2d 982, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 466.

Footnote 68. United States v Rose (CA7 Ind) 562 F2d 409; Farmers Union Oil Co. v Wood (ND) 301 NW2d 129.

Footnote 69. United States v Hathaway (CA6 Mich) 798 F2d 902, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 436.

Footnote 70. United States v Wables (CA7 Ill) 731 F2d 440, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 394; Farmers Union Oil Co. v Wood (ND) 301 NW2d 129.

Footnote 71. United States v Keplinger (CA7 Ill) 776 F2d 678, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 796, cert den 476 US 1183, 91 L Ed 2d 548, 106 S Ct 2919.

§ 1311 --Foundation in absence of testimony

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Despite the reference in Rule 803(6) to the testimony of the custodian or other qualified witness, 72 such testimony is not required in the occasional case where the requirements for qualification as a business record can be satisfied by documentary evidence, 73 affidavits, 74 or admissions of the parties. 75 Witness testimony is also not required where, from the materials open for the court's consideration, it can make the required finding to its own satisfaction. In the absence of witness testimony as to regularity of the activity and its recordation, the proponent must show regularity of practice in some precise and explicit manner either by external evidence or from the documents themselves plus surrounding circumstances. 76

Satisfaction of the foundation requirements may also be resolved by stipulation. 77

Footnotes

Footnote 72. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 73. United States v Mendel (CA2 NY) 746 F2d 155, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 771, cert den 469 US 1213, 84 L Ed 2d 331, 105 S Ct 1184.

Footnote 74. In re Japanese Elec. Prods. Antitrust Litig. (CA3 Pa) 723 F2d 238, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65757, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 401, revd on other grounds, remanded 475 US 574, 89 L Ed 2d 538, 106 S Ct 1348, 1986-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67004, 4 FR Serv 3d 368 and (criticized on other grounds by Pfeiffer v Marion Ctr. Area Sch. Dist. (CA3 Pa) 917 F2d 779, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 675).

Footnote 75. In re Japanese Elec. Prods. Antitrust Litig. (CA3 Pa) 723 F2d 238, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65757, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 401, revd on other grounds, remanded 475 US 574, 89 L Ed 2d 538, 106 S Ct 1348, 1986-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67004, 4 FR Serv 3d 368 and (criticized on other grounds by Pfeiffer v Marion Ctr. Area Sch. Dist. (CA3 Pa) 917 F2d 779, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 675); Philip Werlein, Ltd. v Daniels (La App 4th Cir) 538 So 2d 722, cert den (La) 543 So 2d 21.

Footnote 76. In re Japanese Elec. Prods. Antitrust Litig. (CA3 Pa) 723 F2d 238, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65757, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 401, revd on other grounds, remanded 475 US 574, 89 L Ed 2d 538, 106 S Ct 1348, 1986-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67004, 4 FR Serv 3d 368 and (criticized on other grounds by Pfeiffer v Marion Ctr. Area Sch. Dist. (CA3 Pa) 917 F2d 779, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 675).

Footnote 77. United States v Renfro (CA6 Mich) 600 F2d 55, 79-2 USTC ¶ 9438, 44 AFTR 2d 79-5279, cert den 444 US 941, 62 L Ed 2d 307, 100 S Ct 294; Ponderosa System, Inc. v Brandt (CA10 Wyo) 767 F2d 668, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1193.

§ 1312 Trustworthiness requirement; circumstances supporting finding that record is trustworthy

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table Go to Supplement
--

Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence expressly authorizes courts to exclude business records where the source of information in the record or the means of preparation of the record indicate lack of trustworthiness. 78

Thus, under the Rule an otherwise qualified business record may be excluded from evidence merely because the court deems it untrustworthy. 79 The party objecting to the admission of a proffered record bears the burden of establishing its untrustworthiness. 80 The court's determination of this issue is an exercise of discretion which will not be disturbed on appeal unless abused. 81

Trustworthiness of a business record is supported by a finding that——the data recorded are important to the business in question outside the litigation context. 82

—the information in the record is corroborated by independent evidence. 83

—the person making the record would not himself be subject to censure or personal liability in connection with the matters reported. 84

—the record contains relatively simple factual information, rather than evaluations or conclusions. 85

—the record was checked for accuracy. 86

—the record was a personal memorandum made by one who had no reason to lie to himself. 87

—the record was actually received during the ordinary course of business. 88

§ 1312 ----Trustworthiness requirement; circumstances supporting finding that record is trustworthy [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Audit report prepared by independent contractor was properly admitted under business records exception, even though it was prepared after Department of Labor suspected defendant of misappropriation of federal funds, since report had business significance apart from its use in prosecuting defendant because contractor was bound to prepare report and was interested in assuring that it was accurate, he had ten years' experience in preparing regulatory compliance reports for DOL, and he was neutral third party with nothing to gain from any possible litigation against defendant. United States v Frazier (1995, CA10 Utah) 53 F3d 1105.

Once a proper predicate is laid for the introduction of medical records under the business record exception to the hearsay rule, the burden is on the opposing party to prove the untrustworthiness of the records, and if the opposing party is unable to carry this burden, the record will be allowed into evidence as a business record, subject to withstanding the test for relevancy, where the defendant in a personal injury case sought introduction of plaintiff's blood alcohol tests as business records. Love v Garcia (1994, Fla) 634 So 2d 158, 19 FLW S 80.

Footnotes

Footnote 78. FRE, Rule 803(6); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(6).

Footnote 79. State v Therriault (Me) 485 A2d 986.

Footnote 80. United States v Tafoya (CA5 Tex) 757 F2d 1522, 85-1 USTC ¶ 9341, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1142, 55 AFTR 2d 85-1501, reh den, en banc (CA5 Tex) 762 F2d 1004 and cert den 474 US 921, 88 L Ed 2d 259, 106 S Ct 252; Anaya v New Mexico State Personnel Bd. (App) 107 NM 622, 762 P2d 909.

Footnote 81. United States v Bonallo (CA9 Or) 858 F2d 1427, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1085, 99 ALR Fed 869; Chalupa v Hartford Fire Ins. Co., 217 Neb 662, 350 NW2d 541; Milwaukee v Allied Smelting Corp. (App) 117 Wis 2d 377, 344 NW2d 523 (disapproved on other grounds by Just v Land Reclamation, Ltd., 155 Wis 2d 737, 456 NW2d 570, 20 ELR 21407).

Footnote 82. United States v Ullrich (CA5 Fla) 580 F2d 765, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 304, reh den (CA5 Fla) 589 F2d 1114; Selig v United States (CA7 Wis) 740 F2d 572, 84-2 USTC ¶ 9696, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 196, 54 AFTR 2d 84-5784.

Footnote 83. United States v Wigerman (CA8 Mo) 549 F2d 1192, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 654.

Footnote 84. Lewis v Baker (CA2 NY) 526 F2d 470.

Footnote 85. United States v Peden (CA5 Tex) 556 F2d 278, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 375, cert den 434 US 871, 54 L Ed 2d 150, 98 S Ct 216.

Footnote 86. United States v Davis (CA8 Ark) 542 F2d 743, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 360, cert den 429 US 1004, 50 L Ed 2d 616, 97 S Ct 537.

Texts Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 447.

Footnote 87. Keogh v Commissioner (CA9) 713 F2d 496, 83-2 USTC ¶ 9539, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1594, 52 AFTR 2d 83-5881 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Anastasato v Commissioner (CA3) 794 F2d 884, 86-2 USTC ¶ 9529, 58 AFTR 2d 86-5349).

Footnote 88. Black Sea & Baltic General Ins. Co. v S.S. Hellenic Destiny (SD NY) 575 F Supp 685, 1984 AMC 1055.

§ 1313 --Circumstances supporting finding that record is not trustworthy

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Motive and opportunity to make an inaccurate report supports a finding that a particular business record is not trustworthy and therefore inadmissible under Rule 803(6). 89 A motivation to misrepresent on the part of the person preparing the record or the person who is the source of the information contained in the record can render the record untrustworthy. 90 Lack of trustworthiness is also indicated where—

—a draft of board meeting minutes is marked, edited, and substantially different from a final copy also offered in evidence. 91

—a foreign document appears to have been tampered with. 92

—the source of the information on which the record was based was under no business duty to report the information. 93

—the record is prepared for the purpose of litigation. 94

◆ Comment: A distinction should be drawn between records created solely for the purpose of litigation and compilations of records previously prepared in the regular course of business and not in anticipation of litigation. Such a compilation is admissible notwithstanding that it has been prepared for the purpose of litigation. 95

Footnotes

Footnote 89. State ex rel. Maeschen v Wittstruck (SD) 377 NW2d 137; Kuhlman, Inc. v G. Heileman Brewing Co., 83 Wis 2d 749, 266 NW2d 382.

Footnote 90. Solomon v Shuell, 435 Mich 104, 457 NW2d 669.

Footnote 91. Lloyd v Professional Realty Services, Inc. (CA11 Ala) 734 F2d 1428, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1340, cert den 469 US 1159, 83 L Ed 2d 922, 105 S Ct 908.

Footnote 92. United States v Castaneda-Reyes (CA11 Fla) 703 F2d 522, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1536, cert den 464 US 856, 78 L Ed 2d 157, 104 S Ct 174.

Footnote 93. United States v Pazzint (CA9 Alaska) 703 F2d 420, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1576, appeal after remand (CA9 Alaska) 728 F2d 411 (calls to automatically-recorded police emergency phone number).

Footnote 94. E. F. Hutton & Co. v Penham (SD NY) 547 F Supp 1286, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 98811, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1345; Paddack v Dave Christensen, Inc. (CA9 Or) 745 F2d 1254, 5 EBC 2542, 117 BNA LRRM 2963, 102 CCH LC ¶ 11228, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1280.

Footnote 95. United States v Sanders (CA5 Tex) 749 F2d 195, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1274.

§ 1314 --Effect of incompleteness or inaccuracy of record

View Entire Section

An attack on the accuracy 96 or the completeness 97 of a business record goes to the weight of the evidence, not its admissibility. 98 The fact that some records are missing does not prevent admission of other records. 99

Footnotes

Footnote 96. Crompton-Richmond Co. v Briggs (CA5 Ga) 560 F2d 1195, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 493; State v Ben-Neth, 34 Wash App 600, 663 P2d 156.

A payroll record of the defendant, a migrant farm worker, was not untrustworthy by virtue of the fact that the defendant's alias was misspelled. Garcia v State (Fla) 564 So 2d 124, 15 FLW S 344.

Proof of one error in an account record did not render the record inadmissible under Rule 803(6). Hardesty v Corrova (Franklin Co) 27 Ohio App 3d 332, 27 Ohio BR 389, 501 NE2d 81, motion overr.

Footnote 97. Crompton-Richmond Co. v Briggs (CA5 Ga) 560 F2d 1195, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 493; Wallace v Target Stores, Inc. (Colo App) 701 P2d 1272, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10583.

Footnote 98. United States v Panza (CA2 NY) 750 F2d 1141, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 339; Crompton-Richmond Co. v Briggs (CA5 Ga) 560 F2d 1195, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 493.

Footnote 99. United States v Panza (CA2 NY) 750 F2d 1141, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 339.

(d). Admissibility of Particular Records as Business Records [1315-1318]

§ 1315 Hospital and medical records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Medical records are admissible under Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and Federal Rules of Evidence where a proper foundation for their admission is laid and the records are not deemed untrustworthy. 1 A patient's medical history is provable by admission under Rule 803(6) of hospital or medical records. 2 Such records may also be received under the Rule to show what procedures were followed in a particular case. 3

In this context it is particularly relevant that Rule 803(6), unlike some prior codifications of the business records exception to the hearsay rule, specifically permits admission of "opinions" and "diagnoses." 4 However, hospital or medical records which contain expressions of expert opinion must comply with applicable law governing expert opinions. 5 Moreover, the general rule excluding reports based on information supplied from outside sources not under a duty to report such information and not within any exception to the hearsay rule 6 applies to medical records, and requires exclusion of expressions of opinion contained in such records which are based on information supplied by an outside source as to the cause of an accident. 7

Even where the jurisdiction adopting Rule 803(6) has deleted the provision pertaining to "opinions and diagnoses," a medical chart, or a general description of a person's physical condition, is within the rule. 8

◆ Observation: Rule 803(4) of the Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence excepts from the hearsay rule statements made by a declarant for the purpose of medical diagnosis or treatment and describing medical history, or past or present symptom, pain, or sensation, or the general character of the cause or external source thereof, insofar as reasonably pertinent to diagnosis or treatment. 9 Although it appears that most of the cases decided under Rule 803(4) have concerned oral testimony as to a declarant's statements, the Rule also applies to a statement by a declarant reported in a medical record. 10

§ 1315 ----Hospital and medical records [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In case by investor who alleged violations of securities laws and various state laws arising out of broker's partial liquidation of his account at clearing broker's direction in order to satisfy margin call, district court did not err in making available to defense counsel and receiving into evidence portions of records of plaintiff's admission to hospital for alcohol abuse at end of period when broker claimed investor sustained his losses by reason of inability to manage his financial affairs. Conway v Icahn & Co. (1994, CA2 NY) 16 F3d 504, motion gr (SD NY) 1994 US Dist LEXIS 5933.

Patient of internist, whose psychiatric records were sought by internist's husband in divorce proceeding, was entitled to statutory psychiatrist-patient privilege, where statutory privilege did not define psychiatrist and where internist was physician to whom county medical health department referred patients for psychiatric treatment; internist testified that she treated one-third of her patients for mental problems and had treated patient in question for mental condition for 2 years. "Psychiatrist" in statutory privilege would be interpreted to mean "a person licensed to practice medicine, or reasonably believed by patient so to be, who devotes a substantial portion of his or her time engaged in the diagnosis and treatment of a mental or emotional condition, including alcohol or drug addiction." Wiles v Wiles (1994, Ga) 448 SE2d 681, 94 Fulton County D R 3335.

Footnotes

Footnote 1. Pieters v B-Right Trucking, Inc. (ND Ind) 669 F Supp 1463, 24 Fed Rules Evid Serv 17; Jaime v Vilberg (Fla App D3) 363 So 2d 386, cert den (Fla) 373 So 2d 462; In re Martin (Minn App) 458 NW2d 700; State v Sellers, 39 Wash App 799, 695 P2d 1014, review den 103 Wash 2d 1036.

As to the admissibility of hospital records under the Uniform Business Records as Evidence Act, see § 1298.

Law Reviews: Shore & Coviello, Medico-Legal Documents: Admissibility & Validity. 7 West St U LR 25, (Fall 1979).

Annotation: Admissibility under business entry statutes of hospital records in criminal case, 69 ALR3d 22.

Admissibility of records other than police reports, under Rule 803(6), Federal Rules of Evidence, providing for business records exception to hearsay rule, 61 ALR Fed 359 §§ 11, 26.

Practice References 15 Am Jur Trials 373, Discovery and Evaluation of Medical Records.

Introducing and Marking Exhibits (hospital and medical records). 5 Am Jur Trials 553 § 21.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 451.

Footnote 2. United States v Sackett (CA2 NY) 598 F2d 739, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 872; Higgins v Martin Marietta Corp. (CA10 Kan) 752 F2d 492, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 588 (letter written by plaintiff's treating physician).

Footnote 3. Ascher v Gutierrez, 175 US App DC 100, 533 F2d 1235 (record of birth as showing anesthesiologist was not in attendance).

Footnote 4. § 1301.

Footnote 5. McDougall v Thomas (DC Dist Col) 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 353.

As to the law of expert opinion, see 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence.

Footnote 6. § 1308.

Footnote 7. General Motors Corp. v Bryant (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 582 SW2d 521, writ ref n r e (Oct 10, 1979).

Annotation: Admissibility of hospital record relating to cause or circumstances of accident or incident in which patient sustained injury, 44 ALR2d 553.

Footnote 8. Van Every v Southeastern Michigan Transp. Authority, 142 Mich App 256, 369 NW2d 875 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Galli v Reutter, 148 Mich App 313, 384 NW2d 43).

Footnote 9. FRE, Rule 803(4), Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(4), generally discussed in § 867.

Footnote 10. United States v Pollard (CA7 Ill) 790 F2d 1309, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1003 (ovrld on other grounds by United States v Sblendorio (CA7 Ill) 830 F2d 1382, 23 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1212).

Annotation: Admissibility of statements made for purposes of medical diagnosis or treatment as hearsay exception under Rule 803(4) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, 55 ALR Fed 689.

§ 1316 Police records and reports

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Police reports are admissible under Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and Federal Rules of Evidence as business records if they meet the requirements of the Rule. However, it has been noted that the nature of police business and the circumstances under which such reports are usually prepared make it unlikely that a particular report will meet those requirements. 11 The stricture of the Rule most likely to disqualify a police report or record from admissibility is the requirement that the person who is the source of the information recorded be acting in the regular course of a business 12 and under a duty to transmit the information recorded. 13 The application of this requirement means that entries in a police report which result from the officer's own observations and knowledge may be admitted under the Rule, but entries based on statements made by persons under no business duty to report may not. 14 The officer making the report generally qualifies as acting in the regular course of his or her business, but the informant does not, and the report cannot come under the Rule unless all participants in the making of the record, including the person furnishing the information to be recorded, act in the regular course of business. 15 This rationale for exclusion of police records applies also to calls to automatically-recorded police emergency phone numbers. 16

It appears that a record of an informant's statements which is offered for a purpose other than proving the truth of those statements (as, for example, merely to show that a statement had been made to the police) is not subject to exclusion on the grounds that the informant was under no duty to make such statements. 17

◆ Observation: Even a report based on an officer's firsthand observations may be objectionable where the report does not qualify for admission as a public record under Rule 803(8)(B). 18

§ 1316 ----Police records and reports [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Police incident reports by son complaining of his mother's intoxication and attempt to get his "bank statement because she needed money" were admissible under business records exception to hearsay rule since police officers who observed scene of which son complained were law enforcement personnel included in Rule 803(8) and reports made by officers were not of adversarial confrontation nature which might cloud their perception. Riff v Clawges (1994, ED Pa) 158 FRD 357.

Court properly refused to admit evidence of voided police arrest report where defendant had not elicited identity of person who made statements in report; statements could not possibly have met requirements of either business record or prior inconsistent statement exceptions to hearsay rule. People v Dananel (1992, 2d Dept) 183 AD2d 778, 584 NYS2d 485, app den 80 NY2d 902, 588 NYS2d 828, 602 NE2d 236.

In a murder prosecution in which a witness testified to the defendant's attempt to rape her several hours after the murder and his statement that she would get the same thing the murder victim got if she opened her mouth, the defendant was properly precluded from introducing into evidence a police report regarding the rape of the witness, notwithstanding his contention that the report contained information that conflicted with the witness's later police report and her trial testimony, since the report was not given under oath and was not signed or adopted by the witness. Commonwealth v Simmons (1995, Pa) 662 A2d 621, application gr (Pa) 1995 Pa LEXIS 1336 and petition for certiorari filed (Dec 14, 1995).

Footnotes

Footnote 11. Moncrief v Detroit, 398 Mich 181, 247 NW2d 783.

Annotation: Admissibility in state court proceedings of police reports as business records, 77 ALR3d 115.

Admissibility of police reports under Federal Business Records Act (Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803, and predecessor amendments), 31 ALR Fed 457.

Footnote 12. §§ 1304, 1305.

Footnote 13. § 1306.

Footnote 14. United States v Pazsint (CA9 Alaska) 703 F2d 420, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1576, appeal after remand (CA9 Alaska) 728 F2d 411; Hewitt v Grand Trunk W. R. Co., 123 Mich App 309, 333 NW2d 264.

Footnote 15. Cleveland v Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. (ND Ohio) 538 F Supp 1257.

Footnote 16. United States v Pazsint (CA9 Alaska) 703 F2d 420, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1576.

Annotation: Admissibility of tape recording or transcript of "911" emergency telephone call, 3 ALR5th 784 § 11.

Footnote 17. State v Ristau (SD) 290 NW2d 487 (where there was no dispute that the accused had killed his parents, tape recording of his telephone call to police, which was made shortly after the killings and which showed the tone and quality of his voice, was properly admitted as a business record for the limited purpose of focusing on the issue of the accused's sanity at time of the killings).

Footnote 18. § 1362.

§ 1317 School records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

School records may be admissible in evidence, notwithstanding their nature as hearsay, under the "business records" exception to the hearsay rule. 19 Records admissible upon satisfaction of the requirements of the exception include—

- attendance records. 20
- report cards. 21
- health records. 22
- enrollment records kept by a school board. 23
- school personnel files. 24
- a record of a student's account receivable at a university. 25
- a report of a faculty committee dealing with racial discrimination at a university. 26

However, the presence of opinions and conclusions within a school record can render it inadmissible under the business records exception. 27

◆ Observation: If the proceeding in which school records are offered in evidence is an administrative proceeding (such as a disciplinary proceeding against a student or teacher), the rule against hearsay may be inapplicable and present no bar to the admission of such records. 28

◆ Practice guide: A school record may also qualify for the "public records" exception to the hearsay rule, 29 or for the residual hearsay exceptions contained in Rules 803(24) and 804(b)(5) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, or substantially identical rules. 30

Footnotes

Footnote 19. Schwarcz v Schwarcz, 378 Pa Super 170, 548 A2d 556, app den 522 Pa 578, 559 A2d 39 and app den 522 Pa 578, 559 A2d 39 and cert den 498 US 815, 112 L

Ed 2d 31, 111 S Ct 56.

As to the admissibility of school records under the "public record" exception to the hearsay rule, see § 1347.

Annotation: Admissibility of school records under hearsay exceptions, 57 ALR4th 1111.

Footnote 20. Simmons v State, 175 Ind App 333, 371 NE2d 1316, 5 ALR4th 1201; In re Welfare of L.Z. (Minn) 396 NW2d 214.

Footnote 21. In re R., 180 Mont 340, 590 P2d 1117.

Footnote 22. Snyder v Beers, 1 Ariz App 497, 405 P2d 288.

Footnote 23. Phillippi v School Dist., 28 Pa Cmwlt 185, 367 A2d 1133.

Footnote 24. United States v Ream (CA5 Tex) 491 F2d 1243; Tschetter v Doland Board of Educ. (SD) 302 NW2d 43 (criticized on other grounds by Dale v Board of Educ. (SD) 316 NW2d 108).

Footnote 25. Administration of Tulane Educational Fund v Waters (La App 5th Cir) 497 So 2d 27, cert den (La) 498 So 2d 16.

Footnote 26. Uzzell v Friday (MD NC) 592 F Supp 1502, later proceeding (MD NC) 618 F Supp 1222.

Footnote 27. Re Welfare of L.Z. (Minn) 396 NW2d 214; Kershaw County Dept. of Social Services v McCaskill, 276 SC 360, 278 SE2d 771.

Footnote 28. Boykins v Fairfield Bd. of Education (CA5 Ala) 492 F2d 697, cert den 420 US 962, 43 L Ed 2d 438, 95 S Ct 1350 (apparently applying Alabama law).

As to the admissibility of hearsay at an administrative hearing, generally, see 2 Am Jur 2d, Administrative Law § 348.

Annotation: Comment Note.—Hearsay evidence in proceedings before state administrative agencies, 36 ALR3d 12.

Comment Note.—Hearsay evidence in proceedings before federal administrative agencies, 6 ALR Fed 76.

Footnote 29. § 1347.

Footnote 30. United States v Hitsman (CA5 Fla) 604 F2d 443, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1533.

As to the residual hearsay exceptions, generally, see §§ 683-689, 701-703.

§ 1318 Operating or procedural manuals; safety codes

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence generally does not embrace such things as operating or procedural manuals, or codes setting safety, procedural, or product standards, even though such documents are produced by businesses or business associations, for the reasons that such documents do not assess particular matters (the "acts, events, conditions, opinions, or diagnoses" mentioned in the Rule), and they generally are not prepared "at or near" the time of the event which is the subject of the litigation. 31

◆ Observation: A privately printed safety code or standard may under proper circumstances qualify for the "learned treatise" exception to the hearsay rule contained in Rule 803(18). 32

Footnotes

Footnote 31. Seattle-First Nat. Bank v Randall (CA9 Or) 532 F2d 1291, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1124, 19 UCCRS 228 (bank's manual setting forth lending guidelines was properly excluded as not within Rule 803(6)).

See also Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 446 (noting that such documents are not written on a regular or recurring basis).

As to the admissibility of privately issued safety codes or standards, generally, see § 1415.

As to the admissibility of safety codes issued by government bodies, see § 1346.

Footnote 32. As to Rule 803(18), generally, see § 1416.

(e). Evidentiary Effect of Absence of Business Record [1319]

§ 1319 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 803(7) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, a litigant may prove the nonoccurrence or nonexistence of a matter by evidence that the matter is not included in the memoranda, reports, records, or data compilations, in any form, kept in accordance with the provisions of Rule 803(6), if the matter was of a kind of which a memorandum, report, record, or data compilation was regularly made and preserved, unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness. 33 The Rule may be invoked to show the nonoccurrence of unusual as well as routine events. 34

◆ Comment: The absence of an entry in a record system probably is not hearsay as defined by Rule 801 of the Uniform and Federal Rules, although pre-Rules decisions can be found which characterize such evidence as hearsay and hold it not within any exception to the hearsay rule. 35

For the application of Rule 803(7) to prove that a particular event or transaction never took place, it is necessary to show that records of the sort of transaction involved are ordinarily kept in written form. 36 The "trustworthiness" requirement of the Rule relates to the thoroughness or diligence with which the records were searched before concluding that the particular record sought does not exist. 37 Although the Rule does not specifically require the testimony of a custodian of the records or other qualified witness to lay a foundation for receipt of evidence under the Rule, it has been assumed that such a foundation is a necessary predicate for admission of such evidence. 38 However, it is not necessary to call to the stand all persons with access to the records who could have supplied the "missing" item. 39 Moreover, the failure to lay any foundation is not plain error requiring reversal absent some evidence suggesting that the records are unreliable. 40

◆ Practice guide: If a foundation is deemed necessary, it may be laid by a custodian of the records, or some other person who has personally checked the records. 41

Footnotes

Footnote 33. FRE, Rule 803(7); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(7).

Footnote 34. United States v Gentry (CA7 Ill) 925 F2d 186, reh den (CA7) 1991 US App LEXIS 4035 (in prosecution for making false report of food tampering, admission of testimony from employee of candy manufacturer that there were no reports of pins in candy other than that made by accused was proper under Rule 803(7) to show nonoccurrence of tampering).

Footnote 35. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803.

Footnote 36. Fury Imports, Inc. v Shakespeare Co. (CA5 Fla) 554 F2d 1376, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 92, appeal after remand (CA5 Fla) 625 F2d 585, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1125, reh den (CA5 Fla) 631 F2d 1189 and cert den 450 US 921, 67 L Ed 2d 349, 101 S Ct 1369.

Footnote 37. United States v Robinson (CA2 Conn) 544 F2d 110, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 399, cert den 434 US 1050, 54 L Ed 2d 803, 98 S Ct 901.

Footnote 38. United States v Rich (CA9 Wash) 580 F2d 929, cert den 439 US 935, 58 L Ed 2d 331, 99 S Ct 330.

Footnote 39. United States v Zeidman (CA7 Ill) 540 F2d 314, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 609.

Footnote 40. United States v Rich (CA9 Wash) 580 F2d 929, cert den 439 US 935, 58 L Ed 2d 331, 99 S Ct 330.

Footnote 41. United States v Rich (CA9 Wash) 580 F2d 929, cert den 439 US 935, 58 L Ed 2d 331, 99 S Ct 330.

(f). Federal Criminal Code Provisions Relating to Foreign Business Records [1320]

§ 1320 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under 18 USCS § 3505, a foreign record of regularly conducted business activity, or a copy of such a record, is not excludable from evidence under the hearsay rule in federal criminal proceedings if a foreign certification attests that:

- Such record was made, at or near the time of the occurrence of the matters set forth, by (or from information transmitted by) a person with knowledge of those matters
- Such record was kept in the course of a regularly conducted business activity
- The business activity made such a record as a regular practice
- If such record is not the original, such record is a duplicate of the original; unless the source of information or the method or circumstances or preparation indicate lack of trustworthiness. 42 A foreign certification under the statute authenticates such a record or duplicate. 43 The fact that foreign records may be admitted in a criminal trial without affording the accused an opportunity to confront the recordkeeper does not constitute a violation of the accused's rights under the Confrontation Clause of the Federal Constitution's Sixth Amendment. 44

At the arraignment or as soon after the arraignment as practicable, a party intending to offer in evidence under the statute a foreign record of regularly conducted activity must provide written notice of that intention to each other party. A motion opposing admission in evidence must be made and ruled upon before trial. 45

◆ Caution: Failure to file such a motion prior to trial is a waiver of the objection to the admission of the record or duplicate, although the court may for cause shown grant relief from the waiver. 46

◆ Definitions: As used in the statute, "foreign record of regularly conducted activity" means a memorandum, report, record, or data compilation, in any form, of acts, events, conditions, opinions, or diagnoses, maintained in a foreign country. "Foreign certification" means a written declaration made and signed in a foreign country by the custodian of a foreign record or regularly conducted activity or another qualified person that, if falsely made, would subject the maker to criminal penalty under the laws of that country. "Business" includes business, institution, association, profession, occupation, and calling of every kind, whether or not conducted for profit. 47

A foreign certification under the statute need not recite that a falsely made statement would subject the maker to criminal penalties, nor need it state what such penalties would be. 48 Where the requirements of the statute have been met, a trial court may properly deny a request by an accused for the government to direct letters rogatory to the source of the foreign records for the purpose of deposing the source as to the accuracy of the records. 49

Footnotes

Footnote 42. 18 USCS § 3505(a)(1).

Footnote 43. 18 USCS § 3505(a)(2).

Footnote 44. United States v Miller (CA9 Cal) 830 F2d 1073, 24 Fed Rules Evid Serv 179, cert den 485 US 1033, 99 L Ed 2d 907, 108 S Ct 1592.

Law Reviews: Brenner, The Revival of "Trial by Affidavit"; 18 USC § 3505 and the Requirements of the Confrontation Clause, 41 Ark L Rev 323.

Footnote 45. 18 USCS § 3505(a)(2).

Footnote 46. 18 USCS § 3505(a)(2).

Footnote 47. 18 USCS § 3505(c).

Footnote 48. United States v Gleave (WD NY) 786 F Supp 258.

Footnote 49. United States v Gleave (WD NY) 786 F Supp 258.

m. Public Records, Reports, or Other Public Documents [1321-1411]

(1). In General [1321, 1322]

§ 1321 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The admission of public or official records and reports is governed by principles not substantially different from those applicable to other forms of documentary evidence, including general rules of materiality and competency. 50 Where only part of a proffered public record is sufficiently material to be admitted, the entire record may be excluded if the proponent does not make a separate offer of the admissible portion. 51

§ 1321 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Hearsay exceptions for business and public records, 9 Criminal Justice 3:40 (1994).

Distinctions between the public records exception to the hearsay rule in federal and New York practice, 11 Touro LR 1:195 (1994).

Case authorities:

In action arising out of boundary- line dispute, trial court correctly sustained defendant's objections to admission of aerial photographs, where trial court found that measurement information written on back of photographs was not type of measurement information regularly kept in office of record but was computed and written by certifier for purposes of litigation, and plaintiff failed to offer evidence regarding regularity of information written on back of photographs and regarding existence of measurement information on back of original slides or photographs. Tewes v Pine Lane Farms (1994, Iowa) 522 NW2d 801.

Footnotes

Footnote 50. As to general rules of competency and materiality with regard to documentary evidence, see § 1023.

Practice References 2 Am Jur Trials 409, Locating Public Records.

Introducing and Marking Exhibits (public records). 5 Am Jur Trials 553 § 19.

Footnote 51. Ferlise v Raznick, 202 Neb 745, 277 NW2d 94.

§ 1322 Effect of alteration or mutilation

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

According to some courts, the "aura of trustworthiness" often said to attend public records and reports 52 is dissipated where a particular public document has been altered, mutilated, or subjected to the deletion of some of its contents. Such circumstances give rise to suspicion that the document has been fraudulently altered, and the document will not be admitted into evidence unless the alteration is satisfactorily explained. 53 A somewhat different view provides that under some circumstances a mutilation, alteration, or deletion does not give rise to a suspicion of fraudulent alteration, and that in such cases the record may be admitted without explanation. 54

The "public records" exception to the hearsay rule, as codified by Rule 803(8) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, permits exclusion of a public record or report otherwise admissible under the Rule if "the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness." 55 This language has been employed to exclude public records which have been subjected to unexplained deletions. 56

§ 1322 ----Effect of alteration or mutilation [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: 29 Am Jur Proof of Facts 3d 549, The Effects of Alterations to Documents

Footnotes

Footnote 52. § 1382.

Footnote 53. Evans v Holsinger, 242 Iowa 990 48 NW2d 250, 28 ALR2d 1434.

Annotation: Mutilations, alterations, and deletions as affecting admissibility in evidence of public record, 28 ALR2d 1443 § 2.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 44.28.

1 Am Jur Proof of Facts 500, Alteration of Instruments.

16 Am Jur Proof of Facts 665, Charred Documents.

44 Am Jur Trials 317, Forensic Document Examination in Medical Malpractice Cases.

Footnote 54. Gage v Chicago, 225 Ill 218, 80 NE 127.

Footnote 55. §§ 1369, 1370.

Footnote 56. Crispin v Volkswagenwerk AG, 248 NJ Super 540, 591 A2d 966, certif den 126 NJ 385, 599 A2d 162.

(2). Statutes, Regulations, and Ordinances [1323]

§ 1323 Generally

View Entire Section

Where properly authenticated, 57 statutes, administrative rules and regulations, 58 and municipal ordinances 59 are generally admissible in evidence where they are relevant and not subject to exclusion under any generally applicable rule of evidence. Documentary evidence of such matters is not necessary and may be excluded where the court takes judicial notice of them. 60

Footnotes

Footnote 57. As to authentication of legislative acts and like matters, see §§ 1405 et seq.

Footnote 58. Dura Corp. v Harned (Alaska) 703 P2d 396, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10842.

Footnote 59. Crosby v Canino, 89 Colo 434, 3 P2d 792, 78 ALR 1202.

Footnote 60. State ex rel. Blankenship v Freeman (Okla) 440 P2d 744.

As to the taking of judicial notice of statutes, administrative rules and regulations, and municipal ordinances, see §§ 24 et seq.

(3). Judicial Records [1324-1345]

(a). Admissibility and Use in General [1324-1340]

§ 1324 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Upon proper authentication, 61 a judicial record is generally admissible in evidence in a subsequent action if it is relevant to some issue in it. 62 This rule extends to all parts of the record of the prior case. 63 Records which have been held admissible under this rule include: examinations; 64 affidavits; 65 depositions; 66 condemnations in admiralty forfeiture cases; 67 deeds; 68 exhibits; 69 reports of masters; 70 and official returns of officers made in the discharge of their duty. 71 A transcript of the argument of counsel in another case has also been held admissible in evidence where relevant to the issues in the case at bar. 72 However, personal notes made by the court in the course of a hearing have been held not a part of the record of the case and therefore inadmissible. 73

A writing which does not purport to be a record, but a mere transcript of minutes extracted from the docket of the court, is generally not admissible in evidence. 74 However, in some cases certified copies of the minutes of courts have been held admissible in evidence as a part of the record of a cause. 75 Except where the principle of res judicata is involved, 76 the previous finding of a court cannot be used as evidence of the fact found. 77

Footnotes

Footnote 61. As to authentication of judicial records, see §§ 1398 et seq.

Footnote 62. Roberts v United States, 176 US 221, 44 L Ed 443, 20 S Ct 376; Brown v Green (CA7 Ill) 738 F2d 202, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1629 (applying Illinois law); Mullen v Mullen (Fla App D2) 184 So 2d 917; Miller v Stacy (App, Greene Co) 76 Ohio L Abs 61, 145 NE2d 312; Morris v Fidelity & Deposit Co. (Tex Civ App) 217 SW2d 678, 10 ALR2d 432, writ ref.

As to the admissibility of testimony given at a former trial, see §§ 890 et seq.

As to the admissibility of judicial admissions made in a former action generally, see § 773.

As to the admissibility of an agreed statement of facts made in a former action, see 3 Am Jur 2d, Agreed Case § 27.

Footnote 63. Hanson v Buckner's Exr., 34 Ky 251.

Footnote 64. Hammatt v Emerson, 27 Me 308 (criticized on other grounds by Kuperman v Eiras (Me) 586 A2d 1260).

Footnote 65. Cantrell v Prudential Ins. Co., 252 Ark 70, 477 SW2d 484; Thompson v Owen, 174 Ill 229, 51 NE 1046; Hammatt v Emerson, 27 Me 308 (criticized on other grounds by Kuperman v Eiras (Me) 586 A2d 1260).

But in Staley v South Jersey Realty Co., 83 NJ Eq 300, 90 A 1042, it was held that ex parte affidavits to which the rules of evidence are not applied are not evidence and are incapable of supporting a judicial decision in an action at law.

Footnote 66. As to the admissibility of depositions in evidence in actions or proceedings other than those in which the depositions are taken, see 23 Am Jur 2d, Depositions and Discovery § 190.

Footnote 67. Dorr v Pacific Ins. Co., 20 US 581, 7 Wheat 581, 5 L Ed 528.

Footnote 68. Applegate v Lexington & Carter County Mining Co., 117 US 255, 29 L Ed 892, 6 S Ct 742.

Footnote 69. Hanson v Buckner's Exr., 34 Ky 251.

Footnote 70. Hopkins v Lee, 19 US 109, 6 Wheat 109, 5 L Ed 218.

Footnote 71. Slaughter v Barnes, 10 Ky 412; Cousin v Alworth, 44 Minn 505, 47 NW 169; Huntington v Crouter, 33 Or 408, 54 P 208; Barrett v Copeland, 18 Vt 67.

As to the return of a writ of attachment as evidence, see 6 Am Jur 2d, Attachment and Garnishment § 325.

As to the return of a writ of execution as evidence, see 30 Am Jur 2d, Executions §§ 581 et seq.

Footnote 72. Ocean Acci. & Guarantee Corp. v Lucas (CA6 Ohio) 74 F2d 115, 98 ALR 1461.

Footnote 73. Peery v Peery (Tex App Fort Worth) 709 SW2d 392.

Footnote 74. Ferguson v Harwood, 11 US 408, 7 Cranch 408, 3 L Ed 386; State v De Witt, 20 SCL 282; Gibson v Holmes, 78 Vt 110, 62 A 11.

Footnote 75. Bynum v Knighton, 137 Ga 250, 73 SE 400.

Footnote 76. As to the doctrine of res judicata, see generally 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments.

Footnote 77. Masters v Dunstan, 256 NC 520, 124 SE2d 574.

§ 1325 Pleadings—as admissible in case in which they have been filed

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Pleadings generally do not constitute evidence in the case in which they have been filed, 78 except to the extent they contain admissions or declarations by a party regarding a relevant matter. 79 There is also authority to the effect that an original pleading may be admitted to show that the allegations in an amended pleading are an afterthought. 80

Footnotes

Footnote 78. Razorback Cab of Ft. Smith, Inc. v Lingo, 304 Ark 323, 802 SW2d 444; Jimenez v Broadway Motors, Inc. (Mo) 445 SW2d 315.

But see Hayes v Henault (3d Dept) 131 App Div 2d 930, 516 NYS2d 798 (bill of particulars filed by motorcyclist against car driver in personal injury action was admissible not only for purposes of impeaching motorcyclist's testimony, but also as direct evidence).

Allegations in a motion for judgment are allegations only, and not evidence. Gilliland v Singleton, 204 Va 115, 129 SE2d 641, 10 ALR3d 1078.

Footnote 79. §§ 774 et seq.

Footnote 80. Andrews v Metro N. C. R. Co. (CA2 Conn) 882 F2d 705, 28 Fed Rules

§ 1326 --As admissible in subsequent separate action

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although pleadings in a prior action generally are not evidence of the facts stated in them, 81 pleadings filed in one action may be admitted in evidence in a subsequent action where they are relevant to some issue in the subsequent action. 82 While some courts restrict the use of such pleadings to impeachment, 83 other courts have admitted them for the purpose of showing or explaining—

—the capacity in which a person was a party to the previous action. 84

—the matter involved in the earlier action. 85

—the basis of the prior judgment or order of court. 86

—the making of an alleged claim. 87

—an offer of payment. 88

—the date of the commencement of an action. 89

—malice in the pleader. 90

—representations of a person inducing another to act. 91

—the existence of a physical condition. 92

Footnotes

Footnote 81. Wood v Paulus (Tex Civ App Corpus Christi) 524 SW2d 749, writ ref n r e (Sep 24, 1975).

Footnote 82. Anvil Invest. Ltd. Partnership v Thornhill Condominiums, Ltd. (1st Dist) 85 Ill App 3d 1108, 41 Ill Dec 147, 407 NE2d 645, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 97609 (in securities fraud action, complaints which had been previously filed against the defendants were properly admitted where the plaintiffs' allegation that the defendants had failed to disclose that such complaints had been filed against them was material to the instant action).

Footnote 83. Tomczik v State Tenure Com., 175 Mich App 495, 438 NW2d 642, app den 436 Mich 866.

Footnote 84. Adams v ReQua, 22 Fla 250.

Footnote 85. Crane v Pacific Bank, 106 Cal 64, 39 P 215; Owens v Dawson (Pa) 1 Watts 149; Reese v Qualtrough, 48 Utah 23, 156 P 955, 14 ALR 94.

Footnote 86. Hornbuckle v Stafford, 111 US 389, 28 L Ed 468, 4 S Ct 515.

Footnote 87. Miles v Strong, 68 Conn 273, 36 A 55; Miller v Chrisman, 25 Ill 269.

Footnote 88. Pfister v Wade, 69 Cal 133, 10 P 369; Gallimore v Grubb, 156 NC 575, 72 SE 628.

Footnote 89. Shelley v Smith, 249 Md 619, 241 A2d 682; Oppermann v McGown (Tex Civ App) 50 SW 1078.

Footnote 90. Meriwether v Publishers: Geo. Knapp & Co., 224 Mo 617, 123 SW 1100; Leavitt v Cutler, 37 Wis 46.

Footnote 91. Scott v Times-Mirror Co., 181 Cal 345, 184 P 672, 12 ALR 1007.

Footnote 92. Craig v United R. Co. (Mo) 185 SW 205, 14 ALR 17.

§ 1327 Coroner's verdict as admissible judicial record

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, the verdict of a coroner's jury is held admissible in evidence on the ground that the proceedings of a coroner's inquest are judicial in their nature. This common-law rule has found support in some cases in which evidence of a coroner's verdict is held admissible in evidence in a subsequent trial, 93 particularly on the issue of suicide. 94 Other decisions, however, have refused to admit a coroner's verdict in evidence, 95 especially when offered to prove the cause of death, 96 for the reason that the coroner's proceedings do not amount to a judicial determination, 97 and that the coroner's report or verdict constitutes nothing more than opinion evidence 98 and is hearsay. 99 This rule against admission has been applied even though the verdict of the coroner's jury is required to be returned to, and filed with, the clerk of a court of record, 1 but is particularly applicable where the inquest, or a particular fact found, is unauthorized by law. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 93. Home Ben. Asso. v Sargent, 142 US 691, 35 L Ed 1160, 12 S Ct 332.

Footnote 94. Fleetwood v Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 246 Ala 571, 21 So 2d 696, 159 ALR 171.

As to the admissibility of a coroner's verdict or findings in actions on insurance policies, see 43 Am Jur 2d, Insurance §§ 1988, 1989.

As to the admissibility of an official death certificate for the purpose of proving cause of death, see § 1373.

Annotation: Insurance: coroner's verdict or report as evidence on issue of suicide, 28 ALR2d 352 § 9.

Footnote 95. District of Columbia v Washington, 44 App DC 120; Germania Life Ins. Co. v Ross-Lewin, 24 Colo 43, 51 P 488; World Ins. Co. v Kincaid (Fla App D1) 145 So 2d 268, cert dismd (Fla) 157 So 2d 517; Liberty Nat. Life Ins. Co. v Power, 111 Ga App 458, 142 SE2d 103, revd on other grounds 221 Ga 305, 144 SE2d 389; Spiegel's House Furnishing Co. v Industrial Com., 288 Ill 422, 123 NE 606, 6 ALR 540.

Footnote 96. Nehi Bottling Co. v Jefferson, 226 Miss 586, 84 So 2d 684; Carson v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 156 Ohio St 104, 45 Ohio Ops 103, 100 NE2d 197, 28 ALR2d 344; Jamison v Ardes, 408 Pa 188, 182 A2d 497.

Footnote 97. Swofford v Life Ins. Co., 159 SC 337, 157 SE 7.

Footnote 98. World Ins. Co. v Kincaid (Fla App D1) 145 So 2d 268, cert dismd (Fla) 157 So 2d 517; Carson v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 156 Ohio St 104, 45 Ohio Ops 103, 100 NE2d 197, 28 ALR2d 344.

Footnote 99. Shiovitz v New York Life Ins. Co., 281 Mich 382, 275 NW 181; Nehi Bottling Co. v Jefferson, 226 Miss 586, 84 So 2d 684.

Footnote 1. Cox v Royal Tribe of Joseph, 42 Or 365, 71 P 73.

Footnote 2. Peoria Cordage Co. v Industrial Board of Illinois, 284 Ill 90, 119 NE 996.

§ 1328 Opinions of courts

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Several courts have stated that an opinion delivered by a court in announcing its decision is not competent evidence for the purpose of proving any matter of fact, 3 at least as against a person who was not in any way concerned with the proceeding in which the opinion was rendered, as a party or otherwise. 4 In other cases, however, judicial decisions or opinions have been held admissible in evidence, 5 particularly where offered——to prove the unwritten law of a foreign state or nation. 6

—for the purpose of determining issues passed on by the court in a trial without a jury. 7 –to show that certain documents existed and were among the papers in the case. 8 –to establish a defendant's knowledge of prior accidents or claims similar to the one which was the basis of the instant action. 9

Footnotes

Footnote 3. Carr v Fidelity & Casualty Co. (La App 3d Cir) 248 So 2d 917; Kasperek v May, 182 Neb 582, 156 NW2d 144; Tupper v Amort, 222 Or 33, 350 P2d 904, clarified 222 Or 38, 352 P2d 563; State ex rel. Huff v Reeves, 5 Wash 2d 637, 106 P2d 729, 130 ALR 1465; Wunderlich v Palatine Ins. Co., 115 Wis 509, 92 NW 264.

Footnote 4. State v Butler, 151 NC 672, 65 SE 993.

Footnote 5. Stanford v Pruet, 27 Ga 243; Franklin v Twogood, 25 Iowa 520; Dimpfel v Wilson, 107 Md 329, 68 A 561.

Footnote 6. § 1329.

Footnote 7. Reliance Marine Ins. Co. v Herbert, 87 Hun 285, 33 NYS 819.

Footnote 8. Taylor v Commonwealth, 70 Va 780.

Footnote 9. Johnson v Colt Industries Operating Corp. (DC Kan) 609 F Supp 776, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10839, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1258, affd (CA10 Kan) 797 F2d 1530, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11066, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 123.

§ 1329 --Courts of other states or nations

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Judicial opinions offered as proof of the unwritten law of a sister state or foreign nation are generally admissible in evidence, even in the absence of a statutory provision specifically authorizing such admission. 10 Where the opinions are admissible, they may be shown by the production of reports containing the cases adjudged by the court of the foreign state or nation. 11 In some states, statutes have been enacted declaring that the unwritten law of other states may be proved by the reports of adjudged cases in the courts of such states. 12 However, the fact that a purported decision does not appear in the original reports has been held sufficient ground for disregarding it, although it does appear in an unofficial publication. 13

§ 1329 --Courts of other states or nations [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Strategies for Effective Management of Crossborder Recognition and

Footnotes

Footnote 10. The Paquete Habana, 175 US 677, 44 L Ed 320, 20 S Ct 290; Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v Brandt, 240 Ala 260, 198 So 595, 134 ALR 555; Dimpfel v Wilson, 107 Md 329, 68 A 561; Ferneau v Armour & Co. (Mo App) 303 SW2d 161.

Practice References 21 Am Jur POF2d 1, Law of Foreign Jurisdiction.

Footnote 11. In re Duncan, 83 Idaho 254, 360 P2d 987; Franklin v Twogood, 25 Iowa 520; Dimpfel v Wilson, 107 Md 329, 68 A 561; Meuer v Chicago, M. & S. P. Ry., 11 SD 94, 75 NW 823.

Footnote 12. Varner v Interstate Exchange, 138 Iowa 201, 115 NW 1111; Penobscot & K. R. Co. v Bartlett, 78 Mass 244, 11 Gray 244; Rice v Rankans, 101 Mich 378, 59 NW 660.

Footnote 13. Franklin v Trickey, 9 Ariz 282, 80 P 352.

§ 1330 Judgments—generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A judgment is generally admissible in evidence in a subsequent action if it is relevant to an issue in it. 14 A duly certified abstract of a judgment may also be admitted. 15 However, a judgment is admissible only to prove the fact that a judgment was rendered, the time of its rendition, and the terms and effect of the judgment. 16 The record of the case may not be introduced for the purpose of proving the facts on which the judgment was based. 17

Proper purposes for the introduction into evidence of a judgment entered in a prior case include—

—proof of a fact collateral to the issues involved in the instant case, 18 as, for example, the introduction of a judgment of conviction to impeach a witness. 19

—showing a course of conduct previously taken by a party to the instant case. 20

—showing the divestiture or acquisition of certain legal rights through the rendition of the judgment or through proceedings held thereunder, 21 as, for example, in actions on judgments 22 and actions involving property sold under a writ of execution. 23

—showing, for the purposes of the doctrine of res judicata, that an issue involved in the instant case, or the cause of action involved in the instant case, was previously adjudicated. 24

Footnotes

Footnote 14. Lazarus v Phelps, 156 US 202, 39 L Ed 397, 15 S Ct 271; Fairfield County Bar v Taylor, 60 Conn 11, 22 A 441; Jacksonville, T. & K. W. R. Co. v Peninsular Land, Transp. & Mfg. Co., 27 Fla 1, 9 So 661, reh den 27 Fla 157, 9 So 689; Peter v Peter, 343 Ill 493, 175 NE 846, 75 ALR 890; Wells v Wells, 209 Mass 282, 95 NE 845; Smith v Ayrault, 71 Mich 475, 39 NW 724; McCullough v Sullivan, 102 NJL 381, 132 A 102, 43 ALR 928; Terry v Munger, 121 NY 161, 24 NE 272; Patterson v Anderson, 40 Pa 359; Permian Oil Co. v Smith, 129 Tex 446, 107 SW2d 564, 111 ALR 1175.

Footnote 15. Tomlinson v Texas Dept. of Public Safety (Tex Civ App Corpus Christi) 429 SW2d 590.

Footnote 16. Diamond v New York Life Ins. Co. (CA7 Ill) 50 F2d 884, cert den 284 US 647, 76 L Ed 549, 52 S Ct 25; Scott v Scott (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 554 SW2d 274.

Footnote 17. Scott v Scott (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 554 SW2d 274.

Footnote 18. Lehnen v Dickson, 148 US 71, 37 L Ed 373, 13 S Ct 481; Omaha & Grant Smelting & Refining Co. v Tabor, 13 Colo 41, 21 P 925; Lamb v Stubblefield (Mo App) 200 SW 695; Eudaly v Superior Oil Co. (Okla) 270 P2d 335; Kerr v Lunsford, 31 W Va 659, 8 SE 493.

Footnote 19. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses §§ 910, 970, 971.

Footnote 20. Terry v Munger, 121 NY 161, 24 NE 272; Jones v Watkins (Tex Civ App) 97 SW2d 1027, writ dism w o j.

Footnote 21. Chirac v Reinicker, 24 US 280, 11 Wheat 280, 6 L Ed 474; Illinois Steel Co. v Industrial Com., 290 Ill 594, 125 NE 252; Eudaly v Superior Oil Co. (Okla) 270 P2d 335.

Footnote 22. 47 Am Jur 2d, Judgments §§ 972, 973.

Footnote 23. 30 Am Jur 2d, Executions.

Footnote 24. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 608.

§ 1331 --Particular matters as affecting admissibility

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

As a general rule, a judgment is not admissible in evidence where offered to show rights declared in the judgment, until it becomes final by affirmance upon appeal or by the lapse of time within which an appeal may be taken. 25 A judgment is also inadmissible if it is void due to absence of jurisdiction. 26 However, mere irregularities in connection with a judgment, or the proceedings in which it was rendered, do not affect the admissibility of the judgment. A judgment or judgment roll is not rendered inadmissible by the fact that the complaint was not properly verified, 27 or that the judgment was rendered upon a verdict under erroneous instructions. 28

Although it has been held that a statute directing that a judicial record be signed is merely directory, and that other evidence may be given to establish the record, 29 on the other hand, there is authority for the rule that the record of a judgment, to be admissible in evidence, must have been signed by an officer authorized by law. 30

It has been held that the record of a judgment, to be admissible in evidence, must have been filed in the proper office 31 and recorded. 32 However, it is not necessary to the admissibility of a judgment that it be contained in the formal judgment roll of the common law. The record may be contained in the judgment book or docket, as provided by the local law or custom, or where a formal record is not required by law to be made up, those entries which are permitted to stand in its place are admissible. 33

Footnotes

Footnote 25. Sewell v Johnson, 165 Cal 762, 134 P 704; Pendleton v Norfolk & W. R. Co., 82 W Va 270, 95 SE 941, 16 ALR 761.

Footnote 26. Sabariego v Maverick, 124 US 261, 31 L Ed 430, 8 S Ct 461; Williams v Williams, 130 NY 193, 29 NE 98.

Footnote 27. Commercial Bank & Trust Co. v Jordan, 85 Mont 375, 278 P 832, 65 ALR 968.

Footnote 28. Richardson v Boston, 65 US 188, 24 How 188, 16 L Ed 625.

Footnote 29. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 68.

Footnote 30. Morris v Patchin, 24 NY 394.

Footnote 31. Morris v Patchin, 24 NY 394.

Footnote 32. Turley v Tobin (Tex Civ App) 7 SW2d 949, writ ref.

Footnote 33. Philadelphia, W. & B. R. Co. v Howard, 54 US 307, 13 How 307, 14 L Ed 157; Kenyon v Baker, 16 Mich 373; Jones v Henry, 84 NC 320.

§ 1332 --For and against whom admissible

View Entire Section

Judgments may be admitted in evidence in subsequent actions for or against parties to the actions in which the judgments were rendered, 34 or for or against persons in privity with them. 35 Furthermore, a judgment may be offered in evidence, even as against a stranger to the prior litigation, to prove the fact of its own rendition 36 and the acquisition of certain rights thereunder. 37 A judgment has also been held admissible where it is offered to prove a fact collateral to the issues in the principal action, 38 or where the judgment is offered to prove that a party to the later action had previously prosecuted an inconsistent action, 39 or where the judgment is rendered upon a subject of a public nature. 40

However, a judgment is not admissible in favor of, or against, a stranger to the action in which the judgment was rendered where the judgment is offered to establish an issue or the cause of action involved in the instant case, since the principle of res judicata does not operate to affect strangers to a judgment. 41 But this rule may not be applicable if the judgment was one in rem. 42

Footnotes

Footnote 34. Fairfield County Bar v Taylor, 60 Conn 11, 22 A 441; McCoy v Oldham, 1 Ind App 372, 27 NE 647; Lowell v Parker, 51 Mass 309, 10 Met 309; Littleton v Richardson, 34 NH 179; Union Nat. Bank v Western Bldg. Co., 44 ND 336, 175 NW 628; Hoey v Furman, 1 Pa 295; In re Kirby, 10 SD 322, 73 NW 92; Mills v Howeth, 19 Tex 257; State Bank of Sevier v American Cement & Plaster Co., 80 Utah 250, 10 P2d 1065; Johnson's Ex'x v Jennings' Adm'r, 51 Va 1.

Footnote 35. Wilson v Campbell, 33 Ala 249; Moon v Rollins, 36 Cal 333; Belden v Seymour, 8 Conn 304; Huddleston v Graham, 73 Fla 350, 74 So 414; Newson v Lucan, 26 Ky 440; Lowell v Parker, 51 Mass 309, 10 Met 309; Shanks v Lancaster, 46 Va 110; Kerr v Lunsford, 31 W Va 659, 8 SE 493.

Footnote 36. Drummond v Prestman, 25 US 515, 12 Wheat 515, 6 L Ed 712; Pico v Webster, 14 Cal 202; Illinois Steel Co. v Industrial Com., 290 Ill 594, 125 NE 252; Smith v Ayrault, 71 Mich 475, 39 NW 724; Lonkey v Keyes Silver Mining Co., 21 Nev 312, 31 P 57; Falcon v Johnston, 102 NC 264, 9 SE 394; Union Nat. Bank v Western Bldg. Co., 44 ND 336, 175 NW 628; Fitchette v Sumter Hardwood Co., 145 SC 53, 142 SE 828.

Footnote 37. Southern R. Co. v Bouknight (CA4 SC) 70 F 442; Snodgrass v Branch Bank at Decatur, 25 Ala 161; Pico v Webster, 14 Cal 202; Fairfield County Bar v Taylor, 60 Conn 11, 22 A 441; Illinois Steel Co. v Industrial Com., 290 Ill 594, 125 NE 252; Peden v Chicago, R. I. & P. R. Co., 78 Iowa 131, 42 NW 625; Morgan v Yarborough, 13 La 74; Emery v Fowler, 39 Me 326; Commonwealth v Tolman, 149 Mass 229, 21 NE 377; Childress v Carley, 92 Miss 571, 46 So 164; Lee's Admr. v Lee, 21 Mo 531; Littleton v Richardson, 34 NH 179; Terry v Munger, 121 NY 161, 24 NE 272; Hodges v Wilkinson, 111 NC 56, 15 SE 941; Tierney v Phoenix Ins. Co., 4 ND 565, 62 NW 642; Eudaly v Superior Oil Co. (Okla) 270 P2d 335; Patterson v Anderson, 40 Pa 359; Fitchette v Sumter Hardwood Co., 145 SC 53, 142 SE 828; Plymouth County Bank v Gilman, 3 SD 170, 52 NW 869, adhered to, on reh 4 SD 265, 56 NW 892; Stephens v Jack, 11 Tenn

402, 3 Yer 402.

Footnote 38. Omaha & Grant Smelting & Refining Co. v Tabor, 13 Colo 41, 21 P 925; Corbley v Wilson, 71 Ill 209; Fitchette v Sumter Hardwood Co., 145 SC 53, 142 SE 828; Kerr v Lunsford, 31 W Va 659, 8 SE 493.

Footnote 39. Terry v Munger, 121 NY 161, 24 NE 272.

Footnote 40. Illinois Steel Co. v Industrial Com., 290 Ill 594, 125 NE 252; Bow v Allenstown, 34 NH 351; Fitchette v Sumter Hardwood Co., 145 SC 53, 142 SE 828; Kerr v Lunsford, 31 W Va 659, 8 SE 493.

Footnote 41. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 518.

Footnote 42. Illinois Steel Co. v Industrial Com., 290 Ill 594, 125 NE 252; Fitchette v Sumter Hardwood Co., 145 SC 53, 142 SE 828.

§ 1333 --Admissibility in criminal prosecution of judgment in civil action

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A judgment rendered in a civil action is generally not admissible in a subsequent criminal prosecution, where such judgment is offered for the purpose of proving facts adjudicated thereby. 43 This rule applies even where the defendant and the state are the parties in the civil action. 44 However, a judgment rendered in a civil action has been held admissible in a subsequent criminal prosecution where the judgment in the civil action was offered in the criminal action as proof merely of its own existence 45 or of the time of the rendition of the judgment, 46 or where the judgment was introduced to prove some collateral fact in the criminal case not bearing upon the question of guilt or innocence, 47 or where the judgment in the civil action established a status which was a material fact in the criminal action. 48

Footnotes

Footnote 43. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 620.

Footnote 44. State v Dubose, 152 Fla 304, 11 So 2d 477; State v Rogers, 198 SC 273, 17 SE2d 563.

Footnote 45. State v Weil, 83 SC 478, 65 SE 634.

Footnote 46. State v Weil, 83 SC 478, 65 SE 634.

Footnote 47. State v Dixon, 80 Mont 181, 260 P 138.

Footnote 48. Halbrook v State, 34 Ark 511.

§ 1334 --Courts of other states and nations

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where it is relevant and not otherwise excludable, the judgment of a court of a sister state is admissible in evidence. 49 In such case, an authenticated copy of the record is sufficient without producing the original. 50 There is nothing in the full faith and credit clause of the Federal Constitution, or in the federal statute enacted thereunder, 51 which requires that proof of a judgment shall include all the pleadings and proceedings in the suit, or which attempts to specify what parts of the proceedings in a state court shall be included in making up the record in an adjudicated cause. 52 However, a judgment obtained in another state is not admissible against a party as to whom it is void for lack of jurisdiction. 53

A judicial record of a court of a foreign nation is, as a general rule, admissible in an action in a court in the United States if it is relevant to an issue or issues involved therein. 54

Footnotes

Footnote 49. Selig v Hamilton, 234 US 652, 58 L Ed 1518, 34 S Ct 926; North Carolina Land & Lumber Co. v Boyer (CA6 Tenn) 191 F 552; Slaughter v Cunningham, 24 Ala 260; Belden v Seymour, 8 Conn 304; Mayer v Brensinger, 180 Ill 110, 54 NE 159; Friend v Miller, 52 Kan 139, 34 P 397; Patton v Kennedy, 8 Ky 389; Ellis v Ellis, 55 Minn 401, 56 NW 1056; Tittman v Thornton, 107 Mo 500, 17 SW 979; Clark v Depew, 25 Pa 509.

Footnote 50. Mills v Duryee, 11 US 481, 7 Cranch 481, 3 L Ed 411.

As to authentication of judicial records, see §§ 1398 et seq.

Footnote 51. 28 USCS § 1738.

Footnote 52. Parker v McLain, 237 US 469, 59 L Ed 1051, 35 S Ct 632.

Footnote 53. Williams v Williams, 130 NY 193, 29 NE 98.

Footnote 54. Ennis v Smith, 55 US 400, 14 How 400, 14 L Ed 472.

§ 1335 --Courts of special, inferior, and limited jurisdiction

View Entire Section

In some cases, proceedings before courts of inferior and limited jurisdiction are considered matters in pais, provable by parol or other testimony. 55 A judgment recovered before an inferior court may be proved by memoranda of the judge upon his docket and by the production of the original papers in the case, verified by the testimony of the magistrate, if these, when taken together, show clearly all the essential particulars of a valid judgment, and no extended record has been made. 56 Under the general rule that the jurisdiction of a court of special and limited jurisdiction must be affirmatively shown, or must affirmatively appear of record, 57 it has been held that a summons must be affirmatively shown to have been served upon the defendant within the territorial jurisdiction of such court before a judgment by default founded thereon may be introduced in evidence to establish rights claimed to be acquired under it. 58

Footnotes

Footnote 55. Turner v Fendall, 5 US 117, 1 Cranch 117, 2 L Ed 53.

Footnote 56. McGrath v Seagrave, 84 Mass 443.

Footnote 57. 47 Am Jur 2d, Judgments § 965.

Footnote 58. Mallett v Uncle Sam Gold & Silver Mining Co., 1 Nev 188.

§ 1336 Records of prior criminal proceedings

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under the common law, proof which shows or tends to show that an accused in a criminal prosecution has committed crimes other than the one charged is generally inadmissible. 59 While this rule will generally operate to exclude records of past criminal proceedings from admission into evidence in a subsequent criminal proceeding, the record of a prior indictment of a similar offense has been admitted as tending to show the accused's knowledge that the conduct forming the basis of the later prosecution was illegal. 60 Furthermore, once an adjudication of guilt has been made, the court may in sentencing the accused consider prior convictions and other offenses committed by the accused, 61 and in this respect the judge may receive and consider court or public records showing previous convictions of the accused. 62 Where records of a prior conviction are admissible to show the status of the accused as a convicted felon, such records are not made inadmissible by the accused's offer to stipulate to his status as a convicted felon, at least where the prior conviction records are not unduly or unfairly prejudicial. 63 But where the records admitted contain extraneous matter, such as warrants issued and violations of probation, their admission has been held to be reversible error even absent objection by the accused. 64

Where the record of a prior conviction is admissible, and the record does not identify the offense of which the accused was convicted, the common law permits such offense to be established by parol testimony. 65

Footnotes

Footnote 59. As to this rule and the exceptions thereto, see §§ 405 et seq.

Footnote 60. Brackenridge v State, 27 Tex App 513, 11 SW 630 (ovrld on other grounds by Leeper v State, 29 Tex App 63, 14 SW 398).

Footnote 61. 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 599.

Footnote 62. Wright v State (Okla Crim) 617 P2d 1354; Commonwealth ex rel. Hendrickson v Myers, 393 Pa 224, 144 A2d 367.

As to proof of prior convictions under statutes enhancing the punishment for second or subsequent offenders, see 39 Am Jur 2d, Habitual Criminals and Subsequent Offenders §§ 26, 27.

Annotation: Court's right, in imposing sentence, to hear evidence of, or to consider, other offenses committed by defendant, 96 ALR2d 768 § 10[b].

Footnote 63. Parker v State (Fla App D4) 389 So 2d 336, approved (Fla) 408 So 2d 1037.

Footnote 64. Commonwealth v Clark, 23 Mass App 375, 502 NE2d 564.

Footnote 65. Hodgson v Vermont, 168 US 262, 42 L Ed 461, 18 S Ct 80.

§ 1337 --Prosecution of person other than accused

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In a criminal case the record of conviction or acquittal in another case to which the accused was not a party is not ordinarily admissible to establish the truth of any fact involved in such conviction or acquittal. 66 A judgment of acquittal in a case in which the accused was not the defendant is not admissible even though the prior case involved persons arrested with the accused and separately tried for the same offense. 67

Although there is some old authority that in the trial of one charged as being an accessory, the record of the conviction of the alleged principal is admissible as prima facie evidence that he or she committed the crime as charged, 68 in other jurisdictions, however, this rule has been rejected. 69 In any event, evidence that the principal entered a plea of nolo contendere is incompetent to establish the guilt of the principal at the trial of an accessory, where no judgment has been entered upon the plea, since it is at most a qualified admission of guilt by the principal which cannot affect the accessory and might be withdrawn. 70 Moreover, at the trial of an accessory, a record showing merely a verdict against the principal without a judgment or sentence thereon is inadmissible upon the question of the principal's guilt. 71 It has also been held that proof of the trial and acquittal of the principal for a misdemeanor is not admissible at the trial of an aider or abettor for a felony. 72

◆ Caution: The use of the evidence of the conviction of another may raise problems under the Confrontation Clause, and thus is not allowed under the Federal Rules of Evidence. 73

Footnotes

Footnote 66. Commonwealth v Tilley, 327 Mass 540, 99 NE2d 749.

Footnote 67. State v McCullough, 50 NC App 184, 272 SE2d 613.

Footnote 68. Drummond v Prestman, 25 US 515, 12 Wheat 515, 6 L Ed 712; Mulligan v People, 68 Colo 17, 189 P 5; Howard v State, 109 Ga 137, 34 SE 330; State v Gleim, 17 Mont 17, 41 P 998.

Footnote 69. Commonwealth v Tilley, 327 Mass 540, 99 NE2d 749; State v Rand, 33 NH 216; Ogden v State, 12 Wis 532.

Footnote 70. Pharr v United States (CA6 Tenn) 48 F2d 767; Buck v Commonwealth, 107 Pa 486.

Footnote 71. Commonwealth v Minnich, 250 Pa 363, 95 A 565.

Footnote 72. Christie v Commonwealth, 193 Ky 799, 237 SW 660, 24 ALR 599.

As to the effect of the acquittal of a principal in the first degree on the prosecution of an aider or abettor, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law §§ 175, 176.

Footnote 73. § 1345.

§ 1338 --Admissibility in civil action

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

It is a general rule, although subject to exceptions, that in the absence of a statutory provision to the contrary, a judgment of conviction or acquittal rendered in a criminal prosecution may not be admitted as evidence in a subsequent civil action, where the judgment is offered to bar the civil action or to establish the truth of facts upon which it was rendered. 74

◆ Caution: Even where the record of a judgment of conviction is improperly admitted, such admission is harmless error where the fact of the conviction is otherwise admitted into evidence without objection. 75

The judgment in a criminal action is available as evidence in a subsequent civil action where the judgment is offered for the single purpose of proving its own existence, where such existence is a material fact, 76 in which case the judgment is conclusive as to the fact of its rendition. 77

◆ Observation: The existence of one or more criminal convictions is deemed material, and evidence of such convictions is admissible, in custody or adoption proceedings. 78

A judgment in a criminal action is admissible in a subsequent civil action where such judgment is the foundation of the civil action. 79

Footnotes

Footnote 74. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments §§ 614-619.

As to the use of a prior criminal conviction to impeach a witness, see 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses §§ 910-928.

Footnote 75. Harper v Samples, 164 Ga App 511, 298 SE2d 29.

Footnote 76. Montgomery v Collins (Ala) 355 So 2d 1111; Washington Nat. Ins. Co. v Clement, 192 Ark 371, 91 SW2d 265; Campbell v Cochran (Del Super) 416 A2d 211; Smith v Andrews (2d Dist) 54 Ill App 2d 51, 203 NE2d 160, cert den 382 US 1029, 15 L Ed 2d 543, 86 S Ct 655, reh den 383 US 954, 16 L Ed 2d 216, 86 S Ct 1210.

Footnote 77. Burt v Union Cent. L. Ins. Co. (CA5 Tex) 105 F 419, affd 187 US 362, 47 L Ed 216, 23 S Ct 139; Washington Nat. Ins. Co. v Clement, 192 Ark 371, 91 SW2d 265; Hampton v Westover, 137 Neb 695, 291 NW 93.

Footnote 78. Williams v State Dept. of Pensions & Secur. (Ala App) 460 So 2d 1348; In re Appeal in Pima County Juvenile Action etc. (App) 134 Ariz 442, 657 P2d 430; In re G. (5th Dist) 98 Cal App 3d 412, 159 Cal Rptr 460; Smith v Andrews (2d Dist) 54 Ill App 2d 51, 203 NE2d 160, cert den 382 US 1029, 15 L Ed 2d 543, 86 S Ct 655, reh den 383 US 954, 16 L Ed 2d 216, 86 S Ct 1210; G.E.Y. v Cabinet for Human Resources (Ky App) 701 SW2d 713; Adoption of Irwin, 28 Mass App 41, 545 NE2d 1193, review den 406 Mass 1103, 548 NE2d 887; In re Emmons, 165 Mich App 701, 419 NW2d 449, app den 430 Mich 873 and (criticized on other grounds by In re Waite, 188 Mich App 189, 468 NW2d 912); In re Welfare of Scott, 309 Minn 458, 244 NW2d 669; In Interest of B---- M---- P---- (Mo App) 704 SW2d 237; In re Bradley, 57 NC App 475, 291 SE2d 800; Thompson v King (ND) 393 NW2d 733, cert den 479 US 1098, 94 L Ed 2d 173, 107 S Ct 1320; In re B.A.M. (SD) 290 NW2d 498; In re Sego, 82 Wash 2d 736, 513 P2d 831.

Footnote 79. Brown v Bradlee, 156 Mass 28, 30 NE 85.

§ 1339 Completeness of records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A copy of a part of a judicial record is generally inadmissible in evidence; a copy of a judicial record offered in evidence must contain the whole record. 80 A judgment entry alone, unaccompanied by any other part of the record of such judgment or any sufficient explanation of its absence, when offered in evidence for a purpose other than to show the fact of its rendition, is inadmissible if an objection is properly made, 81 even though the judgment offered is from a court of general jurisdiction or contains general recitals of jurisdiction. 82

Although the usual method of proving the proceedings of a court is by the record as completed and extended, it has been held that the minutes or memoranda upon the docket of the clerk of the court or the magistrate are competent evidence of an order or proceeding in court, in case the extended record has not been made. 83 The fact that certain papers filed in the case are not contained in a certified copy of a judgment record does not prevent its admission in evidence if the certificate states that the writings annexed together constitute the record, since the missing papers may not have been a proper part of the record. 84 Where a judgment is part of the muniments of an estate, it may be given in evidence without the proceedings on which it is founded. 85 A similar result has been reached in the case of a judgment offered to prove course of conduct previously taken by a party to the principal case. 86

Footnotes

Footnote 80. Smith v Anderson, 259 Ark 310, 532 SW2d 745; Kenyon v Baker, 16 Mich 373; Hoover v Jones, 84 Neb 662, 121 NW 975; Slocinski v Radwan, 83 NH 501, 144 A 787, 63 ALR 643; Clark v Depew, 25 Pa 509; Short v Blair & Hughes Co. (Tex Civ App) 230 SW 427, appeal after remand (Tex Civ App) 271 SW 199.

Footnote 81. Clem v Meserole, 44 Fla 234, 32 So 815; Kenyon v Baker, 16 Mich 373; Short v Blair & Hughes Co. (Tex Civ App) 230 SW 427, appeal after remand (Tex Civ App) 271 SW 199.

Footnote 82. Short v Blair & Hughes Co. (Tex Civ App) 230 SW 427, appeal after remand (Tex Civ App) 271 SW 199.

Footnote 83. McGrath v Seagrave, 84 Mass 443.

Footnote 84. Wells v Wells, 209 Mass 282, 95 NE 845.

Footnote 85. Richardson v Hobart (Ala) 1 Stew 500; Baudin v Roliff (La) 1 Mart NS 165; Masters v Varner's Ex'ors, 46 Va 168.

Footnote 86. Jones v Watkins (Tex Civ App) 97 SW2d 1027, writ diss w o j.

§ 1340 Mode of proof of judicial records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A judgment and the proceedings in the cause in which it is rendered are generally proved by the record itself or by a copy of it. 87 At common law they may not be proved in any other manner, at least in the absence of the loss or destruction of the record. 88 A judgment may not be proved at common law by parol or extrinsic evidence. 89 It may not be proved by the testimony of a judge of the court which rendered it, 90 or by the testimony of a witness that while he was clerk of the court, certain papers shown to him were issued and filed by him and that he believes that they are the records of the court, 91 or by the testimony of another witness that he received the records from the present clerk of the court as the records of the actions to which they relate. 92 However, where the record is indefinite or ambiguous, parol evidence is admissible to explain it. 93

Footnotes

Footnote 87. Turnbull v Payson, 95 US 418, 5 Otto 418, 24 L Ed 437; Gunn v Howell, 35 Ala 144; Snider v Greathouse, 16 Ark 72; Florida Land Inv. Co. v Williams, 84 Fla 157, 92 So 876, 26 ALR 171, appeal after remand 98 Fla 1258, 116 So 642; Peter v Peter, 343 Ill 493, 175 NE 846, 75 ALR 890; State ex rel. Kelly v Wolfer, 119 Minn 368, 138 NW 315; Childress v Carley, 92 Miss 571, 46 So 164; Remick v Butterfield, 31 NH 70; Pelton v Platner, 13 Ohio 209; Gamel v Hynds, 69 Okla 204, 171 P 920; Turley v Tobin (Tex Civ App) 7 SW2d 949, writ ref.

As to judicial notice of judicial records, see §§ 129 et seq.

Footnote 88. Lyon v Bolling, 14 Ala 753; Hammatt v Emerson, 27 Me 308 (criticized on other grounds by Kuperman v Eiras (Me) 586 A2d 1260); Slocinski v Radwan, 83 NH 501, 144 A 787, 63 ALR 643; Gauldin v Madison, 179 NC 461, 102 SE 851, 10 ALR 1497; Gamel v Hynds, 69 Okla 204, 171 P 920; Haines v West, 101 Tex 226, 105 SW 1118.

Footnote 89. Gambrill v Schooley, 95 Md 260, 52 A 500; Reynolds v Stansbury, 20 Ohio 344; Turley v Tobin (Tex Civ App) 7 SW2d 949, writ ref; Tung-Sol Lamp Works, Inc. v Monroe, 113 Vt 228, 32 A2d 120.

Footnote 90. Heirs of Ludlow v Johnston, 3 Ohio 553 (holding such testimony insufficient even if the docket containing the judgment has been lost or mislaid); Tung-Sol Lamp Works, Inc. v Monroe, 113 Vt 228, 32 A2d 120.

Footnote 91. Lyon v Bolling, 14 Ala 753; Gamel v Hynds, 69 Okla 204, 171 P 920.

Footnote 92. Lyon v Bolling, 14 Ala 753.

Footnote 93. Burns v Marsh, 144 Mo App 412, 128 SW 834.

As to the use of parol evidence to determine the issues in a former case, see § 1137.

(b). Judicial Records as Hearsay [1341-1345]

§ 1341 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

To the extent that any part of a judicial record is hearsay, it must be brought within an exception to the hearsay rule before it can be admitted. 94 The "business record" exception to the hearsay rule can be invoked to justify admission of a record of unsworn statements of counsel if the statutory or common-law requirements of the exception are met. 95

Footnotes

Footnote 94. Jacobs v Hertz Corp., 358 Mass 541, 265 NE2d 588 (ovrld on other grounds by Smith v Ariens Co., 375 Mass 620, 377 NE2d 954); Johnson v American Family Mut. Ins. Co., 93 Wis 2d 633, 287 NW2d 729.

Footnote 95. Kearney v New York, 144 Misc 2d 201, 543 NYS2d 879 (transcript of prosecutor's statements made in open court was admissible under "business record" exception).

As to the admission of business records notwithstanding their nature as hearsay, generally, see §§ 1290-1314.

As to the hearsay rule, and exceptions thereto, with regard to evidence from a prior proceeding, see §§ 890 et seq.

§ 1342 Judgments, generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The common law recognized an exception to the hearsay rule with respect to judgments regarding personal, family, or general history, or boundaries, based on the rationale that such judgments were evidence of reputation, to which the hearsay rule generally did not apply. This rule has been codified as Rule 803(23) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which states that the hearsay rule does not apply to judgments as proof of matters of personal, family, or general history, or boundaries, essential to the judgment, if the same would be provable by evidence of reputation. 96

◆ Comment: Although one writer has noted that the considerations of trustworthiness and reliability which characterize judgments and which justify excepting them from the rule against hearsay would apparently justify a rule covering all matters essential to judgments, 97 Rule 803(23) is nonetheless limited to matters provable by reputation under the common-law rule. In particular, the Rule does not permit the admission of judgments to prove matters of character, 98 although matters of character may be shown by reputation evidence under Rule 803(21). 99

Footnotes

Footnote 96. FRE Rule 803(23); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(23).

As to the exception to the hearsay rule covering reputation of personal or family history, see § 680.

As to the exception to the hearsay rule covering reputation as to boundaries or general history, see § 681.

Footnote 97. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 471.

Footnote 98. Notes of Advisory Committee to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803.

Footnote 99. As to Rule 803(21), see § 682.

§ 1343 Judgments of conviction

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(22) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence provide generally that the hearsay rule does not bar admission of evidence of a final judgment entered after a trial or upon a plea of guilty, adjudging a person guilty of a crime punishable by death or imprisonment in excess of one year, to prove any fact essential to the judgment (but not including, when offered by the government in a criminal prosecution for purposes other than impeachment, judgments against persons other than the accused). 1 The Federal Rule specifically excludes judgments entered upon a plea of nolo contendere, 2 but the provision of the Uniform Rule requiring that the judgment be entered after a trial or upon a plea of guilty is optional. 3 The pendency of an appeal may be shown, but does not affect admissibility. 4 A judgment of conviction admitted under Rule 803(22) is substantive, but not conclusive, evidence of matters stated therein. 5

Rule 803(22) includes only judgments of conviction, and not judgments of acquittal. 6

Judgments of conviction embraced by the Rule include judgments rendered in state courts ⁷ and in the courts of foreign nations, at least where there exist procedural safeguards adequate to provide reasonable assurance of reliability of the judgment. ⁸ The fact that the sentence entered upon the judgment of conviction was suspended, or for a term of less than one year, does not place the judgment beyond the scope of Rule 803(22) as long as the offense in question was punishable by a term of imprisonment longer than a year. ⁹ It appears likely that a "deferred sentence," as imposed by some state courts, is also within the scope of Rule 803(22) as long as the underlying offense is punishable by the requisite term of imprisonment. ¹⁰

In most jurisdictions, the requirement of the Rule that the offense be punishable by imprisonment for longer than one year has the practical effect of restricting the Rule's scope to convictions for felonies. ¹¹

Footnotes

Footnote 1. FRE Rule 803(22); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(22).

Footnote 2. FRE Rule 803(22).

Footnote 3. Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(22).

Footnote 4. FRE Rule 803(22); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(22).

Footnote 5. Lloyd v American Export Lines, Inc. (CA3 Pa) 580 F2d 1179, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 193, 47 ALR Fed 874, cert den 439 US 969, 58 L Ed 2d 428, 99 S Ct 461; Lichon v American Universal Ins. Co., 435 Mich 408, 459 NW2d 288, reh den 435 Mich 1243.

Footnote 6. United States v Viserto (CA2 NY) 596 F2d 531, cert den 444 US 841, 62 L Ed 2d 52, 100 S Ct 80.

Footnote 7. Eastern Renovating Corp. v Roman Catholic Bishop (CA1 Mass) 554 F2d 4, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 974.

Footnote 8. Lloyd v American Export Lines, Inc. (CA3 Pa) 580 F2d 1179, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 193, 47 ALR Fed 874, cert den 439 US 969, 58 L Ed 2d 428, 99 S Ct 461 (judgment issued by Japanese court convicting seaman of "inflicting injury" upon another seaman was improperly excluded in convicted seaman's action under the Jones Act for injuries sustained in a shipboard altercation; admission under FRE Rule 803(22) was called for where the record indicated that the incident had been meticulously investigated by Japanese authorities, that the convicted seaman had been represented by counsel in the Japanese proceedings, and that the Japanese proceedings had generally accorded with "civilized jurisprudence").

Footnote 9. Lloyd v American Export Lines, Inc. (CA3 Pa) 580 F2d 1179, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 193, 47 ALR Fed 874, cert den 439 US 969, 58 L Ed 2d 428, 99 S Ct 461.

Footnote 10. United States v Turner (CA10 Okla) 497 F2d 406, cert den 423 US 848, 46 L Ed 2d 71, 96 S Ct 90 and (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in United States v Miller (CA10 Colo) 907 F2d 994, 91-1 USTC ¶ 50002, 66 AFTR 2d 90-5337) (pre-Rules case stating that guilty plea in state court leading to imposition of deferred judgment was properly admitted for impeachment purposes despite defense contention that deferred judgment was not a conviction; federal standards control the issue, and federal cases have viewed a plea of guilty as equivalent to a conviction in this context).

Footnote 11. See, for example, 18 USCS § 1, stating that any federal offense punishable by death or imprisonment for a term exceeding one year is a felony.

A prior judgment of conviction for resisting arrest was not admissible under Rule 803(22) in a subsequent action by police officers for injuries arising from arrest, because resisting arrest is a misdemeanor. Banek v Thomas (Colo) 733 P2d 1171.

§ 1344 --Admissibility as limited to facts essential to judgment

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(22) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence permits receipt of a judgment of conviction only for the purposes of establishing a fact essential to sustain the judgment. ¹² Thus, a conviction for filing a false tax return may not subsequently be used to show the amount of tax due in a subsequent civil suit, as the amount of tax due is probably not a fact essential to the judgment of conviction. ¹³ Admission of a judgment of conviction may also be denied under Rule 803(22) where a general verdict of guilty rendered on an indictment charging multiple criminal acts makes it impossible to determine for exactly what reasons or upon what acts the jury convicted the defendants. ¹⁴

Footnotes

Footnote 12. FRE Rule 803(22); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(22).

Footnote 13. United States v First Nat. State Bank (DC NJ) 469 F Supp 612, 80-1 USTC ¶ 9412, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 646, 44 AFTR 2d 79-5192, affd in part and revd in part on other grounds (CA3 NJ) 616 F2d 668, 80-1 USTC ¶ 9217, 45 AFTR 2d 80-840, cert den 447 US 905, 64 L Ed 2d 854, 100 S Ct 2987.

Footnote 14. Columbia Plaza Corp. v Security Nat. Bank, 219 US App DC 182, 676 F2d 780, 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 407.

§ 1345 --Restriction on use of convictions of person other than accused

View Entire Section

Rule 803(22) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence expressly excludes from its reach convictions of "persons other than the accused" when offered by the government in criminal prosecutions and for purposes other than impeachment. 15 This exclusion generally embraces prosecutions in which the government seeks to prove an element of the charged offense by showing that someone other than the accused has been convicted of a separate but related crime. 16

◆ Observation: This proviso is intended to incorporate the holding of Kirby v United States. 17 In that case (a prosecution for receipt of stolen property), the government introduced into evidence the convictions of three persons other than the accused for stealing the property, in order to prove that the property had in fact been stolen. The United States Supreme Court held that this use of the three convictions violated the Confrontation Clause (and distinguished a hypothetical situation in which the proof of the prior convictions of the others would be required as an element of the offense with which the accused had been charged). 18 Other authority states that the use of others' convictions in this manner also trenches upon an accused's due process right to have the prosecution prove every element of the offense with which he is charged, inasmuch as the jury, presented with the prior judgment of conviction, may defer to the findings of the trier of fact in that case, substituting those findings for the required evidence. 19

Footnotes

Footnote 15. FRE Rule 803(22); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(22).

Footnote 16. United States v Diaz (CA5 Tex) 936 F2d 786 (in prosecution for transporting illegal aliens, government could not prove illegal status of one of the aliens transported by evidence of her conviction on a charge of being in the United States without required documentation).

In prosecution for conducting illegal gambling business, where government was required to prove that at least four persons in addition to the accused were engaged in illegal gambling, the receipt of testimony by co-offenders to the effect that they had been convicted at their previous and separate trial of conducting an illegal gambling business was contrary to Rule 803(22) and reversible error. United States v Vandetti (CA6 Ky) 623 F2d 1144, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 311.

Footnote 17. Kirby v United States, 174 US 47, 43 L Ed 890, 19 S Ct 574.

Footnote 18. See, for example, 15 USCS § 902(d), creating the offense of interstate shipment of firearms to a known convicted felon.

Footnote 19. United States v Crispin (CA5 Tex) 757 F2d 611, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1490.

(4). Other Records [1346-1350]

§ 1346 Safety codes issued or approved by government bodies

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A safety code or standard which has been given compulsory force by a legislative body is generally admissible in evidence where relevant. 20 Where the codes or standards at issue had not been given the force of law, some courts have nonetheless permitted their admission into evidence as probative of whether a party to a suit was negligent in particular circumstances. 21 In other cases, however, such codes have been excluded from evidence on the grounds that they were not intended to prevent injuries of the type suffered in the case at bar, 22 or because they established a standard of care above an ordinary standard of care. 23

◆ Practice guide: An objection on hearsay grounds to the introduction of a safety code is likely to be answered by attempting to bring the code within either the "learned treatise" exception to the hearsay rule 24 or the "public record" exception to the hearsay rule. 25 If the "learned treatise" exception is invoked, admission will be denied if the witness testifying about the code is not an expert on the subject. 26 The "public record" exception will not apply where the preparation of the code was not required by law. 27

Footnotes

Footnote 20. Swaney v Peden Steel Co., 259 NC 531, 131 SE2d 601.

Annotation: Admissibility in evidence, on issue of negligence, of codes or standards of safety issued or sponsored by governmental body or by voluntary association, 58 ALR3d 148.

Footnote 21. Arkansas Valley Electric Coop. Corp. v Davis, 304 Ark 70, 800 SW2d 420 (violation of National Electric Safety Code, promulgated by United States Department of Commerce, is evidence of negligence).

Charts from the Idaho Driver's Handbook which showed average automobile stopping distances at various speeds should have been admitted as evidence on the issue of whether the plaintiff could have avoided the accident in which he had been involved if he had been driving at a lawful speed. Dawson v Olson, 97 Idaho 274, 543 P2d 499.

A report on water heaters, issued by the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission and recommending that a warning be placed on water heaters against storing gasoline or gasoline-powered equipment in the same room as a water heater, should have been allowed in evidence as an official publication, because it was highly relevant to the question of a water heater manufacturer's duty to warn consumers on this point. Toups v Sears, Roebuck & Co. (La) 507 So 2d 809, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11405, on remand (La App 4th Cir) 519 So 2d 842.

Footnote 22. Thies v St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church (Minn App) 489 NW2d 277.

Footnote 23. Cole v Multnomah County, 39 Or App 211, 592 P2d 221, review den 286 Or 449.

Footnote 24. §§ 1413-1417.

Footnote 25. §§ 1351 et seq.

Footnote 26. Meadows v Coca-Cola Bottling, Inc. (Ala) 392 So 2d 825, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 8880.

Footnote 27. Sikes v Seaboard C. L. R. Co. (Fla App D1) 429 So 2d 1216, petition den (Fla) 440 So 2d 353.

§ 1347 School records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Records kept by public schools can be admitted into evidence where they are relevant and are brought within the requirements of the public records exception to the hearsay rule. 28 Under this rule, transcripts of students' attendance records 29 and school census cards listing several students' dates of birth and identifying a particular man as their father 30 have been admitted. Where there is no official duty to keep the record in question, however, such records are inadmissible. 31

Report cards issued to students by a private school have been held not within the "official records" exception to the hearsay rule, where the applicable statute defined official records as records of government action or inaction. 32 Opinions rendered by a faculty hearing panel at a private university with regard to claims of sex discrimination in the university's employment practices have been held not within the public records exception on the grounds that the panel was not a public agency and its members were not public officials. 33

◆ Observation: School records may also be admissible under the "business records" exception to the hearsay rule. 34

Footnotes

Footnote 28. As to the requirements of the public records exception, see §§ 1351 et seq.

Footnote 29. In re R., 79 Misc 2d 339, 357 NYS2d 1001.

Footnote 30. State v Barlow, 8 Utah 2d 396, 335 P2d 629.

Footnote 31. Reisman v Los Angeles City School Dist., 123 Cal App 2d 493, 267 P2d 36.

Footnote 32. Schwarcz v Schwarcz, 378 Pa Super 170, 548 A2d 556, app den 522 Pa 578, 559 A2d 39 and app den 522 Pa 578, 559 A2d 39 and cert den 498 US 815, 112 L Ed 2d 31, 111 S Ct 56.

Footnote 33. Lamphere v Brown University (CA1 RI) 685 F2d 743, 29 BNA FEP Cas 701, 29 CCH EPD ¶ 32928, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 388.

Footnote 34. § 1317.

§ 1348 Tax records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Certificates of tax assessments and payments prepared by the Internal Revenue Service are within the public record exception to the hearsay rule as codified by Rule 803(8) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, 35 and are not rendered inadmissible merely because they are generated by a computer. 36 Records of tax assessments based on appraised value of property, however, are admissible under Rule 803(8) only for the purpose of showing an assessment based on the appraised value, and are not admissible for the purpose of showing that the property actually had the value stated in them. 37

§ 1348 ----Tax records [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In action by patient for invasion of privacy against her plastic surgeon for using her before-and- after pictures on brochures without her consent, trial court erred in ordering surgeon to disclose that portion of his tax returns showing profits and losses from his medical practice in support of patient's claim for punitive damages; while Nevada did not recognize privilege for tax returns or necessarily require that liability for punitive damages be established before discovery of financial condition, before tax returns or financial records were discoverable on issue of punitive damages, plaintiff was required to demonstrate some factual basis for punitive damage claim. Hetter v Eighth Judicial Dist. Court (1994, Nev) 874 P2d 762.

Footnotes

Footnote 35. FRE Rule 803(8), generally discussed in §§ 1352 et seq.

Footnote 36. Hughes v United States (CA9 Cal) 953 F2d 531, 92 CDOS 300, 92 Daily Journal DAR 396, 92-1 USTC ¶ 50086, 34 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1318, 69 AFTR 2d

Footnote 37. In re Digby (BC ND Ala) 47 BR 614, 12 CBC2d 440.

See also Smith v Woodlawn Constr. Co., 235 Va 424, 368 SE2d 699 ("official documents" exception to hearsay rule does not extend to statements not within the personal knowledge of the recording official, nor does it permit introduction of opinion evidence contained in official records, and therefore a county revenue commissioner's assessment of certain parcels of land was inadmissible, as there was no showing that the commissioner had personal knowledge of the value of the property, and in any event such knowledge would have been merely an opinion).

§ 1349 Weather records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Properly authenticated and officially kept weather records are generally held to be within the "public records" exception to the hearsay rule, 38 and accordingly to be admissible as evidence of weather conditions at a certain time and place. 39 Similarly, information extracted from an official weather report and included within a privately compiled document is not subject to exclusion under the hearsay rule. 40 The fact that a weather report was made at a place remote from the place where the weather conditions are in controversy has been held by some courts to affect the weight to be given the report, but not its admissibility. 41 In other cases, however, the distance between the place where the records were taken and the place at issue has led the courts to exclude such records from evidence. 42

Where a weather report is admissible in evidence, it is deemed prima facie evidence of the data it contains and not conclusive evidence of such data. 43

♦ Caution: The "public records" exception to the hearsay rule which permits admission of an official weather reports will not be stretched to permit admission of an official report based on hearsay from unofficial sources, such as reports of nonexpert witnesses and newspaper clippings. 44

A weather report may in the discretion of the court be excluded from evidence if it is confusing with respect to the conditions it describes. 45

Footnotes

Footnote 38. §§ 1351 et seq.

Footnote 39. People v Orchard (1st Dist) 17 Cal App 3d 568, 95 Cal Rptr 66 (disapproved on other grounds by People v Williams, 29 Cal 3d 392, 174 Cal Rptr 317, 628 P2d 869) as stated in People v Balderas, 41 Cal 3d 144, 222 Cal Rptr 184, 711 P2d

480; Loughnane v Chicago (1st Dist) 188 Ill App 3d 1078, 136 Ill Dec 626, 545 NE2d 150, app den 129 Ill 2d 564, 140 Ill Dec 672, 550 NE2d 557; Jones v Wilbanks (Mo App) 735 SW2d 409.

Annotation: Weather reports and records as evidence, 57 ALR3d 713 § 3.

Practice References 10 Am Jur Proof of Facts 49, Rain and Other Weather Phenomena.

5 Am Jur POF3d 191, Meteorological Conditions at a Particular Time or Place.

Obtaining weather reports. 2 Am Jur Trials 409, Locating Public Records.

Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook 2d § 69:18.

Footnote 40. Uniprop Manufactured Housing, Inc. v Lakeville (Minn App) 474 NW2d 375.

Footnote 41. Loughnane v Chicago (1st Dist) 188 Ill App 3d 1078, 136 Ill Dec 626, 545 NE2d 150, app den 129 Ill 2d 564, 140 Ill Dec 672, 550 NE2d 557.

Footnote 42. Pulvari v Greyhound Corp., 126 US App DC 146, 375 F2d 322 (exclusion of weather report of conditions at airport 2 miles away from accident scene was not error).

Footnote 43. Gillespie Land & Irrig. Co. v Gonzalez, 93 Ariz 152, 379 P2d 135; Harris v H. G. Smithy Co., 139 US App DC 65, 429 F2d 744.

But see Wadlund v Hartford, 139 Conn 169, 91 A2d 10 (official weather records are indisputable evidence of weather conditions at a particular place).

Footnote 44. Enid v Reeser (Okla) 330 P2d 198.

Footnote 45. Fedors v O'Brien (1st Dist) 39 Ill App 2d 407, 188 NE2d 739 (weather report was properly excluded where only part of it covered the area where the accident in question took place, the time covered in the report began after the time of the accident, the amount of precipitation which fell was not definitely stated, and the report could have supported either party's contentions).

§ 1350 Records of documents purporting to establish or affect interest in property

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 803(14) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, the record of a document purporting to establish or affect an interest in property is admissible in evidence notwithstanding the rule against hearsay as proof of the content of the original recorded document and its execution and delivery by each person by whom it purports to have been executed, if the record is a record of a public office and an applicable statute authorizes the recording of documents of that kind in that office. 46

◆ Caution: The mere fact that a copy of a deed has been placed in the working file of a public agency does not make such document a public record for the purpose of Rule 803(14). 47

◆ Comment: As noted by the Advisory Committee in its notes pertaining to Rule 803(14) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, under any theory of the admissibility of public records, the provision of Rule 803(14) for admission of recorded documents respecting an interest in property for the purpose of showing their contents is unobjectionable, since otherwise the recording process would be reduced to a nullity. Admission of such documents to show their execution and delivery, however, is problematic in view of the fact that the recorder is unlikely to have first-hand knowledge of such matters. The Committee noted that the problem is solved by the fact that apparently all jurisdictions qualify for recording only those documents which are shown by a specified procedure to have been executed and delivered.

Information contained in recorded deeds as to the sale prices of various land parcels, proffered to show the value of a parcel in the same vicinity, is generally hearsay and inadmissible unless a proper foundation for such evidence is laid under Rule 803(14) or another potentially applicable hearsay exception (such as Rule 803(15), applicable to the deeds themselves, or Rule 703, permitting the use of hearsay evidence as the basis of an expert opinion). 48 Although Rule 803(14) is commonly invoked to determine matters such as a chain of title or metes and bounds of a parcel of land, its scope extends to other matters as well, such as the suitability of land for a particular use. 49

An assertion by one who signed a quitclaim deed that she did not know what she was signing does not affect the admissibility of the record of the deed under Rule 803(14). 50

◆ Comment: Rule 803(14) is not by its language limited to matters concerning real property. However, as a practical matter the "applicable statute" authorizing the recording of documents covered by Rule 803(14) is generally a state statute pertaining to the recording of interests in real property. Although the Uniform Commercial Code provides for the filing of financing statements indicating security interests in personal property, 51 such financing statements do not affect or establish property interests in the same sense as do mortgages, deeds, or easements; they are in effect notice to the world of a previously created interest. For this reason, one commentator has said that although no judicial authority exists on the issue, Rule 803(14) should probably be read as covering only records of documents establishing or affecting real property interests. 52

Footnotes

Footnote 46. FRE Rule 803(14); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(14).

As to rules dealing with documents or records of documents purporting to establish or affect interests in property, see also §§ 1244 et seq.

Footnote 47. Amoco Production Co. v United States (CA10 Utah) 619 F2d 1383, 67 OGR 136, later proceeding (DC Utah) 663 F Supp 998, 95 OGR 406, affd (CA10 Utah) 852 F2d 1581, 101 OGR 173, later proceeding (CA10 Utah) 852 F2d 1574, 101 OGR 160.

Footnote 48. United States v 478.34 Acres of Land (CA6 Ky) 578 F2d 156, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 187.

Annotation: Admissibility of testimony of expert, as to basis of his opinion, to matters otherwise excludible as hearsay—state cases, 89 ALR4th 456 §§ 18-21, 24.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 49.9.

Footnote 49. Connecticut Light & Power Co. v Federal Power Com. (CA2) 557 F2d 349, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 340 (recorded deed made in 1716 granting the right to float rafts, trees, and logs upon the Housatonic River was admissible under Rule 803(14) on the question of the navigability of the river between certain points).

Footnote 50. Pimentel v Alamo (Fla App D3) 555 So 2d 895, 15 FLW D 164.

Footnote 51. 68A Am Jur 2d, Secured Transactions §§ 304 et seq.

Footnote 52. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 462.

(5). "Public Record" Exception to Hearsay Rule [1351-1371]

(a). In General [1351]

§ 1351 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

When a document is offered to prove the truth of matters asserted in it, it is hearsay, even if the document is a public record. 53 Both the common law and the statutory law of evidence, however, provide for broad exceptions to the hearsay rule for a range of documents having the character of public records. The common law recognizes (although it does not always sharply define) an exception to the hearsay rule which applies to official records and public reports which public officials are required by statute or by the nature of their duties to make or keep. 54 In many jurisdictions the common-law exception has been codified or superseded by statutes defining the extent to which public records and reports are exempt from the hearsay rule. Such statutes may provide for the admission of public records, notwithstanding their character as hearsay, to the extent that such records contain statements of facts as distinguished from conclusions involving the exercise of judgment or discretion, or the expression of opinion. 55 The admission of public records may be confined to matters within the scope of the maker's duty as defined by statute. 56 Admission of such a record may require satisfaction of a statutorily mandated showing of trustworthiness by showing that the record was based on the observations of one having a duty to make and record such observations. 57

◆ Observation: A public record or report may qualify for the "business records" exception to the hearsay rule. 58 Furthermore, a public record of a document purporting to establish or affect an interest in property will qualify for admission into evidence under Rule 803(14) notwithstanding its nature as hearsay if an applicable statute authorizes the recording of documents of that kind in the office in which the document was recorded. 59

Footnotes

Footnote 53. People v Graney (2d Dist) 234 Ill App 3d 497, 174 Ill Dec 790, 599 NE2d 574.

Footnote 54. Knox Lime Co. v Maine State Highway Com. (Me) 230 A2d 814.

Footnote 55. Kaye v State Dept. of Licensing, 34 Wash App 132, 659 P2d 548.

Footnote 56. Westinghouse Electric Corp. v Dolly Madison Leasing & Furniture Corp., 42 Ohio St 2d 122, 71 Ohio Ops 2d 85, 326 NE2d 651.

Footnote 57. Fisk v Department of Motor Vehicles (2nd Dist) 127 Cal App 3d 72, 179 Cal Rptr 379, 31 ALR4th 905.

Footnote 58. People v Lopez, 60 Cal 2d 223, 32 Cal Rptr 424, 384 P2d 16, cert den 375 US 994, 11 L Ed 2d 480, 84 S Ct 634, reh den 376 US 939, 11 L Ed 2d 660, 84 S Ct 794 and reh den 376 US 946, 11 L Ed 2d 770, 84 S Ct 800 and (ovrld on other grounds by De Lancie v Superior Court, 31 Cal 3d 865, 183 Cal Rptr 866, 647 P2d 142) as stated in Donaldson v Superior Court, 35 Cal 3d 24, 196 Cal Rptr 704, 672 P2d 110.

As to the admission of business records notwithstanding their nature as hearsay, see §§ 1290 et seq.

Footnote 59. § 1350.

(b). Provisions of Federal Rules of Evidence [1352-1369]

(i). In General [1352-1355]

§ 1352 Generally

View Entire Section

Rule 803(8) of the Federal Rules of Evidence provides for the admission of a wide range of public records and reports notwithstanding their nature as hearsay.

◆ Observation: Rule 803(8) sets out the exception for public records and reports formerly governed by a federal statute known as the Official Records Act. 60

Under the Rule, the hearsay bar is removed from records, reports, statements, or data compilations, in any form, of public offices or agencies, setting forth:

(A) the activities of the office or agency;

(B) matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law as to which matters there was a duty to report (excluding, however, in criminal cases matters observed by police officers and other law enforcement personnel); or

(C) in civil actions and proceedings and against the government in criminal cases, factual findings resulting from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law, unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness. 61

◆ Comment: It is unclear whether the proviso of Rule 803(8) permitting exclusion of otherwise admissible evidence if the source of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness is intended to apply only to records offered under clause (C), or to records offered under clauses (A) and (B) as well. Most of the reported cases interpreting and applying the "trustworthiness" proviso have done so in the context of evidence offered under clause (C). 62 Some commentators and cases, however, have suggested that the proviso should be regarded as applicable to all the clauses of Rule 803(8). 63 By contrast, the "public records" exception to the hearsay rule contained in Rule 803(6) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence is worded so as to make clear that the trustworthiness provision applies to all reports proffered under the Rule. 64

Footnotes

Footnote 60. The Official Records Act no longer applies to cases, actions, and proceedings to which the Federal Rules of Evidence apply. 28 USCS § 1733(c).

Annotation: What are official records within purview of 28 USCS § 1733, making such records or books admissible in evidence, 50 ALR2d 1197.

Admissibility, under Rule 803(8)(C) of Federal Rules of Evidence, of "factual findings resulting from investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law", 47 ALR Fed 321.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 55.14.

Footnote 61. FRE Rule 803(8).

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 55.13.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence §§ 454-456.

Footnote 62. § 1368.

Footnote 63. United States v Orozco (CA9 Cal) 590 F2d 789, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 308, cert den 439 US 1049, 58 L Ed 2d 709, 99 S Ct 728 and cert den 442 US 920, 61 L Ed 2d 288, 99 S Ct 2845 (applying trustworthiness proviso to records proffered under clause (B)).

Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 456 (noting that the trustworthiness proviso in the "business records" exception to the hearsay rule contained in FRE Rule 803(6) clearly applies to all records offered thereunder).

Footnote 64. § 1370.

§ 1353 Scope of exception

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The public records exception in FR Evid, Rule 803(8) is quite broad, embracing records in almost any form, 65 including computer printouts. 66 It reaches records of any public office or agency, whether state or local, 67 federal, or foreign. 68

The record to be admitted must be made from matters within the personal knowledge of the public official making the record or his agent or someone with a duty to report the matter to a public official. However, the Rule does not require a public official to make the record. 69 Records prepared by private agencies, or by persons who are not public officers, are excluded from the ambit of Rule 803(8), despite their otherwise public nature. 70

Footnotes

Footnote 65. Chandler v Roudebush, 425 US 840, 48 L Ed 2d 416, 96 S Ct 1949, 12 BNA FEP Cas 1368, 11 CCH EPD ¶ 10957 (administrative findings made in connection with claim of discrimination in public employment); Melville v American Home Assur. Co. (CA3 Pa) 584 F2d 1306, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 756 (airworthiness directives issued by Federal Aviation Administration); Higgenbottom v Noreen (CA9 Or) 586 F2d 719, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 202 (inspection reports prepared by Veterans' Administration in aid of purchase-money mortgage).

Footnote 66. United States v Farris (CA7 Ill) 517 F2d 226, 75-1 USTC ¶ 9497, 20 FR Serv 2d 1117, 36 AFTR 2d 75-5064, cert den 423 US 892, 46 L Ed 2d 123, 96 S Ct 189 (citing proposed Rule); United States v Orozco (CA9 Cal) 590 F2d 789, 4 Fed Rules

Evid Serv 308, cert den 439 US 1049, 58 L Ed 2d 709, 99 S Ct 728 and cert den 442 US 920, 61 L Ed 2d 288, 99 S Ct 2845 (Custom Service's compilation of license numbers of cars crossing the border).

Annotation: Proof of public records kept or stored on electronic computing equipment, 71 ALR3d 232.

Practice Aids: Computer Printouts as Evidence. 16 Am Jur Proof of Facts 273.

Footnote 67. United States v King (CA8 Mo) 590 F2d 253, cert den 440 US 973, 59 L Ed 2d 790, 99 S Ct 1538 (state tax records).

Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, FRE Rule 803.

Footnote 68. United States v Grady (CA2 NY) 544 F2d 598, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 408, 37 ALR Fed 819 (police records from Northern Ireland); United States v Friedman (CA9 Wash) 593 F2d 109, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 646 (not followed on other grounds by United States v Hines (AFCMR) 18 MJ 729) (Chilean immigration records).

Footnote 69. United States v Central Gulf Lines, Inc. (CA5 La) 747 F2d 315, 1985 AMC 1982, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 568.

Footnote 70. Lamphere v Brown University (CA1 RI) 685 F2d 743, 29 BNA FEP Cas 701, 29 CCH EPD ¶ 32928, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 388, later proceeding (DC RI) 613 F Supp 971, 38 BNA FEP Cas 871, 39 CCH EPD ¶ 36062, vacated on other grounds (CA1 RI) 798 F2d 532, 41 BNA FEP Cas 828, 41 CCH EPD ¶ 36434, on remand (DC RI) 690 F Supp 125, 47 BNA FEP Cas 300, 49 CCH EPD ¶ 38819, later proceeding (DC RI) 706 F Supp 131, 49 BNA FEP Cas 106, on reconsideration (DC RI) 712 F Supp 1053, affd (CA1 RI) 875 F2d 916, 49 BNA FEP Cas 1464, 50 CCH EPD ¶ 39025 and dismd without op (CA1 RI) 900 F2d 247 and app den (CA1 RI) 843 F2d 1383 (excluding opinions of sex discrimination hearing panel composed of faculty of private university).

In products liability action against manufacturer of snuff tobacco, trial court did not err in excluding report of International Agency for Research on Cancer and report of Consensus Development Conference of National Institute of Health, offered on issue of causation, since neither report was prepared by public office or agency as required by Rule 803(8); rather, IARC report was a review and critique of literature on causation of cancer conducted at Conference attended by scientists, and NIH report was prepared by panel of scientists and non-scientists after conference. Marsee v United States Tobacco Co. (CA10 Okla) 866 F2d 319, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 12023, 27 Fed Rules Evid Serv 694.

§ 1354 Rationale; relationship to Confrontation Clause

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The rationale underlying the admissibility of documents under Rule 803(8) is the presumed trustworthiness of public documents prepared in the discharge of official functions, and the necessity of using such documents, due to the likelihood that a public official would have no independent memory of a particular action or entry where the official's duties require the constant repetition of routine tasks. 71 The "public records" exception to the hearsay rule embodied in FR Evid, Rule 803(8) is firmly enough rooted in American jurisprudence that admission of a public record under the Rule, without affording an accused any further opportunity to inquire into the reliability of the record, does not violate the requirements of the Confrontation Clause. 72

Footnotes

Footnote 71. Williams v Tri-County Growers, Inc. (CA3 Pa) 747 F2d 121, 26 BNA WH Cas 1519, 102 CCH LC ¶ 34600, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 60 (criticized on other grounds by Martin v Cooper Elec. Supply Co. (CA3 NJ) 940 F2d 896, 30 BNA WH Cas 793, 119 CCH LC ¶ 35526); United States v Quezada (CA5 Tex) 754 F2d 1190, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 659, reh den, en banc (CA5 Tex) 758 F2d 651.

Footnote 72. United States v De Water (CA9 Hawaii) 846 F2d 528, 25 Fed Rules Evid Serv 748.

§ 1355 Authentication

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The custodian of a public record is an appropriate authenticating witness for the purposes of Rule 803(8) of the Federal Rules of Evidence. 73 Such a witness must be able to identify the documents as authentic and as made pursuant to a duty required by law. Where the witness testifies that he or she was the custodian of the documents, properly identifies the documents, and testifies that they were prepared pursuant to federal regulations, Rule 803(8) is satisfied. 74 However, the authenticating witness need not be the custodian of the record in question as long as he or she can attest to familiarity with the record system. 75

◆ Observation: The self-authentication provisions of Rule 902 make it unnecessary in most cases to obtain live testimony that a public document is in fact what it appears to be. 76 Moreover, Rule 1005 permits public records to be proved by copy. 77

Footnotes

Footnote 73. United States v Central Gulf Lines, Inc. (CA5 La) 747 F2d 315, 1985 AMC 1982, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 568.

Practice Aids: Introducing and marking exhibits (public records). 5 Am Jur Trials 553 § 19.

Footnote 74. United States v Central Gulf Lines, Inc. (CA5 La) 747 F2d 315, 1985 AMC 1982, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 568.

Footnote 75. United States v Ray (CA9 Cal) 930 F2d 1368, 91 CDOS 2868 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Wogan (CA1 Me) 938 F2d 1446).

Footnote 76. As to Rule 902, see §§ 1180 et seq.

Footnote 77. § 1090.

(ii). Records Setting Forth Activities of Office or Agency [1356, 1357]

§ 1356 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Rule 803(8)(A) of the Federal Rules of Evidence allows for the receipt of public records setting forth the activities of a public office or agency. 78 Thus admitted are such public records as—

—the report to Congress of a federal agency. 79

—reports from examiners from the Office of the Comptroller of Currency. 80

—the official transcript of a judicial proceeding, offered to prove that an officer of the court administered an oath to a witness. 81

—the return of a marshal used to prove that he served papers on a particular person at a particular place and time. 82

—a certificate of insurance issued by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation indicating that a bank was federally insured; 83 —an internal police report describing a shooting which occurred in the course of an arrest. 84

—a report by the Department of Labor on reconciliation efforts with the Equal Opportunity Coordinator concerning job discrimination at a major corporation. 85

—documents prepared by the Commissioner of Customs entitled "Antidumping Proceeding Notice" and "Withholding of Appraisement Notice." 86

—a graph from a Drug Enforcement Administration statistical report indicating the average retail price and purity of illicit cocaine. 87

—a federal marshal's receipt for a defendant. 88

—Senate Committee Reports, even though in the form of factual evaluations rather than compilations of data. 89

—case control studies regarding toxic shock syndrome conducted by the Center for Disease Control and state health departments. 90

§ 1356 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In products liability action involving silicone gel breast implants, court erred in admitting FDA report containing proposed findings about implants generally since document by its own terms was not final but invited public comment, did not contain any findings about specific implants at issue, and proposed findings related to implants after date in issue. Toole v McClintock (1993, CA11 Ala) 999 F2d 1430, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 13606, 37 Fed Rules Evid Serv 997, 7 FLW Fed C 735.

Footnotes

Footnote 78. FRE Rule 803(8)(A).

Footnote 79. Eastern Air Lines, Inc. v McDonnell Douglas Corp. (CA5 Fla) 532 F2d 957, 19 UCCRS 353 (criticized on other grounds by Opera Co. of Boston, Inc. v Wolf Trap Foundation for Performing Arts (CA4 Va) 817 F2d 1094).

Footnote 80. Farmers & Merchants Nat. Bank v Bryan (CA10 Okla) 902 F2d 1520 (criticized on other grounds by FDIC v Dawson (CA5 Tex) 4 F3d 1303).

Footnote 81. United States v Arias (CA9 Ariz) 575 F2d 253, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 184, cert den 439 US 868, 58 L Ed 2d 179, 99 S Ct 196.

As to 28 USCS § 753(b), providing that a reporter's transcript of criminal proceedings is prima facie correct statement of the testimony taken and proceedings had, see 32 Am Jur 2d, Federal Practice and Procedure § 210.

Footnote 82. United States v Union Nacional de Trabajadores (CA1 Puerto Rico) 576 F2d 388, 98 BNA LRRM 2554, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10617.

Footnote 83. United States v Albert (CA1 Me) 773 F2d 386, 18 Fed Rules Evid Serv 831.

Footnote 84. Wilson v Beebe (CA6 Mich) 770 F2d 578 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Fundiller v Cooper City (CA11 Fla) 777 F2d 1436) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Kuhar v Hanton (CA6 Ohio) 836 F2d 1348, reported in full 1988 US App LEXIS 140).

Footnote 85. Blim v Western Elec. Co. (CA10 Okla) 731 F2d 1473, 34 BNA FEP Cas

757, 34 CCH EPD ¶ 34300, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1289, cert den 469 US 874, 83 L Ed 2d 161, 105 S Ct 233, 36 BNA FEP Cas 816, 35 CCH EPD ¶ 34663 and (criticized on other grounds by Lindsey v American Cast Iron Pipe Co. (CA11 Ala) 810 F2d 1094, 43 BNA FEP Cas 143, 42 CCH EPD ¶ 36945) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Hansard v Pepsi-Cola Metro. Bottling Co. (CA5 Tex) 865 F2d 1461, 49 BNA FEP Cas 197, 49 CCH EPD ¶ 38764, 27 Fed Rules Evid Serv 644).

Footnote 86. In re Japanese Elec. Prods. Antitrust Litig. (CA3 Pa) 723 F2d 238, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65757, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 401, revd on other grounds, remanded 475 US 574, 89 L Ed 2d 538, 106 S Ct 1348, 1986-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67004, 4 FR Serv 3d 368, on remand (CA3 Pa) 807 F2d 44, 1986-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67374, cert den 481 US 1029, 95 L Ed 2d 527, 107 S Ct 1955 and (criticized on other grounds by Pfeiffer v Marion Ctr. Area Sch. Dist. (CA3 Pa) 917 F2d 779, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 675).

Footnote 87. United States v Hardin (CA7 Ill) 710 F2d 1231, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 890, cert den 464 US 918, 78 L Ed 2d 263, 104 S Ct 286.

Footnote 88. United States v Wilson (CA9 Nev) 690 F2d 1267, cert den 464 US 867, 78 L Ed 2d 178, 104 S Ct 205, reh den 467 US 1211, 81 L Ed 2d 358, 104 S Ct 2402 and (disapproved on other grounds by United States v Young, 470 US 1, 84 L Ed 2d 1, 105 S Ct 1038) as stated in United States v Hoac (CA9 Cal) 990 F2d 1099, 93 CDOS 2196, 93 Daily Journal DAR 3855, 37 Fed Rules Evid Serv 558, cert den (US) 127 L Ed 2d 392, 114 S Ct 1075.

Footnote 89. Hobson v Wilson (DC Dist Col) 556 F Supp 1157, affd in part and revd in part on other grounds 237 US App DC 219, 737 F2d 1, cert den 470 US 1084, 85 L Ed 2d 142, 105 S Ct 1843.

Footnote 90. Wolf v Procter & Gamble Co. (DC NJ) 555 F Supp 613, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 294, 37 FR Serv 2d 1053.

§ 1357 Records of foreign nations

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(8)(A) of the Federal Rules of Evidence also permits the receipt into evidence of public records of foreign countries, such as a recommended decision and supporting documents prepared by the Japanese Fair Trade Commission, 91 a telex sent by the German government through the State Department to the Federal Aviation Administration regarding an ongoing case, 92 and a document written on official stationary, signed and sealed by Commander General of Honduran Navy, identifying a certain vessel as Honduran and consenting to the exercise of jurisdiction by the United States over the vessel. 93

Footnotes

Footnote 91. In re Japanese Elec. Prods. Antitrust Litig. (CA3 Pa) 723 F2d 238, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65757, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 401, revd on other grounds, remanded 475 US 574, 89 L Ed 2d 538, 106 S Ct 1348, 1986-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67004, 4 FR Serv 3d 368, on remand (CA3 Pa) 807 F2d 44, 1986-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67374, cert den 481 US 1029, 95 L Ed 2d 527, 107 S Ct 1955 and (criticized on other grounds by Pfeiffer v Marion Ctr. Area Sch. Dist. (CA3 Pa) 917 F2d 779, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 675).

Footnote 92. Federal Aviation Admin. v Landy (CA2 NY) 705 F2d 624, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 100, 36 FR Serv 2d 494, cert den 464 US 895, 78 L Ed 2d 232, 104 S Ct 243.

Footnote 93. United States v Mena (CA11 Fla) 863 F2d 1522, cert den 493 US 834, 107 L Ed 2d 72, 110 S Ct 109, 110 S Ct 110.

(iii). Report of Matters Observed Pursuant to Legal Duty [1358-1362]

§ 1358 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(8)(B) of the Federal Rules of Evidence allows the receipt of public records setting forth matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law as to which matters there was a duty to report, except in criminal cases observed by police officers and other law enforcement personnel. 94 The source of the information recorded must have personal knowledge of the matters observed, 95 and the record must be of a sort which is routinely prepared, even if not required by statute. 96

◆ Observation: A state statute which requires a record to be kept but provides that such record shall not be admissible as evidence is not controlling in federal litigation where the Federal Rules of Evidence apply, but may nonetheless influence a federal District Court to exclude the record in question, particularly where there are factors present which make the record less trustworthy. 97

Rule 803(8)(B) does not require that a public official personally make the record, as long as the record is made pursuant to a duty imposed by law, which law may issue from a governmental agency. 98 But it does not include records based upon statements by persons outside the public agency, that is, private citizens, 99 unless a report can be used merely to prove that an outsider made a statement where this is itself significant. 1 Nor does the exception authorize admission of nonadversarial public hearing reports. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 94. FRE Rule 803(8)(B).

Footnote 95. United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437.

Footnote 96. United States v Arias (CA9 Ariz) 575 F2d 253, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 184, cert den 439 US 868, 58 L Ed 2d 179, 99 S Ct 196.

Annotation: Admissibility, under public records exception to hearsay rule, of record kept by public official without express statutory direction or authorization, 80 ALR3d 414.

Footnote 97. Johnson v United States (CA11 Fla) 780 F2d 902, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1434 (criticized on other grounds by Gutierrez-Rodriguez v Cartagena (CA1 Puerto Rico) 882 F2d 553, 28 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1317) (court also considered circumstances under which report was prepared and inclusion of noncontemporaneous unofficial statements).

Footnote 98. United States v Central Gulf Lines, Inc. (ED La) 575 F Supp 1430, 1985 AMC 595, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 900, affd (CA5 La) 747 F2d 315, 1985 AMC 1982, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 568 (cargo survey reports and short landing certificates prepared by an independent surveyor who was hired by a private sponsor cooperating under agreement with the Agency for International Development were admissible as public records).

Footnote 99. Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054 (eyewitness account of accident included in policeman's accident report).

Footnote 1. Hackley v Roudebush, 171 US App DC 376, 520 F2d 108, 11 BNA FEP Cas 487, 10 CCH EPD ¶ 10403, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 170 (criticized on other grounds by Haire v Calloway (CA8 Mo) 526 F2d 246, 11 BNA FEP Cas 769, 10 CCH EPD ¶ 10505) (referring to provisions for prior consistent statements, prior inconsistent statements, and former testimony; citing proposed Rule).

Footnote 2. Escrow Disbursement Ins. Agency, Inc. v American Title & Ins. Co. (SD Fla) 551 F Supp 302.

§ 1359 Particular reports as admissible under Rule 803(8)(B)

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Rule 803(8)(B) is designed to reach records which are relatively concrete and factual in nature, as opposed to interpretative or evaluative. It includes such records as——an accident report, insofar as it describes the scene of the accident and the extent of damages, 3 but not to the extent that the report draws conclusions. 4

- weather bureau records. 5
- a report of water temperatures in a river. 6
- reports from building code inspectors; 7
- a copyright certificate offered to prove the date when a sound recording first became copyrightable. 8
- an Immigration and Naturalization Service warrant of deportation. 9
- an Indian tribal roll. 10
- notices prepared by the Commissioner of Customs. 11
- a foreign notarial document. 12
- a report prepared by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms establishing that a particular firearm traveled in interstate commerce. 13
- a trial transcript introduced to show that testimony was given and that an oath was taken. 14

§ 1359 ----Particular reports as admissible under Rule 803(8)(B) [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Admissibility of government factfinding in products liability actions
29 ALR5th 534.

Case authorities:

Immigration form, which contained routine pedigree information and details of arrest, contained factual findings resulting from investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law, and driver's license application, which required DMV official to fill in certain routine information, could be considered statements setting forth matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law, and thus were properly admitted. Felzcerek v INS (1996, CA2) 75 F3d 112.

Letters written by officials of Labor Department regarding validity of local union's trusteeship should not have been admitted in action by former business manager who was terminated following imposition and lifting of trusteeship since they were not records, reports, statements, or data compilations setting forth factual findings resulting from investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law. Thompson v Office & Professional Employees Int'l Union (1996, CA6 Tenn) 74 F3d 1492, 151 BNA LRRM 2425, 131 CCH LC ¶ 11506, reh, en banc, den (1996, CA6) 1996 US App LEXIS 8864.

Documents offered by insurer in support of motion for summary judgment are admissible, where it obtained them through Freedom of Information requests directed to public governmental agencies, because documents are subject to FRE 803(8) public records exception to hearsay rule, absent challenge to their trustworthiness. Upjohn Co. v Aetna Casualty & Sur. Co. (1993, WD Mich) 850 F Supp 1342.

Footnotes

Footnote 3. Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054.

Annotation: Admissibility, in personal injury or death action arising out of airplane accident, of documents and reports pertaining to investigations, 23 ALR2d 1360.

Admissibility of police reports under Federal Business Records Act (Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803, and predecessor amendments), 31 ALR Fed 457.

Footnote 4. Lerner v Seaboard C. L. R. Co. (SD NY) 594 F Supp 963 (notation in report that intersection is especially hazardous).

Footnote 5. Evanston v Gunn, 99 US 660, 9 Otto 660, 25 L Ed 306.

As to the admissibility of weather records generally, see § 1349.

Footnote 6. Elwood v New York (SD NY) 450 F Supp 846, revd on other grounds (CA2 NY) 606 F2d 358, 13 Env't Rep Cas 1833, cert den 447 US 906, 64 L Ed 2d 855, 100 S Ct 2989, 14 Env't Rep Cas 1575 (United States Geological Survey).

Footnote 7. United States v Hansen (CA7 Wis) 583 F2d 325, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 381, cert den 439 US 912, 58 L Ed 2d 259, 99 S Ct 283.

Footnote 8. United States v Taxe (CA9 Cal) 540 F2d 961, 192 USPQ 204, cert den 429 US 1040, 50 L Ed 2d 751, 97 S Ct 737, reh den 429 US 1124, 51 L Ed 2d 575, 97 S Ct 1163 and appeal after remand (CA9 Cal) 572 F2d 216, 200 USPQ 18, cert den 436 US 918, 56 L Ed 2d 759, 98 S Ct 2265, 200 USPQ 558 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Gering (CA9 Wash) 716 F2d 615, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 348).

Footnote 9. United States v Quezada (CA5 Tex) 754 F2d 1190, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 659, reh den, en banc (CA5 Tex) 758 F2d 651.

Footnote 10. United States v Torres (CA7 Wis) 733 F2d 449, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 495, cert den 469 US 864, 83 L Ed 2d 135, 105 S Ct 204, post-conviction proceeding (CA7) 1991 US App LEXIS 6914.

Footnote 11. In re Japanese Elec. Prods. Antitrust Litig. (CA3 Pa) 723 F2d 238, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65757, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 401, revd on other grounds, remanded 475 US 574, 89 L Ed 2d 538, 106 S Ct 1348, 1986-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67004, 4 FR Serv 3d 368 and (criticized on other grounds by Pfeiffer v Marion Ctr. Area Sch. Dist. (CA3 Pa) 917 F2d 779, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 675).

Footnote 12. Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. v Hellenic Lines, Ltd. (SD NY) 621 F Supp 198, 1986 AMC 626.

Footnote 13. United States v Johnson (CA8 Mo) 722 F2d 407, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1086.

Footnote 14. United States v Arias (CA9 Ariz) 575 F2d 253, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 184, cert den 439 US 868, 58 L Ed 2d 179, 99 S Ct 196.

§ 1360 Exclusion of observations of law enforcement personnel

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The exception to the hearsay rule for matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law as to which matters there was a duty to report is not applicable in criminal cases with respect to matters observed by police officers and other law enforcement personnel. 15 This provision reflects Congress' reluctance to credit the accuracy of documents prepared by law enforcement personnel which purport to recount observations made in furtherance of criminal investigations. 16 Since the legislative history makes it clear that Congress was concerned with protecting the rights of the accused, 17 the language of the exception does not prevent the accused in criminal cases from introducing reports by law enforcement personnel under clause (B). 18 However, out-of-court statements of interviewees contained in such a report must come within separate hearsay exceptions before they can be admitted. 19

The phrase "other law enforcement personnel," as used in Rule 803(8)(B), includes any officer or employee of a governmental agency which has law enforcement responsibilities, 20 but does not apply to those officials whose reports would not lead to a criminal conviction. 21

Footnotes

Footnote 15. FRE Rule 803(8)(B).

Annotation: Admissibility, over hearsay objection, of police observations and investigative findings offered by government in criminal prosecution, excluded from public records exception to hearsay rule under Rule 803(8)(B) or (C), Federal Rules of Evidence, 56 ALR Fed 168.

Construction and application of provision of Rule 803(8)(B), Federal Rules of Evidence, excluding from exception to hearsay rule in criminal cases matters observed by law enforcement officers, 37 ALR Fed 831.

Practice Aids: Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 55:19.

Footnote 16. United States v Shoupe (CA6 Ohio) 548 F2d 636, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 636.

Footnote 17. Excerpts from Congressional Record for Feb. 6, 1974, H563-H565.

Footnote 18. United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid

Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437; United States v Oates (CA2 NY) 560 F2d 45, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 718, on remand (ED NY) 445 F Supp 351, affd without op (CA2 NY) 591 F2d 1332 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Martinez (CA11 Fla) 700 F2d 1358, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1256) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Yakobov (CA2 NY) 712 F2d 20, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906, 70 ALR Fed 187) and (disapproved on other grounds by Ohio v Roberts, 448 US 56, 65 L Ed 2d 597, 100 S Ct 2531, 17 Ohio Ops 3d 240, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1) as stated in United States v Hines (AFCMR) 18 MJ 729 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Quezada (CA5 Tex) 754 F2d 1190, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 659) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Nixon (CA2 NY) 779 F2d 126, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 194) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Metzger (CA6 Ky) 778 F2d 1195, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 695) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Picciandra (CA1 Mass) 788 F2d 39, 86-1 USTC ¶ 9322, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 20) and (not followed on other grounds by United States v Yeoman (NMCMR) 22 MJ 762) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Hernandez-Rojas (CA9 Or) 617 F2d 533, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 207) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Bland (CA9 Cal) 961 F2d 123, 92 CDOS 2405, 92 Daily Journal DAR 3795, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 296) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Blackburn (CA7 Ind) 992 F2d 666, 36 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1328).

Footnote 19. United States v De Peri (CA3 Pa) 778 F2d 963, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 256 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161) and cert den 475 US 1110, 89 L Ed 2d 916, 106 S Ct 1518 and cert den 476 US 1159, 90 L Ed 2d 720, 106 S Ct 2277 (FBI agent's report detailing his interviews during course of criminal investigation).

Footnote 20. United States v Oates (CA2 NY) 560 F2d 45, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 718, on remand (ED NY) 445 F Supp 351, affd without op (CA2 NY) 591 F2d 1332 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Martinez (CA11 Fla) 700 F2d 1358, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1256) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Yakobov (CA2 NY) 712 F2d 20, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906, 70 ALR Fed 187) and (disapproved on other grounds by Ohio v Roberts, 448 US 56, 65 L Ed 2d 597, 100 S Ct 2531, 17 Ohio Ops 3d 240, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1) as stated in United States v Hines (AFCMR) 18 MJ 729 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Quezada (CA5 Tex) 754 F2d 1190, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 659) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Nixon (CA2 NY) 779 F2d 126, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 194) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Metzger (CA6 Ky) 778 F2d 1195, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 695) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Picciandra (CA1 Mass) 788 F2d 39, 86-1 USTC ¶ 9322, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 20) and (not followed on other grounds by United States v Yeoman (NMCMR) 22 MJ 762) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Hernandez-Rojas (CA9 Or) 617 F2d 533, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 207) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Bland (CA9 Cal) 961 F2d 123, 92 CDOS 2405, 92 Daily Journal DAR 3795, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 296) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Blackburn (CA7 Ind) 992 F2d 666, 36 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1328) (Customs Inspector at border).

Footnote 21. United States v Hansen (CA7 Wis) 583 F2d 325, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 381, cert den 439 US 912, 58 L Ed 2d 259, 99 S Ct 283 (city building inspector).

§ 1361 --Routine reports of nonadversarial nature

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although the exclusion pertaining to matters observed by law enforcement personnel embraces many kinds of investigative reports, 22 it does not apply to routine reports of a nonadversarial nature. 23 The factors to be considered in determining whether a document is "routine" and "nonadversarial" include whether it is the product of a ministerial, objective, and nonevaluative act, and whether the report was made with knowledge that the act was requested as part of a criminal investigation. 24

Footnotes

Footnote 22. United States v Ruffin (CA2 NY) 575 F2d 346, 78-1 USTC ¶ 9269, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1307, 41 AFTR 2d 78-1021 (criticized on other grounds by United States v De Bright (CA9 Ariz) 710 F2d 1404) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Nixon (CA2 NY) 779 F2d 126, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 194) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Panzardi-Lespier (CA1 Puerto Rico) 918 F2d 313, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 846) (IRS record as to statement by defendant relating to tax liability of his corporation); United States v Oates (CA2 NY) 560 F2d 45, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 718, on remand (ED NY) 445 F Supp 351, affd without op (CA2 NY) 591 F2d 1332 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Martinez (CA11 Fla) 700 F2d 1358, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1256) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Yakobov (CA2 NY) 712 F2d 20, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906, 70 ALR Fed 187) and (disapproved on other grounds by Ohio v Roberts, 448 US 56, 65 L Ed 2d 597, 100 S Ct 2531, 17 Ohio Ops 3d 240, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1) as stated in United States v Hines (AFCMR) 18 MJ 729 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Quezada (CA5 Tex) 754 F2d 1190, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 659) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Nixon (CA2 NY) 779 F2d 126, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 194) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Metzger (CA6 Ky) 778 F2d 1195, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 695) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Picciandra (CA1 Mass) 788 F2d 39, 86-1 USTC ¶ 9322, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 20) and (not followed on other grounds by United States v Yeoman (NMCMR) 22 MJ 762) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Hernandez-Rojas (CA9 Or) 617 F2d 533, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 207) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Bland (CA9 Cal) 961 F2d 123, 92 CDOS 2405, 92 Daily Journal DAR 3795, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 296) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Blackburn (CA7 Ind) 992 F2d 666, 36 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1328) (laboratory analysis of heroin prepared by government chemist); United States v Campagnuolo (CA5 Fla) 592 F2d 852 (criticized on other grounds by Government of Virgin Islands v Martinez (CA3 VI) 780 F2d 302) (FBI agent's written report of substance of telephone calls received on defendant's telephone).

Footnote 23. United States v Union Nacional de Trabajadores (CA1 Puerto Rico) 576 F2d 388, 98 BNA LRRM 2554, 83 CCH LC ¶ 10617 (marshal's return of service); United States v Grady (CA2 NY) 544 F2d 598, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 408, 37 ALR Fed 819 (routine function of recording serial numbers and receipts of weapons found in Northern Ireland); United States v Dancy (CA5 Tex) 861 F2d 77, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1109 (fingerprint card, which contained defendant's fingerprints, physical description, sentence, and California Department of Corrections reporting date); United States v Wilmer (CA9 Wash) 799 F2d 495, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 761, cert den 481 US 1004, 95 L Ed 2d 200, 107 S Ct 1626 (breathalyzer calibration report); United States v Gilbert (CA9 Or) 774 F2d 962, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 602 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161) (card with attached latent fingerprint and Department of Public Safety employee's notation that fingerprint had been lifted from seized item); United States v Orozco (CA9 Cal) 590 F2d 789, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 308, cert den 439 US 1049, 58 L Ed 2d 709, 99 S Ct 728 and cert den 442 US 920, 61 L Ed 2d 288, 99 S Ct 2845 (computer data cards indicating that car owned by defendant had crossed border on certain night).

Footnote 24. United States v Gilbert (CA9 Or) 774 F2d 962, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 602 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161) (routine report of latent fingerprint).

§ 1362 --Excludable material as admissible under another exception to hearsay rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The question has arisen whether law enforcement records which are inadmissible under the exclusion in Rule 803(8)(B) are admissible under other exceptions to the hearsay rule. It has been held that the exclusion in Rule 803(8)(B) bars resort to other hearsay exceptions, ²⁵ but it has also been held that the exclusion does not apply to the past recorded recollections of a testifying police officer which would otherwise be admissible under the exception in Rule 803(5). ²⁶ The view has also been expressed that a law enforcement report may be admitted under the "business records" exception if the author is available to testify at trial. ²⁷ And where the existence or nonexistence of a particular public record is relevant to an accused's criminal liability, a statement of law enforcement personnel that no such record has been found after diligent search is admissible under Rule 803(10). ²⁸

◆ Observation: Several courts have noted the disagreement over whether a report that is inadmissible under Rule 803(8)(B) is nonetheless admissible under one of the other hearsay exceptions, but have found it unnecessary to resolve the question in the cases presented. ²⁹

Footnotes

Footnote 25. United States v Cain (CA5 La) 615 F2d 380, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1103;

United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437.

Footnote 26. United States v Sawyer (CA7 Ill) 607 F2d 1190, 79-2 USTC ¶ 9537, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1142, 44 AFTR 2d 79-5471, cert den 445 US 943, 63 L Ed 2d 776, 100 S Ct 1338.

As to past recorded recollections, generally, see §§ 1264 et seq.

Footnote 27. United States v Sawyer (CA7 Ill) 607 F2d 1190, 79-2 USTC ¶ 9537, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1142, 44 AFTR 2d 79-5471, cert den 445 US 943, 63 L Ed 2d 776, 100 S Ct 1338; Chaney v Brown (CA10 Okla) 730 F2d 1334, motion gr, cert den 469 US 1090, 83 L Ed 2d 710, 105 S Ct 601.

As to the admission of business records notwithstanding their nature as hearsay, see §§ 1290 et seq.

Footnote 28. § 1377.

Footnote 29. United States v Nixon (CA2 NY) 779 F2d 126, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 194; United States v Wright-Barker (CA3 NJ) 784 F2d 161 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Martinez-Hidalgo (CA3 VI) 993 F2d 1052, 28 VI 365).

(iv). Records of Factual Findings from Authorized Investigations [1363-1369]

§ 1363 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Rule 803(8)(C) of the Federal Rules of Evidence allows for the receipt in civil actions and proceedings, and against the government in criminal cases, of public records setting forth factual findings resulting from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law, unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness. 30 These records must relate to matters which the agency is authorized to investigate, 31 and the factual findings must be based upon the full administrative process required by law. 32 The requirement of the Rule that a report contain factual findings bars admission of statements not based on factual investigation. 33 The language of the Rule is "pursuant to authority" and this means "authorized" rather than "required." 34 All that is required is that the grant of authority issue from a properly constituted body. 35 The investigation from which the records are derived must be conducted by a public agency. 36 The information gathered by the agency need not be the result of a routine, ongoing, or periodic investigation, but need only be the type of information the agency routinely gathers in the regular course of its business pursuant to authority granted by law. 37 The fact that an investigatory proceeding could also be labeled a "quasi-judicial hearing" is of no consequence. 38

The exception is not available to the government in making its case in a criminal prosecution. 39 Moreover, even a record which satisfies the requirements set forth in the Rule is subject to exclusion by the trial court under Rule 403 on grounds of prejudice, confusion, or waste of time. 40 "Factual findings" within the meaning of the Rule necessarily entail a delineation of past, or at least ongoing, events; thus, a memorandum that outlines future inquiries and expected results is inadmissible under the Rule. 41

§ 1363 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Findings of ALJ of state Labor Department that plaintiff had not misrepresented her husband's insurance coverage to her employer would be admissible evidence under Rule 803(8)(c) as factual findings resulting from investigation pursuant to authority granted by law, unless sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness; sweep of rule encompasses administrative proceedings. Henry v Daytop Village (1994, CA2 NY) 42 F3d 89, 66 BNA FEP Cas 882.

Footnotes

Footnote 30. FRE Rule 803(8)(C).

Footnote 31. United States v School Dist. (CA6 Mich) 577 F2d 1339, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 225, 47 ALR Fed 294.

Annotation: Admissibility, under Rule 803(8)(C) of Federal Rules of Evidence, of "factual findings resulting from investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law", 47 ALR Fed 321.

Footnote 32. SEC v General Refractories Co. (DC Dist Col) 400 F Supp 1248, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 95291, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 105.

A SEC release designed to notify the public that the trading suspension of certain securities was lifted and that their price might be subject to erratic price movements because of control by one individual of 60 percent of the float was inadmissible hearsay since the release was not a determination of facts obtained after administrative proceedings. United States v Corr (CA2 NY) 543 F2d 1042, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 376.

Footnote 33. Beech Aircraft Corp. v Rainey, 488 US 153, 102 L Ed 2d 445, 109 S Ct 439, 1989 AMC 441, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 257, on remand, en banc (CA11 Fla) 868 F2d 1531.

Footnote 34. Jenkins v Whittaker Corp. (CA9 Hawaii) 785 F2d 720, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 654, 5 FR Serv 3d 232, cert den 479 US 918, 93 L Ed 2d 296, 107 S Ct 324 (accident report prepared by Army personnel was within Rule 803(8)(C) despite fact that they were not mandated by law).

Footnote 35. Perrin v Anderson (CA10 Okla) 784 F2d 1040, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1564 (shooting review board, report of which was properly admitted, was properly constituted body of state's department of public safety under state statute).

Footnote 36. Lamphere v Brown University (CA1 RI) 685 F2d 743, 29 BNA FEP Cas 701, 29 CCH EPD ¶ 32928, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 388, later proceeding (DC RI) 613 F Supp 971, 38 BNA FEP Cas 871, 39 CCH EPD ¶ 36062, vacated on other grounds (CA1 RI) 798 F2d 532, 41 BNA FEP Cas 828, 41 CCH EPD ¶ 36434, on remand (DC RI) 690 F Supp 125, 47 BNA FEP Cas 300, 49 CCH EPD ¶ 38819, later proceeding (DC RI) 706 F Supp 131, 49 BNA FEP Cas 106, on reconsideration (DC RI) 712 F Supp 1053, affd (CA1 RI) 875 F2d 916, 49 BNA FEP Cas 1464, 50 CCH EPD ¶ 39025 and dismd without op (CA1 RI) 900 F2d 247 and app den (CA1 RI) 843 F2d 1383 (investigation of sex discrimination at a private university conducted by a hearing panel composed of faculty members was not admissible under Rule 803(8)).

Footnote 37. Keith v Volpe (CD Cal) 618 F Supp 1132 (information gathered pursuant to court order).

Footnote 38. Revlon, Inc. v Carson Products Co. (SD NY) 602 F Supp 1071, revd on other grounds (CA FC) 803 F2d 676, 231 USPQ 472, later proceeding (SD NY) 647 F Supp 905 and cert den 479 US 1018, 93 L Ed 2d 722, 107 S Ct 671 (affidavit of FDA official giving findings in accordance with investigation conducted in determining trade secret status of product.)

Footnote 39. United States v Davis (CA5 Ga) 571 F2d 1354, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 761.

Footnote 40. Wilson v Attaway (CA11 Ga) 757 F2d 1227, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1380, reh den (CA11 Ga) 764 F2d 1411.

As to Rule 403, generally, see §§ 324 et seq.

Footnote 41. Koonce v Quaker Safety Products & Mfg. Co. (CA5 Tex) 798 F2d 700, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11207, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 631, reh overr (CA5 Tex) 814 F2d 209.

§ 1364 Particular reports as admissible

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(8)(C) permits receipt of reports by public officials which are evaluations and interpretations of outside data, such as—

—the annual reports of federal agencies. 42

—inspection reports issued by federal agencies. 43

—administrative findings made in connection with complaints of discrimination in employment, education, or housing, whether cast in the form of the findings of a hearing examiner, 44 investigative field reports, 45 or affidavits supporting findings of field reports. 46

—a police accident report stating conclusions based upon interviews with the persons involved. 47

—safety standards based upon study by a public agency. 48

—federal studies of diseases. 49

—reports of the Consumer Products Safety Commission. 50

—decisions of the Federal Communications Commission regarding tariffs of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. 51

—segments of Senate Committee Reports, even though they are factual evaluations rather than compilations of data, where the reports reflect adherence to scholarly responsibility and investigative integrity. 52

—a graph from a Drug Enforcement Administration statistical report showing the average retail price and purity of illicit drugs. 53

—aircraft accident investigation reports prepared by the Armed Forces. 54

—a report of the Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians. 55

—correspondence between defendant corporations in a products liability action and the National Highway Safety Administration urging manufacturers to initiate voluntary recall of products. 56

Footnotes

Footnote 42. Givens v Lederle (CA5 Fla) 556 F2d 1341, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 387 (annual polio summary of Center for Disease Control offered to show that medical profession recognized occurrence of vaccine-induced polio).

Footnote 43. Higgenbottom v Noreen (CA9 Or) 586 F2d 719, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 202 (inspections made by Veterans' Administration of house purchased by veteran).

Footnote 44. Chandler v Roudebush, 425 US 840, 48 L Ed 2d 416, 96 S Ct 1949, 12 BNA FEP Cas 1368, 11 CCH EPD ¶ 10957 (Veterans' Administration employee alleging denial of promotion on basis of sex and race); United States v School Dist. (CA6 Mich) 577 F2d 1339, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 225, 47 ALR Fed 294 (school desegregation suit); Hall v United States (DC Minn) 436 F Supp 505, 18 BNA FEP Cas 335, 15 CCH EPD ¶ 8084 (age discrimination); Buffington v Defense Mapping Agency (ED Mo) 435 F Supp 816, 23 BNA FEP Cas 201 (racial discrimination in employment).

Footnote 45. Hodge v Seiler (CA5 La) 558 F2d 284, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 721 (investigation by Department of Housing and Urban Development of racial discrimination in housing); Cohen v Illinois Institute of Technology (CA7 Ill) 524 F2d 818, 11 BNA FEP Cas 659, 11 BNA FEP Cas 1448, 10 CCH EPD ¶ 10465, cert den 425 US 943, 48 L Ed 2d 187, 96 S Ct 1683, 12 BNA FEP Cas 1090, 12 CCH EPD ¶ 11172 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Traggis v St. Barbara's Greek Orthodox Church (CA2 Conn) 851 F2d 584) (investigation by Department of Health, Education and Welfare of sex discrimination in employment).

Footnote 46. Fowler v Blue Bell, Inc. (CA11 Ala) 737 F2d 1007, 35 BNA FEP Cas 752, 34 CCH EPD ¶ 34542, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 126.

Footnote 47. Wilson v Beebe (CA6 Mich) 770 F2d 578 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Fundiller v Cooper City (CA11 Fla) 777 F2d 1436) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Kuhar v Hanton (CA6 Ohio) 836 F2d 1348, reported in full 1988 US App LEXIS 140); Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054; Perrin v Anderson (CA10 Okla) 784 F2d 1040, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1564.

Annotation: Admissibility of police reports under Federal Business Records Act (Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803, and predecessor amendments), 31 ALR Fed 457.

Footnote 48. Melville v American Home Assur. Co. (CA3 Pa) 584 F2d 1306, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 756 (airworthiness directive prepared by Federal Aviation Administration); Muncie Aviation Corp. v Party Doll Fleet, Inc. (CA5 Ga) 519 F2d 1178, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 133.

Annotation: Admissibility in evidence, on issue of negligence, of codes or standards of safety issued or sponsored by governmental body or by voluntary association, 58 ALR3d 148.

Footnote 49. Ellis v International Playtex, Inc. (CA4 Va) 745 F2d 292, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10196, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561 (studies of toxic shock syndrome containing tentative conclusions and statistical findings); Kehm v Procter & Gamble Mfg. Co. (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 613, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9873, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041, later proceeding (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 630, 38 FR Serv 2d 314 (epidemiological studies prepared by the Center for Disease Control).

Footnote 50. Roth v Black & Decker, Inc. (CA8 Mo) 737 F2d 779, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10138, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1827.

Footnote 51. Litton Systems, Inc. v American Tel. & Tel. Co. (CA2 NY) 700 F2d 785, 1982-83 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65194, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1426 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Professional Real Estate Investors, Inc. v Columbia Pictures Indus., Inc. (US) 123 L Ed 2d 611, 113 S Ct 1920, 93 CDOS 3198, 93 Daily Journal DAR 5465, 26 USPQ2d 1641, 1993-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 70207, 7 FLW Fed S 223).

Footnote 52. Hobson v Wilson (DC Dist Col) 556 F Supp 1157, affd in part and revd in part on other grounds 237 US App DC 219, 737 F2d 1, cert den 470 US 1084, 85 L Ed 2d 142, 105 S Ct 1843.

Footnote 53. United States v Hardin (CA7 Ill) 710 F2d 1231, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 890, cert den 464 US 918, 78 L Ed 2d 263, 104 S Ct 286.

Footnote 54. In re Air Crash Disaster at Mannheim (ED Pa) 586 F Supp 711, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10414, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 101, revd on other grounds, remanded (CA3 Pa) 769 F2d 115, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10598, cert den 474 US 1082, 88 L Ed 2d 891, 106 S Ct 851, reh den 480 US 941, 94 L Ed 2d 784, 107 S Ct 1596 and reh den 481 US 1008, 95 L Ed 2d 208, 107 S Ct 1636.

Footnote 55. Korematsu v United States (ND Cal) 584 F Supp 1406, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1231.

Footnote 56. In re Multi-Piece Rims Products Liability Litigation (WD Mo) 545 F Supp 149, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 572.

§ 1365 Records containing statements of third parties

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(8)(C) embraces records based upon statements or testimony by persons other than the preparer of the record, 57 if the preparer has firsthand knowledge of the statements made by declarants with firsthand knowledge of the facts mentioned in the public record. 58 The Rule does not authorize the receipt in evidence of hearsay statements of third parties on which the factual findings in question are based. 59

Footnotes

Footnote 57. Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054 (accident report prepared by police officer received in personal injury suit).

Footnote 58. Fraley v Rockwell International Corp. (SD Ohio) 470 F Supp 1264, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1172.

Footnote 59. John McShain, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (CA3) 563 F2d 632, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 479 (airline accident reports including statements filed by pilots as well as reports of government investigators); Florida Canal Industries, Inc. v Rambo (CA5 Fla) 537 F2d 200 (Coast Guard accident report including statement by surviving yacht owner); Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054; Brown v Sierra Nevada Memorial Miners Hospital (CA9 Cal) 849 F2d 1186, 46 CCH EPD ¶ 38047, 25 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1435; Baker v Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (CA11 Fla) 793 F2d 1196, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 79 (congressional report containing testimony and statements made to subcommittee as part of its investigation).

§ 1366 Reports containing conclusions or opinions

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Investigatory reports which are otherwise admissible under Rule 803(8)(C) are not inadmissible merely because they state a conclusion or opinion. 60 The term "factual findings" encompasses inferences drawn from facts, and conclusory statements do not render an item of evidence inadmissible. 61 Factual findings admissible under Rule 803(8)(C) include those which are made by the preparer of the report from disputed evidence. 62 Once a report is shown to represent findings of a public agency made pursuant to an investigation authorized by law, the central inquiry is not whether the report contains opinions and conclusions but rather whether it is trustworthy. 63

Footnotes

Footnote 60. Beech Aircraft Corp. v Rainey, 488 US 153, 102 L Ed 2d 445, 109 S Ct 439, 1989 AMC 441, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 257, on remand, en banc (CA11 Fla) 868 F2d 1531; Litton Systems, Inc. v American Tel. & Tel. Co. (CA2 NY) 700 F2d 785, 1982-83 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65194, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1426 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Professional Real Estate Investors, Inc. v Columbia Pictures Indus., Inc. (US) 123 L Ed 2d 611, 113 S Ct 1920, 93 CDOS 3198, 93 Daily Journal DAR 5465, 26 USPQ2d 1641, 1993-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 70207, 7 FLW Fed S 223) (admitting findings of FCC that tariffs were "unreasonable" and "discriminatory"); Zenith Radio Corp. v Matsushita Electric Industrial Co. (ED Pa) 505 F Supp 1125, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 801; McClure v Mexia Independent School Dist. (CA5 Tex) 750 F2d 396, 36 BNA FEP Cas 1402, 35 CCH EPD ¶ 34910, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 109, reh den, en banc (CA5 Tex) 755 F2d 173 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Gilchrist v Jim Slemmons Imports, Inc. (CA9 Cal) 803 F2d 1488, 42 BNA FEP Cas 314, 1 BNA IER Cas 1053, 41 CCH EPD ¶ 36656) (EEOC determination of reasonable cause to believe discrimination had occurred); United States v School Dist. (CA6 Mich) 577 F2d 1339, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 225, 47 ALR Fed 294 (findings of HEW hearing examiner that school had been established and maintained as black school for segregation purposes); Jenkins v Whittaker Corp. (CA9 Hawaii) 785 F2d 720, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 654, 5 FR Serv 3d 232, cert den 479 US 918, 93 L Ed 2d 296, 107 S Ct 324; Perrin v Anderson (CA10 Okla) 784 F2d 1040, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1564 (report containing conclusion that there was no doubt that defendant acted within guidelines established by state highway patrol policies and procedures manual).

Reports resting on medical opinions and diagnoses representing the findings of a public agency made pursuant to an investigation are admissible if found to be trustworthy. Kehm v Procter & Gamble Mfg. Co. (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 613, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9873, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041, later proceeding (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 630, 38 FR Serv 2d 314.

Law Reviews: Turner, Admissibility of Accident Reports into Evidence Under Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8)(C). 35 Trial Law G 137 (Summer 1991).

Footnote 61. Revlon, Inc. v Carson Products Co. (SD NY) 602 F Supp 1071, later proceeding (SD NY) 226 USPQ 51, application gr, motion gr, in part, motion den, in part (SD NY) 622 F Supp 362, 227 USPQ 411, 4 FR Serv 3d 89, and affd in part and revd in part on other grounds (CA FC) 803 F2d 676, 231 USPQ 472, cert den 479 US 1018, 93 L Ed 2d 722, 107 S Ct 671 (affidavit of Director of Division of Cosmetic Technology, Bureau of Foods, FDA).

Footnote 62. Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054 (police accident report observing that one vehicle apparently entered intersection against red light and concluding that cause of accident was vehicle's failure to yield right of way).

Footnote 63. Kehm v Procter & Gamble Mfg. Co. (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 613, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9873, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041, later proceeding (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 630, 38 FR Serv 2d 314.

As to the trustworthiness of a report proffered under Rule 803(8)(C), see § 1368.

§ 1367 Scientific reports

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A scientific report the admission of which is sought under Rule 803(8)(C) is not unreliable by reason of the fact that no experts testify at trial about the methodology used to obtain the data. Because the evidence in such a report has been gathered and presented by a public agency, it may be presumed to reflect methodologies accepted by the scientific community. The burden rests with the opponent and not the proponent of the report to demonstrate that the methodology was flawed. The hearsay exception assumes regularity of procedure absent a showing to the contrary. Whether the declarant or the investigator was available to testify about the methodology or whether the report stated its methodology are not by themselves reason to exclude the report. An opponent's concern about the methodology of scientific studies should be addressed to the relative weight accorded the evidence and not its admissibility. 64

Footnotes

Footnote 64. Ellis v International Playtex, Inc. (CA4 Va) 745 F2d 292, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10196, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561.

§ 1368 Trustworthiness

View Entire Section

Under Rule 803(8)(C) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, the trial court has the discretion and obligation to exclude an entire report or portions of it, whether narrow factual statements or broader conclusions, that it determines to be untrustworthy. 65 The burden of proof on this issue is on the opponent of the evidence. 66 The focus in a determination of trustworthiness is not whether the court agrees with the report or its conclusions, but rather whether the report was compiled or prepared in a way that indicates that its conclusions can be relied upon. 67 Discrepancies and ambiguities contained in a report do not render it untrustworthy within the meaning of the Rule, but go only to the weight to be given to it by the trier of fact. 68

◆ Observation: Rule 803(6), the "business records" exception, also contains a proviso permitting exclusion of evidence otherwise qualifying for admission if such evidence is deemed untrustworthy. 69 The presence of this proviso in both Rules has led one court to say that it would be incongruous to hold that, although a given compilation of data lacks sufficient trustworthiness for admission as business records under FR Evid, Rule 803(6), it may nonetheless be introduced as a public report pursuant to FR Evid, Rule 803(8). 70

Footnotes

Footnote 65. Beech Aircraft Corp. v Rainey, 488 US 153, 102 L Ed 2d 445, 109 S Ct 439, 1989 AMC 441, 26 Fed Rules Evid Serv 257, on remand, en banc (CA11 Fla) 868 F2d 1531.

Footnote 66. Gentile v County of Suffolk (CA2 NY) 926 F2d 142, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 315; Ellis v International Playtex, Inc. (CA4 Va) 745 F2d 292, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10196, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561 (studies of toxic shock syndrome by Center for Disease Control); Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054; Kehm v Procter & Gamble Mfg. Co. (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 613, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9873, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041, later proceeding (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 630, 38 FR Serv 2d 314; Perrin v Anderson (CA10 Okla) 784 F2d 1040, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1564; Fayson v Schmadl (DC Dist Col) 126 FRD 419.

Footnote 67. Moss v Ole South Real Estate, Inc. (CA5 Miss) 933 F2d 1300, 33 Fed Rules Evid Serv 609 (criticized on other grounds by In re Oil Spill by The Amoco Cadiz (CA7 Ill) 954 F2d 1279, 1992 AMC 913, 35 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1204, 22 ELR 20835).

Footnote 68. Fayson v Schmadl (DC Dist Col) 126 FRD 419.

Footnote 69. § 1312.

Footnote 70. Cleveland v Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. (ND Ohio) 538 F Supp 1257.

§ 1369 --Circumstances bearing on trustworthiness of report

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Reports of a conclusory nature can be excluded in the court's discretion under Rule 803(8)(C) where the nature of the opinions is such as to suggest a lack of trustworthiness.

71 The determination of trustworthiness should not be made on the basis of mere reliance on the title of the official or the body making the report. 72 Facts relevant to a determination of trustworthiness include—

—the adequacy of an official's investigation. 73

—the official's level of skill and expertise in the area in question. 74

—the timeliness of the investigation. 75

—whether a formal hearing was held and the level at which it was conducted. 76

—the presence or absence of factors indicating bias. 77

—any other fact or circumstance relevant to the reliability of the report. 78

◆ Observation: The ability of the proponent of a report to produce as witnesses the persons who prepared the report may indicate that the admission of the report under Rule 803(8)(C) is not in order, at least where other factors suggest that it may be untrustworthy. 79

Footnotes

Footnote 71. Koonce v Quaker Safety Products & Mfg. Co. (CA5 Tex) 798 F2d 700, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11207, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 631, reh overr (CA5 Tex) 814 F2d 209 (memo outlined future inquiries into safety measures and offered opinions on expected results, and did not involve hearing or comprehensive investigation); Bright v Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (CA6 Tenn) 756 F2d 19, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10404 (report of House subcommittee consisted of subjective conclusions regarding defendant tire company's culpability rather than factual findings and was based on hearsay regarding lawsuits and customer complaints without any investigation into the ground for those complaints); Jenkins v Whittaker Corp. (CA9 Hawaii) 785 F2d 720, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 654, 5 FR Serv 3d 232, cert den 479 US 918, 93 L Ed 2d 296, 107 S Ct 324 (author of report had no competence or experience in field, arrived at accident scene over a week after accident, and did not talk to personnel involved).

Footnote 72. Matthews v Ashland Chemical, Inc. (CA5 La) 770 F2d 1303, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 248.

Footnote 73. Koonce v Quaker Safety Products & Mfg. Co. (CA5 Tex) 798 F2d 700,

CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11207, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 631, reh overr (CA5 Tex) 814 F2d 209 (memorandum regarding explosion written by operator of plant was untrustworthy where it did not involve hearing or comprehensive investigation); Matthews v Ashland Chemical, Inc. (CA5 La) 770 F2d 1303, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 248 (report prepared by chief fire investigator of town fire department where investigator spent only 2 hours at premises, conducted no additional investigation, and did not disassemble allegedly offending machinery); Miller v Caterpillar Tractor Co. (CA6 Mich) 697 F2d 141, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9486, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 819 (accident reports prepared by mining engineer with United States Bureau of Mines and by police officer were untrustworthy where investigation commenced 3 days after accident occurred, authors of report possessed no firsthand knowledge of accident, and reports were derived from information received from other persons); Jenkins v Whittaker Corp. (CA9 Hawaii) 785 F2d 720, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 654, 5 FR Serv 3d 232, cert den 479 US 918, 93 L Ed 2d 296, 107 S Ct 324 (report describing accident involving atomic simulator was untrustworthy where author had no experience with atomic simulators, arrived at accident scene weeks after accident, and never talked to any personnel involved).

Footnote 74. Ellis v International Playtex, Inc. (CA4 Va) 745 F2d 292, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10196, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561; Matthews v Ashland Chemical, Inc. (CA5 La) 770 F2d 1303, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 248; Miller v Caterpillar Tractor Co. (CA6 Mich) 697 F2d 141, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9486, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 819; Kehm v Procter & Gamble Mfg. Co. (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 613, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9873, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041, later proceeding (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 630, 38 FR Serv 2d 314; Jenkins v Whittaker Corp. (CA9 Hawaii) 785 F2d 720, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 654, 5 FR Serv 3d 232, cert den 479 US 918, 93 L Ed 2d 296, 107 S Ct 324.

Footnote 75. Ellis v International Playtex, Inc. (CA4 Va) 745 F2d 292, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10196, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561; Matthews v Ashland Chemical, Inc. (CA5 La) 770 F2d 1303, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 248; Baker v Elcona Homes Corp. (CA6 Ohio) 588 F2d 551, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1592, cert den 441 US 933, 60 L Ed 2d 661, 99 S Ct 2054; Abdel v United States (CA7 Ill) 670 F2d 73, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1697; Kehm v Procter & Gamble Mfg. Co. (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 613, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9873, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041, later proceeding (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 630, 38 FR Serv 2d 314; Perrin v Anderson (CA10 Okla) 784 F2d 1040, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1564.

Footnote 76. United States v Corr (CA2 NY) 543 F2d 1042, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 376; Drummond v Alia-The Royal Jordanian Airline Corp. (WD Pa) 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1904; Matthews v Ashland Chemical, Inc. (CA5 La) 770 F2d 1303, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 248; Perrin v Anderson (CA10 Okla) 784 F2d 1040, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1564.

Footnote 77. Ellis v International Playtex, Inc. (CA4 Va) 745 F2d 292, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10196, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 561; Matthews v Ashland Chemical, Inc. (CA5 La) 770 F2d 1303, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 248; Wilson v Beebe (CA6 Mich) 743 F2d 342, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 335, different result reached on other grounds on reh, en banc (CA6 Mich) 770 F2d 578 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Haygood v Younger (CA9 Cal) 769 F2d 1350); United States v Hardin (CA7 Ill) 710 F2d 1231, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 890, cert den 464 US 918, 78 L Ed 2d 263, 104 S Ct 286; Kehm v Procter & Gamble Mfg. Co. (CA8 Iowa) 724 F2d 613, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9873, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1041; Perrin v Anderson (CA10 Okla) 784 F2d 1040, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1564 (internal police investigation is not necessarily biased, absent specific evidence).

Footnote 78. Bright v Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (CA6 Tenn) 756 F2d 19, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10404 (report of House of Representatives subcommittee consisted of subjective conclusions regarding defendant tire company's culpability rather than factual findings and was based on hearsay regarding lawsuits and customer complaints without any investigation into the ground for those complaints); Baker v Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (CA11 Fla) 793 F2d 1196, 21 Fed Rules Evid Serv 79 (congressional report was politically motivated and devoid of factual findings).

A lack of trustworthiness was shown in a report on an aircraft accident prepared at the direction of a foreign government where the report did not show the extent of input by qualified persons, no hearing was conducted, resulting in very few procedural safeguards to protect against inclusion of hearsay and irrelevant evidence, the foreign government may have required that the report be prepared in such a way as to protect itself from liability, the investigating committees' meetings were lacking in procedural safeguards, and the final report was based on findings and reports of subcommittees about which the court knew nothing. Drummond v Alia-The Royal Jordanian Airline Corp. (WD Pa) 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1904.

Footnote 79. United States v Lanese (CA2 Conn) 890 F2d 1284, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 446, cert den 495 US 947, 109 L Ed 2d 533, 110 S Ct 2207 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Fells (CA4 Va) 920 F2d 1179, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1104) (court properly excluded police investigatory report of alleged arson since it and underlying incident occurred 6 weeks after events alleged in indictment, contents suggested defendant was biased against person he accused, and there was no indication that defendant could not produce testimony of investigating officers).

(c). Provisions of Uniform Rules of Evidence [1370, 1371]

§ 1370 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(8) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence excepts from the hearsay rule records, reports, statements, or data compilations in any form of a public office or agency setting forth its regularly conducted and regularly recorded activities, or matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law and as to which there was a duty to report, or factual findings resulting from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law. However, the Rule specifically states that it does not apply to——investigative reports by police and other law enforcement personnel.

—investigative reports prepared by or for a government, a public office, or an agency when offered by it in a case to which it is a party.

—factual findings offered by the government in criminal cases.

—factual findings resulting from special investigation of a particular complaint, case, or incident.

—any matter as to which the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness. 80

An amended version of Rule 803(8) allows the introduction of investigative reports and factual findings resulting from an investigation when offered by an accused in a criminal case. It is also prefaced with the statement that unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate a lack of trustworthiness, the specified materials are admissible. 81

◆ Practice guide: The exclusion of investigative reports by police and other law enforcement personnel from the scope of Rule 803(8) apparently does not preclude admission of statements from police reports under the residual hearsay exception contained in Rule 803(24). 82

As with Rule 803(8) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, 83 the burden of showing untrustworthiness of a proffered record under Uniform Rule 803(8) rests with the party seeking to exclude it. 84 Another point of similarity between the Uniform Rule and its Federal counterpart is that a public office or agency need not be required by law to make a particular record in order for such record to be admissible under the Uniform Rule. 85

Footnotes

Footnote 80. Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(8).

Footnote 81. Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(8), as amended in 1986. This amendment brings the Uniform Rule into closer harmony with the Federal Rule, although it remains somewhat more restrictive than the Federal Rule (Comment to 1986 Amendment).

Footnote 82. State v Ortlepp (Minn) 363 NW2d 39, 51 ALR4th 985; State v Echeverria, 51 Or App 513, 626 P2d 897.

Annotation: Uniform Evidence Rule 803(24): the residual hearsay exception, 51 ALR4th 999 § 5.

Footnote 83. § 1368.

Footnote 84. Ehredt v De Havilland Aircraft Co. (Alaska) 705 P2d 446, later proceeding (Alaska) 705 P2d 913 (where employer of deceased employee, in negligence suit by employee's widow, sought to put into evidence a certified copy of a "coverage card" indicating that the decedent had been covered under a workers' compensation insurance policy at the time of his death, exclusion of the card as untrustworthy was not an abuse of discretion in view of (1) conflicting testimony by employees of the state Worker's Compensation Board as to whether the uncertain source of the card and its lack of signature rendered it untrustworthy; and (2) the discrepancy between the card and the insurance policy as to dates of coverage).

Footnote 85. Department of Human Services v Hulit (Me) 524 A2d 1212.

As to this point under Rule 803(8) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, see § 1364.

§ 1371 Distinctions between Uniform Rule 803(8) and Federal Rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Notwithstanding some similarities in the application of the two Rules, 86 Rule 803(8) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence has been characterized as "strikingly different" from its counterpart in the Federal Rules of Evidence. 87 With respect to investigative reports by police and other law enforcement personnel, the Uniform Rule makes explicit the public policy that the prosecution ought not to be allowed to introduce investigative reports tending to prove commission of the charged offense without calling as witnesses, subject to cross-examination, the persons who have conducted the investigation and written the reports. 88 Furthermore, the Uniform Rule, unlike the Federal Rule, excludes from its scope factual findings resulting from special investigation of a particular complaint, case, or incident. 89 However, it has been said that before a public record or report can be excluded under this or any of the specific exceptions to Rule 803(8), it must have been made under circumstances in which the person making the record or report could foresee its use in litigation and use such knowledge to manipulate the ultimate decision in the litigation. 90 A compilation of regularly recorded data, even though made in response to an opposing party's discovery request, is not excludable as resulting from special investigation of a particular case, complaint, or incident. 91

Footnotes

Footnote 86. § 1370.

Footnote 87. State v Reitenbaugh (Iowa) 392 NW2d 486; Tiemann v Santarelli Enterprises, Inc. (Me) 486 A2d 126 (Uniform Rule "differs markedly" from corresponding Federal Rule).

With respect to the "public records" exception to the hearsay rule, Montana adopted Uniform Rule 803(8) rather than the text of Federal Rule 803(8) because the Uniform Rule is more clear and expresses better policy with certain reports in requiring an official to testify rather than admitting his or her report as an exception to the hearsay rule. Mahan v Farmers Union Cent. Exchange, Inc., 235 Mont 410, 768 P2d 850, 51 CCH EPD ¶ 39211 (criticized on other grounds by Walden v State, 250 Mont 132, 818 P2d 1190).

Footnote 88. State v Reitenbaugh (Iowa) 392 NW2d 486 (in prosecution of accused for motor vehicle offenses, arrest warrant, issued after accused failed to report according to the conditions of his pre-trial release and containing probation officer's statement that accused's whereabouts were unknown, was not admissible as public document under Rule 803(8) as evidence of flight tending to show accused's guilt; warrant was within three different exceptions to the Rule, because probation officer's statement constituted (1) an investigative report by law enforcement personnel; (2) an investigative report prepared by the government and offered by it in a case to which it was a party; and (3) factual findings offered by the state in a criminal case).

Annotation: Admissibility in state court proceedings of police reports under official record exception to hearsay rule, 31 ALR4th 913.

Footnote 89. Swart v Town & Country Home Center, Inc., 2 Ark App 211, 619 SW2d 680 (report of investigation of employer by compliance officer of the Wage and Hour Division of the United States Department of Labor was not admissible under Rule 803(8) where it appeared that the investigation resulted from an anonymous complaint); Tiemann v Santarelli Enterprises, Inc. (Me) 486 A2d 126 (report made by state Human Rights Commission of investigation conducted in response to complaint of job discrimination was not admissible under Rule 803(8)); Mahan v Farmers Union Cent. Exchange, Inc., 235 Mont 410, 768 P2d 850, 51 CCH EPD ¶ 39211 (criticized on other grounds by Walden v State, 250 Mont 132, 818 P2d 1190) (factual findings of officer of state Human Rights Commission regarding age discrimination complaint were inadmissible).

Footnote 90. Byrne v State (Alaska App) 654 P2d 795.

Footnote 91. Department of Human Services v Hulit (Me) 524 A2d 1212.

(6). "Vital Statistics" Exception to Hearsay Rule [1372-1374]

§ 1372 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Records of births, deaths, and marriages are generally excepted from the hearsay rule by statutory codes or common-law rules of evidence. Rule 803(9) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence excludes from the hearsay rule records or data compilations, in any form, of birth, fetal death, death, or marriages, if the report was made to a public office pursuant to requirements of law. 92

◆ Comment: Although the plain language of the Rule seems to contemplate the receipt of "records" as distinguished from the "reports" upon which such records are based, one commentator has expressed the view that the Rule should be regarded as making admissible both the original report and any compilation made from it. 93

A document, such as a death certificate, which is within the scope of the Rule may be admitted into evidence without producing any witness for cross-examination about it. 94 However, the admission of a death certificate under Rule 803(9) to prove the fact of a person's death does not require the admission of the entire death certificate where statements contained in the death certificate, but not necessary to prove the fact of death, are shown to be hearsay. 95

◆ Observation: Rule 803(9) builds on state statutory schemes requiring physicians, clergymen, judges, and other persons to report births, deaths, and marriages. The admission of evidence under the Rule may be affected by statutes governing the permissibility of including certain information in such reports. Thus, it has been held that even where a vital statistics record is admissible under the Rule, information contained in the record in violation of a legislative policy against identifying a putative father of a child born out of wedlock, in the absence of his written consent or a judicial determination of his paternity, is entitled to no evidentiary weight. 96

◆ Reminder: Under the Uniform and Federal Rules, reports made to a public office pursuant to requirements of law may be authenticated by a copy certified as correct by the custodian or other person authorized to make the certification. 97

Footnotes

Footnote 92. FRE Rule 803(9); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(9).

Practice References 2 Am Jur Trials 409, Locating Public Records.

Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 55.20.

Footnote 93. Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 457.

Footnote 94. Shell v State (Miss) 554 So 2d 887, reh den (Miss) 1989 Miss LEXIS 651 and revd, in part, remanded on other grounds 498 US 1, 112 L Ed 2d 1, 111 S Ct 313.

Forms: Certificate of death. 7 Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Death § 85:3.

Certificate of death–Short form. 7 Am Jur Legal Forms 2d, Death § 85:4.

Footnote 95. State v Gould, 216 Mont 455, 704 P2d 20 (where accused, in prosecution for negligent homicide arising from the death of his companion in a motor vehicle accident, maintained that his companion and not himself had been driving his truck at the time of the fatal accident, statement in companion's death certificate that she had been a passenger in the vehicle was shown at trial to have been based upon hearsay and should have been excised, although admission of statement was harmless error in view of other evidence that the decedent had been a passenger).

Footnote 96. Moore v Goode, 180 W Va 78, 375 SE2d 549.

Footnote 97. FRE Rule 902(4), Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 902(4), discussed in § 1186.

§ 1373 Admissibility of statement in death certificate as to cause of death

An entry in a death certificate attributing the decedent's death to a specific illness, disease, or other physical condition, is generally admissible where relevant as prima facie evidence of the cause of death, subject to rebuttal by other evidence. 98 However, a statement that a disease or other physical condition was the immediate cause of death may be excluded where it does not purport to be the opinion of a doctor or any other person who presumably knew the cause. 99 The admission of such evidence may also be subject to statutes rendering inadmissible evidence which would tend to disgrace the memory of a decedent. 1 And a statute generally permitting the receipt into evidence of a death certificate as prima facie evidence of the facts stated in it has been construed as barring receipt into evidence of any statement of the cause of death on the grounds that the statute does not permit a death certificate to contain such a statement. 2

According to some authorities, a statement in a death certificate as to the cause of death is admissible only to the extent that it identifies the immediate agency of the death; a recitation of events leading up to the death, or a conclusion as to whether the death was intentional or accidental, is not admissible. 3 Under this view, a statement that the death was the result of a criminal act must be deleted if the death certificate is to be admitted. 4 Other authorities, however, permit the introduction of a statement in a death certificate to the effect that the death was accidental. 5

Footnotes

Footnote 98. Miles v Edward O. Tabor, M.D., Inc., 387 Mass 783, 443 NE2d 1302.

Annotation: Official death certificate as evidence of cause of death in civil or criminal action, 21 ALR3d 418 § 3[a].

Practice References 39 Am Jur POF2d 1, Cause of Death as Determined from Autopsy.

Footnote 99. National Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Salas (Tex Civ App Eastland) 426 SW2d 327, writ ref n r e (Jun 19, 1968) (holding, however, that admission of such statement was not reversible error where it apparently did not influence the jury on the relevant question, which was the state of the decedent's health at a prior time).

Footnote 1. Tinney v Neilson's Flowers, Inc., 61 Misc 2d 717, 305 NYS2d 713, affd (2d Dept) 35 App Div 2d 532, 314 NYS2d 161.

Footnote 2. People v Fiddler, 45 Ill 2d 181, 258 NE2d 359.

Footnote 3. Hodges v Effingham County Hospital Authority, 182 Ga App 173, 355 SE2d 104.

Footnote 4. Brown v State (Ind) 448 NE2d 10, habeas corpus proceeding (ND Ind) 612 F Supp 1576 and habeas corpus proceeding (CA7 Ind) 791 F2d 598, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 863 (statement that death was caused by "house fire started by arsonist" should not have been admitted, although its admission was harmless error in view of other evidence that the fire in question was indeed the result of arson).

But see Dunn v State, 251 Ga 731, 309 SE2d 370, habeas corpus proceeding 257 Ga 66, 355 SE2d 61 (in murder prosecution where fact of homicide was not disputed and issue was the accused's intent, a death certificate indicating "homicide" as the cause of death was properly admitted as proof of the immediate agency of death).

Footnote 5. Romero v Volunteer State Life Ins. Co. (2nd Dist) 10 Cal App 3d 571, 88 Cal Rptr 820.

§ 1374 --Under Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(9) 6 has been construed as permitting the admission into evidence of statements in a death certificate as to the immediate physical cause of death. 7 Some jurisdictions enacting the Rule have specifically indicated that it is not to be construed as permitting admission of such statements under all circumstances. 8 Moreover, in at least one case decided under the Rule the court has indicated that a distinction may be drawn under the Rule between a statement of the immediate cause of death and a conclusion as to the manner of death, that is, whether the death was, for example, accidental or due to suicide. 9

◆ Comment: Although statements relating to the manner of death (for example, that the decedent fell into a ditch or was shot by his spouse) amount to investigative findings and are not the sort of conclusions which medical training qualifies a physician or coroner to reach, such assessments are sometimes required as part of the official duty of a coroner or physician in reporting on a death. One commentator has argued that in such situations conclusions as to the manner of death seem to fall within Rule 803(8)(C), dealing with factual findings resulting from an investigation, and that their admissibility should be determined according to the provisions of that Rule. 10

Footnotes

Footnote 6. FRE Rule 803(9); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(9).

Footnote 7. Weiner v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. (ED Pa) 416 F Supp 551; Greek v Bassett, 112 Mich App 556, 316 NW2d 489; Corlett v Smith (App) 107 NM 707, 763 P2d 1172.

Footnote 8. Legislative Comment to Rule 803 of North Carolina Rules of Evidence (stating that Rule 803(9) is not intended to allow the use of statements of the cause of death against an accused in a criminal case).

Footnote 9. Corlett v Smith (App) 107 NM 707, 763 P2d 1172.

See also State v Jurgens (Minn App) 424 NW2d 546, a case decided several years after Minnesota adopted Uniform Rule 803(9) in which the court—responding to a contention by an accused that her indictment for murder should have been dismissed because the grand jury had before it a death certificate indicating that the mode of her alleged victim's death was homicide—stated that a death certificate's statement regarding mode of death is generally inadmissible because it is a conclusion and is hearsay, and cited as authority a pre-Rule case holding that a death certificate is admissible for the purpose of showing the immediate cause of death but not the manner (for example, accident or suicide) in which the death occurred; in the case at bar, however, the court concluded that the testimony before the grand jury of the physician who had made the entry as to the mode of death provided the missing foundation and made the written hearsay statement merely cumulative.

Footnote 10. Louisell & Mueller, Federal Evidence § 457.

(7). Evidentiary Effect of Absence of Public Record or Entry [1375-1380]

§ 1375 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, records and reports of public officers made in the course of the discharge of their official duties are admissible not only as proof of the facts stated in them, but also to show the absence of entries that in the usual course should appear therein, 11 and to prove, by reason of the absence of any entry, that an event did not take place or that something was not done. 12 The common-law rule has been codified in various rules and statutes. 13 Thus, it is provided in Rule 44(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure that a written statement that after diligent search no record or entry of a specified tenor is found to exist in the records designated by the statement, authenticated as provided in the rules in the case of a domestic record, 14 or complying with the requirements of the rules for a summary in the case of a foreign record, 15 is admissible in evidence that the records contain no such record or entry. 16 This provision of the Rule, as made applicable by Rule 27 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, has been held not to violate the right of an accused under the Sixth Amendment of the Federal Constitution to be confronted with the witnesses against him. 17 Similar provision is made in the Model Code of Evidence of the American Law Institute. 18

◆ Practice guide: To establish under Rule 44(b) that there is no record as to a particular matter, it is not necessary under the Rule to produce testimony by an official custodian of the records; evidence may be given by any qualified person who has examined the record. 19 By contrast, a statement as to the absence of a public record proffered under Rule 803(10) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence may be deemed inadmissible where the search for the record was conducted by one other than the custodian of the records searched. 20

Footnotes

Footnote 11. Chesapeake & Delaware Canal Co. v United States (CA3 Del) 240 F 903, affd 250 US 123, 63 L Ed 889, 39 S Ct 407.

Footnote 12. Commonwealth by Funk v Clark, 311 Ky 710, 225 SW2d 118; Winnett v Detroit U. Ry., 171 Mich 629, 137 NW 539; Lummus Cotton Gin Co. v Arnold, 151 Tenn 540, 269 SW 706.

Footnote 13. Some federal statutes providing that the absence of an official record of an event constitutes evidence that the event has not occurred include 8 USCS § 1284(b) (providing that the absence of an alien crewman's name from the outgoing manifest of the vessel or aircraft on which he arrived in the United States is prima facie evidence of failure to detain or deport such crewman as required by law) and 42 USCS §§ 405(c)(3), 405(c)(4)(B), 405(c)(4)(C) (providing that the absence of records in the Department of Health and Human Services as to an individual's wages or self-employment income for a particular period is evidence that he or she earned no wages or self-employment income for that period).

Footnote 14. That is, authenticated as provided in Rule 44(a)(1), Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, discussed in § 1388.

Footnote 15. As to such requirements, see § 1393.

Footnote 16. Rule 44(b), Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Annotation: Federal Civil Procedure Rule 44 and Federal Criminal Procedure Rule 27, relating to proof of official records, 70 ALR2d 1227 § 6.

Forms: Certificate—Proof of lack of record. 1A Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed, Actions in District Court § 1:2804.

Footnote 17. T'Kach v United States (CA5 Fla) 242 F2d 937.

Footnote 18. Rule 517 of the Model Code of Evidence of the American Law Institute provides that a writing stating that the writer is an officer, or a deputy of an officer, having the official custody of specified official records, and that he has made a diligent search of the records of the office and has found therein no record or entry of a specified tenor, is admissible as tending to prove that the records of the office contain no such record or entry, if the writing is accompanied by a certificate that the officer has the custody of the specified records, made and authenticated as provided in this rule.

Footnote 19. Jackson v United States (CA5 Ala) 250 F2d 897.

Footnote 20. § 1378.

§ 1376 Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(10) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence codifies the common-law rule permitting proof of the nonoccurrence of an event by showing absence of a record which would regularly be made of its occurrence. Under the Rule, evidence in the form of a certification in accordance with Rule 902, or testimony that diligent search failed to disclose the record, report, statement, data compilation, or entry is admissible to prove the absence of such a document, or the nonoccurrence or nonexistence of a matter of which such a document is normally made and preserved by a public office or agency. 21 The absence of a record of an event which would ordinarily be recorded gives rise to a legitimate negative inference that the event did not occur. 22 A record may be found to be "a regularly made and preserved record" of one fact and not of another, so that a certificate that it does not exist is admissible under Rule 803(10) for a limited purpose only. 23

◆ Comment: Some courts have pointed out that evidence as to the absence of an entry in public records is arguably not hearsay and need not be dealt with as an exception to the hearsay rule. 24 A similar observation was made by the Advisory Committee in its notes with respect to the provision in Rule 803(7) of the Federal Rules of Evidence excepting from the hearsay rule evidence as to the absence of a business entry or record. 25

Footnotes

Footnote 21. FRE Rule 803(10); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(10).

As to self-authenticating public records under Rule 902, see §§ 1180 et seq.

Annotation: Admissibility, under Rule 803(10) of Federal Rules of Evidence, of evidence of absence of public record or entry, 70 ALR Fed 198.

Footnote 22. United States v Robinson (CA2 Conn) 544 F2d 110, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 399, cert den 434 US 1050, 54 L Ed 2d 803, 98 S Ct 901.

Annotation: Admissibility of evidence of absence of other accidents or injuries at place where injury or damage occurred, 10 ALR5th 371.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 55:21.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 458.

Footnote 23. United States v Stout (CA11 Fla) 667 F2d 1347, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1466 (National Firearms Registration and Transfer Record did not constitute regularly made and preserved record of payment of transfer taxes pending applications for firearms transactions or assignment of serial numbers for firearms, and thus certification that record had been searched and that no evidence had been found that defendants had registered their firearms, made application to make or transfer firearms, paid the tax on firearms, or identified firearms with serial numbers was inadmissible except to show that defendants had not registered their firearms).

Footnote 24. United States v M'Biye, 211 US App DC 10, 655 F2d 1240, 8 Fed Rules Evid Serv 273; State v Wheel, 155 Vt 587, 587 A2d 933, later proceeding 157 Vt 648, 596 A2d 372.

Footnote 25. § 1319.

§ 1377 --Requirement of diligent search

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The requirement of the Rule that a diligent search be conducted²⁶ is one of substance, not form.²⁷ Although a casual or partial search will not satisfy the requirement,²⁸ the absence from a certificate of a recitation that a diligent search has been performed does not cause admission of the certificate to be reversible error where indications are that the certificate is reliable.²⁹ It is sufficient that the affidavit makes a showing that an adequate search has been made,³⁰ and this is particularly true when considering translated documents.³¹ Conversely, the requirement is not satisfied merely by a ritual incantation that a certificate results from a "diligent search"; rather, if in a particular instance the circumstances indicate a lack of trustworthiness, the evidence should be excluded, and the result of a search that has been less than diligent is inadmissible to prove the absence of a record.³² Thus, a search of records using misspelled versions of an accused's first and last names has been held insufficiently diligent to permit admission of the certificate of search.³³ However, where a search of records is conducted under a name believed to be that of the accused, but the accused later asserts that the name under which the search was conducted is not his real name, admission of the certificate of search is not error where the accused fails to object to its introduction.³⁴

Footnotes

Footnote 26. FRE Rule 803(10); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(10).

Footnote 27. United States v Yakobov (CA2 NY) 712 F2d 20, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906, 70 ALR Fed 187.

Footnote 28. United States v Robinson (CA2 Conn) 544 F2d 110, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 399, cert den 434 US 1050, 54 L Ed 2d 803, 98 S Ct 901.

Footnote 29. United States v Wilson (CA5 Tex) 732 F2d 404, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 978, cert den 469 US 1099, 83 L Ed 2d 718, 105 S Ct 609; United States v Martinez (CA11 Fla) 700 F2d 1358, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1256.

Annotation: Admissibility, under Rule 803(10) of Federal Rules of Evidence, of evidence of absence of public record or entry, 70 ALR Fed 198 § 6[b].

Footnote 30. United States v Wilson (CA5 Tex) 732 F2d 404, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 978, cert den 469 US 1099, 83 L Ed 2d 718, 105 S Ct 609.

Footnote 31. United States v Martinez (CA11 Fla) 700 F2d 1358, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1256.

Footnote 32. United States v Yakobov (CA2 NY) 712 F2d 20, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906, 70 ALR Fed 187.

A certificate of search was insufficient where it was a potpourri of descriptions of existing records. United States v Pinto-Mejia (CA2 NY) 720 F2d 248, 14 Fed Rules Evid Serv 705, reh den, mod on other grounds (CA2) 728 F2d 142 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Humphrey (CA9 Alaska) 759 F2d 743) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Mena (CA11 Fla) 863 F2d 1522).

Footnote 33. United States v Yakobov (CA2 NY) 712 F2d 20, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906, 70 ALR Fed 187.

Footnote 34. United States v Evans, 281 US App DC 194, 888 F2d 891, cert den 494 US 1019, 108 L Ed 2d 500, 110 S Ct 1325.

§ 1378 --Competency of person certifying absence of record

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A certification of absence of a public record is not admissible under Rule 803(10) where the person making the certification is incompetent under the circumstances to make it. 35 A person certifying the absence of a record may be deemed incompetent to make such certification if he or she is not the custodian of the records in question. 36

Footnotes

Footnote 35. United States v Beason (CA5 Tex) 690 F2d 439, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1421, cert den 459 US 1177, 74 L Ed 2d 1023, 103 S Ct 828; United States v Stout (CA11 Fla) 667 F2d 1347, 9 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1466.

Annotation: Admissibility, under Rule 803(10) of Federal Rules of Evidence, of evidence of absence of public record or entry, 70 ALR Fed 198 § 6[c].

Footnote 36. United States v Beason (CA5 Tex) 690 F2d 439, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1421, cert den 459 US 1177, 74 L Ed 2d 1023, 103 S Ct 828 (certificate intended to show nonpayment of tax on firearms was inadmissible where executed by custodian of weapons registration records who did not have custody of tax-stamp records that would have reflected whether tax had been paid).

§ 1379 --Applicability of Rule to criminal cases

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Evidence of the absence of a public record or entry may be admitted under Rule 803(10) against a defendant in a criminal case; the provisions of Rule 803(8)(B) and (C) barring admission of investigative records or reports against an accused in a criminal case 37 are not extended to Rule 803(10). 38 Furthermore, the use of documents to show the absence of a public record or entry under the Rule is not violative of the Confrontation Clause of the Federal Constitution's Sixth Amendment. 39

Footnotes

Footnote 37. § 1360.

Footnote 38. United States v Cepeda Penes (CA1 Puerto Rico) 577 F2d 754 (permitting evidence to make a showing that defendant had filed no tax returns from 1972 to 1975); United States v Yakobov (CA2 NY) 712 F2d 20, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 906, 70 ALR Fed 187 (noting that a statement under FRE Rule 803(10) is normally a step removed from any element of the offense charged, and has no evaluative aspects); United States v Metzger (CA6 Ky) 778 F2d 1195, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 695, cert den 477 US 906, 91 L Ed 2d 568, 106 S Ct 3279.

Annotation: Admissibility, under Rule 803(10) of Federal Rules of Evidence, of evidence of absence of public record or entry, 70 ALR Fed 198 § 5.

Footnote 39. United States v Wilson (CA5 Tex) 732 F2d 404, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 978, cert den 469 US 1099, 83 L Ed 2d 718, 105 S Ct 609; United States v Metzger (CA6 Ky) 778 F2d 1195, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 695, cert den 477 US 906, 91 L Ed 2d 568, 106 S Ct 3279; United States v Lee (CA9 Cal) 589 F2d 980, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 326, cert den 444 US 969, 62 L Ed 2d 382, 100 S Ct 460; United States v Herrera-Britto (CA11 Fla) 739 F2d 551, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 264.

§ 1380 --Particular records searched as establishing nonoccurrence of event

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Public records searchable to establish the nonoccurrence of an event under Rule 803(10) include—

—tax return records. 40

—records of statements necessary for a special dispensation under the federal tax laws. 41

—court documents indicating whether a particular judge had attended court proceedings.
42

—federal license or registration records. 43

—personnel records. 44

—foreign vessel registration records. 45

Footnotes

Footnote 40. United States v Cepeda Penes (CA1 Puerto Rico) 577 F2d 754; United States v Bowers (CA4 Va) 920 F2d 220, 90-2 USTC ¶ 50588, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1089, 71A AFTR 2d 93-3332, post-conviction proceeding (CA4) 1992 US App LEXIS 7664; United States v Johnson (CA5 Tex) 577 F2d 1304, 78-2 USTC ¶ 9642, 42 AFTR 2d 78-5624, reh den (CA5 Tex) 584 F2d 389.

Footnote 41. Brutsche v Commissioner (CA10) 585 F2d 436, 78-2 USTC ¶ 9745, 42 AFTR 2d 78-6018.

Footnote 42. State v Wheel, 155 Vt 587, 587 A2d 933, later proceeding 157 Vt 648, 596 A2d 372.

Footnote 43. United States v Harris (CA5 La) 551 F2d 621, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 978, cert den 434 US 836, 54 L Ed 2d 98, 98 S Ct 125 (license to engage in business as firearms dealer); United States v Metzger (CA6 Ky) 778 F2d 1195, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 695, cert den 477 US 906, 91 L Ed 2d 568, 106 S Ct 3279 (license to manufacture explosives, registration of destructive device, or payment of taxes for destructive device); United States v Combs (CA9 Cal) 762 F2d 1343, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1101 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Disla (CA9 Cal) 805 F2d 1340) (registration of firearm); United States v Herrera-Britto (CA11 Fla) 739 F2d 551, 16 Fed Rules Evid Serv 264 (foreign registration of vessel).

Footnote 44. United States v Wilson (CA5 Tex) 732 F2d 404, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 978, cert den 469 US 1099, 83 L Ed 2d 718, 105 S Ct 609 (offered to refute defendant's claim that he had "special relationship" with CIA); United States v Lee (CA9 Cal) 589 F2d 980, 4 Fed Rules Evid Serv 326, cert den 444 US 969, 62 L Ed 2d 382, 100 S Ct 460 (offered to refute claim that defendant was employed by CIA).

Footnote 45. United States v Martinez (CA11 Fla) 700 F2d 1358, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1256 (Honduran certificate stating that vessel was not matriculated in Honduras was admissible where certificate was not law enforcement or evaluative report and recited that extensive search of public records had been carried out).

(8). Authentication [1381-1411]

(a). In General [1381-1390]

§ 1381 Generally

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table Go to Supplement
--

It has been said that a general aura of trustworthiness is often accorded official or public records or documents, due to a presumption that official duties such as recordkeeping are regularly performed. 46 Authentication is generally not entirely dispensed with, however. At common law, the contents of official records may be authenticated by the production of the documents themselves, accompanied by testimony showing that they come from the proper custody. 47 They may be identified by their custodian, 48 or, if it is shown that the custodian is not available for the purpose of identification, the identity of the record in question may be established by any witness having knowledge of the facts. 49 Books and records kept by public officers are also generally admissible in evidence when there is attached to them a certificate by the officer or legal custodian as to their correctness and authenticity. 50 It is not a prerequisite to the admissibility in evidence of books and records of public officers that the entries therein be identified and verified by the persons who actually made them. 51

◆ Observation: The doctrine of custodial authentication of public documents applies not only to reports made by public officials, but also to writings prepared by private persons who are required to file such information in public places. 52

§ 1381 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Evidence was sufficient to prove that defendant was convicted felon, even though fingerprint card in name of alias he used was improperly authenticated and admitted, since defendant's own admissions as to prior felony conviction in Colorado and use of alias were sufficiently corroborative to render error harmless. United States v Rackley (1993, CA10 Okla) 986 F2d 1357.

Exhibit containing fingerprint card in name of alias which defendant used was improperly authenticated and admitted as evidence of his Colorado conviction, since government offered no circumstantial evidence to support finding that exhibit in question came from Denver police department. United States v Rackley (1993, CA10 Okla) 986 F2d 1357.

The trial court did not err in a first- degree murder prosecution by admitting into evidence a letter purportedly written by the victim where the victim's mother testified that she was familiar with her daughter's handwriting, that the letter was written in her daughter's handwriting, and that she recognized the signature as that of her daughter. There was sufficient evidence of authenticity. GS § 8C-1, Rule 901(a). State v Alston (1995) 341 NC 198, 461 SE2d 687.

Footnotes

Footnote 46. United States v New York (ED NY) 132 F Supp 779, 55-2 USTC ¶ 9566, 47 AFTR 1730, affd (CA2 NY) 233 F2d 307, 56-1 USTC ¶ 9504, 49 AFTR 1211; Preis v American Indemnity Co. (2nd Dist) 220 Cal App 3d 752, 269 Cal Rptr 617, review den.

Footnote 47. Chesapeake & Delaware Canal Co. v United States, 250 US 123, 63 L Ed 889, 39 S Ct 407; Pierce v Doolittle, 130 Iowa 333, 106 NW 751; Dikeman v Parrish, 6 Pa 210.

Footnote 48. State v Sonderleiter, 251 Iowa 106, 99 NW2d 393; Sherrick v State, 157 Neb 623, 61 NW2d 358.

Footnote 49. Junior v State, 76 Ark 483, 89 SW 467.

Footnote 50. Belford v Scribner, 144 US 488, 36 L Ed 514, 12 S Ct 734; State v Tarwater, 293 Mo 273, 239 SW 480; State v Kilmer, 31 ND 442, 153 NW 1089.

Footnote 51. Chesapeake & Delaware Canal Co. v United States (CA3 Del) 240 F 903, affd 250 US 123, 63 L Ed 889, 39 S Ct 407; Gurney v Howe, 75 Mass 404, 9 Gray 404; Cheatham v Young, 113 NC 161, 18 SE 92; State v Pearson, 223 SC 377, 76 SE2d 151; In re Escalante Valley Drainage Area, 11 Utah 2d 77, 355 P2d 64; Kellerher v Porter, 29 Wash 2d 650, 189 P2d 223.

Footnote 52. Pyle & Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151 (1978).

§ 1382 Self-authenticating public documents; authentication as ancient documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, journals of a branch of the legislature⁵³ and state papers, published under the authority of the Senate of the United States,⁵⁴ are receivable in evidence without further proof of their authenticity. The great seal of the state or government proves itself.⁵⁵ The common law pertaining to self-authenticating public documents has in many jurisdictions been superseded by the adoption of Rule 902 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which provides that a wide range of public records, public documents, and official publications are deemed self-authenticating where the conditions of the Rule are met.⁵⁶

For the admission of public and proprietary records in evidence as ancient documents, it is only necessary to show that they are of the age of 30 years or more and come from a natural and reasonable custody. 57

Footnotes

Footnote 53. Amos v Moseley, 74 Fla 555, 77 So 619.

Footnote 54. Thiesen v Gulf, F. & A. R. Co., 75 Fla 28, 78 So 491.

Footnote 55. Thompson v Stewart, 3 Conn 171; Gunn v Peakes, 36 Minn 177, 30 NW 466.

Footnote 56. As to these provisions of Rule 902, see §§ 1180 et seq.

Footnote 57. McGuire v Blount, 199 US 142, 50 L Ed 125, 26 S Ct 1; Sinkora v Wlach, 239 Iowa 1392, 35 NW2d 40.

As to ancient documents, generally, see §§ 1201 et seq.

§ 1383 Copies of records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, where a document purports to be a certified copy, it must be shown to have come from proper custody and to have been properly certified. 58 This requirement may be satisfied by proof of the authority and incumbency of the custodian performing the purported certification and by proof of the genuineness of his signature or seal. 59

Footnotes

Footnote 58. People v Sheridan, 136 Cal App 675, 29 P2d 464; State v Hendrix, 331 Mo 658, 56 SW2d 76.

As to self-authentication, under the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, of documents purporting to be certified copies of public records, see § 1186.

Footnote 59. Jones v Scarborough, 194 Ga App 468, 390 SE2d 674.

§ 1384 --Form and content of certification

View Entire Section

Statutes requiring the certification of copies of public records or documents as a condition of their admission into evidence generally do not require any particular form of certification beyond the statement that the copy is a correct or true copy of the original.

60 To "certify," as that term is ordinarily used with reference to copies of public documents or records, is to affirm or assert in writing the correctness of the instrument as copied. 61 It is not necessary that the certification employ the word "certificate" or "certify," but it is sufficient if the writing is a certificate in substance. 62 A proper form of certification of a copy of a public record or document requires the signature of the official making it, 63 but where the proper custodian subscribes his official attestation to a purported copy of a record in his keeping, he, for all intents and purposes, affirms or certifies its correctness. 64

In the absence of a statutory requirement, the certificate need not state that the copy has been compared with the original; it is sufficient to state merely that it is a true and correct copy. 65 The seal of the officer is not essential to the certificate, 66 in the absence of a statute requiring the certificate to bear such seal. 67

Footnotes

Footnote 60. State ex rel. Scotten v Brill, 58 Minn 152, 59 NW 989; State v Gee, 28 Or 100, 42 P 7.

As to the authentication of documents purporting to be copies of records of public officials under the Federal Rules of Civil and Criminal Procedure, see § 1388.

Footnote 61. Sawyer v Lorenzen & Weise, 149 Iowa 87, 127 NW 1091.

Footnote 62. Sawyer v Lorenzen & Weise, 149 Iowa 87, 127 NW 1091.

Footnote 63. Watson v Finch, 150 Ind 183, 48 NE 245.

Footnote 64. Sawyer v Lorenzen & Weise, 149 Iowa 87, 127 NW 1091.

Footnote 65. Kellogg v Finn, 22 SD 578, 119 NW 545.

Footnote 66. Belford v Scribner, 144 US 488, 36 L Ed 514, 12 S Ct 734; St. Paul, M. & M. R. Co. v Burton, 111 US 788, 28 L Ed 604, 4 S Ct 699; Strasser v Ress, 165 Neb 858, 87 NW2d 619.

Footnote 67. Conkey v Conder, 137 Ind 441, 37 NE 132; Matthews v State, 243 Miss 568, 139 So 2d 386.

§ 1385 --Sufficiency of statement as to content of proffered document

Only copies of official documents, properly certified by their custodian, are admissible as proof of their contents. 68 A mere certificate of the clerk or other custodian of a paper as to the substance, contents, or legal effect of a proffered document or as to the fact that it is an abstract or summary of the original is not admissible, being hearsay. 69 The power of the officer is limited to a certification that the paper is a true copy of another writing, and he is not authorized to determine to what the record or document relates or pertains, or to pass judgment upon it in any way. 70 A certifying officer has no authority to state facts explanatory of, or collateral to, the record certified by him as a true or correct copy, or to state mere conclusions not required to be certified. 71 But the custodian of a record, having authority to certify a transcript of it, has authority to specify in his certificate the particular record from which the transcript is taken, and such certificate is at least prima facie evidence of the fact recited. 72

Footnotes

Footnote 68. Carr v Youse, 39 Mo 346; Bartlett v Patton, 33 W Va 71, 10 SE 21.

Footnote 69. J. R. Watkins Medical Co. v Martin, 132 Ark 108, 200 SW 283, 2 ALR 1230; Carr v Youse, 39 Mo 346; State v Kilmer, 31 ND 442, 153 NW 1089; Ayre v Hixson, 53 Or 19, 98 P 515; Bartlett v Patton, 33 W Va 71, 10 SE 21.

Footnote 70. Cox v Cox, 26 Pa 375; Ward v Sutor, 70 Tex 343, 8 SW 51; Hagan v Holderby, 62 W Va 106, 57 SE 289; Phares v State, 3 W Va 567.

Footnote 71. Mansfield v Johnson, 51 Fla 239, 40 So 196; Mandel v Swan Land & Cattle Co., 154 Ill 177, 40 NE 462; Harkins v Cole, 200 Miss 698, 28 So 2d 839; Hudkins v Bush, 69 W Va 194, 71 SE 106.

Footnote 72. Mansfield v Johnson, 51 Fla 239, 40 So 196.

§ 1386 Nonjudicial records of state, possession or territory of United States

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In accordance with the requirement of the Constitution that full faith and credit be given in each state to the public acts of every other state, and pursuant to the power bestowed upon Congress to provide for the proof of such matters, 73 Congress has enacted a series of statutes providing for the authentication of nonjudicial records or books kept in any public office of any state, possession, or territory of the United States so as to permit their receipt in evidence in other states. 74 The latest such statute provides that all nonjudicial records or books kept in any public office of any state, territory, or possession of the United States, or copies thereof, shall be proved or admitted in any court or office in any other state, territory, or possession by the attestation of the custodian of such records or books, and the seal of his office annexed, if there is a seal, together with a certificate of a judge of a court of record of the county, parish, or district in which such office may be kept, or of the governor, or secretary of state, the chancellor or keeper of the great seal, of the state, territory, or possession, that the said attestation is in due form and by the proper officers. If the certificate is given by a judge, it shall be further authenticated by the clerk or prothonotary of the court, who shall certify, under his hand and the seal of his office, that such judge is duly commissioned and qualified; or, if given by such governor, secretary, chancellor, or keeper of the great seal, it shall be under the great seal of the state, territory, or possession in which it is made. 75

This statute is within the terms of the Constitution, 76 although, in the absence of the Constitution's full faith and credit clause authorizing such legislation, Congress would have had no power to prescribe rules of evidence for state courts. 77

The statute is not intended to preclude other modes of authentication recognized as proper in the state where authentication is sought. 78 Thus, a state may establish its own rules for authentication of nonjudicial records of a sister state, as long as such rules are not more stringent than those set by the federal statute 79 and do not exclude documents authenticated as prescribed by that statute. 80 The methods provided by acts of Congress are not exclusive of any other methods that the states may adopt in their own courts, 81 provided such methods are not inconsistent with the acts of Congress. The state may waive some of the requirements of the federal acts, but it may not add to those requirements. 82

Footnotes

Footnote 73. USCS Constitution Art 4 § 1.

Footnote 74. For a historical survey of these statutes, see Wilcox v Bergman, 96 Minn 219, 104 NW 955.

As to the proof and authentication of the judicial records of states, possessions, or territories of the United States, see § 1399.

Footnote 75. 28 USCS § 1739.

Footnote 76. Wilcox v Bergman, 96 Minn 219, 104 NW 955.

Footnote 77. Edmonds v State, 201 Ga 108, 39 SE2d 24.

Footnote 78. Kearney v Thomas, 225 NC 156, 33 SE2d 871.

Footnote 79. 28 USCS § 1739.

Footnote 80. State v Yuriar, 22 Ariz App 9, 522 P2d 770; State v Young (Mo) 366 SW2d 386.

Footnote 81. Pressley v State, 207 Ga 274, 61 SE2d 113; Tomlin v Woods, 125 Iowa 367, 101 NW 135; Lattourett v Cook, 1 Iowa 1; Ellis v Ellis, 55 Minn 401, 56 NW 1056; Donaldson v Phillips, 18 Pa 170; Thrasher v Ballard, 33 W Va 285, 10 SE 411.

Footnote 82. Parke v Williams, 7 Cal 247; Pressley v State, 207 Ga 274, 61 SE2d 113; Garden City Sand Co. v Miller, 157 Ill 225, 41 NE 753.

§ 1387 Authentication by proof of custody under Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Authentication or identification of a document may be accomplished under Rule 901(b)(7) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence by showing that a writing authorized by law to be recorded or filed and which is in fact recorded or filed in a public office, or a purported public record, report, statement, or data compilation, in any form, is from the public office where items of this nature are kept. 83

◆ Comment: Public records may thus be regularly authenticated by proof of custody, without more; this principle is extended to include computer data and data stored by similar methods. 84 According to commentators, the term "public records or reports," as used in Rule 901(b)(7), includes such items as tax returns, Selective Service files, weather bureau reports, patent office records, military records, immigration records, any other official records of a state, federal, local, or other public office, acts of legislatures, judicial records, and reports of administrative offices. 85

To properly authenticate a document as a public record or report under Rule 901(b)(7), testimony may be elicited to demonstrate, for example, that the documents were authorized by law to be recorded or filed in a public office or that they were from the public office where items of this nature are kept. 86 Authentication under the Rule has been accomplished by the uncontroverted testimony of the Chief of Claims and Collections for the Department of Agriculture identifying a short-landing certificate and cargo surveys prepared in compliance with government regulations relating to ocean carrier loss and damage. 87

◆ Caution: The mere fact that a document is kept in a working file of a governmental agency does not automatically qualify it as a public record under Rule 901(b)(7) for purposes of authentication. For example, although the recorded version of a deed is a public record, a copy of a deed deposited in a working file of an agency is not by that fact alone a public record. 88

Footnotes

Footnote 83. FRE 901(b)(7); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 901(b)(7).

Law Reviews: LaRocca, Authentication, Identification, and the Best Evidence Rule, 36 La L Rev 185 (1975).

Footnote 84. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 901.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook 2d § 58.16.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 520.

Forms: Attestation—Of copy of official domestic record by officer having legal custody thereof. 1A Federal Procedural Forms, L Ed, Actions in District Court § 1:2793.

Footnote 85. Pyle & Mockbee, Authentication and Identification, 49 Miss LJ 151, 175 (1978).

Footnote 86. United States v Davis (CA5 Ga) 571 F2d 1354, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 761.

Footnote 87. United States v Central Gulf Lines, Inc. (ED La) 575 F Supp 1430, 1985 AMC 595, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 900, affd (CA5 La) 747 F2d 315, 1985 AMC 1982, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 568 and affd in part and revd in part (CA5 La) 974 F2d 621, 1993 AMC 2622, 36 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1371, cert den (US) 122 L Ed 2d 669, 113 S Ct 1274.

Footnote 88. Amoco Production Co. v United States (CA10 Utah) 619 F2d 1383, 67 OGR 136, later proceeding (DC Utah) 663 F Supp 998, 95 OGR 406, affd (CA10 Utah) 852 F2d 1581, 101 OGR 173, later proceeding (CA10 Utah) 852 F2d 1574, 101 OGR 160.

§ 1388 Provisions of Federal Rules of Civil and Criminal Procedure

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Under Rule 44(a)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, an official record kept within the United States, or any state, district, commonwealth, or within a territory subject to the administrative or judicial jurisdiction of the United States, or an entry therein, when admissible for any purpose, may be evidenced by an official publication thereof or by a copy attested by the officer having the legal custody of the record, or by his deputy, and accompanied by a certificate that such officer has the custody. The certificate may be made by a judge of a court of record of the district or political subdivision in which the record is kept, authenticated by the seal of the court, or may be made by any public officer having a seal of office and having official duties in the district or political subdivision in which the record is kept, authenticated by the seal of his office. 89 Under this Rule, material contained in an official file may be authenticated as part of that file simply by the officer having legal custody of the record, or the officer's deputy, attesting to the fact that it came from that source. 90 Also, a document that on its face appears to be an official publication comes under FR Civ P 44(a)(1) unless the party opposing its admission into evidence shows that it is not in fact an official publication. 91 Where authentication under Rule 44(a)(1) is required and not accomplished, a court cannot take judicial notice of the record in question. 92

◆ Observation: These provisions of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure are made applicable to criminal prosecutions by Rule 27 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, which provides that an official record or an entry therein, or the lack of such a record or entry, may be proved in the same manner as in civil actions. 93 FR Civ P 44(a)(1) has also been applied in admiralty cases, 94 and in administrative proceedings. 95

Under these provisions, proof of an official document otherwise admissible is not subject to an objection on the ground that it is hearsay evidence. 96

Footnotes

Footnote 89. FR Civ P, Rule 44(a)(1).

Footnote 90. Vlisidis v Holland (DC Pa) 150 F Supp 678, affd (CA3 Pa) 245 F2d 812.

Annotation: Federal Civil Procedure Rule 44 and Federal Criminal Procedure Rule 27, relating to proof of official records, 70 ALR2d 1227 (§ 5 superseded by Proof of foreign official record under Rule 44(a)(2) of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 41 ALR Fed 784).

Footnote 91. California Asso. of Bioanalysts v Rank (CD Cal) 577 F Supp 1342.

Footnote 92. Powers v Dole (CA7 Ill) 782 F2d 689, 39 BNA FEP Cas 1774, 39 CCH EPD ¶ 35912.

Footnote 93. FR Crim P, Rule 27.

Footnote 94. McWilliams Dredging Co. v United States (DC La) 105 F Supp 582.

Footnote 95. Maroon v Immigration & Naturalization Service (CA8) 364 F2d 982, 2 ALR Fed 292; Chung Young Chew v Boyd (CA9) 309 F2d 857 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in Roldan v Racette (CA2 NY) 984 F2d 85, 24 FR Serv 3d 841).

Footnote 96. Kariakin v United States (CA9 Cal) 261 F2d 263 (Selective Service file held admissible in prosecution for knowingly refusing and failing to report for induction into Armed Forces of United States).

§ 1389 --Nonexclusive nature of authentication provided by Rules

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

The provisions of Rule 44 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure are intended to provide a simple and uniform method of proving public records in all cases, including those specifically provided for in the federal statutes. Such statutes are not, however, superseded, and proof may be made also according to their provisions, whenever they differ from the Federal Procedural Rules. 97 Rule 44(c) specifically provides that the rule concerning the proof of an official record does not prevent the proof of official records, or of entry or lack of entry therein, by any other method authorized by law. 98 Thus, official records may be proved in any manner permitted by the common law 99 or by pertinent federal or state statutes. 1

A document can be admitted into evidence, even though it has not been certified in accordance with Rule 44(a)(1), if it may be regarded as self-authenticating under Rule 902 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence or the Federal Rules of Evidence. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 97. See notes of Advisory Committee to Rule 44, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Footnote 98. FR Civ P 44(c).

Footnote 99. Reed v Stevens, 120 Me 290, 113 A 712; Hutchins v Gerrish, 52 NH 205; Donaldson v Phillips, 18 Pa 170.

Footnote 1. Van Cedarfield v Laroche (CA1 NH) 252 F2d 817; Jackson v United States (CA5 Ala) 250 F2d 897.

Footnote 2. United States v Pent-R-Books, Inc. (CA2 NY) 538 F2d 519, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 259, cert den 430 US 906, 51 L Ed 2d 582, 97 S Ct 1175.

As to self-authenticating records under Rule 902, see §§ 1180 et seq.

§ 1390 --Sufficiency of authentication of copy under particular circumstances

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 44(a)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure contemplates that the officer having immediate custody of the records, or his deputy, and not his superior, must make the attestation. 3 A copy of an official record is not properly authenticated under Rule 44(a)(1) where the certificate of authentication is signed by a person on behalf of a government department which does not have custody of the original document, or where the certificate does not certify the existence of such custody. 4 A copy made of a copy of an official record is not sufficient proof of the record where it is not shown by the certificate that the copy from which the copy sought to be introduced in evidence was made was itself an official document or a true copy of the original. 5 Copies of a complaint and cross claim in a state court action are not admissible evidence under Rule 44(a)(1) for the purpose of ruling on a summary judgment motion, where the copies neither bear the imprint of a state court seal nor are supported by any affidavit of the officer having legal custody of the originals attesting to their authenticity. 6

However, Rule 44(a)(1) is satisfied where copies of tax returns are authenticated by a district director of the Internal Revenue Service who certifies that such copies are true copies of returns on file in a particular office. 7

Footnotes

Footnote 3. United States v Ansani (DC Ill) 138 F Supp 454, affd (CA7 Ill) 240 F2d 216, cert den 353 US 936, 1 L Ed 2d 759, 77 S Ct 813, reh den 353 US 978, 1 L Ed 2d 1139, 77 S Ct 1055.

Annotation: Sufficiency, under Federal Civil Procedure Rule 44(a)(1), of authentication of copy of domestic official record, 2 ALR Fed 306.

Footnote 4. Mullican v United States (CA5 Tex) 252 F2d 398, 70 ALR2d 1217.

Footnote 5. Mullican v United States (CA5 Tex) 252 F2d 398, 70 ALR2d 1217.

Footnote 6. First Nat. Life Ins. Co. v California Pacific Life Ins. Co. (CA11 Ala) 876 F2d 877, 13 FR Serv 3d 1345, reh den, en banc (CA11 Ala) 887 F2d 1093.

Footnote 7. United States v Merrick (CA10 Colo) 464 F2d 1087, 72-2 USTC ¶ 9572, 30 AFTR 2d 72-5270, cert den 409 US 1023, 34 L Ed 2d 314, 93 S Ct 462.

(b). Records of Foreign Country [1391-1397]

§ 1391 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Public records and documents of foreign countries are, under some circumstances, deemed by statute to be self-authenticating. 8 In the absence of statute or procedural rule, whether there has been a proper authentication of foreign documents must be determined by the courts as occasion may require, under the guidance furnished by the rules of the common law or the usages of nations. 9 The object of any such authentication is to afford satisfactory evidence that the document offered is in fact certified by the official custodian of the original of which it purports to be a copy, such official having due authority to make such certification. Any evidence which is calculated to give reasonable assurance of the facts in question is sufficient for this purpose. Such evidence is whatever legitimately tends to prove that the document was obtained from the office where the original is kept, that the signature of the certificate was made by the individual whose name is thus subscribed, that he held, at the time, the official position indicated by his subscription, and that it is one of the functions of those holding that position to certify to such copies. 10 By the usages of civilized nations, proof is allowed of all or some of these points in the shape of certificates from public officers under their official seals, when these seals are such that the courts take judicial notice of them. 11 At common law, the essentials of proper authentication apply to ancient foreign records as well as to recent ones. 12

Footnotes

Footnote 8. As to self-authenticating foreign public documents under the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, see § 1184.

Footnote 9. Barber v International Co. of Mexico, 73 Conn 587, 48 A 758.

Footnote 10. Barber v International Co. of Mexico, 73 Conn 587, 48 A 758.

Footnote 11. Barber v International Co. of Mexico, 73 Conn 587, 48 A 758.

Footnote 12. Sinkora v Wlach, 239 Iowa 1392, 35 NW2d 40.

§ 1392 Effect on state law of Hague Convention regarding authentication of foreign documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents, adopted by the United States effective October 15, 1981, provides for the authentication of foreign public documents from the signatory nations by means of a standard certification (termed an "apostille") certifying the signature, official position, and seal of the attesting officer. 13 The Federal government's exclusive jurisdiction over the foreign policy of the United States means that the provisions of the Convention must prevail over any inconsistent provisions of state law; accordingly, a document within the scope of the Convention which has been authenticated according to the provisions of the Convention is sufficiently authenticated for the purposes of admission into evidence in a state court, notwithstanding that the document has not been authenticated under state law. 14

Footnotes

Footnote 13. § 1397.

Footnote 14. In re Estate of McDermott, 112 Misc 2d 308, 447 NYS2d 107.

§ 1393 Under Federal Rules of Civil and Criminal Procedure

Under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, a foreign official record, or an entry therein, when admissible for any purpose, may be evidenced by an official publication of it; or a copy of it, attested by a person authorized to make the attestation, and accompanied by a final certification as to the genuineness of the signature and official position of the attesting person, or of any foreign official whose certificate of genuineness of signature and official position relates to the attestation or is in a chain of certificates of genuineness of signature and official position relating to the attestation. 15 A final certification under the Rules may be made by a secretary of embassy or legation, consul general, consul, vice consul, or consular agent of the United States, or a diplomatic or consular official of the foreign country assigned or accredited to the United States. If reasonable opportunity has been given to all parties to investigate the authenticity and accuracy of the documents, the court may, for good cause shown, (1) admit an attested copy without final certification, or (2) permit the foreign official record to be evidenced by an attested summary with or without final certification. 16

Under the Rules, a document that on its face appears to be an official publication is admissible in evidence unless a party opposing its admission shows that it lacks that character. 17 The Rules also permit the use of copies of official foreign documents, provided they are attested as required by the rule. 18 Furthermore, because in some situations it may be difficult to satisfy the requirement of final certification, the Rules allow the court, for good cause shown, to admit attested copies of official documents of foreign countries without final certification. 19

The Rules do not prevent the proof of foreign official records, or of entry or lack of entry therein, by any other method authorized by law. 20 The provisions of Rule 44 are made applicable to criminal prosecutions by the provision in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure that an official record or an entry therein, or the lack of such a record or entry, may be proved in the same manner as in civil actions. 21

A statute provides that an official record or document of a foreign country may be evidenced by a copy, summary, or excerpt authenticated as provided in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. 22

Footnotes

Footnote 15. FR Civ P, Rule 44(a)(2).

Annotation: Proof of foreign official record under Rule 44(a)(2) of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 41 ALR Fed 784.

Footnote 16. FR Civ P, Rule 44(a)(2).

Footnote 17. Notes of Advisory Committee on 1966 Amendment to Rule 44.

Footnote 18. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR

Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

Footnote 19. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

As to what constitutes good cause to admit an attested copy without final certification, see § 1396.

As to abolition, by treaty or convention, of the requirement of final certification, see § 1397.

Footnote 20. FR Civ P, Rule 44(c).

Footnote 21. FR Crim P, Rule 27.

Footnote 22. 28 USCS § 1741.

§ 1394 --Records to which Rules apply

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Military service records of foreign governments are foreign records which may be authenticated according to the provisions of Rule 44(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. 23 The provisions of Rule 44(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure apply also to the authentication of originals or copies of foreign records relating to:

- A property interest in a dramatic composition 24
- An appointment of a personal representative for a decedent's estate 25
- Bankruptcy proceedings in a foreign country 26
- Birth certificates or citizenship papers 27
- Border crossings or other officially monitored movements 28
- The census or population of a foreign country 29
- A death certificate 30
- The expropriation of private property by a foreign government 31
- The guardianship of minor children 32
- The importation or smuggling of goods into the United States 33
- A marriage 34

- Military uniform regulations of a foreign country 35
- Radio communications between an airport and an airliner which subsequently crashed 36

The authentication of hotel registration records by means of the procedures provided by Rule 44(a)(2) has been approved where the records in question were deemed to be a species of official records in that they were required by law to be kept. 37 However, genealogical records and family trees do not constitute official records within the contemplation of Rule 44(a)(2), notwithstanding their attestation by a foreign official, where such records do not purport to be based on officially recognized records, but, rather, are based on birth, marriage, and death records of the family. 38 A church baptismal certificate has also been characterized as a nonofficial record outside the scope of the Rule. 39

◆ Observation: The application of Rule 44(a)(2) is not limited to public documents; it speaks not of "public" records, but only of "official" ones, and accordingly it is not required for the application of the Rule to a document that the document be one that is available for examination by the public. 40

Footnotes

Footnote 23. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

Annotation: Proof of foreign official record under Rule 44(a)(2) of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 41 ALR Fed 784 § 3.

Footnote 24. Hospital for Sick Children v Melody Fare Dinner Theatre (ED Va) 516 F Supp 67, 209 USPQ 749.

Footnote 25. Nielson v Avco Corp. (DC NY) 54 FRD 76.

Footnote 26. Siata International U.S.A., Inc. v Insurance Co. of North America (ED Pa) 362 F Supp 1355, revd on other grounds (CA3 Pa) 498 F2d 817.

Footnote 27. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777; New York Life Ins. Co. v Aronson (DC Pa) 38 F Supp 687; United States v Klissas (DC Md) 218 F Supp 880; Fakouri v Cadais (CA5 La) 147 F2d 667, reh den (CA5 La) 149 F2d 321 and cert den 326 US 742, 90 L Ed 443, 66 S Ct 54; United States v Pacheco-Lovio (CA9 Cal) 463 F2d 232.

Footnote 28. United States v Leal (CA9 Guam) 509 F2d 122 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437); United States v Wing (CA9 Cal) 450 F2d 806, cert den 405 US 994, 31 L Ed 2d 462, 92 S Ct 1267.

Footnote 29. United States v Ghaloub (CA2 Vt) 385 F2d 567 (used to establish citizenship of an individual claiming United States citizenship).

Footnote 30. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

Footnote 31. Gulden v United States (ND NY) 278 F Supp 1019, 68-1 USTC ¶ 9181, 21 AFTR 2d 380.

Footnote 32. Fakouri v Cadais (CA5 La) 147 F2d 667, reh den (CA5 La) 149 F2d 321 and cert den 326 US 742, 90 L Ed 443, 66 S Ct 54.

Footnote 33. United States v Blum (CA2 NY) 329 F2d 49, cert den 377 US 993, 12 L Ed 2d 1045, 84 S Ct 1920; United States v Leal (CA9 Guam) 509 F2d 122 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437); United States v Wing (CA9 Cal) 450 F2d 806, cert den 405 US 994, 31 L Ed 2d 462, 92 S Ct 1267.

Footnote 34. United States v D'Agostino (CA2 NY) 338 F2d 490.

Footnote 35. Mole v United States (CA5 Ga) 315 F2d 156.

Footnote 36. Le Roy v Sabena Belgian World Airlines (CA2 NY) 344 F2d 266, cert den 382 US 878, 15 L Ed 2d 119, 86 S Ct 161.

Footnote 37. United States v Leal (CA9 Guam) 509 F2d 122 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437).

Footnote 38. In re Estate of Shega, 38 Wis 2d 269, 156 NW2d 392.

Footnote 39. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

Footnote 40. Banco De Espana v Federal Reserve Bank (CA2 NY) 114 F2d 438 (permitting authentication of secret instructions from the government of Spain to its ambassador by means of an affidavit of the ambassador).

§ 1395 --Sufficiency of initial attestation or final certification

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The requirement of Rule 44(a)(2) that a document offered as a copy of a foreign official record be attested by an official authorized to make such an attestation 41 has been held satisfied where documents purporting to establish Dominican Republic citizenship (including an identification card, a copy of a birth certificate, and records of a relative's military service) were each offered with an attestation of the Dominican official in charge of the records from which it was obtained. 42 Where authentication of hotel registration records was permitted by means of a procedure essentially identical to that set forth in Rule 44(a)(2)—the court noting that such records were a sort of official record inasmuch as they were required by law to be kept—attestation of the records by the assistant manager of the hotel was held sufficient. 43 However, in a suit for a tax refund based on alleged losses stemming from loss of property in the course of the Communist takeover of Hungary, a document purporting to be from a deputy district chairman of a Hungarian court and detailing certain matters concerning property alleged to have been lost or sold to the state was held inadmissible for lack of authentication under Rule 44(a)(2), where it appeared not to have been attested by any Hungarian public official. 44

Final certification of copies of official foreign records has been deemed sufficient for the purposes of authentication under Rule 44(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure where the copies were certified by the United States consul in the foreign nation where the records originated. 45

Footnotes

Footnote 41. § 1393.

Footnote 42. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

Annotation: Proof of foreign official record under Rule 44(a)(2) of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 41 ALR Fed 784 § 4.

Footnote 43. United States v Leal (CA9 Guam) 509 F2d 122 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437).

Footnote 44. Gulden v United States (ND NY) 278 F Supp 1019, 68-1 USTC ¶ 9181, 21 AFTR 2d 380.

Footnote 45. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

See also In re Estate of Nikiporez, 19 Wash App 231, 574 P2d 1204, review den 90 Wash 2d 1013, decided under a state evidentiary rule substantially identical to Rule 44(a)(2), in which certification by a United States vice consul of a Soviet official's authentication of a Russian marriage certificate was held sufficient to admit the document.

§ 1396 --Good cause for admission notwithstanding lack of certification

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Because in some situations it may be difficult to satisfy the requirement of final certification under Rule 44(a)(2), the Rule allows a court, for good cause shown, to admit an attested copy of official documents of foreign countries without final certification. 46

Thus, although final certification is normally required for the authentication of foreign records, they may be admitted absent final certification where their proponent has made diligent efforts to obtain such certification and the opposing party has had a reasonable opportunity to investigate the authenticity and accuracy of the documents. 47 Lack of final certification has not precluded the admission into evidence of foreign documents where the opposing party was shown the documents, was furnished with copies of them, and the documents dealt only with the date and location of the opposing party's birth and family origins, such matters being within his intimate personal knowledge. 48 And admission of official records of a foreign immigration service was approved, notwithstanding that they had not been finally certified, where the reason for the absence of certification was the refusal of the foreign official in charge of the records to go to the American embassy to certify them because he preferred his own government's procedure for authenticating them, and where the opposing party could not claim that he had been prevented from investigating the authenticity and accuracy of the records. 49

◆ Practice guide: Lack of certification of a copy of a foreign official record will not bar its admission into evidence where the party against which it is offered concedes that the document is an accurate copy of the original. 50 Moreover, the failure of an opposing party to raise an objection to an absence of facts constituting good cause for admission of a foreign record notwithstanding its lack of final certification can estop him or her from raising such an issue on appeal. 51

Footnotes

Footnote 46. § 1393.

Footnote 47. Insurance Co. of North America v S/S "Italica" (SD NY) 567 F Supp 59, 1984 AMC 136, 36 FR Serv 2d 1473 (Italian weather records made available to opposing party over a year before trial).

Annotation: Proof of foreign official record under Rule 44(a)(2) of Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, 41 ALR Fed 784 § 8.

Footnote 48. United States v Rodriguez Serrate (CA1 Puerto Rico) 534 F2d 7, 22 FR Serv 2d 141, 41 ALR Fed 777.

Footnote 49. United States v Leal (CA9 Guam) 509 F2d 122 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Smith, 172 US App DC 297, 521 F2d 957, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 22, 31 ALR Fed 437).

Footnote 50. Le Roy v Sabena Belgian World Airlines (CA2 NY) 344 F2d 266, cert den 382 US 878, 15 L Ed 2d 119, 86 S Ct 161.

Footnote 51. United States v Pacheco-Lovio (CA9 Cal) 463 F2d 232.

§ 1397 --Abolition by treaty or convention of requirement of final certification

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The requirement of final certification for authentication of a foreign official record is dispensed with if the record and its attestation are certified as provided in a treaty or convention to which the United States and the nation in which the record is located are parties. 52 The Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents, to which the United States is a party, is a convention of the sort referred to by the Rule, and provides that the requirement of final certification is abolished in favor of a model "apostille" certifying the signature, official position, and seal of the attesting officer. 53

Footnotes

Footnote 52. FR Civ P, Rule 44(a)(2).

Footnote 53. Notes of Advisory Committee on December 1991 Amendment of Rule.

As to the effect of the Hague Convention on state law, see § 1392.

Law Reviews: The United States and the Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents. 11 Harv Int LJ 476 (1970).

(c). Judicial Records [1398-1404]

§ 1398 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, a judgment produced for the inspection of the court, when such judgment becomes relevant in another action in the same court, requires no authentication where it is produced by the clerk. 54 But where either an original record or a purported copy of it is offered in another court, the general common-law rule is that proof of identity and authenticity must be made, 55 or the document is not admissible in evidence. 56 If the original record itself is offered, proof of its existence in appropriate official custody is sufficient evidence of its genuineness. 57 It is not sufficient for a witness to identify certain papers as those which were filed with him at a time when he was clerk of the court, or for a witness to testify that he received certain papers from the present clerk of court. 58 An attorney's production of records without other authentication is likewise insufficient. 59 Copies of the original record may be authenticated by certification by the clerk having custody of the record. 60 ◆ Observation: The common law regarding authentication of judicial records has in many jurisdictions been superseded by the adoption of Rule 902 of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence. Although Rule 902 does not specifically address authentication of judicial records, its provisions make self-authenticating numerous classes of documents (such as domestic public documents, 61 certified copies of public records, 62 and officially published documents 63 to which judicial records generally or in many particular instances belong.

Footnotes

Footnote 54. Divide Creek Irr. Dist. v Hollingsworth (CA10 Colo) 72 F2d 859, 96 ALR 937; Frank v State, 142 Ga 741, 83 SE 645, error den 235 US 694, 59 L Ed 429, 35 S Ct 208; Sutcliffe v State, 18 Ohio 469; Plymouth County Bank v Gilman, 3 SD 170, 52 NW 869, adhered to, on reh 4 SD 265, 56 NW 892, later proceeding 9 SD 278, 68 NW 735; Short v Blair & Hughes Co. (Tex Civ App) 230 SW 427, appeal after remand (Tex Civ App) 271 SW 199.

Footnote 55. Owings v Hull, 34 US 607, 9 Pet 607, 9 L Ed 246; Thomason v Odum, 31 Ala 108; Wickersham v Johnston, 104 Cal 407, 38 P 89; Commonwealth v Eastman, 55 Mass 189, 1 Cush 189.

Footnote 56. Slocinski v Radwan, 83 NH 501, 144 A 787, 63 ALR 643; Ehrlich v Mulligan, 104 NJL 375, 140 A 463, 57 ALR 596.

Footnote 57. Divide Creek Irr. Dist. v Hollingsworth (CA10 Colo) 72 F2d 859, 96 ALR 937.

Footnote 58. Lyon v Bolling, 14 Ala 753; Darden v Neuse & T. R. S. B. Co., 107 NC 437, 12 SE 46.

Footnote 59. Bigham v Coleman, 71 Ga 176.

Footnote 60. State ex rel. Devening v Bartholomew, 176 Ind 182, 95 NE 417; Letcher's Trustee v German Nat. Bank, 134 Ky 24, 119 SW 236; State ex rel. Kelly v Wolfer, 119 Minn 368, 138 NW 315.

Footnote 61. §§ 1181-1183.

Footnote 62. §§ 1186-1189.

Footnote 63. §§ 1190, 1191.

§ 1399 Records of states, territories, or possessions of United States

View Entire Section

The records and judicial proceedings of any court of a state, territory, or possession of the United States shall be proved or admitted in other courts within the United States and its territories and possessions by the attestation of the clerk and the seal of the court annexed, if a seal exists, together with a certificate of the judge of the court that said attestation is in proper form. 64 A record of a judgment so authenticated proves itself without further evidence. 65 A transcript of a record from another state properly authenticated by certificates of the judge and clerk of court as required by the statute, which shows that the record is among those of the court of which they are officers, is prima facie admissible in evidence, although the record itself purports to belong to another court. 66 The absence of a certificate of the judge that the attestation is in proper form as required by statute renders the record inadmissible. 67 Where a certificate appears, however, extrinsic evidence that the certifying judge is in fact a judge of the court is not required in the absence of proof to the contrary. 68

The fact that the judge who has certified the clerk's attestation of a copy is not the same judge who signed the original judgment is not a bar to authentication of a copy of a judicial record under the statute. 69

Footnotes

Footnote 64. 28 USCS § 1738.

Footnote 65. Hanley v Donoghue, 116 US 1, 29 L Ed 535, 6 S Ct 242.

Footnote 66. Tittman v Thornton, 107 Mo 500, 17 SW 979.

Footnote 67. Drummond's Admrs. v Magruder & Co., 13 US 122, 9 Cranch 122, 3 L Ed 677.

Footnote 68. Paschall v Geib (Tex Civ App Dallas) 405 SW2d 385, writ ref n r e (Oct 19, 1966) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Nov 16, 1966).

Footnote 69. Paschall v Geib (Tex Civ App Dallas) 405 SW2d 385, writ ref n r e (Oct 19, 1966) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Nov 16, 1966).

§ 1400 --Courts within scope of federal statute

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The language of 28 USCS § 1738 does not include judicial records of federal courts. 70

The federal statute does not apply to records of courts of inferior and limited jurisdiction, as distinguished from records of courts of general jurisdiction. 71 This rule has been held applicable to a judgment rendered by a court of special or limited jurisdiction and filed pursuant to statutory provisions in a court of general jurisdiction. 72 Authentication of the records of such inferior courts must conform to the requirements of the common law, 73 or to the statutes of the state in which they are to be introduced in evidence. 74

◆ Observation: Records of an inferior court (such as a justice court) have been deemed within the scope of the statute, however, where the court is under the law of the state a court of record. 75

Footnotes

Footnote 70. National Acci. Soc. v Spiro (CA2 NY) 94 F 750; Adams v Way, 33 Conn 419.

As to authentication of records of federal courts, see § 1402.

Footnote 71. Draggou v Graham, 9 Ind 212; Strecker v Railson, 16 ND 68, 111 NW 612.

Footnote 72. Strecker v Railson, 16 ND 68, 111 NW 612.

Footnote 73. Strecker v Railson, 16 ND 68, 111 NW 612.

Footnote 74. Collier v Collier, 150 Ind 276, 49 NE 1063; Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v Hindman, 83 Kan 35, 110 P 102; Smith v Petrie, 70 Minn 433, 73 NW 155; Robinson v Prescott, 4 NH 450; Silver Lake Bank v Harding, 5 Ohio 545.

Footnote 75. Koury v Claymont Development Co., 32 Del 115, 119 A 858; Belton v Fisher, 44 Ill 32; Draggou v Graham, 9 Ind 212; Case v McGee, 8 Md 9; Melvin v Lyons, 18 Miss 78; Mahurin v Bickford, 6 NH 567; Pelton v Platner, 13 Ohio 209; Brown v Edson, 23 Vt 435.

§ 1401 --Under state statutes

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A state may enact a statute authorizing the introduction of a judicial record of a sister state in evidence without compliance with all the requisites established by the federal statute, 76 although such a statute may not impose requirements in excess of those imposed by the federal statute, or inconsistent with them. 77 Accordingly, a copy of the proceedings of a court of one state is admissible in evidence in a court of another state, if authenticated according to the statute of the latter, even though not according to the acts of Congress. 78 A document which has not been authenticated in the manner of either the federal statute or an applicable state statute cannot be admitted without the consent of the opposing party. 79

Footnotes

Footnote 76. 28 USCS § 1738.

Footnote 77. Garden City Sand Co. v Miller, 157 Ill 225, 41 NE 753; Willock v Wilson, 178 Mass 68, 59 NE 757; Ellis v Ellis, 55 Minn 401, 56 NW 1056.

Footnote 78. Gradler v Johnson, 372 Ill 137, 22 NE2d 946, 159 ALR 1123; Ellis v Ellis, 55 Minn 401, 56 NW 1056.

A copy of a foreign judgment, certified by the clerk having custody and control of the original records as a true and attested copy, has been held admissible in evidence, without further identification, in an action on the judgment. Sampson v Conlon, 100 NH 358, 126 A2d 250, 60 ALR2d 1021.

Footnote 79. Ehrlich v Mulligan, 104 NJL 375, 140 A 463, 57 ALR 596.

§ 1402 Records of federal courts

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The record of a judgment in a federal district court need not be authenticated in the manner provided by 28 USCS § 1738 to make it admissible in another federal court. 80 It is, however, no objection to the admissibility of federal judicial records that they are authenticated in the mode provided by the statute for the authentication of judicial records of states. 81 However, the authentication in federal court of judicial records kept within the United States, or any state, district, commonwealth, or within a territory subject to the administrative or judicial jurisdiction of the United States, is now governed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 44, as judicial records are "official records" within the scope of the Rule. 82

Footnotes

Footnote 80. Turnbull v Payson, 95 US 418, 5 Otto 418, 24 L Ed 437 (stating that authentication may be had by the certificate of the clerk under the seal of the court, without the judge's certificate that the same is in due form).

Footnote 81. Williams v Wilkes, 14 Pa 228.

Footnote 82. Maroon v Immigration & Naturalization Service (CA8) 364 F2d 982, 2 ALR Fed 292 (applying Rule 44 to records of conviction for income tax evasion).

As to the provisions of FR Civ P Rule 44, generally, see §§ 1388-1390.

§ 1403 Judicial records of foreign nations—at common law

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, judgments of foreign countries, to be admissible in evidence, must be clothed with all the forms required to prove their authenticity in the country in which they are pronounced. 83 Such judgments are usually authenticated by an exemplification under the great seal, by a copy proved to be a true copy, or by the certificate of an officer authorized by law, which certificate must itself be properly authenticated. 84 However, in attesting the record of a foreign court, offered in evidence, it is only necessary that the seal of the court be attached to the certificate of the clerk; it need not be attached to the record. 85

◆ Observation: Copies of records of foreign courts, however, are not proved by the mere fact that they purport to be under the hands and seals of the officers of such courts; there must be some extrinsic proof of the genuineness of the signatures and seals. 86

The clerk of a court is presumed to possess authority to make and certify copies of the records of a court in a certificate over his official signature, together with the seal of the court. The clerk's official signature and the seal are duly authenticated by the affixing of the great seal of the state or government in which the court is found to the certificate of the keeper thereof; the great seal proves itself. 87

Footnotes

Footnote 83. Succession of Lorenz, 41 La Ann 1091, 6 So 886.

In Yeaton v Fry, 9 US 335, 5 Cranch 335, 3 L Ed 117, it was held that copies of the proceedings of the vice-admiralty court of Jamaica were admissible in evidence when certified under the seal of the court by the deputy registrar, who was certified by the judge of the court, who was certified by a notary public.

Footnote 84. Church v Hubbart, 6 US 187, 2 Cranch 187, 2 L Ed 249, holding that a translation of a foreign judgment, certified by a consul of the United States, but not under oath, and a foreign judgment certified under the private seal of his arms by one styling himself to be the Secretary of State for foreign affairs, are not evidence.

The record of a court of vice-admiralty in Bermuda, purporting to be certified by the deputy registrar, under the seal of the court, is admissible in evidence in a state court without other proofs of authenticity. Thompson v Stewart, 3 Conn 171.

Footnote 85. Carpenter v Ritchie, 2 Wash 512, 28 P 380.

It has been held that the record of a judgment of a court of a province of Canada is duly authenticated by attestation of the clerk of the court, with the seal of the court annexed, to which is attached the proper certificates of the chief justice of the court, of the assistant secretary of state of the province, and of the governor in chief of said province, to which is affixed the great seal of the province. Lazier v Westcott, 26 NY 146.

Footnote 86. Thompson v Stewart, 3 Conn 171; Gage, Dater & Sloan v Dubuque & P. R. Co., 11 Iowa 310; Word v McKinney, 25 Tex 258.

Footnote 87. Gunn v Peakes, 36 Minn 177, 30 NW 466; Lazier v Westcott, 26 NY 146.

§ 1404 --Pursuant to statute

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The authentication of foreign judicial records is in some jurisdictions governed by statute. 88 Thus, the procedures prescribed in Rule 44(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which provides generally for the authentication of foreign official documents, apply to the authentication of a judgment of a foreign court. 89 Section 5.02 of the Uniform Interstate and International Procedure Act provides for authentication of foreign official records in a manner substantially similar to that set forth in Rule 44(a)(2). 90 Moreover, a foreign judicial record may be self-authenticating under the provisions of Rule 902(3) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence or the Federal Rules of Evidence. 91

◆ Reminder: Where a foreign judicial record is a public document and originates from a signatory to the Hague Convention Abolishing the Requirement of Legalization for Foreign Public Documents, its authentication is governed by the Convention rather than by state law. 92

Footnotes

Footnote 88. Cooley v Cooley (Tex Civ App Eastland) 503 SW2d 604 (statute providing for authentication by officer or clerk of "foreign records which are permitted or required by law to be made").

Footnote 89. § 1394.

Footnote 90. As to the provisions of Rule 44(a)(2) relating to the authentication of foreign official records, see § 1393.

Footnote 91. As to the provisions of Rule 902(3), see §§ 1184, 1185.

Footnote 92. § 1392.

(d). Legislative Acts [1405-1411]

§ 1405 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, a court is required to take judicial notice of the existence and tenor of the public laws of the state. 93 This rule extends to the taking of judicial notice by a federal court of the laws of the state in which it sits. 94 On the other hand, strictly private acts are not, as a general rule, judicially noticed at common law. 95 It has been said that they must be proved the same as any other matter of fact. 96 The common law requires that they be proved by sworn or exemplified copies authenticated by the great seal. 97 In some states, however, all laws, both public and private, are required by statute to be judicially noticed, and in most other states the distinction between public and private acts of the legislature has become relatively unimportant in view of constitutional prohibitions against special legislation. 98 Also, many states have enacted statutes providing that volumes containing the statutes of the state, published by state authority, are sufficient evidence of such statutes. 99

It has been held, in the absence of statute, that an edition of the laws of the state published under the authority of the legislature is evidence both of public and private laws. 1 Thus, laws printed by the public printer, by order of the legislature, in accordance with a general act of assembly for that purpose, whether public or private, are to be considered as sufficiently authenticated. 2 A statute may also be proved, like other records, by a sworn copy. 3

Footnotes

Footnote 93. § 120.

Footnote 94. § 105.

Footnote 95. § 121.

Footnote 96. Leland v Wilkinson, 31 US 317, 6 Pet 317, 8 L Ed 412; Spangler v Jacoby, 14 Ill 297; Elmondorff v Carmichael, 13 Ky 472; Bow v Allenstown, 34 NH 351; Smith v Potter, 27 Vt 304.

Footnote 97. Smith v Potter, 27 Vt 304.

Footnote 98. § 121.

Footnote 99. Falls v United States Sav. Loan & Bldg. Co., 97 Ala 417, 13 So 25.

As to self-authentication of official publications under Rule 902(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence or the Federal Rules of Evidence, see §§ 1190, 1191.

Footnote 1. Junction R. Co. v Bank of Ashland, 79 US 226, 12 Wall 226, 20 L Ed 385.

Footnote 2. Bow v Allenstown, 34 NH 351; Emery v Berry, 28 NH 473; State v Abbey, 29 Vt 60.

Footnote 3. Ennis v Smith, 55 US 400, 14 How 400, 14 L Ed 472.

§ 1406 Federal statutes, treaties, and rules; laws of the District of Columbia

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The United States Statutes at Large are legal evidence of laws, concurrent resolutions, treaties, international agreements other than treaties, proclamations by the President, and proposed or ratified amendments to the Constitution of the United States therein contained, in all the courts of the United States, the several states, and the territories and insular possessions of the United States. 4 A compilation entitled "United States Treaties and Other International Agreements" is legal evidence of the treaties, international agreements other than treaties, and the President's proclamations of such treaties and agreements, therein contained, in all the courts of the United States, the several states, and the territories and insular possessions of the United States. 5

It is also provided by statute that the edition of the laws and treaties of the United States, published by Little and Brown, and the publications in slip or pamphlet form of the laws of the United States issued under the authority of the Archivist of the United States, and the Treaties and Other International Acts Series issued under the authority of the Secretary of State, shall be competent evidence of the several public and private acts of Congress, and of the treaties, international agreements other than treaties, and the President's proclamations of such treaties and international agreements other than treaties, as the case may be, therein contained, in all the courts of law and equity and of maritime jurisdiction, and in all the tribunals and public offices of the United States, and of the several states, without any further proof or authentication thereof. 6

Provision is also made as to the evidentiary effect of the United States Code, the Code of the District of Columbia, and current supplements thereto. 7 Rule 902(5) of the Federal Rules of Evidence makes self-authenticating officially published books, pamphlets, or other publications containing statutes. 8

§ 1406 ----Federal statutes, treaties, and rules; laws of the District of Columbia [SUPPLEMENT]

Statutes:

In 1994, the then-existing text of 1 USCS § :112a was codified as 1 USCS § :112a(a). 1 USCS § :112a(b) was added, providing that the Secretary of State may determine that publication of certain categories of agreements is not required if certain criteria are met.

Footnotes

Footnote 4. 1 USCS § 112.

The statutes at large are accepted as proof of those laws in any court of the United States. Bear v United States (DC Neb) 611 F Supp 589, affd (CA8 Neb) 810 F2d 153.

Footnote 5. 1 USCS § 112a.

Footnote 6. 1 USCS § 113.

Footnote 7. 1 USCS §§ 204, 209.

Footnote 8. As to Rule 902(5), generally, see § 1190.

As to authentication by proof of custody under Rule 901(b)(7), see § 1387.

§ 1407 Journals of legislature

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The printed journals of either house of a legislature, published in obedience to law, and the copies of such journals certified by the secretary of state, are competent evidence at common law of the proceedings in the legislature. 9 The clerks of the senate and house of representatives are the keepers of their respective records, and an extract from the journals of either house may be authenticated by the clerk. 10

A federal statute provides that extracts from the Journals of the Senate and the House of Representatives, and from the Executive Journal of the Senate when the injunction of secrecy is removed, certified by the Secretary of the Senate or the Clerk of the House of Representatives, shall be received in evidence with the same effect as the originals would have. 11

◆ Observation: Rule 902(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence makes officially published journals of a legislature self-authenticating. 12

Footnotes

Footnote 9. Post v Supervisors, 105 US 667, 15 Otto 667, 26 L Ed 1204; South Ottawa v Perkins, 94 US 260, 4 Otto 260, 24 L Ed 154; Watkins v Lessee of Holman, 41 US 25, 16 Pet 25, 10 L Ed 873; Taylor v Beckham, 108 Ky 278, 56 SW 177, error dismd 178 US 548, 44 L Ed 1187, 20 S Ct 890; Ex parte Wren, 63 Miss 512; State ex rel. George v Swift, 10 Nev 176.

Footnote 10. Thomson v Gaillard, 37 SCL 418.

Footnote 11. 28 USCS § 1736.

Footnote 12. As to Rule 902(5), generally, see § 1191.

§ 1408 Acts of another state—generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Courts generally do not take judicial notice of the laws of a sister state, except to the extent that they may be required to do so in order to effectuate the provisions of the full faith and credit clause of the Federal Constitution; 13 such laws must be proved the same as other facts. The Constitution of the United States requires full faith and credit to be given in each state to the public acts of every other state, and empowers Congress to prescribe by general law the manner in which such acts shall be proved. 14 Pursuant to this provision, an act of Congress, originally enacted as the Act of May 26, 1790, declares that the acts of the legislature of any state, territory, or possession of the United States, or copies thereof, shall be authenticated by affixing the seal of such state, territory, or possession thereto. 15 Under this statute, copies of the legislative acts of the several states, authenticated by having the seal of the state affixed thereto, are conclusive evidence of such acts in the courts of other states and of the Union. No formality is required other than the annexation of the seal, which will be presumed to have been done by an officer having custody of it and competent authority to affix it. 16

The federal statutes do not prevent a party from proving acts of another state by the more laborious method of the common law. 17 Authentication in the manner provided in the federal statutes is not generally deemed the best evidence in such a sense as to exclude other modes of proof. 18

The problem of proving the law of other states has, in many states, been obviated to a large extent by the adoption of the Uniform Judicial Notice of Foreign Law Act, which requires the courts of the adopting state to take judicial notice of the statutes of every state, territory, and other jurisdiction of the United States. 19

Footnotes

Footnote 13. § 110.

Footnote 14. USCS Constitution Art 4 § 1.

Footnote 15. 28 USCS § 1738.

Footnote 16. United States v Amedy, 24 US 392, 11 Wheat 392, 6 L Ed 502; United States v Johns (CCD Pa) 4 US 412, 4 Dall 412, 1 L Ed 888, 1 Wash CC 363, 26 F Cas

616, No 15481; Hunter v Fulcher, 26 Va 126.

Footnote 17. People ex rel. Johnson v Miller, 195 Ill 621, 63 NE 504; Petty v Hayden, 115 Iowa 212, 88 NW 339; Kingman v Cowles, 103 Mass 283.

Footnote 18. Anthony Doll & Co. v Hogan, 40 NM 55, 53 P2d 649.

Footnote 19. § 109.

§ 1409 --Books or copies of statutes purporting to be officially published

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The mode provided by the act of Congress for the authentication of statutes of other states does not exclude other modes of proof. 20 At common law, the statutory law of another state may generally be proved by statute books or printed copies of the statute in question purporting to be published under the authority of such other state, without other authentication, 21 although in some instances it has been held that such volumes are not admissible without extrinsic evidence of their authenticity. 22 The issue is controlled in some states by statutes providing generally that printed statutes of other states are admissible where they purport to be printed by public authority. 23 Rule 902(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which generally makes self-authenticating any book, pamphlet, or other publication issued by public authority, will have a similar effect with respect to a printed volume of another state's statutes. 24

Volumes or copies of the statutes of another state, printed by private individuals and not purporting to be published by authority of the state, and mere unofficial volumes purporting to contain the statutes or digests of the statutes of other states, which are not shown to be commonly admitted as evidence of the laws in that state, are not admissible to prove such laws. 25

Footnotes

Footnote 20. § 1408.

Footnote 21. Ennis v Smith, 55 US 400, 14 How 400, 14 L Ed 472; Falls v United States Sav. Loan & Bldg. Co., 97 Ala 417, 13 So 25; Clarke v Bank of Mississippi, 10 Ark 516; Cochran v Ward, 5 Ind App 89, 29 NE 795, reh overr 5 Ind App 97, 31 NE 581; Goodwin v Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc., 97 Iowa 226, 66 NW 157; Handley v Harris, 48 Kan 606, 29 P 1145; Biesenthall v Williams, 62 Ky 329; Lapice v Smith, 13 La 91; Reed v Stevens, 120 Me 290, 113 A 712; Commonwealth v Stevens, 196 Mass 280, 82 NE 33; Emery v Berry, 28 NH 473; Anthony Doll & Co. v Hogan, 40 NM 55, 53 P2d 649; In re Gehrig's Estate, 126 NY 537, 27 NE 784; Cole v District Board of School Dist., 32 Okla 692, 123 P 426; State v Abbey, 29 Vt 60; Union Cent. Life Ins. Co. v Pollard, 94 Va 146, 26 SE 421.

Footnote 22. Stanford v Pruet, 27 Ga 243.

Footnote 23. Falls v United States Sav. Loan & Bldg. Co., 97 Ala 417, 13 So 25; Cochran v Ward, 5 Ind App 89, 29 NE 795, reh overr 5 Ind App 97, 31 NE 581; Rudolph Hardware Co. v Price, 164 Iowa 353, 145 NW 910.

Footnote 24. As to Rule 902(5), generally, see § 1190.

Footnote 25. Yarbrough v Arnold, 20 Ark 592; Dixon v Thatcher, 14 Ark 141; Canfield v Squire (Conn) 2 Root 300; Rudolph Hardware Co. v Price, 164 Iowa 353, 145 NW 910.

§ 1410 Acts of foreign country

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In the absence of statute, courts do not take judicial notice of the laws of another country. 26 At common law, a printed copy of a statute of a foreign country requires authentication to be admissible in evidence. 27 Statutes of foreign countries may be proved at common law by printed volumes of foreign statutes, where authenticated by the oath of a competent person, or by some other method equivalent to the sanction of an oath. 28

Some jurisdictions have adopted statutes to the effect that a printed copy of the law at issue is prima facie evidence of the foreign country's law if the copy appears in an official publication or, in the case of an unofficial publication, if the volume is shown to be commonly recognized and used as evidence of the law in the courts of that country. Some such statutes are based on the Uniform Proof of Statutes Act, which was promulgated in 1920. The Uniform Proof of Statutes Act was superseded by the Uniform Interstate and International Procedure Act, promulgated in 1962, which sets forth as the standard for admissibility of foreign law that such law appear in any publication proved to be commonly accepted as proof thereof in the tribunals having jurisdiction in the foreign governmental unit. 29

Footnotes

Footnote 26. § 112.

Footnote 27. Pierce v Indseth, 106 US 546, 16 Otto 546, 27 L Ed 254, 1 S Ct 418; Ennis v Smith, 55 US 400, 14 How 400, 14 L Ed 472; Church v Hubbard, 6 US 187, 2 Cranch 187, 2 L Ed 249; Owen v Boyle, 15 Me 147; Baltimore & O. R. R. Co. v Glenn, 28 Md 287; Anglo-American Land Mortg. & Agency Co. v Dyer, 181 Mass 593, 64 NE 416; Barrows v Joseph F. Downs & Co., 9 RI 446.

Annotation: Comment Note.—Pleading and proof of law of foreign country, 75 ALR3d 177.

Footnote 28. Nashua Sav. Bank v Anglo-American Land, Mortg. & Agency Co., 189 US 221, 47 L Ed 782, 23 S Ct 517 (copies of acts of Parliament were sufficiently authenticated to be admissible in evidence in a federal court sitting in New Hampshire when produced by an attorney and solicitor of the Supreme Court of Judicature in England of 30 years' experience, in connection with his testimony that he was intimately acquainted with such acts, and that the copies were "issued by authority, being printed by Her Majesty's printer, and are as such by law receivable in evidence without further proof").

Footnote 29. Uniform Interstate and International Procedure Act § 5.03.

§ 1411 Municipal ordinances

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In the absence of statute, courts of general jurisdiction do not take judicial notice of municipal ordinances, but require that they be proved as other facts. 30 A municipal ordinance may be proved as to its contents, as well as to its passage, by the introduction in evidence of the original record, properly identified as such. 31 An ordinance may also be proved by a copy certified or attested to be correct by the official custodian of the records of the municipality. 32

The statutes in some states specifically provide for the proof of bylaws and ordinances of municipal corporations, and usually provide for their proof by authorized printed copies, certified transcripts of the books, and minutes or journals kept under the direction of the corporation, as well as by original books, ordinances, and minutes or journals. Under such a statute, an ordinance having the seal of the municipality attached has been held to be properly admitted in evidence without further proof of its passage. 33 Several commentators have expressed the view that Rule 902(5) of the Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence—which provides generally that books, pamphlets, or other publications purporting to be issued by public authority are self-authenticating—should be regarded as extending to official publications of municipal ordinances. 34

Municipal courts may take, or may be required by statute to take, judicial notice of the ordinances or other local laws of the municipalities in which their jurisdictions lie. 35 But even though a court may be bound by statute to take judicial notice of a municipal ordinance, it is not required to receive in evidence an unofficial and unauthorized publication purporting to contain such ordinance. 36

Footnotes

Footnote 30. § 126.

Footnote 31. Porter v State, 124 Ga 297, 52 SE 283; Grafton v S. Paul, M. & M. R. Co., 16 ND 313, 113 NW 598.

A book identified by the mayor as the ordinance book in which all ordinances of the municipality are kept and recorded, where there is nothing in the evidence to impeach the document as a public record, is competent testimony to prove the existence of the ordinance in question. Bugg v Houlka, 122 Miss 400, 84 So 387, 9 ALR 480.

Footnote 32. Sawyer v Lorenzen & Weise, 149 Iowa 87, 127 NW 1091.

Footnote 33. Eichenlaub v St. Joseph, 113 Mo 395, 21 SW 8; Devon v Oroville, 120 Wash 317, 207 P 231.

Footnote 34. § 1190.

Footnote 35. § 126.

Footnote 36. Moore v Dresden Inv. Co., 162 Wash 289, 298 P 465, 77 ALR 1258.

n. Privately Printed Matter [1412-1429]

(1). In General [1412]

§ 1412 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Generally speaking, privately printed books or other publications, when offered for the purpose of proving the truth of the matters stated therein, are excludable from evidence on hearsay grounds. 37 The fact that such material may be self-authenticating under an applicable rule or statute does not remove a hearsay objection to its admission into evidence. 38 However, in keeping with the general rule that a statement is not hearsay if it is not offered for the purpose of proving its truth, 39 printed publications are not subject to exclusion as hearsay where they are offered merely to show the fact of their publication, or some fact other than the truth of their content. 40 Moreover, the hearsay rule is subject to various exceptions specifically concerning certain types of privately printed matter, such as learned treatises, 41 or market reports and commercial publications, 42 as well as more generally stated exceptions which may be applied in particular circumstances to privately printed matter. 43

Privately printed books or publications must be authenticated to be admitted into evidence, 44 unless they are deemed self-authenticating as ancient documents, 45 or by virtue of some other exception to the requirement of authentication. Particularly relevant in the context of privately printed documents are the provisions of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence making newspapers and periodicals, 46 as well as commercial paper and related documents, 47 self-authenticating.

Footnotes

Footnote 37. Estate of Dickens v Avanti Research & Dev., Inc. (1st Dist) 161 Ill App 3d 565, 113 Ill Dec 399, 515 NE2d 208, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11596, app den (Ill) 117 Ill Dec 224, 520 NE2d 385; Milner Enterprises, Inc. v Jacobs (Miss) 207 So 2d 85; Superior Ice & Coal Co. v Belger Cartage Service, Inc. (Mo) 337 SW2d 897.

Footnote 38. Duhon v Petroleum Helicopters, Inc. (La App 3d Cir) 554 So 2d 1270, cert den (La) 559 So 2d 1360 and (disapproved on other grounds by Green v Industrial Helicopters, Inc. (La) 593 So 2d 634, 1992 AMC 1426).

As to self-authenticating documents, generally, see §§ 1180 et seq.

Footnote 39. § 661.

Footnote 40. Woods v State, 101 Nev 128, 696 P2d 464.

Admission of a newspaper article, along with numerous other items found in defendant's truck, did not violate rule against hearsay where article was admitted only to show that it had been found in the truck. Richardson v State (Tex App Beaumont) 690 SW2d 22, petition for discretionary review ref (Nov 6, 1985).

Footnote 41. As to the exception to the hearsay rule for learned treatises under the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, see §§ 1413 et seq.

Footnote 42. As to the exception to the hearsay rule for market reports and commercial publications under the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, see § 1429.

Footnote 43. As to the possible application of Rule 803(20), an exception for reputation as to events of general history, to a privately printed newspaper article, see § 1425.

Footnote 44. Aguayo v Crompton & Knowles Corp. (2nd Dist) 183 Cal App 3d 1032, 228 Cal Rptr 768, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11111.

Footnote 45. Commonwealth ex rel. Ferguson v Ball, 277 Pa 301, 121 A 191, 29 ALR 626.

As to the self-authentication of ancient documents generally, see §§ 1201 et seq.

Footnote 46. § 1192.

Footnote 47. §§ 1196 et seq.

(2). Learned Treatises [1413-1417]

§ 1413 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

It is generally held, in the absence of contrary statutory provision, that scientific books and treatises are hearsay and as such not admissible as independent evidence of the truth of the facts therein stated. 48 This is so even though opinions may be given by expert witnesses whose knowledge is based at least in part upon such treatises. 49 Another reason advanced for the exclusion of learned treatises from evidence is that a lay jury may be misled or confused by them. 50

The common-law rule against admission in evidence of learned treatises has in many jurisdictions been superseded by statutes providing for their admission under certain circumstances. 51

◆ Practice guide: Notwithstanding the general rule against admission of learned treatises in evidence, in some cases counsel has been permitted to read from such treatises by way of illustration in arguing to the jury. 52 Furthermore, witnesses giving expert testimony may refer to treatises to corroborate their own opinions; such reference is not considered an introduction of the treatises in evidence. 53 And the cross examination of expert witnesses may be based on information contained in a treatise, under certain circumstances. 54

§ 1413 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Limits on admitting learned treatises, 82 Ill BJ 186 (1994).

Case authorities:

Referee in attorney discipline hearing properly found that book entitled "Feeling Good: The New Mood Therapy" could not be introduced as substantive evidence to help referee assess attorney's medical condition, under statutory exception to hearsay rule for "learned treatises," where referee determined that book had not been written primarily for professionals but for general public and, consequently, referee could not find that it had influence on medical opinions. Furthermore, referee was unable to take judicial notice that author was recognized in his profession as expert in subject of depression and anxiety. In re Disciplinary Proceedings Against Thompson (1993) 180 Wis 2d 48, 508 NW2d 384.

Footnotes

Footnote 48. Estate of Dickens v Avanti Research & Dev., Inc. (1st Dist) 161 Ill App 3d 565, 113 Ill Dec 399, 515 NE2d 208, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11596, app den (Ill) 117 Ill Dec 224, 520 NE2d 385; Kelly v St. Luke's Hosp. (Mo App) 826 SW2d 391; Johnson v

Mountainside Hosp., 239 NJ Super 312, 571 A2d 318, cert den 122 NJ 188, 584 A2d 248; Morfesis v Sobol (3d Dept) 172 App Div 2d 897, 567 NYS2d 954, app den 78 NY2d 856, 574 NYS2d 937, 580 NE2d 409; Gulf Oil Corp. v Miller, 198 Okla 54, 175 P2d 335.

Contra Thornton v Mahan (Ala) 423 So 2d 181 (recognizing "learned treatise" exception to hearsay rule applicable where an expert testifies that a particular work is standard or trustworthy).

Annotation: Workmen's compensation: use of medical books or treatises as independent evidence, 17 ALR3d 993.

Medical books or treatises as independent evidence, 84 ALR2d 1338.

Footnote 49. Western Assur. Co. v J. H. Mohlman Co. (CA2 NY) 83 F 811, cert den 168 US 710, 42 L Ed 1213, 18 S Ct 949; Fidelity & Casualty Co. v Meyer, 106 Ark 91, 152 SW 995; Coastal Coaches, Inc. v Ball (Tex Civ App) 234 SW2d 474, 22 ALR2d 955, writ ref n r e.

Footnote 50. Cross v Huttenlocher, 185 Conn 390, 440 A2d 952; Bixby v Omaha & C. B. R. & B. Co., 105 Iowa 293, 75 NW 182; Ashworth v Kittridge, 66 Mass 193, 12 Cush 193; People v Hall, 48 Mich 482, 12 NW 665; Boyle v State, 57 Wis 472, 15 NW 827.

Footnote 51. State v McDonald, 222 Kan 494, 565 P2d 267 (statute providing that statements in published treatises may be received in evidence if court takes judicial notice or expert testifies that treatise is a reliable authority); Ramsland v Shaw, 341 Mass 56, 166 NE2d 894 (statute permitting the introduction of medical books and treatises, in the discretion of the court, in actions of contract or tort for malpractice, error, or mistake against physicians, surgeons, dentists, optometrists, hospitals, and sanitarium, as evidence when the statement is relevant, when its author is recognized in his profession as an expert on the subject, and where notice has been given to the adverse party within a specified time period).

As to the provisions of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence concerning the admission of learned treatises into evidence, see §§ 1413 et seq.

Footnote 52. 75A Am Jur 2d, Trial § 512.

Footnote 53. 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence § 124.

Footnote 54. 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence §§ 125 et seq.

§ 1414 Books of exact science; almanacs, tables, and computations

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A general exception to the common-law rule excluding scientific books as independent evidence exists with reference to books or publications on topics of exact science which contain statements of ascertained facts rather than opinions, or which, by long use in the practical affairs of life, have come to be accepted as standard and unvarying authority in determining the action of those who use them; publications of this kind, when duly authenticated, are generally admissible as evidence. 55 The most frequently used publications of this class are standard tables of mortality and life expectancy. 56 To this class belong also almanacs, 57 tables of logarithms, weights and measures, interest, and similar compilations, 58 and, according to some authorities, remarriage tables. 59

Encyclopedias and dictionaries also fall within this class, the latter being admitted to show the ordinary meaning of words, not as evidence, but only as aids to the memory and understanding of the court. 60

The authenticity of a publication of this type, produced at the trial, should be established by proof satisfactory to the court, as by the testimony of a witness familiar with its nature and use. 61

Footnotes

Footnote 55. Nix v Hedden, 149 US 304, 37 L Ed 745, 13 S Ct 881; Kansas C. S. R. Co. v Morris, 80 Ark 528, 98 SW 363; Bixby v Omaha & C. B. R. & B. Co., 105 Iowa 293, 75 NW 182; Illinois C. R. Co. v Houchins, 121 Ky 526, 89 SW 530; Tucker v Donald, 60 Miss 460.

Practice References Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook (3d ed) § 44.27.

Footnote 56. §§ 1418-1423.

Footnote 57. Munshower v State, 55 Md 11.

Practice References 1 Am Jur Proof of Facts 475, Authentication of Almanac.

Footnote 58. Munshower v State, 55 Md 11; Tucker v Donald, 60 Miss 460.

Footnote 59. In re Keenan's Estate, 302 NY 417, 99 NE2d 219, 25 ALR2d 1459.

However, in Osborn v Osborn (Mo App) 252 SW2d 837, the court said that the variety of factors involved makes it impossible to forecast the probability of a widow's remarriage with a view to fixing the value of her homestead right.

Annotation: Remarriage tables, 25 ALR2d 1464.

Practice References Foundation for Introduction in Evidence of Remarriage Tables. 10 Am Jur Proof of Facts 281, Remarriage, Proof 1.

Footnote 60. Nix v Hedden, 149 US 304, 37 L Ed 745, 13 S Ct 881.

Footnote 61. Notto v Atlantic City R. Co., 75 NJL 826, 69 A 968.

§ 1415 Nongovernmental safety codes or standards

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Safety codes or standards issued by voluntary organizations have been held admissible in evidence by some courts as bearing on the issue of negligence in particular cases. 62 Such evidence may be excluded if it is not sufficiently accredited by an expert witness as to its acceptance in the field for which it has been promulgated, 63 or not sufficiently pertinent to the circumstances of the case. 64

Other cases have held that such codes or standards of safety are not admissible. 65

◆ Caution: Published safety standards have been held admissible in evidence under Rule 803(18) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence (the "learned treatise" exception to the hearsay rule), 66 and the adoption of the Rule or a substantially similar rule by a particular jurisdiction arguably represents a statutory supersession of prior contrary case law concerning safety standards and the hearsay rule.

§ 1415 ----Nongovernmental safety codes or standards [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In an appeal of a take-nothing judgment in a slip and fall case, the trial court properly excluded evidence: (1) where the victim attempted to use a statement made to her by a store employee to impeach another store employee by showing bias, because bias of a witness can be shown only by introducing evidence of prior statements made by that witness; (2) where the victim attempted to introduce the store's safety manual, because the victim did not lay a proper predicate for the admission of the manual by asking the witness if she had ever seen or read the manual; and (3) where the victim attempted to introduce the store's post-accident instruction for the employees to be more careful, because it was not a subsequent remedial measure that could be used as evidence of the feasibility of a precautionary measure since the store did not alter the manner in which the plants were sprayed. Keetch v Kroger Co. (1992, Tex) 845 SW2d 262.

Footnotes

Footnote 62. Torre v Harris-Seybold Co., 9 Mass App 660, 404 NE2d 96, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 8722; Bailey v Baker's Air Force Gas Corp. (4th Dept) 50 App Div 2d 129, 376 NYS2d 212.

As to safety codes or standards promulgated by governmental bodies, see § 1346.

Annotation: Admissibility in evidence, on issue of negligence, of codes or standards of safety issued or sponsored by governmental body or by voluntary association, 58 ALR3d 148.

Footnote 63. Standridge v Alabama Power Co. (Ala) 418 So 2d 84.

Footnote 64. Aller v Rodgers Machinery Mfg. Co. (Iowa) 268 NW2d 830, 4 ALR4th 634 (in products liability action by injured user of woodworking saw against manufacturer of saw, safety standards of various associations and government agencies were properly excluded from evidence where they dealt generally with standards for the metalworking industry rather than the woodworking industry).

Footnote 65. Catholic Diocese of Natchez-Jackson v Jaquith (Miss) 224 So 2d 216 (assuming that the introduction of the material was probably erroneous, because safety codes are admissible only when they have been given compulsory force by state legislatures, but that the admission of the evidence was harmless error).

Footnote 66. § 1417.

§ 1416 Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Under Rule 803(18) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, statements contained in published treatises, periodicals, or pamphlets on a subject of history, medicine, or other science or art, established as a reliable authority by a witness or by other expert testimony or by judicial notice, are not subject to exclusion as hearsay to the extent called to the attention of an expert witness on cross-examination or relied upon by him or her on direct examination. The Rule further provides that if admitted, such statements may be read into evidence but may not be received as exhibits. 67

◆ Observation: A reason advanced at common law for the exclusion of learned treatises from evidence, aside from their nature as hearsay, was the danger that a lay jury might be misled or confused by them. 68 Rule 803(18) addresses this concern by limiting the admission of material in learned treatises to situations in which an expert witness is on the stand and available to explain such material, and by providing that such material may not physically be received in evidence. 69

A learned treatise is not admissible as independent evidence under Rule 803(18); a foundation as to its authoritativeness must generally be laid by an expert witness. 70 If a cross-examiner establishes the reputability of a treatise by proof or judicial notice, the work may be used to impeach an expert witness regardless of whether the witness relies on or acknowledges the work as authoritative. 71 The fact that the statements in the treatise are disputed does not preclude their admission into evidence if the requirements of the Rule have been met. 72 But if the reliability of the treatise is not established by the testimony of some expert witness, or by judicial notice, the material therein may not be introduced into evidence. 73 The Rule extends only to published works that have been subjected to widespread collegial scrutiny, and does not extend to the prior inconsistent testimony of an expert in order to impeach his or her current testimony. 74 An article cannot be established as authoritative merely by testimony that the periodical in which it appeared is highly regarded; it is necessary that the foundation testimony go to the authoritative stature of the writer of the article, or the acceptance of article itself by the profession. 75

The requirement that a treatise be established as a reliable authority by the testimony of an expert witness applies even where the treatise has been written by a party to the action. For example, in a medical malpractice case, a treatise written by the defendant cannot be admitted under the Rule until a foundation for the book has been laid by an expert witness. 76 Furthermore, even where a treatise authored by a party has been qualified as authoritative under the Rule, it is nonetheless subject to exclusion on the grounds that it is inherently prejudicial to recognize as authoritative a work authored by a party. 77

§ 1416 ----Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Increasing the useful information provided by experts in the courtroom: A comparison of Federal Rules of Evidence 703 and 803(18) with the evidence rules in Illinois, Ohio, and New York, 26 Seton Hall LR 1:183 (1996).

Footnotes

Footnote 67. FRE 803(18); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(18).

Footnote 68. § 1413.

Footnote 69. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803.

Footnote 70. Schneider v Revici (CA2 NY) 817 F2d 987, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1493; Generella v Weinberger (ED Pa) 388 F Supp 1086

Under Rule 803(18), learned treatises are to be used only in conjunction with testimony by an expert witness, either on direct or cross-examination, even though the authority of the publication is otherwise established. Wirtz v Orr (Tex Civ App Texarkana) 575 SW2d 66, writ dismissed (Feb 28, 1979).

Practice References Treatises, Articles and Other Sources Regarded as Authoritative. Danner and Varn, Expert Witness Checklists § 1:152.

Footnote 71. Dawsey v Olin Corp. (CA5 La) 782 F2d 1254.

Annotation: Treatises, periodicals, or pamphlets as exception to hearsay rule under Rule 803 (18) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, 64 ALR Fed 971.

Footnote 72. Tart v McGann (CA2 NY) 697 F2d 75, 12 Fed Rules Evid Serv 363.

Footnote 73. Hemingway v Ochsner Clinic (CA5 La) 608 F2d 1040, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 484, appeal after remand (CA5 La) 722 F2d 1220, cert den 469 US 829, 83 L Ed 2d 58, 105 S Ct 114, reh den 469 US 1067, 83 L Ed 2d 437, 105 S Ct 550; State v McDonald, 222 Kan 494, 565 P2d 267.

Footnote 74. United States v Jones (CA5 La) 712 F2d 115, 13 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1540.

The medical report of the defendant's expert was not a learned treatise for the purpose of the Rule where there was no showing that it had ever been published. Sharman v Skaggs Cos. (App) 124 Ariz 165, 602 P2d 833.

Footnote 75. Meschino v North Am. Drager (CA1 Mass) 841 F2d 429.

Footnote 76. Schneider v Revici (CA2 NY) 817 F2d 987, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1493.

Footnote 77. Schneider v Revici (CA2 NY) 817 F2d 987, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1493.

§ 1417 Admissibility of particular works under Uniform and Federal Rules

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(18) 78 has been applied to admit medical treatises, 79 statistical studies, 80 published safety standards, 81 a treatise on identification by handwriting, 82 and other publications. 83

Publications held inadmissible under the exception have included excerpts from the Physicians' Desk Reference containing pregnancy warnings issued with respect to drugs chemically related to defendant manufacturer's drug, 84 and a document prepared by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, and a publication of the National Safety Council. 85 An editorial published in a medical journal is excludable where the editorial is not a "learned treatise" but is primarily an expression of opinion by a physician concerning a controversial subject which poses a risk of litigation for his colleagues in the medical profession. 86

Footnotes

Footnote 78. FRE 803(18); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(18).

Footnote 79. Apicella v McNeil Laboratories, Inc. (ED NY) 66 FRD 78, 19 FR Serv 2d 1360; Thomas v American Cystoscope Makers, Inc. (ED Pa) 414 F Supp 255; Walker v North Dakota Eye Clinic, Ltd. (DC ND) 415 F Supp 891.

Footnote 80. Bair v American Motors Corp. (CA3 Pa) 473 F2d 740 (construing proposed rule).

Footnote 81. Alexander v Conveyors & Dumpers, Inc. (CA5 Miss) 731 F2d 1221, CCH

Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10089, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1237; Francisco v Manson, Jackson & Kane, Inc., 145 Mich App 255, 377 NW2d 313.

Annotation: Admissibility in evidence, on issue of negligence, of codes or standards of safety issued or sponsored by governmental body or by voluntary association, 58 ALR3d 148.

Footnote 82. United States v Mangan (CA2 NY) 575 F2d 32, 78-1 USTC ¶ 9349, 3 Fed Rules Evid Serv 315, 41 AFTR 2d 78-1174, cert den 439 US 931, 58 L Ed 2d 324, 99 S Ct 320.

Footnote 83. Burgess v Premier Corp. (CA9 Wash) 727 F2d 826, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 99699, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 241 (criticized on other grounds by William Z. Salcer, Panfeld, Edelman v Envicon Equities Corp. (CA2 NY) 744 F2d 935, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 91673) (books on cattle investments written by preeminent expert in industry).

Footnote 84. In re Richardson-Merrell, Inc. "Bendectin" Products Liability Litigation (SD Ohio) 624 F Supp 1212, later proceeding (DC Mass) 646 F Supp 856, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11177, affd (CA1 Mass) 830 F2d 1190, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11553, 24 Fed Rules Evid Serv 152 and affd (CA6 Ohio) 857 F2d 290, 11 FR Serv 3d 1267, cert den 488 US 1006, 102 L Ed 2d 779, 109 S Ct 788.

Footnote 85. Terry v Norfolk & W. R. Co. (CA4 Va) 10 Fed Rules Evid Serv 61.

Footnote 86. O'Brien v Angley, 63 Ohio St 2d 159, 17 Ohio Ops 3d 98, 407 NE2d 490.

(3). Mortality or Life Expectancy Tables [1418-1423]

§ 1418 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Mortality tables (also called life expectancy tables) are generally prepared by or for life insurance companies, and in their usual form show for persons at different ages the number of deaths to be expected per 1,000 persons at that age and the life expectancy of a person who has reached that age. 87 Standard mortality and life expectancy tables are regarded as impartial and disinterested, and therefore are admissible in evidence to show the probable expectancy of life where this fact is relevant. 88 Mortality or life expectancy tables are not, however, admissible to prove the length of time that one may be totally disabled, 89 nor are such tables essential in proving the issue of life expectancy. 90 Even where admitted, they are not binding on the jury, but serve only as a guide to aid the jury in its determination. 91

Mortality or life expectancy tables are most commonly used to show the life expectancy of one who has been negligently injured or killed. In actions for personal injury, as distinguished from death, it is necessary for the admission of such tables to present evidence that the injury which is the basis of the action is permanent. 92 Such tables are also admissible in an action where the present value of a life insurance policy is at issue, 93 in an action involving the value of a wife's right of dower, 94 and according to most courts, in an action in which the question as to the value of the interest of a life tenant is involved. 95

◆ Practice guide: There is authority for the view that a witness may be allowed to testify from standard mortality tables as to the life expectancy of a person provided the table itself would be admissible on the question of expectancy of life. 96 There is other authority, however, holding that mortality tables must speak for themselves, and not through the mouth of a witness testifying as to their contents. 97

To render mortality tables admissible on an issue of expectancy of life, the exact age of the person whose expectancy is involved need not be shown; the approximate age will suffice. 98

Footnotes

Footnote 87. National Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v United States (MD Tenn) 381 F Supp 1034, 74-2 USTC ¶ 9683, 34 AFTR 2d 74-5814, affd (CA6 Tenn) 524 F2d 559, 75-2 USTC ¶ 9786, 36 AFTR 2d 75-6147; Illinois C. R. Co. v Houchins, 121 Ky 526, 89 SW 530; Butler v Butler, 180 Minn 134, 230 NW 575.

For a standard mortality table, see the Am Jur 2d Desk Book, Item 92.

Footnote 88. Pierce v Tennessee C., I. & R. Co., 173 US 1, 43 L Ed 591, 19 S Ct 335; Allen v Toledo (4th Dist) 109 Cal App 3d 415, 167 Cal Rptr 270; Sainz v Bucelo (Fla App D3) 527 So 2d 911, 13 FLW 1526; Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v Turner, 180 Ga App 533, 349 SE2d 537; Fultz v Peart (5th Dist) 144 Ill App 3d 364, 98 Ill Dec 285, 494 NE2d 212; McCue v Low, 179 Ind App 372, 385 NE2d 1162; Byrum v Maryott, 26 Md App 130, 337 A2d 142; Leh v Dyer (Mo App) 643 SW2d 65.

Practice References 7 Am Jur Proof of Facts 215, Life Expectancy.

5 Am Jur Trials 921, Showing Pain and Suffering § 62 (use of mortality tables to show duration of future pain and suffering).

Footnote 89. Universal Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Sanders, 129 Tex 344, 102 SW2d 405.

Footnote 90. § 1458.

Footnote 91. Allen v Toledo (4th Dist) 109 Cal App 3d 415, 167 Cal Rptr 270; Oberhelman v Blount, 196 Neb 42, 241 NW2d 355.

Footnote 92. Swan v Wisdom (Fla App D5) 386 So 2d 574; Cox v Cantrell, 181 Ga App 722, 353 SE2d 582; Porter v Bi-State Dev. Agency (Mo App) 710 SW2d 435.

Annotation: Admissibility of mortality tables in personal injury action as dependent upon showing of permanency of injury, 50 ALR2d 419.

Footnote 93. People v Security Life Ins. & Annuity Co., 78 NY 114.

Footnote 94. 25 Am Jur 2d, Dower and Curtesy §§ 182, 190.

Footnote 95. 51 Am Jur 2d, Life Tenants and Remaindermen § 31.

Footnote 96. Steinbrunner v Pittsburg & W. R. Co., 146 Pa 504, 23 A 239.

As to expert opinion testimony on life expectancy, see Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence.

Footnote 97. Erb v Popritz, 59 Kan 264, 52 P 871.

Footnote 98. Murray v Omaha Transfer Co., 95 Neb 175, 145 NW 360, 7 ALR 1343, adhered to 98 Neb 482, 153 NW 488, 7 ALR 1349; Teegarden v Dahl (ND) 138 NW2d 668, 46 ALR3d 708.

§ 1419 Particular tables

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Where admission of mortality or life expectancy tables is proper, courts, in order to get the best evidence obtainable, are inclined to favor the latest standard tables, because the facts upon which they are calculated are more complete. 99 Although some early American cases approved the use of tables based on mortality rates observed in England, 1 later cases have approved a table based on the combined experience of life insurance companies of America, based insurable lives and known as the American Experience Table of Mortality. 2 Numerous other tables have also been recognized as standard and admissible. 3 It has been held permissible to admit in evidence mortality tables published by the United States Department of Health and Human Services and based on a census of population and deaths for the entire continental United States. 4 The use of a mortality table contained in the World Almanac was not reversible error, even though the state's insurance commissioner had published a mortality table for the use of courts and appraisers. 5 That other tables are also recognized does not detract from the value of a table of expectancy properly admitted in evidence. 6

In some jurisdictions, mortality tables have been placed in the statutes. 7 But even where a table published by legislative authority for the use of the courts is disregarded in favor of another table, no error is committed if the discrepancy between the tables is minor. 8

§ 1419 ----Particular tables [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

"Future Damage Calculator," slide rule-type device which has life expectancy and work life expectancy tables on one side and "present value" table on other, was not admissible under hearsay exception for market reports and commercial publication where party offering exhibit made no showing and offered no foundation that exhibit is generally used or relied upon by public or persons in legal or other professions. Crane v Crest Tankers (1995, CA8 Mo) 47 F3d 292, 41 Fed Rules Evid Serv 351.

Footnotes

Footnote 99. Illinois C. R. Co. v Houchins, 121 Ky 526, 89 SW 530; Horton v State, 50 Misc 2d 1017, 272 NYS2d 312.

Footnote 1. Gordon, Rankin & Co. v Tweedy, 74 Ala 232 (criticized on other grounds by Smith v Persons, 285 Ala 48, 228 So 2d 806) as stated in McCloud v AmSouth Bank (Ala App) 540 So 2d 75; Sauter v New York C. & H. R. R. Co., 66 NY 50.

Footnote 2. Tucker v Gurley, 179 Miss 412, 176 So 279; Nolop v Skemp, 7 Wis 2d 462, 96 NW2d 826.

Footnote 3. Rea v Simowitz, 225 NC 575, 35 SE2d 871, 162 ALR 999.

Footnote 4. Rosche v McCoy, 397 Pa 615, 156 A2d 307, 81 ALR2d 377.

Footnote 5. Bradshaw v Seattle, 43 Wash 2d 766, 264 P2d 265, 42 ALR2d 800.

Footnote 6. Sellers v Foster, 27 Neb 118, 42 NW 907.

Footnote 7. Hunn v Michigan C. R. Co., 78 Mich 513, 44 NW 502; Smith v Odd Fellows Bldg. Ass'n, 46 Nev 48, 205 P 796, 23 ALR 38; Starnes v Tyson, 226 NC 395, 38 SE2d 211.

Footnote 8. Bradshaw v Seattle, 43 Wash 2d 766, 264 P2d 265, 42 ALR2d 800.

§ 1420 Authentication; table as self-authenticating

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Where relevant, a standard mortality or life expectancy table is generally admissible in evidence without preliminary proof of its authenticity. 9 It is a generally recognized rule that mortality tables published in standard encyclopedias, 10 such as those found in the Encyclopedia Britannica, 11 and in standard law books, 12 are admissible without further proof of authenticity, although a table printed in a law book is not admissible when it is shown not to have been in actual use for the purpose for which such tables were intended, nor to have acquired a reputation for accuracy. 13 The courts also admit without preliminary proof tables which have been made a part of the statutory law of the state, 14 or which were printed pursuant to legislative authority. 15 If, however, the table offered as evidence does not appear to be in actual use for the purpose for which such tables are intended, or to have acquired a reputation for accuracy, its authenticity must be established by competent evidence. 16

◆ Observation: A mortality table which was incorporated into statutory law or was otherwise officially printed would presumably be self-authenticating under Rule 902(5) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence. 17

Footnotes

Footnote 9. Froeming v Stockton E. R. Co., 171 Cal 401, 153 P 712 (ovrld on other grounds by Lane v Pacific Greyhound Lines, 26 Cal 2d 575, 160 P2d 21); Steinbrunner v Pittsburg & W. R. Co., 146 Pa 504, 23 A 239; Bennett v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., 117 Utah 57, 213 P2d 325.

Footnote 10. Steinbrunner v Pittsburg & W. R. Co., 146 Pa 504, 23 A 239; Bennett v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., 117 Utah 57, 213 P2d 325.

Footnote 11. Scagel v Chicago, M. & S. P. R. Co., 83 Iowa 380, 49 NW 990.

Footnote 12. Worden v Humeston & S. R. Co., 76 Iowa 310, 41 NW 26.

Footnote 13. Notto v Atlantic City R. Co., 75 NJL 826, 69 A 968; Bennett v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., 117 Utah 57, 213 P2d 325.

Footnote 14. Hunn v Michigan C. R. Co., 78 Mich 513, 44 NW 502.

Footnote 15. Smith v Odd Fellows Bldg. Ass'n, 46 Nev 48, 205 P 796, 23 ALR 38.

Footnote 16. Notto v Atlantic City R. Co., 75 NJL 826, 69 A 968; Rea v Simowitz, 225 NC 575, 35 SE2d 871, 162 ALR 999; Bennett v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., 117 Utah 57, 213 P2d 325.

Footnote 17. As to Rule 902(5), see §§ 1190, 1191.

§ 1421 --Nature of proof where required

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

When preliminary proof of authenticity is required for the admission into evidence of a mortality table, it should be of such a character that it will satisfy the court as to the authenticity of the table, 18 such as testimony of a witness familiar with it and with its use. 19 The testimony of a lawyer who is not familiar with the table in question is not sufficient authentication. 20 It is not, however, essential that the witness have knowledge of the way the table was made up, of the class of persons included in the estimate, or of the accuracy of the table, if he is able to state that they are commonly used and relied upon. 21 Proof that a life table is in common use by life insurance companies is sufficient authentication of it. 22

Footnotes

Footnote 18. Notto v Atlantic City R. Co., 75 NJL 826, 69 A 968; Jones v Eppler (Okla) 266 P2d 451, 48 ALR2d 333.

Practice References Authentication of mortality table by actuary. 7 Am Jur Proof of Facts 215, Life Expectancy.

Footnote 19. Notto v Atlantic City R. Co., 75 NJL 826, 69 A 968.

Footnote 20. Notto v Atlantic City R. Co., 75 NJL 826, 69 A 968.

Footnote 21. Pearl v Omaha & S. L. R. Co., 115 Iowa 535, 88 NW 1078.

It is not necessary that a witness be an actuary before being qualified to testify as to the mathematical accuracy of a mortality table. Bennett v Denver & R. G. W. R. Co., 117 Utah 57, 213 P2d 325.

Footnote 22. Galveston, H. & S. A. R. Co. v Arispe, 81 Tex 517, 17 SW 47.

§ 1422 Admissibility in case of young children

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Mortality tables are generally not admissible in evidence as an aid in determining the life expectancy of a young child whose age is not tabulated in them. 23 However, mortality tables which contain a tabulation of the lives of infants are admissible as an aid in determining the life expectancy of a young child. 24

Footnotes

Footnote 23. Rea v Simowitz, 225 NC 575, 35 SE2d 871, 162 ALR 999; Decker v McSorley, 111 Wis 91, 86 NW 554.

Footnote 24. Ruehl v Lidgerwood Rural Tel. Co., 23 ND 6, 135 NW 793, decided under a statute making life expectancy tables admissible in evidence without limiting them to any class of persons.

§ 1423 Effect of poor health, injury, or hazardous occupation

Although some courts have taken the position that mortality or life expectancy tables are inadmissible upon the life expectancy of a person who is not in average good health, 25 other authority states that is not essential for the admission of such tables to show that the person whose life expectancy is at issue is in any particular state of health, and that the fact that such person is not in good health, 26 or is engaged in a particularly dangerous occupation, 27 goes to the weight to be afforded such tables and not their admissibility. The tables are admitted only for the guidance of the trier of fact, who is free to take into account also such matters as the plaintiff's or decedent's health, habits, and activities. 28

Footnotes

Footnote 25. Fortner v Koch, 272 Mich 273, 261 NW 762; Colbert v Rhode Island Co. (RI) 67 A 446.

Footnote 26. Kanelos v Kettler, 132 US App DC 133, 406 F2d 951; Levar v Elkins (Alaska) 604 P2d 602; Guthrie v Missouri Methodist Hospital (Mo App) 706 SW2d 938; Budd v Erie L. R. Co., 98 NJ Super 47, 236 A2d 143, cert den 51 NJ 186, 238 A2d 472; Harwell & Harwell, Inc. v Rodriguez (Tex Civ App San Antonio) 487 SW2d 388, writ ref n r e (May 9, 1973) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Jun 27, 1973).

Standard mortality tables were admissible in wrongful death action notwithstanding assertion that decedent had not had a normal life expectancy due to his exposure to human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) and the probability that he would develop acquired immune deficiency syndrome (AIDS). Kilmer v Browning (Mo App) 806 SW2d 75, later proceeding (Mo App) 1991 Mo App LEXIS 357.

Footnote 27. Central Railroad v Crosby, 74 Ga 737; Greer v Louisville & N. R. Co., 94 Ky 169, 21 SW 649; Broz v Omaha Maternity & General Hospital Ass'n., 96 Neb 648, 148 NW 575; Smith v Odd Fellows Bldg. Ass'n, 46 Nev 48, 205 P 796, 23 ALR 38; Bell Aerospace Corp. v Anderson (Tex Civ App El Paso) 478 SW2d 191, writ ref n r e (Jul 19, 1972).

Footnote 28. Charles H. Tompkins Co. v Girolami (Dist Col App) 566 A2d 1074; Oberhelman v Blount, 196 Neb 42, 241 NW2d 355.

As to the determination of damages on the basis of life expectancy, and the admissibility of mortality tables on this issue, see 22 Am Jur 2d, Damages § 163.

(4). Other Publications [1424-1429]

§ 1424 Newspapers and newspaper articles—generally

In accordance with the general rule that privately printed books or publications are not admissible as evidence of the truth of the facts stated therein, 29 newspapers or newspaper articles are generally regarded as hearsay and therefore not admissible as evidence of the facts stated in them. 30 But when proof is made that a particular person usually reads a newspaper and that it has probably been brought to his attention, the newspaper may be offered in evidence for the purpose of showing that such person had notice of its contents, especially when better proof cannot be produced. 31 A newspaper article may also be admitted for the purpose of showing general public knowledge of the statements it contains, 32 or to show how events of the day were being recorded at the time of the article's publication. 33 Also, when it is shown that a person is the author of, or otherwise responsible for, statements or articles in newspapers, they may be used against him. 34 In actions for defamation of character, newspaper articles and reports may be admitted in evidence to show the nature of the defamatory matter. 35

§ 1424 ----Newspapers and newspaper articles--generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Magazine and newspaper articles in which defendants' denials that they were in merger negotiations with Columbia were reported were admissible under residual hearsay exception in former Columbia stockholders' action alleging securities fraud based on materially false and misleading statements; defendants' internal memoranda concerning statements constituted corporate admissions and established trustworthiness of newspaper article, and magazine article's trustworthiness was complementarily supported by reporter's notes. In re Columbia Sec. Litig. (1994, SD NY) 155 FRD 466, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 98238.

Footnotes

Footnote 29. § 1412.

Footnote 30. Baker v Beech Aircraft Corp. (4th Dist) 96 Cal App 3d 321, 157 Cal Rptr 779; Clay v State, 264 Ind 495, 346 NE2d 574, later proceeding (Ind) 508 NE2d 800; Rotman v Hirsch (Iowa) 199 NW2d 53, 55 ALR3d 658; People v Burt, 89 Mich App 293, 279 NW2d 299; Cantrell v Superior Loan Corp. (Mo App) 603 SW2d 627; Samuel Sheitelman, Inc. v Hoffman, 106 NJ Super 353, 255 A2d 807.

As to the admissibility of newspaper advertisements, see § 1426.

As to the admissibility of trade journals, market reports, and the like appearing in newspapers, see §§ 1427, 1428.

Annotation: Admissibility of newspaper article as evidence of the truth of the facts stated therein, 55 ALR3d 663.

Footnote 31. Miller v Keaton, 260 Mo 708, 168 SW 1140.

Footnote 32. Hudson v Shawnee, 246 Kan 395, 790 P2d 933.

Footnote 33. Ammons v Dade City (MD Fla) 594 F Supp 1274, affd (CA11 Fla) 783 F2d 982, reh den, en banc (CA11 Fla) 788 F2d 1570.

Footnote 34. Dunlop v United States, 165 US 486, 41 L Ed 799, 17 S Ct 375; Owens v Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Co., 58 RI 162, 192 A 158, 112 ALR 113, reh den 58 RI 268, 192 A 464, 112 ALR 124.

Footnote 35. 50 Am Jur 2d, Libel and Slander § 445.

§ 1425 --As within exceptions to hearsay rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Newspaper articles which satisfy the exception to the hearsay rule for ancient documents contained in Rule 803(16) of the Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence are admissible notwithstanding their character as hearsay. 36 A newspaper article containing statements about a party may be adopted by him or her and thereby become admissible notwithstanding its nature as hearsay. 37

It has been held at common law that in matters of local interest, when the fact in question is of such a public nature that it would be generally known throughout the community, and when the questioned fact occurred so long ago that the testimony of an eyewitness would probably be less trustworthy than a contemporary newspaper account, a court may relax the exclusionary rules to the extent of admitting the newspaper article in evidence. 38

◆ Comment: Rule 803(20) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, dealing with reputation as to events of general history, appears to codify this rule to some extent. 39

Footnotes

Footnote 36. Ammons v Dade City (MD Fla) 594 F Supp 1274, affd (CA11 Fla) 783 F2d 982, reh den, en banc (CA11 Fla) 788 F2d 1570.

As to Rule 803(16), generally, see § 1211.

Footnote 37. State v Damiano (RI) 587 A2d 396 (holding, however, that where the defendant had pointed to a photograph contained in a newspaper article describing a robbery and the taking of a police officer as a hostage and said "That's me," such conduct was an adoption of the photograph and perhaps also the headline of the article, but not the entire article, and that the article was therefore inadmissible hearsay).

Footnote 38. Dallas County v Commercial Union Assur. Co. (CA5 Ala) 286 F2d 388, 4 FR Serv 2d 786 (declining to regard the article in question—which described a fire in the tower of a local courthouse in 1901—as a business record, an ancient document, or as coming within any other readily identifiable hearsay exception, but nonetheless holding it admissible because it was necessary, trustworthy, relevant and material).

Footnote 39. As to the provisions of Rule 803(20), see § 681.

§ 1426 Advertisements, brochures, catalogs, and the like

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Printed materials such as pamphlets, brochures, or instruction sheets published by a manufacturer are hearsay and as such generally not admissible as independent evidence of the truth of the facts stated in them. 40 However, under the general rules governing admissions of a party, 41 the admissibility of evidence of advertisements, brochures, catalogs, and the like has been recognized or upheld in many instances when it was shown that the party against whom they were sought to be introduced was the author of or otherwise responsible for them. 42 Evidence of this kind has been successfully offered in criminal cases to show that an accused was engaged in an illegal business, 43 or was practicing a profession without being properly licensed. 44 Such evidence may also be admitted in civil cases to resolve such matters as the liability of one alleged to be a partner but who denies his status as such, 45 a controverted issue of agency, 46 or a controverted issue of employment. 47

To be admissible, such a writing must be authenticated 48 and must be shown to have emanated from the one against whom it is sought to be used, 49 or to have been produced with his knowledge and acquiescence. 50

◆ Observation: A merchandise catalog has been held to be within Rule 803(17) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence, which provides for the admission of market quotations, tabulations, lists, directories, or other published compilations generally used and relied upon by the public or by persons in particular occupations, notwithstanding their character as hearsay. 51

Footnotes

Footnote 40. Julien v Barker, 75 Idaho 413, 272 P2d 718; Reed v Church, 175 Va 284, 8 SE2d 285.

Footnote 41. §§ 760 et seq.

Footnote 42. Keppelman v Heikes, 111 Cal App 2d 475, 245 P2d 54 (advertisement); Koser v Hornback, 75 Idaho 24, 265 P2d 988, 44 ALR2d 1015 (pamphlet); Oxley v Linnton Plywood Asso., 205 Or 78, 284 P2d 766 (prospectus and registration statement); Sportatorium, Inc. v State (Tex Civ App) 104 SW2d 912, writ dismissed; State v Low, 192 Wash 631, 74 P2d 458.

In a suit by a workman, injured in a fall of a temporary elevator, against the general contractor's liability insurer on the theory that the insurer had been negligent in undertaking gratuitous safety inspections of the general contractor's practices and equipment, the insurer's advertisements in various national and trade publications stating that its safety engineers "worked hand in hand with insureds to build safety into every job" and made "thorough inspection and hazard analysis" were admissible in light of the insurer's denial that it had undertaken to make surveys and inspections, and its allegations that its engineers' visits were solely for its own purpose of keeping informed about risks. Nelson v Union Wire Rope Corp., 31 Ill 2d 69, 199 NE2d 769.

Annotation: Admissibility of advertisements, brochures, catalogs, and the like as containing admissions by a litigant contrary to a position taken by him, 44 ALR2d 1027 § 2.

Footnote 43. St. Louis v Hellscher, 295 Mo 293, 242 SW 652 (cards distributed by the defendant admitted in evidence in a prosecution for fortunetelling).

Footnote 44. Mayer v State, 64 NJL 323, 45 A 624 (medicine); State v Covington, 34 NC App 457, 238 SE2d 794, cert den 294 NC 184, 241 SE2d 519 (engineering).

Footnote 45. Paterson v Mobile Steel Co., 202 Ala 471, 80 So 855.

Footnote 46. F. H. Groves Piano Co. v Dalton Adding Machine Co., 64 Pa Super 189.

Footnote 47. Fryer v New York Brokerage Co., 152 Iowa 688, 133 NW 110.

Footnote 48. Lochner v Silver Sales Service, Inc., 232 NC 70, 59 SE2d 218.

Footnote 49. Koser v Hornback, 75 Idaho 24, 265 P2d 988, 44 ALR2d 1015; Fryer v New York Brokerage Co., 152 Iowa 688, 133 NW 110; State ex rel. Flambeau Paper Co. v Windus, 208 Wis 583, 243 NW 216.

Footnote 50. Paterson v Mobile Steel Co., 202 Ala 471, 80 So 855; English v Moore, 28 Ga App 265, 110 SE 737, appeal after remand 29 Ga App 307, 114 SE 921; Fletcher v Pullen, 70 Md 205, 16 A 887; Waltham Piano Co. v Pierson, 104 Neb 199, 176 NW 364.

Footnote 51. § 1429.

§ 1427 Trade journals, market reports and business and professional directories and lists; generally

View Entire Section

In almost every organized trade or occupation there are handbooks and other publications, containing information of everyday professional and business needs, which are intended to be circulated publicly and to be consulted by persons interested, which are tested by their use, and which are found by their experience to be trustworthy and to be actually relied upon by the persons engaged in the particular trade or occupation concerned. Under a common-law exception to the hearsay rule which has never been precisely formulated, such publications have been held or assumed to be admissible. 52 The admissibility of such publications is in some jurisdictions provided for by statute. 53 Publications admitted at common law include trade journals reporting current prices, certain commercial and professional lists, registers, and reports, business directories, and the like. 54 Under this rule, market reports or quotations as printed and contained in newspapers, trade journals, trade circulars, and similar publications, which are well known, reliable, and of good repute, have been held admissible as evidence of the state of the market. 55 In some instances, the courts have adhered strictly to the "best evidence" rule by refusing to sanction the introduction of newspapers or trade journals as evidence of market quotations, where it has been possible to obtain other evidence to show the market value of the commodity. 56

§ 1427 ----Trade journals, market reports and business and professional directories and lists; generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In medical malpractice action based on improper insertion of central venous catheter, trial court did not abuse wide discretion given to it in evidentiary matters by admitting package insert from brand of catheter other than that used on patient and bulletin from Food and Drug Administration, where documents were used to bolster expert physician's statements that catheter had been inserted incorrectly. Trial court's pretrial order specifically stated that FDA bulletin would be admitted only if it was shown to qualify as learned treatise. In trial court's opinion, it did qualify. Ozment v Wilkerson (1994, Ala) 646 So 2d 4.

Footnotes

Footnote 52. Atlantic Nat. Bank v Korrick, 29 Ariz 468, 242 P 1009, 43 ALR 1184; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v Pearce, 82 Ark 353, 101 SW 760; Columbian Peanut Co. v Pope, 69 Ga App 26, 24 SE2d 711; Garvis v K Mart Discount Store (Mo App) 461 SW2d 317; California Sugar & White Pine Co. v Whitmer Jackson & Co., 33 NM 117, 263 P 504.

Annotation: Admissibility in evidence of professional directories, 7 ALR4th 638.

Footnote 53. Miller v Modern Business Center (2nd Dist) 147 Cal App 3d 632, 195 Cal Rptr 279; Mazzaro v Paull, 372 Mass 645, 363 NE2d 509, 7 ALR4th 630 (holding, however, that in medical malpractice action, trial court did not err in excluding from evidence copy of directory of medical specialists where proponent did not rely on statute for admissibility of directory).

Footnote 54. Mohr v Shultz, 86 Idaho 531, 388 P2d 1002; Housden v Berns, 241 Mo App 1163, 273 SW2d 794; Baker v Atkins (Mo App) 258 SW2d 16.

Footnote 55. Virginia v West Virginia, 238 US 202, 59 L Ed 1272, 35 S Ct 795, writ den 241 US 531, 60 L Ed 1147, 36 S Ct 719, later proceeding 246 US 565, 62 L Ed 883, 38 S Ct 400; Columbian Peanut Co. v Pope, 69 Ga App 26, 24 SE2d 711; Sterling-Midland Coal Co. v Great Lakes Coal & Coke Co., 266 Ill App 46; Whelan v Lynch, 60 NY 469.

Footnote 56. National Bank of Commerce v New Bedford, 175 Mass 257, 56 NE 288; Norfolk & W. R. Co. v Reeves, 97 Va 284, 33 SE 606.

§ 1428 --Authentication

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

It is generally necessary for the introduction in evidence of a newspaper, trade journal, trade circular, or price list, giving the quotations of the market value of a commodity, that a preliminary foundation be laid for such evidence by showing that such publications have been regularly prepared by a person in touch with the market and that they are generally regarded as trustworthy and relied upon. 57 According to some decisions, such reports are not admissible as original evidence without extrinsic proof that they are accurate and that they are based upon reliable sources of information, 58 although there are cases which take the view that newspapers containing market reports or quotations which are relied upon by the commercial world generally are admissible without proof of their accuracy and without requiring evidence as to how the information published is obtained. 59

The cases also indicate, although generally without stressing the point, that the quotations should represent actual sales of a class of commodity substantially similar to that involved in the particular case, at a time and place sufficiently close to be controlling upon the issue involved. 60 A newspaper summary of the prices of a certain commodity prevailing during a preceding year is not admissible in evidence to establish the price of the article on a specified date. 61 It has been held that in order to qualify a newspaper as evidence of the price of commodities on a particular date, it should be published for the enlightenment of persons dealing in the articles, to prove the value of which the paper is offered, and persons generally must have been in the habit of dealing in such commodities in reliance upon its market quotations. 62

Generally speaking, it is the province of the trial court to determine whether or not the preliminary foundation laid is sufficient to bring this kind of evidence within the exception to the hearsay rule. 63

Footnotes

Footnote 57. Miller v Modern Business Center (2nd Dist) 147 Cal App 3d 632, 195 Cal Rptr 279; Columbian Peanut Co. v Pope, 69 Ga App 26, 24 SE2d 711; Mohr v Shultz, 86 Idaho 531, 388 P2d 1002; Housden v Berns, 241 Mo App 1163, 273 SW2d 794; Baker v Atkins (Mo App) 258 SW2d 16; Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v Hillis (Tex Civ App Waco) 320 SW2d 687.

Footnote 58. Whelan v Lynch, 60 NY 469; Fairley v B. R. Smith & Co., 87 NC 367.

Footnote 59. Mt. Vernon Brewing Co. v Teschner, 108 Md 158, 69 A 702.

Footnote 60. State ex rel. Wann v Dickson, 213 Mo 66, 111 SW 817.

In Atlantic Nat. Bank v Korrick, 29 Ariz 468, 242 P 1009, 43 ALR 1184, the court held that upon the issue of fraud and negligence upon the part of the pledgee in making the sale of the pledged cotton, the pledgor could not rely solely upon a newspaper article which purported to be a summary of the weekly average market value of several varieties of such cotton, including the variety pledged, at the time of its sale, where the article was not published until several months after the sale and in fact represented merely asking prices.

Footnote 61. Atlantic Nat. Bank v Korrick, 29 Ariz 468, 242 P 1009, 43 ALR 1184.

Footnote 62. Atlantic Nat. Bank v Korrick, 29 Ariz 468, 242 P 1009, 43 ALR 1184; Pierce v Miller, 107 Neb 851, 187 NW 105.

Footnote 63. Housden v Berns, 241 Mo App 1163, 273 SW2d 794.

§ 1429 --Provisions of Uniform and Federal Rules of Evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Rule 803(17) of the Uniform Rules of Evidence and the Federal Rules of Evidence provides for the admission of market quotations, tabulations, lists, directories, or other published compilations generally used and relied upon by the public or by persons in particular occupations, notwithstanding their character as hearsay. ⁶⁴ The trustworthiness of such publications is based upon general reliance by the public or by a particular segment of the public, and upon the motivation of the compiler to foster reliance by being accurate. ⁶⁵ The Rule has been cited to approve the admission of specialized market publications bearing on:

- Stock prices ⁶⁶
- Industry performance ⁶⁷
- Used-car prices ⁶⁸

- A merchandise catalog 69

However, newspaper articles of general interest are not admissible under Rule 803(17).
70 Other documents ruled inadmissible under the Rule exception have included excerpts from the Physicians' Desk Reference containing pregnancy warnings issued with respect to drugs chemically related to defendant manufacturer's drug, 71 and a prospectus and 10-K form filed by a corporation with the SEC in connection with debentures issued by corporation. 72

Footnotes

Footnote 64. FRE 803(17); Uniform Rules of Evidence Rule 803(17).

Footnote 65. Advisory Committee Notes to Federal Rules of Evidence, Rule 803.

Hunter, Federal Trial Handbook 2d § 69:28.

Louisell and Mueller, Federal Evidence § 465.

Footnote 66. United States v Anderson (CA9 Cal) 532 F2d 1218, cert den 429 US 839, 50 L Ed 2d 107, 97 S Ct 111 (Wall Street Journal).

Footnote 67. McDonald v Johnson & Johnson (DC Minn) 537 F Supp 1282, 1982-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 64694, 11 Fed Rules Evid Serv 256, affd in part and vacated in part on other grounds (CA8 Minn) 722 F2d 1370, 1983-2 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 65717, mod (CA8) 722 F2d 1390 and cert den 469 US 870, 83 L Ed 2d 149, 105 S Ct 219, later proceeding (CA8 Minn) 776 F2d 767 (report used by corporation to project sales for purpose of calculating damages); Aero Spacelines, Inc. v United States, 208 Ct Cl 704, 530 F2d 324, 21 CCF ¶ 84143 ("Aerospace Facts and Figures" offered in suit for renegotiation of government contract).

Footnote 68. United States v Johnson (CA7 Ill) 515 F2d 730 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Levine (CA1 Mass) 569 F2d 1175) ("Red Book" offered to prove value of stolen cars).

Footnote 69. United States v Grossman (CA1 Mass) 614 F2d 295, 5 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1121.

Footnote 70. United States v Baskes (ND Ill) 433 F Supp 799, 77-1 USTC ¶ 9393, 39 AFTR 2d 77-1455.

Footnote 71. In re Richardson-Merrell, Inc. "Bendectin" Products Liability Litigation (SD Ohio) 624 F Supp 1212, later proceeding (DC Mass) 646 F Supp 856, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11177, affd (CA1 Mass) 830 F2d 1190, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11553, 24 Fed Rules Evid Serv 152 and affd (CA6 Ohio) 857 F2d 290, 11 FR Serv 3d 1267, cert den 488 US 1006, 102 L Ed 2d 779, 109 S Ct 788.

Footnote 72. White Industries, Inc. v Cessna Aircraft Co. (WD Mo) 611 F Supp 1049, 19 Fed Rules Evid Serv 321, later proceeding (WD Mo) 657 F Supp 687, affd (CA8 Mo) 845 F2d 1497, 1988-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67992, cert den 488 US 856, 102 L Ed 2d

VII. WEIGHT AND SUFFICIENCY [1430-1499]

A. General Principles [1430-1433]

Research References

ALR Digest: Evidence §§ 1414, 1452-1487

ALR Index: Evidence

8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Form 353; 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Forms 56, 76, 95, 96, 127; 18A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Negligence, Forms 223-226, 303, 304, 307, 311, 327; 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 219

1. In General [1430, 1431]

§ 1430 Assessing weight and sufficiency, generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The weight and the sufficiency of evidence are, in theory, two distinct concepts most often relevant at the trial court level. Sufficiency is a test of adequacy, and sufficient evidence is such evidence in character, weight, or amount that will legally justify the judicial or official action demanded. ⁷³ Determining whether the evidence is sufficient requires both a quantitative and a qualitative analysis. If opposite conclusions can be drawn reasonably, then the evidence cannot be said to be insufficient. Quantitatively, evidence may fail only if it is absent, that is, where there is none at all. Qualitatively, however, it fails when it cannot be said reasonably that the intended inference may logically be drawn from it. ⁷⁴ Thus, to hold that there is insufficient evidence to support a verdict is to find that there is no valid line of reasoning and permissible inferences which could possibly lead rational persons to the conclusion reached by the jury on the basis of the evidence presented at trial. ⁷⁵

The weight of the evidence, at least in theory, is a somewhat more subjective concept than that of sufficiency. ⁷⁶ The weight given to any evidence depends upon the particular circumstances ⁷⁷ and is generally not relevant to the question of sufficiency. ⁷⁸ It is defined as the balance or preponderance of evidence, and is a determination of the trier of fact that a greater amount of credible evidence supports one side of an issue or cause than the other. ⁷⁹ The weight of the evidence is its weight in probative value, not the quantity or amount of evidence. It is not determined by mathematics, but depends on its effect in inducing belief. ⁸⁰ The probative force of evidence is to be estimated, not only by its own intrinsic weight, but also in view of the evidence which it is in the ◆ Observation: The pleadings of lawyers and the opinions of judges often do not maintain the distinction between weight and sufficiency with clarity, and often employ the terms interchangeably and synonymously. Cases, for example, purporting to deal with the sufficiency of evidence might state that a verdict or conviction should not be set aside unless, after allowing all reasonable presumptions of its correctness, the preponderance of the evidence is so clearly against the verdict as to convince the reviewing court that the verdict is wrong and unjust. That statement confuses the standard of review on the question of the sufficiency of the evidence with the standard of review on the question of the weight of the evidence: If the evidence is insufficient to support a conviction, a judgment of acquittal should be entered; if the evidence is sufficient to support a conviction, but the verdict is against the clear preponderance of the evidence, a new trial should be ordered. 82

Questions arising before verdict, regarding the weight and sufficiency of the evidence introduced in the trial of a case, arise principally in connection with a demurrer to the evidence, 83 a motion for a nonsuit, 84 or a motion for a directed verdict. 85 After verdict such questions may arise on a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, 86 upon a motion for a new trial, 87 or in the appellate courts in reviewing rulings on motions for nonsuits, directed verdicts, or demurrers to the evidence. 88

§ 1430 ----Assessing weight and sufficiency, generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Evidence was sufficient to support jury's finding of future medical expenses, where licensed physician testified that plaintiff would need additional back surgery at cost of approximately $20,000, physician testified that plaintiff would need rehabilitation and medication for up to 1 year, and plaintiff's medical records and bills showed past medical expenses of over $80,000. Williams Distrib. Co. v Franklin (1994, Tex App Dallas) 884 SW2d 503, reh den (Sep 6, 1994) and writ of error filed (Oct 18, 1994).

Evidence of corroboration was insufficient to support claim that testatrix had agreed orally to transfer real estate to claimant in exchange for her services to testatrix's business, where (1) testimony of witnesses as to testatrix's intention was equally consistent with unenforceable promise to give home to claimant, and (2) surrounding circumstances, including testatrix's subsequent execution of will contemplating another distribution of her property, and lack of any evidence that testatrix planned or attempted to have will drawn, did not corroborate existence of contract. Vaughn v Shank (1994) 248 Va 224, 445 SE2d 127.

In slip-and-fall action by customer against department store, trial court did not err in finding store liable, where: customer demonstrated that prior to fall she was in reasonably good health; as result of fall, she sustained sprain to right shoulder, tendonitis in knee, contusions to hip, and carpal tunnel syndrome and tenosynovitis in right hand and wrist; 2 years after accident, shoulder, knee, and wrist injuries continued to require wrist brace and prescription medication for pain management. Trial court found plaintiff's demeanor very credible, and treating physician testified that plaintiff's injuries were caused by fall and not by previous employment or any other accident. Johnson v Wal-Mart Stores, Inc.

(1993, La App 2d Cir) 616 So 2d 817.

There was reasonable basis for jury to have found that accident did not cause plaintiff's physical problems, where treating physician had no notes of any arm, neck or shoulder pain with regard to plaintiff, examination by orthopedist showed normal reflexes and range of motion in allegedly injured shoulder, and with respect to carpal tunnel syndrome, treating physician and orthopedic surgeon were in agreement that carpal tunnel syndrome could result from various causes, not just trauma. Additionally, treating physician was of opinion that if trauma caused condition, symptoms would have appeared within few days after accident, which was not case here with left hand. Thus, jury did not err in finding that plaintiff was not injured in alleged accident. Trammel v State Farm Mut. Auto Ins. Co. (1993, La App 1st Cir) 637 So 2d 517.

Footnotes

Footnote 73. Tibbs v State (Fla) 397 So 2d 1120, affd 457 US 31, 72 L Ed 2d 652, 102 S Ct 2211.

The test of the sufficiency of the evidence in a civil case is whether the evidence, taken as a whole, shows the fact sought to be proved is more probable than not. Billa v Billa (La App 5th Cir) 423 So 2d 1231, cert gr, set aside (La) 428 So 2d 806, on remand (La App 5th Cir) 434 So 2d 168, cert den (La) 435 So 2d 444.

Evidence is sufficient or satisfactory if it is such as to satisfy an unprejudiced mind of the truth. Houle v Tondreau Bros. Co., 148 Me 189, 91 A2d 481.

As to burden of proof, see §§ 155 et seq.

Footnote 74. Carbo, Inc. v Lowe (Ind App) 521 NE2d 977.

Evidence is sufficient or satisfactory if it is such as to satisfy an unprejudiced mind of the truth. Houle v Tondreau Bros. Co., 148 Me 189, 91 A2d 481.

Footnote 75. Dominguez v Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority, 46 NY2d 528, 415 NYS2d 634, 388 NE2d 1221, on remand (1st Dept) 71 App Div 2d 555, 418 NYS2d 411.

Footnote 76. Tibbs v State (Fla) 397 So 2d 1120, affd 457 US 31, 72 L Ed 2d 652, 102 S Ct 2211.

Footnote 77. Loughan v Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (CA11 Fla) 749 F2d 1519, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10311, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 141, 40 FR Serv 2d 1243 (criticized on other grounds by Cornwall v U.S. Constr. Mfg., Inc. (CA FC) 800 F2d 250, 231 USPQ 64) and (disapproved on other grounds by Crawford Fitting Co. v J. T. Gibbons, Inc., 482 US 437, 96 L Ed 2d 385, 107 S Ct 2494, 43 BNA FEP Cas 1775, 43 CCH EPD ¶ 37102, 1987-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67596, 7 FR Serv 3d 1161).

Footnote 78. Dominguez v Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority, 46 NY2d 528, 415 NYS2d 634, 388 NE2d 1221, on remand (1st Dept) 71 App Div 2d 555, 418 NYS2d 411.

Footnote 79. Tibbs v State (Fla) 397 So 2d 1120, affd 457 US 31, 72 L Ed 2d 652, 102 S Ct 2211.

As to the assessment of the weight of the evidence as a function of the trier of fact, see § 1431.

Footnote 80. Johnson v Gregg (1991, Mo App) 807 SW3d 680.

Footnote 81. Shapiro v Equitable Life Assur. Soc., 76 Cal App 2d 75, 172 P2d 725, holding that the fact that a party fails to produce available witnesses and documents under his control may be considered in weighing his testimony.

All evidence is to be weighed according to the proof which it was in the power of one side to have produced, and in the power of the other side to have contradicted. Travelers' Ins. Co. v Pomerantz, 246 NY 63, 158 NE 21; Conk v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 251 App Div 442, 296 NYS 902.

Footnote 82. Pearson v State (Ala App) 601 So 2d 1119, reh den, without op (Ala App) 1992 Ala Crim App LEXIS 316, cert den, without op (Ala) 1992 Ala LEXIS 1104.

Footnote 83. 75A Am Jur 2d, Trial §§ 1074-1076.

Footnote 84. 75A Am Jur 2d, Trial §§ 883-890.

Footnote 85. 75A Am Jur 2d, Trial §§ 857-865.

Footnote 86. 46 Am Jur 2d, Judgments §§ 106 et seq.

Footnote 87. 58 Am Jur 2d, New Trial §§ 202-209.

Footnote 88. 5 Am Jur 2d, Appeal and Error §§ 818, 819.

§ 1431 Weight of evidence as determination of trier of fact

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The trier of fact determines the weight to be given the evidence. 89 Where testimony is incredible, unbelievable, or inherently improbable, the trier is to disregard it as without probative value, 90 even though uncontradicted. 91

When weighing the evidence, the trier of fact is not required to accept entirely either the state's or the defendant's account of the facts. 92 The judge or jury may reject that which it finds implausible, but accept other parts which it finds to be believable, 93 and is free to choose among reasonable constructions of the evidence. 94

The finding of the trier of fact should not be disturbed unless the trier of fact clearly failed to give the evidence the proper weight. 95

§ 1431 ----Weight of evidence as determination of trier of fact [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In a personal injury suit by a seaman alleging negligence and unseaworthiness under the Jones Act and general maritime law, the Court of Appeals affirmed the trial court's take-nothing judgment and rejected the seaman's claim of insufficient evidence, where the owner of the ship testified that it was seaworthy despite being equipped with inoperable navigational equipment, because only the trier of fact can determine credibility of the witnesses, resolve conflicts in the evidence, and determine weight to be given to the evidence. Downen v Texas Gulf Shrimp Co. (1993, Tex App Corpus Christi) 846 SW2d 506, writ den (Jul 30, 1993).

Footnotes

Footnote 89. United States v Vaccaro (CA9 Nev) 816 F2d 443, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1570, disapproved on other grounds by Huddleston v United States, 485 US 681, 99 L Ed 2d 771, 108 S Ct 1496, 25 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1 and disapproved on other grounds by Powers v Ohio, 499 US 400, 113 L Ed 2d 411, 111 S Ct 1364, 91 CDOS 2259, 91 Daily Journal DAR 3732 as stated in Holland v McGinnis (CA7 Ill) 963 F2d 1044; State v Lee (Me) 583 A2d 212; Dominguez v Manhattan & Bronx Surface Transit Operating Authority, 46 NY2d 528, 415 NYS2d 634, 388 NE2d 1221, on remand (1st Dept) 71 App Div 2d 555, 418 NYS2d 411; State v Williams (Logan Co) 82 Ohio App 3d 39, 610 NE2d 1188; State v Williams (Tenn Crim) 784 SW2d 660.

Unless evidence is clearly incompetent and inadmissible for a specific reason, it should go to the jury for a determination of its weight. Department of Transp. v White, 173 Ga App 68, 325 SE2d 397.

Law Reviews: Cohen, The Role of Evidential Weight in Criminal Proof. 66 Bos U LR 635 (May/July 1986).

Forms: Instruction–Duty of jury to determine facts. 8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Form 353.

Instruction to jury–Duty where evidence equally balanced. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 76.

Instruction to jury–Weighing of evidence. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 95.

Instruction to jury–General considerations affecting weight to be given testimony of witnesses. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 96.

Footnote 90. Hollis v Scott (Ala) 516 So 2d 576, later proceeding (Ala) 516 So 2d 1386, later proceeding (Ala) 554 So 2d 387, reh den (Ala) 1989 Ala LEXIS 813.

As to incredible evidence, see § 1447.

Footnote 91. King v Brindley, 255 Ala 425, 51 So 2d 870.

Footnote 92. Pugliese v Commonwealth (Va App) 428 SE2d 16.

Footnote 93. Pugliese v Commonwealth (Va App) 428 SE2d 16.

The jury may accept that part of the defendant's proof they feel is consistent with truth and reject that portion they believe originated in falsity. State v Williams (Tenn Crim) 784 SW2d 660.

Footnote 94. United States v Rothrock (CA1 Me) 806 F2d 318, 87-1 USTC ¶ 9111, 58 AFTR 2d 86-6294; United States v Pruneda-Gonzalez (CA5 Tex) 953 F2d 190, cert den (US) 119 L Ed 2d 575, 112 S Ct 2952; Crutchfield v State, 25 Ark App 227, 763 SW2d 94, post-conviction proceeding (Ark) 1989 Ark LEXIS 436; State v Thornton (Iowa) 498 NW2d 670; Mitzelfelt v Kamrin, 526 Pa 54, 584 A2d 888; Commonwealth v Bricker, 397 Pa Super 457, 580 A2d 388, app den 527 Pa 596, 589 A2d 687.

A jury may reject, in whole or in part, the testimony of any witness. State v Turner (La App 1st Cir) 577 So 2d 200.

As to inconsistent testimony, see § 1443.

Footnote 95. United States v Vaccaro (CA9 Nev) 816 F2d 443, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1570 disapproved on other grounds by Huddleston v United States, 485 US 681, 99 L Ed 2d 771, 108 S Ct 1496, 25 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1 and disapproved on other grounds by Powers v Ohio, 499 US 400, 113 L Ed 2d 411, 111 S Ct 1364, 91 CDOS 2259, 91 Daily Journal DAR 3732 as stated in Holland v McGinnis (CA7 Ill) 963 F2d 1044; Novey v Kishwaukee Community Health Services Center (2d Dist) 176 Ill App 3d 674, 126 Ill Dec 132, 531 NE2d 427; State v Thornton (Iowa) 498 NW2d 670; State v Lee (Me) 583 A2d 212; Commonwealth v Ruci, 409 Mass 94, 564 NE2d 1000; State v Bliss (Minn) 457 NW2d 385; People v Widdi (2d Dept) 148 App Div 2d 648, 539 NYS2d 106, app den 74 NY2d 670, 543 NYS2d 413, 541 NE2d 442; State v Williams (Tenn Crim) 784 SW2d 660.

The finding of the trial court will not be set aside when there is nothing in the record to show that the court manifestly disregarded the weight of the evidence. State v Williams (Logan Co) 82 Ohio App 3d 39, 610 NE2d 1188.

2. Negligence Actions, In General [1432, 1433]

§ 1432 Proof by direct or circumstantial evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although negligence may be established by direct evidence, 96 it is not necessary that every fact and circumstance that make up a case of negligence be proved by direct and positive evidence 97 or by the testimony of eyewitnesses. 98 Affirmative proof of negligence may be established as well by circumstantial evidence, 99 and circumstantial evidence alone may authorize a finding of negligence. 1

The burden of proving negligence 2 is not sustained by evidence from which a finder of fact can arrive at its conclusion only by guess, speculation, conjecture, or choice of possibilities. 3 There must be something more which would lead a reasoning mind to one conclusion rather than to another. 4 Further, when circumstantial evidence is as consistent with the theory that the defendant was not negligent as it is with the theory that defendant was, the trier of fact may not guess, 5 a mere equipoise of evidence being insufficient to entitle the plaintiff to a verdict. 6

Negligence may, however, be inferred from all the facts and attendant circumstances in the case, 7 and where the circumstances are such as to take the case out of the realm of conjecture and put it within the field of legitimate inference from established facts, a prima facie case is made. 8

While the ultimate fact of negligence is an inference to be drawn from all the circumstances of the case, evidentiary facts must be established which would warrant a reasonable person to infer negligence. 9 It is not always essential, where proof of negligence rests on circumstantial evidence, that the jury's finding relate itself to negligence in a particular respect, if it may reasonably be referable to several acts or omissions with respect to each of which the defendant is charged with a duty toward the plaintiff. 10 It is recognized, too, that in proving negligence circumstantially, absolute certainty cannot be achieved. 11

§ 1432 ----Proof by direct or circumstantial evidence [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In negligence action by plaintiff landowner against defendant secured creditor exercising dominion over underground gas tank which leaked and contaminated plaintiff's land, there was insufficient evidence in record to support finding that secured creditor's (bank's) employees made statements to effect that bank would be responsible in cleaning up spill. Nischke v Farmers & Merchants Bank & Trust (1994, App) 187 Wis 2d 96, 522 NW2d 542.

Footnotes

Footnote 96. Faulkinbury v Shaw, 183 Ark 1019, 39 SW2d 708; Scheurer v Banner Rubber Co., 227 Mo 347, 126 SW 1037; Rodgers v Saxton, 305 Pa 479, 158 A 166, 80 ALR 280.

As to proximate cause of negligence, see 57 Am Jur 2d, Negligence §§ 457 et seq.

As to custom and usage as the standard of care in a negligence case, see 57A Am Jur 2d, Negligence §§ 173 et seq.

Footnote 97. Arizona Binghampton Copper Co. v Dickson, 22 Ariz 163, 195 P 538, 44 ALR 881; Cobb v Twitchell, 91 Fla 539, 108 So 186, 45 ALR 865; Louisville Trust Co. v Morgan, 180 Ky 609, 203 SW 555, 7 ALR 396; Sollberger v Walcott (La App 1st Cir) 101 So 2d 483; Brown-Miller Co. v Howell, 224 Miss 136, 79 So 2d 818; Palmer v Clarksdale Hospital, 206 Miss 680, 40 So 2d 582; Burt v Lake Region Flying Service, 78 ND 928, 54 NW2d 339; Towery v Guffey (Okla) 358 P2d 812; Hopkins v Derst Baking Co., 221 SC 497, 71 SE2d 407; Walton & Co. v Burchel, 121 Tenn 715, 121 SW 391; Pfeifer v Standard Gateway Theater, Inc., 259 Wis 333, 48 NW2d 505.

Footnote 98. Arizona Binghampton Copper Co. v Dickson, 22 Ariz 163, 195 P 538, 44 ALR 881; Schier v Wehner, 116 Md 553, 82 A 976; Palmer v Clarksdale Hospital, 206 Miss 680, 40 So 2d 582; Burt v Lake Region Flying Service, 78 ND 928, 54 NW2d 339; Towery v Guffey (Okla) 358 P2d 812; Pfeifer v Standard Gateway Theater, Inc., 259 Wis 333, 48 NW2d 505.

As to the elements of actionable negligence, generally, see 57A Am Jur 2d, Negligence §§ 78 et seq.

Footnote 99. Kieffer v Linton (1990) 396 SE2d 13.

Negligence may be proved by either direct or circumstantial evidence or by a combination of them. Morrow v Madisonville (Tenn App) 737 SW2d 547.

Footnote 1. National Biscuit Co. v Litzky (CA6 Mich) 22 F2d 939, 56 ALR 853; 1st Bank Southeast v M/V Kalidas (ED Wis) 670 F Supp 1421; Bell v Colony Apartments Co. (Ala) 568 So 2d 805; Arizona Binghampton Copper Co. v Dickson, 22 Ariz 163, 195 P 538, 44 ALR 881; McGloin v Southington, 15 Conn App 668, 546 A2d 906, app den 209 Conn 813, 550 A2d 1083; Cangelosi v Our Lady of Lake Regional Medical Center (La) 564 So 2d 654; Burghardt v Detroit U. Ry., 206 Mich 545, 173 NW 360, 5 ALR 1333; Lindgren v Voge, 260 Minn 262, 109 NW2d 754, 88 ALR2d 1080; Fowler Butane Gas Co. v Varner, 244 Miss 130, 141 So 2d 226; Hardwick v Kansas City Gas Co., 355 Mo 100, 195 SW2d 504, 166 ALR 556; Scheurer v Banner Rubber Co., 227 Mo 347, 126 SW 1037; McAlexander v Estate of Lewis, 167 Neb 524, 93 NW2d 632, 77 ALR2d 575; Kahalili v Rosecliff Realty, Inc., 26 NJ 595, 141 A2d 301, 66 ALR2d 680; Hepp v Quickel Auto & Supply Co., 37 NM 525, 25 P2d 197; Burt v Lake Region Flying Service, 78 ND 928, 54 NW2d 339; Towery v Guffey (Okla) 358 P2d 812; Schweiger v Solbeck, 191 Or 454, 230 P2d 195, 29 ALR2d 435; Rodgers v Saxton, 305 Pa 479, 158 A 166, 80 ALR 280; Bloom v Bailey, 292 Pa 348, 141 A 150, 57 ALR 585; Hopkins v Derst Baking Co., 221 SC 497, 71 SE2d 407; Neel v Henne, 30 Wash 2d 24, 190 P2d 775; Pfeifer v Standard Gateway Theater, Inc., 259 Wis 333, 48 NW2d 505; O'Malley v Eagan, 43 Wyo 233, 2 P2d 1063, 77 ALR 582, reh den 43 Wyo 350, 5 P2d 276, 77 ALR 597.

Footnote 2. As to burden of proof, generally, see §§ 155 et seq.

Footnote 3. Owl Drug Co. v Crandall, 52 Ariz 322, 80 P2d 952, 120 ALR 1521; Gordon v Clotworthy, 127 Colo 377, 257 P2d 410, 49 ALR2d 314; In re Hayden's Estate, 174 Kan 140, 254 P2d 813, 36 ALR2d 1278; Shephard v Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.,

305 Ky 799, 205 SW2d 687; American Airlines, Inc. v Shell Oil Co., 355 Mich 151, 94 NW2d 214; McVaney v Baird, Holm, McEachen, Pedersen, Hamann & Strasheim, 237 Neb 451, 466 NW2d 499; Omaha v Bowman, 52 Neb 293, 72 NW 316; Batchelor v Atlantic C. L. R. Co., 196 NC 84, 144 SE 542, 60 ALR 1091; Gypsy Oil Co. v Ginn, 152 Okla 30, 3 P2d 714; Schweiger v Solbeck, 191 Or 454, 230 P2d 195, 29 ALR2d 435; Bloom v Bailey, 292 Pa 348, 141 A 150, 57 ALR 585; Erickson v Webber, 58 SD 446, 237 NW 558, 80 ALR 914; Nelson v West Coast Dairy Co., 5 Wash 2d 284, 105 P2d 76, 130 ALR 606; Klein v Beeten, 169 Wis 385, 172 NW 736, 5 ALR 1237.

Footnote 4. McVaney v Baird, Holm, McEachen, Pedersen, Hamann & Strasheim, 237 Neb 451, 466 NW2d 499.

Footnote 5. 1st Bank Southeast v M/V Kalidas (ED Wis) 670 F Supp 1421.

Footnote 6. McDonough v Newmans Cloak & Suit Co., 247 Minn 250, 77 NW2d 59, 61 ALR2d 100; Watts v Richmond, F. & P. R. Co., 189 Va 258, 52 SE2d 129, 7 ALR2d 1418; Neel v Henne, 30 Wash 2d 24, 190 P2d 775; Ruff v Fruit Delivery Co., 22 Wash 2d 708, 157 P2d 730.

Footnote 7. National Biscuit Co. v Litzky (CA6 Mich) 22 F2d 939, 56 ALR 853; Cobb v Twitchell, 91 Fla 539, 108 So 186, 45 ALR 865; Kelly v Walgreen Drug Stores, 293 Ky 691, 170 SW2d 34; Comstock v General Motors Corp., 358 Mich 163, 99 NW2d 627, 78 ALR2d 449.

Negligence may be inferred from circumstances properly adduced in evidence, provided those circumstances raise a fair presumption of negligence; and circumstantial evidence alone may authorize the finding of negligence. Cobb v Twitchell, 91 Fla 539, 108 So 186, 45 ALR 865.

Footnote 8. National Biscuit Co. v Litzky (CA6 Mich) 22 F2d 939, 56 ALR 853; Kelly v Walgreen Drug Stores, 293 Ky 691, 170 SW2d 34; Burghardt v Detroit U. Ry., 206 Mich 545, 173 NW 360, 5 ALR 1333; Palmer v Clarksdale Hospital, 206 Miss 680, 40 So 2d 582; McAlexander v Estate of Lewis, 167 Neb 524, 93 NW2d 632, 77 ALR2d 575; Burt v Lake Region Flying Service, 78 ND 928, 54 NW2d 339; Towery v Guffey (Okla) 358 P2d 812; Hopkins v Derst Baking Co., 221 SC 497, 71 SE2d 407; Pfeifer v Standard Gateway Theater, Inc., 259 Wis 333, 48 NW2d 505.

Footnote 9. Union P. R. Co. v Huxoll, 245 US 535, 62 L Ed 455, 38 S Ct 187; Kelly v Walgreen Drug Stores, 293 Ky 691, 170 SW2d 34; Schier v Wehner, 116 Md 553, 82 A 976; Omaha & R. V. R. Co. v Clarke, 35 Neb 867, 53 NW 970, different results reached on reh 39 Neb 65, 57 NW 545; Ridge v Norfolk S. R. Co., 167 NC 510, 83 SE 762; Cleveland, T. & V. R. Co. v Marsh, 63 Ohio St 236, 58 NE 821; Schweiger v Solbeck, 191 Or 454, 230 P2d 195, 29 ALR2d 435.

The inference of negligence must be based upon something other than mere conjecture, speculation, or probability, and it is not sufficient to introduce evidence of a state of facts which is simply consistent with, or indicates a mere possibility or probability as to the existence of, negligence, or which suggests with equal force, and leaves fully as reasonable, an inference of the nonexistence of negligence; the facts must be of such a nature and so related to each other that the inference contended for is the more probable or reasonable to be drawn therefrom. Gypsy Oil Co. v Ginn, 152 Okla 30, 3 P2d 714.

While facts making up a case of negligence may be inferred from circumstances, the circumstantial proof must be such as will produce conviction to a reasonable certainty or on an unprejudiced mind. Steckman v Silver Moon, Inc., 77 SD 206, 90 NW2d 170, 64 ALR2d 1171.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Negligence not to be presumed or inferred (simply by reason of the fact than an accident occurred). 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 56.

Occurrence of accident no proof of negligence. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 219.

Footnote 10. Hepp v Quickel Auto & Supply Co., 37 NM 525, 25 P2d 197.

Footnote 11. Sollberger v Walcott (La App 1st Cir) 101 So 2d 483; Davis v Dennert, 162 Neb 65, 75 NW2d 112; Hepp v Quickel Auto & Supply Co., 37 NM 525, 25 P2d 197; Lear v Shirk's Motor Express Corp., 397 Pa 144, 152 A2d 883.

§ 1433 Contributory negligence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Although the defense of contributory negligence has been largely abrogated or modified by comparative negligence, 12 in jurisdictions where the defense is recognized and where the defendant has the burden of proving contributory negligence, 13 the defendant must prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the plaintiff was negligent and that the plaintiff's negligence contributed in some degree as the proximate cause of the plaintiff's injury. 14 This rule does not mean that the burden must be discharged by the defendant's own evidence; contributory negligence may be established by the defendant's or the plaintiff's evidence. 15

Footnotes

Footnote 12. 57A Am Jur 2d, Negligence § 842.

Footnote 13. As to pleading contributory negligence as an affirmative defense, see 61A Am Jur 2d, Pleading § 158.

Footnote 14. District of Columbia v Sterling (1990) 578 A2d 1163.

As to standard of proof by a preponderance of the evidence, in general, see § 157.

For a discussion of comparative negligence and its effect on contributory negligence, including a state-by-state analysis of comparative fault, see 57B Am Jur 2d, Negligence §§ 1128 et seq.

Forms: Answer–Defense–Plaintiff's contributory negligence. 18A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Negligence, Forms 303, 304, 307, 311.

Defendant's burden of proof (contributory negligence as an affirmative defense). 18A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Negligence, Form 327.

Footnote 15. Kelly v Virginia Electric & Power Co., 238 Va 32, 381 SE2d 219.

B. Particular Types of Evidence [1434-1463]

Research References

FRE, Rules 103(a)(1); 802

ALR Digest: Evidence §§ 1416-1420, 1423, 1427-1428.5, 1539-1552.5

ALR Index: Circumstantial Evidence; Evidence; Experiments and Tests; Real and Demonstrative Evidence

8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Forms 353, 364; 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Forms 53, 55, 96, 104, 105, 107, 109, 121-126, 134; 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Forms 53, 55, 96, 104, 105, 107, 109, 121-126, 134; 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial §§ 191-196, 202, 204, 206, 207, 221; 25 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Witnesses, Forms 181-187

5 Am Jur POF3d 191, Meteorological Conditions at a Particular Time and Place

1 Am Jur Trials 555, Locating and Preserving Evidence in Criminal Cases; 2 Am Jur Trials 409, Locating Public Records; 3 Am Jur Trials 1, Preparing and Using Photographs in Civil Cases; 3 Am Jur Trials 427, Preparing and Using Experimental Evidence

1. In General [1434, 1435]

§ 1434 Circumstantial evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

It is not ordinarily necessary that there be any direct testimony in order to sustain the burden of proving a particular fact or issue, 16 and, under appropriate circumstances, circumstantial evidence may be given the same weight as direct evidence. 17 In criminal 18 and civil cases, 19 issues may be established by, and verdicts founded on, circumstantial evidence—that is, by inferences from established facts—when no direct evidence is available, so long as there exists a logical and convincing connection between the facts established and the conclusion concurred. 20

The sufficiency of circumstantial evidence should be assessed with the same standard as any other kind of evidence. 21 The fact that evidence is circumstantial does not render it insubstantial as the law makes no distinction between direct evidence of the fact and circumstances from which it can be inferred, 22 nor does it alter the rule that it is solely within the province of the trier of fact to evaluate or weigh the evidence. 23 Thus, circumstantial evidence and reasonable inferences derived from it may be adequate for a conviction or verdict. 24 This obtains not only in instances where facts can be proved only by circumstantial evidence, 25 but also in instances where, even though there is direct testimony, the circumstantial evidence outweighs 26 or is more satisfactory or convincing 27 than direct or positive testimony. Circumstances may so contradict the positive testimony of a witness as to warrant the jury in disregarding it. 28 Further, circumstances which are inconclusive when separately considered, may, when considered together, be sufficient to constitute conclusive proof. 29

Circumstantial evidence used to prove facts is limited by the rule that inferences drawn must be reasonable. A conclusion must be rationally and logically drawn from the facts established by the evidence when viewed in the light of common experience. To support a conclusion, the circumstantial evidence must be capable of convincing a rational trier of fact that the conclusion is more probable than any other alternative. 30 The conclusions based on inferences from circumstantial evidence must not be the result of speculation and conjecture. 31

◆ Caution: It is sometimes said that when the prosecution's case is based on circumstantial evidence, the judge should grant a directed verdict unless the evidence excludes every other hypothesis but that of guilt. 32 The United States Supreme Court has twice explicitly rejected this proposition. 33 The "excludes every hypothesis but guilt" rule serves no useful purpose: it is not needed to prevent a trier of fact from convicting on insufficient evidence, and is not needed to authorize a reviewing court to reverse such a conviction. 34

Issues that may be proved by circumstantial evidence include:

- Whether there is a causal connection between a wrongful act and the injury complained of 35
- Notice 36
- Knowledge 37
- Intent 38
- Existence of contracts to pay for services 39
- Existence of agency 40
- Employment 41
- Relationship or kinship 42
- Any other given fact in question in a civil case, 43 except as limited by statute 44 or by valid contractual provisions 45

§ 1434 ----Circumstantial evidence [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

A .44-caliber handgun, two boxes of .44-caliber ammunition, and three shells and a spent cartridge in the gun, which were found in a dumpster four days after a murder, were relevant because they tended to link defendant to the crime where two different shooters were involved in the killing; the evidence was contradictory as to who was carrying what kind of weapon the night of the shooting; defendant's fingerprints were found on one of the boxes of ammunition; the bullets found in the dumpster were consistent with the type of bullets recovered from the victim's body; and defendant admitted that he owned a .44-caliber handgun and that he had bought the ammunition for himself and another person. From the fact that a .44-caliber handgun was found in the dumpster with a box of .44-caliber bullets linked to defendant through his fingerprints and his own testimony, the jury could infer that it was defendant who fired the .44-caliber handgun the night of the murder. State v Burke (1995) 342 NC 113, 463 SE2d 212.

Footnotes

Footnote 16. Commonwealth v Di Stasio, 297 Mass 347, 8 NE2d 923, 113 ALR 1133, cert den 302 US 683, 82 L Ed 527, 58 S Ct 50 and cert den 302 US 759, 82 L Ed 587, 58 S Ct 370; Crayne v Crayne, 54 Nev 205, 13 P2d 222, 84 ALR 716.

The fact that evidence on which the verdict is based is in whole or in part circumstantial rather than direct does not diminish its probative force. State v Tinsley, 24 Conn App 685, 591 A2d 448, app den 220 Conn 902, 593 A2d 968.

Evidence is never to be disregarded or swept aside merely because it is circumstantial. Miller v Northern P. R. Co., 24 Idaho 567, 135 P 845.

Footnote 17. United States v Russell (CA1 Mass) 919 F2d 795.

Footnote 18. §§ 1467 et seq.

Footnote 19. Bowden v Johnson, 107 US 251, 17 Otto 251, 27 L Ed 386, 2 S Ct 246; Rea v Missouri, 84 US 532, 17 Wall 532, 21 L Ed 707; Kempner v Churchill, 75 US 362, 8 Wall 362, 19 L Ed 461; Castle v Bullard, 64 US 172, 23 How 172, 16 L Ed 424; Christensen v Slawter (1st Dist) 173 Cal App 2d 325, 343 P2d 341, 74 ALR2d 567; Burgess v Small, 151 Me 271, 117 A2d 344, 51 ALR2d 1149; Prior Lake State Bank v National Surety Corp., 248 Minn 383, 80 NW2d 612, 57 ALR2d 1306; State ex rel. Union Electric Light & Power Co. v Public Service Com., 333 Mo 426, 62 SW2d 742; State v Mihoy, 98 NH 38, 93 A2d 661, 35 ALR2d 852; Helman v Sacred Heart Hospital, 62 Wash 2d 136, 381 P2d 605, 96 ALR2d 1193.

A party may satisfy its burden of producing evidence by offering circumstantial evidence. District of Columbia v Savoy Constr. Co. (Dist Col App) 515 A2d 698 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in Dano Resource Recovery, Inc. v District of Columbia (Dist Col App) 566 A2d 483).

Footnote 20. United States v McNeill (CA3 Pa) 887 F2d 448, 28 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1263, cert den 493 US 1087, 107 L Ed 2d 1055, 110 S Ct 1152.

Annotation: Modern status of rule regarding necessity of instruction on circumstantial evidence in criminal trial—state cases, 36 ALR4th 1046.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Character of evidence—Direct or circumstantial. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Forms 104, 105.

Burden of proof may be met by circumstantial evidence. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 221.

Footnote 21. Jackson v Virginia, 348 US 307, 61 L Ed 2d 560, 99 S Ct 2781; United States v Christian (CA6 Tenn) 942 F2d 363, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 806, 112 S Ct 905 and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v Smiley (CA8 Mo) 997 F2d 475); Wilson v State, 319 Md 530, 573 A2d 831; State v Badami, 235 Neb 118, 453 NW2d 746; State v Carson (ND) 453 NW2d 485.

Inasmuch as the probative value of direct and circumstantial evidence is intrinsically similar, there is no logically sound reason for drawing a distinction as to the weight to be assigned to each. State v Harvill, 106 Ariz 386, 476 P2d 841.

Footnote 22. Thomas v Allstate Ins. Co., 27 Ark App 27, 766 SW2d 31.

Footnote 23. Reed v Bowen (Fla App D2) 503 So 2d 1265, 11 FLW 2254, approved (Fla) 512 So 2d 198, 12 FLW 477.

As to determining the weight of the evidence, see § 1431.

Footnote 24. Torrez v Standard Brand Paint (Tex App El Paso) 795 SW2d 13, writ den (Nov 21, 1990) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Jan 9, 1991).

Footnote 25. George Foltis, Inc. v New York, 287 NY 108, 38 NE2d 455, 153 ALR 1122.

Footnote 26. Bowden v Johnson, 107 US 251, 17 Otto 251, 27 L Ed 386, 2 S Ct 246; Toomay v Graham (Mo App) 151 SW2d 119.

Direct testimony may be contradicted by circumstantial evidence, and the contradiction may be so strong as to justify disbelief of the direct testimony. Gray v Southern Pacific Co., 23 Cal 2d 632, 145 P2d 561.

Footnote 27. Kempner v Churchill, 75 US 362, 8 Wall 362, 19 L Ed 461; People v Martina (1st Dist) 140 Cal App 2d 17, 294 P2d 1015.

Footnote 28. Gray v Southern Pacific Co., 23 Cal 2d 632, 145 P2d 561; Lantz v Stribling (1st Dist) 130 Cal App 2d 476, 279 P2d 112; Commonwealth Life Ins. Co. v Pendleton, 231 Ky 591, 21 SW2d 985, 66 ALR 1526.

Footnote 29. Wager v Hall, 83 US 584, 16 Wall 584, 21 L Ed 504; Kempner v Churchill, 75 US 362, 8 Wall 362, 19 L Ed 461; Castle v Bullard, 64 US 172, 23 How 172, 16 L Ed 424.

It is not necessary that any single fact, proved by circumstantial evidence standing alone, established the issue; it is sufficient if all the facts and circumstances considered together lead to a rational inference that the ultimate fact is as alleged. Mast v State Board of Optometry (2nd Dist) 139 Cal App 2d 78, 293 P2d 148; In re Estate of Gallo, 61 Cal App 163, 214 P 496.

Practice References Law of Probabilities: Cumulative Value of Evidence. 1 Am Jur Trials 555, Locating and Preserving Evidence in Criminal Cases § 52.

Footnote 30. Andrus v Gas Co. of New Mexico, Div. of Public Service Co. (App) 110 NM 593, 798 P2d 194.

Footnote 31. Boehm v Kish, 201 Conn 385, 517 A2d 624, further stating that when an element necessary to a cause of action cannot be established without conjecture, the evidence presented cannot withstand a motion for a directed verdict.

Before a plaintiff in a civil case can have a favorable verdict supported solely by circumstantial evidence, the evidence must be such as to reasonably establish the theory relied upon, and to preponderate to that theory rather than to any other reasonable hypothesis. Southern R. Co. v Georgia Kraft Co., 258 Ga 232, 367 SE2d 539, on remand 188 Ga App 623, 373 SE2d 774.

Footnote 32. Cook v State, 185 Ga App 585, 364 SE2d 912; Daniel v State, 59 Ga App 454, 1 SE2d 229; Wilson v State, 319 Md 530, 573 A2d 831 (the rule applies only when the case is based upon circumstantial evidence alone); State v Graven, 54 Ohio St 2d 114, 8 Ohio Ops 3d 113, 374 NE2d 1370.

Footnote 33. Jackson v Virginia, 443 US 307, 61 L Ed 2d 560, 99 S Ct 2781, reh den 444 US 890, 62 L Ed 2d 126, 100 S Ct 195 and (not followed by State v Williams (La) 383 So 2d 369) as stated in State v Gatson (La App 3d Cir) 434 So 2d 1315; Holland v United States, 348 US 121, 99 L Ed 150, 75 S Ct 127, 54-2 USTC ¶ 9714, 46 AFTR 943, reh den 348 US 932, 99 L Ed 731, 75 S Ct 334, 46 AFTR 1361 and (not followed by People v Crow, 108 Ill 2d 520, 92 Ill Dec 570, 485 NE2d 381); United States v Artuso (CA2 NY) 618 F2d 192, cert den 449 US 861, 66 L Ed 2d 77, 101 S Ct 164 and cert den 449 US 879, 66 L Ed 2d 102, 101 S Ct 226; United States v Stirling (CA2 NY) 571 F2d 708, CCH Fed Secur L Rep ¶ 96308, 2 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1257, cert den 439 US 824, 58 L Ed 2d 116, 99 S Ct 93; United States v White (CA10 Okla) 673 F2d 299; United States v Coombs, 150 US App DC 333, 464 F2d 842.

Footnote 34. Wilson v State, 319 Md 530, 573 A2d 831, in which defendant house cleaner was tried before a judge and convicted of stealing three rings from a house, based solely on the testimony of the 81-year-old resident that defendant had cleaned the upstairs on the day the rings disappeared and had access to the master bedroom closet in which the rings were last seen; the state's case was inadequate because five members or friends of the resident's family had had access to the upstairs that day, none of whom testified that they did not take the rings, and other cleaners may also have been in the house; the evidence was insufficient to sustain the conviction, not, as the court said, because it failed to exclude all other hypotheses, but simply because it was inadequate to carry the inference of guilt in the first instance.

Circumstantial evidence is sufficient to establish a proposition if it makes the claimant's theory reasonably probable and not merely possible, and more probable than any other theory based on the evidence, but the evidence need not exclude every other possible theory. Jennings v Farmers Mut. Ins. Asso., 260 Iowa 279, 149 NW2d 298.

Footnote 35. Hersum v Kennebec Water Dist., 151 Me 256, 117 A2d 334, 53 ALR2d 1072; Willi v Lucas, 110 Mo 219, 19 SW 726.

Footnote 36. Citizens Trust & Sav. Bank v Stackhouse, 91 SC 455, 74 SE 977; Dulin v Ohio R. R. Co., 73 W Va 166, 80 SE 145.

Footnote 37. Liberty Nat. Life Ins. Co. v Weldon, 267 Ala 171, 100 So 2d 696, 61 ALR2d 1346.

Footnote 38. Hagerty v Union Guardian Trust Co., 258 Mich 133, 242 NW 211, 85 ALR 417.

As to circumstantial evidence of intent in criminal cases, see § 1469.

Footnote 39. In re Oldfield's Estate, 175 Iowa 118, 156 NW 977.

Footnote 40. 3 Am Jur 2d, Agency § 362.

Footnote 41. Roth v Headlee, 238 Iowa 1340, 29 NW2d 923.

Footnote 42. In re Estate of Hartman, 157 Cal 206, 107 P 105, holding that the facts that two men called each other brother and that their conduct and conversation indicate and are consistent with such relationship are sufficient to establish the fact of its existence.

Footnote 43. Consolidated Theatres, Inc. v Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corp. (CA2 NY) 216 F2d 920, 52 ALR2d 1231; Thomas v Allstate Ins. Co., 27 Ark App 27, 766 SW2d 31.

Footnote 44. Wittemann v Sands, 238 NY 434, 144 NE 671, 37 ALR 1216.

Footnote 45. Consolidated Theatres, Inc. v Warner Bros. Circuit Management Corp. (CA2 NY) 216 F2d 920, 52 ALR2d 1231.

§ 1435 Incompetent evidence admitted without objection

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

According to most courts, the fact that evidence which is introduced in a case may be, if objected to, incompetent evidence under one or more exclusionary rules of evidence does not destroy its probative effect, if it is admitted without objection. It is the generally prevailing rule that relevant evidence received without objection may properly be considered, although it would have been excluded if objection had been made. 46 It follows that such evidence, where admitted without objection, has the force and effect of proper evidence 47 and is to be accorded its natural probative effect as though it were admissible under the established rules of practice. 48 Incompetent evidence admitted without objection may establish a fact, 49 support a finding, 50 or sustain a judgment. 51

These general principles have been applied to hearsay evidence admitted without objection, which may be regarded as sufficient to establish a fact in controversy. But such evidence, even though admitted without objection, is minimized by the same inherent weaknesses which are grounds for its exclusion. 52

Secondary evidence, if received without objection, is competent proof to be considered in determining whether a fact is established. 53 Such evidence, where it is the uncontradicted testimony of a witness likely to be informed on the subject, cannot be disregarded. 54

§ 1435 ----Incompetent evidence admitted without objection [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

It was noted that all evidence admitted, whether competent or incompetent, may be considered in ruling on a motion to dismiss for insufficiency of the evidence. State v Pleasant (1995) 342 NC 366, 464 SE2d 284.

Footnotes

Footnote 46. Smith v State, 40 Ala App 600, 119 So 2d 202, cert den 270 Ala 741, 119 So 2d 203; Abbott v Limited Mut. Compensation Ins. Co., 30 Cal App 2d 157, 85 P2d 961; Burke v Tackett, 313 Ky 583, 233 SW2d 115; Mississippi State Highway Com. v Robertson (Miss) 350 So 2d 1348; Cannady's Used Cars v Dowling, 221 Miss 293, 72 So 2d 696, 44 ALR2d 1053; Crampton v Osborn, 356 Mo 125, 201 SW2d 336, 172 ALR 344; Rosberg v Montgomery Ward & Co., 110 Mont 154, 99 P2d 979; Schell v State (Okla) 418 P2d 690; Hanns v Friedly, 181 Or 631, 184 P2d 855; State v Paris, 43 Wash 2d 498, 261 P2d 974.

Incompetent evidence if admitted without objection has probative value and may be considered with the same force and effect as proper evidence. Hannahs v Noah, 83 SD 296, 158 NW2d 678.

As to objections to incompetent evidence, in general, see 75 Am Jur 2d, Trial § 428.

Footnote 47. State v Paris, 43 Wash 2d 498, 261 P2d 974.

Footnote 48. Citizens Bank of Hattiesburg v Miller, 194 Miss 557, 11 So 2d 457; Wine v Beach, 194 Va 601, 74 SE2d 149; State v Paris, 43 Wash 2d 498, 261 P2d 974.

Upon waiver of the statute as to testimony of a transaction with a decedent, or upon admission of such testimony without objection, the evidence is entitled to the same credence and weight as any other evidence received. Boettcher v Busse, 45 Wash 2d 579, 277 P2d 368, 49 ALR2d 191.

Footnote 49. Ewald v Poates, 107 App Div 242, 94 NYS 1106.

Footnote 50. People v Willis, 30 Cal App 2d 419, 86 P2d 670.

Footnote 51. Martin v Town & Country Development, Inc. (4th Dist) 230 Cal App 2d 422, 41 Cal Rptr 47, 10 ALR3d 1347.

Footnote 52. § 1441.

Footnote 53. Kansas City S. R. Co. v C. H. Albers Com. Co., 223 US 573, 56 L Ed 556, 32 S Ct 316.

As to best and secondary evidence, see §§ 1053 et seq.

Footnote 54. Kansas City S. R. Co. v C. H. Albers Com. Co., 223 US 573, 56 L Ed 556, 32 S Ct 316.

2. Testimony, In General [1436-1449]

§ 1436 Number of witnesses as affecting weight and sufficiency

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Frequently, the testimony of several witnesses is offered in proof of a contested fact. An issue is not, however, to be determined merely by the number of witnesses testifying in support or in contradiction of it in comparison with the number of those giving opposing testimony, 55 but by the greater weight and sufficiency of the evidence, of which the trier of fact is the sole judge. 56 Or, as sometimes stated, witnesses are not counted, but weighed, and the weight to be given evidence is not determined by the number of the witnesses on either side. 57 Therefore, in civil cases, preponderance of the evidence has no reference to the relative number of witnesses testifying for the opposing parties. 58 The jury is free to believe the minority of the witnesses, and a verdict based upon the testimony of the minority will not be disturbed merely because it is opposed to the testimony of the majority. 59 The preponderance of the evidence can be established by a single witness as against a greater number of witnesses who testify to the contrary 60 even if the witness in question is the victim 61 or a party to the proceeding. 62

The issue, in a criminal prosecution, of the guilt or innocence of the accused is also not to be determined solely by counting the witnesses on one side or the other, inasmuch as numerical superiority of witnesses is not the criterion or key to such determination. 63 However, the trier of fact does not completely discount the numerical preponderance of witnesses on one side or the other of a case or an issue. 64 Rather, numerical preponderance is one circumstance to be considered along with all other facts and circumstances in the testimony of the witnesses on either side. 65 In other words, the number of witnesses testifying on each side is a fact that may be considered and given due weight. 66 Although a mere numerical preponderance of witnesses is not in itself controlling, it is entitled to consideration and may control if there is no special reason to credit, or to give equal or greater credit to, the evidence of the smaller number. 67

As with civil cases, the uncorroborated testimony of one witness is sufficient to convict a defendant, 68 if believed by a jury beyond a reasonable doubt. 69 This rule that the testimony of a single witness is sufficient to support a conviction applies as well to inconsistent testimony. 70

Footnotes

Footnote 55. Putman v Cameron, 129 Cal App 2d 89, 276 P2d 102; State v Hodge, 153 Conn 564, 219 A2d 367; Houle v Tondreau Bros. Co., 148 Me 189, 91 A2d 481; State v Linder (Hamilton Co) 111 Ohio App 146, 12 Ohio Ops 2d 107, 165 NE2d 460; Harrison v Chesshir (Tex Civ App Amarillo) 322 SW2d 317; State v Coburn, 122 Vt 102, 165 A2d 349.

Footnote 56. Snowden v Webb, 217 Miss 664, 64 So 2d 745, 39 ALR2d 93, sugg of error overr 217 Miss 680, 65 So 2d 839 and sugg of error sustained, in part 217 Miss 682, 67 So 2d 251; New Hampshire Milk Dealers' Asso. v New Hampshire Milk Control Board, 107 NH 335, 222 A2d 194.

The weight of evidence is not to be determined by the number of witnesses. New Deal Cab Co. v Meyer (Fla App D1) 139 So 2d 189.

As to expert testimony, see 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence §§ 1 et seq.

Forms: Evaluation of testimony of witnesses as to number of witnesses on each side. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 125.

Instruction to jury—Effect of number of witnesses on weight of evidence. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 125.1.

Instruction to jury—Preponderance of evidence—As not necessarily referring to greater number of witnesses or quantity of evidence. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 134.

Jury not required to find in conformity with greater number of witnesses—Testimony of one witness sufficient to prove fact. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 220.

Footnote 57. Bienvenu v State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (La App 5th Cir) 545 So 2d 581; In re Estate of Brackett (Fla App D2) 109 So 2d 375, cert den (Fla) 113 So 2d 231.

The number of witnesses is not critical, so long as the evidence presented is sufficient to support the factual findings of the jury. State v Milligan (Utah) 727 P2d 213, 44 Utah Adv Rep 9.

Footnote 58. Weiler v United States, 323 US 606, 89 L Ed 495, 65 S Ct 548, 156 ALR 496; Ruwaldt v W. C. McBride, Inc., 388 Ill 285, 57 NE2d 863, 155 ALR 1209; Lautenbach v Meredith, 240 Iowa 166, 35 NW2d 870; Houle v Tondreau Bros. Co., 148

Me 189, 91 A2d 481; Geelen v Pennsylvania R. Co., 400 Pa 240, 161 A2d 595, 91 ALR2d 1; Lubbock v Thiel (Tex Civ App Amarillo) 352 SW2d 799, writ ref n r e (Mar 14, 1962), error ref n r e.

As to preponderance of the evidence, in general, see § 157.

Footnote 59. Wilson v Haughton (Ky) 266 SW2d 115, 41 ALR2d 950; Snowden v Webb, 217 Miss 664, 64 So 2d 745, 39 ALR2d 93, sugg of error overr 217 Miss 680, 65 So 2d 839 and sugg of error sustained, in part 217 Miss 682, 67 So 2d 251; Robinson v Gallagher Transfer & Storage Co., 58 Wyo 69, 125 P2d 157.

Footnote 60. Houle v Tondreau Bros. Co., 148 Me 189, 91 A2d 481; State v Bliss (Minn) 457 NW2d 385; Aide v Taylor, 214 Minn 212, 7 NW2d 757, 145 ALR 530; Robinson v Gallagher Transfer & Storage Co., 58 Wyo 69, 125 P2d 157.

A verdict can be based on the testimony of a single witness, no matter what the issue. State v Perez (Minn App) 404 NW2d 834.

If accepted as true by the trier of fact, the testimony of a single witness is sufficient to establish any fact, including the amount of damages. Garren v Smith (Mo App) 803 SW2d 184.

Footnote 61. Becker v State (Ind App) 585 NE2d 279.

Footnote 62. In re Marriage of Jones (2nd Dist) 195 Cal App 3d 1097, 241 Cal Rptr 231.

Footnote 63. State v Hodge, 153 Conn 564, 219 A2d 367.

Footnote 64. Rice v Cleveland, 144 Ohio St 299, 29 Ohio Ops 447, 58 NE2d 768; McDaniel v Orr (Tex Com App) 33 SW2d 427.

Footnote 65. Lautenbach v Meredith, 240 Iowa 166, 35 NW2d 870; Rice v Cleveland, 144 Ohio St 299, 29 Ohio Ops 447, 58 NE2d 768; State v Linder (Hamilton Co) 111 Ohio App 146, 12 Ohio Ops 2d 107, 165 NE2d 460; State v Coburn, 122 Vt 102, 165 A2d 349.

Footnote 66. Maddox v Texas Indem. Ins. Co. (Tex Civ App) 224 SW2d 495, writ ref n r e, error ref n r e.

Footnote 67. State v Coburn, 122 Vt 102, 165 A2d 349.

In case of conflict of evidence, and especially where all the witnesses are equally intelligent and free from bias, and have had equal opportunity to know the facts to which they testify, numerical preponderance on one side is entitled to consideration, unless there is special reason to credit the evidence of the smaller number. Rice v Cleveland, 144 Ohio St 299, 29 Ohio Ops 447, 58 NE2d 768.

Footnote 68. McKinney v State (Ind) 558 NE2d 829.

Footnote 69. State v Rodney (Mo App) 760 SW2d 500.

As to proof beyond a reasonable doubt, in general, see §§ 168 et seq.

Footnote 70. State v Rodney (Mo App) 760 SW2d 500.

As to inconsistent testimony, in general, see § 1443.

§ 1437 Effect of witnesses' credibility, generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The issue of witness credibility is primarily a question for the trier of fact. 71 It has sometimes been stated that a jury is not permitted to disbelieve testimony unless there is good reason for questioning the credibility of the witnesses. 72

Provided that the trier of fact does not act arbitrarily, 73 it is under no obligation to credit the evidence proffered by any witness, including experts, 74 and is not compelled to accept even uncontroverted testimony when it doubts the credibility of a witness. 75 Witnesses may be contradicted by the facts they state as well as by direct adverse testimony, and there may be so many omissions in an account of particular transactions or of their own conduct as to discredit the entire testimony. 76

Attacks on witness credibility are simple challenges to the quality and not to the sufficiency of the evidence. 77 When determining the credibility of the testimony of witnesses, the trial court may consider whether the testimony is reasonable and consistent with other evidence; whether the witness has made inconsistent statements; the witness's appearance, conduct, memory and knowledge of the facts; the witness's interest in the trial; 78 and the witness's emotional or mental state. 79 The trier of fact may also consider the relationship of the witnesses to the party involved and their feelings towards the party. 80 A family relationship between a witness and a party, for example, may bear upon the witness's bias. The fact of the relationship does not establish bias, but is simply a circumstance considered by the fact-finder in appraising credibility. 81

Footnotes

Footnote 71. 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses § 1029.

As to credibility of witnesses, in general, see 81 Am Jur 2d, Witnesses §§ 1027-1037.

Footnote 72. Page v Crisp (App) 303 SC 117, 399 SE2d 161.

Annotation: Propriety and prejudicial effect of federal judge's expressing to jury his opinion as to defendant's guilt in criminal case, 7 ALR Fed 377.

Forms: Instruction—Duty of jury to determine facts. 8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Form 353.

Instruction to jury—General considerations affecting weight to be given testimony of witnesses. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 96.

Instruction to jury—Credibility of witnesses. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 121.

Instruction to jury—Inferences of believability of witnesses from statements of court. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 126.

Footnote 73. Lubetsky v Friedman (2nd Dist) 228 Cal App 3d 35, 278 Cal Rptr 706, 91 CDOS 1658, 91 Daily Journal DAR 2635.

Footnote 74. Lubetsky v Friedman (2nd Dist) 228 Cal App 3d 35, 278 Cal Rptr 706, 91 CDOS 1658, 91 Daily Journal DAR 2635; Mather v Griffin Hospital, 207 Conn 125, 540 A2d 666.

As to weight and sufficiency of expert testimony, in general, see 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence §§ 129-135.

Footnote 75. § 1445.

Footnote 76. Bassett Unified School Dist. v Commission on Professional Competence (2nd Dist) 201 Cal App 3d 1444, 247 Cal Rptr 865; Gray v Floyd (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 783 SW2d 214 (the jury is not required to believe even witnesses who are unimpeached and uncontradicted).

Footnote 77. United States v Lee (CA6 Mich) 991 F2d 343.

Footnote 78. State v Frake (Iowa) 450 NW2d 817.

Footnote 79. United States v Martinez (CA10 Colo) 877 F2d 1480, cert den 493 US 981, 107 L Ed 2d 515, 110 S Ct 513, 110 S Ct 514, stating that the fact that a witness was a teenager with a history of emotional problems and that another was a drug addict were impeaching facts which posed a credibility issue to be resolved by the factfinder and were properly left for the jury to consider.

A witness's paranoia and psychiatric treatment does not necessarily make his testimony unbelievable. United States v Gatto (DC NJ) 727 F Supp 903, later proceeding (DC NJ) 746 F Supp 432, later proceeding (DC NJ) 750 F Supp 664 and revd (CA3 NJ) 924 F2d 491, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 262, reh, en banc, den (CA3) 1991 US App LEXIS 16755, later proceeding (CA3 NJ) 995 F2d 449, 37 Fed Rules Evid Serv 194, reh, en banc, den (CA3) 1993 US App LEXIS 15153 and cert den (US) 126 L Ed 2d 339, 114 S Ct 391.

Although the testimony of a narcotics addict must be viewed with caution, the testimony may be enough to sustain a conviction if credible in view of the surrounding circumstances. People v Steidl, 142 Ill 2d 204, 154 Ill Dec 616, 568 NE2d 837, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 125, 112 S Ct 161.

Annotation: Necessity of, and prejudicial effect of omitting, cautionary instruction to jury as to reliability of, or factors to be considered in evaluating, eyewitness identification testimony—state cases, 23 ALR4th 1089.

Use of drugs as affecting competency or credibility of witness, 65 ALR3d 705.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Factors to be considered in ascertaining credibility of witnesses. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Forms 122, 123.

Jury to determine credibility of witnesses—Factors in determining credibility and weight to be given testimony. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial §§ 191-196.

Impeachment of witness—Bad reputation for truth. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 206.

Impeachment of witness—Conviction of crime or felony. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 207.

Instructions to jury—Determination of credibility of witnesses—Factors affecting determination. 25 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Witnesses, Forms 181-187.

Footnote 80. Patterson v State, 181 Ga App 68, 351 SE2d 503.

Footnote 81. Crewe v Blackmon (App) 289 SC 229, 345 SE2d 754.

The trial court has the discretion to reject testimony of biased witnesses. State v Russell, 92 NC App 639, 376 SE2d 458.

§ 1438 Positive or negative testimony

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Negative testimony—that is, testimony that a fact did not exist, that a thing was not done or did not take place, or that one did not hear or observe—is admissible, 82 and, the mere fact that evidence is of a negative nature does not mean that it is not probative or that it will not support a finding. 83

It is, however, a long-recognized general rule of evidence that all other things being equal, positive evidence is stronger than negative evidence. The rule is that where witnesses are of equal credibility and there are no extraneous circumstances affecting the weight of their testimony, testimony that a certain event happened or that the witness saw or heard something at a particular time or place is of more weight and value as evidence than testimony of other witnesses with the same opportunities who state that they did not see or hear anything at that time or place. 84 Often, the rule is even more broadly stated, in the form of a rule of thumb, that where there are two witnesses of equal credibility in direct contradiction on a fact question, the positive or affirmative testimony will be given preponderance over the negative. 85 Moreover, positive testimony of a single witness, whose credibility is unimpeached, that the witness saw or heard a particular thing at a specified time and place, ordinarily outweighs, as a matter of law, the testimony of any number of equally credible witnesses who, with the same opportunities, state that they did not see or hear it. 86 Purely negative testimony acquires no weight by reason of the number of witnesses who give it, if there is positive testimony of other credible witnesses. 87

Negative evidence is generally regarded as of less weight than positive evidence because the memory of a witness is more reliable when testifying to the occurrence of an event than when testifying to its nonoccurrence. 88 However, extreme results are sometimes reached in applying the theory that the memory of a witness is less reliable when testifying to a negative. 89 For example, as to whether or not goods or papers were delivered to a witness, the witness's testimony that the event never occurred would seem equally as reliable as testimony that it did occur. And, positive testimony that a promise was made is not overcome by testimony of witnesses who say that they did not hear it made. 90

In the determination of the probative value of negative testimony and its relative weight in comparison with positive testimony, the trier of fact considers a variety of factors including the position of the witness as to the place of the occurrence and to the witness's opportunity for hearing or observing. 91

Footnotes

Footnote 82. § 318.

Footnote 83. Fairway Builders, Inc. v Malouf Towers Rental Co. (App) 124 Ariz 242, 603 P2d 513.

Law Reviews: Romano. Negative evidence is Pollyanna positive. 16 Trial Diplomacy Journal 88 (May-June 1993).

Forms: Instruction to jury—Character of evidence—Negative testimony. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 107.

Footnote 84. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v Ward, 140 US 76, 35 L Ed 371, 11 S Ct 720; Stitt v Huidekoper, 84 US 384, 17 Wall 384, 21 L Ed 644; Patterson v Gaines, 47 US 550, 6 How 550, 12 L Ed 553; Palmquist v De Ban (Fla) 69 So 2d 769; Pollard v Todd, 62 Ga App 251, 8 SE2d 566; Snow v Cannelton Sewer Pipe Co., 138 Ind App 119, 210 NE2d 118; Leblanc v Cordaro (La App 2d Cir) 378 So 2d 1027; Jefferson Davis Electric Cooperative, Inc. v Mike Hooks, Inc. (La App 3d Cir) 134 So 2d 326; Pongruber v Patrick, 157 Neb 799, 61 NW2d 578; Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v Nail, 156 Okla 294, 10 P2d 668; Markusfeld v Zahn (Tex Civ App) 99 SW2d 438, writ diss; Southern R. Co. v Barden, 200 Va 98, 104 SE2d 13; Parsons v New York C. R. Co., 127 W Va 619, 34 SE2d 334.

Law Reviews: Saunders, The Mythic Difficulty in Proving a Negative. 15 Set H LR 276 (1985).

Footnote 85. Smith v Formica Corp. (La App 1st Cir) 439 So 2d 1194, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9935; Pongruber v Patrick, 157 Neb 799, 61 NW2d 578.

Where the court must review positive evidence as contrasted to negative evidence, the positive evidence is given greater weight. In re Mullins (BC WD Va) 64 BR 287, affd without op (CA4 Va) 848 F2d 184.

Positive or affirmative evidence is recognized as preponderant over negative. State v Bentley (La App 2d Cir) 499 So 2d 581, review den (La) 503 So 2d 477.

Footnote 86. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v Greenfield, 219 Va 122, 244 SE2d 781.

As to the negative testimony as affected by the witness's opportunity to hear and observe, see § 1439.

Footnote 87. Gaines v New Orleans, 73 US 642, 6 Wall 642, 18 L Ed 950; In re Edmundson's Estate, 259 Pa 429, 103 A 277, 2 ALR 1150; Southern R. Co. v Barden, 200 Va 98, 104 SE2d 13; Johnson v Richmond F. & P. R. Co., 160 Va 766, 169 SE 603.

Footnote 88. Stitt v Huidekoper, 84 US 384, 17 Wall 384, 21 L Ed 644.

As a general rule, evidence essentially negative in character is not adequate to overcome contrary positive testimony. Bleakley v Bowlby (Okla) 557 P2d 894.

Footnote 89. Stitt v Huidekoper, 84 US 384, 17 Wall 384, 21 L Ed 644.

Footnote 90. In re Edmundson's Estate, 259 Pa 429, 103 A 277, 2 ALR 1150.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Sufficiency of evidence to sustain finding of nonexistence of presumed fact. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 53.

Instruction to jury—Presumption where evidence is sufficient to sustain finding of nonexistence of presumed fact. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 55.

Footnote 91. § 1439.

§ 1439 --As affected by opportunity to hear and observe

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In the determination of the probative value of negative testimony and its relative weight in comparison with positive testimony, the trier of fact considers, among a variety of factors, ⁹² the witness's opportunity for hearing and observing. ⁹³ Negative testimony rises or declines in the scale of probative weight according to that opportunity. ⁹⁴ It rises to the level of probative value when coupled with a sufficient predicate, consisting of additional testimony or circumstances to show that the witness's position and attitude of attention were such that the witness probably would have heard or seen the occurrence of the event had it happened. ⁹⁵ It is generally recognized that notwithstanding one witness testifies that a fact occurred, weight must be accorded to the unequivocal testimony of another witness having the same or better means of knowledge, that it did not occur. ⁹⁶

When, however, a credible witness with apparently adequate opportunity for observation testifies to an occurrence, the mere testimony of other witnesses that they were not cognizant of the occurrence is entitled to no weight and is not sufficient to create a conflict in the testimony where the opportunities of the latter for observation are not stated, or where it affirmatively appears that their situation was such or their attention was so engrossed that they probably would not have observed the event if it had occurred, or where their opportunities were not coextensive with those of the witness who testifies positively to the occurrence. 97 Thus, the testimony of witnesses that they did not hear a warning signal, whistle, or bell, without further proof that they listened for the signal, that their attention was in some way directed to it, or that they probably would have heard it if it did sound, cannot prevail against positive testimony of other creditable witnesses that such warning signal, whistle, or bell was sounded at the time in question. 98 Negative testimony of witnesses shown to have been some distance from the scene of an occurrence, that they did not hear signals given or bells rung cannot create a conflict with positive testimony of other witnesses in this regard. 99

◆ Comment: Some courts classify this type of evidence as positive, rather than negative. That is, where there is evidence that the one who denies that fact had good opportunity to see or hear, and the evidence demonstrates that the witness probably would have seen or heard that event had it occurred, or it is shown that the witness's attention was drawn to the matter controverted, then the testimony constitutes positive testimony, and produces a conflict of evidence to be decided by the trier of fact. 1 Where a witness affirms that a fact occurred, and another who had apparently sufficient opportunity to know and who declares he was paying attention denies that it occurred, it is generally held not to be a case of positive and negative testimony, but of positive testimony on both sides. 2

Footnotes

Footnote 92. Cotton v Willmar & S. F. R. Co., 99 Minn 366, 109 NW 835; Napier v Southern Pacific Co., 218 Or 371, 345 P2d 400, stating that the probative value to be given to the testimony of a witness that he did not hear the sound depends upon the condition of his senses, his proximity to the place, the degree of attention, and other such circumstances which render it more or less probable that if the sound had been made, he would have heard it.

Footnote 93. Esmailka v State (Alaska App) 740 P2d 466, stating that where a party relies on negative evidence, that is, testimony that a witness did not see an event in order to support an inference that the event did not occur, the rule is that the person allegedly witnessing the event must have been in a position to see it.

In order for negative evidence to qualify as sufficient it must be shown the witness was so situated that in the ordinary course of events he would have heard or seen the fact had it occurred. Koll v Manatt's Transp. Co. (Iowa) 253 NW2d 265.

Negative evidence must be preceded by a showing that the witness had been in a position to hear the sound if it occurred. Beasley v Grand T. W. R. Co., 90 Mich App 576, 282 NW2d 401.

Footnote 94. Forde v Northern P. R. Co., 241 Minn 246, 63 NW2d 11; Fish v Southern

Pac. Co., 173 Or 294, 143 P2d 917, reh den 173 Or 325, 145 P2d 991; Southern R. Co. v Barden, 200 Va 98, 104 SE2d 13.

Footnote 95. Mast v Standard Oil Co., 140 Ariz 1, 680 P2d 137 (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United Bank of Arizona v Allyn (App) 167 Ariz 191, 805 P2d 1012, 58 Ariz Adv Rep 63).

Footnote 96. Southern R. Co. v Barden, 200 Va 98, 104 SE2d 13.

Footnote 97. Graham v Leek, 65 Idaho 279, 144 P2d 475; Enterprise Garnetting Co. v Forcier, 67 RI 336, 23 A2d 761; Southern R. Co. v Barden, 200 Va 98, 104 SE2d 13.

Testimony of a man's business associates in town that they had never seen him intoxicated has no weight to disprove the affirmative testimony of witnesses who had seen him intoxicated at other places. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v Ward, 140 US 76, 35 L Ed 371, 11 S Ct 720.

Footnote 98. Stephenson v Grand T. W. R. Co. (CA7 Ill) 110 F2d 401, 132 ALR 455, cert dismd 311 US 720, 85 L Ed 469, 60 S Ct 1107 and (criticized on other grounds by Trust Co. of Chicago v Pennsylvania R. Co. (CA7 Ill) 183 F2d 640, 21 ALR2d 238); Pollard v Todd, 62 Ga App 251, 8 SE2d 566.

Footnote 99. Hughes v Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 121 Cal App 271, 8 P2d 853.

Footnote 1. Norfolk & W. R. Co. v Greenfield, 219 Va 122, 244 SE2d 781.

Footnote 2. Shell Oil Co. v Collar, 99 Ariz 154, 407 P2d 380; Thornburgh v Hunkler (Mo) 255 SW2d 975; Fish v Southern Pac. Co., 173 Or 294, 143 P2d 917, reh den 173 Or 325, 145 P2d 991; Davis v Sargent, 138 W Va 861, 78 SE2d 217.

Though negatively phrased, testimony of a witness who was so placed that if the event in question had occurred he would probably have noticed it that he "did not see" or "did not observe" the occurrence is sufficiently probative to controvert affirmatively phrased testimony by other witnesses that they did observe the event's occurrence and adequately supports a finding that the event did not occur. Lindhartsen v Myler, 91 Idaho 269, 420 P2d 259.

§ 1440 --Absence of records or documents as proof that event did not occur

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Proof of the absence of records that would ordinarily exist if a particular event had occurred gives rise to a legitimate negative inference that the event did not occur. 3 For example, where an alibi witness testified that he remembered being with the defendant on the date of the crime because the witness picked up an unemployment check that day, it was proper for the government to prove non-receipt of the check by proving that there was an absence of any record indicating receipt. 4 However, the absence of records or documents is not conclusive evidence that they were never filed. Files in a county clerk's office, for example, particularly files a third or half century old, may be misplaced, lost, or destroyed. 5

Footnotes

Footnote 3. United States v Robinson (CA2 Conn) 544 F2d 110, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 399, cert den 434 US 1050, 54 L Ed 2d 803, 98 S Ct 901; Berkeley v Berkeley Shore Water Co., 213 NJ Super 524, 517 A2d 1199.

As to weight and sufficiency of documentary evidence, in general, see §§ 1453 et seq.

Footnote 4. United States v Robinson (CA2 Conn) 544 F2d 110, 1 Fed Rules Evid Serv 399, cert den 434 US 1050, 54 L Ed 2d 803, 98 S Ct 901.

Footnote 5. Barrett v Ninnescah Bow Hunters Assn., 15 Kan App 2d 241, 806 P2d 485.

As to degree of proof required to establish a lost instrument, see 52 Am Jur 2d, Lost and Destroyed Instruments § 60.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Sufficiency of evidence to sustain finding of nonexistence of presumed fact. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 53.

Instruction to jury—Presumption where evidence is sufficient to sustain finding of nonexistence of presumed fact. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 55.

§ 1441 Hearsay admitted without objection

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

In general, hearsay evidence is incompetent and inadmissible to establish a fact. 6 However, incompetency and inadmissibility may be waived by failure to object to hearsay, so that it may be considered, if relevant, and may be given probative effect as if it were competent evidence. 7 Thus, the question presented becomes that of the weight, and not the admissibility, of the hearsay. 8 Courts differ, however, as to the amount of weight to accord hearsay admitted without objection. One view, which appears to be the majority, holds that it is as strong as any other legally competent evidence. 9 Under this view, hearsay admitted without objection—

—has the same weight to prove the fact to which it relates as properly admissible evidence. 10

—has the value of direct evidence. 11

—may be sufficient to establish a fact, 12 or support a finding. 13

—may serve as the basis for an instruction. 14

—may sustain a verdict or judgment. 15

—is in the case for what it is worth. 16

—may properly be considered even though it constitutes the sole evidence on a particular issue. 17

Another view holds that hearsay admitted without objection retains an inherent weakness requiring that it be weighed with caution. 18 Under this view, it has been said that a court may accord little or no weight to such evidence. 19 Another statement of this position is that hearsay evidence which could have been excluded if objected to, but was admitted without objection, is "consent evidence." In this regard, the trier of fact may properly consider hearsay evidence admitted by consent and give the evidence its natural and logical probative effect although the trier of fact must always weigh the evidence with caution, mindful of its inherent weakness, the same weakness which leads to its exclusion upon objection. 20 And finally, in at least one jurisdiction, the rule is that hearsay is without any probative value at all and may not be considered even where admitted without objection. 21

A variety of factors influence the weight to be given, or probative value of, hearsay admitted without objection. For example, the courts consider written hearsay, admitted in evidence with consent of the parties, to be more trustworthy than oral hearsay, since the writing itself eliminates the necessity for dependence upon the possibly faulty memory of the relating witness. 22 They may also regard hearsay admitted by stipulation as fully competent, although this may depend upon the wording and inclusiveness of the stipulation. 23 Another factor is whether the hearsay is uncontradicted. One view is that inadmissible hearsay evidence introduced without objection, if uncontradicted, may constitute substantial evidence of the fact asserted, but if contradicted by other legal evidence it will not support a finding. 24 The opposing view recognizes that the mere fact that the hearsay is subsequently disputed by the declarant, 25 or that the party against whom the hearsay is offered made no appearance or was not represented by counsel, 26 does not change the general rule that such evidence is entitled to probative effect.

◆ Comment: Under the hearsay provisions of the Federal Rules of Evidence, 27 the trier of fact, to the extent of their probative value, may consider statements which are inadmissible, but to which no objection has been made. 28

§ 1441 ----Hearsay admitted without objection [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Bank fraud defendant's contemporaneous hearsay objection at trial was insufficient to constitute objection based on witness' personal knowledge of bank's insured status where personal knowledge ground was not stated at time and no comment was made after judge overruled objection. United States v Nnanyererugo (1994, App DC) 39 F3d 1205.

Footnotes

Footnote 6. § 659.

Footnote 7. 75 Am Jur 2d, Trial § 408.

Footnote 8. Spiller v Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co., 253 US 117, 64 L Ed 810, 40 S Ct 466; Hayden v Chalfant Press, Inc. (CA9 Cal) 281 F2d 543, 126 USPQ 483, 3 FR Serv 2d 498; American Workmen v Ledden, 196 Ark 902, 120 SW2d 346, 120 ALR 201; Merchant Shippers Asso. v Kellogg Express & Draying Co., 28 Cal 2d 594, 170 P2d 923; Cicero v Industrial Com., 404 Ill 487, 89 NE2d 354; Sallee v Routson, 247 Iowa 1220, 78 NW2d 516; Townsend v Jones, 183 Kan 543, 331 P2d 890; Gray v Great American Indem. Co. (La App 1st Cir) 121 So 2d 381; Goldthwaite v Sheraton Restaurant, 154 Me 214, 145 A2d 362, 79 ALR2d 881; Old v Cooney Detective Agency, 215 Md 517, 138 A2d 889; O'Kane v Travelers Ins. Co., 337 Mass 182, 148 NE2d 397; Quick v Benedictine Sisters Hospital Asso., 257 Minn 470, 102 NW2d 36; In re Estate of Petersen (Mo) 295 SW2d 144; State v Petro, 148 Ohio St 473, 36 Ohio Ops 152, 76 NE2d 355, 5 ALR2d 425; Gardner v Dollina, 206 Or 1, 288 P2d 796; Commonwealth v Boden, 399 Pa 298, 159 A2d 894, 88 ALR2d 223, cert den 364 US 846, 5 L Ed 2d 70, 81 S Ct 89; Yates v State, 206 Tenn 118, 332 SW2d 186; White v Newman, 10 Utah 2d 62, 348 P2d 343; Bethel Mills, Inc. v Whitcomb, 116 Vt 357, 76 A2d 548; Meredith GMC v Garner, 78 Wyo 396, 328 P2d 371.

Footnote 9. Yule v Miller, 80 Cal App 609, 252 P 733; Old v Cooney Detective Agency, 215 Md 517, 138 A2d 889; White v Newman, 10 Utah 2d 62, 348 P2d 343.

In prosecution for second degree burglary, in which no objection was made to hearsay testimony of supermarket employee that customer told him "she had seen somebody trying to get in that store," evidence was admitted for all purposes and was properly given its natural and logical probative effect by trier of facts. State v Anderson (Mo App) 555 SW2d 362.

Hearsay evidence admitted without objection is accorded the same weight as evidence legally admissible as long as it is relevant and material to the issues in question. Jones v Spidle, 446 Pa 103, 286 A2d 366.

Under Texas rules of evidence, unobjected hearsay has probative value. Martin v Martin (Tex App Texarkana) 797 SW2d 347.

In an action for negligent bailment arising from the theft of plaintiff's car, unobjected-to hearsay that the assistant manager in defendant's shop had told plaintiff the keys had been left in the car was admissible and had some probative value on the issue of negligence, such that the trial court did not err in finding that defendant negligently left the keys in plaintiff's car. Aatco Transmission Co. v Hollins (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 682 SW2d 682.

Footnote 10. Washington v United States (CA8 Mo) 326 F2d 585; Jefferson v Anchorage (Alaska) 374 P2d 241; Baley v J. F. Hink & Son (1st Dist) 133 Cal App 2d 102, 283 P2d 349; Alston v United States (Dist Col App) 509 A2d 1129; People v Williams, 139 Ill 2d 1, 150 Ill Dec 544, 563 NE2d 431, cert den 499 US 979, 113 L Ed 2d 726, 111 S Ct

1630, habeas corpus den (ND Ill) 843 F Supp 427; State v Liberty (Me) 498 A2d 257.

Hearsay evidence admitted without objection may be considered for its probative value. In re Guardianship of Marshall, 46 Wash App 339, 731 P2d 5.

Footnote 11. Commonwealth v Boden, 399 Pa 298, 159 A2d 894, 88 ALR2d 223, cert den 364 US 846, 5 L Ed 2d 70, 81 S Ct 89.

Footnote 12. Hayden v Chalfant Press, Inc. (CA9 Cal) 281 F2d 543, 126 USPQ 483, 3 FR Serv 2d 498; Jones v Jones (1st Dist) 135 Cal App 2d 52, 286 P2d 908; Mack v State, 236 Ind 468, 139 NE2d 434; Quick v Benedictine Sisters Hospital Asso., 257 Minn 470, 102 NW2d 36; Meridian Hatcherries, Inc. v Troutman, 230 Miss 493, 93 So 2d 472; Schade v Milk Control Com., 196 Pa Super 14, 173 A2d 647; Child v Child, 8 Utah 2d 261, 332 P2d 981.

It is a general rule that a material fact in issue may be established by hearsay evidence where the same is admitted without objection. Sallee v Routson, 247 Iowa 1220, 78 NW2d 516.

Footnote 13. Sizer v Lenney, 146 Conn 457, 151 A2d 889; Kern v State, 237 Ind 144, 144 NE2d 705; Old v Cooney Detective Agency, 215 Md 517, 138 A2d 889; Vielehr v Malone, 158 Neb 436, 63 NW2d 497; Kitts v Shop Rite Foods, Inc., 64 NM 24, 323 P2d 282.

Incompetent, irrelevant, and hearsay evidence was sufficient to support the findings of the court in an action by an executor to recover for an alleged breach of trust because the evidence was admitted without objection of the defendant. Lail v Lail (2nd Dist) 133 Cal App 2d 610, 284 P2d 907.

The milk control commission investigator's hearsay testimony, admitted without objection, as to the licensee's identity was sufficient to sustain a finding of a violation of the law for selling milk below the established price. Schade v Milk Control Com., 196 Pa Super 14, 173 A2d 647.

Footnote 14. Roberts v Schaper Stores Co., 318 Mo 1190, 3 SW2d 241.

Footnote 15. People v Grayson (3rd Dist) 172 Cal App 2d 372, 341 P2d 820; Kitts v Shop Rite Foods, Inc., 64 NM 24, 323 P2d 282; W. W. Conner Co. v McCollister & Campbell, Inc., 9 Wash 2d 407, 115 P2d 370.

But see, Goldthwaite v Sheraton Restaurant, 154 Me 214, 145 A2d 362, 79 ALR2d 881, holding that hearsay evidence admitted by consent may properly be given weight as corroborative of other competent legal evidence, but will not alone support a verdict or finding.

Footnote 16. Stroud v Masek (Mo) 262 SW2d 47; Barlow v Verrill, 88 NH 25, 183 A 857, 104 ALR 1126; Yates v State, 206 Tenn 118, 332 SW2d 186.

Hearsay evidence, admitted without objection, is to be considered for what it is worth, however little. Bates v Dennis, 30 Tenn App 94, 203 SW2d 928.

Hearsay evidence received without objection may be used as proof to whatever extent it may have rational persuasive power. Schlichting v Schlichting, 15 Wis 2d 147, 112 NW2d 149.

Footnote 17. In re Holmes, 379 Pa 599, 109 A2d 523, cert den 348 US 973, 99 L Ed 757, 75 S Ct 535, holding that hearsay evidence, if it is admitted without objection and is relevant and material to the issue, may be given its natural probative effect and may be received as direct evidence.

Footnote 18. Consolidated Indem. & Ins. Co. v Dean, 188 Ark 835, 68 SW2d 460; Carpenter Steel Co. v Pellegrin (2nd Dist) 237 Cal App 2d 35, 46 Cal Rptr 502; In re Estate of Fagin, 246 Iowa 496, 66 NW2d 920; Dixon v Dixon, 123 Md 44, 90 A 846; In re Estate of Kasendorf, 222 Or 463, 353 P2d 531; Shepard v Purvine, 196 Or 348, 248 P2d 352.

Footnote 19. A. H. Angerstein, Inc. v Jankowski (Super) 55 Del 304, 187 A2d 81; Looby v Buck (2d Dist) 20 Ill App 2d 156, 155 NE2d 641; Shepard v Gerholdt, 244 Iowa 1343, 60 NW2d 547.

Footnote 20. Michaud v Vahlsing, Inc. (Me) 264 A2d 539.

Footnote 21. Martin v Alford, 214 Ga 4, 102 SE2d 598; Anton Int'l Corp. v Williams-Russell & Johnson, Inc., 190 Ga App 150, 377 SE2d 688 (stating that hearsay information has no probative value and cannot support a verdict).

Footnote 22. Goldthwaite v Sheraton Restaurant, 154 Me 214, 145 A2d 362, 79 ALR2d 881.

Footnote 23. People v Zavaleta (2nd Dist) 182 Cal App 2d 422, 6 Cal Rptr 166 (stipulation that prior convictions could be determined from probation officer's report); Goldthwaite v Sheraton Restaurant, 154 Me 214, 145 A2d 362, 79 ALR2d 881 (whether such evidence still retains its hearsay characteristics as far as its weight is concerned depends upon the wording and effect of the stipulation).

The court was not required to give full weight to inadmissible entries in hospital records admitted in evidence as a whole by means of an agreement not to object to their authenticity, the court having had no opportunity to rule on the questioned evidence which pertained to circumstances surrounding the decedent's fall in the hospital unobserved by the makers of the particular entries. Liberty Nat. Life Ins. Co. v Reid, 276 Ala 25, 158 So 2d 667.

Footnote 24. American Rubber Products Corp. v NLRB (CA7) 214 F2d 47, 34 BNA LRRM 2368, 26 CCH LC ¶ 68497.

Hearsay evidence is incompetent and even if admitted without objection should not be permitted to outweigh positive and uncontradicted evidence to the contrary. General Service Garage v Lexington Oil Co., 274 Ky 330, 118 SW2d 690.

As to uncontroverted testimony, in general, see § 1445.

Footnote 25. Montpelier v Calais, 114 Vt 5, 39 A2d 350.

Footnote 26. Archawski v Hanioti (CA2 NY) 239 F2d 806, cert den 353 US 984, 1 L Ed

2d 1142, 77 S Ct 1283; Griswold v Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (1st Dist) 141 Cal App 2d 807, 297 P2d 762; In re Holmes, 379 Pa 599, 109 A2d 523, cert den 348 US 973, 99 L Ed 757, 75 S Ct 535.

Footnote 27. FRE Rule 802.

Footnote 28. FRE Rule 103(a)(1).

§ 1442 Uncertain testimony

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

A witness is not required to speak with such confidence as to show that there are no doubts in the witness's mind. Any qualification of the testimony affects only its probative force, 29 especially where there is other testimony which tends to corroborate the fact. 30 Thus, the fact that a witness is uncertain as to the observation or the recollection of a fact and gives testimony qualified by phrases expressive of something less than a positive degree of assurance, such as "I think" or "I believe," does not affect the admissibility of the evidence, although the probative force of the evidence may be affected by the qualification expressed by the witness, and it is for the trier of fact to weigh the evidence as given. 31

Footnotes

Footnote 29. Leathers v Sikeston Coca-Cola Bottling Co. (Mo App) 286 SW2d 393.

Footnote 30. Wood v St. Louis Public Service Co. (Mo) 228 SW2d 665, 17 ALR2d 868.

Footnote 31. Bragan v Birmingham R. L. & P. Co., 163 Ala 93, 51 So 30; Leonard v Mixon, 96 Ga 239, 23 SE 80; State v Brinkley, 354 Mo 337, 189 SW2d 314.

§ 1443 Inconsistent or conflicting testimony

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

A party may prevail even though the evidence produced to establish its case or defense is not harmonious and consistent throughout. Indeed, if that were the rule, there could seldom be success in an attempt to prove an ultimate fact or establish a defense. 32 The fact that a witness makes inconsistent statements with regard to the subject matter under investigation does not render the testimony nugatory or unworthy of belief. It is the province of the trier of fact to pass upon inconsistent statements and give or withhold assent to the truthfulness of the particular statement. 33 Although there is some authority to the contrary, 34 it has been said that inconsistencies in a witness's testimony go to credibility and do not affect the sufficiency of the evidence 35 or destroy the probative force of the testimony as a matter of law. 36

Similarly, the trier of fact is free to select from conflicting evidence and inferences which it considers most reasonable, 37 and to resolve conflicts in the testimony of different witnesses. 38 In other words, conflicting testimony goes to the weight of the evidence and not to its admissibility, 39 and, when faced with such evidence, the trier of fact is responsible for determining its weight and the credibility of the witnesses. 40 The fact that a party's testimony is contradicted by other witnesses does not render it vague, uncertain, and unconvincing so as to render a judgment for that party against the weight of the evidence. 41

The existence of a second plausible explanation for the defendants' actions, entirely consistent with innocence, does not necessarily diminish the sufficiency of the government's case. Presented with two narratives, one tending to establish the defendant's guilt and the other tending to establish innocence, the trier of fact is entitled to choose the account offered by the government. 42 A juridical basis for the determination of cause exists where there is evidence which points to any one theory of causation, indicating a logical sequence of cause and effect, notwithstanding the existence of other plausible theories with or without support in the evidence. 43 Choosing which version to believe is not merely a question of witness credibility but also a question of what version logically makes better sense. 44 A trier of fact is therefore not required to reject a testimony of an eye witness and accept the exculpatory version offered by an accused at trial, nor does conflicting testimony and corroboration of the defendant's testimony themselves require reversal where the prosecution presents sufficient evidence to convict. 45

§ 1443 ----Inconsistent or conflicting testimony [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

A .44-caliber handgun, two boxes of .44-caliber ammunition, and three shells and a spent cartridge in the gun, which were found in a dumpster four days after a murder, were relevant because they tended to link defendant to the crime where two different shooters were involved in the killing; the evidence was contradictory as to who was carrying what kind of weapon the night of the shooting; defendant's fingerprints were found on one of the boxes of ammunition; the bullets found in the dumpster were consistent with the type of bullets recovered from the victim's body; and defendant admitted that he owned a .44-caliber handgun and that he had bought the ammunition for himself and another person. From the fact that a .44-caliber handgun was found in the dumpster with a box of .44-caliber bullets linked to defendant through his fingerprints and his own testimony, the jury could infer that it was defendant who fired the .44-caliber handgun the night of the murder. State v Burke (1995) 342 NC 113, 463 SE2d 212.

Footnotes

Footnote 32. Primm v Market S. R. Co., 56 Cal App 2d 480, 132 P2d 842.

Footnote 33. Sharpe v Brotzman (1st Dist) 145 Cal App 2d 354, 302 P2d 668; State v Little (Mo App) 795 SW2d 95 (it is for the fact-finder to determine the weight to be given inconsistent testimony); State v Rodney (Mo App) 760 SW2d 500; Flores v State (Tex Crim) 372 SW2d 687; Western Union Tel. Co. v Coker, 146 Tex 190, 204 SW2d 977; Swanson v Commonwealth, 8 Va App 376, 382 SE2d 258.

The fact that there are minor discrepancies in the testimony of a party does not require that all the party's testimony be disregarded. Patton v Minneapolis S. R. Co., 247 Minn 368, 77 NW2d 433, 58 ALR2d 921.

Footnote 34. Swanson v Commonwealth, 8 Va App 376, 382 SE2d 258, stating that contradictory statements by a witness go not to competency but to the weight and sufficiency of the testimony.

Footnote 35. Commonwealth v Ruci, 409 Mass 94, 564 NE2d 1000, further stating that once sufficient evidence is presented to warrant submission of the charges to the jury, it is for the jury alone to determine what weight will be accorded to the evidence.

While the witness's testimony was to some extent confused and self-contradicting, the credibility of the testimony, with all its contradictions and confusion, was properly a question for the jury. Wilcox v Ford (CA11 Ga) 813 F2d 1140, cert den 484 US 925, 98 L Ed 2d 247, 108 S Ct 287.

Footnote 36. Hatley v Hatcher (Tex Civ App Dallas) 376 SW2d 943.

Forms: Instructions to jury—Determination of credibility of witnesses—Witness impeached by inconsistent out-of-court statements or by contradictory statements. 25 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Witnesses, Forms 184, 185.

Footnote 37. Suniland Furniture Co. v Pruitt (Tex Civ App Waco) 347 SW2d 835, writ ref n r e (Oct 3, 1961).

Footnote 38. Peck v Century Concrete Products, Inc. (Tex Civ App Fort Worth) 375 SW2d 459, writ ref n r e (May 6, 1964); Maddox v State (Tex Civ App Amarillo) 373 SW2d 322, writ ref n r e (Apr 8, 1964) and reh'g of writ of error overr (May 6, 1964).

When presented with conflicting evidence the trier of fact may believe one witness and disbelieve others, resolve inconsistencies in the testimony of any witness, and accept lay testimony or that of experts. McGalliard v Kuhlmann (Tex) 722 SW2d 694, reh'g of cause overr (Feb 11, 1987) and on remand (Tex App Beaumont) 735 SW2d 262.

Forms: Evaluation of conflicting testimony. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 198.

Footnote 39. Loughan v Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. (CA11 Fla) 749 F2d 1519, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 10311, 17 Fed Rules Evid Serv 141, 40 FR Serv 2d 1243 (criticized on other grounds by Cornwall v U.S. Constr. Mfg., Inc. (CA FC) 800 F2d 250, 231 USPQ 64) and (disapproved on other grounds by Crawford Fitting Co. v J. T. Gibbons, Inc., 482 US 437, 96 L Ed 2d 385, 107 S Ct 2494, 43 BNA FEP Cas 1775, 43 CCH EPD ¶ 37102, 1987-1 CCH Trade Cases ¶ 67596, 7 FR Serv 3d 1161); State v Turner (La App 1st Cir) 577 So 2d 200.

Footnote 40. Whiting v State, 248 Mont 207, 810 P2d 1177; Grievance of Brileya, 147 Vt 280, 515 A2d 129.

As to the effect of witnesses' credibility on weight and sufficiency of testimony, see § 1437.

Footnote 41. Wilson v Haughton (Ky) 266 SW2d 115, 41 ALR2d 950.

Footnote 42. United States v Goggin (CA11 Fla) 853 F2d 843 (the jury is free to disbelieve defendant and reject his explanation as complete fabrication); State v Adams, 225 Conn 270, 623 A2d 42 (also stating that in viewing evidence which could yield contrary inferences, the jury is not barred from drawing those inferences consistent with guilt and is not required to draw only those inferences consistent with innocence); Commonwealth v Long, 425 Pa Super 170, 624 A2d 200, app den (Pa) 633 A2d 150 (the factfinder was free to believe all, part, or none of the evidence).

Where there is conflicting testimony about factual matters, the resolution of which depends upon a determination of the credibility of the witnesses, the matter is one of the weight of the evidence, not its sufficiency. State v Bourg (La App 1st Cir) 615 So 2d 957.

Footnote 43. Sheptur v Procter & Gamble Distributing Co. (CA6 Mich) 261 F2d 221, 79 ALR2d 476, cert den 359 US 1003, 3 L Ed 2d 1031, 79 S Ct 1136.

As to proximate cause and damages, see 22 Am Jur 2d, Damages §§ 451 et seq.

As to proximate cause for comparative negligence, see 57A Am Jur 2d, Negligence §§ 1191 et seq.

As to proximate cause for contributory negligence, see 57A Am Jur 2d, Negligence §§ 991 et seq.

As to proximate cause for loss in determining recovery under a policy of insurance, see 43 Am Jur 2d, Insurance §§ 463, 464.

As to proximate cause and premises liability, see 62 Am Jur 2d, Premises Liability §§ 31, 32.

As to proximate cause and products liability, see 63 Am Jur 2d, Products Liability §§ 260 et seq.

As to proximate cause for negligence, in general, see 57A Am Jur 2d, Negligence §§ 424 et seq.

As to proximate cause in tort actions, see 74 Am Jur 2d, Torts §§ 26-29.

Footnote 44. Benton v Kroger Co. (SD Tex) 640 F Supp 1317, 46 BNA FEP Cas 1356.

Footnote 45. People v Reynolds (1st Dist) 178 Ill App 3d 756, 127 Ill Dec 850, 533

§ 1444 --Previous testimony

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

Generally, conflicts and discrepancies between earlier statements and in-court testimony go to a party's credibility 46 and to the weight, if any, the trier of fact should give the testimony. 47 However, where a party without reasonable explanation testifies to facts materially different concerning a vital issue, the change clearly being made to meet the exigencies of pending litigation, that evidence is discredited as a matter of law and should be disregarded. 48 It is a question of credibility for the trier of fact where a party's testimony was not changed to meet the exigencies of the case, the change is satisfactorily explained, and the changed version at trial is corroborated by other evidence in the record providing an adequate basis for the jury's findings. 49

Where a person, other than a party, 50 who was a witness at both trials testifies at the later trial to a state of facts in conflict with the former testimony, proof of the prior testimony does not constitute evidence of what the true facts are, but operates only by way of impeachment. 51

Footnotes

Footnote 46. As to the effect of the witness' credibility, generally, on the weight and sufficiency of the evidence, see § 1437.

Footnote 47. State v Harrington, 95 NC App 187, 381 SE2d 808.

As to prior testimony, in general, see §§ 890 et seq.

Law Reviews: Schlueter. Prior Inconsistent Statements: Were You Lying Then or are you Lying Now? 34 Texas BJ 26 (January 1991).

Footnote 48. Insurance Co. of North America v Omaha Paper Stock, Inc., 189 Neb 232, 202 NW2d 188, 58 ALR3d 231.

Footnote 49. Converse v Morse, 232 Neb 925, 442 NW2d 872.

Footnote 50. Kyne v Kyne, 38 Cal App 2d 122, 100 P2d 806, in a minor's action by a guardian ad litem to obtain support where the court had under consideration the testimony that one of the witnesses had given at the two former trials, the court stated that by the settled law, such prior testimony was admissible only for impeachment purposes.

Footnote 51. Brooks v United States (CA10 Okla) 309 F2d 580; Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v McCullough, 236 Ky 647, 33 SW2d 655; Foble v Knefely, 176 Md 474, 6 A2d 48, 122

The issue is the truth of the testimony in the case being tried rather than the truth of any former testimony; where a witness is confronted by contradictory former testimony, it is nevertheless the final statement which constitutes the witness's testimony.

Commonwealth v Bartell, 184 Pa Super 528, 136 A2d 166.

The former testimony, where the witnesses giving it remain available, may be used only to discredit their inconsistent testimony at the later trial and the testimony of a witness which is contradicted by his own previous statements under oath is entitled to no weight. Washakie Livestock Loan Co. v Meigh, 50 Wyo 480, 62 P2d 523, 107 ALR 1063.

§ 1445 Uncontroverted testimony

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The trier of fact is not compelled to accept even uncontroverted testimony when it doubts the credibility of a witness, 52 and may consider reasonable inferences from circumstances tending to weaken the evidence. 53 Thus, the trier of fact will generally disregard as being without evidentiary value uncontroverted testimony of a witness that—

—is incredible. 54

—is inherently impossible and unbelievable. 55

—is so opposed to all reasonable probabilities as to be manifestly false. 56

—does not amount to substantial evidence of facts testified to or accepted as a basis of liability. 57

—runs counter to human experience. 58

The testimony of a witness, even though uncontradicted, is for the trier of fact so long as the matter testified to remains in dispute and does not relate to some fact of which the court will take judicial notice. 59 However, inherently probable, reasonable, credible and trustworthy testimony uncontradicted by the evidence must be accepted as true 60 in that it cannot be arbitrarily disregarded 61 or disregarded as against a mere suspicion of untruth or falsity, 62 and is to be regarded as conclusive. 63 Even so, it does not necessarily follow that a verdict or finding must be made in favor of the party introducing uncontradicted and unimpeached testimony, 64 especially if such testimony discloses a variety of circumstances from which different minds may reasonably disagree as to the ultimate facts, or if the uncontradicted evidence is that of interested witnesses. 65

There are many factors which the trier of fact may properly consider in determining the weight to give the direct testimony of a witness even though no adverse verbal testimony is adduced, 66 including whether the testimony is—

—evasive, equivocal, confused, or otherwise uncertain. 67

—incredible. 68

—contrary to physical facts and common knowledge. 69

—is inconsistent with other circumstances established in evidence, or contradictory within itself. 70

Footnotes

Footnote 52. Smith v Commissioner (CA9) 800 F2d 930, 86-2 USTC ¶ 9706, 58 AFTR 2d 86-5856; Wilkins v State (Mo) 802 SW2d 491, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 98, 112 S Ct 131, later proceeding (Ky) 854 SW2d 742, cert den (US) 126 L Ed 2d 669, 114 S Ct 703; Gray v Floyd (Tex App Houston (1st Dist)) 783 SW2d 214.

Annotation: Comment Note: Credibility of witness giving uncontradicted testimony as matter for court or jury, 62 ALR2d 1191.

As to the effect of the witness' credibility on the weight given to and the sufficiency of the evidence, generally, see § 1437.

Forms: Right of jury to disregard inherently improbable testimony. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev) § 203.

Footnote 53. Burns v Radoicich, 77 Cal App 2d 697, 176 P2d 77; Odenbaugh v County of Weld (Colo App) 809 P2d 1059, cert den (Colo) 1991 Colo LEXIS 319; Corsino v Grover, 148 Conn 299, 170 A2d 267, 95 ALR2d 751.

The jury is not required to believe uncontroverted testimony where other circumstances in evidence discredit it. Stuttgen v Gipe (Minn App) 404 NW2d 10.

Footnote 54. Mayer v Zim Israel Navigation Co. (CA2 NY) 289 F2d 562, cert den 368 US 889, 7 L Ed 2d 88, 82 S Ct 140; Hollis v Scott (Ala) 516 So 2d 576, later proceeding (Ala) 516 So 2d 1386, later proceeding (Ala) 554 So 2d 387, reh den (Ala) 1989 Ala LEXIS 813; King v Brindley, 255 Ala 425, 51 So 2d 870; Chapman v Redwine, 149 Colo 515, 370 P2d 147; Kelly v Terminal R. Asso. (Mo) 315 SW2d 699; Blind v Saks Fifth Ave., Inc. (Mo App) 349 SW2d 425.

As to incredible testimony, in general, see § 1447.

Footnote 55. Hollis v Scott (Ala) 516 So 2d 576, later proceeding (Ala) 516 So 2d 1386, later proceeding (Ala) 554 So 2d 387, reh den (Ala) 1989 Ala LEXIS 813.

Footnote 56. Hollis v Scott (Ala) 516 So 2d 576, later proceeding (Ala) 516 So 2d 1386, later proceeding (Ala) 554 So 2d 387, reh den (Ala) 1989 Ala LEXIS 813; Ashraf v Ashraf (App) 134 Wis 2d 336, 397 NW2d 128.

Footnote 57. Hollis v Scott (Ala) 516 So 2d 576, later proceeding (Ala) 516 So 2d 1386, later proceeding (Ala) 554 So 2d 387, reh den (Ala) 1989 Ala LEXIS 813.

Footnote 58. United States v Batista-Polanco (CA1 RI) 927 F2d 14, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 661 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Dunnigan (CA4 W Va) 944 F2d 178), stating that the factfinder may fairly infer that it runs counter to human experience to suppose that criminal conspirators would welcome innocent non-participants as witnesses to their crime.

Footnote 59. Ligon v Redding, 300 Ky 326, 188 SW2d 483; Morris v E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., 346 Mo 126, 139 SW2d 984, 129 ALR 352; Bender v Roundup Mining Co., 138 Mont 306, 356 P2d 469; Ironside v Ironside, 188 Okla 267, 108 P2d 157, 134 ALR 621.

Justice does not require a court or jury to accept as true any statement of a witness merely because it is not directly or specifically contradicted by other testimony. Ackerman v Ackerman, 35 Misc 2d 890, 231 NYS2d 493; Sprague v Board of Review (App, Montgomery Co) 70 Ohio L Abs 387, 128 NE2d 520.

The jurors may disbelieve a witness even though he is neither impeached nor contradicted. Martin v Johnson (Tex Civ App Eastland) 365 SW2d 429.

As to judicial notice, see §§ 24 et seq.

Footnote 60. James v Mabus (Miss) 574 So 2d 596.

Even though uncontradicted and unimpeached evidence generally must be taken as true O'Sullivan v Simpson, 123 Mont 314, 212 P2d 435.

The court must except as true the positive, uncontradicted testimony of the credible witness, unless his or her testimony is inherently improbable, or is rendered so by facts and circumstances disclosed at the trial. Smith v Idaho State University Federal Credit Union, 114 Idaho 680, 760 P2d 19.

The court cannot disregard uncontradicted testimony as to the existence that some fact or the happening of some event in the absence of something in the case which discredits the testimony or renders it against reasonable probabilities. Ashraf v Ashraf (App) 134 Wis 2d 336, 397 NW2d 128.

Footnote 61. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v Martin, 283 US 209, 75 L Ed 983, 51 S Ct 453; Spaulding v Jones, 117 Cal App 2d 541, 256 P2d 637; La Jolla Casa De Manana v Hopkins, 98 Cal App 2d 339, 219 P2d 871; Burns v Radoicich, 77 Cal App 2d 697, 176 P2d 77; Berry v Wondra, 173 Kan 273, 246 P2d 282, 1 OGR 1099; Commonwealth Life Ins. Co. v Pendleton, 231 Ky 591, 21 SW2d 985, 66 ALR 1526; Caballero v Litchfield Wood-Working Co., 246 Minn 124, 74 NW2d 404; Bender v Roundup Mining Co., 138 Mont 306, 356 P2d 469; Burns v Fisher, 132 Mont 26, 313 P2d 1044, 67 ALR2d 1; Jensen v Casale (3d Dept) 22 App Div 2d 994, 254 NYS2d 880; Lemons v Holland, 205 Or 195, 286 P2d 656; Gilliam v State, 113 Tex Crim 108, 18 SW2d 637; Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. v Honnoll (Tex Civ App) 128 SW2d 96; Esso Standard Oil Co. v Stewart, 190 Va 949, 59 SE2d 67, 18 ALR2d 1319; Beck v Givens, 77 Wyo 176, 309 P2d 715, reh den 77 Wyo 191, 313 P2d 977.

When uncontradicted testimony consists of facts, as distinguished from opinions, and is not illegal, improbable, unreasonable, or contradictory within itself, it should not be wholly disregarded, but should be accepted as proof of the issue. Bergh v Bergh (Fla App D1) 160 So 2d 145.

The jury cannot arbitrarily reject, but must accept as true, the uncontradicted testimony of disinterested witnesses. Neill v Baltazar (Tex Civ App Austin) 345 SW2d 454, writ ref n r e (Jun 21, 1961) and reh'g of writ of error overr (Oct 3, 1961).

Although it is the province of the jury to decide issues raised by conflicting evidence, where there is evidence on an issue and there is no evidence to the contrary, the jury may not disregard the undisputed evidence and decide the issue as it wishes. Teal v Powell Lumber Co. (Tex Civ App) 262 SW2d 223.

Forms: Jury may not arbitrarily disregard testimony. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 202.

Footnote 62. Bullock v Gay, 296 Ky 489, 177 SW2d 883; O'Sullivan v Simpson, 123 Mont 314, 212 P2d 435; Bartsch v Ruby (Tex Civ App) 229 SW2d 105, mand overr.

Footnote 63. D.M. Ward Constr. Co. v Electric Corp. of Kansas City, 15 Kan App 2d 114, 803 P2d 593.

Footnote 64. Ligon v Redding, 300 Ky 326, 188 SW2d 483; O'Sullivan v Simpson, 123 Mont 314, 212 P2d 435.

Footnote 65. Ligon v Redding, 300 Ky 326, 188 SW2d 483; Morris v E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., 346 Mo 126, 139 SW2d 984, 129 ALR 352; Bender v Roundup Mining Co., 138 Mont 306, 356 P2d 469; Teresi v Filley, 146 Neb 797, 21 NW2d 699; Burt v Lake Region Flying Service, 78 ND 928, 54 NW2d 339; Ironside v Ironside, 188 Okla 267, 108 P2d 157, 134 ALR 621; Riblet v Spokane-Portland Cement Co., 45 Wash 2d 346, 274 P2d 574.

Footnote 66. Quock Ting v United States, 140 US 417, 35 L Ed 501, 11 S Ct 733.

Footnote 67. Commonwealth Life Ins. Co. v Pendleton, 231 Ky 591, 21 SW2d 985, 66 ALR 1526; In re Estate of Sandstrom, 252 Minn 46, 89 NW2d 19; Knuth v Murphy, 237 Minn 225, 54 NW2d 771.

As to uncertain testimony, in general, see § 1442.

Footnote 68. § 1447.

Footnote 69. § 1448.

Footnote 70. Quock Ting v United States, 140 US 417, 35 L Ed 501, 11 S Ct 733; Knuth v Murphy, 237 Minn 225, 54 NW2d 771.

As to the uncontradicted testimony of a party, favorable to the adverse party, see § 1449.

Forms: Right of jury to disregard entire testimony of witness willfully false in part of testimony. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 204.

§ 1446 --Of party, victim, or interested witness

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The general rules regarding the weight and sufficiency of uncontroverted testimony ⁷¹ appear to apply to the uncontroverted testimony of a party, victim, or interested witness. The trier of fact, for example, need not accept the version of the facts advanced by the defendant, but may weigh the evidence and draw its own conclusions and inferences as to defendant's conduct and intent. ⁷² Similarly, where the only evidence presented is presented by plaintiffs themselves, this should go to the weight of the evidence. ⁷³

In evaluating evidence, the trier should accept as true the uncontradicted testimony of the witness even though the witness is a party, ⁷⁴ where the physical facts or facts of common knowledge are not unreasonable ⁷⁵ or where the record indicates no sound reason for rejection. ⁷⁶ However, the trier may ignore testimony of a party that is contradictory, impeached, inconsistent or improbable. ⁷⁷

The testimony of an interested witness can also have probative force when the testimony pertains to matters reasonably capable of exact statement, the testimony is clear, direct and positive, the testimony is internally devoid of inconsistencies and contradictions, and is uncontradicted either by testimony of other witnesses or by circumstances. ⁷⁸

Footnotes

Footnote 71. § 1445.

Footnote 72. State v Frame (Utah) 723 P2d 401, 39 Utah Adv Rep 12.

Forms: Instruction—Consideration of testimony of defendant. 8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Form 364.

Determination of weight to which testimony of party is entitled. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 194.

Footnote 73. Perry v Manocherian (SD NY) 675 F Supp 1417, 45 BNA FEP Cas 997, 45 CCH EPD ¶ 37569.

The testimony of an interested party is competent evidence; interest merely goes to its credibility. Imperial Litho/Graphics v M.J. Enterprises (App) 152 Ariz 68, 730 P2d 245.

Footnote 74. McCray v Abraham (La App 4th Cir) 550 So 2d 244.

Footnote 75. Evans v State (Miss) 562 So 2d 91.

In Missouri, the Weathersby Rule (Weathersby v State, 165 Miss 207, 147 So 481) states that where the only eye witness to the slaying is the accused, if the defendant's version of the killing is reasonable, it must, as a matter of law, be accepted as true, unless substantially contradicted in material particulars by a credible witness, or by the physical facts or by facts of common knowledge; a defendant who met the Weathersby Rule would be entitled to a directed verdict of acquittal. Fujita v Jeffries (Mo App) 714 SW2d 202.

Footnote 76. McCray v Abraham (La App 4th Cir) 550 So 2d 244.

Footnote 77. Cox v B.F. Goodrich Co. (Okla App) 788 P2d 967, supp op, reh den (Okla App) 1989 Okla Civ App LEXIS 81.

But see, Perry v Manocherian (SD NY) 675 F Supp 1417, 45 BNA FEP Cas 997, 45 CCH EPD ¶ 37569, stating that in a case where, for the most part, the only evidence presented is presented by plaintiffs themselves, this should go to the weight of the evidence rather than to its ability to establish a prima facie case.

Footnote 78. Estate of Meniffee v Barrett (Tex App Texarkana) 795 SW2d 810.

Testimony by an interested witness may establish a fact as a matter of law only if the testimony could be readily contradicted if untrue, and its clear, direct, and positive, and there are no circumstances tending to discredit or impeach it. Lofton v Texas Brine Corp. (Tex) 777 SW2d 384, reh'g of cause overr (Nov 1, 1989).

Forms: Instruction to jury—Interested witness. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 124.

Right of jury to consider interest of witness in assessing credibility. 23A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Trial § 193.

§ 1447 Implausible, improbable, and incredible evidence, generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In general, incredible testimony and testimony that is so clearly and manifestly improbable should be disregarded. 79 To be incredible, evidence must be either so manifestly false that reasonable men ought not to believe it, or it must be shown to be false by objects or things as to the existence and meaning of which reasonable men should not differ. 80 However, the testimony of witnesses is not incredible merely because the witnesses participated in the alleged crimes. 81 And, the mere fact that testimony given by a witness in support of an issue is not plausible does not destroy all probative value of the testimony. 82

Footnotes

Footnote 79. Rucker v Hopkins (Miss) 499 So 2d 766.

Footnote 80. Burke v Scott, 192 Va 16, 63 SE2d 740.

Petitioner's denial of knowledge of business partner's involvement in a continuing criminal enterprise was incredible where petitioner dealt with defendant exclusively in large amounts of cash delivered in brown paper bags, incurred expenses with business and tax consequences, and yet maintained no records of any kind. United States v Rockwell (WD Pa) 677 F Supp 836, affd without op (CA3 Pa) 856 F2d 185.

Footnote 81. United States v Vaccaro (CA9 Nev) 816 F2d 443, 22 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1570, cert den 484 US 914, 98 L Ed 2d 220, 108 S Ct 262, disapproved on other grounds by Huddleston v United States, 485 US 681, 99 L Ed 2d 771, 108 S Ct 1496, 25 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1 and disapproved on other grounds by Powers v Ohio, 499 US 400, 113 L Ed 2d 411, 111 S Ct 1364, 91 CDOS 2259, 91 Daily Journal DAR 3732 as stated in Holland v McGinnis (CA7 Ill) 963 F2d 1044, cert den (US) 122 L Ed 2d 360, 113 S Ct 1053.

The fact that a government witness admitted that during his involvement with selling cocaine he was seriously addicted to cocaine and quaaludes did not make his testimony as to one of the defendant's involvement with cocaine inherently incredible. United States v Pritchett (CA11 Ala) 908 F2d 816, 90-2 USTC ¶ 50444, 66 AFTR 2d 90-5609.

Footnote 82. Hollis v Scott (Ala) 516 So 2d 576, later proceeding (Ala) 516 So 2d 1386, later proceeding (Ala) 554 So 2d 387, reh den (Ala) 1989 Ala LEXIS 813; Chapman v Redwine, 149 Colo 515, 370 P2d 147; Rayner v Lindsey, 243 Miss 824, 138 So 2d 902; Blind v Saks Fifth Ave., Inc. (Mo App) 349 SW2d 425.

§ 1448 --Physical facts rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The "physical facts rule" allows a trier of fact to disregard all testimony which is inherently improbable in light of established facts and conditions, 83 opposed to the laws of nature, or clearly in conflict with principles established by the laws of science. 84 Physical facts cannot be overcome by oral testimony, 85 and when physical situations or matters of common knowledge point so certainly to the truth as to leave no room for a contrary determination, based on reason and common sense, those physical situations and reasonable probabilities are not affected by conflicting testimony. 86 The untruthfulness of testimony requiring a trial court to take a case from the jury under the physical facts rule must be (1) inherent in the rejected testimony, so that it contradicts itself, or (2) irreconcilable with facts which, under recognized rules, the court takes judicial notice, or (3) obviously inconsistent with or contradicted by undisputed physical facts. 87

Ordinarily, however, the probative value of the testimony of witnesses is not destroyed by physical facts unless the facts are such as to permit only one interpretation. 88 And, where a court cannot say as a matter of law that the testimony of a witness is contrary to scientific principles or the law of nature, the question whether the testimony does so conflict should be regarded as one of fact for the trier of fact to determine. 89 So frequently do unlooked-for results attend the meeting of interacting forces that courts should not indulge in arbitrary deductions from physical law and fact except where they appear to be so clear and irrefutable that no room is left for the entertainment, by reasonable minds, of any other. 90 If the facts testified to reasonably conform to human knowledge, observation, and experience, testimony is not to be ignored merely because it portrays facts which are unusual, strange, or even startling. 91

Footnotes

Footnote 83. Trujillo ex rel. Osofsky v Galio (NM App) 745 P2d 711.

Footnote 84. Hollis v Scott (Ala) 516 So 2d 576, later proceeding (Ala) 516 So 2d 1386, later proceeding (Ala) 554 So 2d 387, reh den (Ala) 1989 Ala LEXIS 813; Peretore v Pennsylvania R. Co., 284 App Div 472, 131 NYS2d 696; McDonald v Ford Motor Co., 42 Ohio St 2d 8, 71 Ohio Ops 2d 4, 326 NE2d 252.

Footnote 85. Hart v Kline, 61 Nev 96, 116 P2d 672.

Footnote 86. Garcia v Jarvis Corp. (Fla App D3) 368 So 2d 945.

Where undisputed physical facts are entirely inconsistent with and opposed to testimony necessary to make a case for the plaintiff, the physical facts must control. Born v Osendorf (CA8 ND) 329 F2d 669.

Footnote 87. McDonald v Ford Motor Co., 42 Ohio St 2d 8, 71 Ohio Ops 2d 4, 326 NE2d 252.

Footnote 88. Hayward v Richardson Constr. Co., 136 Mont 241, 347 P2d 475, 77 ALR2d 1144.

Footnote 89. Connor v Jones, 115 Ind App 660, 59 NE2d 577, reh den 115 Ind App 682, 60 NE2d 534; Swift & Co. v Howard, 186 Tenn 584, 212 SW2d 388.

Footnote 90. Pepsi-Cola Distributors, Inc. v Barker (CA4 SC) 274 F2d 372; E. N. Bisso & Son v Miller (CA5 La) 233 F2d 855; Baltimore & O. R. Co. v Postom, 85 US App DC 207, 177 F2d 53; Alden v Watson, 106 Colo 103, 102 P2d 479; Denver Tramway Corp. v Perisho, 105 Colo 280, 97 P2d 422; Lowry v Mohn (Mo) 195 SW2d 652; Van Houten v Kansas City Public Service Co., 233 Mo App 423, 122 SW2d 868; Scurry v International Paper Co., 227 SC 392, 88 SE2d 256; Dixon Stave & Heading Co. v Archer, 40 Tenn App 327, 291 SW2d 603; Milwaukee Auto. Mut. Ins. Co. v Farmers Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 2 Wis 2d 205, 85 NW2d 799.

Footnote 91. Peterson v Peterson, 74 Cal App 2d 312, 168 P2d 474.

§ 1449 Testimony of party favorable to adverse party

View Entire Section

In general, a party is bound by its own testimony which is favorable to the adverse party, 92 unless the testimony is later withdrawn, explained, or modified. 93 In particular, if a party makes a material statement of fact negating the party's right of action or defense, and no testimony more favorable appears to contradict or modify it, the party is bound by the statement, regardless of its credibility. 94

If a party testifies deliberately to a concrete fact, not as a matter of opinion, estimate, appearance, inference, or uncertain memory, but as a considered circumstance of the case, the opposing party is entitled to hold him to it as an informal judicial admission, 95 at least insofar as the fact is peculiarly within his own knowledge. 96 However, where the testimony of a party is in the nature of an estimate or opinion as to which he may honestly be mistaken, he does not unequivocally concede that the fact is in accord with the opinion expressed, and the court may consider the other evidence in the case and determine the facts from all the evidence. 97 Moreover, where a party, when testifying in his own behalf, makes an inadvertent and mistaken statement against his interest because of the questions asked, the trier of fact should disregard the statement. 98

Some courts have expressed a very liberal rule to the effect that the testimony of a party to a fact, unless it amounts to such a stipulation or waiver as to have the force of a judicial admission, is ordinarily no more conclusive than the evidence given by any other witness, and in some circumstances the party may claim the benefit of other competent testimony which overcomes the adverse effect. 99

The question has arisen in some cases as to the effect of a party's own conflicting testimony where it is, in part, favorable to his adversary. In other words, the question is whether a party's unfavorable testimony can be counteracted by his favorable testimony. In this respect, the rule followed by most courts is that a party may rely on more favorable evidence in his own testimony to overcome the effect of the injurious statement in his own testimony, no distinction being made in this respect from situations where such curative evidence is from other witnesses. According to this rule, it is for the trier of fact to decide the issue upon all the evidence. 1 But, where the inconsistency is drawn to the attention of the party, and he expressly adopts the self-injurious statement as the truth he is bound by the latter, in the absence of other evidence, as though it had been his only statement. 2 Conversely, if the party adopts the more favorable statement as the truth it becomes his testimony and he is then bound only by the statement adhered to. 3 However, the rule has sometimes been followed that where a party gives contradictory or inconsistent testimony, the case is to be disposed of according to the least favorable version, unless other evidence is introduced which supports the more favorable version. 4

In some cases, the courts have refused to follow the broad rule committing the entire issue of fact, on all the evidence, to the jury as one of the necessary incidents of a jury trial. They have, instead, followed the stricter rule that a party is bound by a definite statement of fact within his knowledge, whether objective or subjective, and as against not only his own conflicting testimony, but that of his own witnesses, that of the other party's witnesses, and that of the other party himself. 5 In other words, where a litigant testifies unequivocally to facts within his knowledge and upon which his case turns, he is bound by that testimony and cannot rely upon other evidence in conflict with his own testimony to strengthen his case. 6 But this stricter rule does not apply to statements of opinion or to mere estimates. 7 And even under this stricter rule, the party may give a

Footnotes

Footnote 92. Gramar Invest. Co. v Cumberworth, 120 Ind App 379, 92 NE2d 736; Brooks v Stewart (Mo) 335 SW2d 104, 81 ALR2d 508; Standard Acci. Ins. Co. v Cloutier, 92 NH 449, 32 A2d 684, 147 ALR 626.

Each party in the trial court is entitled to the same benefit from evidence that favors his cause or defense when produced by his adversary as when produced by himself. Williams v Barnett (4th Dist) 135 Cal App 2d 607, 287 P2d 789.

The plaintiff in an action for a skin infection allegedly caused by a hair dye, who admits that she read and understood the instructions and did not comply with them, is bound by that testimony. Taylor v Jacobson, 336 Mass 709, 147 NE2d 770, 76 ALR2d 1.

Footnote 93. Gramar Invest. Co. v Cumberworth, 120 Ind App 379, 92 NE2d 736.

A litigant who admits positive and definite facts which if true will defeat his right to recover, and who does not thereafter modify or explain the statements or admissions so as to show that he was mistaken, although testifying in good faith, is conclusively bound thereby and is in no position to complain of directed verdict. Bell v Kuykendall Invest. Co. (Tex Civ App Waco) 379 SW2d 381.

Footnote 94. Tedder v Home Ins. Co., 212 Ala 624, 103 So 674; Pepple v Headrick, 64 Idaho 132, 128 P2d 757; Bell v Johnson, 142 Kan 360, 46 P2d 886; Perry v Hanover, 314 Mass 167, 50 NE2d 41; Noble v Greenbaum, 311 Mass 722, 42 NE2d 823; Skirvin v McKamey (Mo App) 237 SW 858; Roddy Mfg. Co. v Dixon, 21 Tenn App 81, 105 SW2d 513; Westbrook v Landa (Tex Civ App) 160 SW2d 232.

Footnote 95. Huber v Black & White Cab Co. (4th Dist) 18 Ill App 2d 186, 151 NE2d 641; Bell v Harmon (Ky) 284 SW2d 812; Southwestern Truck Sales & Rental Co. v Johnson, 165 Neb 407, 85 NW2d 705; Harlow v Leclair, 82 NH 506, 136 A 128, 50 ALR 973; Security Nat. Bank v Johnson, 195 Okla 107, 155 P2d 249, 169 ALR 790; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Carr (Tex Civ App) 242 SW2d 224, writ ref, error ref; Kimmell v Tipton (Tex Civ App) 142 SW2d 421; Hargrow v Watson, 200 Va 30, 104 SE2d 37.

Footnote 96. Huber v Black & White Cab Co. (4th Dist) 18 Ill App 2d 186, 151 NE2d 641; People ex rel. Mullin v Williams (1st Dist) 13 Ill App 2d 164, 141 NE2d 645; Southwestern Truck Sales & Rental Co. v Johnson, 165 Neb 407, 85 NW2d 705; Garza v Garza (Tex Civ App) 191 SW2d 767.

Footnote 97. Anderson-Prichard Oil Corp. v Parker (CA10 NM) 245 F2d 831, 7 OGR 1419; Bell v Harmon (Ky) 284 SW2d 812; Reynolds v Sullivan, 330 Mass 549, 116 NE2d 128; Harlow v Leclair, 82 NH 506, 136 A 128, 50 ALR 973; Jerominski v Fowler, Dick & Walker, 372 Pa 291, 93 A2d 433; Western Union Tel. Co. v Coker, 146 Tex 190, 204 SW2d 977; McMath Co. v Staten (Tex Civ App) 42 SW2d 649, writ dism w o j, appeal after remand (Tex Civ App) 60 SW2d 290.

Footnote 98. Angelina Casualty Co. v Bluit (CA5 Tex) 235 F2d 764; Bowlin v Black & White Cab Co. (Lucas Co) 7 Ohio App 2d 133, 36 Ohio Ops 2d 288, 219 NE2d 221; Security Nat. Bank v Johnson, 195 Okla 107, 155 P2d 249, 169 ALR 790; Williams v Williams (Tex Civ App Eastland) 336 SW2d 757, writ dismissed (Oct 5, 1960) and reh'g of writ of error overruled (Nov 23, 1960), error dismissed.

Footnote 99. Kanopka v Kanopka, 113 Conn 30, 154 A 144, 80 ALR 619; Southwestern Truck Sales & Rental Co. v Johnson, 165 Neb 407, 85 NW2d 705; Bowlin v Black & White Cab Co. (Lucas Co) 7 Ohio App 2d 133, 36 Ohio Ops 2d 288, 219 NE2d 221.

Mere testimony of a party on cross-examination, unfavorable to his own cause and in contradiction of other evidence in his favor, is not ordinarily conclusive, and, unless it be of such a nature or under such circumstances as to permit the court to classify it as a judicial admission, it merely creates a conflict in the evidence to be resolved as a question of fact. Snittjer Grain Co. v Koch, 246 Iowa 1118, 71 NW2d 29.

Footnote 1. Mathis v Tutweiler (CA6 Tenn) 295 F 661; Connelly v Connecticut Co., 107 Conn 236, 140 A 121; Larson v Boston E. R. Co., 212 Mass 262, 98 NE 1048.

Conclusive effect cannot be given to a testimonial statement of a party which merely contradicts some other portion of his testimony; rather, a fact issue is presented to be determined by the jury as with an ordinary witness. Le Compte v Sanders (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)) 378 SW2d 861, writ refused (Dec 2, 1964) and reh'g of writ of error overruled (Jan 6, 1965).

For a testimonial declaration to be binding on a party it must be deliberate, clear, and unequivocal, and where it merely contradicts some other portion of the party's testimony, conclusive and binding effect cannot be given thereto, and an issue of fact is presented for the trier of facts. Rosales v Rosales (Tex Civ App Corpus Christi) 377 SW2d 661.

As to conflicting testimony, in general, see § 1443.

Footnote 2. Martin v Boston E. R. Co., 262 Mass 542, 160 NE 300.

Footnote 3. Osborne v Boston Consol. Gas Co., 296 Mass 441, 6 NE2d 347.

Footnote 4. Liberty Nat. Life Ins. Co. v Mitchell, 73 Ga App 673, 37 SE2d 723.

Footnote 5. Jacobs v Cedar Rapids, 181 Iowa 407, 164 NW 891; Mollman v St. Louis Public Service Co. (Mo App) 192 SW2d 618; Miller v Stevens, 63 SD 10, 256 NW 152; Crew v Nelson, 188 Va 108, 49 SE2d 326.

The rule applies to cases where a plaintiff testifies to facts within his knowledge and on which his case turns, and does not apply to written statements made out of court. Worrell v Worrell, 174 Va 11, 4 SE2d 343.

Footnote 6. Crew v Nelson, 188 Va 108, 49 SE2d 326; South Hill Motor Co. v Gordon, 172 Va 193, 200 SE 637.

Footnote 7. Mollman v St. Louis Public Service Co. (Mo App) 192 SW2d 618; Rowe v United R. Co., 211 Mo App 526, 247 SW 443; Stephenson v Barrow (Tex Com App) 15 SW2d 575.

Footnote 8. State ex rel. Weddle v Trimble, 331 Mo 1, 52 SW2d 864; Mollman v St. Louis Public Service Co. (Mo App) 192 SW2d 618.

3. Real or Demonstrative Evidence [1450-1452]

§ 1450 Experiments and tests

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

It is the responsibility of the trier of fact to determine the weight to be attached to experiments. That weight varies according to the circumstances of similarity or dissimilarity that exist between the experiments made and the occurrence under investigation. 9 The similarities between experimental and actual conditions affect the weight of the evidence, not its admissibility. 10 For example, in a prosecution for criminally negligent homicide and driving while intoxicated, any improper assumptions used by an accident reconstruction expert in establishing an impact point for the accident and the rate of speed of the motorcycle the accused was driving affected the weight of the expert's testimony and not its admissibility. 11 It has likewise been held that proof of the alcoholic content of a sample of blood taken from one whose intoxication at the time of taking the sample is in question, 12 and medical testimony that a person whose blood has such an alcoholic content is intoxicated, 13 are not entitled to the controlling effect given to undisputed physical facts. The efficacy and probative value of a blood test of one charged with intoxication depends on its being made as soon as possible after the time of the offense. 14

Footnotes

Footnote 9. People v Pfanschmidt, 262 Ill 411, 104 NE 804.

Practice Refereces 3 Am Jur Trials 427, Preparing and Using Experimental Evidence.

Footnote 10. Szeliga v General Motors Corp. (CA1 Mass) 728 F2d 566, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9975, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 541.

Footnote 11. People v Boice (3d Dept) 89 App Div 2d 33, 455 NYS2d 859.

Footnote 12. § 1021.

Footnote 13. 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence § 272.

Footnote 14. In re Newbern (2nd Dist) 175 Cal App 2d 862, 1 Cal Rptr 80, 78 ALR2d 901.

§ 1451 Photographs

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Photographs, when introduced in evidence, 15 do not conclusively establish the existence of the objects which they represent or the condition or location of the objects. 16 With regard to their credibility as evidence, their probative value depends upon the accuracy with which they portray the persons and objects represented, 17 which in turn is largely dependent upon the skill of the person taking the pictures, and the manner in which, and the circumstances under which, they are taken. 18 Changes in conditions between the time of the event in questions and the photograph may effect the weight given to the photograph. The fact that a photograph was taken several months after a fire, for example, should not detract from its weight, providing that the premises were in the same condition as they were at the time of the fire, or if not in the same condition, that the changes were duly explained. 19 But, where the conditions of light were not the same when photographs of the scene of an accident were taken as when the accident occurred, the photographs are not conclusive as to the extent of the view of the person injured. 20 The weight of photographs as truthful and accurate representations is ultimately a question for the trier of fact, to be determined by the same tests as those by which all other evidence is weighed. 21

§ 1451 ----Photographs [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In personal injury action resulting from plaintiff motorcyclist's having apparently hit earth mound just beyond end of private road, trial court should not have admitted photographs showing reflectors and warning signs at dead end, where neither defendant landowner's control of road nor feasibility of precautionary measures was at issue. However, error was harmless since defendant had also testified about his having posted reflectors and signs along road since the accident. Wilson v Kaufmann (1992, Mo App) 847 SW2d 840.

Footnotes

Footnote 15. § 1070.

Footnote 16. Gulf, M. & O. R. Co. v Williamson (CA8 Mo) 191 F2d 887.

Photographs taken after the occurrence of an event which show an object to be in a particular position do not establish, as a matter of law, that the object was in that position at the time of the occurrence. Andersen v Bee Line, Inc., 1 NY2d 169, 151 NYS2d 633, 134 NE2d 457.

Footnote 17. Colonial Refining Co. v Lathrop, 64 Okla 47, 166 P 747.

Footnote 18. Louisville & N. R. Co. v Hall, 91 Ala 112, 8 So 371; Baustian v Young, 152 Mo 317, 53 SW 921.

As to expert testimony to interpret, explain or draw conclusions from photographs, see 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence § 357.

Footnote 19. Higgs v Minneapolis, S. P. & S. S. M. R. Co., 16 ND 446, 114 NW 722.

Footnote 20. Baxter v Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 264 Pa 467, 107 A 881, 9 ALR 504.

Practice References 3 Am Jur Trials 1, Preparing and Using Photographs in Civil Cases §§ 1 et seq.

Footnote 21. Higgs v Minneapolis, S. P. & S. S. M. R. Co., 16 ND 446, 114 NW 722; Baxter v Philadelphia & R. R. Co., 264 Pa 467, 107 A 881, 9 ALR 504; Hughes v State, 126 Tenn 40, 148 SW 543; Venable v Stockner, 200 Va 900, 108 SE2d 380.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Weight and consideration to be given to exhibits. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 109.

§ 1452 Motion pictures

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The weight and credibility to be given motion pictures, insofar as they are admissible, 22 is within the province of the trier of fact. 23 Motion pictures are ordinarily not deemed to be conclusive on a given point portrayed. 24 Films, for example, that depict an experiment illustrating the expert's theory of the cause of the action, are an aid to the jury's understanding of the expert's testimony. 25

Footnotes

Footnote 22. As to the admissibility of motion pictures, generally, see § 1071.

Footnote 23. Harmon v San Joaquin Light & Power Corp., 37 Cal App 2d 169, 98 P2d 1064.

Footnote 24. De Battiste v Anthony Laudadio & Son, 167 Pa Super 38, 74 A2d 784.

Motion pictures showing a workmen's compensation claimant digging a trench for the foundation of a residence, spreading gravel, rolling a wheelbarrow, and performing other types of ordinary manual labor, were not in themselves conclusive of the claimant's ability to work free of pain. Jones v Employers Mut. Liability Ins. Co. (La App 1st Cir) 114 So 2d 602.

Law Reviews: Bailey, Videotape Evidence: Show Me Don't Tell Me. 27 Trial 52 (March 1991).

Note, Beyond Words: The Evidentiary Status of "Day in the Life" Films. 66 Bos U LR 133 (January 1986).

Footnote 25. Szeliga v General Motors Corp. (CA1 Mass) 728 F2d 566, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 9975, 15 Fed Rules Evid Serv 541.

4. Documentary Evidence [1453-1459]

§ 1453 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Documentary proof is usually regarded as prima facie, and not conclusive, evidence of the facts stated therein, 26 especially where the instrument is wholly collateral to the subject of the action. 27 For example, the weight properly accorded entries in a family Bible depends upon the character of the entries, the circumstances surrounding their making, the persons making them, the time of their making, and their purpose. 28 However, formal writings, which are solemn and deliberate in their preparation and execution, are standing evidence against the parties entering into them. 29

The general rule is that where secondary evidence is admitted, it must be clear and satisfactory as to the contents of the documents involved. 30 Ordinarily however, and except where specific performance is sought, 31 it is not necessary that witnesses should be able to tell the contents of the instrument with absolute verbal accuracy, it being sufficient if they are able to state it in substance. 32

Footnotes

Footnote 26. Finegan v Prudential Ins. Co., 300 Mass 147, 14 NE2d 172, 116 ALR 535; Swanson v Gnose, 106 Mont 262, 76 P2d 643, 115 ALR 244; Hood v Webster, 271 NY 57, 2 NE2d 43, 107 ALR 497.

Although entries in a notary's book were admissible to establish the presentment of a promissory note and demand for its payment, any weight they might have had was destroyed by the testimony of the notary on cross-examination that he had no personal knowledge of the actual presentment. Littmann v Goldstein, 255 App Div 540, 8 NYS2d 490.

As to documentary evidence, in general, see §§ 1023 et seq.

Footnote 27. Bank of America v Banks, 101 US 240, 11 Otto 240, 25 L Ed 850.

Footnote 28. People v Mayne, 118 Cal 516, 50 P 654; Campbell v State, 21 Okla Crim 242, 206 P 622, 29 ALR 369.

Footnote 29. Pierce v Cobb, 161 NC 300, 77 SE 350.

Footnote 30. Walker v Drogmund, 101 Colo 521, 74 P2d 1235.

As to circumstances when secondary evidence is admissible, generally, see §§ 1053 et seq.

Footnote 31. Walker v Drogmund, 101 Colo 521, 74 P2d 1235, stating that where specific performance is sought, proof of the precise terms of the agreement is indispensable.

Footnote 32. Walker v Drogmund, 101 Colo 521, 74 P2d 1235.

§ 1454 Books of account

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The trier of fact determines the weight and credibility of books of account 33 admitted in evidence by the trial court. 34 Books of account are prima facie evidence of the pertinent entries which they contain, including the delivery and value of the articles specified. 35 The fact that books of account have been admitted in evidence is, however, not conclusive as to their contents or as to the truth of their contents. The determination of what credit they are entitled to depends upon their appearance, the manner in which they have been kept, and the character of the party or person who offers them in evidence. 36 The courts have expressed the opinion that evidence of this character is quite unsatisfactory and that it should be subjected to close scrutiny. 37 The admission of books of account is a violation of one of the first principles of the law of evidence, which is that a party shall not himself make evidence in his own favor, and books of account should be received and used as evidence with caution. 38

Footnotes

Footnote 33. Berg v Kucharo Const. Co., 237 Iowa 478, 21 NW2d 561; Pratt v White, 132 Mass 477.

The possibility of forgery goes to the weight, but not to the competency, of an account book. Crawford v United States, 212 US 183, 53 L Ed 465, 29 S Ct 260.

Footnote 34. As to admissibility into evidence of books of account, see § 1290.

Footnote 35. General Tire & Rubber Co. v Hamm, 69 SD 72, 6 NW2d 442.

In an action by a wholesale mercantile business company against a retailer to recover the balance due on an open account for merchandise allegedly sold and delivered to the defendant, the plaintiff's records of account introduced in evidence were sufficient evidence to sustain a jury finding as to the sale and delivery of the merchandise for the price listed, and as to payments made and balance due on the account. John Scowcroft & Sons Co. v Roselle, 77 Idaho 142, 289 P2d 621, 55 ALR2d 1.

Footnote 36. Smith v Smith, 163 NY 168, 57 NE 300.

Footnote 37. In re Fulton's Estate, 178 Pa 78, 35 A 880; Weamer v Juart, 29 Pa 257.

Footnote 38. Smith v Smith, 163 NY 168, 57 NE 300.

§ 1455 Public and official books, records, and documents

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Books, records, and reports of administrative officers and other public documents, when admissible in evidence, 39 are not, as a general rule, conclusive as to the facts which they are offered to prove, but constitute prima facie evidence, except where a statute specifically makes provision as to the weight and conclusiveness of such evidence. 40 Similarly, a certificate of an officer, when admissible, affords merely prima facie evidence of the facts recited. 41 The rule that public records are not conclusive of the facts they are offered to prove is particularly applicable when the records are shown to be incorrect in some respects, 42 and the facts recited in such records may be rebutted by competent proof. 43 In the absence of countervailing proof, however, public records and certificates of officers are sufficient proof of the facts recited. 44

§ 1455 ----Public and official books, records, and documents [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Incident reports from sister state were not admissible under official records exception to hearsay rule in proceedings to suspend driver's licenses for use of altered license, where reports bore no seal, certification, or other indicia of reliability as official records. Peterson v North Dakota Dep't of Transp. (1994, ND) 518 NW2d 690.

Footnotes

Footnote 39. As to the admissibility of public and official records, generally, see §§ 1321 et seq.

Footnote 40. Chesapeake & Delaware Canal Co. v United States, 250 US 123, 63 L Ed 889, 39 S Ct 407; United States v Hunt, 105 US 183, 15 Otto 183, 26 L Ed 1037; Bruce v United States, 58 US 437, 17 How 437, 15 L Ed 129; Marriott v Brune, 50 US 619, 9

How 619, 13 L Ed 282; State v Pearson, 223 SC 377, 76 SE2d 151; In re Maher's Estate, 195 Wash 126, 79 P2d 984, 117 ALR 91.

The prima facie evidence made by a copy from the records required by state law, in which a seal in due form appears, is not overcome by another copy from the records of the General Land Office in Washington which does not show any seal; it would naturally be supposed that all that is found in either copy was in the original. Campbell v Laclede Gas Co., 119 US 445, 30 L Ed 459, 7 S Ct 278.

Practice References 2 Am Jur Trials 409, Locating Public Records §§ 1 et seq.

Footnote 41. Swift & Co. v Morgan & Sturdivant (CA5 Ga) 214 F2d 115, 49 ALR2d 924.

Footnote 42. In re Maher's Estate, 195 Wash 126, 79 P2d 984, 117 ALR 91 (date of birth as shown by the public records).

Footnote 43. State ex rel. Childs v Board of Comrs., 66 Minn 519, 68 NW 767, later proceeding 66 Minn 526, 69 NW 925, later proceeding 66 Minn 532, 73 NW 631; State v Pearson, 223 SC 377, 76 SE2d 151.

Footnote 44. Bowden v Johnson, 107 US 251, 17 Otto 251, 27 L Ed 386, 2 S Ct 246; Stockton v Powell, 29 Fla 1, 10 So 688.

§ 1456 --Death certificate

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

There is a difference of opinion among the courts as to the evidentiary value of death certificates. One view maintains that an official death certificate constitutes competent evidence of the facts and matters contained in it. 45 Another is that a physician's statement in a death certificate is an expression of opinion and not competent to show cause of death. 46 And, in some jurisdictions, a death certificate filed as a public record by a physician is prima facie, but not conclusive, evidence of the cause of death. 47 The death certificate is often used in conjunction with other evidence to establish a cause of death. For example, in a homicide proceeding, the death certificate was admissible but could not be used as sole evidence to prove the cause of death where witnesses were available. 48 If the party against whom it is offered is not satisfied with the statement contained in the certificate of death, that party may contradict the record by any proper evidence, 49 such as testimony by the attending physician 50 or other witnesses. 51

Footnotes

Footnote 45. Hobbs v Provident Life & Acci. Ins. Co. (Tenn App) 535 SW2d 864.

Footnote 46. Ward v Commonwealth, 216 Va 177, 217 SE2d 810 (physician's statement that gunshot wound was probable cause of death was opinion).

Footnote 47. Krug v Mutual Ben. Health & Acci. Asso. (CA8 Mo) 120 F2d 296 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in United States v Iron Shell (CA8 SD) 633 F2d 77, 7 Fed Rules Evid Serv 269, 55 ALR Fed 664); Sorrow v Industrial Life & Health Ins. Co., 259 Ala 544, 68 So 2d 43 (a statement in death certificate by the attending physician showing suicide was evidence of the cause of death); Allstate Ins. Co. v Holcombe, 132 Ga App 111, 207 SE2d 537 (in suit seeking recovery from insurance company for accidental death, death certificate stating cause of death was rebuttable prima facie evidence); Swigerd v Ortonville, 246 Minn 339, 75 NW2d 217, 72 ALR2d 398; Griffin v Prudential Ins. Co., 102 Utah 563, 133 P2d 333, 144 ALR 1402.

As to admissibility of statement in death certificate as to cause of death, see §§ 1373, 1374.

Annotation: Official death certificate as evidence of cause of death in civil or criminal action, 21 ALR3d 418.

Practice References Death Records. 2 Am Jur Trials 409, Locating Public Records § 9.

Footnote 48. Lowery v State, 55 Ala App 514, 317 So 2d 365, cert den 294 Ala 763, 317 So 2d 372.

Footnote 49. Estate of Scott, 55 Cal App 2d 780, 131 P2d 613; Bozicevich v Kenilworth Mercantile Co., 58 Utah 458, 199 P 406, 17 ALR 346.

The death certificate alone did not establish by a preponderance of the evidence that decedent did not have pneumoconiosis, where the only evidence that the cause of deceased former coal miner's death was not pneumoconiosis was a death certificate completed by a physician who had never seen decedent alive and who did not have the benefit of any autopsy; the death certificate reported that the cause of death was acute indigestion which was contradicted by all of the other responsible evidence in the case about the deceased's habits, his physical condition, and his condition immediately prior to death. Cosand v Secretary of Health, Education & Welfare (ED Mich) 408 F Supp 263.

Footnote 50. Estate of Scott, 55 Cal App 2d 780, 131 P2d 613.

As to expert or opinion evidence regarding the cause of death, see 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence §§ 245-277.

Footnote 51. Vulcan Life Ins. Co. v McDuffie, 57 Ala App 634, 331 So 2d 280, cert den (Ala) 331 So 2d 284, holding that coroner's certificate attributing death of insured to homicide was presumptive evidence of accidental death, where word "homicide" appearing on certificate did not equate with intentional infliction of fatal injury on which insurance policy exclusions were based, notwithstanding that insurance company rebutted presumptive evidence with testimony of eyewitness of homicide.

§ 1457 Coroner's verdict

In jurisdictions in which a coroner's verdict is admissible in evidence, 52 some courts agree that the verdict is not conclusive evidence of the facts found. 53

In several jurisdictions where the coroner's verdict or finding is deemed admissible on the issue of suicide, it is regarded as prima facie evidence of the facts found, 54 subject to rebuttal by a showing that the verdict or finding of the coroner was mistaken or erroneous. 55 Other courts have specifically rejected the proposition that the verdict or finding of a coroner should be considered prima facie evidence bearing upon the issue of suicide. 56

Footnotes

Footnote 52. § 1327.

Footnote 53. Fleetwood v Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 246 Ala 571, 21 So 2d 696, 159 ALR 171; Walther v Mutual Life Ins. Co., 65 Cal 417, 4 P 413; Mittelstadt v Modern Woodmen of America, 143 Iowa 186, 121 NW 803.

The evidence was insufficient to show accidental death even though the coroner's certificate stated that death was due to carbon monoxide poisoning and was an accident, where the doctor who performed the autopsy for the coroner testified that the body was so decomposed that he could give no medical opinion as to the cause of death. Lynde v Western & Southern Life Ins. Co. (Mo App) 293 SW2d 147.

Practice References Autopsy Reports. 2 Am Jur Trials 409, Locating Public Records § 10.

Footnote 54. Insurance Co. v Newton, 89 US 32, 22 Wall 32, 22 L Ed 793; Jensen v Continental Life Ins. Co. (CA3 Pa) 28 F2d 545, app dismd 279 US 818, 73 L Ed 974, 49 S Ct 342 and cert den 279 US 842, 73 L Ed 988, 49 S Ct 263; Fleetwood v Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co., 246 Ala 571, 21 So 2d 696, 159 ALR 171; Tomlinson v Sovereign Camp of Woodmen of World, 160 Iowa 472, 141 NW 950; Bromberg v North American Life Ins. Co., 192 Mich 143, 158 NW 141; Krogh v Modern Brotherhood of America, 153 Wis 397, 141 NW 276.

The verdict of the coroner's jury to the effect that the deceased committed suicide, having been introduced in evidence by the beneficiary, constituted prima facie proof that the deceased committed suicide, and, standing alone, would defeat any recovery on the beneficiary's part. Supreme Lodge, K. P. v Beck (CA9 Mont) 94 F 751, affd 181 US 49, 45 L Ed 741, 21 S Ct 532.

Footnote 55. Hassencamp v Mutual Ben. L. Ins. Co. (CA4 Md) 120 F 475.

A certified copy of the coroner's certificate of death, reciting that the cause of death was a gunshot wound in the head, self-inflicted while temporarily insane, was in compliance with the statutes of the state requiring the coroner to insert the cause of death, and providing that the certificate, when made out and filed, should be prima facie evidence in all courts for all purposes of the facts recorded in it, and held that as the certificate, being prima facie evidence of its contents, was subject to explanation or contradiction if not in accord with the facts, there was no error in its admission. Supreme Lodge, K. P. v Beck (CA9 Mont) 94 F 751, affd 181 US 49, 45 L Ed 741, 21 S Ct 532.

Footnote 56. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v Stinnett (CA6 Ky) 13 F2d 820; New York Life Ins. Co. v Anderson (CA8 Minn) 66 F2d 705; New York Life Ins. Co. v Miller, 65 App DC 129, 81 F2d 263; New York Life Ins. Co. v Ittner, 64 Ga App 806, 14 SE2d 203.

Annotation: Insurance: coroner's verdict or report as evidence on issue of suicide, 28 ALR2d 352.

§ 1458 Mortality or life expectancy tables

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In proving life expectancy, standard mortality or life expectancy tables are universally accepted as competent proof. 57 The law does not, however, require the production of the tables whenever there is an issue of life expectancy, and does not regard them as essential to the establishment of that issue or to the recovery of damages based on life expectancy. 58

When introduced, the tables furnish satisfactory proof of probable expectancy of life. They are not, however, conclusive and do not have absolute probative force. 59 Thus, their relative weight and effect is dependent upon the question whether the analogy they present is weak or strong, in the light of the facts in the particular case. 60 Such factors as the health of the person whose life expectancy is involved, personal habits, occupation, social environment, and general physical state, are pertinent in weighing the probative effect of mortality or life expectancy tables. 61 But in the absence of evidence tending to show that the person in question had a probability of life greater or less than that shown by the tables, they may be accepted as controlling. 62

Footnotes

Footnote 57. § 1418.

Footnote 58. Gardner v Hobbs, 69 Idaho 288, 206 P2d 539, 14 ALR2d 478; Husak v Omaha Nat. Bank, 165 Neb 537, 86 NW2d 604; Heath v Stephens, 144 Wash 440, 258 P 321.

Footnote 59. Vicksburg & M. R. Co. v Putnam, 118 US 545, 30 L Ed 257, 7 S Ct 1; Renaldi v New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. (CA2 NY) 230 F2d 841, 59 ALR2d 1371; Hertz v McDowell, 358 Mo 383, 214 SW2d 546; Husak v Omaha Nat. Bank, 165 Neb 537, 86 NW2d 604; Universal Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Sanders, 129 Tex 344, 102 SW2d 405.

Footnote 60. Paine v Gamble Stores, 202 Minn 462, 279 NW 257, 116 ALR 407.

Footnote 61. Ritter v Mutual Life Ins. Co., 169 US 139, 42 L Ed 693, 18 S Ct 300; Vicksburg & M. R. Co. v Putnam, 118 US 545, 30 L Ed 257, 7 S Ct 1; National Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Sims, 187 Ark 969, 63 SW2d 524.

The probative value of the tables may be weakened and even destroyed by evidence of ill health or disease of the person whose life expectancy is in issue. Barone v Forgette, 286 App Div 588, 146 NYS2d 63, reh and app den (3d Dept) 1 App Div 2d 792, 149 NYS2d 235.

Footnote 62. Davis v Michigan C. R. Co., 147 Mich 479, 111 NW 76.

§ 1459 Weather reports and records

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Some courts passing on the question have supported the view that official weather reports and records are prima facie evidence on the question of the weather conditions at a particular place and time, but are not conclusive of the facts stated in them. 63 Other courts maintain that such records furnish indisputable evidence of the weather conditions at a particular place. 64 However, on the question of the condition of the weather at a particular place and time, official weather records and reports are entitled to a greater weight than is the testimony of witnesses who must depend merely upon their memories. 65

As a general rule, the evidentiary weight of official weather records and reports varies in more or less direct proportion to the distance between the place in controversy and the place where the observations were made from which the weather reports were prepared. 66 It is for the trier of fact to determine the weight to be given to reports vis-a-vis the distance from the accident. 67

The rules stated above as to the evidentiary weight of weather reports and records presuppose that there has been no showing that such records contain irregularities. Where it appears that they have been carelessly kept, or tampered with as respects entries concerning weather at a particular time and place, they are entitled to no weight. 68

Footnotes

Footnote 63. The Perseverance (DC NY) 49 F2d 785 (stating that official weather bureau records were, beyond doubt, the best source of information as to direction or velocity of the wind and as to rainfall insofar as such facts were set down in those records); McCollum v O'Neil, 128 Mont 584, 281 P2d 493.

In an action for the flooding of property, the exclusion from evidence of an exhibit purporting to be a certified copy of weather bureau records of stages of high water in a river on six occasions was not required because of testimony that the figures as to one of such occasions were not substantiated by the records, but were taken from an official bulletin; wherein the court further said that such testimony was to be considered in determining the weight of the exhibit as evidence. Eaves v Ottumwa, 240 Iowa 956, 38 NW2d 761, 11 ALR2d 1164.

Law Reviews: Grossman and Muldavin, Benefits of Hiring a Weather Expert. 5 Nat Trial Law 74 (July, 1993).

Falconer, Weather or Not: How Forensic Meteorologists Can Help Trial Lawyers. 24 Trial 80 (October, 1988).

Annotation: Weather reports and records as evidence, 57 ALR3d 713.

Practice References Meteorological conditions at a particular time and place. 5 Am Jur POF3d 191.

Footnote 64. Wadlund v Hartford, 139 Conn 169, 91 A2d 10.

Footnote 65. Aben v District of Columbia, 95 US App DC 237, 221 F2d 110; Southwest Bitulithic Co. v Dickey (Tex Civ App) 28 SW2d 264.

The testimony of a witness that he thought that there had been freezing weather at a certain place during a certain period was of no probative force when official weather records had been introduced in evidence, as a result of which the question whether there was or was not freezing weather was susceptible of definite proof. Armstrong v Monett (Mo) 228 SW 771.

Footnote 66. Wadlund v Hartford, 139 Conn 169, 91 A2d 10; Tenney v Pleasant Realty Corp., 136 Conn 325, 70 A2d 138; Silver Falls Timber Co. v Eastern & Western Lumber Co., 149 Or 126, 40 P2d 703.

Because the United States Weather Bureau was at some distance from the place in controversy, although within the same city, the weather bureau records were not, of themselves, sufficient to show conclusively that there was no ice present at the place in controversy. Ward v Pittsburgh, 353 Pa 156, 44 A2d 553.

The fact that a weather bureau was 60 miles from the place in controversy went to the evidentiary weight of the record as to wind velocity, but did not bar admission of the record. Aerial Sprayers, Inc. v King (Tex Civ App Amarillo) 317 SW2d 602.

Footnote 67. Schucker v Missouri Dept. of Natural Resources (Mo App) 703 SW2d 1, stating that the trial court did not err in admitting U. S. weather reports, even though they were taken 60 to 75 miles from scene of accident which formed basis of suit, since government weather reports are generally admissible, and there was no dispute as to heavy rainfall in area shortly before accident.

Footnote 68. The Frederick E. Ives (DC NY) 25 F 447.

5. Evidence of Mailing of Letter [1460-1463]

§ 1460 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

It is a well-settled general rule that proof of the mailing of a letter, correctly addressed, upon which the proper postage is prepaid, raises a presumption of the receipt of the letter by the person to whom it is sent. 69 It is not, however, easy to state the precise quantum of proof necessary to establish the mailing of the letter. A conflict of authority exists in particular with reference to the cases in which the proof is merely the assertion that a letter was mailed or sent, without further explanation. One position is that such an assertion, without evidence of the place and circumstances under which it was mailed, is insufficient. 70 The opposing position is that it is not necessary to show in express terms that the letter was deposited in the post office or branch but that the testimony of the witness that he or she mailed the letter implies that it was deposited, 71 at least in the absence of any proof to the contrary or any inquiry as to the mode of mailing. 72

Footnotes

Footnote 69. § 261.

Footnote 70. Watrous Varnish Co. v Nemirovsky, 71 Pa Super 264.

As to the deposit of a letter in a mailbox or letter chute, see § 1461.

As to letters mailed in the course of business, see § 1463.

Footnote 71. Barnet v Norton, 90 Vt 544, 99 A 238.

Although plaintiff failed to directly testify that the postage on a letter had been prepaid, his testimony as to mailing of the letter was sufficient to raise a presumption that the letter had been received. Moore v Drexel Homes, Inc. (La App 4th Cir) 293 So 2d 500, cert den (La) 295 So 2d 812.

A tenant's testimony that he personally mailed a letter, properly addressed to his landlord, that the letter contained his return address, and that the letter was not returned to him was sufficient to raise the presumption that the landlord received the letter, even though the tenant did not testify that he placed the stamp on the letter. Moore v Drexel Homes, Inc. (La App 4th Cir) 293 So 2d 500, cert den (La) 295 So 2d 812.

Footnote 72. Oregon S.S. Co. v Otis, 100 NY 446, 3 NE 485, error dismd 116 US 548, 29 L Ed 719, 6 S Ct 523.

§ 1461 Deposit of letter in mailbox or letter chute

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The act of depositing a letter or other mail matter in a street letterbox established by the postal authorities is as much a mailing of the letter or other mailing matter as though it were deposited in the proper place in a general post office, and proof of so depositing it is sufficient to establish the fact that it was mailed. 73 A similar rule applies where proof is made that a letter was deposited in a rural letterbox, although in these cases the presumption of the receipt of the letter is more easily rebutted than where deposit is made at the post office. 74 Proof of depositing of a letter in a letter chute in a private building is also a sufficient evidence of mailing, where the chute is under the control of the Post Office Department. 75

Footnotes

Footnote 73. Corry v Sylvia y Cia, 192 Ala 550, 68 So 891; Casco Nat. Bank v Shaw, 79 Me 376, 10 A 67; Wood v Callaghan, 61 Mich 402, 28 NW 162.

Footnote 74. Bank of Ipswich v Harding County Farmers Mut. Fire & Lightning Ins. Co., 55 SD 261, 225 NW 721, 63 ALR 925.

Footnote 75. Hummelshime v State, 125 Md 563, 93 A 990.

§ 1462 Delivery of letter to carrier or mail clerk

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Evidence that a letter was delivered to a mail carrier 76 or to a United States railway mail clerk 77 is sufficient proof of mailing to raise the presumption of its receipt. 78 But giving a letter to one who had the contract of carrying the mail sacks to and from the railway station with the request that he mail it on the mail car is not such a deposit in the mail as to raise a presumption of the receipt of the letter. 79

Footnotes

Footnote 76. Rosenthal v Walker, 111 US 185, 28 L Ed 395, 4 S Ct 382; Pearce v Langfit, 101 Pa 507.

Footnote 77. Watson v Richardson, 110 Iowa 673, 80 NW 407.

Footnote 78. As to presumption of receipt, see § 262.

§ 1463 Business or office custom or usage of sender

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The authorities disagree as to what evidence of a private business custom or usage is sufficient to prove the mailing of a letter. In an office handling a great deal of correspondence, one can very seldom remember the fact of mailing any particular letter, so some jurisdictions have adopted the rule that proof of mailing may be made by showing an office custom with respect to mailing and compliance with the custom in the specific instance. 80 Under this view, proof of a custom in the sender's office whereby letters deposited in a particular place are taken and mailed by an employee is not sufficient of itself to establish the fact that a letter so deposited was mailed, in the absence of proof showing compliance with the custom. 81

Other jurisdictions have adopted the view that evidence of business custom or usage is sufficient to establish the fact of mailing without further testimony by an employee of compliance with the custom. 82 This is particularly applicable to matters such as the mailing of routine letters in an office where a very large number of such letters is customarily mailed in the due course of its business. 83

In weighing the validity of the presumption of receipt, the trier of fact considers a variety of factors. For example, the fact that copies are found without the original in the place where they would have been found had the original been mailed, is sufficient, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to support a finding that the original had been properly mailed. Moreover, the fact that a letter was mailed with a return address but was not returned lends strength to the presumption that the letter was received. 84 Further, an addressee's positive denial of receipt does not nullify the presumption, but leaves the question for the determination of the trier of fact, with such weight given to the presumption as it finds appropriate. 85

The presumption of the receipt of a letter arising from evidence of compliance with the usual custom in mailing such letters is strengthened when the envelope bears a notice requesting that it be returned to the sender if not delivered within a specified time and it appears that the letter was never returned. 86

Footnotes

Footnote 80. Knickerbocker Life Ins. Co. v Pendleton, 115 US 339, 29 L Ed 432, 6 S Ct 74; Allied American Mut. Fire Ins. Co. v Paige (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 143 A2d 508; Borgia v Board of Review, 21 NJ Super 462, 91 A2d 441; Oregon S.S. Co. v Otis, 100 NY 446, 3 NE 485, error dismd 116 US 548, 29 L Ed 719, 6 S Ct 523; Commercial Bank of Albany v Strong, 28 Vt 316; Lieb v Webster, 30 Wash 2d 43, 190 P2d 701.

Evidence that notices sent by a bank pertaining to a note were put in an envelope, addressed to the defendant, and put in the bank's mail, which in the ordinary course, was posted daily, is sufficient to create a presumption that the notices were duly mailed and in the ordinary course reached the addressee. Citizens' Bank & Trust Co. v Allen (CA4 Va) 43 F2d 549.

Proof of business custom is insufficient to establish mailing in the absence of proof showing compliance with the custom. Good v Detroit Auto. Inter-Insurance Exchange, 67 Mich App 270, 241 NW2d 71.

In an action by insureds seeking reformation of automobile insurance policy to provide uninsured and underinsured motorist coverage, in order to prove that information regarding coverage was mailed to insureds as part of mass mailing of information to all insureds, insurer was required to show evidence of custom along with testimony of person whose duty it was to carry out custom of mailing. Bruce v James P. MacLean Firm, 238 NJ Super 408, 570 A2d 1.

Footnote 81. Freeman v United States (CA3 NJ) 20 F2d 748; Brotherhood of R. Trainmen v Jennings, 232 Ala 438, 168 So 173; Cook v Phillips, 109 NJL 371, 162 A 732, 86 ALR 539; Borgia v Board of Review, 21 NJ Super 462, 91 A2d 441; Howard v Daly, 61 NY 362; Lieb v Webster, 30 Wash 2d 43, 190 P2d 701.

No presumption of receipt will be founded upon evidence that letters were addressed, stamped, and placed in a tray from which letters were taken and mailed in the regular course of business, in the absence of further evidence of the clerk whose duty it was to mail letters left in the tray. William Gardam & Son v Batterson, 198 NY 175, 91 NE 371.

Automobile insurer's proof that a cancellation notice was mailed to insured was insufficient where that proof consisted of testimony by the bank officer in charge of financing of insurance premiums that the cancellation notices were produced by computer and placed in envelopes by a clerk who later delivered groups of envelopes to the post office and returned with mailing sheets stamped by the post office, but officer did not provide testimony that an employee normally checked the names and addresses on the envelopes with those on the mailing sheet. Anzalone v State Farm Mut. Ins. Co. (2d Dept) 92 App Div 2d 238, 459 NYS2d 850.

Footnote 82. Jenkins v Tuneup Masters (3rd Dist) 190 Cal App 3d 1, 235 Cal Rptr 214 (testimony from all of the employees in the chain of custody coupled with proof of compliance with that custom on the occasion in question is not required); Good v Detroit Auto. Inter-Insurance Exchange, 67 Mich App 270, 241 NW2d 71; General Mills, Inc. v Zerbe Bros., Inc., 207 Mont 19, 672 P2d 1109, 45 ALR4th 469 (it is enough there is an office practice or custom and that this practice or custom was carried out).

Annotation: Proof of mailing by evidence of business or office custom, 45 ALR4th 476.

Footnote 83. Consolidated Motors, Inc. v Skousen, 56 Ariz 481, 109 P2d 41, 132 ALR 1040, cert den 314 US 631, 86 L Ed 507, 62 S Ct 64, further stating that proof of the custom and the fact that a carbon copy was found without the original in the place and under the circumstances where it would have been found, if the original had been mailed, is sufficient, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, to support a finding that the original had been properly mailed.

Where office manager testified that confirmation of sale notices were generated daily off company's computer and were processed by employees who ran notices through a machine that sealed and stamped them and then were hand-delivered to post office for mailing, evidence was sufficient to establish proof of mailing and to present jury question on delivery and receipt of confirmation. Swink & Co. v Carroll McEntee & McGinley, Inc., 266 Ark 279, 584 SW2d 393, 27 UCCRS 239.

Footnote 84. Good v Detroit Auto. Inter-Insurance Exchange, 67 Mich App 270, 241 NW2d 71; General Mills, Inc. v Zerbe Bros., Inc., 207 Mont 19, 672 P2d 1109, 45 ALR4th 469.

Footnote 85. General Mills, Inc. v Zerbe Bros., Inc., 207 Mont 19, 672 P2d 1109, 45 ALR4th 469.

Upon proper evidence of business custom and habit of a commercial house as to addressing a mailing, the mere execution of a letter in the usual course of business rebuttably presumes subsequent receipt of the addressee. Good v Detroit Auto. Inter-Insurance Exchange, 67 Mich App 270, 241 NW2d 71.

Footnote 86. Lieb v Webster, 30 Wash 2d 43, 190 P2d 701.

C. Criminal Prosecutions [1464-1499]

Research References

ALR Digests: Evidence §§ 1613-1653

ALR Index: Alibi; Circumstantial Evidence; Entrapment; Evidence; Fingerprints; Footprints; Insanity; Voice

8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Forms 367-370, 375; 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Forms 103, 104, 108

27 Am Jur POF2d 431, Alibi Defense; 5 Am Jur POF3d 191, Meteorological Conditions at a Particular Time and Place

1 Am Jur Trials 555, Locating and Preserving Evidence in a Criminal Case; 3 Am Jur Trials 427, Preparing and Using Experimental Evidence

1. In General [1464-1466]

§ 1464 Generally

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table Go to Supplement
--

The test for determining sufficiency of the evidence in a criminal case is whether there is substantial evidence to support the verdict 87—that is, evidence to sustain a finding to meet the applicable standard of proof 88 of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. 89

In making these determinations, the trier of fact is entitled to draw a vast range of reasonable inferences from evidence, but may not base a verdict on speculation, 90 conjecture, 91 suspicion, the weakness of the status of the accused, the embarrassing position of the accused, or the fact that some unfavorable circumstances are not satisfactorily explained. 92 If the evidence must be buttressed with surmise or conjecture rather than logical inferences, the conviction cannot stand. 93

§ 1464 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

If the government fails to meet its burden of proof at a federal criminal trial, then the judicial system necessarily assumes that a juror will vote to acquit, rather than convict, even if the juror is convinced that the defendant is highly dangerous and should be incarcerated. Shannon v United States (US) 129 L Ed 2d 459, 114 S Ct 2419.

FDA's motion to compel release of consultant's audit of company's operations to grand jury is granted, despite company's assertion of "self- evaluative" or "self- critical analysis" privilege under FRE 501, because (1) no case has applied self-evaluative privilege against government; (2) courts sparingly should expand application of privileges to new contexts and circumstances; and (3) grand jury investigating possible criminal activities had enjoyed traditionally wide latitude. In re Grand Jury Proceedings (1994, DC Md) 861 F Supp 386.

Given state supreme court's conclusion that evidence was insufficient to permit jury to convict petitioners for manslaughter in death of 2-year-old daughter of one, remaining evidence—circumstantial, medical, and direct—was insufficient to convict them of willful neglect or delay in seeking medical care, and they were entitled to habeas relief; state's evidence viewed in light most favorable to it did not show that petitioners knew or should have known that something was wrong with child before they called 911. Martineau v Angelone (1994, CA9 Nev) 25 F3d 734, 94 CDOS 3504, 94 Daily Journal DAR 6624.

Evidence was insufficient to establish that petitioner knew that checks which he presented to grocery store were forged; checks were given to him by person who represented himself to be named owner of account and petitioner had seen his identification, and state presented no evidence on essential element of petitioner's knowledge that checks were forged. Stallings v Tansy (1994, CA10 NM) 28 F3d 1018.

Defendant's own testimony that he attempted to have sexual intercourse with underaged victim, but did not believe there was any penetration, was sufficient corroboration of child's testimony that sexual conduct was committed; quantum of corroboration needed is amount of independent evidence which tends to prove incident occurred as alleged. Dye v State (1992) 205 Ga App 781, 423 SE2d 713, 92 Fulton County D R 2428.

In prosecution for sodomy by having deviate sexual intercourse with boys, video of interview of five-year- old victim by juvenile officer was properly admitted into evidence, officer did not reinforce responses or suggest responses and, although officer should have allowed victim to independently explain answer to particular question, matter concerned only time of year when conduct occurred, not specifics of conduct.

State v McClintock (1996, Mo App) 913 SW2d 124.

In capital murder trial, prosecutor's brief reference to fact that victims had families was not improper, since reference was not victim impact evidence and was relevant to degree of punishment to be imposed. Libby v State (1993, Nev) 859 P2d 1050.

The evidence was insufficient to support defendant's conviction of second-degree burglary where it failed to show that defendant broke into the victim's home during the nighttime. State v Rick (1995) 342 NC 91, 463 SE2d 182.

There was sufficient evidence to convict defendant of burglary, even though he did not personally enter burglarized premises, where shoe of passenger in defendant's car matched footprints inside premises and only items stolen from store were found in defendant's car. Wilkerson v State (1994, Tex App Houston (14th Dist)) 874 SW2d 127.

Because inference established by statute making blood alcohol level of 0.10 percent or higher within three hours of driving "competent evidence" of intoxication is permissive rather than mandatory, statute did not unconstitutionally shift burden of proof to defendant. State v Wetzel (1989) 7 Hawaii App 532, 782 P2d 891.

Footnotes

Footnote 87. Gillie v State, 305 Ark 296, 808 SW2d 320.

Footnote 88. Tibbs v State (Fla) 397 So 2d 1120, aff'd 457 US 31, 72 L Ed 2d 652, 102 S Ct 2211; State v Miller (SD) 429 NW2d 26, habeas corpus den (SD) 472 NW2d 517, habeas corpus granted, in part, habeas corpus den, in part (DC SD) 1993 US Dist LEXIS 6654.

Footnote 89. For discussion of the guilt beyond a reasonable doubt as the burden of proof in criminal cases, generally, see §§ 168 et seq.

Footnote 90. United States v Maholias (CA7 Wis) 985 F2d 869, 37 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1265, later proceeding (CA7 Wis) 1994 US App LEXIS 4470; United States v Stauffer (CA9 Cal) 922 F2d 508, 90 CDOS 9222, 90 Daily Journal DAR 14531; United States v Teffera (App DC) 300 US App DC 23, 985 F2d 1082.

Footnote 91. Brown v State, 309 Ark 503, 832 SW2d 477.

Footnote 92. State v Jansen, 241 Neb 201, 486 NW2d 501 (not followed on other grounds by State v Mowry (Neb Ct App) 3 NCA 811, 1993 Neb App LEXIS 269).

A conviction for a criminal offense may not be based solely upon conjecture, guess, speculation, or a mere possibility. State v Cooper (Tenn Crim) 736 SW2d 125.

Suspicious circumstances, including mere proximity, are insufficient to support a conviction. Wynn v Commonwealth, 5 Va App 283, 362 SE2d 193.

Footnote 93. State v Padilla (App) 104 NM 446, 722 P2d 697.

§ 1465 Presence at scene of crime

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Mere presence at the scene of crime does not constitute sufficient evidence of guilt. However, presence, companionship, and conduct before and after the offense are circumstances from which the trier of fact may infer participation in the criminal intent. Moreover, the trier of fact may find such intent upon consideration of the words, conduct, demeanor, motive, and all other circumstances connected with the act for which the accused is prosecuted. 94 Similarly, guilt by association is unacceptable. The mere presence of one person, among a group at a scene of contraband, is not a strong factor indicative of guilt. 95

§ 1465 ----Presence at scene of crime [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In prosecution for falsely misrepresenting his social security account number in opening bank and other accounts, evidence that someone with different name had opened three bank accounts in another city with three different SSNs was properly admitted since preponderance of evidence linked defendant to other city, including deposit there of checks issued to defendant by bank in first city, and similarity in schemes, signatures, and appearance. United States v Adediran (1994, CA8 Mo) 26 F3d 61.

The evidence was insufficient to support defendant's conviction of second-degree burglary where it failed to show that defendant broke into the victim's home during the nighttime. State v Rick (1995) 342 NC 91, 463 SE2d 182.

Footnotes

Footnote 94. In re R. K. J., 179 Ga App 112, 345 SE2d 658.

The mere presence of defendant at the scene of the crime is not in itself sufficient to sustain a conviction. People v Jakes (1st Dist) 207 Ill App 3d 762, 152 Ill Dec 735, 566 NE2d 422.

Footnote 95. Commonwealth v Spencer, 423 Pa Super 353, 621 A2d 153.

§ 1466 Time of offense; limitations

View Entire Section

When it is charged that an offense was committed on or about a named date, the prosecution need not prove the exact date unless the time is a material ingredient in the offense, 96 and the evidence is not insufficient merely because it shows that the offense was committed on another date. 97 Evidence that a crime occurred at a time other than that charged, if it is within the period of limitations and before the indictment, is sufficient to sustain the conviction. 98 Thus, to sustain a conviction, the evidence must show that the offense was committed prior to the return of the indictment and at such time that the prosecution would not be barred by limitations. 99

§ 1466 ----Time of offense; limitations [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

The evidence was insufficient to support defendant's conviction of second-degree burglary where it failed to show that defendant broke into the victim's home during the nighttime. State v Rick (1995) 342 NC 91, 463 SE2d 182.

Footnotes

Footnote 96. As to the burden of proof in criminal cases, generally, see §§ 168 et seq.

Footnote 97. People v McDade (2nd Dist) 230 Cal App 3d 118, 280 Cal Rptr 912, 91 CDOS 3597, 91 Daily Journal DAR 5709, review den (Cal) 1991 Cal LEXIS 4083.

Footnote 98. Barton v State, 199 Ga App 363, 405 SE2d 92, 102-67 Fulton County D R 18; People v Tomasello (2d Dist) 166 Ill App 3d 684, 117 Ill Dec 783, 520 NE2d 1134 (stating that where a special time is not an element of the offense, the jury could properly have convicted defendant on that offense on proof that it occurred on Sunday prior to the filing of the indictment and within the statute of limitations); State v Brakensiek (Mo App) 734 SW2d 578; State v Fowler (Cuyahoga Co) 27 Ohio App 3d 149, 27 Ohio BR 182, 500 NE2d 390, motion overr; Commonwealth v Powers, 395 Pa Super 231, 577 A2d 194; Gottlich v State (Tex App Fort Worth) 822 SW2d 734, reh overr (Feb 11, 1992) and petition for discretionary review ref (Apr 22, 1992) and (criticized on other grounds by Richardson v State (Tex App Waco) 832 SW2d 168) and (criticized on other grounds by Curry v State (Tex App Fort Worth) 861 SW2d 479) (in which the state's evidence was sufficient to prove that the offense was prior to the filing of the indictment but still within the five-year statute of limitations where complainant testified that defendant had assaulted her during the summer of 1987 while she stayed at his house, the outcry witness and the complainant's mother both testified that the complainant first told them about defendant's actions on August 11, 1987, and defendant was indicted on September 30, 1987).

Footnote 99. United States v Thomas (CA9 Cal) 893 F2d 1066, 29 Fed Rules Evid Serv 697, cert den 498 US 826, 112 L Ed 2d 53, 111 S Ct 80 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Cochran (CA3 Pa) 17 F3d 56) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Gendron (CA1 Mass) 18 F3d 955); Steeley v State (Ala App) 533 So 2d 665, cert den 490 US 1026, 104 L Ed 2d 195, 109 S Ct 1759; Johnson v State, 298 Ark 617, 770 SW2d 128, later proceeding (Ark) 1991 Ark LEXIS 304; Wilson v State (Tex App Fort Worth) 730 SW2d 438, petition for discretionary review ref (Nov 18, 1987) and (criticized on other grounds by Curry v State (Tex App Fort Worth) 861 SW2d 479) (stating that because it is not incumbent upon the state to prove the exact date alleged in the indictment, the state sufficiently established that the sexual assault was committed within the 5-year statute of limitations, notwithstanding that the victim could not testify with certainty as to the exact date on which the offense was committed).

2. Circumstantial Evidence [1467-1470]

§ 1467 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

It is a well-established general principle that evidence sufficient to convict may be entirely circumstantial, 1 and circumstantial evidence may sustain a conviction of even the gravest offense. 2

Circumstantial evidence is adequate to support a conviction if the evidence, taken as a whole, establishes guilt in the standard of proof required for criminal cases 3 —that is, guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. 4 Single facts may each count for little weight, but when considered together and with the circumstances of the case may be sufficient proof of guilt. 5 The circumstantial evidence must form a complete chain which, in light of the evidence as a whole, leads directly to the guilt of the accused as to exclude, beyond a reasonable doubt, any reasonable inference other than that of guilt. 6 The trier of fact need not be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt as to each link in the chain of the circumstances relied upon. Rather, it considers the circumstances collectively with the final analysis affording the basis of an inference of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. 7 The facts proved must be so connected and related to each other that the conclusion may be fairly inferred and not the result of guess work, speculation, or surmise. 8

Although there are a variety of tests by which courts assess the sufficiency of circumstantial evidence, there appear to be factors in common among the tests, such as the trier of fact's ability to decide among reasonable interpretations of the evidence 9 and the fact that the evidence need not be absolutely conclusive of guilt 10 or demonstrate the impossibility of innocence. 11 One such test for the sufficiency of circumstantial evidence is whether, viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the people, and giving it the benefit of every reasonable inference, the facts from which the inference of defendant's guilt are drawn are inconsistent with innocence and exclude, to a moral certainty, every other reasonable hypothesis. 12 Another test, frequently stated in conjunction with the first, is whether the evidence is strong enough to exclude every reasonable hypothesis of innocence. 13 Stated differently, circumstantial evidence can provide the basis to support a conviction, but it must be consistent with the defendant's guilt and inconsistent with any other reasonable conclusion, 14 or so strong and convincing as to exclude every reasonable hypothesis except the defendant's guilt and must exclude any reasonable hypothesis of defendant's innocence. 15

◆ Comment: A few courts have adopted the proof beyond a reasonable doubt standard as the test for sufficiency of circumstantial evidence, rejecting the reasonable hypothesis theory, stating that it is no longer necessary that the evidence not only be consistent with guilt but also be inconsistent with every reasonable hypothesis of innocence. 16 Under this theory, the reasonable doubt standard applies to all criminal cases whether the evidence is direct or circumstantial. 17

§ 1467 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

In prosecution for aggravated assault and cruelty to children based on evidence that defendant had inflicted burn on his girl friend's eight- year-old son, although there was evidence that victim had made contradictory statements as to whether burn was inflicted by defendant or whether he tripped and fell against barrel in which trash was burning, trial court properly refused to give defendant's requested instruction that "where all the facts and circumstances of the case, and all reasonable deductions therefrom, present two equal theories, one of guilt and the other of innocence, then the jury must acquit the accused," where there was direct evidence and case was not wholly dependent on circumstantial evidence, where court defined and described circumstantial evidence, and jury was also fully instructed regarding reasonable doubt and presumption of innocence, and where defendant did not request any other charge regarding circumstantial evidence. Moss v State (1993) 209 Ga App 293, 433 SE2d 397, 93 Fulton County D R 2695.

In prosecution for armed robbery, trial court's refusal to give requested charge as to standard of proof in cases of circumstantial evidence, although error, was not reversible error where evidence of defendants' guilt was overwhelming and completely inconsistent with reasonable hypothesis of innocence, and where there was direct evidence of defendant's knowing participation in armed robbery: defendants separately "cased scene" immediately prior to robbery; they did not come in store together, though they were traveling in same car; when store owner followed one defendant outside, he saw both of them in same car and heard one of them yell, "That's him. Get him"; two armed robbers "instantly" appeared from nowhere while car was backing up to leave; while robbery was taking place, defendants, in car, were still in middle of road; and, after witnesses heard shots, they saw robbers run toward car, which was sitting at ready in road, occupied by defendants. Johnson v State (1993) 210 Ga App 99, 435 SE2d 458, 93 Fulton County D R 3134.

On appeal to Court of Appeals, proper standard of review in case where evidence against accused is wholly circumstantial is whether evidence before jury was legally sufficient to support finding of guilt beyond reasonable doubt, even though People are obliged to prove accused's guilt "to a moral certainty" and defendant is entitled to jury instruction, in words or substance, to that effect; phrase "proof to a moral certainty" is simply description of standard to be applied by fact finder in cases of purely circumstantial evidence. People v Wong (1993) 81 NY2d 600, 601 NYS2d 440, 619 NE2d 377.

Unexplained sexually transmitted disease in child is evidence of sexual abuse. In re Philip M. (1993) 82 NY2d 238, 604 NYS2d 40, 624 NE2d 168.

The evidence was insufficient to support defendant's conviction of second-degree burglary where it failed to show that defendant broke into the victim's home during the nighttime. State v Rick (1995) 342 NC 91, 463 SE2d 182.

Footnotes

Footnote 1. United States v Wight (CA1 NH) 968 F2d 1393; United States v Batista-Polanco (CA1 RI) 927 F2d 14, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 661; United States v White (CA6 Ky) 932 F2d 588; United States v Maholias (CA7 Wis) 985 F2d 869, 37 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1265, later proceeding (CA7 Wis) 1994 US App LEXIS 4470; United States v Rodriguez (CA8 Ark) 812 F2d 414; United States v Kurt (CA9 Wash) 986 F2d 309, 93 CDOS 1094; People v Migliore (2d Dist) 170 Ill App 3d 581, 121 Ill Dec 376, 525 NE2d 182, app den 122 Ill 2d 587, 125 Ill Dec 229, 530 NE2d 257; Bustamante v State (Ind) 557 NE2d 1313; Rowan v State (Ind) 431 NE2d 805, habeas corpus proceeding (CA7 Ind) 752 F2d 1186, cert den 476 US 1140, 90 L Ed 2d 691, 106 S Ct 2245; Dority v Commonwealth, 269 Ky 201, 106 SW2d 645; Commonwealth v Nardone, 406 Mass 123, 546 NE2d 359; People v Reddick, 187 Mich App 547, 468 NW2d 278, app den 439 Mich 855; State v Webb (Minn) 440 NW2d 426; State v Livingston (Mo) 801 SW2d 344; State v Lynn, 243 Mont 430, 795 P2d 429; State v Saltzman, 235 Neb 964, 458 NW2d 239; State v Baca (App) 111 NM 270, 804 P2d 1089; Commonwealth v Fromal, 392 Pa Super 100, 572 A2d 711, app den 527 Pa 629, 592 A2d 1297; State v Corder (SD) 460 NW2d 733; Flores v Flores (Tex App Waco) 847 SW2d 648, writ den (Nov 24, 1993); State v Warner, 151 Vt 469, 560 A2d 385; Johnson v Commonwealth, 2 Va App 598, 347 SE2d 163; State v Carrico, 189 W Va 40, 427 SE2d 474; State v Pankow (App) 144 Wis 2d 23, 422 NW2d 913.

Each element of the crime may be proven by circumstantial as well as direct evidence. United States v Hankins (CA8 Mo) 931 F2d 1256, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1158, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 198, 112 S Ct 243.

Circumstantial evidence can be used to prove any fact, including facts from which another fact is to be inferred, and is not to be distinguished from testimonial evidence insofar as the jury's fact-finding function is concerned. United States v Stauffer (CA9 Cal) 922 F2d 508, 90 CDOS 9222, 90 Daily Journal DAR 14531.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Character of evidence—Direct or circumstantial. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Forms 103, 104.

Footnote 2. State v Hupp, 248 Kan 644, 809 P2d 1207; Commonwealth v Gorby, 527 Pa 98, 588 A2d 902 (circumstantial evidence can be sufficient to convict one of first degree murder).

Footnote 3. State v Russell, 243 Neb 106, 497 NW2d 393; State v Warner, 151 Vt 469, 560 A2d 385 (the sufficiency of circumstantial evidence to support a conviction is measured against the same standard as all other evidence).

The evidence must only reasonably support the jury's finding of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. United States v Hager (CA10 Okla) 969 F2d 883, cert den (US) 121 L Ed 2d 357, 113 S Ct 437.

Footnote 4. As to the guilt beyond a reasonable doubt standard of proof, generally, see §§ 168 et seq.

Footnote 5. State v Lawson (Tenn Crim) 794 SW2d 363, app den (Tenn) 1990 Tenn LEXIS 259.

There was sufficient evidence for a reasonable jury to infer that the defendant transported a Rolex watch from Oklahoma to Texas where defendant purchased a Rolex watch in Oklahoma City and left with it the same day; a check for the amount of the purchase was deposited in defendant's bank account; a witness testified that defendant wanted a Rolex watch; and the watch was recovered at defendant's house during an execution of a search warrant. United States v Russell (CA10 Okla) 905 F2d 1450, cert den 498 US 904, 112 L Ed 2d 224, 111 S Ct 267, habeas corpus den (CA10 Okla) 1993 US App LEXIS 16835 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Streit (CA9 Ariz) 92 CDOS 4265, 92 Daily Journal DAR 6758).

Any fact in a criminal case may be proven by circumstantial evidence. People v Gutierrez (1st Dist) 205 Ill App 3d 231, 151 Ill Dec 395, 564 NE2d 850, app den 136 Ill 2d 548, 153 Ill Dec 378, 567 NE2d 336, habeas corpus den (ND Ill) 1992 US Dist LEXIS 8525, affd (CA7 Ill) 4 F3d 531.

The rational trier of fact is entitled to infer guilt from circumstantial evidence that excludes all other rational conclusions. State v Murray, 129 NH 645, 531 A2d 323.

Footnote 6. State v Webb (Minn) 440 NW2d 426.

Footnote 7. Wilson v State, 319 Md 530, 573 A2d 831.

Footnote 8. Landis v Sumner Mfg. Co. (Mo App) 750 SW2d 466, CCH Prod Liab Rep ¶ 11731.

Circumstantial evidence is not sufficient to sustain a verdict depending solely on it for support, unless the circumstances proved by the evidence are of such nature and so related to each other that the conclusion reached by the jury is the only one that can fairly and reasonably be drawn therefrom; the evidence must be such as to make the plaintiffs' theory of causation reasonably probable, not merely possible. Ditloff v State Farm Fire & Casualty Co., 225 Neb 375, 406 NW2d 101.

Footnote 9. United States v Wight (CA1 NH) 968 F2d 1393; United States v Batista-Polanco (CA1 RI) 927 F2d 14, 32 Fed Rules Evid Serv 661; United States v Hager (CA10 Okla) 969 F2d 883, cert den (US) 121 L Ed 2d 357, 113 S Ct 437.

Footnote 10. United States v White (CA6 Ky) 932 F2d 588.

The reviewing court need not determine whether the circumstantial evidence is adequate to overcome every reasonable hypothesis of innocence, but whether inferences may be reasonably drawn from that evidence which support the verdict beyond a reasonable doubt. Bustamante v State (Ind) 557 NE2d 1313.

When a case involves only circumstantial evidence, and the jury reasonably rejects the hypothesis of innocence presented by the defendant's own testimony, that hypothesis fails, and the defendant is guilty unless there is another hypothesis which raises a reasonable doubt. State v Hosford (La App 1st Cir) 572 So 2d 242, cert den (La) 576 So 2d 27.

Footnote 11. State v Livingston (Mo) 801 SW2d 344.

Circumstantial evidence must exclude only reasonable hypotheses; it need not exclude every inference or hypothesis except that of defendant's guilt. Brown v State, 260 Ga 153, 391 SE2d 108.

Footnote 12. People v Link (3d Dept) 161 App Div 2d 839, 556 NYS2d 407, app den 76 NY2d 941, 563 NYS2d 70, 564 NE2d 680, further stating that circumstantial evidence that is consistent with either innocence or guilt is of no value.

Circumstantial evidence is sufficient when it is so strong and cogent as to indicate the guilt of the defendant to a moral certainty. Ex parte Davis (Ala) 548 So 2d 1041.

The circumstantial evidence need only produce a moral certainty beyond a reasonable doubt in order to sustain a conviction; it need not be absolutely incompatible with innocence. Commonwealth v Fromal, 392 Pa Super 100, 572 A2d 711, app den 527 Pa 629, 592 A2d 1297.

Footnote 13. Ex parte Davis (Ala) 548 So 2d 1041; Bunderick v State (Fla App D1) 528 So 2d 1247, 13 FLW 1680; State v Harris (La App 1st Cir) 577 So 2d 220; Murphy v State (Miss) 566 So 2d 1201; State v Livingston (Mo) 801 SW2d 344; State v Vigil, 110 NM 254, 794 P2d 728; State v Graven, 54 Ohio St 2d 114, 8 Ohio Ops 3d 113, 374 NE2d 1370; State v Graven, 54 Ohio St 2d 114, 8 Ohio Ops 3d 113, 374 NE2d 1370; State v Bridge (Lucas Co) 60 Ohio App 3d 76, 573 NE2d 762, motion overr 49 Ohio St 3d 708, 551 NE2d 1304; State v Ruggles, 183 W Va 58, 394 SE2d 42; State v Pankow (App) 144 Wis 2d 23, 422 NW2d 913.

But see, State v Warner, 151 Vt 469, 560 A2d 385, stating that the state is not required to exclude every reasonable hypothesis of innocence in proving a case with circumstantial evidence.

Where all the evidence is entirely circumstantial, all necessary circumstances proved must be consistent with guilt and inconsistent with innocence and must exclude every reasonable hypothesis of innocence. Boothe v Commonwealth, 4 Va App 484, 358 SE2d 740.

Footnote 14. Gillie v State, 305 Ark 296, 808 SW2d 320; State v Webb (Minn) 440 NW2d 426; Murphy v State (Miss) 566 So 2d 1201; State v Saltzman, 235 Neb 964, 458 NW2d 239; State v McCue, 134 NH 94, 589 A2d 580; Boulden v State (Tex Crim) 810 SW2d 204; Townes v Commonwealth, 234 Va 307, 362 SE2d 650, cert den 485 US 971, 99 L Ed 2d 447, 108 S Ct 1249.

Before an accused may be convicted of a criminal offense based upon circumstantial evidence alone, the facts and circumstances must be so strong and cogent as to exclude every other reasonable hypothesis except the guilt of the defendant. State v Cooper (Tenn Crim) 736 SW2d 125.

Footnote 15. Sanders v State (Fla App D4) 344 So 2d 876.

Footnote 16. State v Turrubiates, 25 Ariz App 234, 542 P2d 427 (the test, whether the evidence is circumstantial or direct, is whether the evidence is sufficient for the jury to find the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt).

The use of the reasonable hypothesis theory as an analytical construct is rejected as a method of appellate review for evidentiary sufficiency in appellate courts. Geesa v State (Tex Crim) 820 SW2d 154.

Footnote 17. People v Bell (1st Dist) 209 Ill App 3d 438, 154 Ill Dec 238, 568 NE2d 238, app den 139 Ill 2d 598, 159 Ill Dec 110, 575 NE2d 917.

§ 1468 Relative weight between direct and circumstantial evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Circumstantial evidence is not intrinsically inferior ¹⁸ or inherently less reliable than direct evidence. ¹⁹ It is as persuasive as direct evidence ²⁰ and is entitled to as much weight as other kinds of evidence. ²¹ Thus, circumstantial evidence is as competent and entitled to the same weight as direct testimony, provided that it is of such convincing character as to exclude every reasonable hypothesis other than that the accused is guilty. ²² Circumstantial evidence may be indispensable, for example, to prove the existence of a deliberate intent formed in the defendant's mind and to prove secretive crimes such as arson. ²³

§ 1468 ----Relative weight between direct and circumstantial evidence [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

The evidence was insufficient to support defendant's conviction of second-degree burglary where it failed to show that defendant broke into the victim's home during the nighttime. State v Rick (1995) 342 NC 91, 463 SE2d 182.

Circumstantial evidence is oftentimes stronger and more satisfactory than direct evidence. Peplinski v Fobe's Roofing (1994, App) 186 Wis 2d 308, 519 NW2d 346, review gr (Wis) 524 NW2d 138 and affd 193 Wis 2d 6, 531 NW2d 597.

Footnotes

Footnote 18. Bernard v United States (Dist Col App) 575 A2d 1191 (further stating that in assessing the sufficiency of the government's proof, the court makes no distinction between direct and circumstantial evidence); State v Bridge (Lucas Co) 60 Ohio App 3d 76, 573 NE2d 762, motion overr 49 Ohio St 3d 708, 551 NE2d 1304.

Footnote 19. State v Freeman (La App 2d Cir) 506 So 2d 1279.

Footnote 20. Payne v Jones (ED NY) 638 F Supp 669, affd without op (CA2 NY) 812 F2d 712; United States v Gates, 257 US App DC 160, 807 F2d 1075, cert den 481 US 1006, 95 L Ed 2d 204, 107 S Ct 1631; State v Mazzetta, 21 Conn App 431, 574 A2d 806, app den 216 Conn 807, 580 A2d 64; Amato v Commonwealth, 3 Va App 544, 352 SE2d 4.

Circumstantial evidence possesses the same standing and statute as direct evidence. Jozen v State (Wyo) 746 P2d 1279.

Footnote 21. United States v De Corte (CA7 Ill) 851 F2d 948; Stephens v State (Ala App) 580 So 2d 11, reh den, without op (Ala App) 1990 Ala Crim App LEXIS 1635 and affd (Ala) 580 So 2d 26, reh den (Ala) 1991 Ala LEXIS 575 and cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 138, 112 S Ct 176, reh den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 647, 112 S Ct 625; State v Anaya (App) 165 Ariz 535, 799 P2d 876, 64 Ariz Adv Rep 47; McKinney v State, 303 Ark 257, 797 SW2d 415; Bowie v State, 185 Ark 834, 49 SW2d 1049, 83 ALR 426; People v Martina (1st Dist) 140 Cal App 2d 17, 294 P2d 1015; Dority v Commonwealth, 269 Ky 201, 106 SW2d 645; State v Webb (Minn) 440 NW2d 426; State v Johnson, 11 Wis 2d 130, 104 NW2d 379.

Jurors are entitled to consider both direct and circumstantial evidence and permitted to give equal weight to both forms of evidence. Smithwick v Walker (SD NY) 758 F Supp 178, affd without op (CA2 NY) 948 F2d 1278.

For the purposes of proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, direct and circumstantial evidence are equally probative. Semento v State (Tex App Dallas) 747 SW2d 415, petition for discretionary review ref (Mar 22, 1989).

The notion that all circumstantial evidence should be viewed with distrust because it can establish, at most, only a possibility of guilt, is unwarranted. State v Johnson, 11 Wis 2d 130, 104 NW2d 379.

Footnote 22. United States v LBS Bank-New York, Inc. (ED Pa) 757 F Supp 496; State v Anaya (App) 165 Ariz 535, 799 P2d 876, 64 Ariz Adv Rep 47; State v Rainer (Minn) 411 NW2d 490, habeas corpus proceeding (CA8 Minn) 914 F2d 1067, cert den 498 US 1099, 112 L Ed 2d 1077, 111 S Ct 993, post-conviction proceeding (Minn) 502 NW2d 784; Commonwealth v Hardcastle, 519 Pa 236, 546 A2d 1101, cert den 493 US 1093, 107 L Ed 2d 1072, 110 S Ct 1169; Johnson v Commonwealth, 2 Va App 598, 347 SE2d 163.

Whether the evidence is circumstantial or direct, no greater degree of certainty is required because in either case the trier of fact must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused. Wilson v State, 319 Md 530, 573 A2d 831.

Forms: Instruction to jury—Circumstantial evidence to be considered in connection with other evidence. 9A Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Evidence, Form 108.

Footnote 23. Payne v Jones (ED NY) 638 F Supp 669, affd without op (CA2 NY) 812 F2d 712.

As to proof of intent by circumstantial evidence, see § 1469.

§ 1469 Intent

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Circumstantial evidence alone is often sufficient to show criminal intent ²⁴ because the element of intent, being a state of mind or mental purpose, is usually incapable of direct proof. ²⁵ It may be inferred from the conduct of the defendant, the facts and circumstances that demonstrate mental attitude, and the reasonable inferences from that evidence. ²⁶ For example, an intent to cause death may be inferred from circumstantial evidence such as the type of weapon used, the manner in which it was used, the type of wound inflicted and the events leading to and immediately following the death. ²⁷

§ 1469 ----Intent [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

The evidence was insufficient to support defendant's conviction of second-degree burglary where it failed to show that defendant broke into the victim's home during the nighttime. State v Rick (1995) 342 NC 91, 463 SE2d 182.

Intent is rarely proved by direct evidence, instead trier of fact is often asked to rely on circumstantial evidence which may be stronger and more satisfactory than direct evidence. State v Gomez (1993, App) 179 Wis 2d 400, 507 NW2d 378.

Footnotes

Footnote 24. United States v Perlmutter (SD NY) 656 F Supp 782, affd without op (CA2 NY) 835 F2d 1430, cert den 485 US 935, 99 L Ed 2d 271, 108 S Ct 1110; United States v Schmidt (CA8 Minn) 922 F2d 1365, habeas corpus proceeding (CA8 Minn) 987 F2d 536; People v Stell (3d Dist) 223 Ill App 3d 531, 165 Ill Dec 907, 585 NE2d 638; State v Thompson (La App 1st Cir) 578 So 2d 1151; State v Duea (Minn App) 414 NW2d 513; Jackson v State (Miss) 580 So 2d 1217; State v Welford (Mo App) 754 SW2d 875, post-conviction proceeding (Mo App) 785 SW2d 580; State v Saltzman, 235 Neb 964, 458 NW2d 239; Midland Steel Products Co. v International Union, United Auto., etc., Local 486, 61 Ohio St 3d 121, 573 NE2d 98, reh den 61 Ohio St 3d 1432, 575 NE2d 219.

As to criminal intent, generally, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law §§ 129, 130.

Footnote 25. Benton v State (Ala App) 536 So 2d 162; People v Wehrwein (1st Dist) 209

Ill App 3d 71, 154 Ill Dec 1, 568 NE2d 1; State v Garner (Mo App) 800 SW2d 785 (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in State v Dunn (Mo App) 852 SW2d 157); State v Isiah, 109 NM 21, 781 P2d 293 (ovrld on other grounds by State v Lucero, 116 NM 450, 863 P2d 1071); State v West, 103 NC App 1, 404 SE2d 191.

Because direct proof of the defendant's state of mind is rarely available, resort must necessarily be had to circumstantial evidence. People v Vazquez (Colo App) 768 P2d 721.

Intent is a state of mind that will be proven, if at all, by circumstantial evidence. Scott v State (Okla Crim) 808 P2d 73.

Footnote 26. United States v Buehler (ED Wash) 793 F Supp 971, affd without op (CA9 Wash) 8 F3d 31, reported in full (CA9) 1993 US App LEXIS 27278; Gillie v State, 305 Ark 296, 808 SW2d 320; People v Scott, 154 Mich App 615, 397 NW2d 852; State v Albrecht, 242 Mont 403, 791 P2d 760; State v Morrow, 237 Neb 653, 467 NW2d 63; Commonwealth v Parker, 387 Pa Super 415, 564 A2d 246, app den 526 Pa 632, 584 A2d 315; Tharrington v Commonwealth, 2 Va App 491, 346 SE2d 337; State v Giffing, 45 Wash App 369, 725 P2d 445, review den 107 Wash 2d 1015.

A jury can conclude that defendant had the requisite intent from the circumstances surrounding the incident in question. People v Pitts (5th Dist) 223 Cal App 3d 606, 273 Cal Rptr 757, review den (Cal) 1990 Cal LEXIS 5479 and (criticized on other grounds by People v Wallace (5th Dist) 11 Cal App 4th 568, 14 Cal Rptr 2d 67, 92 CDOS 9781, 92 Daily Journal DAR 16279).

The fact finder may determine intent by such reasonable inferences and deductions as may be drawn from facts proved by evidence in accordance with common experience and observation. State v Hilpipe (Iowa App) 395 NW2d 899.

One's acts are generally reliable circumstantial evidence of intent. Semento v State (Tex App Dallas) 747 SW2d 415, petition for discretionary review ref (Mar 22, 1989).

Footnote 27. State v Patterson, 213 Conn 708, 570 A2d 174.

The defendant's conduct both before and after the offense may be considered as circumstantial evidence of the requisite criminal intent. State v Lovejoy (ND) 464 NW2d 386.

§ 1470 Venue

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In a criminal case venue is generally proven by direct evidence identifying the county in which the offense occurred. In the absence of specific evidence of the name of the county, however, a conviction may be sustained if the verdict is based on testimony from which the trier of fact may reasonably infer proper venue 28 from the facts and circumstances of the cases. 29 Venue may be proven by circumstantial as well as direct evidence. 30 Reference to streets, buildings, and other landmarks familiar to the trier of fact is sufficient. 31 For example, the state proved venue in Orleans parish even though Orleans parish was never specifically mentioned where the street locations mentioned by the victim were clearly within the boundaries of that parish and the robbery was investigated by the New Orleans police department. 32 Evidence as to venue is insufficient, however, if there is nothing to show the place of the offense without resorting to surmise or conjecture. 33

Footnotes

Footnote 28. State v Larsen (Minn App) 442 NW2d 840; State v Litteral, 110 NM 138, 793 P2d 268; State v Owens, 293 SC 161, 359 SE2d 275, cert den 484 US 982, 98 L Ed 2d 495, 108 S Ct 496, later proceeding (SC) 424 SE2d 473, cert den (US) 123 L Ed 2d 482, 113 S Ct 1861.

It is sufficient if, from the facts appearing in evidence, the only rational conclusion which can be drawn is that the offense was committed in the county alleged. State v Gorman, 232 Neb 738, 441 NW2d 896.

Footnote 29. Toledo v Taberner (Lucas Co) 61 Ohio App 3d 791, 573 NE2d 1173.

As to venue, in general, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law §§ 361 et seq.

Footnote 30. United States v Griley (CA4 Md) 814 F2d 967; United States v McLean-Davis (CA11 Fla) 795 F2d 957, cert den 479 US 1060, 93 L Ed 2d 991, 107 S Ct 941; State v Mohr (App) 150 Ariz 564, 724 P2d 1233; Salley v State, 199 Ga App 358, 405 SE2d 260, cert gr (Ga) 1991 Ga LEXIS 672, cert vacated 262 Ga 1, 1412 SE2d 836; State v Wimer (App) 118 Idaho 732, 800 P2d 128, subsequent civil proceeding (App) 122 Idaho 923, 841 P2d 453; Evans v State (Ind) 571 NE2d 1231; James v State, 105 Nev 873, 784 P2d 965; State v Miranda, 309 Or 121, 786 P2d 155, cert den 498 US 879, 112 L Ed 2d 171, 111 S Ct 212, post-conviction proceeding (CA9) 1991 US App LEXIS 22012, later proceeding (CA9) 1991 US App LEXIS 24716; State v Cervantes, 118 Or App 429, 848 P2d 118, review gr 317 Or 485, 858 P2d 875; State v Bloodsaw (Tenn Crim) 746 SW2d 722; Reese v State (Tex App Beaumont) 725 SW2d 795; Cheng v Commonwealth, 240 Va 26, 393 SE2d 599.

Venue may be established by proof of facts and circumstances introduced in evidence from which the place or places of commission of the crime or crimes may be fairly and reasonably inferred. State v Damewood, 245 Kan 676, 783 P2d 1249.

Footnote 31. State v Johnson, 45 Wash App 794, 727 P2d 693, review den 107 Wash 2d 1035.

Annotation: Propriety of taking judicial notice of geographic facts for purposes of proof of venue in federal criminal prosecution, 15 ALR Fed 715.

Footnote 32. State v James (La App 4th Cir) 545 So 2d 560, writ den (La) 551 So 2d 618.

Footnote 33. Bowman v State, 119 Tex Crim 602, 45 SW2d 971; Wright v State (Tex

As to the prohibition against basing a conviction on surmise or conjecture, in general, see § 1464.

3. Confessions [1471-1475]

§ 1471 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Courts differ in their evaluation of the quality of confessions as evidence of guilt. Some regard confessions as the highest and most satisfactory proof of guilt 34 and give great weight to free, voluntary, and deliberate confessions of guilt. 35 Other courts allow confessions considerable probative value, 36 and still others describe confessions as being the weakest and most suspicious of all testimony. 37 The general rule, however, is that confessions are not conclusive upon the accused, but can be disproved by other evidence. 38

The weight of a confession is always for the trier of fact to determine. 39 And where the confession is admitted, 40 the jury must consider it in the light of all the surrounding circumstances and in connection with all the other evidence in the case. 41 The jury, when weighing the confession, should act with great caution, 42 but cannot reject or disregard a confession which has been admitted by the court merely because they may deem it incompetent. 43

It is well settled that if a confession is made under such circumstances as to authorize its admission in evidence, the accused is entitled to have the entire statement or conversation, including any exculpatory or self-serving declarations connected therewith, also admitted. 44 Parts of a confession which are in the accused's favor are entitled to as much consideration as those which are against the accused, if they are not disproved and are not untrue or improbable when considered in connection with all the other testimony in the case. 45 It is for the jury to determine the weight to be given the several parts of the statement. For instance, it may believe that part which charges the defendant and reject that which tends to be exculpatory. 46

The mere fact that a witness did not hear or understand all the conversation entailing a confession does not render the witness incompetent to testify to what was heard and understood. Such testimony is entitled to much less weight than if the witness had heard and understood the whole conversation. 47 The jury is entitled to receive and consider the testimony for what it is worth, 48 and to say how greatly it is impaired by the fact that the witness heard or understood only a part of what was said in the conversation. 49

A confession otherwise voluntary is not to be excluded because the accused was intoxicated at the time of making it. 50 And where the confession is admitted in evidence, the fact of the voluntary intoxication of the accused at the time of confession goes only to the weight and credibility of the confession. 51

§ 1471 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

On certiorari to review a United States Court of Appeals decision which affirmed without opinion the conviction for narcotics offenses of an accused at whose trial a Federal District Court ruled that under Rule 804(b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Evidence, an agent of the Drug Enforcement Administration could testify as to statements made to him by an arrestee who confessed to receiving and transporting cocaine and stated that he was transporting the cocaine for the accused, the United States Supreme Court will vacate the judgment of the Court of Appeals and remand the case for further proceedings, where (1) two of the Justices are of the opinion that—given that Rule 804(b)(3) does not permit the admission into evidence of non-self-inculpatory statements, even if contained in a broader narrative that is generally self- inculpatory—the case should be remanded so that the Court of Appeals may conduct an inquiry as to whether each of the statements admitted at trial under the Rule was truly self- inculpatory; (2) four of the Justices are of the opinion that—given that Rule 804(b)(3) does not permit the admission into evidence of non-self-inculpatory statements, even if contained in a broader narrative that is generally self- inculpatory—(a) the statements admitted under the Rule did not fit, even in part, within the Rule, and (b) the prosecution should be granted the opportunity to argue that the admission of the statements constituted harmless error; and (3) the remaining three Justices are of the opinion that (a) Rule 804(b)(3) permits admission of statements related to self-inculpatory statements, provided that the related statements are not so self-serving as to render them unreliable and they were not made under circumstances where it was likely that the declarant had a significant motivation to obtain favorable treatment, and (b) the case should be remanded to permit application of this analysis to the statements admitted under the Rule. [Per all members of the court.] Williamson v United States (US) 129 L Ed 2d 476, 114 S Ct 2431.

Rights of accused in narcotics prosecution were not violated by trial court's allowing admission of tape recording consisting of most, but not all, of defendant's inculpatory statement to police where only reason entire statement was not taped was that defendant had started to make his statement before officer could get to his tape recorder, and both officers present at time statement was made testified as to what defendant said prior to start of taping. State v Peterson (1993, La App 4th Cir) 619 So 2d 786.

Footnotes

Footnote 34. Sparf v United States, 156 US 51, 39 L Ed 343, 15 S Ct 273; People v Popescue, 345 Ill 142, 177 NE 739, 77 ALR 1199.

As to confessions, generally, see §§ 708 et seq.

Footnote 35. Wilson v United States, 162 US 613, 40 L Ed 1090, 16 S Ct 895.

Verbal confessions or admissions made in the presence of a single witness constitute unsatisfactory evidence and are to be received with great caution, but where they are deliberately made and precisely identified, they often afford very satisfactory evidence. Beckwith v Bean, 98 US 266, 8 Otto 266, 25 L Ed 124.

Footnote 36. State v Roland, 336 Mo 563, 79 SW2d 1050, 102 ALR 601.

Footnote 37. Commonwealth v Turner, 389 Pa 239, 133 A2d 187; Collins v Commonwealth, 123 Va 815, 96 SE 826.

Footnote 38. Jaynes v People, 44 Colo 535, 99 P 325; Thomas v State, 186 Md 446, 47 A2d 43, 167 ALR 390.

Footnote 39. People v Gukouski, 250 Ill 231, 95 NE 153; State v Logner, 266 NC 238, 145 SE2d 867, cert den 384 US 1013, 16 L Ed 2d 1032, 86 S Ct 1983; Berry v State, 4 Okla Crim 202, 111 P 676; State v Rogoway, 45 Or 601, 78 P 987, mod on other grounds 45 Or 611, 81 P 234; Espitia v State, 199 Tenn 696, 288 SW2d 731.

Footnote 40. As to admissibility of confessions, generally, see § 754.

Footnote 41. United States v Anthony (DC Pa) 145 F Supp 323; Thomas v State, 186 Md 446, 47 A2d 43, 167 ALR 390; Thomas v State, 186 Md 446, 47 A2d 43, 167 ALR 390; Berry v State, 4 Okla Crim 202, 111 P 676; State v Rogoway, 45 Or 601, 78 P 987, mod 45 Or 611, 81 P 234; Espitia v State, 199 Tenn 696, 288 SW2d 731; State v Ashdown, 5 Utah 2d 59, 296 P2d 726, affd 357 US 426, 2 L Ed 2d 1443, 78 S Ct 1354.

The circumstances surrounding the making of the confession are admissible as bearing on the weight to which the confession is entitled. Schaffer v United States (CA5 Fla) 221 F2d 17, 54 ALR2d 820.

The unreliability of a confession, in view of the fact that the accused has an intelligence quotient of 47, placing him in the classification of a 6- or 7-year-old child, is properly addressed to the weight to be given his statements by the jury. State v Bailey, 233 La 40, 96 So 2d 34, 69 ALR2d 340.

Forms: Instruction—Jury's consideration of confession or admission of defendant. 8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Forms 367-370.

Footnote 42. Wilson v United States, 162 US 613, 40 L Ed 1090, 16 S Ct 895; Sparf v United States, 156 US 51, 39 L Ed 343, 15 S Ct 273; Beckwith v Bean, 98 US 266, 8 Otto 266, 25 L Ed 124; Brown v State, 135 Fla 30, 184 So 518.

Footnote 43. Schaffer v United States (CA5 Fla) 221 F2d 17, 54 ALR2d 820; Ellis v State, 65 Miss 44, 3 So 188.

A confession admitted in evidence by the court may not be rejected as incompetent by the jury, but each party has the right to present to the jury the same facts and circumstances previously presented to the court for their decision on the question of competency and all other circumstances having legal bearing on the confession's credibility or effect, and if, in view of all the facts and circumstances proved, the jury entertains a reasonable doubt as to the truth of the confession, they may disregard it as being incredible. Schaffer v United States (CA5 Fla) 221 F2d 17, 54 ALR2d 820.

Footnote 44. § 714.

Footnote 45. Burnett v People, 204 Ill 208, 68 NE 505; State v Edwards, 211 NC 555, 191 SE 1.

The truth of exculpatory matter in an admission of one accused of crime, which is introduced in evidence by the state, must be presumed unless its falsity is shown. Forrester v State, 93 Tex Crim 415, 248 SW 40, 26 ALR 537, appeal after remand 109 Tex Crim 361, 4 SW2d 966.

Footnote 46. Commonwealth v Trefethen, 157 Mass 180, 31 NE 961; Ellis v State, 65 Miss 44, 3 So 188; State v Strain (Franklin Co) 84 Ohio App 229, 39 Ohio Ops 289, 52 Ohio L Abs 533, 82 NE2d 109; Jones v State, 29 Tex App 20, 13 SW 990.

Forms: Instruction—Jury's consideration of confession or admission of defendant—Right of jury to accept part and reject part of pretrial statement. 8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Form 370.

Footnote 47. People v Luis, 158 Cal 185, 110 P 580.

Footnote 48. State v Lu Sing, 34 Mont 31, 85 P 521.

Footnote 49. Descrippo v State, 8 Ala App 85, 62 So 1004.

Footnote 50. § 746.

Footnote 51. People v Dorman, 28 Cal 2d 846, 172 P2d 686; Lindsey v State, 66 Fla 341, 63 So 832; Burns v State, 188 Ga 22, 2 SE2d 627; People v Cox, 383 Ill 617, 50 NE2d 758; State v Alexander, 215 La 245, 40 So 2d 232; State v Anderson, 247 Minn 469, 78 NW2d 320; State v Gear, 28 Minn 426, 10 NW 472; State v Isom, 243 NC 164, 90 SE2d 237, 69 ALR2d 358; Ritchie v State, 164 Tex Crim 38, 296 SW2d 551.

Where the trial court had made its finding that a defendant, who had given a statement to police while under sedation at a hospital, had made the statement voluntarily, the fact of the drug induced intoxication was to be left with the jury as a factor in their determination of whether the defendant's statement was entitled to weight and credibility. Willis v State (Ala App) 342 So 2d 802, cert den (Ala) 342 So 2d 806.

Defendant's admissions while under the influence of alcohol or drugs that he killed the victim amounted to a confession that required corroboration to support defendant's murder conviction. State v Origer (Iowa App) 418 NW2d 368, appeal after remand (Iowa App) 495 NW2d 132.

§ 1472 Corroboration of confessions; corpus delicti rule

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Most jurisdictions apply the corpus delicti rule regarding corroboration of extrajudicial confessions: a naked extrajudicial confession of guilt by one accused of crime, uncorroborated by any other evidence, is not sufficient to warrant or sustain a conviction. 52 Thus, by requiring independent evidence of the corpus delicti—or the body or substance, of the crime charged 53—the rule operates to establish the foundation for admission of the defendant's extrajudicial confession. 54 Once proof of the corpus delicti has been offered and the defendant's confession admitted, the confession may be considered in determining all elements of the charged offense that have been established. 55 The corroborative evidence rule addresses itself to whether a crime charged was committed and not to whether the particular defendant committed it. 56

Some jurisdictions have codified this common law confession-corroboration rule. 57 A typical example proscribes conviction of any offense solely upon evidence of a confession or admission made by the defendant without additional proof that the offense charged has been committed. There must be some evidence apart from defendant's confession or admission to establish that the offense charged has been committed, and it is not enough that the additional proof partially corroborates the truthfulness of the confession. The confession may, however, be used as a key or clue to the explanation of circumstances, which, when so explained, establish the criminal act. Under this statute, no additional proof need connect to defendant with the crime, and evidence in addition to the confession is sufficient even though it fails to exclude every reasonable hypothesis except guilt. 58

◆ Caution: The corpus delicti rule no longer exists in the federal system. 59 The rule in the federal courts is that the corroborative evidence need not be sufficient, independent of the accused's extrajudicial confession statements, to establish the corpus delicti. Rather, the prosecution must introduce substantial independent evidence which would tend to establish the trustworthiness of the statement, the independent evidence serving a dual function, namely, tending to make the admission reliable, thus corroborating it, while also establishing independently the other necessary elements of the offense. 60

§ 1472 ----Corroboration of confessions; corpus delicti rule [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Sufficiency of corroboration of confession for purpose of establishing corpus delicti as question of law or fact. 33 ALR5th 571.

Case authorities:

The corpus delicti rule for confessions did not apply in a capital sentencing proceeding to render inadmissible defendant's uncorroborated statement to a witness that the victim had died a slow and painful death where defendant's plea of guilty to first-degree murder established that a crime had been committed. State v Lee (1994) 335 NC 244, 439 SE2d 547.

Footnotes

Footnote 52. Pate v State, 36 Ala App 688, 63 So 2d 223; McKenzie v State (Alaska App) 776 P2d 351; State v Villalobos Alvarez (App) 155 Ariz 244, 745 P2d 991; Thomas v State, 295 Ark 29, 746 SW2d 49, post-conviction proceeding (Ark) 1989 Ark LEXIS 192; People v Corrales, 34 Cal 2d 426, 210 P2d 843; People v Cox (4th Dist) 221 Cal App 3d 980, 270 Cal Rptr 730; Martinez v People, 129 Colo 94, 267 P2d 654; State v Harris, 215 Conn 189, 575 A2d 223; Nelson v State (Sup) 50 Del 96, 123 A2d 859; Solar v United States (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 94 A2d 34, 35 ALR2d 1039; Farinas v State (Fla) 569 So 2d 425, 15 FLW S 555; Frazier v State (Fla) 107 So 2d 16; Jefferies v State, 92 Ga App 483, 88 SE2d 713; State v Hale, 45 Hawaii 269, 367 P2d 81; People v Stevens (4th Dist) 188 Ill App 3d 865, 136 Ill Dec 433, 544 NE2d 1208; Willoughby v State (Ind) 552 NE2d 462; Bynum v State (Ind App) 498 NE2d 108; State v Saltzman, 241 Iowa 1373, 44 NW2d 24; State v Jones, 150 Me 242, 108 A2d 261; Woods v State, 315 Md 591, 556 A2d 236; Wood v State, 192 Md 643, 65 A2d 316; People v Mumford, 171 Mich App 514, 430 NW2d 770; Steward v State (Miss) 32 So 2d 791; State v Frentzel (Mo App) 730 SW2d 554; Vanderheiden v State, 156 Neb 735, 57 NW2d 761; Gallegos v State, 152 Neb 831, 43 NW2d 1, affd 342 US 55, 96 L Ed 86, 72 S Ct 141; Sefton v State, 72 Nev 106, 295 P2d 385, cert den 352 US 954, 1 L Ed 2d 244, 77 S Ct 329; State v Pickard, 104 NH 11, 177 A2d 401; State v Lucas, 30 NJ 37, 152 A2d 50; State v Carter, 58 NM 713, 275 P2d 847; People v Lipsky, 57 NY2d 560, 457 NYS2d 451, 443 NE2d 925, reconsideration den 58 NY2d 824 and appeal after remand (4th Dept) 103 App Div 2d 1033, 478 NYS2d 441; State v Van Hook, 39 Ohio St 3d 256, 530 NE2d 883, reh den 40 Ohio St 3d 711, 534 NE2d 851 and stay gr 41 Ohio St 3d 708, 534 NE2d 1207 and cert den 489 US 1100, 103 L Ed 2d 944, 109 S Ct 1578, reh den 490 US 1077, 104 L Ed 2d 657, 109 S Ct 2094 and stay vac 42 Ohio St 3d 713, 538 NE2d 1066; Lankister v State (Okla Crim) 298 P2d 1088; State v Schleigh, 210 Or 155, 310 P2d 341; Commonwealth v DiSabatino, 399 Pa Super 1, 581 A2d 645, app den 527 Pa 629, 592 A2d 1297; State v Boswell, 73 RI 358, 56 A2d 196; State v Blocker, 205 SC 303, 31 SE2d 908; State v Albright (SD) 418 NW2d 292; Witham v State, 191 Tenn 115, 232 SW2d 3; Carr v State, 158 Tex Crim 337, 255 SW2d 870; State v Goyet, 120 Vt 12, 132 A2d 623; Pepoon v Commonwealth, 192 Va 804, 66 SE2d 854; State v Cobelli, 56 Wash App 921, 788 P2d 1081.

As to weight and sufficiency of evidence of corpus delicti, see § 1477.

Law Reviews: Choo, Confessions and Corroborations: A Comparative Perspective. 1991 Crim LR 867 (1991).

Footnote 53. Government of Virgin Islands v Harris (CA3 VI) 938 F2d 401, 33 Fed Rules Evid Serv 598.

Footnote 54. People v Mattson, 50 Cal 3d 826, 268 Cal Rptr 802, 789 P2d 983, reh den, stay gr (Cal) 1990 Cal LEXIS 4943 and cert den 498 US 1017, 112 L Ed 2d 595, 111 S Ct 591, reh den 498 US 1116, 112 L Ed 2d 1110, 111 S Ct 1028.

Footnote 55. People v Mattson, 50 Cal 3d 826, 268 Cal Rptr 802, 789 P2d 983, reh den, stay gr (Cal) 1990 Cal LEXIS 4943 and cert den 498 US 1017, 112 L Ed 2d 595, 111 S Ct 591, reh den 498 US 1116, 112 L Ed 2d 1110, 111 S Ct 1028.

As to the sufficiency of corroborating evidence, see § 1473.

Footnote 56. Slaughter v Commonwealth (Ky) 744 SW2d 407, cert den 490 US 1113, 104 L Ed 2d 1036, 109 S Ct 3174, reh den 492 US 932, 106 L Ed 2d 626, 110 S Ct 11.

Footnote 57. Hickerson v State, 196 Ark 497, 118 SW2d 671; Grimes v State, 204 Ga 854, 51 SE2d 797; State v Webb, 239 Iowa 693, 31 NW2d 337 (holding that the statute requiring corroboration is a substantial restatement of the common-law rule); Commonwealth v Hicks, 118 Ky 637, 82 SW 265; State v McClain, 208 Minn 91, 292 NW 753; People v Lipsky, 57 NY2d 560, 457 NYS2d 451, 443 NE2d 925, reconsideration den 58 NY2d 824 and appeal after remand (4th Dept) 103 App Div 2d 1033, 478 NYS2d 441; People v Teeter, 308 NY 852, 126 NE2d 182; People v Cuzzo, 292 NY 85, 54 NE2d 20; State v Jordan, 146 Or 504, 26 P2d 558, adhered to 146 Or 524, 30 P2d 751.

Footnote 58. People v Lipsky, 57 NY2d 560, 457 NYS2d 451, 443 NE2d 925, reconsideration den 58 NY2d 824 and appeal after remand (4th Dept) 103 App Div 2d 1033, 478 NYS2d 441.

Footnote 59. United States v Kerley (CA7 Wis) 838 F2d 932, mod on other grounds, reh gr, in part (CA7) 1988 US App LEXIS 4813.

Footnote 60. Opper v United States, 348 US 84, 99 L Ed 101, 75 S Ct 158, 45 ALR2d 1308.

For further discussion of the corpus delicti doctrine and the trustworthiness doctrine, see § 753.

§ 1473 --Sufficiency of corroboration

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

In those instances in which corroboration of a confession is required, 61 the corroborative evidence must consist of facts or circumstances appearing in evidence which are independent of and consistent with the confession and which tend to confirm and strengthen it. 62 While it is undisputed that there must be some evidence of probative value aside from the admission that the crime charged was committed, the courts do not agree as to the quantum of evidence necessary to corroborate a confession. Some courts require slight 63 or prima facie corroborating evidence. 64 Thus, the evidence independent of the confession need not be full and complete, 65 but is sufficient if it merely fortifies the truth of the confession without independently establishing the crime charged. 66 One statutory formulation of the corpus delicti rule is satisfied by the production of some proof, of whatever weight, that a crime was committed by someone, and conduct of defendant indicating a consciousness of guilt, such as presence at the scene, proof of motive or flight. 67

Other courts maintain that the corroborating evidence must be substantial 68 or clear and convincing. 69

Where evidence corroborating a confession is required, the corroborating evidence must relate to, and tend to establish, the corpus delicti. 70 In some jurisdictions the rule is that corroboration is not sufficient if it tends merely to support the confession without also embracing substantial evidence touching and tending to prove each of the main elements or constituent parts of the corpus delicti. 71 In other jurisdictions, independent proof of all elements of the corpus delicti is not required before resort to a confession. But rather, a confession may be relied on to meet and remedy a deficiency otherwise existing in the proof of the corpus delicti if the trustworthiness of the confession appears to be assured by circumstances shown by substantial independent evidence. 72 Furthermore, a complete confession need not be corroborated by independent evidence of all or any of the elements of the crime, but may be sufficiently substantiated by independent evidence of attending facts or circumstances from which the jury may infer the trustworthiness of the confession. 73

In general, corroboration of an accused's extrajudicial confession need not, to justify a conviction, consist of evidence sufficient to prove the offense beyond a reasonable doubt, 74 or even by a preponderance of the evidence, 75 as long as there is substantial independent evidence that the offense has been committed, and the evidence as a whole proves beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty. In other words, the corroborating evidence need not be such as, independently of the confession, would warrant a conviction, 76 nor need it be conclusive in character. 77 In fact, direct and positive proof of the corpus delicti, independently of the confession, is not essential, 78 and circumstantial evidence may constitute a sufficient corroboration of a confession. 79 The jury should first pass upon the sufficiency of the evidence of the corpus delicti, and if it satisfies them beyond a reasonable doubt that a crime has been committed, then they are at liberty to give the confession such weight as it is entitled to, taking into view the circumstances surrounding it and the extent to which it has been corroborated. 80

The courts agree that evidence in corroboration of a confession need not connect the defendant with the crime charged, and that such connection can be shown by the confession without corroboration on that point. 81 A confession may sustain a conviction where there is other evidence sufficient to show the commission of the crime by someone. 82

§ 1473 --Sufficiency of corroboration [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Sufficiency of corroboration of confession for purpose of establishing corpus delicti as question of law or fact. 33 ALR5th 571.

Case authorities:

Evidence in addition to confession need not exclude every reasonable hypothesis other than guilt and is sufficient if it demonstrates conduct indicating consciousness of guilt, such as presence at crime scene, motive or flight. People v Washington (1992, 1st Dept) 184 AD2d 451, 585 NYS2d 407, app den 80 NY2d 911, 588 NYS2d 836, 602 NE2d 244.

Footnotes

Footnote 61. § 1472.

Footnote 62. People v Lueder, 3 Ill 2d 487, 121 NE2d 743; Bergen v People, 17 Ill 426; People v Lytton, 257 NY 310, 178 NE 290, 79 ALR 503.

Footnote 63. People v Corrales, 34 Cal 2d 426, 210 P2d 843; State v McQuinn, 361 Mo 631, 235 SW2d 396; Vanderheiden v State, 156 Neb 735, 57 NW2d 761; State v Bushey, 148 Vt 197, 531 A2d 902; State v Blay, 77 Vt 56, 58 A 794; Watkins v Commonwealth, 238 Va 341, 385 SE2d 50, cert den 494 US 1074, 108 L Ed 2d 798, 110 S Ct 1797; Campbell v Commonwealth, 194 Va 825, 75 SE2d 468.

Footnote 64. People v Cox (4th Dist) 221 Cal App 3d 980, 270 Cal Rptr 730; People v Smith, 72 Cal App 2d Supp 875, 164 P2d 857; Woods v State, 315 Md 591, 556 A2d 236; State v Lutes, 38 Wash 2d 475, 230 P2d 786.

Footnote 65. Woods v State, 315 Md 591, 556 A2d 236.

Footnote 66. Fallada v Dugger (CA11 Fla) 819 F2d 1564.

Footnote 67. People v Lipsky, 57 NY2d 560, 457 NYS2d 451, 443 NE2d 925, reconsideration den 58 NY2d 824 and appeal after remand (4th Dept) 103 App Div 2d 1033, 478 NYS2d 441.

Footnote 68. Solar v United States (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 94 A2d 34, 35 ALR2d 1039 (stating that if there is substantial evidence of the corpus delicti, independent of the confession, and the two together are convincing beyond a reasonable doubt of the defendant's guilt, that is sufficient); State v Webb, 239 Iowa 693, 31 NW2d 337 (under statute); State v Dixon, 80 Mont 181, 260 P 138.

Footnote 69. State v Ferry, 2 Utah 2d 371, 275 P2d 173.

Comment After State v Ferry, State v Weldon suggested, in dicta, a trustworthiness standard; State v Johnson discussed that proposition but ultimately agreed with Ferry that the clear and convincing standard was applicable.

Footnote 70. Wong Sun v United States, 371 US 471, 9 L Ed 2d 441, 83 S Ct 407; Evans v United States (CA10) 122 F2d 461, cert den 314 US 698, 86 L Ed 558, 62 S Ct 478; Bradford v State, 104 Ala 68, 16 So 107; Frazier v State (Fla) 107 So 2d 16; Poythress v State, 95 Ga App 124, 97 SE2d 165; Brown v State, 239 Ind 184, 154 NE2d 720, cert den 361 US 936, 4 L Ed 2d 360, 80 S Ct 375; State v Saltzman, 241 Iowa 1373, 44 NW2d 24; Bollinger v State, 208 Md 298, 117 A2d 913; State v Robinson (App, Scioto Co) 83 Ohio L Abs 259, 168 NE2d 328; State v Schleigh, 210 Or 155, 310 P2d 341; Gray v Commonwealth, 101 Pa 380; State v Bates, 76 SD 23, 71 NW2d 641; Nichols v State, 200 Tenn 65, 289 SW2d 849; Harkey v State, 90 Tex Crim 212, 234 SW 221, 17 ALR 1276.

Where a confession has been found to have been the candid, honest admission of the accused, defendant may be legally convicted upon it, provided the corpus delicti has been established. People v Ramirez, 101 Cal App 2d 50, 224 P2d 878.

Even two positive confessions of guilt would not be sufficient to authorize a conviction of a crime in the absence of independent proof of the corpus delicti. Bines v State, 118 Ga 320, 45 SE 376.

As to the weight and sufficiency of evidence to prove corpus delicti, see §§ 1476 et seq.

Footnote 71. Solar v United States (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 94 A2d 34, 35 ALR2d 1039; Ridgell v United States (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 54 A2d 679; Robinson v State, 71 Okla Crim 75, 108 P2d 196.

The proof to establish all the elements of the corpus delicti must be from a source or sources other than the confession; in the absence of extraneous evidence of all elements of the corpus delicti, the proof is insufficient to corroborate the confession. Grimes v State, 204 Ga 854, 51 SE2d 797.

Footnote 72. State v Hale, 45 Hawaii 269, 367 P2d 81; State v Yoshida, 44 Hawaii 352, 354 P2d 986; Brower v State, 217 Miss 425, 64 So 2d 576.

Footnote 73. Smoot v United States, 114 US App DC 154, 312 F2d 881.

Footnote 74. Opper v United States, 348 US 84, 99 L Ed 101, 75 S Ct 158, 45 ALR2d 1308; Brown v State, 239 Ind 184, 154 NE2d 720, cert den 361 US 936, 4 L Ed 2d 360, 80 S Ct 375; Commonwealth v Harrison, 241 Ky 88, 43 SW2d 354; People v Mumford, 171 Mich App 514, 430 NW2d 770; State v Scarberry (Scioto Co) 114 Ohio App 85, 18 Ohio Ops 2d 394, 180 NE2d 631.

An accused cannot be convicted on his confession alone; in addition, there must be independent, clear, and convincing evidence of the corpus delicti, although it is not required that it be convincing beyond a reasonable doubt. State v Ferry, 2 Utah 2d 371, 275 P2d 173.

◆ Comment: After State v Ferry, State v Weldon suggested, in dicta, a trustworthiness standard; State v Johnson discussed that proposition but ultimately agreed with Ferry that the clear and convincing standard was applicable.

As to the proof beyond a reasonable doubt standard, in general, see § 168.

Footnote 75. United States v Calderon, 348 US 160, 99 L Ed 202, 75 S Ct 186, 54-2 USTC ¶ 9712, 46 AFTR 962; Woods v State, 315 Md 591, 556 A2d 236; State v Bushey, 148 Vt 197, 531 A2d 902.

As to the proof by a preponderance of the evidence standard, see § 157.

Footnote 76. Evans v United States (CA10) 122 F2d 461, cert den 314 US 698, 86 L Ed 558, 62 S Ct 478; People v Corrales, 34 Cal 2d 426, 210 P2d 843; Brower v State, 217 Miss 425, 64 So 2d 576.

Supporting evidence, though small in amount, may be sufficient to establish the corpus delicti if, when considered in connection with the confession or admission, it satisfies the trier of fact beyond a reasonable doubt that the offense charged was committed and that the accused committed it. Woods v State, 315 Md 591, 556 A2d 236.

Footnote 77. People v Cullen, 37 Cal 2d 614, 234 P2d 1; State v Webb, 239 Iowa 693, 31 NW2d 337.

Footnote 78. People v Jones, 26 Ill 2d 381, 186 NE2d 246; Pierce v State, 227 Md 221, 175 A2d 743; Davis v State, 202 Md 463, 97 A2d 303; People v Cuzzo, 292 NY 85, 54 NE2d 20; State v Goyet, 120 Vt 12, 132 A2d 623.

Corroborative evidence is adequate if it is sufficient to warrant the reasonable inference that the crime charged was actually committed by some person. State v Hernandez, 83 Ariz 279, 320 P2d 467.

Footnote 79. Bolland v United States (CA4 SC) 238 F 529; State v Hernandez, 83 Ariz 279, 320 P2d 467; State v Harris, 215 Conn 189, 575 A2d 223; State v Tillman, 152 Conn 15, 202 A2d 494; Solar v United States (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 94 A2d 34, 35 ALR2d 1039; Brown v State, 239 Ind 184, 154 NE2d 720, cert den 361 US 936, 4 L Ed 2d 360, 80 S Ct 375; Allen v State, 230 Miss 740, 93 So 2d 844; State v Frentzel (Mo App) 730 SW2d 554; People v Curro (2d Dept) 161 App Div 2d 784, 556 NYS2d 364, app den 76 NY2d 855, 560 NYS2d 994, 561 NE2d 894; State v Bates, 76 SD 23, 71 NW2d 641; Watkins v Commonwealth, 238 Va 341, 385 SE2d 50, cert den 494 US 1074, 108 L Ed 2d 798, 110 S Ct 1797.

As to proof of the corpus delicti by circumstantial evidence, in general, see § 1477.

Footnote 80. Commonwealth v Bishop, 285 Pa 49, 131 A 657; Commonwealth v Puglise, 276 Pa 235, 120 A 401.

Footnote 81. Fisher v United States (CA8 Minn) 324 F2d 775, cert den 377 US 999, 12 L Ed 2d 1049, 84 S Ct 1935, reh den 379 US 873, 13 L Ed 2d 81, 85 S Ct 24; Cutchlow v United States (CA9 Or) 301 F2d 295; State v Romo, 66 Ariz 174, 185 P2d 757; Paulino v People, 113 Colo 180, 155 P2d 609; State v Berkowitz, 24 Conn Supp 112, 1 Conn Cir 439, 186 A2d 816, certif dismd 150 Conn 712, 204 A2d 933; McVeigh v State, 205 Ga 326, 53 SE2d 462; People v Lueder, 3 Ill 2d 487, 121 NE2d 743; Williams v Commonwealth, 306 Ky 225, 206 SW2d 922 (under statute); State v Zaritz, 235 Neb 599, 456 NW2d 479; Wilshusen v State, 149 Neb 594, 31 NW2d 544; Sefton v State, 72 Nev 106, 295 P2d 385, cert den 352 US 954, 1 L Ed 2d 244, 77 S Ct 329; State v Ravenell, 43 NJ 171, 203 A2d 13, cert den 379 US 982, 13 L Ed 2d 572, 85 S Ct 690; People v Curro (2d Dept) 161 App Div 2d 784, 556 NYS2d 364, app den 76 NY2d 855, 560 NYS2d 994, 561 NE2d 894; Nixon v State, 159 Tex Crim 548, 266 SW2d 150.

A statute providing that the confession of the defendant, unless made in open court, will not warrant a conviction unless accompanied by other proof that the offense was committed, requires other proof of the corpus delicti, rather than of defendant's connection with the commission of the alleged crime. State v Webb, 239 Iowa 693, 31 NW2d 337.

It is not necessary that a confession be corroborated by independent proof in all its details and particulars. McVeigh v State, 205 Ga 326, 53 SE2d 462.

Footnote 82. Mouser v State, 215 Ark 131, 219 SW2d 611; Wahl v State, 229 Ind 521, 98 NE2d 671; State v Dupepe (Mo) 241 SW2d 4; State v James, 96 NJL 132, 114 A 553, 16 ALR 1141; People v Cuzzo, 292 NY 85, 54 NE2d 20 (holding that there must be some additional proof, of whatever weight, that the crime was in fact committed by someone); Riddle v State, 97 Okla Crim 206, 261 P2d 469; Yancy v State, 149 Tex Crim 566, 197 SW2d 361.

Where a crime involves physical damage to personal property, the prosecution must generally show that the injury for which the accused confesses responsibility did in fact occur, and that some person was criminally culpable, but where the crime involves no tangible corpus delicti, the corroborative evidence must implicate the accused in order to show that the crime has been committed. Wong Sun v United States, 371 US 471, 9 L Ed 2d 441, 83 S Ct 407.

§ 1474 --Sexual offenses

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The rule that a mere or naked confession, uncorroborated by any circumstances inspiring belief in the truth of the confession, is not sufficient to warrant a conviction of the accused, 83 has been held or assumed to apply in prosecutions for sexual offenses. 84 In order to sustain a conviction for a sexual crime, there must be independent proof of the corpus delicti. 85 The independent proof may be either direct or circumstantial. 86

Footnotes

Footnote 83. § 1472.

Footnote 84. Matthews v State, 55 Ala 187; Skaggs v State, 88 Ark 62, 113 SW 346; Bergen v People, 17 Ill 426; State v Cardwell, 90 Kan 606, 135 P 597; State v Morgan, 157 La 962, 103 So 278, 40 ALR 458; Nolan v State, 60 Tex Crim 5, 129 SW 1108.

Footnote 85. State v Morgan, 157 La 962, 103 So 278, 40 ALR 458.

In a prosecution for sexual battery and lewd assault, proof of the corpus delicti was necessary as a prerequisite for admission of confession of defendant. State v Ochoa (Fla App D3) 576 So 2d 854, 16 FLW D 757.

Footnote 86. Harris v State, 72 Fla 128, 72 So 520.

As to direct and circumstantial evidence, in general, see § 1467.

§ 1475 --Judicial confessions

View Entire Section

The rule that a confession does not warrant a conviction unless corroborated is generally held applicable to extrajudicial confessions only, 87 and not, in the absence of statutes to the contrary, to judicial confessions. 88 Some jurisdictions have recognized this rule by legislative enactment. 89

Footnotes

Footnote 87. § 1472.

Footnote 88. Skaggs v State, 88 Ark 62, 113 SW 346; People v Barker, 60 Mich 277, 27 NW 539; State v Dena, 28 NM 479, 214 P 583.

As to judicial and extrajudicial confessions, see § 711.

As to admissibility, generally, of judicial confessions, see § 715.

Footnote 89. Knowles v State, 113 Ark 257, 168 SW 148; Skaggs v State, 88 Ark 62, 113 SW 346; People v Lewis, 260 NY 171, 183 NE 353, 86 ALR 1001, cert den and app dismd 289 US 709, 77 L Ed 1464, 53 S Ct 786; People v Rogers, 192 NY 331, 85 NE 135.

4. Evidence of Corpus Delicti [1476, 1477]

§ 1476 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The corpus delicti rule requires that the corpus delicti or the body or substance of the crime charged be proved independently from an accused's extrajudicial confession or admissions. 90 The corpus delicti of a crime consists of two elements: (1) the fact of the injury or loss or harm, and (2) the existence of a criminal agency as its cause. 91 When there is any evidence, direct or circumstantial, tending to establish the corpus delicti, the question of its sufficiency and weight is for the finder of fact, 92 and there must be sufficient proof of both elements of the corpus delicti 93 beyond a reasonable doubt. 94

Footnotes

Footnote 90. § 1472.

Footnote 91. People v Jennings, 53 Cal 3d 334, 279 Cal Rptr 780, 807 P2d 1009, 91

CDOS 2576, 91 Daily Journal DAR 4222, reh den, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 462, 112 S Ct 443; People v Jennings, 53 Cal 3d 334, 279 Cal Rptr 780, 807 P2d 1009, 91 CDOS 2576, 91 Daily Journal DAR 4222, reh den, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 462, 112 S Ct 443; People v Pensinger, 52 Cal 3d 1210, 278 Cal Rptr 640, 805 P2d 899, 91 CDOS 1514, 91 Daily Journal DAR 2504, mod 53 Cal 3d 729a, 91 Daily Journal DAR 4745 and stay gr (Cal) 1991 Cal LEXIS 3318 and reh den, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 290, 112 S Ct 351, 91 Daily Journal DAR 12909, reh den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 821, 112 S Ct 923; State v Pullos, 76 Idaho 369, 283 P2d 590; People v Friedland (1st Dist) 202 Ill App 3d 1094, 148 Ill Dec 415, 560 NE2d 1012; Brown v State, 239 Ind 184, 154 NE2d 720, cert den 361 US 936, 4 L Ed 2d 360, 80 S Ct 375; Joseph v State, 236 Ind 529, 141 NE2d 109, 69 ALR2d 824, cert dismd 359 US 117, 3 L Ed 2d 673, 79 S Ct 720; People v Aiken, 66 Mich 460, 33 NW 821; People v Gould, 156 Mich App 413, 402 NW2d 27; State v Simler, 350 Mo 646, 167 SW2d 376; State v Hill, 47 NJ 490, 221 A2d 725; State v Robinson (App, Scioto Co) 83 Ohio L Abs 259, 168 NE2d 328; State v Brown, 103 SC 437, 88 SE 21.

Footnote 92. Knight v State (Ala App) 548 So 2d 647; People v Jennings, 53 Cal 3d 334, 279 Cal Rptr 780, 807 P2d 1009, 91 CDOS 2576, 91 Daily Journal DAR 4222, reh den, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 462, 112 S Ct 443; Ausmus v People, 47 Colo 167, 107 P 204; State v Hale, 45 Hawaii 269, 367 P2d 81.

As to proof of the corpus delicti by circumstantial evidence, see § 1477.

Footnote 93. Sanders v State, 167 Ala 85, 52 So 417; People v King, 213 Cal 89, 1 P2d 15; State v Sullivan, 34 Idaho 68, 199 P 647, 17 ALR 902; State v Hill, 47 NJ 490, 221 A2d 725; State v Brown, 103 SC 437, 88 SE 21.

Footnote 94. § 174.

§ 1477 Proof by circumstantial evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The general rule is that direct and positive proof of the corpus delicti is not essential and that all the elements may be proved by presumptive or circumstantial evidence. 95

It would be unreasonable always to require direct and positive evidence, for crimes are naturally committed at chosen times, in darkness and secrecy. 96 But circumstantial proof of the corpus delicti must be acted on with caution. 97

Footnotes

Footnote 95. Perovich v United States, 205 US 86, 51 L Ed 722, 27 S Ct 456; St. Clair v United States, 154 US 134, 38 L Ed 936, 14 S Ct 1002; Rifle v King (ND W Va) 302 F Supp 992; Evans v United States (CA10) 122 F2d 461, cert den 314 US 698, 86 L Ed 558, 62 S Ct 478; Knight v State (Ala App) 548 So 2d 647; People v Pensinger, 52 Cal 3d 1210, 278 Cal Rptr 640, 805 P2d 899, 91 CDOS 1514, 91 Daily Journal DAR 2504, mod 53 Cal 3d 729a, 91 Daily Journal DAR 4745 and stay gr (Cal) 1991 Cal LEXIS 3318 and reh den, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 290, 112 S Ct 351, 91 Daily Journal DAR 12909, reh den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 821, 112 S Ct 923; People v Spencer, 60 Cal 2d 64, 31 Cal Rptr 782, 383 P2d 134, cert den 377 US 1007, 12 L Ed 2d 1055, 84 S Ct 1924; State v Kari, 26 Conn App 286, 600 A2d 1374, app gr, in part 221 Conn 910, 602 A2d 9, app dismd 222 Conn 539, 608 A2d 92; Sochor v State (Fla) 580 So 2d 595, 16 FLW S 297, motion gr, cert gr, in part (US) 116 L Ed 2d 455, 112 S Ct 436 and vacated, remanded (US) 119 L Ed 2d 326, 112 S Ct 2114, 92 CDOS 4787, 92 Daily Journal DAR 7598, 6 FLW Fed S 323, on remand (Fla) 619 So 2d 285, 18 FLW S 273, cert den (US) 126 L Ed 2d 596, 114 S Ct 638, reh den (US) 127 L Ed 2d 452, 114 S Ct 1142; Shuler v State (Fla) 132 So 2d 7; Rowe v State (Fla) 84 So 2d 709; People v Stell (3d Dist) 223 Ill App 3d 531, 165 Ill Dec 907, 585 NE2d 638; Brown v State, 239 Ind 184, 154 NE2d 720, cert den 361 US 936, 4 L Ed 2d 360, 80 S Ct 375; Harkrader v State (Ind App) 553 NE2d 1231; Bynum v State (Ind App) 498 NE2d 108; State v Saltzman, 241 Iowa 1373, 44 NW2d 24; People v Mumford, 171 Mich App 514, 430 NW2d 770; State v Simler, 350 Mo 646, 167 SW2d 376; State v German, 54 Mo 526; State v Stimmel (Mo App) 800 SW2d 156; State v Webber, 112 Mont 284, 116 P2d 679, 136 ALR 1077; State v Curtis (App, Franklin Co) 83 Ohio L Abs 25, 167 NE2d 359; Rawlings v State (Okla Crim) 740 P2d 153; Hilyard v State, 90 Okla Crim 435, 214 P2d 953, 28 ALR2d 961; Commonwealth v Boden, 399 Pa 298, 159 A2d 894, 88 ALR2d 223, cert den 364 US 846, 5 L Ed 2d 70, 81 S Ct 89; State v Owens, 293 SC 161, 359 SE2d 275, cert den 484 US 982, 98 L Ed 2d 495, 108 S Ct 496, later proceeding (SC) 424 SE2d 473, cert den (US) 123 L Ed 2d 482, 113 S Ct 1861; State v Ervin (Tenn Crim) 731 SW2d 70; McCallum v State, 160 Tex Crim 173, 267 SW2d 823; Williams v State, 156 Tex Crim 636, 245 SW2d 709; Wright v Commonwealth, 245 Va 177, 427 SE2d 379, petition for certiorari filed (May 27, 1993).

Corpus delicti of a killing may be proved by circumstantial evidence by proof of (1) means, (2) motive, (3) time and place, and (4) conduct of the defendant. Beasley v Holland (SD W Va) 649 F Supp 561, dismd without op (CA4 W Va) 841 F2d 1122, cert den 488 US 860, 102 L Ed 2d 127, 109 S Ct 156.

Footnote 96. Campbell v People, 159 Ill 9, 42 NE 123.

Footnote 97. State v Barnes, 47 Or 592, 85 P 998.

5. Identification [1478-1484]

a. In General [1478]

§ 1478 Generally; proof by circumstantial evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

It is not essential that an identifying witness make a positive identification or be free from doubt as to the correctness of the identification for the evidence of the identity of the accused as the person who committed the crime to be sufficient. Rather, uncertainty in identification is a matter of weight and witness credibility for the trier of fact to consider in reaching a determination. 98 The trier of fact may infer identification from all the facts and circumstances in evidence, 99 and the prosecution may establish the identity of the defendant entirely by circumstantial evidence. 1 The defendant may be identified, for example, by proof of any peculiarity of size, appearance, voice, features, or clothing. 2

Indefiniteness and uncertainty in testimony affect its weight, and testimony relative to identification of the accused will have greater or less weight according to the opportunity that the witness had for observation, 3 including the length of time which a victim had to observe an offender, lighting conditions, and other factors affecting visibility. 4 Further, when identification of the defendant depends solely on eyewitness testimony, any emotion, such as extreme fright, experienced by the witness during the criminal ordeal might lessen the value of the witness' later identification of the accused. 5

An extrajudicial identification of a defendant as a perpetrator of a crime, that cannot be confirmed by identification at the trial, is insufficient to sustain a conviction in the absence of other evidence tending to connect the defendant with the crime. Thus, a juvenile court erred in entering an order adjudging a minor to be a ward of the court upon a finding that he committed assault with a deadly weapon, where the only evidence connecting the minor with the charged assault was the victim's extrajudicial identification of the minor as the assailant, and where the victim could not identify the minor as the assailant at trial. 6

§ 1478 ----Generally; proof by circumstantial evidence [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Evidence that defendant, charged with mailing threatening communication, had on another occasion called police chief's home and uttered threat and that police chief subsequently received in mail dead and badly mutilated pig, was admissible on issue of defendant's identity; defendant had identified himself in phone call, his fingerprints were on package, and he testified that he owned pig carcass. United States v Pratt (1996, CA1 NH) 73 F3d 450.

Evidence that defendant, charged with mailing threatening communication, had on another occasion called police chief's home and uttered threat and that police chief subsequently received in mail dead and badly mutilated pig, was admissible on issue of defendant's identity; defendant had identified himself in phone call, his fingerprints were on package, and he testified that he owned pig carcass. United States v Pratt (1996, CA1 NH) 73 F3d 450.

Procedure in which victim was first shown surveillance photograph of defendant and then shown photographic array including defendant's photograph, and from which victim selected defendant's photo, was not unduly suggestive. People v Davis (1993, Colo App) 851 P2d 239, cert den (Colo) 1993 Colo LEXIS 793.

Two robbery victims' identification testimony was admissible, although procedure employed by police in showing victims photographs for possible identification was unduly suggestive, since identifications were reliable, in that victims had been inside car that defendant had entered in order to rob car's occupants, so that victims had opportunity to observe defendant during commission of crime. State v Felder (1995) 39 Conn App 840, 668 A2d 382, app den 236 Conn 906, 670 A2d 1306.

In capital murder prosecution, trial court did not err in admitting, during guilt-innocence phase, "Identikit" sketch of man wearing sunglasses who resembled defendant where, during trial, defendant's only objection to admission of this evidence was that detective who identified sketch was unauthorized to do so due to lack of knowledge of "Identikits," but detective identified sketch in question as one made at his request by another detective who was certified to do so. Burgess v State (1994) 264 Ga 777, 450 SE2d 680, 94 Fulton County D R 3985, reconsideration den (Dec 20, 1994) and petition for certiorari filed (Mar 17, 1995).

People proved defendant's identity as perpetrator based on victims' identifications, although victims testified that perpetrators wore masks which partially obscured their faces, where (1) victims observed several of defendant's facial features for 20 to 45 minutes from distance of 4 feet in well-lighted room, (2) mask worn by defendant had eyes cut out above brow and to cheekbones and full mouth from lips to chin, (3) defendant's eyes, bushy eyebrows, and full lips were visible, and (4) victims identified defendant in lineup in which participants were seated and covered with sheet that revealed only their faces. People v Coico (1989, 2d Dept) 156 AD2d 578, 549 NYS2d 86, app den 75 NY2d 867, 553 NYS2d 299, 552 NE2d 878.

Arresting officer did not impermissibly bolster identification testimony of undercover officer where arresting officer never testified that undercover officer made drive-by confirmation of defendant's identity, but instead related circumstances leading to defendant's arrest and informed jury that arrest was based solely on radio description transmitted, not on his personal observation of incident. People v Acevedo (1992, 1st Dept) 181 AD2d 596, 581 NYS2d 334, app den 79 NY2d 1045, 584 NYS2d 1013, 596 NE2d 411.

Court's charge regarding identification of defendant as person who committed charged offenses was proper where jury was instructed to consider all circumstances surrounding crime in determining whether witnesses' identification testimony was credible. People v Hoytt (1992, 2d Dept) 184 AD2d 659, 587 NYS2d 166, app den 80 NY2d 930, 589 NYS2d 858, 603 NE2d 963.

There is no "trained officer exception" to sanctions against potentially erroneous or tainted identifications of criminal defendants. People v Munroe (1992, 3d Dept) 185 AD2d 530, 586 NYS2d 420.

The victim's identification of defendant as the driver of the vehicle from which the codefendant shot at the victim was not inherently incredible so as to require the dismissal of charges against defendant for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and discharging a firearm into occupied property where the victim testified that she met defendant in the summer of 1992, she had seen him twenty to twenty-five times before the incident in May 1993, and when she pulled alongside the codefendant's vehicle, she noticed defendant looking at her from the driver's side. State v Beasley (1995) 118 NC App 508, 455 SE2d 880.

Defendant was entitled to new trial since conviction was based solely on victim's identification testimony and defendant was unfairly prejudiced by testimony which bolstered victim's identification where police officer testified that he arrested defendant after victim identified him and after ensuring that victim was certain of her identification. People v Bell (1989, 2d Dept) 155 AD2d 471, 547 NYS2d 567.

Footnotes

Footnote 98. People v Jenkins (Colo App) 768 P2d 727.

A witness need not describe the offender with complete accuracy; some inconsistencies between defendant's description of himself and complainant's description are minor and have no impact on the sufficiency of complainant's identification. People v Kinzer (1st Dist) 214 Ill App 3d 790, 158 Ill Dec 361, 574 NE2d 155 (criticized on other grounds by People v Lopez (1st Dist) 216 Ill App 3d 83, 159 Ill Dec 577, 576 NE2d 246) and (criticized on other grounds by People v Chandler (1st Dist) 218 Ill App 3d 97, 161 Ill Dec 28, 578 NE2d 155) and app den 146 Ill 2d 640, 176 Ill Dec 811, 602 NE2d 465.

Annotation: Admissibility and weight of extrajudicial or pretrial identification where witness was unable or failed to make in-court identification, 29 ALR4th 104.

Footnote 99. Butler v United States (CA8 ND) 317 F2d 249, 6 ALR3d 582, cert den 375 US 836, 11 L Ed 2d 65, 84 S Ct 67 and cert den 375 US 838, 11 L Ed 2d 65, 84 S Ct 77; Womack v State, 301 Ark 193, 783 SW2d 33; People v Brengard, 265 NY 100, 191 NE 850, 93 ALR 1465; Commonwealth v Boden, 399 Pa 298, 159 A2d 894, 88 ALR2d 223, cert den 364 US 846, 5 L Ed 2d 70, 81 S Ct 89.

Footnote 1. Womack v State, 301 Ark 193, 783 SW2d 33; People v Barnum (4th Dist) 147 Cal App 2d 803, 305 P2d 986; State v Mecum, 225 Neb 293, 404 NW2d 431.

Footnote 2. People v Van De Wouwer, 91 Cal App 2d 633, 205 P2d 693.

As to voice identification, see § 1481.

Annotation: Admissibility and weight, in criminal case, of expert or scientific evidence respecting characteristics and identification of human hair, 23 ALR4th 1199.

Admissibility, weight, and sufficiency of blood-grouping tests in criminal cases, 2 ALR4th 500.

Footnote 3. Warren v State, 103 Ark 165, 146 SW 477; People v Kramer, 103 Cal App 2d 35, 229 P2d 53; Small v State, 165 Neb 381, 85 NW2d 712, 70 ALR2d 984.

Identification by voice alone was insufficient evidence to convict for bank robbery. Reamer v United States (CA6 Mich) 229 F2d 884.

The weight of the testimony relative to identification is a question for the trier of fact. People v Houser, 85 Cal App 2d 686, 193 P2d 937.

The resolving of any discrepancies in the testimony as to the defendant's identity and his presence at the time of the offense, in a narcotics case, is a factual question for the jury. People v Ramirez (4th Dist) 163 Cal App 2d 590, 329 P2d 499.

Footnote 4. Battle v State (Ala App) 574 So 2d 943, reh den, without op (Ala App) 1990 Ala Crim App LEXIS 2018, cert den (Ala) 1991 Ala LEXIS 153.

Annotation: Necessity of, and prejudicial effect of omitting, cautionary instruction to jury as to reliability of, or factors to be considered in evaluating, eyewitness identification testimony—state cases, 23 ALR4th 1089.

Footnote 5. Harper v Kelly (CA2 NY) 916 F2d 54, 31 Fed Rules Evid Serv 469, cert den 499 US 943, 113 L Ed 2d 459, 111 S Ct 1403, further stating that a jury's conclusions might be affected by whether an eyewitness remained calm during the robbery and had a good look at the perpetrator or was so frightened that he could not do so.

Footnote 6. In re G., 25 Cal 3d 543, 159 Cal Rptr 180, 601 P2d 196.

b. Courtroom Identification [1479, 1480]

§ 1479 Generally; necessity

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

In the absence of statute, one accused of a crime may be sufficiently identified by the uncorroborated testimony of the prosecuting witness, provided that the commission of the offense has first been established. 7 Courtroom identification is not necessary, however, when the evidence is sufficient to permit the inference that the defendant on trial is the person who committed the acts charged. 8

§ 1479 ----Generally; necessity [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

U.S. customs agent's in-court identification of defendant charged with possessing cocaine with intent to distribute and testimony that defendant's physical appearance was no longer same was highly probative since it corroborated other trial testimony that government witness had seen defendant and two others together at airport and it was defendant's atypical appearance which had attracted witness's attention to trio. United States v Cotto-Aponte (1994, CA1 Puerto Rico) 30 F3d 4.

Footnotes

Footnote 7. La Vigne v Commonwealth (Ky) 353 SW2d 376, 92 ALR2d 988; Henderson

v State, 85 Neb 444, 123 NW 459.

Annotation: Necessity of, and prejudicial effect of omitting, cautionary instruction to jury as to reliability of, or factors to be considered in evaluating, eyewitness identification testimony—state cases, 23 ALR4th 1089.

Footnote 8. United States v Morrow (CA4 NC) 925 F2d 779 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Naghdi (CA9) 1992 US App LEXIS 1401); United States v Capozzi (CA8 Mo) 883 F2d 608, 28 Fed Rules Evid Serv 898, reh den, en banc (CA8) 1989 US App LEXIS 15565 and cert den 495 US 918, 109 L Ed 2d 310, 110 S Ct 1947.

Defendant in a RICO case claimed that the evidence against him was insufficient because no one specifically identified him in court; that is, no one said that he, the man in the courtroom was the same man about whom the witnesses were talking. The defendant, however, had the same name, "Jake," as the person indicted and about whom the witnesses spoke; the defendant stipulated that he received salary payments as Revere Police Chief, as did the man discussed by the witnesses; and all the witnesses saw the defendant in court and heard him referred to by his name and no one denied the identity. United States v Doherty (CA1 Mass) 867 F2d 47, cert den 492 US 918, 106 L Ed 2d 590, 109 S Ct 3243, later proceeding (DC Mass) 729 F Supp 165.

Where appellant did not take the stand, and no witness physically indicated his presence in the courtroom, there was sufficient evidence to identify appellant as the accused because appellant was the sole defendant on trial, the jury could clearly infer that the Stanley Lingar referred to by the witnesses was the defendant present in the court, and a coparticipant in the crime and a man intimately acquainted with appellant referred to appellant by name throughout his testimony. State v Lingar (Mo) 726 SW2d 728, cert den 484 US 872, 98 L Ed 2d 157, 108 S Ct 206.

Annotation: Admissibility and weight of extrajudicial or pretrial identification where witness was unable or failed to make in-court identification, 29 ALR4th 104.

§ 1480 Identification by single eyewitness

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Absent physical impossibility or inherent improbability, the testimony of a single eyewitness, 9 if it is positive and credible 10 and believed by the jury beyond a reasonable doubt, is sufficient to establish identity 11 and support a criminal conviction 12 even if it is contradicted by the accused 13 or alibi testimony. 14 The victim's testimony alone is also sufficient to establish the defendant's presence at the crime scene. 15 The sufficiency of identification evidence is a question for the trier of fact, and discrepancies in identification simply present a question of the credibility of the witness and the weight to be given to the testimony. 16 In assessing the sufficiency of the evidence, the trier of fact should consider:

- (1) the opportunity of the witness to view the criminal at the time of the crime,
- (2) the witness's degree of attention,
- (3) the accuracy of the witness's prior description of the criminal,
- (4) the level of certainty demonstrated by the witness at the confrontation, and
- (5) the length of time between the crime and the confrontation. 17

§ 1480 ----Identification by single eyewitness [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Effects of witnessing conditions and expert witness testimony on credibility of an eyewitness, 8 Am J Forens Psychol 4:11 (1990).

Deja vu all over again: Elliott's critique of eyewitness experts, 18 Law & Hum Beh 203 (1994).

Footnotes

Footnote 9. People v Allen (2nd Dist) 165 Cal App 3d 616, 211 Cal Rptr 837 (criticized on other grounds by People v Berry (2nd Dist) 17 Cal App 4th 332, 21 Cal Rptr 2d 299, 93 CDOS 5547, 93 Daily Journal DAR 9403); People v Slim, 127 Ill 2d 302, 130 Ill Dec 250, 537 NE2d 317; State v Myles (La App 1st Cir) 616 So 2d 754, cert den (La) 629 So 2d 369.

Footnote 10. People v Henne (4th Dist) 165 Ill App 3d 315, 116 Ill Dec 296, 518 NE2d 1276 (further stating that conviction cannot be based on a vague, doubtful or uncertain identification).

Footnote 11. State v Little (Mo App) 795 SW2d 95.

Footnote 12. People v Allen (2nd Dist) 165 Cal App 3d 616, 211 Cal Rptr 837 (criticized on other grounds by People v Berry (2nd Dist) 17 Cal App 4th 332, 21 Cal Rptr 2d 299, 93 CDOS 5547, 93 Daily Journal DAR 9403).

Footnote 13. People v Henne (4th Dist) 165 Ill App 3d 315, 116 Ill Dec 296, 518 NE2d 1276.

Law Reviews: Wilcox, Symposium on Eyewitness Identification Testimony. 8 U Brdgprt LR 1 (1987).

Footnote 14. People v Slim, 127 Ill 2d 302, 130 Ill Dec 250, 537 NE2d 317.

As to the alibi defense, see § 1496.

Footnote 15. State v Chism (Mo App) 799 SW2d 151.

As to presence at crime scene alone as insufficient to support conviction, see § 1465.

Footnote 16. People v Slim, 127 Ill 2d 302, 130 Ill Dec 250, 537 NE2d 317; People v McKinley (1st Dist) 242 Ill App 3d 124, 182 Ill Dec 186, 609 NE2d 720, app den 153 Ill 2d 566, 191 Ill Dec 625, 624 NE2d 813.

Uncertainty in identification is a matter of weight and witness credibility to be considered by the jury in reaching its determination. People v Jenkins (Colo App) 768 P2d 727.

Where witness initially described defendant as having dark or brown hair and brown eyes at the time of the offense, when he in fact had green eyes and gray or graying hair, these discrepancies go only to the weight of the witness's testimony and do not render the identification insufficient as a matter of law. People v McCall (2d Dist) 190 Ill App 3d 483, 137 Ill Dec 438, 546 NE2d 62, app den 129 Ill 2d 569, 140 Ill Dec 677, 550 NE2d 562.

Footnote 17. State v Myers (Minn App) 413 NW2d 122, mod, en banc (Minn) 416 NW2d 736.

c. Other Evidence of Identification [1481-1484]

§ 1481 Voice identification

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

In many cases, a victim of a crime is able to identify the defendant only by recognition of the defendant's voice. Voice identification is acceptable and sufficient to support a conviction where the victim has a prior familiarity with the defendant's voice or where the voice has clearly recognizable peculiarities. 18 For example, the voice identification of the defendant was not so inherently unreliable that it raised substantial doubts as to guilt, even though the victim never saw the face of the assailant at time of the attack and drank a considerable amount of alcohol on the night of the crime, where the defendant was the neighbor of the victim for over five years, they visited each others' homes on several occasions, spoke with each other, and had drinks together. 19

In the absence of the two requirements for identification based solely on voice identification, voice identification can support a conviction where additional circumstantial evidence corroborates the voice identification to provide a sufficient evidentiary basis to permit the matter to go to the jury on the question of whether the defendant was the person who committed the crime. 20 A rape and burglary victim's recognition and identification of defendant by his voice, for example, together with defendant's confession, and several articles seized from his residence and identified as connected with the crime, was sufficient to identify defendant as perpetrator of crime. 21

Some courts appear to apply a totality of the circumstances test in which voice identification of the defendant by the victim is weighed in conjunction with other evidence of identification. 22 For example, a burglary victim's voice identification of the defendant was reliable under the totality of the circumstances where the defendant had talked incessantly during his confrontation with the victim and the victim further identified other physical characteristics of the defendant. 23

Telephone conversations with the defendant and sound recordings of defendant's voice may also be the basis of a voice identification. Communications by telephone are admissible in evidence where otherwise relevant to the facts in issue. The identity of the caller may be established by circumstantial evidence, such as if the party calling, in addition to a statement of his identity, relates facts and circumstances, which, taken with other established facts, tend to reveal his identity. 24 A witness may also identify a speaker on transcripts of tape-recorded telephone conversations as the defendant. 25

§ 1481 ----Voice identification [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Two bank tellers' identification of defendant's voice as that of bank robber was properly admitted since robber had tellers' undivided attention during robbery with shouted commands and threats while armed, both had opportunity during defendant's first trial to hear him speak, both testified, based on his unusual voice and accent, that his was voice of robber, neither teller equivocated in identification of voice, and identifications occurred just three months after robbery., United States v Duran (1993, CA9 Wash) 4 F3d 800, 93 CDOS 6779, 93 Daily Journal DAR 11575, cert den (US) 1994 US LEXIS 1084.

In prosecution for sexual assault and criminal restraint, pretrial voice lineup at which victim identified defendant's voice was not impermissibly suggestive, where voice array included six voices, several of which sounded similar to defendant's voice, each reciting identical nursery rhymes; voice identification was otherwise reliable under totality of circumstances, where victim had ample opportunity to listen to her attacker's voice since she engaged him in conversation by asking him questions, she said she listened to his voice intently hoping that she could later identify him, she described attacker's voice to police, pretrial voice identification occurred only a few days after incident, and victim never equivocated in her identification of defendant's voice as voice of assailant. State v Gallagher (1995, App Div) 286 NJ Super 1, 668 A2d 55.

Footnotes

Footnote 18. White v State, 303 Ark 30, 792 SW2d 867; Delatorre v State (Ind) 544 NE2d 1379; State v Worthen (La App 3d Cir) 550 So 2d 399; State v Booker (Utah) 709 P2d 342 (ovrld on other grounds by State v Long (Utah) 721 P2d 483, 36 Utah Adv Rep 11) as stated in State v Jonas (Utah) 725 P2d 1378, 42 Utah Adv Rep 27.

Annotation: Admissibility and weight of voiceprint evidence, 97 ALR3d 294.

Requiring suspect or defendant in criminal case to demonstrate voice for purposes of identification, 24 ALR3d 1261.

Identification of accused by his voice, 70 ALR2d 995.

Footnote 19. People v Nunn (1st Dist) 101 Ill App 3d 983, 57 Ill Dec 478, 428 NE2d 1158.

Victim's identification of defendant by his voice, which she recognized immediately due to her prior employment of him and his mother, together with other evidence, was sufficient to authorize a rational trier of fact to convict defendant of rape, aggravated sodomy, and burglary. Clark v State, 186 Ga App 882, 369 SE2d 282.

Footnote 20. State v Booker (Utah) 709 P2d 342 (ovrld on other grounds by State v Long (Utah) 721 P2d 483, 36 Utah Adv Rep 11) as stated in State v Jonas (Utah) 725 P2d 1378, 42 Utah Adv Rep 27.

Footnote 21. State v Trent (La App 3d Cir) 517 So 2d 1053.

Footnote 22. State v Gilbert (La App 5th Cir) 520 So 2d 1184, appeal after remand (La App 5th Cir) 535 So 2d 1313; State v Seaton (Mo App) 674 SW2d 214.

Footnote 23. State v Hoffpauir, 44 Wash App 195, 722 P2d 113, review den 107 Wash 2d 1003.

Testimony of 16-year-old rape victim and her 19-year-old sister who shared bed in bedroom of mobile home, that they identified defendant as their attacker by his voice, and that they had known defendant for years and recognized his voice because he had been married to their aunt, together with other evidence, was sufficient to support conviction of rape and burglary. Seagraves v State, 191 Ga App 207, 381 SE2d 523.

Voice identification of defendant by victim of rape, armed robbery, home invasion, and burglary, together with victim's son's identification of defendant from photograph, and defendant's identification by accomplice, was sufficient to support conviction. People v Dunn (1st Dist) 160 Ill App 3d 11, 111 Ill Dec 867, 513 NE2d 113, app den 117 Ill 2d 548, 115 Ill Dec 404, 517 NE2d 1090, habeas corpus proceeding (ND Ill) 1990 US Dist LEXIS 36.

Identity of defendant was proved beyond reasonable doubt where victim testified that, even though her attacker attempted to disguise his voice, she recognized it to be that of defendant with whom she had been speaking only hours earlier, and she was able to give general description which fit defendant. People v Alston (2d Dept) 134 App Div 2d 433, 521 NYS2d 56, app dismd without op 71 NY2d 966, 529 NYS2d 77, 524 NE2d 431 and cert den 488 US 832, 102 L Ed 2d 66, 109 S Ct 90.

Footnote 24. State v Nickles (Utah) 728 P2d 123, 43 Utah Adv Rep 20.

Footnote 25. United States v Cooke (CA6 Ohio) 795 F2d 527 (stating that the voice on wiretap recordings was properly identified as that of the defendant by the testimony of an FBI special agent that he had heard defendant speak in open court in Florida and Ohio and was satisfied that voice on tape was defendant's).

The jury could confirm the witness' identification where the witness testified that he was present when the voice exemplar of defendant was taken; that he had examined the voice exemplars of other key speakers; that he had heard the defendant and other key speakers speak in person several times; that he was able to recognize the speakers' voices on tapes by relying on such factors as tone, diction, accent, and speed of delivery; and where the speakers often identified themselves in the course of call. United States v Rengifo (CA1 Mass) 789 F2d 975, 20 Fed Rules Evid Serv 1259.

Law Reviews: Carr, Voices, Tests, and Technology: Evidence Law Confronts Tapes and Their Transcriptions. 35 St. LU LJ 289 (Winter, 1991).

§ 1482 Fingerprints and palmprints

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Evidence of fingerprint or palmprint identification may be sufficient to support a conviction in a criminal prosecution. 26 Fingerprint evidence is circumstantial evidence which attempts to connect the defendant to the offense alleged. Fingerprint evidence alone is sufficient to establish identity if the prints are found at the scene of the crime under such circumstances that they could have only been made at the time of the commission of the crime. 27 Therefore, the unexplained presence of the defendant's fingerprint at or near the apparent point of entry in an apartment is proof of the commission of the offense by the defendant. But, the defendant will not be proved guilty beyond a reasonable doubt where——the fingerprint can reasonably be explained by the presence of the defendant in the apartment at some other time;

—the state fails to establish that the defendant had not been in the apartment at any other time than at the time of the crime's commission; or

—the state fails to demonstrate that the object upon which the fingerprint is found has never been removed from the apartment, so that the defendant could not have touched it even though he has never been authorized to enter the apartment. 28 Slight blurrings or imperfections in the fingerprints, preventing positive identification, will not affect the sufficiency of the proof to support a conviction where there is other evidence tending to connect the defendant with the crime. 29

It should be noted that while the a defendant's fingerprints at the scene of a crime is evidence that defendant was present at the scene, where defendant's prints are not found, the converse is not proved. That is, their absence does not conclusively show that defendant was not present at the scene, because there are many other explanations for their absence, such as the presence of other prints, or that the prints were smeared, or imperfect police lifting procedures. 30

The weight to be given evidence of the correspondence of fingerprints and palmprints, where offered to prove the identity of the accused as the person committing a crime, is for the determination of the jury in the light of all the surrounding facts and circumstances. 31 Thus, it is for the jury to determine the weight to be given testimony of qualified experts, 32 and the inability of the prosecution to establish the twelve-point comparison used by the F.B.I. goes to the weight to be given fingerprint identification, not to its admissibility. 33

§ 1482 ----Fingerprints and palmprints [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

The State submitted substantial evidence of circumstances from which the jury could find in a prosecution for murder, burglary, robbery, and attempted rape that defendant's fingerprints could only have been impressed at the time the crimes charged were committed where the State's evidence showed that the victim was wearing her eyeglasses all day on the day the crimes were committed; the victim was studying or reading most of that day; she was reading when the group left at around 10:00 p.m. for a party, leaving her alone in the apartment; the furniture was in order and the victim was sitting on the sofa with her eyeglasses on, reading the newspaper when the group left the apartment; when the group returned approximately an hour later, the apartment was in disarray, the victim's lifeless body was lying on the floor away from the sofa, which had been moved, and her eyeglasses were on the coffee table; no one else was in the apartment; and defendant's fingerprint was found on the inside lens of the victim's eyeglasses. This evidence, disclosing the circumstances under which the eyeglasses were found, when combined with other testimony placing defendant in the vicinity of the victim's apartment, constitutes substantial evidence from which the jury could find that defendant's fingerprints could only have been impressed on the lens between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 11:05 p.m. Since the evidence also showed that the crimes were committed during the same period, the fingerprint evidence logically tends to show that defendant was present and participated in the commission of the crimes. State v Montgomery (1995) 341 NC 553, 461 SE2d 732.

Footnotes

Footnote 26. State v Carter, 118 Ariz 562, 578 P2d 991; People v Rodis (3rd Dist) 145 Cal App 2d 44, 301 P2d 886; Jamison v State, 209 Tenn 426, 354 SW2d 252; Briones v State (Tex Crim) 363 SW2d 466.

Practice References Evidentiary value of prints, impressions, and other marks (fingerprints). 1 Am Jur Trials 555, Locating and Preserving Evidence §§ 101-120.

Footnote 27. Pierce v State, 145 Ga App 569, 244 SE2d 87; People v White (2d Dist) 241 Ill App 3d 291, 181 Ill Dec 746, 608 NE2d 1220; People v King (3d Dist) 135 Ill App 3d 152, 90 Ill Dec 274, 481 NE2d 1074; People v King (3d Dist) 88 Ill App 3d 548, 43 Ill Dec 937, 410 NE2d 1070; State v White (La App 2d Cir) 430 So 2d 171, cert den (La) 433 So 2d 1055 and cert den (La) 433 So 2d 1055; Colvin v State, 299 Md 88, 472 A2d 953, cert den 469 US 873, 83 L Ed 2d 155, 105 S Ct 226, post-conviction proceeding 314 Md 1, 548 A2d 506, later proceeding 332 Md 144, 630 A2d 725, petition for certiorari filed (Dec 10, 1993); People v Himmelein, 177 Mich App 365, 442 NW2d 667, app den 434 Mich 903, reconsideration den 435 Mich 879 and cert den 498 US 1096, 112 L Ed 2d 1070, 111 S Ct 985 and (criticized on other grounds by People v Leary, 198 Mich App 282, 497 NW2d 922); State v Stewart (Mo App) 615 SW2d 600, later proceeding (Mo App) 679 SW2d 883 and habeas corpus proceeding (WD Mo) 1989 US Dist LEXIS 2610; People v Pena (2d Dept) 99 App Div 2d 846, 472 NYS2d 156; Commonwealth v Price, 278 Pa Super 255, 420 A2d 527; State v Horton, 170 W Va 395, 294 SE2d 248.

To sustain a conviction based solely on fingerprint evidence, the state must prove, to the exclusion of every other reasonable hypothesis, that the defendant's fingerprints found at the crime scene could only have been impressed there when the crime was committed.

Tyler v State, 198 Ga App 685, 402 SE2d 780, 102-49 Fulton County D R 19B.

In order to sustain a conviction solely on fingerprint evidence, the attendant circumstances must establish that the object upon which the prints were found was generally inaccessible to the defendant; thus, a jury could rationally find beyond a reasonable doubt the object had been touched during the commission of the crime. State v Watson, 224 NJ Super 354, 540 A2d 875, cert den 111 NJ 620, 546 A2d 537 and cert den 488 US 983, 102 L Ed 2d 566, 109 S Ct 535.

Fingerprint evidence, although circumstantial in nature, is sufficient proof if it leads to a conclusion of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt and excludes every hypothesis of innocence. People v Murray (2d Dept) 168 App Div 2d 572, 562 NYS2d 788.

In order for fingerprint evidence alone to sustain a conviction, the jury must determine that the fingerprints could only have been impressed during the commission of the crime. State v Kyger (Tenn Crim) 787 SW2d 13, reh den (Tenn Crim) 1989 Tenn Crim App LEXIS 757, post-conviction proceeding (Tenn Crim) 1993 Tenn Crim App LEXIS 224.

Footnote 28. J.C. v State (Fla App D3) 377 So 2d 731; People v King (3d Dist) 88 Ill App 3d 548, 43 Ill Dec 937, 410 NE2d 1070; State v White, 67 NC App 348, 312 SE2d 712.

Conviction of housebreaking was reversed where only evidence linking defendant to crime was his fingerprints on ordinary glass jar found at scene of crime, and the prosecution introduced no evidence indicating that jars were otherwise inaccessible to defendant. Borum v United States, 127 US App DC 48, 380 F2d 595.

Presence of defendant's fingerprint on steam iron whose cord was used to strangle murder victim was insufficient to support defendant's conviction for murder where there was evidence that defendant had been in victim's apartment some time prior to murder and state did not rule out possibility that print could have been impressed on iron at time other than when crime was committed. People v Donahue (1st Dist) 50 Ill App 3d 392, 8 Ill Dec 472, 365 NE2d 710.

Evidence was sufficient to justify inference by jury that palmprint found on telephone receiver ripped from wall during armed robbery of restaurant was left by defendant at time of crime where testimony by defendant that he used telephone while making job application one day prior to robbery was rebutted by testimony of restaurant personnel that no one applied for job during month robbery occurred, and that telephone had been cleaned minutes before robbery occurred. State v Crawford (Mo) 619 SW2d 735.

Footnote 29. Moon v State, 22 Ariz 418, 198 P 288, 16 ALR 362, upholding a conviction notwithstanding that the impressions of the index and little fingers were blurred beyond possibility of identification, and the print of the middle finger was blurred at the center, where the print of the third finger was exceptionally perfect, and there was other evidence tending to prove that the defendant had committed the burglary in question.

Evidence that partial fingerprint had been lifted from hall in victim's apartment and that victim had never authorized defendant to enter her apartment, together with evidence of defendant's access to apartment through attic, presence of defendant's baseball cap in attic, and fact that victim's windows and doors were found to be locked shortly after burglary was sufficient to support conviction for attempted simple burglary of inhabited dwelling. State v Scott (La App 5th Cir) 461 So 2d 426.

Footnote 30. United States v Dove (CA2 Conn) 916 F2d 41.

Footnote 31. Mason v Commonwealth (Ky) 357 SW2d 667; Breeding v State, 220 Md 193, 151 A2d 743; State v Tew, 234 NC 612, 68 SE2d 291; State v Helms, 218 NC 592, 12 SE2d 243; Rushing v State, 88 Okla Crim 82, 199 P2d 614; Jamison v State, 209 Tenn 426, 354 SW2d 252.

The evidence of experts as to the identity of latent and actual fingerprints is a proper subject for the consideration of a jury, and the weight to be given such testimony is for the jury to determine. People v Willis, 60 Mich App 154, 230 NW2d 353.

Footnote 32. People v Willis, 60 Mich App 154, 230 NW2d 353, stating that five points of similarity between latent fingerprint and known fingerprint was not insufficient as matter of law where authorities differ on question of minimum standard and where defense failed to raise contention at trial and develop it through expert testimony.

Footnote 33. People v Gomez, 189 Colo 91, 537 P2d 297.

In prosecution for aggravated sexual assault, trial court did not err in admitting fingerprint evidence of 11 matching characteristics, where fingerprint expert testified that he found in excess of 20 matching points of identification but only marked 11, given that eight points of similarity were usually considered to be minimum requirement. Vickers v State (Tex App Beaumont) 801 SW2d 214.

§ 1483 Footprints

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The weight of evidence of the correspondence of footprints found in connection with a crime, with the track, foot, or shoe of one accused of the crime, where offered to identify the accused as the guilty person, 34 is dependent upon the circumstances of the particular case, and is a question for the trier of fact. 35 Such evidence may be very damaging to the accused when taken in connection with circumstances disclosed by following the track. 36 Similarity between footprints or tire tracks found at the scene of the crime, or leading from that place, and those of the defendant often constitutes one of a series of circumstances which is sufficient to prove that the defendant committed the crime. 37 The absence at the scene of the crime of a defendant's bootprints does not, however, conclusively show that defendant was not present at the scene, because there are many other explanations, such as defendant's disposal of the incriminating boots. Because there are numerous possible explanations for the absence of his prints, it cannot be concluded that there is a probable inference that defendant was not at the scene. Nonetheless, their absence is circumstantial evidence in defendant's favor. 38

The lack of pictures or sketches of the prints goes to the weight, not the admissibility of the footprint comparison. 39

Footnotes

Footnote 34. For discussion of admissibility of footprints for such purpose, generally, see § 572.

Footnote 35. Richardson v State, 221 Ark 567, 254 SW2d 448; People v O'Leary, 22 Ill 2d 52, 174 NE2d 191, cert den 368 US 906, 7 L Ed 2d 100, 82 S Ct 187; Ferrell v Commonwealth, 177 Va 861, 14 SE2d 293; State v Simons, 172 Wash 438, 20 P2d 844.

Annotation: Admissibility of bare footprint evidence, 45 ALR4th 1178.

Footprints as evidence, 35 ALR2d 856.

Footnote 36. Keller v People, 153 Colo 590, 387 P2d 421, holding that an FBI agent's testimony that a heelprint in the burglarized premises was made by the heel of the accused's right shoe, and no other, was sufficient, when considered with other evidence, to support a burglary conviction.

Footnote 37. People v Wynkoop (2nd Dist) 165 Cal App 2d 540, 331 P2d 1040; Hartlerode v State (Ind) 470 NE2d 716; Smith v Commonwealth (Ky) 375 SW2d 819 (holding that an accused's footprints leading to and from the assault victim's house, together with other evidence, was sufficient to sustain a conviction); State v Rhodes (La App 2d Cir) 552 So 2d 585; State v Jacques (Me) 537 A2d 587; State v Briner, 173 Mont 185, 567 P2d 35; State v Johnson, 236 Neb 831, 464 NW2d 167; State v Mihoy, 98 NH 38, 93 A2d 661, 35 ALR2d 852; State v Burclaff, 137 Vt 354, 404 A2d 512.

Conviction of burglary of pawn shop was well supported by evidence that, in early morning hours, police officer found defendant's Volkswagen stranded in mud directly across street from pawn shop, that tire tracks identically matching those of defendant's car led directly from front of store across street to where defendant's car was stuck in ditch, and that footprints in mud led from defendant's car to spot where burglary tools were found and to spot where items identified as having come from pawn shop were found. Elliott v State, 193 Ga App 49, 387 SE2d 18.

There was ample evidence to support defendant's conviction where, among other evidence linking defendant to the crime, investigation revealed a set of footprints made by tennis shoes with the word TRAX on the sole leading from the edge of the burglarized building to a hole in the roof which led to the air shaft; at the time of defendant's arrest, defendant was wearing tennis shoes with the word TRAX on them and analysis found that his shoes matched the sole pattern, size, and wear pattern of the footprints found on the roof of the building. State v Rupprecht (Minn App) 381 NW2d 25.

The evidence was sufficient to support a burglary conviction where officers found the shoe tracks of three persons behind the burglarized store, one set of tracks revealing three distinctive ridges on the heels which matched the accused's shoes. Salas v State (Tex Crim) 385 SW2d 859.

Footnote 38. United States v Dove (CA2 Conn) 916 F2d 41.

Footnote 39. Burton v State (Ind App) 564 NE2d 318, holding that the testimony of an investigating officer, that the prints in the snow leading to defendant's house from the scene of the crime matched the distinctive pattern on the bottom of tennis shoes found in defendant's room, was admissible despite the absence of photos or sketches of the print.

Practice References Evidentiary value of prints, impressions, and other marks (footprints and tire imprints). 1 Am Jur Trials 555, Locating and Preserving Evidence §§ 81-100.

Footprints. 3 Am Jur Trials 427, Preparing and Using Experimental Evidence § 53.

§ 1484 Dog tracking

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Courts adhering to the view that dog-tracking evidence is admissible concede that such evidence is to be accepted with caution and is not, under any circumstances, to be regarded as conclusive evidence of guilt. 40 Rather, it is cumulative or corroborative only, 41 and, at best, a circumstance for the trier of fact to consider in connection with all the other proof in the case, in determining the guilt or innocence of the accused. 42 The corroborating evidence necessary to support dog-tracking evidence need not, however, be evidence which independently links the defendant to the crime. It suffices if the evidence merely supports the accuracy of the dog-tracking evidence and the identification implied by it. 43

Tracking evidence is, therefore, not of itself, sufficient to support a conviction. A large majority of jurisdictions allowing introduction of dog-tracking evidence do so only after other evidence has been introduced clearly connecting the accused with commission of the crime, and courts which allow dog-tracking evidence regard its probative value with some suspicion. 44 Nor can a conviction resting in part upon bloodhound evidence be supported where the other evidence tending to show guilt is fragmentary and unsubstantial. 45

§ 1484 ----Dog tracking [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Tracking-dog evidence was properly admitted, and sufficient in combination with other evidence to support defendant's armed robbery conviction, since after bank robbery police dogs tracked trail to ditch where defendant was found hiding in vicinity of gun used, and money stolen, in robbery. People v Stone (1992) 195 Mich App 600. 491 NW2d 628.

Footnotes

Footnote 40. Brott v State, 70 Neb 395, 97 NW 593; State v Hunter, 143 NC 607, 56 SE 547; State v Dickerson, 77 Ohio St 34, 82 NE 969.

Footnote 41. Brott v State, 70 Neb 395, 97 NW 593; State v Hunter, 143 NC 607, 56 SE 547; State v Dickerson, 77 Ohio St 34, 82 NE 969; State v Loucks, 98 Wash 2d 563, 656 P2d 480.

Due to varying skills of tracking dogs and their handlers, as well as the possibility that a jury may give more weight to dog-tracking evidence than it is entitled to, there must be other corroborating evidence presented before identification is sufficient to support a guilty verdict. People v Laidlaw, 169 Mich App 84, 425 NW2d 738.

The dangers inherent in the use of dog-tracking evidence can only be alleviated by the presence of corroborating evidence identifying the accused as the perpetrator of the crime. State v Loucks, 98 Wash 2d 563, 656 P2d 480.

Footnote 42. State v Adams, 85 Kan 435, 116 P 608; Pedigo v Commonwealth, 103 Ky 41, 44 SW 143.

Annotation: Evidence of trailing by dogs in criminal cases, 18 ALR3d 1221.

Footnote 43. People v Gonzales (5th Dist) 218 Cal App 3d 403, 267 Cal Rptr 138.

Footnote 44. Hodge v State, 98 Ala 10, 13 So 385; State v Adams, 85 Kan 435, 116 P 608; State v King, 144 La 430, 80 So 615; Carter v State, 106 Miss 507, 64 So 215; Brott v State, 70 Neb 395, 97 NW 593; State v Hunter, 143 NC 607, 56 SE 547; State v Dickerson, 77 Ohio St 34, 82 NE 969; Parker v State, 46 Tex Crim 461, 80 SW 1008; State v Loucks, 98 Wash 2d 563, 656 P2d 480.

Footnote 45. State v Freyer, 330 Mo 62, 48 SW2d 894.

6. Testimony of Accomplices; Corroboration Thereof [1485-1492]

a. In General [1485, 1486]

§ 1485 Testimony, generally

The credibility of the testimony of accomplices suffers from the effect of fear, threats, hostility, motives, or hope of leniency. 46 Accomplice testimony is therefore not of the most satisfactory character 47 and the consideration of its infirmities goes to the credibility of the evidence. 48 The testimony must be closely scrutinized and accepted with caution. 49 However, although the trier of fact is to view the testimony of an accomplice with suspicion, it may nevertheless be enough to sustain a conviction, even in the absence of corroboration. 50

§ 1485 ----Testimony, generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Evidence was sufficient to establish that defendants possessed cocaine Coast Guard recovered from ocean and government later submitted as evidence at trial, even without considering that defendants and their boat tested positive for cocaine after they were seized: bales observed being thrown overboard from defendants' boat were same bales later recovered by Coast Guard in vicinity where boat had been seen, crewman from navy surveillance aircraft testified that they saw people aboard defendants' boat throw bales from vessel overboard into water and that those in evidence were same ones, photographs from surveillance aircraft showed same bales in water that were present in courtroom, and crew testified that boat tried to evade it and even fired upon it, and that boat was type commonly used for drug smuggling, and cargo area of boat had been washed down with gasoline as is commonly done to eradicate traces of contraband. United States v Romero (1994, CA1) 32 F3d 641.

Admission of police officer's testimony that he had told defendant's 17-year-old girlfriend of defendant's affairs with other women in order to convince her to break up relationship and return home, which was offered to rebut girlfriend's trial testimony that she had lied in telling grand jury that she had seen guns and cocaine in defendant's apartment, was harmless since officer's testimony only corroborated what jury had already heard from girlfriend, though it should have been excluded as irrelevant. United States v Thompson (1996, CA9 Alaska) 82 F3d 849, 96 CDOS 2950, 96 Daily Journal DAR 4879.

Footnotes

Footnote 46. People v Crump, 5 Ill 2d 251, 125 NE2d 615, 52 ALR2d 834, appeal after remand 12 Ill 2d 402, 147 NE2d 76, cert den 357 US 906, 2 L Ed 2d 1155, 78 S Ct 1148, reh den 357 US 944, 2 L Ed 2d 1558, 78 S Ct 1382, habeas corpus proceeding (CA7 Ill) 807 F2d 1394.

As to who is an accomplice, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 166.

Law Reviews: Note, Accomplice Testimony under Contingent Plea Agreements. 72 Cor LR 800 (May 1987).

Footnote 47. People v Nitzberg, 287 NY 183, 38 NE2d 490, 138 ALR 1253, reh den 287 NY 754, 40 NE2d 40, 138 ALR 1266.

Footnote 48. Caminetti v United States, 242 US 470, 61 L Ed 442, 37 S Ct 192; People v Bowley, 59 Cal 2d 855, 31 Cal Rptr 471, 382 P2d 591, 96 ALR2d 1178, appeal after remand (1st Dist) 230 Cal App 2d 269, 40 Cal Rptr 859; State v Bailey, 254 NC 380, 119 SE2d 165; State v Hale, 231 NC 412, 57 SE2d 322.

Footnote 49. Phelps v United States (CA5 Tex) 252 F2d 49; United States v Lancaster (CC Ga) 44 F 896; Henderson v State, 135 Fla 548, 185 So 625, 120 ALR 742; Campbell v People, 159 Ill 9, 42 NE 123; State v Richardson, 248 Mo 563, 154 SW 735; State v Turnbow, 67 NM 241, 354 P2d 533, 89 ALR2d 461; State v Bailey, 254 NC 380, 119 SE2d 165; Whiting v State, 48 Ohio St 220, 27 NE 96; State v Riddell, 38 RI 506, 96 A 531, reh den (RI) 97 A 15; State v Gross, 31 Wash 2d 202, 196 P2d 297.

Footnote 50. People v Steidl, 142 Ill 2d 204, 154 Ill Dec 616, 568 NE2d 837, cert den (US) 116 L Ed 2d 125, 112 S Ct 161.

Annotation: Propriety of specific jury instructions as to credibility of accomplices, 4 ALR3d 351.

§ 1486 Necessity of corroboration

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

At common law, it is well settled that the testimony of an accomplice, although entirely without corroboration, will support a verdict of conviction of one accused of crime, 51 unless the testimony of the accomplice appears on its face to be bald perjury, preposterous, or self-contradictory. 52 The common-law rule, although changed in many jurisdictions by statutes expressly declaring that the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice cannot sustain a conviction, 53 is still applied in some jurisdictions. 54

Where the rule that an accused may not be convicted upon the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice or accomplices in the crime prevails, the fact that the accused testifies in his own behalf does not render the rule inoperative. 55 Nor is the rule rendered inoperative where one jointly indicted with the defendant and testifying against him is acquitted by the jury, under the theory that the acquittal thereby exonerates such witness of all complicity in the crime. 56

Footnotes

Footnote 51. Caminetti v United States, 242 US 470, 61 L Ed 442, 37 S Ct 192; United States v Moran (CA2 NY) 151 F2d 661, 167 ALR 403; United States v Fawcett (CA3 NJ) 115 F2d 764, 132 ALR 404; United States v Lancaster (CC Ga) 44 F 896; State v

Heno, 119 Conn 29, 174 A 181, 94 ALR 696; Jalbert v State (Fla) 95 So 2d 589; State v Carvelo, 45 Hawaii 16, 361 P2d 45; Boutwell v State, 165 Miss 16, 143 So 479; State v Routzahn, 81 Neb 133, 115 NW 759; State v Turnbow, 67 NM 241, 354 P2d 533, 89 ALR2d 461; State v Bailey, 254 NC 380, 119 SE2d 165; State v Brunette, 28 ND 539, 150 NW 271; State v Reichert, 111 Ohio St 698, 2 Ohio L Abs 772, 146 NE 386; State v Gross, 31 Wash 2d 202, 196 P2d 297; Sparkman v State, 27 Wis 2d 92, 133 NW2d 776; State v Alderilla, 37 Wyo 478, 263 P 616.

Evidence was sufficient to sustain a conviction of conspiracy to violate the Federal Narcotic Act, based principally on the testimony of an informer who obtained the narcotics from the defendants through intermediaries. United States v Pisano (CA7 Ill) 193 F2d 355, 41 AFTR 476, 31 ALR2d 409.

Footnote 52. Jahnke v State, 68 Neb 181, 104 NW 154; Hill v State, 55 Tex Crim 407, 117 SW 134; Sparkman v State, 27 Wis 2d 92, 133 NW2d 776.

Footnote 53. Tomlinson v United States, 68 App DC 106, 93 F2d 652, 114 ALR 1315, cert den 303 US 642, 82 L Ed 1102, 58 S Ct 645 and cert den 303 US 646, 82 L Ed 1107, 58 S Ct 645; McClure v State, 214 Ark 159, 215 SW2d 524; Perryman v State, 63 Ga App 819, 12 SE2d 388; People v Smith, 55 NY2d 945, 449 NYS2d 177, 434 NE2d 246, on remand (2d Dept) 89 App Div 2d 929, 454 NYS2d 26; Finley v State, 84 Okla Crim 309, 181 P2d 849.

Footnote 54. State v Hamm, 299 NC 519, 263 SE2d 556, stating that the unsupported testimony of an accomplice is sufficient to convict if it satisfies the jury beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of the accused.

Forms: Instruction—Jury's consideration of, and weight to be given to, testimony of accomplices. 8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Form 375.

Footnote 55. Ripley v State, 189 Tenn 681, 227 SW2d 26, 19 ALR2d 1347.

Footnote 56. Ripley v State, 189 Tenn 681, 227 SW2d 26, 19 ALR2d 1347.

b. Sufficiency of Corroboration [1487-1492]

§ 1487 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In the absence of statutory provisions on the subject, the extent and degree of corroboration of the testimony of an accomplice, where corroboration is required, rest in the discretion of the trial court and necessarily vary with the circumstances of the particular case. 57 The rule in some jurisdictions, by statute or otherwise, is that the required corroborative evidence must be evidence from an independent source of some material fact tending to show not only that the crime has been committed, but that the defendant was implicated in its commission. 58 This rule generally prevails in jurisdictions in which corroboration of an accomplice is expressly required by statute. 59 Corroboration is not sufficient under this rule if it merely shows the commission of the offense or the circumstances of it, 60 and does not connect the defendant with the offense. 61 It is not sufficient that the accomplice be corroborated with respect to time, place and circumstances if there is nothing to connect the accused with the crime. 62 However, the rule is complied with if there is some evidence fairly tending to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime, so that the conviction does not rest entirely upon the evidence of the accomplice. 63

It is not necessary that every part of the testimony of the accomplice be corroborated, 64 so long as it is corroborated in some material fact legitimately tending to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime. 65 Nor is it necessary that the corroborating evidence be sufficient in itself to support a conviction. 66 Also, corroborating evidence need not be direct and positive; circumstantial evidence which tends to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime charged is sufficient. 67 Corroborative evidence is not sufficient if it merely raises a suspicion of the guilt of the accused. 68

According to a few decisions, the confirmation of a material part of the accomplice's testimony is a sufficient corroboration, and the corroborative evidence need not directly connect the accused with the commission of the crime. 69

Footnotes

Footnote 57. Valdez v United States, 244 US 432, 61 L Ed 1242, 37 S Ct 725; People v Plath, 100 NY 590, 3 NE 790.

Forms: Instruction—Jury's consideration of, and weight to be given to, testimony of accomplices. 8 Am Jur Pl & Pr Forms (Rev), Criminal Procedure, Form 375.

Footnote 58. Lindhorst v State (Ala App) 346 So 2d 11, cert den (Ala) 346 So 2d 18; McClure v State, 214 Ark 159, 215 SW2d 524; State v Fletcher, 246 Iowa 452, 68 NW2d 99; Powers v Commonwealth, 110 Ky 386, 61 SW 735, supp op 110 Ky 462, 63 SW 976; State v Ritz, 65 Mont 180, 211 P 298; People v Nitzberg, 287 NY 183, 38 NE2d 490, 138 ALR 1253, reh den 287 NY 754, 40 NE2d 40, 138 ALR 1266; State v Kent, 4 ND 577, 62 NW 631; Finley v State, 84 Okla Crim 309, 181 P2d 849; State v Reynolds, 160 Or 445, 86 P2d 413.

Where there was no evidence other than accomplice testimony connecting the defendant with a robbery in which it was alleged that he discharged the firearm into an inhabited dwelling, the accomplice testimony was uncorroborated as a matter of law. People v Falconer (1st Dist) 201 Cal App 3d 1540, 248 Cal Rptr 60.

Sufficient evidence to support a jury's verdict of murder in the first degree existed where the testimony of an accomplice that defendant was one of the perpetrators was corroborated by the testimony of defendant's girlfriend as to defendant's activities and statements on the night of the murder. Lewis v State (Fla) 398 So 2d 432.

Footnote 59. Green v State (Ala App) 342 So 2d 419; Knowles v State, 113 Ark 257, 168

SW 148; People v Moore (1st Dist) 211 Cal App 2d 585, 27 Cal Rptr 526; Powers v Commonwealth, 110 Ky 386, 61 SW 735, supp op 110 Ky 462, 63 SW 976; State v Yegen, 86 Mont 251, 283 P 210; People v Hudson, 51 NY2d 233, 433 NYS2d 1004, 414 NE2d 385; People v Becker, 215 NY 126, 109 NE 127, reh den 215 NY 721, 109 NE 1086; State v Kent, 4 ND 577, 62 NW 631; Cudjoe v State, 12 Okla Crim 246, 154 P 500.

Footnote 60. McClure v State, 214 Ark 159, 215 SW2d 524; Knowles v State, 113 Ark 257, 168 SW 148; People v O'Moore, 83 Cal App 2d 586, 189 P2d 554; Powers v Commonwealth, 110 Ky 386, 61 SW 735, supp op 110 Ky 462, 63 SW 976; State v Yegen, 86 Mont 251, 283 P 210; People v Bright, 203 NY 73, 96 NE 362; State v Kellar, 8 ND 563, 80 NW 476; State v Pancoast, 5 ND 516, 67 NW 1052; Finley v State, 84 Okla Crim 309, 181 P2d 849; State v Reynolds, 160 Or 445, 86 P2d 413; State v Phillips, 18 SD 1, 98 NW 171; Thorp v State, 59 Tex Crim 517, 129 SW 607.

Footnote 61. Nix v State, 133 Ga App 417, 211 SE2d 26; People v Nitzberg, 287 NY 183, 38 NE2d 490, 138 ALR 1253, reh den 287 NY 754, 40 NE2d 40, 138 ALR 1266; State v Reynolds, 160 Or 445, 86 P2d 413.

Where a satchel and two hammers were found in defendant's automobile, and these were the only independent evidence linking defendant to a burglary, testimony of an alleged accomplice linking defendant to the crime was not sufficiently corroborated. State v Fletcher, 246 Iowa 452, 68 NW2d 99.

Footnote 62. Nix v State, 133 Ga App 417, 211 SE2d 26.

Footnote 63. People v Ray (2nd Dist) 210 Cal App 2d 697, 26 Cal Rptr 825; State v Fletcher, 246 Iowa 452, 68 NW2d 99; People v Becker, 215 NY 126, 109 NE 127, reh den 215 NY 721, 109 NE 1086; State v Robinson, 83 Ohio St 136, 93 NE 623; Duff-Smith v State (Tex Crim) 685 SW2d 26, reh den (Feb 27, 1985) and cert den 474 US 865, 88 L Ed 2d 154, 106 S Ct 186, habeas corpus den (CA5 Tex) 973 F2d 1175, reh den (CA5) 1992 US App LEXIS 30190 and cert den (US) 123 L Ed 2d 661, 113 S Ct 1958 and habeas corpus den, stay den, certif of prob cause den (CA5 Tex) 995 F2d 545, petition for certiorari filed (Jun 28, 1993) and companion case (Tex Crim) 739 SW2d 813, later proceeding (Tex Crim) 823 SW2d 232, reh gr (Apr 4, 1990) and reh overr (Tex Crim) 1992 Tex Crim App LEXIS 9, reh dismd (Feb 12, 1992); State v Gross, 31 Wash 2d 202, 196 P2d 297.

In determining whether the evidence is sufficient to corroborate the testimony of an accomplice witness, the proper test is whether there is evidence tending to connect the defendant with the offense committed. Reed v State (Tex Crim) 744 SW2d 112.

Footnote 64. People v Moore (1st Dist) 211 Cal App 2d 585, 27 Cal Rptr 526; Miller v People, 92 Colo 481, 22 P2d 626; State v Yegen, 86 Mont 251, 283 P 210; State v Ritz, 65 Mont 180, 211 P 298; State v Gross, 31 Wash 2d 202, 196 P2d 297.

Such evidence need not establish every element of the offense or corroborate all facts testified to by the accomplice. People v Heishman, 45 Cal 3d 147, 246 Cal Rptr 673, 753 P2d 629, cert den 488 US 948, 102 L Ed 2d 369, 109 S Ct 380, reh den 488 US 997, 102 L Ed 2d 593, 109 S Ct 569 and stay gr (Cal) 1989 Cal LEXIS 443.

Footnote 65. State v Fletcher, 246 Iowa 452, 68 NW2d 99.

Footnote 66. Bennett v State, 201 Ark 237, 144 SW2d 476, 131 ALR 908; People v Melone, 71 Cal App 2d 291, 162 P2d 505; State v Ritz, 65 Mont 180, 211 P 298; People v Becker, 215 NY 126, 109 NE 127, reh den 215 NY 721, 109 NE 1086; State v Kent, 4 ND 577, 62 NW 631; State v Reynolds, 160 Or 445, 86 P2d 413.

Evidence of footprints, testimony of persons who had seen the defendant or his vehicle in the area of the crime, and other similar testimony was sufficient corroboration to support conviction. Currington v State (Ala App) 342 So 2d 390, cert den (Ala) 342 So 2d 393.

Corroborative evidence may be slight and entitled to little consideration when standing alone. People v Santo, 43 Cal 2d 319, 273 P2d 249, cert den 348 US 959, 99 L Ed 749, 75 S Ct 451.

Footnote 67. Leverton v State, 23 Ariz 482, 205 P 321; People v Moore (1st Dist) 211 Cal App 2d 585, 27 Cal Rptr 526; State v Fletcher, 246 Iowa 452, 68 NW2d 99; State v Ritz, 65 Mont 180, 211 P 298; State v Reynolds, 160 Or 445, 86 P2d 413; State v Brazell, 126 Or 579, 269 P 884.

The evidence required to corroborate the testimony of an accomplice may be circumstantial and is sufficient, even though slight, if it tends to connect the defendant with commission of the crime in such a way as may reasonably satisfy the jury that the accomplice is telling the truth. People v Walters (1st Dist) 165 Cal App 2d 326, 331 P2d 1037.

Footnote 68. People v Robinson, 61 Cal 2d 373, 38 Cal Rptr 890, 392 P2d 970.

Footnote 69. Hoback v United States (CA4 Va) 296 F 5, cert den 265 US 594, 68 L Ed 1197, 44 S Ct 638; United States v Lancaster (CC Ga) 44 F 896; State v Gallivan, 75 Conn 326, 53 A 731.

§ 1488 Corroboration by objective evidence

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Objective evidence—that is, writings, tangible objects, and photographs, as distinguished from oral testimony, which tends to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime—may be sufficient corroboration of an accomplice witness under the rule 70 precluding a conviction on the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice. 71 However, objective evidence which is dependent for its authenticity or relevancy upon the testimony of the accomplice who must be corroborated is not sufficient, for to hold otherwise would be to say that the accomplice may corroborate himself, 72 which is not permitted. 73 Thus, documents other than the purported writings of the defendant will not constitute corroborating evidence tending to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime where the only evidence of a relationship between the document and the defendant is the testimony of the accomplice who identifies or authenticates the document. 74 Likewise, while photographs and motion pictures may be admissible in evidence when they are shown to have been accurately taken and to be a correct representation of the subject and when they tend to illustrate any material fact in the case or to shed light upon the transaction before the court, 75 where any or all of these factors are supplied solely through the testimony of an accomplice, the photographic evidence cannot serve as sufficient corroboration of the testimony of the accomplice to base a conviction on that testimony. 76 And while real evidence may be of value in connecting the defendant with the commission of the crime by proof that the object was owned by, or in the possession of, the defendant, and that it was used in connection with the offense, where either or both of these elements are supplied solely through accomplice testimony the object will not satisfy the requirement for corroboration. 77

Footnotes

Footnote 70. § 1486.

Footnote 71. Braham v State (Alaska) 376 P2d 714; State v Kelliher, 49 Or 77, 88 P 867; Mitchell v State (Tex Crim) 650 SW2d 801, reh den (Jun 15, 1983) and cert den 464 US 1073, 79 L Ed 2d 221, 104 S Ct 985, reh den 465 US 1074, 79 L Ed 2d 755, 104 S Ct 1431 and habeas corpus granted (Tex Crim) 853 SW2d 1, reh den (Apr 14, 1993) and cert den (US) 126 L Ed 2d 142, 114 S Ct 183.

In a prosecution for murder, robbery, and attempted robbery, sufficient independent evidence existed to corroborate the testimony of the accomplice, where it was independently established that the accomplice had participated in the criminal enterprise, that defendant was in the company of the accomplice prior to and after the crimes, that a portion of a distinctive handkerchief worn by one of the perpetrators was found near a dumpster by defendant's residence, and that defendant's departure for Detroit and his statement that there was "some trouble" could be interpreted as flight and an admission of guilt. People v Glasper, 52 NY2d 970, 438 NYS2d 282, 420 NE2d 80.

Footnote 72. Rogers v State, 101 Ark 45, 141 SW 491; People v Bowley, 59 Cal 2d 855, 31 Cal Rptr 471, 382 P2d 591, 96 ALR2d 1178, appeal after remand (1st Dist) 230 Cal App 2d 269, 40 Cal Rptr 859.

In a capital murder prosecution, evidence of the defendant's fingerprint on the accomplice witness' truck, which could have been there as long as two weeks before being lifted, and evidence which merely corroborated what the witness said he had done but which did not connect the defendant with the crime was insufficient to corroborate the accomplice witness' testimony as to the defendant's involvement in the crime. Walker v State (Tex Crim) 615 SW2d 728.

Footnote 73. § 1489.

Footnote 74. Ing v United States (CA9 Alaska) 278 F2d 362.

As to the admission of documents into evidence, in general, see § 1024.

Footnote 75. § 960.

Footnote 76. People v Bowley, 59 Cal 2d 855, 31 Cal Rptr 471, 382 P2d 591, 96 ALR2d

1178, appeal after remand (1st Dist) 230 Cal App 2d 269, 40 Cal Rptr 859.

In a prosecution for sex perversion, a motion-picture film depicting the acts charged was insufficient corroboration of the testimony of an accomplice who appeared in the film, where the only witness to testify as to the authenticity of the film was the accomplice herself. People v Bowley, 59 Cal 2d 855, 31 Cal Rptr 471, 382 P2d 591, 96 ALR2d 1178, appeal after remand (1st Dist) 230 Cal App 2d 269, 40 Cal Rptr 859.

As to photographs and motion pictures, in general, see §§ 960, 979.

Footnote 77. State v Fletcher, 246 Iowa 452, 68 NW2d 99.

§ 1489 Corroboration by words or deeds of accomplice

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

An accomplice cannot corroborate himself by his own words or deeds. 78 Thus, an accomplice's out of court statements which tend to substantiate his testimony in court do not constitute sufficient corroboration of his testimony in court. 79 Nor can he be corroborated by evidence that he has previously pleaded guilty to the identical offense 80 or by objective evidence which is dependent for its authenticity upon the testimony of the accomplice. 81

Footnotes

Footnote 78. State v Yegen, 86 Mont 251, 283 P 210; People v Cona (2d Dept) 79 App Div 2d 1006, 435 NYS2d 30; State v Pancoast, 5 ND 516, 67 NW 1052; Cudjoe v State, 12 Okla Crim 246, 154 P 500; State v Reynolds, 160 Or 445, 86 P2d 413; Clark v State, 39 Tex Crim 179, 45 SW 576; Blakeley v State, 24 Tex App 616, 7 SW 233.

Footnote 79. Clay v State, 40 Tex Crim 556, 51 SW 212.

Footnote 80. Branson v State, 99 Ga 194, 24 SE 404.

Footnote 81. § 1488.

§ 1490 Corroboration by testimony of another accomplice

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

It is a general rule that the testimony of one accomplice cannot be corroborated by that of another. 82 Corroboration from an independent source is not dispensed with by testimony from any number of accomplices. 83

Footnotes

Footnote 82. People v Creegan, 121 Cal 554, 53 P 1082; State v Tennyson, 212 Minn 158, 2 NW2d 833, 139 ALR 987; Blakeley v State, 24 Tex App 616, 7 SW 233.

Footnote 83. People v O'Farrell, 175 NY 323, 67 NE 588.

§ 1491 Corroboration by admissions or confession of defendant

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Admissions made by the defendant which tend to connect the defendant with the crime may constitute a sufficient corroboration of the testimony of an accomplice. 84 A confession of the defendant, whether made in open court or extrajudicially, may also be sufficient to corroborate the testimony of an accomplice. 85 However, a confession relating to an entirely separate and distinct transaction from the one for which the defendant is tried does not constitute sufficient corroboration of an accomplice's testimony. 86

Footnotes

Footnote 84. People v Ruscoe (2nd Dist) 54 Cal App 3d 1005, 127 Cal Rptr 6; State v Chauvet, 111 Iowa 687, 83 NW 717.

In a prosecution for the purchase and receipt of stolen property, the testimony of an accomplice was sufficiently corroborated where the defendant admitted buying personal property from the accomplice-witness, including items described in the indictment, the return of a search warrant showed that stolen property had been recovered in the search, and the victim of a burglary in the area of the alleged criminal activity testified that the items described in the indictment and shown to him after recovery had been stolen from him in the burglary. Dudley v State (Ala App) 342 So 2d 437.

As to admissions, in general, see §§ 754 et seq.

As to confessions, in general, see §§ 708 et seq.

Footnote 85. United States v Lancaster (CC Ga) 44 F 896; Knowles v State, 113 Ark 257, 168 SW 148; People v Triplett, 70 Cal App 2d 534, 161 P2d 397; Tollifson v People, 49 Colo 219, 112 P 794; Anderson v State, 34 Tex Crim 546, 31 SW 673.

Footnote 86. State v Hansen, 40 Utah 418, 122 P 375.

§ 1492 Corroboration by evidence of flight, concealment, or similar conduct

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

Evidence of flight, concealment, or analogous conduct of one charged with crime may, to the extent that it is evidence of guilt, be taken into account as corroborative of an alleged accomplice's incriminating testimony. 87 Such corroboration may 88 or may not 89 be sufficient to support a conviction, according to the other evidence and circumstances of the particular case.

Footnotes

Footnote 87. People v Spivak (2nd Dist) 166 Cal App 2d 796, 334 P2d 44, cert den and app dismd 361 US 13, 4 L Ed 2d 52, 80 S Ct 96; People v Reddy, 261 NY 479, 185 NE 705, 87 ALR 763; State v Pancoast, 5 ND 516, 67 NW 1052.

Footnote 88. Aulls v State (Ark) 195 SW 1066; People v Armstrong, 114 Cal 570, 46 P 611.

There was sufficient evidence corroborating an accomplice's incriminating testimony to sustain defendant's conviction for the robbery of a market and the murder of a clerk, where, among other factors, a witness observed a man resembling defendant run from the market at the time of the shooting, another witness living in the immediate vicinity of the market permitted defendant and the accomplice into his apartment around the time of the murder, and the police intercepted defendant on the evening of the crime in an apparent attempt to flee the jurisdiction by bus. People v Harpool (2nd Dist) 155 Cal App 3d 877, 202 Cal Rptr 467.

Footnote 89. People v Reddy, 261 NY 479, 185 NE 705, 87 ALR 763.

7. Defenses [1493-1499]

a. In General [1493-1496]

§ 1493 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

The burden which rests on the defendant in a criminal prosecution falls short of that imposed on the prosecution. The defendant has only to raise in the minds of the jury a reasonable doubt of guilt, based on all of the evidence in the case, and is entitled to an acquittal if any reasonable doubt exists on that point. 90 The defendant is entitled to acquittal where there is a reasonable doubt as to guilt, whether or not the defendant rebuts the case made by the prosecution, with all the legal inferences and presumptions deducible from it, or if the defendant adopts an affirmative defense, by undertaking to show exculpatory facts wholly disconnected from the proof made by the prosecution. 91

§ 1493 ----Generally [SUPPLEMENT]

Case authorities:

Although whether assault victim was violent and angry person was relevant to defendant's claim that he was acting in defense of his brother when he shot victim, it was not essential element of defendant's claim that shooting was justified because he was acting in defense of his brother; even had defendant proved that victim was violent person, jury would still have been free to decide that victim was not using or about to use unlawful force or that force he was using was not likely to cause death or great bodily harm, or that defendant did not reasonably believe force was necessary or used more than was necessary. United States v Keiser (1995, CA9 Mont) 57 F3d 847, 95 CDOS 4577, 95 Daily Journal DAR 7875, 42 Fed Rules Evid Serv 40.

Footnotes

Footnote 90. Asher v State, 201 Ind 353, 168 NE 456, 67 ALR 118.

Footnote 91. Asher v State, 201 Ind 353, 168 NE 456, 67 ALR 118; State v Jackson, 36 SC 487, 15 SE 559.

As to affirmative defenses, see §§ 1497 et seq.

§ 1494 Former jeopardy

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

To sustain a plea of former jeopardy, the defendant must introduce sufficient evidence to affirmatively show that: (1) there was a former prosecution in the same state for the same offense; (2) that some person was in jeopardy on the first prosecution; (3) that the persons are identical in the two prosecutions; (4) and that the particular offense, on the prosecution of which the jeopardy attached, was such an offense as to constitute a bar. 92 Where the record of the former prosecution exists, the production of it, either by the original or a certified copy, is proper and sufficient evidence to sustain the plea. 93 Where the record cannot be produced, the defendant may establish jeopardy by other evidence. 94 The defendant must sustain a plea of former jeopardy by a preponderance of the evidence. 95

In the prosecution of offenses which from their nature are capable of repetition, however, the record of the former conviction is not sufficient to make out a prima facie case of identity of offenses. No presumption of identity arises from the fact that evidence sufficient to convict under one prosecution will warrant a conviction under the other; the defendant must show, affirmatively, by proof outside the record, that the offenses are one and the same. 96 Furthermore, the introduction of a portion of a record merely establishing the impaneling of a jury and the hearing of evidence, without anything to show the outcome of the proceedings, is not sufficient to establish former jeopardy. 97

Footnotes

Footnote 92. Grayson v State, 92 Ark 413, 123 SW 388; State v Ellsworth, 131 NC 773, 42 SE 699.

As to pleas of former jeopardy, in general, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law §§ 458-468.

Footnote 93. Jaquith v Commonwealth, 331 Mass 439, 120 NE2d 189; State v La Pean, 247 Wis 302, 19 NW2d 289, cert den 326 US 801, 90 L Ed 488, 66 S Ct 486.

Footnote 94. See Walter v State, 105 Ind 589, 5 NE 735; State v Neagle, 65 Me 468; State v Coolack, 17 NJ Super 192, 85 A2d 353; People v Afarian, 196 Misc 63, 89 NYS2d 820.

Footnote 95. Evans v State (Ala App) 341 So 2d 749, cert den (Ala) 341 So 2d 750; State v Downey (Cuyahoga Co) 113 Ohio App 250, 17 Ohio Ops 2d 227, 85 Ohio L Abs 253, 170 NE2d 75, app dismd for want of debat q 171 Ohio St 565, 15 Ohio Ops 2d 42, 173 NE2d 106.

Footnote 96. State v Pianfetti, 79 Vt 236, 65 A 84.

Footnote 97. People v Castree, 311 Ill 392, 143 NE 112, 32 ALR 357.

§ 1495 Selective prosecution

View Entire Section Go to Parallel Reference Table

A violation of the principle that an individual's right to equal protection may be violated by discriminatory administration of a law that is impartial on its face may be established where the accused is able to show that other individuals similarly situated have not generally been prosecuted, that the alleged discrimination in the circumstances presented was intentional or purposeful, and that the selection of the accused for prosecution was based on an arbitrary or invidious classification. 98 Where the defendant fails to present evidence on all elements, the defendant fails to establish selective prosecution. 99 For example, although the defendant, appealing his conviction for possession of a firearm after being previously convicted of a felony, pointed to two newspaper stories that indicated that his arrest was a part of a federal crackdown against motorcycle clubs as proof of his selective prosecution claim, this evidence was insufficient to establish selective prosecution. There was no proof that the defendant was singled out for prosecution while similarly situated persons (convicted felons) were not prosecuted for similar conduct, or that he was prosecuted because of his membership in the Hell's Angels. 1

Footnotes

Footnote 98. As to discriminatory enforcement of penal laws, see § 21A Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 833.

Footnote 99. United States v Hintzman (CA8 ND) 806 F2d 840 (criticized on other grounds by United States v Heidecke (CA7 Ill) 900 F2d 1155, 30 Fed Rules Evid Serv 185) and (criticized on other grounds by United States v Bourgeois (CA9 Cal) 964 F2d 935, 92 CDOS 4252, 92 Daily Journal DAR 6747, 92 Daily Journal DAR 6806).

Footnote 1. United States v Matter (CA8 Minn) 818 F2d 653.

Defendants' evidence allegedly indicating that the government initiated a criminal investigation of them almost immediately after defendants had written letters to Congressmen, and that at some juncture in the prosecution process the charges filed against them were raised from misdemeanors to felonies, was not sufficient to suggest that the decision to prosecute or to charge defendants with a felony was based on improper or vindictive grounds. United States v Reed (CA6 Ohio) 821 F2d 322, 87-1 USTC ¶ 9345, 23 Fed Rules Evid Serv 208, 60 AFTR 2d 87-5050.

Annotation: Malicious prosecution predicated upon prosecution, institution, or instigation of disciplinary proceeding against member of medical or allied profession, 39 ALR3d 473.

§ 1496 Alibi

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The defense of alibi is designed to show that the defendant, during the entire time that the crime was being committed, was so far from the place where the crime occurred that the defendant could not have participated in the crime. 2 It is enough if the proof adduced in support of the alibi, viewed in connection with all the testimony in the case, creates such a probability of its own truth as to engender a reasonable doubt of the truth of the charge upon which the defendant is arraigned, which might be effected even though the jury did not feel positively assured either of the veracity of the witnesses or of the correspondence of time. If, based on all the evidence, inculpatory and exculpatory, the jurors entertain a reasonable doubt of the prisoner's presence at, and participation in, the crime, they should acquit. 3 In other words, the defendant is entitled to an acquittal if the evidence respecting the alibi, together with all the other evidence in the case, raises a reasonable doubt of guilt. It is not essential that the jury be absolutely convinced of the truth of the alibi, and a reasonable doubt of guilt may arise from lack of evidence of the defendant's presence at the time and place in question or from evidence offered by the defendant to prove that he was then at another place. 4

Distance from the place of a crime is not the controlling factor in determining a defense of alibi. The defendant may meet the prosecution's case by evidence merely controverting its evidence, and incidentally thereto, that evidence may tend to show that the defendant was not present at the time and place charged in the prosecution's evidence, but as explanatory and corroborative, that the defendant was elsewhere. 5 The defendant may go further and attempt to prove affirmatively, that by reason of extraneous facts, it was impossible that he could have been present. 6

Given the ease with which persons may be mistaken in dates long after the occurrence of a particular event, the ease with which an alibi may be made, and the difficulty of proving the contrary, courts have not generally considered evidence of an alibi conclusive; 7 such evidence is merely to be weighed by the jury. 8 An alibi which is corroborated and unimpeached and not inherently incredible is merely additional evidence which can be weighed and disregarded if not believed by the jury. 9

Although some courts, in sustaining cautionary jury instructions, have warned that it is a defense which should be carefully scrutinized, 10 others have fallen into error by speaking of the defense disparagingly. 11 If the defendant introduces sufficient evidence so that the jury entertains a reasonable doubt as to whether the defendant was present at the time and place alleged in the indictment and established by the prosecution's evidence, it is their duty to acquit. 12 The quality, and not the quantity, of the alibi testimony is controlling. The impartiality of the defendant's alibi witnesses, for example, may be suspect. 13 On the other hand, where the prosecution introduces sufficient evidence to rebut the defendant's claim of alibi and to prove that the defendant committed the crime charged, it is the duty of the jury to convict. 14 Although the defendant in the first instance must produce evidence in support of the alibi, 15 in most states it is the rule that the defendant does not have the burden of proving the alibi. The courts which take this position do so on the theory that an alibi is not an affirmative defense and that evidence to prove an alibi is not to be treated as proof offered to establish an independent affirmative matter set up by the defendant, but as mere evidence tending to disprove one of the essential factors in the prosecution—namely, the presence of the accused at the place and time of the alleged crime. 16

Footnotes

Footnote 2. As to the alibi defense, in general, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law §§ 192 et seq.

Footnote 3. Prince v State, 100 Ala 144, 14 So 409; People v Pearson, 19 Ill 2d 609, 169 NE2d 252; Asher v State, 201 Ind 353, 168 NE 456, 67 ALR 118; State v Ardoin, 49 La Ann 1145, 22 So 620; Johnson v State, 88 Neb 565, 130 NW 282; Turner v Commonwealth, 86 Pa 54; State v Bealin, 201 SC 490, 23 SE2d 746; State v Thornton, 10 SD 349, 73 NW 196; Draper v Commonwealth, 132 Va 648, 111 SE 471.

To say that one who relies upon an alibi as a defense must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that it was impossible for him to be present at the scene of the crime at the time of its commission would take away from the jury their right of acquitting the defendant if the proof of alibi, although not perfect, is such as to raise a reasonable doubt as to whether he was present at the commission of the crime. Evans v State, 13 Ga App 700, 79 SE 916.

Practice References Proof of alibi. 27 Am Jur POF2d 431, Alibi defense §§ 11-23.

Footnote 4. Falgout v United States (CA5 La) 279 F 513, 29 ALR 1115; Prince v State, 100 Ala 144, 14 So 409; Miles v State, 93 Ga 117, 19 SE 805; People v Gormach, 302 Ill 332, 134 NE 756, 29 ALR 1120; State v Ardoin, 49 La Ann 1145, 22 So 620; State v McClellan, 23 Mont 532, 59 P 924; Henry v State, 51 Neb 149, 70 NW 924; State v Steen, 185 NC 768, 117 SE 793; State v Jackson, 36 SC 487, 15 SE 559; Draper v Commonwealth, 132 Va 648, 111 SE 471.

Footnote 5. State v Wagner, 207 Iowa 224, 222 NW 407, 61 ALR 882.

Footnote 6. State v Wagner, 207 Iowa 224, 222 NW 407, 61 ALR 882.

Footnote 7. People v Connors, 253 Ill 266, 97 NE 643; Kelly v State, 239 Miss 683, 124 So 2d 840, 85 ALR2d 1199.

The defense of alibi may be easily fabricated and is necessarily viewed with considerable suspicion. Russell v State, 115 Tex Crim 608, 28 SW2d 138.

Footnote 8. People v Taylor, 185 Mich App 1, 460 NW2d 582, app den 438 Mich 852, reconsideration den (Mich) 478 NW2d 103 and reconsideration den (Mich) 478 NW2d 103.

Because proof of an alibi depends entirely on the credibility of witnesses called to establish it, the matter is one for determination by the jury. Haenel v State, 134 Tex Crim 484, 116 SW2d 736.

Footnote 9. State v Stark (App) 162 Wis 2d 537, 470 NW2d 317.

Footnote 10. United States v Fortes (CA1 Mass) 619 F2d 108, 6 Fed Rules Evid Serv 174; Surridge v State, 239 Ark 581, 393 SW2d 246; Threadgill v State, 207 Ark 478, 181 SW2d 236; State v Jonas, 169 Conn 566, 363 A2d 1378, cert den 424 US 923, 47 L Ed 2d 331, 96 S Ct 1132; State v Woolworth, 148 Kan 180, 81 P2d 43; People v Schaner, 302 Mich 6, 4 NW2d 444.

But see United States v Robinson (CA6 Tenn) 602 F2d 760, cert den 444 US 878, 62 L Ed 2d 107, 100 S Ct 165 (jury instruction stating that defense of alibi should be received by jury discreetly and cautiously because it is defense that is easily manufactured or fabricated was improper where, in effect, judge was instructing jury that alibi witnesses, as matter of law, were to be viewed with suspicion; however, error was harmless); People v Lucas (2d Dept) 75 App Div 2d 827, 427 NYS2d 469 (trial court's instructions may have confused jury as to whether defendant was required to prove truth of alibi beyond reasonable doubt, and where trial court instructed jurors that alibi evidence had to be most carefully scrutinized and words of similar import were not used with respect to other evidence, trial court's instructions were deficient).

Annotation: Propriety and prejudicial effect of instructions on credibility of alibi witnesses, 72 ALR3d 617.

Footnote 11. People v Costello, 21 Cal 2d 760, 135 P2d 164; Daniels v State, 24 Md App 1, 329 A2d 712; People v McCoy, 392 Mich 231, 220 NW2d 456.

Footnote 12. Falgout v United States (CA5 La) 279 F 513, 29 ALR 1115; Prince v State, 100 Ala 144, 14 So 409; State v Wagner, 207 Iowa 224, 222 NW 407, 61 ALR 882; State v Minton, 234 NC 716, 68 SE2d 844, 31 ALR2d 682; Turner v Commonwealth, 86 Pa 54; State v Jackson, 36 SC 487, 15 SE 559.

Footnote 13. State v Cari, 163 Conn 174, 303 A2d 7, 72 ALR3d 608; State v Grice, 109 NJ 379, 537 A2d 683 (holding that even though the defendant's alibi testimony was quantitatively impressive, it was not intrinsically impregnable where several of the alibi witnesses testified that they were close friends of defendant, the alibi witnesses were all friends of each other, two of defendant's alibi witnesses were also friends of the codefendant, and the alibi witnesses did not agree on where they were when they were with defendant).

Footnote 14. People v Connors, 253 Ill 266, 97 NE 643.

An alibi sought to be established by one accused of crime on April 20, by showing that he had been taken ill about the middle of March and could not leave the house until after April 20, may be rejected where he is shown to have voted at elections on April 4 and 11, and subsequently, on cross-examination, the time of his illness was fixed as beginning in December. People v Connors, 253 Ill 266, 97 NE 643.

Footnote 15. State v Vanek, 59 Idaho 514, 84 P2d 567; Witt v State, 205 Ind 499, 185 NE 645; State v Rosi, 120 Wash 514, 208 P 15; State v Withrow, 142 W Va 522, 96 SE2d 913.

Footnote 16. § 179.

Annotation: Propriety and prejudicial effect of instructions on credibility of alibi witnesses, 72 ALR3d 617.

b. Affirmative Defenses [1497-1499]

§ 1497 Generally

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

In general, when a defendant raises and testifies in support of an affirmative defense, the state has the burden of disproving that defense beyond a reasonable doubt. 17 The determination of whether the state has met its burden to disprove the affirmative defense is for the trier of fact. 18

Footnotes

Footnote 17. § 178.

Footnote 18. Bentley v State, 261 Ga 229, 404 SE2d 101, 102-100 Fulton County D R 11B.

As to affirmative defenses, in general, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 183.

§ 1498 Entrapment

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table
Go to Supplement

Entrapment is an affirmative defense which must be raised by the defendant. 19 In order for a defendant to establish entrapment as a matter of law, the evidence must clearly indicate that a government agent originated the criminal design; that the agent implanted in the mind of an innocent person the disposition to commit the offense; and that the defendant then committed a criminal act at the urging of the government agent. 20

The generally accepted test of entrapment is the subjective test, which allows the defense only if the criminal act was the product of the creative activity of law enforcement officials. The focus of the inquiry is on the defendant's predisposition to commit the offense charged. 21 A defendant who is predisposed to commit a crime is one who is of a frame of mind such that once the defendant's attention is called to the criminal opportunity, the decision to commit the crime is the product of the defendant's own preference and not the product of government persuasion. 22 In assessing whether a defendant was predisposed to commit a crime, the court examines a variety of factors, including:

- The defendant's ready response to the inducement offered 23
- The defendant's conduct before or after the commission of the offense 24
- The character and reputation of the defendant, including any previous criminal record 25
- Whether the suggestion of the criminal activity was originally made by the government 26
- Whether the defendant was engaged in criminal activity for profit 27
- Whether the defendant expressed reluctance, overcome only by repeated government inducement or persuasion, to commit the offense 28

- The nature of the inducement or persuasion applied by the government 29

§ 1498 ----Entrapment [SUPPLEMENT]

Practice Aids: Entrapment as defense to federal criminal charge—Supreme Court cases 118 L Ed 2d 703.

Footnotes

Footnote 19. 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 203.

Footnote 20. As to tests for determining entrapment, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law §§ 202, 205, 206.

Footnote 21. 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 205.

Footnote 22. As to the predisposition of the accused to commit a crime, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 205.

Footnote 23. United States v Osborne (CA4 NC) 935 F2d 32; United States v Akinseye (CA4 Md) 802 F2d 740, cert den 482 US 916, 96 L Ed 2d 678, 107 S Ct 3190.

Predisposition may be shown by the defendant's ready compliance, acquiescence in, or willingness to cooperate in the proposed criminal plan. State v Worthington, 84 NC App 150, 352 SE2d 695, review den (NC) 356 SE2d 785 and review den 319 NC 677, 356 SE2d 785.

Law Reviews: Marcus, Proving Entrapment Under the Predisposition Test. 14 Am J Crim L 53 (Fall/Winter 1986-87).

Footnote 24. United States v White (ND Ind) 688 F Supp 1293.

Footnote 25. United States v Fedroff (CA3 NJ) 874 F2d 178; United States v Beverly (CA7 Ill) 913 F2d 337, cert den 498 US 1052, 112 L Ed 2d 786, 111 S Ct 766 and cert gr 498 US 1082, 112 L Ed 2d 1039, 111 S Ct 951; United States v Skarie (CA9 Cal) 971 F2d 317, 92 CDOS 6537, 92 Daily Journal DAR 10411.

Footnote 26. United States v Beverly (CA7 Ill) 913 F2d 337, cert den 498 US 1052, 112 L Ed 2d 786, 111 S Ct 766 and cert gr 498 US 1082, 112 L Ed 2d 1039, 111 S Ct 951; United States v Skarie (CA9 Cal) 971 F2d 317, 92 CDOS 6537, 92 Daily Journal DAR 10411.

Footnote 27. United States v Beverly (CA7 Ill) 913 F2d 337, cert den 498 US 1052, 112 L Ed 2d 786, 111 S Ct 766 and cert gr 498 US 1082, 112 L Ed 2d 1039, 111 S Ct 951; United States v Skarie (CA9 Cal) 971 F2d 317, 92 CDOS 6537, 92 Daily Journal DAR 10411.

Footnote 28. United States v Beverly (CA7 Ill) 913 F2d 337, cert den 498 US 1052, 112 L Ed 2d 786, 111 S Ct 766 and cert gr 498 US 1082, 112 L Ed 2d 1039, 111 S Ct 951; United States v Skarie (CA9 Cal) 971 F2d 317, 92 CDOS 6537, 92 Daily Journal DAR 10411.

Footnote 29. United States v Kussmaul (CA6 Ohio) 987 F2d 345; United States v Beverly (CA7 Ill) 913 F2d 337, cert den 498 US 1052, 112 L Ed 2d 786, 111 S Ct 766 and cert gr 498 US 1082, 112 L Ed 2d 1039, 111 S Ct 951; United States v Skarie (CA9 Cal) 971 F2d 317, 92 CDOS 6537, 92 Daily Journal DAR 10411.

The government established beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was predisposed to commit the offense charged where the defendant testified that he had twice before in recent months acquired drugs from another person and that before the defendant arranged a drug sale to the government agent, the defendant had called the co-defendant in this matter and asked her to acquire cocaine for him. United States v White (ND Ind) 688 F Supp 1293.

Factors which indicate a predisposition to sell drugs include knowledge of drug prices, knowledge of drug sources and suppliers, use and understanding of terminology of the drug market, solicitation of future drug sales, and multiple sales to undercover officers. Martin v State (Ind) 537 NE2d 491.

§ 1499 Insanity

View Entire Section
Go to Parallel Reference Table

The defense of insanity is available to all defendants in all criminal trials. 30 When insanity is raised as a defense, the focus of the inquiry is the defendant's capacity at the time the act was committed. If the defendant was insane, by the standard prevailing in the particular jurisdiction at the moment of the act, this will be a defense however sane the defendant may have been before or after that time. 31

The trier of fact may consider expert and lay testimony in determining the sanity or insanity of the accused. 32 In making its determination, it may accept or reject expert and lay testimony, and its determination will remain undisturbed if it is supported by substantial evidence. 33

The trier of fact may give one expert's opinion more weight than another's on the issue of mental illness. 34 Similarly, it may also reject one or more of the experts' opinions and give more credence to lay witness testimony and other evidence in determining whether or not a defendant comes within the purview of an insanity defense statute. 35 The fact that a witness is a lay witness goes not to the admissibility of the testimony but to its weight. If lay testimony is admitted, the jury is free to accept it as a basis for its verdict, even if there is conflicting medical testimony on the issue. 36 It is thus not always necessary for the state to present medical testimony that a defendant is sane in order to counter a defense of insanity. The circumstances of the offense and the life experiences of the defendant may also aid the jury in considering whether a defendant was insane at the time of the offense. For example, attempts to conceal incriminating evidence and to elude officers can indicate knowledge of wrongful conduct. 37 The testimony of expert witnesses is not conclusive, and does not necessarily destroy the force or credibility of other testimony. 38 Some courts take the position that expert testimony is not entitled to greater weight than is nonexpert testimony. 39 And, there may be occasions where the psychiatric testimony offered by the defendant is so demolished by cross-examination that the state need not counter with its own expert. The kind and quantity of evidence of sanity which the prosecution must produce to meet its burden and take the issue to the jury will vary in different cases: the presumption of sanity will stand if no evidence of insanity is offered by the defense; some competent evidence of sanity may suffice when the defendant has introduced only token evidence of insanity; some evidence of sanity may be totally inadequate when the defendant's evidence of insanity is substantial. 40

Footnotes

Footnote 30. 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 47.

Footnote 31. 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 52.

Footnote 32. State v Harkness, 252 Kan 510, 847 P2d 1191; State v Hollis, 240 Kan 521, 731 P2d 260.

As to whether the defense of insanity is a question for the court or jury, see 21 Am Jur 2d, Criminal Law § 80.

Footnote 33. Roundtree v State (Miss) 568 So 2d 1173.

Footnote 34. People v Wiley (1st Dist) 185 Ill App 3d 1097, 133 Ill Dec 907, 541 NE2d 1345.

The fact that only one expert testified that the defendant was not insane at the time of the crime while three experts claimed that he was insane, was not dispositive of the issue. State v Zmich, 160 Ariz 108, 770 P2d 776, 27 Ariz Adv Rep 45.

Footnote 35. State v Zmich, 160 Ariz 108, 770 P2d 776, 27 Ariz Adv Rep 45.

Footnote 36. State v Zmich, 160 Ariz 108, 770 P2d 776, 27 Ariz Adv Rep 45.

In a prosecution for deviate sexual intercourse, indecent assault, and aggravated assault, Commonwealth established defendant's sanity beyond a reasonable doubt by testimony of victim and officers, who arrested defendant shortly after incident, that he seemed normal, even though psychiatrist testified that defendant was suffering from schizophrenia and that he had potential for impulsive behavior. Commonwealth v Donofrio, 247 Pa Super 345, 372 A2d 859.

Footnote 37. Barnett v State (Tex App Corpus Christi) 771 SW2d 654.

Even though prosecution did not offer additional or specific evidence to refute medical expert testimony to effect that defendant, charged with kidnaping and rape, was insane, the trial judge had the right to determine the weight and credibility to be given to expert testimony. People v Duffy, 67 Mich App 266, 240 NW2d 771, habeas corpus proceeding (CA6 Mich) 772 F2d 1271, later proceeding (Mich) 384 NW2d 7, ctfd ques ans 425 Mich 457, 390 NW2d 620.

Footnote 38. State v Parsons, 181 W Va 131, 381 SE2d 246; State v Rollins (La) 351 So 2d 470.

Footnote 39. 31A Am Jur 2d, Expert and Opinion Evidence § 189.

Footnote 40. State v Rollins (La) 351 So 2d 470; State v Parsons, 181 W Va 131, 381 SE2d 246.

Expert medical testimony is not conclusive merely because it is not disputed by other medical testimony. State v Hollis, 240 Kan 521, 731 P2d 260.

Prosecution, by testimony of lay witnesses as to defendant's statements and acts before and after fatal shooting, sustained burden of showing defendant's sanity despite expert testimony presented by defense. Edwards v State (Tenn) 540 SW2d 641, cert den 429 US 1061, 50 L Ed 2d 777, 97 S Ct 784.

Where nonexpert witnesses established sufficient acquaintance with defendant and opportunity of observing him as to enable witnesses to form definite opinion, such opinion was sufficient to rebut expert testimony of defendant and establish his sanity, particularly where expert opinion tended to establish that defendant was voluntarily under influence of both alcohol and narcotics. Pyburn v State (Tenn Crim) 539 SW2d 835.